Mrs. Willibrand Responsible for Exposing Smokey from Prison Plot

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—The Justice department is expected to abandon its spy system in federal prisons, according to a report from a source in the department. The source said that the department has decided to discontinue the use of informants in the prisons because of the expense and the difficulty of maintaining the system.

Mr. Willibrand, who was in charge of the Idaho prison, was the first to expose the spy system. He told the public that the department was using informants to spy on the prisoners. This led to a public inquiry into the matter.

The department has now decided to discontinue the use of informants in the prisons. This decision was reached after a long period of investigation and public criticism.

Score Is Tied at First Quarter When Pocatello Leads Bill Into Lead to Victory

MOSCOW, Idaho, March 19 (UP)—Pocatello won the 1929 Idaho intercollegiate hoop championship, defeating Coeur d'Alene last night, 23-14.

The game proved to be a real battle. The end of the first quarter found the score tied with the count standing ball. At the half Pocatello had a one point lead, the score being 9-6.

In the second half Coeur d'Alene showed the effects of the hard tournament battle and looked tired. Pocatello, playing a wonderful defensive game, became more aggressive and at the end of the game had piled up a lead of nine points, the final score being 23-14.

"I reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet"

"Whirling along the ground at 231 miles per hour to a new world's record was a thrilling experience. It was speed in breath-taking fashion. When I finally brought 'The Golden Arrow' to halt, the nerve let-down was terrific. But out came my pack of Lucky Strike and I soon was smoking in complete happiness. After the strain of my ride the toasted fragrance of Luckies was like a tonic. I reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet. I want to keep trim and fit. I want to feel the glow of pep and health at all times—the thought of excess weight really frightens me. I welcome a Lucky instead of sweets and things that would make me soft."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

IDAHO STUDENTS TO BENEFIT BY COACHING PLAN

Aim of the Department is to Link Older Athletics of the University and Its Branch

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, March 19 (Special)—Every student in the University of Idaho will benefit from the new type of physical education and athletic program which Len H. Calland, who appointment as head of the department of physical education and athletics and head football coach recently was announced, is expected to develop at the university.

The aim of the new department head is a program which will provide the superior level of exercise necessary to the well-being of every student, particularly those who need it most to reach their own potential to go into the high schools of the state as coaches and athletic superiors of students before they reach the University, as well as to develop creditable teams to represent the university in competitive events in the many sports with other colleges and universities.

Mr. Calland believes that a strong physical education program, which will develop much later, worthy of a place on varsity squads which is now overvalued. Thus every student with an ambition to play on a university team will have a chance to develop his physical ability may not immediately attract the eyes of the coaches.

As indicated by President Frederick J. Kelly of the university, the new athletic program will look toward a closer relationship between activities at the main campus and the southern branch. As in the various educational departments, in which the work of the freshman and sophomore years is the same at both campuses, work in physical education will be made to parallel. This will enable students who start in physical education and athletics at Pocatello to continue their college work at the main campus without any break in the continuity of their development.

Mr. Calland is now director of intramural athletics, varsity basketball and freshman basketball coach at the University of Southern California. For two years he directed physical education activities at Whittier college, coached football, basketball, and baseball. In both instances he developed broad programs which not only gave the students the necessary exercise for their physical development but produced considerable valuable material for his athletic teams. The new Idaho coaching experience in all branches of sports. As a student at Southern California he achieved considerable distinction as a football and basketball player, being chosen all-American twice in 1922.

Daily Poem
DAHLIAS OF SKAGWAY
 Edna Ostrover Whitcomb

Cerise and Judas copper,
 Citrus and snow,
 Their leaves green and somber,
 Soothing the brilliant dog;
 With silks and hollyhock monitor,
 With sunlight on Jordan's bay,
 So in far Alaska,
 Dahlias bloom today.

In conventional "outside" gardens,
 They are called "old-fashioned"
 Like colorful bonneted children
 (Dahlias)—
 But in the wonderful Alaska
 They are soaring eight feet high,
 Forests, mountains, tundra,
 Glaciers—they only.

 (To the sea pulls sailing by,
 In an ecstasy they cry)
 "We dahlia the climber north
 In his home we grow,
 And after winter lies past
 Again we dahlia power."

DAIRY RECEIPTS

The dairy cow was the quiet, substantial power behind a real throne of much financial importance in Idaho last year when the products of the industry she leads brought $12,000,000 into the pockets of dairy cow owners, according to the annual report of George N. Tucker, director of dairying, released in Boise Saturday.

The state's production of commercial butterfat in 1928 was 26,114,000 pounds for which producers were paid $1,896,514, or an average of 47.1 cents per pound. October was the month of highest prices when 58 cents was paid, and May was the month of greatest production when 2,694,000 pounds went to market.

Other manufactured products of the dairy industry that were produced in the state last October were 8,385,000 pounds of evaporated milk, 15,585,000 pounds of ice cream, 624,269 gallons, and casing, 687,892 pounds.

The value to producers in Twin Falls county of all agricultural products in carload lots in 1928 was $15,000,000, so the products of the dairy cow in the state at large approached the value of carload shipments of the leading agricultural county of the state.

In other words by having a thriving dairy industry, Idaho in effect added an agricultural county to the state as far as income is concerned.

It was only a few years ago that our dairy industry amounted to only a fractional part of the importance it has for us today, and it is interesting to note that Idaho agriculture has been gradually showing improvement in its condition. The dairy cow undoubtedly has played an important part in this improvement.

Some day a student of public affairs in this state will write the whole story of the rejuvenation of Idaho's agriculture from the days of 1921-22 until the present. When such a record is compiled, the place of the dairy cow will be even more firmly fixed in the state's development. Dairying seldom returns sensational profits, but the dividends that accrue to the producer out of cream checks are as sure as any that are declared.

And over a 10-year period a herd of dairy cows probably will give about as good an account of themselves from an earning point of view as any other of the many lines of activity that go to make up the complex business of agriculture.

OLD SEA FIGHTER DIES AND A DAY PASSES, TOO

By BRUCE GATTON

A MINOR newspaper item, sometimes gives one a realization of the changes brought by time more forcibly than anything else.

Here, for instance, is a paragraph from London, clipped from a New York paper:

"Admiral of the Fleet Sir Edward Robert Seymour died Monday at the age of 88. He was on the active navy list for well over half a century, his family having supplied naval officers since the days of the Tudors."

Sir Edward's experiences. He served as a cadet in the Crimean war, fought in the war with China in the late '60s, was wounded in action off the coast of Africa in 1870, commanded the "China station" at the close of the century and commanded the naval forces that were landed to help put down the Boxer uprising.

There isn't any particular reason why the little story about that man should bring such a clear realization of changing times and customs. Yet it does. It brings to mind an order of things that is passing; emphasizes the way in which old codes and standards are giving way to new ones.

Life was simpler when Sir Edward began his career. A man's duty was clearer. One did not question one's country's actions. It was taken for granted that the whole earth belonged to a few rich white nations, and no one doubted that it was quite fitting that these nations should seize as much of it as they needed and fight with each other over disputed portions of it.

The Crimean war—the ancient enemies England and France combining to check Russia. The war in China—Britain compelling a weaker nation to permit the opium trade. The fighting on the African coast—a grabbing for territories which were to be taken by force from their native owners. Service on the "China station"—the mailed fist notifying the orient that it had no rights except those that Europe chose to give it.

That is the picture as we see it now. Yet, in Sir Edward's day, there were no doubts about any of it.—The rule of might went unquestioned. No one ever suggested that there might be a viewpoint broader than that of selfish nationalism.

We are not so uncritical as we were. The rule of force still prevails, but it is not quite so strong. We have reached the point where we can admit that our country—this applies to all nations—can actually engage, at times, in a war that is plainly and simply unrighteous.

Sir Edward's life story, compressed into a few paragraphs, epitomizes an age that is passing.

WIPING OUT SPEED LIMITS

NOW it is the Ohio legislature which is considering a plan to abolish auto speed limits on country roads and make a blanket statute about reckless driving to cover everything. Certain other states have already adopted such a law and more are investigating in the matter.

We don't know what the actual statistics on the thing would show, if they were compiled; but the law strikes us as reasonable enough. After all, there is no hard and fast standard for driving. A speed of 50 miles an hour, on some roads, may be perfectly safe, while 25 miles an hour, on other roads, may be too fast. Drivers, also, vary; some are able to travel safely at high speeds and others are not.

Revoking such state speed limits, incidentally, deals a body blow to speed traps. And that, by itself, is a good argument for such a law.

THE COST OF VACANT SCHOOL SEATS

(Nampa Free Press)

What is the cost to our school system of seats vacant because of intermittent absence of pupils? Parents as a rule are not conscious of the loss involved when their children absent. The cost to the school—loss through interruption of the child's progress as well as loss through hindrance of classroom advancement.

The waste in money and opportunity is large and school administrators have, the other business, turned their attention to the matter. It makes a strong point of looking after the health and morale of its workers. This attitude is not uncommonly profitable. Loss of time through illness or other preventable cause is expensive to both employer and employe.

It costs the taxpayer no more to operate a school room with a hundred per cent attendance than it does with a ninety per cent. In the latter case the schools are being operated at a ten per cent loss. The importance of this fact may never have occurred to parents. There are those who are never inclined to consider the school maintenance if it tries to keep close check on absences. They regard it as an encroachment on their individual rights. They consider the school a place where children are to be taught when it is convenient for them to attend.

The financial loss is not the only consideration. There is the handicap to the pupil through scattered absence, as well as the lowering of efficiency and progress of the entire class. No business tolerates the percentage of absenteeism and tardiness experienced in the schools. It would be too disastrous to be profitable. Parents should be impressed with the importance of punctual and regular attendance, not only as a benefit to the child, a duty to the regular attendance and as a service to the community in getting the maximum value out of school funds, but also as a factor in habit-training. It helps build a sense of responsibility and dependability in the pupil.

GRANT'S FIRST MOVE
 Sixty-five years ago today the Federal offensive, under General U. S. Grant, who had just assumed command of the Union forces, took the form which ultimately resulted in victory for the Union cause.

Roughly, this date, in 1864, saw the taking of the first step in the historic "march through Georgia" for on that day General William Sherman assumed command of the Federal army of the Mississippi, succeeding General Grant, who took personal charge a few days later of the army of the Potomac.

Sherman had been in charge of forces in Tennessee when Grant was placed in chief command. It was at his own request that Grant gave him the larger command. Sherman succeeded to Sherman's old post and Logan was vice-McPherson's command.

Chen's chances were quickly made and a united army toward the south began. The strategy was simple. Grant's various armies were scattered far and wide, but was mainly the border of the south, and he planned to bring them all toward a common center.

Health must be made catching. Nature never intended it to be any other way, but Nature gives us all the means and the incentive to know the road to health.

That is why there must be one skilled in restoring the conditions of health. That is why we have made the human body a study and why we can say in confidence that the method we use is a good one—often a wonder-working method.

By our chiropractic health method we correct diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels and lower organs. We are open evenings to accommodate those who can not come in daytime.

 Weekly Book Review

SPANISH SUMMER
 (Reviewed by Deatrice Harten)
 A motor trip to Seville, a visit to the Alhambra Palace at night, a day in the once famous university city of Salamanca, to enter the house where Cervantes wrote "Don Quixote," all which the reader can do in his "Imagination" when he reads "Spanish Summer" by George Clark Stewart, published by the Moorhouse Publishing Company, Milwaukee, Wis.

This little book of travel, which is more a book of sketches and impressions made by a traveler in flow, treated with sparkling touches by Jean June Myall.

One has the opportunity to observe with the author, a sacred shrine in the church of a cathedral, where "they" set on "children of God" in the joy in the presence of the Immanuel.

TRIAL POSTPONED

Snow Still Lingers In Albion District

HURLEY, March 10 (Special) — One of the noticeable features of the heavy snow in the Albion basin can still be seen near the Albion Normal school. A windmill standing in one of the little valleys leading into the basin is buried in snow until only the wind wheel and vane show above the snow. A little farther on the traveler notices an old farm wagon with black top and old fashioned spring seat, covered with snow, but only the seat and bare edges of the wagon bed are to be seen. The snow in some of the passes is between seven to ten feet deep, five to six feet deep. It will be several weeks before much of the snow will be cleared and roads in the valleys and lower basins are fast becoming normal again.

Daily Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Bishop of the Congregationalist.

There is a great deal of difference between "being" and "having." The latter is a thing to be used and the former is a thing to be lived. It is one thing to have very generous thoughts of our fellow-men and another thing to have a generous heart. It is the power of the strong right arm, alas, has been too often seen in the story of ten cities in the beautiful Gate of the Temple. The great aerial task of the modern world is to concentrate the power of the strong right arm and the power of the loving and grateful heart. It is easy to see through men who make spectacles of themselves. Every time a woman sees a man who she passes to reflect. Mrs. Higgs has located the squirrel in the rear of her car which has been bothering her for the past few days. It was said that Hercules was the strongest man in the world. He could lift himself up by the back of his neck and hold himself out at arm's length for hours at a time.
