Fight Between Small Countries May Doom Conference at Hague

Reparations Meeting Encountering Obstacles That Try Patience of the Delegates

THE HAGUE, Jan. 8-(UP)—The second Hague reparations conference is encountering obstacles that are becoming traditional—the protest of small debtor nations against what they term the excessive charges made against them by small nations. Adding to the complications, Germany is once more arguing over details of the financial program which the allies have considered so clearly defined in the Young plan, and not subject to debate.

Therefore, while delegates were awaiting arrival of Ludwig Kastl, German financial expert and member with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank who is coming here Sunday, the conference took up today a discussion of the proposed establishment of the international bank.

Meanwhile, the political leaders of the Allies and Germany were endeavoring to draft a phrase of the protocol which would imply, without saying it in so many words, that the French army might be used in enforcing Germany's payment of the reparations.

Italy, Japan and England are said to favor "implying" penalties in the sanctions in the event of Germany's default, while France and Belgium are standing together for a frank declaration that the Rhineland may be occupied again in such an event.

Discussion of these sanctions is difficult, but it is not regarded as an absolute deterrent to the success of the negotiations.

HOLLYWOOD CASE CENTERS AROUND HUNT FOR SANDS

FORMER EMPLOYE OF TAYLOR BADLY NEEDED

Revival of Eight-Year-Old Killing Indicated by New Developments

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (UP)—Reopening of the mysterious William Desmond Taylor murder case was indicated today in developments following the return of the United Press to Taylor's witnesses in the eight year old killing.

With Otis Hefner, former owner, and Henry Peaver, negro servant who worked in Taylor's home, available when and wanted, attention turned to Edward Sands, one time employee of the noted motion picture director.

Sands is the man Hefner contends foisted the body of Taylor shortly after he had been killed and just a few minutes after a noted motion picture star left the Taylor bungalow.

According to the stories told by Hefner just before he was sentenced from Folsom on parole, earlier this week to the United Press, Sands was a dealer in drugs. Hefner and Taylor, being in business with him in the business.

Long sought as a witness, Sands disappeared immediately after Taylor was shot to death in February, 1922. Hefner told the United Press Sands went to Mexico to supervise the shipping of drugs to the Los Angeles narcotic ring.

The easterners were governed by several reasons in their stand. The congressional elections are coming on November, and it is generally expected the republican majority in the senate will be diminished, since a large number of republicans are up for reelection. Next year the easterners will need the western support more than ever to maintain party control, and they want to maintain peace within ranks, if possible.

SPLENDOR MARKS ROYAL NUPTIALS IN CITY OF ROME

Prince Marie Jose of Belgium Today Becomes Bride of Italian Prince Humbert

ROME, Jan. 8, (UP)—The royal houses of Italy and Belgium were united today when Princess Marie Jose of Belgium and Crown Prince Humbert of Italy were married in the Paulino chapel of the Royal Quirinal palace.

It was a regalia lord match in a glittering setting of royalty, such as has not been seen in Europe since before the day when thrones and dynasties began to topple. Outside the palace, Quirinal Square, 40,000 subjects paid delighted tribute to the popular heir to the Italian throne and the blonde little princess who in three days had won their affection.

Kings and queens and princes gathered in Paulino chapel, rich in historic associations, for the ceremony in which Marie Jose abandoned her girlhood and assumed the weighty role of future queen of Italy.

Outside, the city was a riot of color and rejoicing. Thousands from every corner of the United kingdom assembled in the capital for the festivities.

The wedding—held at 10 a. m. Shortly before the hour, the royal cortege passed through the formal rooms of the palace to the chapel. Marie Jose was led the least on the arm of her father, King Albert of the Belgians. Queen Helen of Italy was on the arm of Prince Humbert. King Victor Emmanuel accompanied Queen Elizabeth of Belgium.

REPEAL OF DRY LAW SOUGHT BY LIBERAL GROUP

Leader Declares Prohibition Law As It Stands Making for Anarchy in America

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8. (UP)—A battle for prohibition reform was today in full swing in California.

Liberals of the state were actively working to place on the ballot at the November election an initiative measure for the repeal of the state prohibition enforcement measure, for instruction of California's congressional representatives to vote to repeal the Volstead act and 18th amendment; and for a measure providing state regulation of liquor, with a proviso barring saloons.

"The prohibition law as it stands is making for anarchy in America. We must frame a law the people will respect. The more force used the worse will become the rebellionness. How can we cope with crime when the government is funding racketeers at the behest of organized fanaticism?"

New Schedule is Made for Playing of Outlaw games

High School Court Players Show Marked Improvement Over Past Performances

Twin Falls basketball teams took a double-header from the Gooding high school hoopsters here Wednesday night. The Gooding teams proved to be the fastest and steadiest teams the local boys met this year, however the Twin Falls boys won their game by a score of 40 to 21 and the Twin Falls girls won their battle by a count of 30 to 17.

Under the leadership of Mr. Call the Bruin lassies have developed a splendid passing game. For the first time in history of Twin Falls basketball the coach here has a group of girl players who can pivot, cut, pass, and dribble both individual and collective ability. Mr. Call has developed most of them to play various positions and she can switch them without loss to the team's power. At the end of the half the local girls were leading 19 to 9 and they increased their lead slowly but surely during the balance of the game. They are better but they still admit they have much to learn. They are still prone to become rattled in the excitement of the game because of their lack of experience. Their cutting and passing Wednesday night showed much improvement over past performances.

At the first quarter scoring was even, 8 to 8. The Bruins took the lead then and held it 17 to 11 at the half, running it up rapidly in the final two periods.

The girls' lineups were: Gooding: Palmer, Stilson, forwards; Young, Casch, centers; Parker, Root, guards; Ford, substitute. Twin Falls: Qualls, Strellis, forwards; Ware, Wyland, centers; Jenkins, Parker, guards; Rice, substitute.

The boys' lineups were: Gooding: Hibbert, Jeffries, forwards; Patterson (10), center; Wells, Averett (5), guards; Bowler (4), Mathews (2), substitutes. Twin Falls: Johnston (10), Green (9), forwards; Weaver (8), center; Bacon (8), Morgan (2), guards; Larson, Gray, Skinner, Bates, G. Colver and Rupkenthal substitutes.

Jerome Sport Shop Beats Carey Quint

JEROME, Jan. 9. (Special)—The Jerome Sport Shop hoopsters continued a victorious march Wednesday night by defeating the Carey town team by a score of 42 to 18. The result of the game was never much in doubt. White of Jerome was high point man with 14 counters.

The Carey lineup: B. Eldredge (2), Adamson (8), forwards; S. Paterson (2), center; F. Eldredge (1), Parke, guards; K. Eldredge (3), C. Paterson (1), substitutes. The Jerome lineup: Hills (8), Crouch (1), forwards; White (14), center; Haworth (7), Lawrence (6), guards; Bird (2), Sims, substitutes.

SHARKEY, SCOTT SIGN FOR BOUT IN MIAMI RING

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (UP)—Now that articles for a Sharkey-Scott fight at Miami next month have been signed and sealed. The boxing world once more today wrapped in amazement at the managerial genius of James J. Johnston, who rejoices in the nickname of the "Boy Bandit."

How Johnston managed to insert Phil Scott, the veteran London fire ladder into the most desirable of the athletic sports events while other brass-hats, brewmen and slayers, clutter the offices of local promoters, cannot be told.

Not only did he slip Scott in as Jack Sharkey's opponent for February 28, but he demanded and received 25 per cent of the receipts according to the contract signed at Madison Square Garden Wednesday. Moreover, Johnston insisted that the bout originally scheduled for 10 rounds, in accordance with regulations in Florida, be lengthened to 15 rounds. Johnston's motive in making this demand is clear, but he knows his point characteristically.

Speaking Of Sport

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (UP)—Suggestions and criticisms of intercollegiate athletics, growing out of the Carnegie foundation report, continue to make their almost daily appearance.

If the now famous bulletin No. 23 did nothing else, it certainly stimulated a storm of protests and solutions from the country at large.

Two of the latest to be heard from are President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University and George Rogac, Rutgers swimming star who is the holder of many world records.

President Lowell's plan is for each university to have one contest in each sport annually. In other words, Harvard would play Yale in football and would have no other games under this section. In baseball, basketball, hockey, track and other sports Harvard would play Yale only all athletic contests with Yale, the rest of its schedule being made up of games with other teams.

"The Greeks thought one great contest of a kind in a year enough to sustain the ardour in athletics," said Lowell. "May it not be that a single intercollegiate meet in each sport would do the same?

"With the Romans the primary object of sport was the entertainment of the spectators, the performers becoming more and more professional, while the training of youth in health and strength was lost to sight almost altogether. But with our frequent inter-collegiate games, with the attracting of huge crowds at short intervals, and continuous publicity, are we not slipping into the Roman attitude of mind?"

Rogac, in speaking at a radio station WOR last night, accused the athletic officials of diverting the minds of young men from educational proselyting and subsidizing.

Rogac said that after he had established one world record while attending high school in New York, the matter of what school he would attend caused great concern among numerous colleges. Letters, telegrams and personal visits were showered on him.

Rogac said: "I admit I was flattered and bewildered by these offers," said Rogac. "I am glad that I realized later that I would not accept an education by accepting them, but merely a degree. I wanted to be a doctor, and I came to Rutgers without a scholarship or any financial aid.

"Rogac urged the abolishment of all athletic scholarships, but admitted that such a time seemed a long way off.

REVIVAL BEING HELD THIS WEEK AT LOCAL CHURCH

The Rev. Markey Brown evangelist, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who is preaching each evening this week at the local church of the Nazarene, and who has charge of the revivals of official press reports in his denomination in Tenn., gives us the following report as to the progress of the church of the Nazarene:

"The church of the Nazarene is one of the youngest of the protestant denominations. It was founded about thirty years ago by Dr. P. F. Bresee, a strong and eloquent minister, of Los Angeles, Calif. It has the indisputable history of making the greatest progress in its first thirty years of existence of any denomination.

"The church has, at the present time, 80,000 members, 300 regular ministers and 9 colleges, one of which is the Northwest Nazarene College at Nampa, Idaho. The church also has at Nampa the Nazarene Missionary sanitarium and institute which is doing not only general hospital work but has a department for furloughed missionaries. In the sanitarium nurses are also trained for both home and foreign missionary work.

"The government of the church of the Nazarene is quite similar to that of the Methodist church, except that it is more congregational. The church emphasizes almost identically the doctrines of John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist church. It especially promulgates the doctrine of holiness or entire sanctification as taughthy the early Methodist as well as by Christ and the apostles in the New Testament. The church's property has been due primarily to two factors, namely: It has been both practical and spiritual and has cautiously avoided formalism on the some hand and fanaticism on the other. It has always adhered to an adage of John Wesley, "Let everything be done decently and in order."

"The church of the Nazarene has a large publishing house in Kansas City, Mo., which does a large volume of business, both in and outside its own denomination.

"The church is both evangelistic and missionary in spirit. Old time revivals have characterized the church, both in the homeland and foreign fields. Nazarene colleges are doing excellent work in practically all foreign fields. Dr. Roy T. Williams and Dr. George W. Coulson, two of our general superintendents, with headquarters in Kansas City, are now making a world tour of our mission stations.

"The local church of the Nazarene which was organized only a few years ago has had a phenomenal growth. The church at Kimberly has united with the church at Twin Falls making it a strong church, considering the short existence of its organization.

"Mrs. James Brown, an elderly and beloved woman of Kimberly, and the mother of the Rev. Markey Brown, has been designated as the founder of the local church.

"Rev. Tom Greenacre, who is now serving his third year as local pastor is respected and loved not only by his own church, but by the entire community.

"The revival now in progress will continue each evening this week at 7:30 o'clock, and over Sunday. The Rev. Markey Brown is a typical southern evangelist, well versed in his subject. This evening "The Spirit-filled Life." The public is invited to attend the services.

Local News in Brief

Licensing Is Slow.

Only 800 of the automobiles and trucks operating in Twin Falls county had been licensed for 1930 up to Tuesday evening, it was reported by the assessor's office today. This leaves a balance of more than 1000 cars and trucks in the county to be licensed. With the last date in February 1, this means an average of 50 a day should appear before that deadline arrives. Present indications are that there will be a terrific rush and the office requests that owners of vehicles obtain license plates at once.

COMMISSION ADJOURNS

CANAL COMPANY

season, and whatever the results of today's solution to the proposition may be, it is evident that the problem we have suggested must first be met and solved and this can be done only after the situation is fully comprehended and intelligently game into and a solution of the difficulties with which all are familiar are satisfactorily met.

"We are of the opinion that a fact finding commission composed of stockholders of the company and representatives of the districts affected should be appointed to act in the matter and by its investigation and report assist the stockholders and the board in determining what should be, and what can be done. We, therefore, submit the following resolution:

"RESOLVED, that we favor action by the board of directors which, when the same can be done as a feasible and practicable plan, will result in the stopping of the running of water in the canals during the non-irrigating season, and for the purpose of determining what plan is feasible and when it can be put into operation we recommend that a fact finding commission be appointed to consist of five stockholders of the company, selected by the board of directors, and one representative from each of the two districts of Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that we urge upon such commission a full and careful consideration of the situation and of all the problems. It involves as well the prompt action in coming to conclusions and making its findings so that the running of water in the canals during the winter season may be ended at the earliest practicable time, provided it or found that such a result is to be desired and can be accomplished.

"Incidental to the major question mentioned is that of stopping the waste of water during the irrigation season and thereby preventing as far as possible the water-logging of lands. It appears from information given us that sink-holes are increasing in number, and to stop the escape of water into them some stockholders desire to make use of concrete, crate, or actual, cost of concrete tiling in their ditches, but find tiling for use on their lands the cost to be prohibitive. It has through some plan of purchase been suggested that the board or manufacturer may be found might arrange with some private to be feasible.

"Resolved, that we request the board of directors to give consideration to the matter of furnishing tiling to the stockholders at most cost."

Daily Poem

THE FARLEY

Today I heard a purple-vested fellow
At the wood edge, and his shadow old fellow,
In times half, remorse and with mein half mellow,
Declaimed about the dust of the ages.
They'll soon be here and add unto me,
Declared he, "for the blue hard and the blue sky,
Have fled where the white tempests do not bellow,
But the palm waters and the hibiscus blow.
Let us listen, wife and fellow."
Cried another
Auspicious three-score years and twelve,
"We cannot change the sadness of our brother,
Nor make our voices like the violincello;
A crow's a crow—of that there is no doubt;
Why should we not be game and stick it out!"

Clinton Scollard, Poems.

DO WE PROFIT?

ABOUT the only benefits possible from mistakes and accidents are to be found in safeguarding ourselves against repetition. The principle should hold good wherever there is an element of human error, and it is true that most of the tragedies that occur result from a mistake by some human being or other.

In other words, when a mistake is made, immediate efforts should be undertaken to provide insofar as possible that the same mistake shall not be made a second time.

This principle needs to be applied in the case of traffic accident tragedies.

The right angle curve on the Old Oregon trail north and west of Filer is a menace to any strange drive who happens to be in the habit of fast driving, and because of its deceptiveness it is a potential death trap even to those drivers who may have some knowledge of it. The curve is only slightly banked, and there is so little resistence to a car by reason of this lack of "dishing" of the curve as to make turning over an easy thing. Death may be the result. One life was snuffed out as a result of such an accident at this curve during 1929, and other cars turned over on the same spot.

The county commissioners have remonstrated to the state against the condition of this curve, but their remonstrated to the state against the the form of a remedy. It would seem to a layman that the curve should be banked or aligned to reduce the risk of cars overturning. A heavy guard fence might also be a life saver. Will we need another tragedy or two on this hazardous curve before the risk is reduced?

Two young men were killed recently on a crossing east of Twin Falls when they drove in front of a train. The crossing, according to a statement made, is not adequately equipped as to warning signs.

How many more railroad crossings are there in Twin Falls county that lack the proper signs? What is being done to reduce the number? Human life really is valuable, even if it does sometimes seem as if it is needlessly thrown away. Every possible safeguard should be thrown around the public. We should profit by tragedies by taking such action as will make their recurrence less probable.

THE FAILURE'S VICTORY

THE success story continues to be our most popular American institution. Magazines, books and newspapers are full of stories telling how this and that errand boy rose to be president of such-and-such a corporation, and the implied moral, of course, is always, "Go thou and do likewise."

So we have a cult of success. To fit one's life to a planned campaign, and—above all—to follow this campaign through to victory; this seems, to all of us, the greatest good possible. This makes us all ambitious, and probably has a very good effect. But it tends to make us forget that it is perfectly possible for a man to fail utterly, in the task he sets himself and still win a great victory.

There are failures, in other words, that are not failures at all.

A good example of this is being provided now in the nation-wide campaign to raise funds to buy the Virginia birthplace of Robert E. Lee and turn it into a national shrine similar to Mount Vernon.

This man Lee, judged by all ordinary standards, was a failure.

He dedicated himself to a definite plan—establishing the independence of the southern Confederacy.

He failed. For four dreadful years he did everything that a man could do to gain his end, and did it superlatively well. But it was no use. Success simply wasn't in the cards. At the end the Confederacy had become only a bright dream, and Lee—on the surface of things—was a beaten man, with everything that he had fought for battered down in the dust.

Yet today more than half a century later we are buying Lee's very birthplace for a national shrine, indicating, thereby, that by common consent we have enrolled him among our immortals.

Success is not as important as we imagine. There is a way of life, a system of living, that outshines it. If a man shapes his life to the right pattern, it doesn't make much difference whether he wins success or failure in the common sense of those words. He can be defeated a thousand times over and still rise above most victors.

TROUBLE IN INDIA

NO spot on the surface of the globe will deserve, or get, such world-wide attention during the next few months as India.

If the present agitation culminates in the formal adoption of a declaration of independence by the nationalist group—as seems inevitable—practically anything can happen. It seems quite obvious that British rule may be about to face the severest test it has had since the Sepoy Mutiny.

Just how extensive the demand for independence may be is a matter for speculation. India has 300,000,000 inhabitants—but the vast majority is illiterate and ignorant, neither knowing nor caring much about the matter. The British have had vast experience in handling colonial problems, and the probabilities of course, are that the approaching crisis will be handled with cool, unflustered competence. The immediate future, however, will very likely prove a trying time. The situation will be well worth watching.

BY-PRODUCTS PAY
(Idaho Falls Post)

The feasibility of further utilization of waste products on the farm is emphasized by the accomplishment of Henry Harris, Teton county farmer, in converting an acre of beet tops into $75 worth of first class feed for dairy stock. This youth through strict application of improved and intensified methods of farming and through taking advantages of the opportunities afforded him has shown his elders a direct way to greater profits from the growth of sugar beets. Harris of course is not the only one who successfully undertook the beet top project, but the fact that he is only a boy lends prominence to his new take of the soil, as well as proving conclusively that it is possible to take profitable crop off the top of the ground. The same time one is being taken out of the ground.

Marked improvements have been noted in the development of the sugar beet industry in the last few years. Educational campaigns have resulted not only in increased acreages but in increased tonnage to the acre. Farmers have been taught to prepare their seed bed properly, to plant, thin and top scientifically. The result of all this has been a rapid growth of the business of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, and an increasing realization by the farmer of the value of the sugar beet crop in the scheme of agriculture. The by products of the beets, pulp, molasses, have long since proven their value in the well balanced ration of livestock, and many growers are feeding in the valley this winter. The success of the beet top experiment has greatly enhanced this valley as a winter feeding place for livestock, and has opened the way to greater profits for the growers. In the case of young Harris, his gross return from one acre of beets was $185. In addition he got $75 for his tops, a total of $260. That seems like a pretty good return on an acre of land. There are few crops or few sections of the country that can offer as good.

Sugar beets and the by-products have a large place in our agricultural program. Developments of the last few years have shown that clearly.

Stockholders of North Side Canal Company Gather

ANNUAL meeting of the stockholders of the North Side canal company, limited, was held in Jerome on Tuesday, January 7, 1930, at 10:00 o'clock, at the court house in the morning R. E. Shepherd gave his report as general manager and Mr Shirley W. Hardeman gave the secretary-treasurer's report as manager of the company. The ballot was held at the office of the North Side Canal company, limited, in Jerome, Idaho, on Tuesday, January 7, 1930, at 2:00 o'clock p. m. Law he was elected director for district No. 4 and R. G. Shawver was elected for director at large. Information on bulletin board was given to the stockholders stating that "Final settlement has now been made to the American Falls Reservoir District with the United States, of the construction account, under which the district receives for the money it has paid, 157,121 acre feet of the total storage capacity of the Yellowstone. The amount originally contracted for was 195,194 acre feet, so there has been a gain of 162,806 acre feet out of this total that part of the North Side that is in the American Falls Reservoir district will receive about 250,000 acre feet, and that part which is in the Jackson Hill dam district will receive about 2000 acre feet. As you have heretofore been advised, we have 222,000 acre feet at Jackson lake.

"Provision is made for the pump lands on the First Segregation and such additional select lands and other public lands as may hereafter acquire rights on the project. For the actual farmed area that may be eventually put under cultivation out of the total irrigable area, we may say that about 75 acre feet of stored water available for farm delivery. In addition to all this we have our rights in the normal flow of Snake and Wood rivers. Every in ordinary years all of the stored water will not be required. The unused part will be carried over for use the following year, should the reservoir not otherwise fill. We have a carryover from this year now in storage of about 150,000 acre feet.

"In order to make the best use of the stored water at that time in the summer when more than a continuous flow of ¾ of an inch to the acre can be provided, and considering the water losses that otherwise are to be expected during the hottest weather, we are working out an improvement in the canal system which when completed will enable a delivery to be made to each farm of about 150 per cent over present methods, for a limited period when most needed by crops.

"Along this line we have increased the flow at Milner by over 1,000 second feet. We now own 67 per cent of this capacity in the new Gooding Canal, through which this will be delivered at the controlling works in our canal, and make unnecessary the use of the controlling work. This work is almost completed. We have under construction, and so far completed of that we can finish in the spring, works which will enable us to make delivery to the First Segregation of the full capacity of their canals. We are very materially increasing the capacity of these canals, and when completed the contemplated delivery of 150 per cent can be made when needed.

"The rock section on the main canal has been improved so that an increased head can be sent to the Second and Third Segregations. Work on the lateral is nearly completed to provide for increased delivery, and many others have been improved. The plans call for bringing each main lateral up to this proposed plan as soon as the funds require it, and to be all completed in four years. This can all be done without increasing the present rate of assessments.

"Repairs have been made to the waste gates at the Minidoka dam. The United States has made necessary repairs at Jackson lake dam.

"We know of no project in the United States that will have a more complete system, of its water supply under such control as ours.

"Owing to the dry condition during the past fall there has been considerable inquiry as to whether our reservoirs would fill for next year, particularly because of water now being used for power. In answer to this, on date of December 20, 1929, the government officials in charge report as follows: 'As heretofore stated, the water now being released under power contract with the Idaho Power company will not affect the hold-over storage rights of any of the contractors for irrigation purposes and does not include any of the storable runoff for the 1930 season. The water released to the Power company is water that was held in the government's share of the storage capacity of American Falls reservoir at the end of the 1929 season.

"In addition to the Power company's primary and secondary storage rights, acquired under the contract of June 15, 1927, there has been released to the company to date, under the lease contract of April 23, 1929, approximately 335,000 acre feet of storage which remained in the unused storage space in the American Falls reservoir of the 1929 irrigation season.

"American Falls reservoir now contains 850,000 acre feet of storage water and has been gaining the draft upon it for power use. The latest report from Mr. Markham is to the effect that the average snow depth on the Jackson Lake drainage area in December 18 was 21 inches, with water content of 4.8 inches. The general condition on the watershed he believes to be approximately the same as at this time last year. Jackson lake reservoir on the 11th contained 194,510 acre feet.

"From this it will be seen that there is a large volume of water now held at American Falls and Jackson Lake, nearly one million three hundred thousand acre feet.

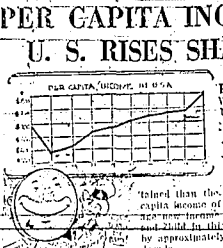
PER CAPITA INCOME IN U. S. RISES SHARPLY



BY ALLARD SMITH
Vice President The Union Trust Company, Cleveland O.

NO more certain indicator of the growth or prosperity in the United States can be obtained than the increasing annual per capita income of its citizens. The average per capita income for every man, woman and child in this country has increased by approximately $100 over the past decade.

In 1920 the per capita income was $658. As a result of the business depression coming in the latter part of that year and extending through the following year, per capita income dropped sharply to $587 in 1921. However, from 1922 on each year showed a substantial gain. In 1925, for the first time in history, it passed the $700 mark and stood at $712. In 1928 it was $745.

There is every reason to believe that in 1929, a record year for business in the United States, per capita income may equal $800. This prediction is based on a 12 per cent increase over 1928 in net corporate earnings, which greatly influence per capita income.

These figures have been computed from statistics furnished by the National Bureau of Economic Research and from the annual federal census studies. As the majority of persons in the census estimates is composed of women, children and the aged, who are not employed in industry, the income of the actual producer was considerably greater than the per capita income figures show.

The reasons for this increase are, of course, many and involved, and space will not permit of their discussion. But the figures do show that the people as a whole are sharing in the increasing profits of American business.

Accused of Mass Murder

Figures in a grim, unbelievable drama of murder, cheap women, pictured above in prison, are among the 22 persons accused of complicity in the poison deaths of 50 to 60 persons at Nagyrev, Hungary. Police, acting upon rumors, uncovered an amazing "murder corporation," headed by two women and a village undertaker-coroner, who allegedly poisoned to death wealthy landowners at the instigation of the heirs. The "corporation" also is said to have exploited the use of arsenic, obtained from fly-papers, to kill new-born babies who might have shared inheritances. Four women already have been convicted and sentenced. Are you see others surprising in the prison yard.

Unity Club has 19th Meeting at Emery Residence

The Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Unity club, held at the home of Mrs. Mary Emery on the Hazelton experiment station, was marked by a decided contrast to the first January meeting of the club, held 18 years ago, also at the home of Mrs. Emery, results of the charter members of the club revealed. Mrs. Emery established a club tradition at that meeting many years ago, when she entertained the club every January since that day.

In recalling that first January meeting held at the home then occupied by the Emery family, on the main traveled highway in the pioneer days, Mrs. Roy Evans, stated that at many times she made the Emery farm house, on the knoll south of town, almost impassable from some causes, but that in spite of the muddy roads that resembled miniature rivers, 25 members were present. This was the second meeting of the club. The organization originated through a casual conversation of two women in one of the local department stores. They happened to be from the same neighborhood, and in the remoteness that is the accompaniment of pioneering, and both were lonely.

They suggested that the women of their section might organize a club. They proceeded to visit the farms in their locality, and were very surprised to learn that so many women were their neighbors. When these women assembled from their ranches for their first meeting, they compared notes and found that but two of the 25 women present had never lived on farms, and yet they were all farming. The success that these families had in farming and orcharding in later years is conclusive proof that Idaho is a land of opportunity, and that the pioneer spirit has not yet evaporated.

Mrs. H. E. Bailey, Mrs. J. A. Green, Mrs. Roy Evans, Mrs. Mary Emery, Mrs. George Bice and Mrs. R. Rainville are charter members who still retain their membership in the club.

An elaborate pot-luck luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock, cafeteria style. Mrs. Will Burer, president, took charge of the business matters, following luncheon, and plans were completed for the annual dinner which will be given in honor of the husbands of club members. The dinner will be served at the home of Mrs. John Sumner January 24. A cooked food sale for the benefit of the state widowment fund was also proposed. Mrs. George Bice being chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mrs. Sullivan had the program of the afternoon in charge. She distributed a number of jokes and poems which were read by the members. A New Year resolution guessing contest was also conducted. Mrs. Hackett will entertain the club at the February meeting. Miss Jean Dinkelacker was a club guest.

SPANISH BULL FIGHT DESCRIBED FOR CLUB

"Bull-fighting occupies the center of interest in Spain, both as a source of entertainment and of income," Miss Helen Flack, northwest regional secretary of the Young Women's Christian association told members of the Master's club at their luncheon in the Blue Triangle club room Wednesday evening. Miss Flack, in enumerating her experiences while abroad last summer, told in detail of the barbarity of the bull fight and explaining how every Spanish boy's greatest ambition is to become a bull fighter, when he grows up, adding "and that can well be understood since the more famous fighters get about $5,000 for a single encounter."

Hideous bulls—for the fight is cruelty—are bred in the mountains of Spain, chief industries being Cartus-covered areas between towns, similar to the sagebrush stretches of the west, make ideal grazing for the "bulls," Miss Flack stated.

A Colonial House That's Just Big Enough For Two

By Cora W. Wilson
Written for NEA Service

Good architecture always has been based upon two principles—sound design and good taste. A house that must have atmosphere and charm is not a part of these principles.

The home is, in a large measure a part of ourselves—a direct expression of our personalities. We seek homes in which the room is made to conform to our habits. We prefer American, rather than Spanish or English or French—were the room is studied, not in relation to needs, but as it will relate to the preconceived desire for an effect; where books for the table are chosen to match the draperies, or a chair is placed to create a spot of color, rather than a place to sit; where the garden is a place to be viewed from a certain angle, rather than an invitation to the out-of-doors were the room is studied, not as a place to enjoy.

Homes where we do not feel at home which seems to breathe the joy of living and the personality of its creator.

The house shown here of Professor Bogel at one o'clock. Those who expect to attend the luncheon are requested to notify Mrs. G. W. Burgess by Friday noon.

ARMORY BEID

"Twin Falls faces the same situation which Buhl faced recently. The Twin Falls post of the American Legion has been working toward a memorial hall which would serve the purposes of an armory. Major Lautenbach stated today that if the American Legion, the military units and other interested would join together and cooperate there was every possibility of the armory being provided. The income to Twin Falls from the Buhl here is estimated at between $4000 and $5000 per year, including the annual payroll of $1000 per year rent which the war department will pay for an armory. It is believed that with this rental an armory could be financed, the hall built, constructed and accepted.

Workmen Make Strike in Tunnel

A spectacular strike of a subterranean cavity was made Wednesday in the Wilkinson tunnel, just north of the Deep creek schoolhouse, according to word received here at the office of the Twin Falls Canal company. The grade of the tunnel is in process of being lowered, and the strike was made at the 120 foot level of the tunnel.

Just the top of the cavity was struck in the work. The cavity appears to be at least 20 feet in width and more than six feet deep, J. C. Hayes, general manager said. It is full of water, but the volume it carries has not been determined. The flow of the tunnel from the little water secured out of the cavity has been increased by one second foot.

This Plane Hat Isn't So Plain!

You Cannot Hold Back The Time

In the days of old there once lived a proud king who, standing on the seashore, commanded the tide to stop rising.

But the tide—moved by forces far more powerful and irresistable than that wielded by any king—the tide came right upon the beach.

There are many other great forces in the world which no one man or group of men can stop.

Advertising is such a force. Advertising creates opinions in the minds of the people which no dealer can continue to ignore.

Advertised products are demanded by the public. This demand—except now and then—is practically unchangeable.

The dealer who does not stock newspaper-advertised products is standing in the way of the mighty tide of advertising.

The tide will not stop—but the dealer may.

Why not ride with the demand and reap the benefits of the manufacturer's investment? Feature goods advertised in the Idaho Evening Times.

WESTERN STATES DECLARED SOURCE OF MUCH ALCOHOL

Officials Believe Corn Fields Furnish Quantity of Raw Product Used for Liquo

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Western farm states, spokesmen of which have started a new prohibition furore in the senate to attacks on enforcement methods, are the great source of illicit liquor, federal prohibition authorities here believe.

Corn fields of Idaho, Nebraska and other western and midwestern states, which have long been politically dry, are held to constitute the source of the raw product used in manufacture of thousands of gallons of alcohol sold by bootleggers.

Industrial alcohol manufacture, which western senators have declared is being tapped by bootleggers for large supplies of alcohol, is no longer considered a serious problem by bureau officials.

Every gallon of industrial alcohol produced is denatured by locally prominent enforcement officials, so that bootleggers find it difficult to convert it to drinkable form even when they are able to obtain it, officials said.

On the other hand, there are hundreds of thousands of corn sugar distillers produced in the country, which bootleggers may purchase without legal restraint or, at worst, at officials said, is a dangerous product and is easy to handle and is readily converted into alcohol.

Eden High School to Print Annual

EDEN, Jan. 9.—(Special)—The senior class is taking subscriptions for the high school annual which will be printed this spring. This is the first attempt of this kind ever to be made in the high school and it is hoped that it will be a success. The annual will contain individual pictures of the junior and senior classes, group pictures of the sophomore and freshman classes, picture of the basketball teams, Student council, Spirit club and all other organizations in the high school. The annuals are reasonably priced and everyone who is interested in the high school activities, as well as the students in school should buy one.

Arthur Huettig, Arno Huettig and Gerhart and German Huettig were in Twin Falls Saturday.

The entire school gave the junior class a party Saturday night of the high school building. The party was given to the juniors as a reward for presenting the best program in a contest held recently with all the other classes competing. The evening was spent playing games that provided a great deal of excitement and fun. Games were played until ten. Which when refreshments were served, Miss Magles was in charge of the program.

The basketball games between Eden and Castleford are expected to be very closely contested as these teams are the strongest in the class B district.

MAY EXTEND GAS LINES IN SOUTHERN IDAHO

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Jan. 9. (AP) Plans for spending $3,500,000 and employing 1,000 men in southeastern Idaho to extend natural gas lines from Wyoming into this state were discussed by F. P. Fitzpatrick, vice president and general manager of the Idaho Gas and Coke company, who has appeared before the Idaho public service commission to obtain a franchise for the construction. The application will be held two months for consideration.

In case the franchise is granted, the Utah company will form an Idaho corporation, Fitzpatrick declared.
