TWIN FALLS TO HAVE TEAM IN INLAND LEAGUE

Sunday Baseball Assured For Coming Summer; Games will Start May 10th; Season Split.

Sunday baseball for Twin Falls was assured last evening when the baseball players of the city definitely agreed to join the Inland League, organized by the Idaho State League. The team will be known as the "Twin Falls Indians." It will have a four team twilight league.

The Idaho League will open with games Sunday, May 19, and will consist of 24 games.

A split season closing August 1. A schedule is being worked out and will be set here as soon as the new season begins. Other teams in the state are to be used as a board of control as follows: Brown, Mountain Home; chairman, A. O. Latham; Jerome, secretary and treasurer; W. W. Franz of Twin Falls, and the other two members of the board.

W. W. Franz was last night elected president of the Twin Falls club. The organization is largely due to the efforts already put forth by Mr. Franz.

Promises Provided

District rules provide that inland teams will receive a penalty for a team quitting the league in the middle of the season according to a letter received by Mr. Franz from Harry C. White of Jerome. Each team will forfeit $25 if the league treasurer will not pay the sub-district fees held over from the previous year. The only way to get the money back is to pay $10 to the visiting team for each game played.

Only men can be on the roster of any club at one time but now may be placed on the new roster of the club of another member of the same club. He is entitled to the new name is forwarded to all the clubs and filed with the secretary of the league. The man can play after one day's notice. The team leaving before May 19, the $25 with the names of all the men must be in the hands of Mr. Latham by that time, and copy of the names sent to all clubs.

Committees Named. Two committees were appointed by the Twin Falls men last evening. The first committee for the schedule is: Charles Erwin, Walt Gwin and D. E. Strain. This committee will arrange games every Tuesday and Wednesday nights and will arrange a practice schedule. The by-laws committee is composed of George Paulson, Dewey Hutchison, and Otto Taylor.

Arrangements for the Twilight League, as arranged now, will be made clear soon, Diamond hardware team, Swift's team and the McLean team will be the first to play next Tuesday evening. Each team can have 16 men on its roster after the season opens. Captain's names have been agreed upon and the team on file with the manager, Mr. Franz, by May 19.

The games will be played on the city baseball grounds and the hard balls will be worth 25 cents with bats and balls and mallets to repair and fix up the grounds. A caretaker was also hired for the season.

Practice for the town team has been planned for next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and will last three hours. The town team will not be definitely selected until after the practice.

HOW MANY DREAMS

Maud E. Uchida, In the Saturday Review of Books.

How many dreams for a penny?

Dreams are poor fare for many.

"Flour and salt," said the grocer.

"Herring and onions."

In a purple ten the fireflies hover around a silver lily.

"Dreams pay no bills."

"Clover and grass," said the farmer.

"Horses and kites."

Ripples of silver aquilus on lax water teams the drowsy pools' unwhirling, amber eyes.

"Dreams fly no wings."

How many dreams for a penny?

Dreams are poor fare for many.

SUCCESSED EDISON

THREE are no more opportunities for large success is a plain that we sometimes hear even in this great hour of human history and progress. Young men possessed of soft minds and softer courage look in vain for a field of endeavor that will pay them what they think they deserve in accomplishment, fame and money.

How terrible the real situation is from the conditions as complained of by visionaries is demonstrated by a United Press story that was published in this newspaper Tuesday evening in which was recorded the decision by Thomas Edison to seek a successor to carry on his work.

A successor to Edison, the inventive wizard of a great age!

Has youth ever faced concretely any greater challenge?

One paragraph of the formal statement on the decision by Edison to find a successor, issued by the inventor's son, Charles A. Edison, is as follows:

"As the weight of advancing years falls on the great inventor's shoulders, he is seeking a youth of unusual capabilities who perhaps will have the genius to carry on the great work he has so well started. He wants to bring this unusual opportunity and this unusual youth together."

That brief statement defines a situation of interest. Edison is seeking a youth of unusual capabilities who perhaps will have the genius to carry on the great work HE HAS SO WELL STARTED." Most of us think of Edison as having accomplished epochal results. So he has. He thinks of his work as only having been started. The future offers more possibilities in his field of endeavor than he has begun to uncover! Yet we whine of lack of opportunity!

The Edison plan is to have 40 youths selected by governors of states and the commissioners of the District of Columbia. This select company will visit the Edison plants and have answers to a questionnaire the inventor himself is preparing. From the company of 49 one youth considered—most outstanding will be chosen to receive a technical education of his own selection.

Idaho will have the chance to send one youth. So impressed are we at the showing made by our own high school during its current year that we dare suggest the Idaho representative may be found in our own high school.

We cannot help but wonder just how sanguine Mr. Edison really is of the success of his venture. His plan is naive in its conception. He strives by deliberate choice to select a successor to the vast work he is doing. What a heritage of responsibility such a one must assume!

The announced intention of Edison to choose someone who may have the genius to carry on his work when his health has ceased his labors gives this special case a particular appeal. Many wizards in other lines of endeavor sooner or later must pass from the scene. They need successors if their labors are to be realized on in-humanity's behalf. Who will do these jobs? Who will do the works of genius in fields that may not yet even be opened, or are only vaguely defined?

Is opportunity lacking? Hardly Edison, a giant of achievement, and success in the public mind, for little less than half a century, must seek a successor. None is at hand, so he goes forth to find one.

A REAL SERVICE

THE action of the state in putting traffic officers at work to patrol our highways is one of the best pieces of business in behalf of public welfare and safety that we have heard of in many a day. The decision to have such regulation has come not one minute too soon and undoubtedly will be welcomed by the great majority of those who daily use our splendid system of highways.

The day was when traffic officers were all to often considered nuisances. That was years ago. To look back and recall the methods then in use makes plain to us why traffic officers failed to make themselves and their duties as acceptable and valuable as they should have been. Progress has been made in the technique of enforcing our traffic laws and regulations. The officers have learned much more about their job, and they have learned that their real task is educational in every greater degree than it is punitive. They are courteous today in approach. The time was when they blustered too much.

The traffic officer is a friend of every law abiding motorist on the road. He is working so that the highway system may yield a maximum of use and pleasure to the public with a minimum of risk and loss. It is not to be disputed that to realize the purpose of his employment it occasionally becomes necessary for him to make arrests. He may even incur enmities, but that need worry him very little. The reckless driver is an menace to all who use the highways, and the presence of a patrolman serves merely to separate the careful drivers from the careless.

Idaho in the past has been guilty of too little regulation of its highway system and the traffic that uses the system. The decision to fill the real need of regulating traffic through special enforcement officers is a progressive step. The plan deserves the heartiest co-operation from the motoring public. Without doubt, just such co-operation will be accorded the state in this direction.

PUNISHING DRUNKEN HUNTERS

THE Michigan legislature has voted to punish the drunken hunter in the same way that the drunken motorist is now punished. Hereafter, a man carrying a gun while under the influence of liquor will be subject to a stiff fine and a term in jail.

This is an excellent idea, worth copying widely. The idea of providing a stiff punishment for the drunken man who drives an auto is based on recognition of the fact that an auto is an extremely dangerous piece of machinery in the hands of an intoxicated man. Surely the same thing is true of a rifle or shotgun.

More and more it is becoming evident that the drunken man is simply out of place in the modern world.

"Any government that seriously tries to control the news inevitably finds that such a policy leads to disaster!" Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press.

CHICAGO TO SPOKANE, 52 HOURS

(Spokane-Review)

Eighty years ago, when the Oregon question was hotly debated, the two opposite senators and representatives reflected the idea that a railroad could be built to the Pacific.

The Oregon country to then embracing the broad region west of California and west of the Rocky mountains. To operate that service, the new route cost about $100,000 a mile.

What would have been the astonished feelings of Senator Darton of New Jersey, or Daniel Webster of Massachusetts, if they had known that in 1929 luxurious jalopies on wheels would be rolling from Chicago to Spokane in 52 hours (52 to Spokane), with shower and tub baths, air conditioning, electric lights, radio, and a radio car for smoking and cards, drawer shelves, writing desks, and in the dining cars electric refrigeration and electric dishwashing machines?

What service not over one transcontinental railroad, but five trans-seas, serving the region that was known as the Oregon country?"

"Travis and Al escape to Paris where the girl comes to meet her father, Al's father, John, who has appeared and Travis, knowing the girl's penitence, pays the overdue rent for her apartment. Al is waiting for the last of a cafe.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued. A saucer with a fly continues across on it appeared before him, then a tumbler, and the waiter poured the measure of whisky from the bottle on his tray into the glass and added a sip from another with a "Voila! Merci, Monsieur!" and sped away.

A series of drams sounded from down the street. The people at the cafe, stirred to attention, leaned forward expectantly. Then a sound of martial music blared forth. The crowd leaped up, shouting, as a troupe of soldiers marched into view. Girls were fluttering frantically about, cheeks flushed with excitement. "Well, there's lots of hotel rooms," said Al, looking at his friend with a smile.

"Well, let's forget about it for a moment," Travis declared. "I've got to get disappeared into a crowded place to sleep tonight."

"Ghastly!" Al looked at his friend with a worried expression. "Well, there's lots of hotel rooms," said Al, looking at his friend with a smile.

"Well, I don't know," Marie laughed and shrugged her shoulders, and then turned to the waiter. "We'll get a room, but I'm afraid the place is full."

"Wait a minute," the waiter called, his side dripping cold beads of sweat.

"Say, you know something?" Travis asked him. "I've got to get disappeared into a crowded place to sleep tonight."

WORKING FOR A FIGHT

KENOSHA, Wis., May 2.—A young negro walked into police station and told the chief of police he was beaten up again.

"How much did you pay?" the officer asked.

"$25," the negro replied.

"He cast descriptors on me,"

the officer, thinking the negro had been beaten up again.

The negro started to kick him.

"Not yet, boss," the negro said.

"Ab don't wait to wait'll you pay to beat that fella up! Ab only got eight backs."

My you look lovely to-night!

He knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had washed off.

If you are one of the embarrasments of society—skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars

you must realize that the logical solution may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth skin is the sign of health and beauty.

When you eat your red-blooded meals, feel the difference, too.

It's all down to the blood.

You get healthy, strong blood, which increases the red cells of the blood.
