LA VONDE FREE; JOHNSTON BOUND OVER

Freedom Under Bail Denied to Onetime Mayor

By O. A. KELKER

For the second time since he was first charged jointly with Duncan McD. Johnston in the murder of George L. Olson, Salt Lake City jewelry salesman, William LaVonde, former Johnston employe, and ex-police desk sergeant, was a free man today.

Shortly thereafter, Johnston was bound over to the district court to answer the murder charge. It was the second time he had faced this procedure. Johnston was ordered held without bail.

LaVonde was ordered discharged shortly before noon by Probate Judge Guy L. Kinney after William Dunn, attorney in his defense, and Edward Babcock, prosecuting attorney, concluded their arguments in the second preliminary of the case to be held before the magistrate.

"There is not sufficient evidence to show probable cause that William La[illegible] is guilty of the crime with [illegible] is charged," Judge Kin[illegible] substance. "For this [illegible] order the defendant [illegible]

[illegible]utes after the afternoon [illegible]ened, Johnston was bound [illegible] V. Larson, one of his two [illegible]ys, asked that he be dismiss[illegible] the reason "sufficient evi[illegible] not been produced to [illegible]le cause that the de[illegible]uilty of the crime c[illegible] him. We submit thi[illegible] argument."

Babc[illegible] argument to the [illegible]ately, after Judge Kin[illegible] motion of Larson, th[illegible]n asked that a reason[illegible]et. This was also denie[illegible]agistrate who ordered that [illegible]endant be turned over to the [illegible]iff to be held for district court.

In deciding on La Vonde, Judge Kinney referred to the supreme court ruling on a writ of habeas corpus which was issued on Sept. 15 and which freed La Vonde after the court had decided sufficient evidence was not produced against him during the first preliminary hearing he faced. In making the ruling which released La Vonde today, Judge Kinney expressed the opinion that the state had not produced sufficient new evidence which would justify binding the defendant over to district court, inasmuch as the supreme court ruled that evidence shown in the first preliminary was insufficient.

Stirring Plea

As witnesses concluded their testimony this morning, and the state rested its case against the two men, Mr. Dunn, La Vonde's attorney, started a stirring plea for the release of his client. He referred freely to the ruling of the supreme court, even reading at length from the argument he presented before the state's highest judges.

Dunn outlined the new evidence which had been produced in this hearing and commented that it "doesn't show anything."

"This is not a good case for demanding an explanation from this defendant even in the matter of stolen property," Dunn told the court. "The fact that these things were in the basement doesn't prove anything.

"To me this case against La Vonde is a very weak case of poor circumstantial evidence," Dunn said emphatically.

Babcock Cites Entry

In contending that La Vonde should be held for trial, Babcock said that although La Vonde had told Howard Gillette, chief of police, that he "knew nothing" as to the amount Johnston is alleged to have paid Olson, he still made an entry in one of the two store record books

RAILMEN NEARLY UNANIMOUS WITH VOTE TO STRIKE

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The 160,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen voted, in a ballot completed today, "almost unanimously" to strike at 12:01 a. m. Oct. 1 unless the railroads abandon their proposed 15 per cent wage cut effective that date.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Officials of 19 railroad brotherhoods said today incomplete tabulation of a nation-wide poll of the 928,560 operating and clerical employes of all class 1 railroads indicated that the workers had voted almost unanimously to strike—if the roads carry out plans to slash wages 15 per cent on Oct. 1.

"They will make formal announcement of the complete vote late today or tonight. They indicated they would call a national strike for next Saturday, the day the reduction is scheduled to go into effect. The strike call, however, would not mean an actual strike but would serve only as a final step toward a showdown on the proposed cut.

As a matter of fact, a strike next Saturday would be a violation of the law. The national railway labor act of 1922, designed to permit ample time for consideration and possible settlement of such disputes, requires that the question be submitted to a presidential fact-finding commission after the workers have decided to strike. The commission has 30 days in which to make its report and the workers cannot strike for 30 days after the report has been made public. Therefore, in the present case, they could not strike before Dec. 1 at the earliest.

MASTERS URGES SPECIAL SESSION

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Secretary of State Ira H. Masters today requested acting Governor Charles Gossett to call a special legislative session "as early as possible" for the consideration of relief problems and the purpose of making an appropriation which would place two constitutional amendments on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Masters was prohibited from publishing the two amendments—providing for Indian enfranchisement and changing the date for installation of elected state officials—because the legislature which authorized the proposed measures neglected to provide an appropriation to defray printing costs. A court order was issued Saturday which in effect made it impossible to place the amendments on the ballot.

England and Russia Work Toward Pact

GENEVA, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — Great Britain and Soviet Russia were working today toward an understanding in event of a new world war. Their respective delegations to the league of nations were conferring.

A British-Russian understanding, if reached, could mean only that Adolf Hitler would be faced by a powerful coalition of the allied powers of Britain, France, the Soviet union and their satellites. France is bound by treaty to defend Czechoslovakia and Russia is bound to if France does.

Remaking the Map of Europe?

It was during a conference, such as the one above, that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England received Germany's final ultimatum that all Czechoslovakian areas containing 78 per cent Germans must be evacuated by a specified time—Oct. 1. In the picture above, Hitler stands with his hand to his mouth and Chamberlain on the left, with his hand on the map. Their interpreter, Dr. Paul Schmidt, is between them.

Taylor Strikes Back On Appraisal's Halt

Swift flare-back from a member of the state board of examiners struck today at statements made here Saturday night by Alan C. Merritt, Idaho public works director, and B. J. Finch, district engineer of the U. S. bureau of roads — who informed Twin Falls businessmen that the board had never asked an independent appraisal of the rim-to-rim bridge and that the federal bureau has "absolutely dropped" the appraisal.

Attorney General J. W. Taylor, at Boise, vigorously informed Merritt today that the appraisal matter had been "dragged out inexcusably."

Wants Action

Taylor requested an immediate report on the matter, it was learned here this afternoon as a Twin Falls delegation conferred at Boise with Taylor and Ira H. Masters, the other member of the board now in Boise. Gov. Barzilla Clark is out of Idaho at present.

"If there is any real reason why this appraisal has been delayed, I would like to know what it is," Taylor said in a letter to Merritt. "Otherwise, I would like to receive the appraisal without further excuse or delay."

Merritt and Finch, in a conference here after the International Four States Highway association banquet Saturday night, told a Twin Falls group that:

Now Dropped

1. The federal road bureal has dropped the whole matter of appraising the bridge. Finch said it is "outside the jurisdiction and routine work of the bureau."

2. The state department of public works has never been instructed by the local board of examiners to make an independent ap-

The cabinet ordinarily meets on Friday. The session was called, it was generally felt, for a thorough exploration of the critical European situation.

One Minority Leader Held By Officers

By REYNOLDS PACKARD

PRAGUE, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — Czechoslovakia today informed Great Britain that Adolf Hitler's demands for surrender of the Sudetenland by Oct. 1 were unacceptable and should be subject to further discussions.

The government's decision, made after a night of study as the nation prepared for war, was understood to have been communicated to British Minister Basil Cochrane-Newton.

KUNDT

(The Czech refusal to accede to the German demands had been made known earlier in London).

The government listed its objections to the Hitler demands, emphasizing economic, ethnographic and national defense reasons for refusing to accept.

Meanwhile, the nation calmly prepared for the fateful decision of war or peace, confident that she would have allies if war comes.

She had arrested Ernest Kundt, a Sudeten German deputy to parliament and a leader of the German minority which Adolf Hitler has pledged himself to protect, and charged him with operating a secret radio station here through which he informed Berlin of all developments.

Two German journalists were arrested at the same time.

Her troops had reoccupied the Sudeten German region which Hitler wishes to annex to Germany and had dynamited bridges and other passages leading into the country from Germany. Over 2,000,000 men — every able-bodied man — manned the defense lines on the frontiers and the anti-aircraft defenses of the interior cities.

The situation was exemplified by

Solon Asks FDR To Call Meet of Treaty Signers

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—U. S. Sen. James Hamilton Lewis, D., Ill., a member of the senate foreign relations committee, proposed today that President Roosevelt summon the signatories of the Versailles treaty for a revision of the World war peace terms.

"This is the time for the President to summon signers of the Versailles peace treaty to assemble here and to revise," Lewis said.

"As signer of that treaty our jurisdiction is complete. It is time to settle disputes of boundaries. Certainly no political influences of a European nature could be involved in a decision reached here under mediation of President Roosevelt."

STYLES, CONTEST TOP FALL EVENT

Autumn's latest in fashion and trend will go on parade in Twin Falls starting next Thursday at 7 p. m., according to final plans which had been completed today by the merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

Annual fall opening will start at that hour and will continue through Friday and Saturday.

Unveil Windows

First event will be the citywide unveiling of window displays at 7 p. m. Thursday. Plans were underway today to have a band playing on downtown streets in conjunction with the unveiling. The band may be that of Twin Falls high school, although definite details had not been completed this afternoon.

Feature event for hundreds of spectators will be a new-type window display contest. This event, also being used at Rupert, will offer prizes on the basis of the estimates of retail value made by contestants. Each of the scores of competing stores will enter one or more displays; crowds seeking the cash prizes will give their own estimate of the retail value of the goods shown.

Prizes offered, according to Chairman Charles Shirley of the merchants' bureau, will be topped by grand prizes of $25 first place; $25 for first award and $15 for second. Those awards, offered by the Chamber of Commerce, will be given to the entrants who have the greatest number of windows estimated correctly and who have a total combined valuation estimate nearest to the actual figure.

Store Prizes, Too

In addition, each competing store will offer $2.50 in cash to the contestant most nearly correct on that store's display.

Those who enter the contest in search of the cash awards must be over 16 years of age. In event of deadlocks, the entry submitted first will win. The contest extends from 7 p. m. Thursday until 3 p. m. Saturday.

Entry blanks can be obtained from the cooperating business firms throughout the day Thursday, as well as Friday and Saturday.

In addition to the contest, the windows of stores will be packed with the latest styles and trends in apparel, shoes, furniture, hardware, foods and every other type of merchandise handled in Twin Falls.

Italy Set to Enter Battle

VERONA, Italy, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — Premier Benito Mussolini said today that "if war comes Italy will not hesitate for one minute to participate in it."

It was the first time that Mussolini in so many words had definitely committed Italy to participation in a European war, though he had intimated strongly that he would support Germany, as a fellow totalitarian nation, in a war against the democracies.

TO HONG KONG

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — A regiment of British Seaforth Highlanders was ordered to Hong Kong today on four hours notice.

NAZI FUEHRER SAYS HE WILL NOT YIELD

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER

"I sympathize with the Hungarians, the Poles and t[illegible] Ruthenians (Ukranians), but I speak only of the fate of my own countrymen, the Germans," Hitler declared in making clear that he was not actively fighting the battles of other Czech minorities. Poland and Hungary have demanded that Prague return their minorities coincident with surrender of Sudetenland.

In a speech awaited by the world as pointing the way toward war or peace, he declared that he spoke for a united and determined nation in reference to his demands on Czechoslovakia to surrender the Sudetenland by Oct. 1.

"The problem that occupies us is not so much Czechoslovakia as it is Mr. Benes," he shouted. It was the chancellor's first reference to Czechoslovak President [illegible] Benes.

"Germany's foreign policy is in contradiction [illegible] many democratic states," he said. "We hav[illegible] suppress others. Our goal is strictly limited by [illegible] frontiers."

But, the Nazi leader declared, Germany had raised herself from the disaster of World war defeat and was now an armed and powerful nation.

"Peace offers," he said, "cannot be unilateral. The other party cannot go ahead and say: 'I'll wage war whenever it seems necessary again.'

"We all hope that in England those people will prevail who share this view."

CHAMBERLAIN SENDS NEW PERSONAL MESSAGE TO FUEHRER

REPORT CLAIMS NOTE CONTAINS PLAN REJECTION

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

LONDON, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain sent a personal message to Adolf Hitler by airplane today, with the approval of Premier Edouard Daladier of France, in a final effort to avert war over Czechoslovakia.

Coincidentally he convoked parliament to meet yesterday in its most momentous session since the World war.

It was reported that Chamberlain's message to Hitler—sent only a few hours before the German fuehrer was due to make a speech proclaiming to the world his immediate intentions—was a tacit rejection of the ultimate demand Hitler made for surrender of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia by next Saturday.

Usually reliable quarters said that it was an effort to break the existing deadlock by accelerating the procedure for ceding the Sudeten area as originally proposed by Britain and France—but that Chamberlain insisted that the French-British plan, not Hitler's, must be the basis.

The message was taken by Sir Horace Wilson, chief industrial adviser to the government. Sir Horace Wilson is one of the powers behind the scenes in Great Britain. He accompanied Chamberlain to the Berchtesgaden and Godesberg conferences with Hitler.

Cabinet Meets Third Time

Announcement of the message came as the cabinet met for the third time in 24 hours, and just after a conference between British and French leaders with Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of staff of the French fighting forces, attending.

It was believed that Chamberlain ... sent Hitler an appeal not to in... on his ultimatum giving Czechoslovakia until next Saturday to sur... the Sudeten area to Ger...y, and making it plain that ...ther Great Britain nor France ... willing to ask Czechoslovakia ... accept it.

Gen. Gamelin arrived by airplane from Paris to join in British-French consultation on immediate war preparations.

He conferred first with the British-French leaders, then separately with Sir Thomas Inskip, British minister for defense coordination, on application of technical plans for joint action.

Immediately afterward the following communique was issued on the British-French meetings:

"After a meeting of British and French ministers, (Sunday) a further meeting was held this morning at which a full accord was established on all points.

Full Agreement Reached

"Gen. Gamelin, who was called over the special consultation, called on the prime minister and subsequently had an interview with the minister for coordination of defense."

Full agreement having been reached on war policy and strategy, as well as on the final peace move, the French leaders prepared to return to Paris this afternoon.

Their accord had reached the point where actual technical arrangements to be applied instantly in event of war, were discussed.

Points under discussion were understood to include: (1) The total of British forces to be sent to France; (2) The disposition of British forces when they arrived in France; and (3) the total of British forces which would be available if mobilization machinery went into operation.

ATTORNEY ARRAY WIDENS IN CASE

Array of attorneys in the trial of Miss Gladys Caudle assumed lengthy proportions today as associate counsel were entered for both prosecution and defense.

Both Babcock and E. L. Rayborn are also engaged on another criminal matter—the preliminary hearing of Duncan Johnston and William LaVonde in probate court. Selection of jurymen in the Caudle case in district court was to be completed this afternoon.

HITLER DEMANDS SUDETEN REGION

There are Czechs and there are Slovaks and they can't stand each other."

In reference to his determination to end what he called the "Benes problem," Hitler recalled that prior to the annexation of Austria "one statesman did not understand me. He was removed."

His reference was to Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria, who is now in a Nazi prison awaiting trial.

"Father of Lie"

The fuehrer said that "the father" of the lie which originated Czechoslovakia was Benes.

"There is a limit to everything," he added in reference to the agitation of Sudetens for release from the Czech nation.

"I could not give up my right and duty to help these Germans. In democracies a plebiscite becomes superfluous or noxious in the very moment that it threatens not to have the desired effect . . . This is a reality which no lying mouthpiece of the democracies can falsify."

Hitler referred to the 10,000,000 Germans outside the Reich frontiers who, he said, want to return to the fatherland. He pointed out that they were as large as a quarter of France's population.

Right to Claim

"If France could go to war over the inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine (returned to France after the World war) then we have a right to claim these fellow Germans," he said.

Hitler declared that Italy would fight with Germany if ever war breaks.

"One great friend of the German people shows sympathy and understanding," he said. "That is Benito Mussolini. If ever the hour strikes, the Italian people will stand with us. We will never forget and we will stand with them.

Will Be One State

"Not two states will be fighting, but one single bloc."

The last sentence was a paraphrase of Mussolini's declaration last week in a speech to a Fascist rally.

Hitler referred to Benes as a "maniac" and said that, like Schuschnigg, the Czech president had broken his promise to create a cantonal system for minorities in the republic.

He charged that "bolshevism" was using Czechoslovakia as "channel into Europe."

"The Benes policy," he went on, "compels Germans to shoot Germans. This is not the will of the Czech people. They want peace."

CZECHS REJECT HITLER DEMAND

the calm announcements of the government radio which kept the people informed of events that seemed to be pushing this war-created republic nearer to war.

Reoccupies Customs

First the radio announced that Czech police had reoccupied customs posts at four places along the frontier, after driving back "insurgents" (Sudeten Germans).

Then came the announcement most cheering to the Czechs — that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain had submitted Hitler's ultimatum without recommendation, which seemed here to mean that Britain considered it excessive and was prepared to back the Czechs.

When British and French ministers presented Hitler's new demands, the government station said, "they stated they couldn't accept the responsibility of advising us against mobilization. That means the great powers have recognized that the new conditions couldn't be regarded as a basis for further negotiations."

TRIO WILL OFFER PLEA ON RELIEF

Three influential western Idaho county leaders had been named here today to present to Gov. Barzilla W. Clark the special session resolution passed by the Idaho Association of County Commissioners and Clerks.

The trio, named by James L. Barnes, local commissioner chairman, and president of the state group, are:

C. C. Kendall, Ada county commissioner; Tom M. DeCoursey, Canyon commissioner, and Charles F. Judy, Payette commissioner.

Will See Clark

The three will confer with the governor on his return from a potato picking contest in Maine. They will present the association's request that a special session be called to augment dwindling state relief funds, Mr. Barnes said. The association resolution, which empowered Barnes to name the committee, was signed by the president and by Secretary Sam V. Tunks, Bear Lake county auditor.

Although this county is not delinquent at present in its social security contributions to the state each month, Mr. Barnes said today that "Twin Falls county will be unable to give the state its warrant for November and December because the poor fund will be practically exhausted."

No Transfer

Barnes said that no money will be transferred from other funds into the poor fund "because we doubt legality of such action."

The chairman said that the $30,000 in the poor fund at the start of the year "will be down to a few hundred after we make our October contribution to the state."

He pointed out that the commissioners' association asked the special session because the state's funds for relief and for social security to the aged, to the blind and to widows are rapidly diminishing.

Counties' Funds Low

That condition, he explained, is caused by the fact that many counties already have reached the end of their budgeted funds and have stopped paying their share with the state. "Six or eight have already stopped and others are on a restricted basis."

As these counties halt contributions, the state has been forced to take over the burden. Ordinarily, the federal government pays half the social security cost in Idaho, and the state and each county divide the other half. In order to participate, the counties must levy the maximum 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Governor Clark's assertion that Twin Falls county is already delinquent in its state payments were refuted last week by county officials including Auditor Frank J. Smith. The assertion by Barnes today, however, indicated that the delinquency looms after October.

TAYLOR HITS AT APPRAISAL HALT

praisal. Merritt, after seeing a copy of the board's resolutions, still insists he had not been so instructed and asserted no authorization had been made to spend money for the appraisal.

The appraisal, according to Governor Clark and other state officials, including J. H. Stemmer, highway director, has apparently been going ahead under Lee M. Huggins, federal engineer. Clark and other officials repeatedly have said the appraisal was "forthcoming soon."

Key Matter

The appraisal has been the key matter in the state board action to purchase the bridge. It was requested by Taylor and Masters June 14 after dispute over value of the bridge.

Merritt placed blame in the matter with the board. J. A. Cederquist, Chamber of Commerce president, said today that the C. of C. "will carry on the fight." He asserted that "someone was to blame for not properly giving the instructions to secure the appraisal."

Stemmer, who was reported to have asked the federal bureau for the appraisal, apparently acted without authority, according to Merritt's statement.

Following the surprising revelation Saturday, a group of local leaders went to Boise Sunday to push a strong move for immediate action.

ROOSEVELT APPEALS TO HITLER, BENES FOR PEACE

PRESIDENT ASKS CONTINUANCE OF DISPUTE TALKS

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — President Roosevelt today appealed personally to Chancellor Adolf Hitler and President Edouard Benes to maintain peace, thrusting the weight and influence of the United States against the tide sweeping Europe toward war.

Reply from either now might invite the United States to take a direct hand in European affairs.

His plea — first word from the President in this crisis—sped eastward as the British cabinet met and Hitler prepared again to address his Nazi legions.

It was timed to reach leaders on both sides before they could make public any incontrovertible commitments which might bring war.

To Benes of Czechoslovakia and Hitler of Germany, the President addressed his appeal. The prime ministers of Great Britain and France received copies through Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Now possible is a reply from any of the four governments approached—one which might invite the United States to join directly in the fight for peace. But in his message, Mr. Roosevelt warned:

"The United States has no political entanglements."

Urges Peace Negotiations

The President said no nation could escape the consequences of general war. He urged that negotiations for peace be continued.

"On behalf of the 130,000,000 people of the United States of America," he said, "and for the sake of humanity everywhere, I most earnestly appeal to you (Hitler and Benes) not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair and constructive settlement of the question at issue.

"I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, differences may be reconciled. Once they are broken off reason is banished and force asserts itself.

"And force produces no solution for the future good of humanity."

In support of his peace plea, Mr. Roosevelt recalled to Hitler and Benes:

1. That every civilized nation is a signatory to the 1928 Kellogg-Briand pact to outlaw war.

Bound by Treaties

2. That most nations are bound by other treaties obligating preservation of peace.

3. That all nations have available treaties of arbitration and conciliation for peaceful solution of disputes.

Correspondents were warned informally to avoid interpreting the Roosevelt message as an "invocation" of the Kellogg-Briand pact. The informal interpretation here was that it was to remind the major nations that they still are obligated by that treaty and by others.

The President cautiously avoided involvement in the Czechoslovakian boundary dispute in drafting his message. He limited it strictly to a plea for peace and urged merely continued discussion to achieve peaceful objectives.

World Peace Endangered

Conferences with Hull and Undersecretary Welles preceded drafting of the message. Mr. Roosevelt signed it between 12:15 and 12:30 a. m., EST., today. It began moving by cable almost immediately.

European and perhaps world peace is in immediate danger, the President asserted. War, he continued, would take the lives of millions of persons—women and children—under circumstances of "unspeakable horror."

He warned that the economic systems, the social structures of every nation involved would be shattered, wrecked. The United States, he said, is not caught in hatred's mesh.

Our policy is adjustment of international problems by pacific means, he said.

"The supreme desire of the American people," he continued, "is to live in peace. But in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measures of the consequences of such a world catastrophe.

Peace Before War

"It is my conviction, that all people under the threat of war today pray that peace may be made before, rather than after, war. . .

"Whatever may be the differences in the controversies at issue and however difficult of pacific settlement they may be, I am persuaded that there is no problem so difficult or so pressing for solution that it cannot be justly solved by resort to reason rather than by resort to force.

"During the present crisis the people of the United States and their government have earnestly hoped that the negotiations for the adjustment of the controversy which now has arisen in Europe might reach a successful conclusion.

"So long as these negotiations continue, so long will there remain the hope that reason and the spirit of equity may prevail and that the world may thereby escape the madness of a new resort to war."

The Roosevelt appeal appeared substantially to follow previously uttered statements of United States policy. The hour preceding dispatch of the plea found cabinets meeting as Czechoslovakia rejected Hitler's latest ultimatum and France and England sought firm, common ground upon which to stand.

The police department in London, England, has instituted a free school to train animals in better behavior while promenading — it seems dogs cause numerous traffic accidents by walking into the streets unexpectedly.

Downey's Triumph Makes National Issue Of California '$30 Every Thursday' Plan

A new movement and a new Messiah zoom across the political heavens. This is the first of two articles on Sheridan Downey and the $30 Every Thursday idea that carried him to victory over Senator McAdoo.

(By NEA Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—If Sheridan Downey sweeps through the November elections with anything like the power he displayed in soundly beating William G. McAdoo in the Democratic primary, the U. S. senate will find in its midst this winter a champion of the latest panacea to end the depression—the "$30 Every Thursday" plan.

And "Ham and Eggs" for Californians" may become a national slogan by a slight alteration to "Ham and Eggs for Everybody."

Downey, personally a rather colorless campaigner, won the nomination on the sheer power of the movement which has swept southern California like a forest-fire. Downey has promised to "labor energetically" to put the plan over nationally.

It is a plan to pay $30 a week to every unemployed person over 50, in scrip to be retired by weekly tax stamps affixed by users, 2 cents tax a week on each $1, which would in 52 weeks amount to more than the face value of the scrip, retiring it. The movement, starting quietly in the same area of concentrated elderly population in southern California which produced the Townsend movement, rolled up like a snowball week after week, giving Downey a four to three lead over McAdoo and an easy victory.

Downey is a Sacramento lawyer, identified all his life with liberal (his opponents say, "crackpot") movements.

Sheridan Downey, former Townsend End Poverty in California leader and now a strong supporter of the $30 Every Thursday plan, drives home a point in a characteristic speaking pose. Defeating the veteran Senator William Gibbs McAdoo for the California Democratic senatorial nomination, Downey is the newest meteor in the 1938 political sky.

He claims to be a lifetime student of economics, and wrote a book on "Why I Believe in the Townsend Plan," which has been a sort of gospel of that movement. Dr. Townsend hailed him as "the forerunner of a new type of economist."

Downey first appeared on the political horizon in the now-historic EPIC campaign of 1934, as candidate for lieutenant-governor and running-mate of Upton Sinclair in the embittered race, in which Sinclair narrowly lost the governorship. It is significant that Downey ran 125,000 votes ahead of even Sinclair.

"Production for use" was the slogan of that campaign, and Downey whole-heartedly endorsed Sinclair's plan to have the state of California launch into a giant program of state-directed production with distribution of the products on a basis of need.

Strong for Roosevelt

In 1936, Downey was on the Townsend bandwagon, running for congress on the platform that Dr. Townsend's $200-a-month pensions for old people was the panacea needed to jerk the country up out of the doldrums. At the Cleveland Townsend convention of that year, Downey fought the proposed plan for a third party coalition independent ticket of Townsendites, Coughlinites and the Lemke National Union party.

That was serviceable to President Roosevelt, and it is not the first time Downey has backed him. He claims to be FRBC (for Roosevelt before Chicago) and to have backed F. D. R.'s nomination in 1932 before the convention at which McAdoo, for example, was still supporting John Garner. Downey was one of the first California Democrats to line up with Jim Farley when the F. D. R. mentor was beating the bushes seeking support for his candidate in 1932. Downey's position of a leading Democrat was of course heightened in 1934 when the Sinclair forces seized control of the party in the state.

A Political "Maverick"

The EPIC and Townsend episodes behind him, Downey was early aboard the "$30 Every Thursday" movement. McAdoo criticized him as being "on every side of every question."

In this $30 plan Downey had the support not only of the abnormally-large elderly population of California, but of all varieties of left-wingers, including Tom Mooney, who from his prison cell exerts considerable political influence.

Downey energetically defended the economic aspects of the plan throughout the campaign, and has pledged himself to work for it in the U. S. senate.

He began political life in Laramie, Wyo., where he was a county attorney at 23. Always a political "maverick," he bolted the Republicans with Teddy Roosevelt in 1912, followed the elder La Follette in 1924, supported Wilson and Roosevelt, Sinclair and Townsend, and now backs the plan which out-Townsends Townsend.

Terrell Jacobs, lion trainer, and "Tony" Concello, circus aerialist (right), both testify to the value of "Let up—light up a Camel." "Animals can spring into instant action—then relax," says Jacobs. "We are apt to get our nerves all wound up with our tense way of living—can't let go. I find that Camels soothe my nerves." "Terrell's right," Miss Concello says. "When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervous I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my taste."

Mankind's Conscience is Sole Defense

Major Al Williams is probably about as well qualified to write about aerial warfare as any man alive. And in a series of recent articles Major Williams makes it plain that there is precious little exaggeration in the horrible stories we have been hearing about the things the next war will do to civilians.

Every airman in Europe, says Major Williams, takes it for granted that the next war will see tremendous blows launched by air against the great cities. The powers are nursing bombs that will penetrate and destroy the deepest "bomb proof." They have incendiary bombs that will start fires no fire department can extinguish.

What has happened in Spain and China, he remarks, will look mild in comparison with what will happen when a really big war breaks out.

It makes about the ugliest picture that civilized men have had to look at since the days of Tamburlaine. Is there any defense against this frightful thing?

In a military sense, there probably is not. Major Williams says flatly that the air raid defenses so far erected are little less than pitiful. Bombers can reach a given city before defending planes can get into the air. They can fly above the range of anti-aircraft guns. They can hit just about any target they choose, and they can destroy any target they hit.

That answer is only to be expected. If the race sets out to return to the kind of savagery that made the old Assyrian kings exterminate the populations of captured cities, it can do it in spite of everything. Our one defense lies in that frailest and yet mightiest of all forces—the conscience of mankind.

It is not yet too late to rally the common decency of mankind and assert, once and for all, that this kind of warfare is hideously and inexcusably wrong—so great a crime that no conceivable plea of military expediency can justify it.

On that truth, a solid front of the world's peoples can be formed. And if people can be induced to show that they feel that way, the military experts may yet be held in check.

Perhaps this offers little hope. But no other defense offers any hope at all. If our plain sense of right and wrong asserts itself, there may yet be a chance to avert the threatened return to barbarism.

Civics at Home

Alert students of social history who follow the news must certainly have noted as a milestone a little story of domestic tiffing that appeared the other day.

The story concerned a couple whose differences had led them to divorce court. The husband brought suit against the wife because, he told the judge, "My wife continually praised the New Deal . . . and I can no longer remain with anyone who will approve of that doctrine."

The judge dismissed the suit, but the story cannot be dismissed as just another oddity. When married couples become so aroused over political issues that their homes start to go to pieces, it's a tragedy for them but it ought to be a source of sneaking gratification for the men who have feared for the national weal because of the citizen's lack of interest in public affairs.

The husband in this case, as a citizen of a democracy, ought to have become used to living at peace with ideas antagonistic to his own, of course, but the important thing is that exceeding liveliness of interest. The wife, in her resolute alliance with the political concept to which she was attached, could serve as a symbol of the feminist movement come of age, and might yet find a place among the footnotes on minor martyrs in some future history.

Unionized Transfusions

News arrives from New York of the granting of an A. F. of L. charter to a newly-founded union of professional donors of blood for transfusions.

The charter was granted, according to the story, on condition that the union members promise to call no strikes. If the union should "get out of control," the charter would be revoked.

The thought of such a union getting out of control suggests of course that the situation is a gold mine for professional funnymen. You know: what to do with a C. I. O. patient; suppose they called a sit-down at work; how about factional quarrels between different blood-types? But it doesn't really sound as funny as it might.

It might be funnier if the so-far-unanswered question didn't intrude itself: What ultimate enforcement of their bargaining power do the members have if they're not going to strike? Till that question and a few others are cleared up the situation is not so much reminiscent of laughter as it is of a slight attack of hives.

THIS MIGHT HELP CALM MR. HITLER!

My Good Man:

I am terribly concerned over world peace prospects so I have drafted a bill to be presented to the next congress which will, I hope, stave off Der Tag and satisfy Der Furore Hitler, for six months. After that somebody else can cut him a hunk of cake.

The plan is this: We will cede Wisconsin and all her bier gartens und cheese factories to Der Furore Hitler, give him anschluss with his people, and after all, why not, parents should have the right to spank their own kids.

Then we will cede California to Mussy Lena, he's got the state anyway. And any other minority of people who have come here must be partitioned off. They deserve it, for did they not cross a shark infested ocean to get here? We will work on the thesis that "two is company, three's a crowd" and any state or county having a crowd of foreigners in it must cede that section to the fatherland.

And last but not least, Idaho must consent at once to a partitioning. The state must at once grant autonomy to her vast Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Tennessee majorities. They must have anschluss with their Little Furores. They must be allowed to come home to their Reichs.

HIT-RUN LOVE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Pat meets Tom at the club after Larry leaves her for Hettie Barnes, a rich playgirl.

CHAPTER V

PAT felt lost again after Tom's goodby, and turned back awkwardly to find Larry. He was still talking to Dottie Barnes, but he came toward Pat when he saw her. "Thought I'd lost you. Who were you with?"

She suddenly was tired of the party. "Sweeney, assistant prosecutor assigned to the court. He was here playing golf this afternoon."

Larry's eyes narrowed. "Acted like an old friend."

"He's very nice," she said. "Always helpful and considerate."

They danced and moved around with other couples for the rest of the evening. Going home though, she felt depressed. She supposed it was her own fault. People had been nice to her. She hadn't been a wallflower. Larry's friends had taken them into their groups, yet she had experienced no spontaneous pleasure.

The quiet of the early spring morning settled about them as they drove back to the city. Only a tinny rattle at intervals broke the monotone of the motor.

"Something must be loose on this car, Larry," she said, sleepily. "I noticed it on the way out, too. Is your fender hitting something?"

"Another car must have hit us when we were parked at the club," he said quietly.

She was drugged with weariness, untactfully persistent. "We were last in line," she reminded him. "The same car was next to us when we came out. I remember because it was a gray roadster. And I heard the noise on the way out."

"I don't see why you get so worked up over a car rattle," he said pettishly.

SHE sank back in the car, awake now and with that unworded feeling of fear creeping into her heart again.

"Was Mr. Abbott in the office late this afternoon, Larry?" she asked. As soon as the words were spoken she wished them unsaid. Yet some secret fear made her ask.

"Abbott—" Larry said. "Sure. He was there at 5—" She sensed his sudden alertness. "I know," he added quickly, "because I called in. As I said, I was out all afternoon."

Her throat was dry, aching with the tightening of her nerves. This suspicion was building a high wall between them: a barrier built because of her unreasonable imagination, her stupid suspicions.

"The judge spoke of going over to see him," she lied desperately. Larry mustn't know she thought of him with fear and suspicion. She had no cause to think of him as anything but honest, upright, kind, humane.

And yet the picture of those cars knotted at the wet corner, the coupe flashing in and out ahead, the crumpled figures on the pavement was indelibly etched on her mind. Larry had been on the opposite side of town. The car she thought was his belonged to another. The man at the wheel with his hat and coat like Larry's was another. Larry knew that Abbott was at the office at quitting time because he had phoned in, and not because he was there himself instead of at High Hill as he said. The fender, loose and rattling, was caused by another car while parked at the club. It wasn't the result of a body being struck and flung aside.

Her lips as they kissed him good night were clinging. She must make up to him for those unspoken fears, those shameful suspicions, yet as she tossed on her bed during the graying hours of the Sunday morning her sleep was troubled.

SHE wakened to the commonsense, prosaic routine of a rest day. Sundays could always be filled somehow. There was her trousseau to think about, weekday purchases to put in the big cedar chest, linens to unfold and finger happily, a dusky red suit to knit upon.

It was afternoon before she found time to read the Sunday papers, and the front page story with pictures set her mind back in the frantic squirrel cage of suppositions again.

"Mother dies in hit-run accident—" The details were all available now. Mrs. Mary Gillespie, 38-year-old mother of four children, wife of a factory worker—dead. Her back broken by the racing car that knocked her down in an unprotected traffic zone. In the big, drear municipal hospital her 6-year-old daughter, Jean, fought desperately for her own life and suffered from a broken leg and fractured skull. Police were seeking the driver of the car that brought grief and heartbreak to the Gillespies. They were said to have received some valuable information from two witnesses, but as yet no arrests had been made.

Pat thrust the paper aside, tried to busy herself with the society section, the comics, the women's pages.

"Where are the boys, mama?" she asked at last. She wanted the security of the family about her. Wanted the boys' ready noise and humor.

"Oh, they still have this buying a car on their minds," Mrs. McGraw said, taking off her glasses and putting her paper down. "They should be home soon."

THE shrill ringing of the doorbell broke up the conversation.

"Probably Aunt Nora," Mrs. McGraw suggested cheerfully as Pat got up. "She said she might come over with Sheila."

Pat and her Cousin Sheila were nearly the same age and had grown up as close as sisters. It was Sheila who would be bridesmaid, and Sheila who heard all of Pat's plans and hopes and dreams.

"Out last night?" Sheila asked.

"Yes, Larry and I went to the Country Club."

Sheila's brown eyes widened. "The Country Club— Who was there? The nearest I ever came to that place was through the society pages. Tell me about it."

"Oh, it was all right." Suddenly Pat wished she hadn't mentioned last night. It was a bad memory in which Larry stood out with his animation in the midst of the crowd, and his petulance on the way home.

"It's funny," she said slowly, "we're never satisfied, are we?"

"Does that mean you and Larry have broken up?"

"No—of course not. Why we're almost ready to set the date. You'll be a bridesmaid one of these days." Yet she was glad when the boys arrived and Aunt Nora decided it was time to go home. Sheila knew her too well to be lulled by mere words.

(To Be Continued)

AND then Larry came. Pat relaxed and smiled naturally for the first time that day. She led him over to the old sofa. "Aren't you going to take off your coat and hat?" she asked curling her fingers around his.

He sat down holding his hat. "I can't. Got a business appointment."

Bill interrupted. "Gee, we wish you would stay. We want your advice on buying a second-hand car. Pat doesn't seem very enthusiastic, but you can change her mind. And, by the way, Pat, we need some more help," he stammered. "We were out with Artie this afternoon. Wanted to see how those new bearings worked and he stepped the old bus up. We were over on the boulevard where there isn't any traffic, but some sorehead cop gave Artie a ticket. We feel it's sorta our fault, so if you could fix the ticket—"

Larry laughed suddenly. "It shouldn't be difficult, should it Pat? That assistant prosecutor can fix it. He's a friend of yours. In fact I'd rather like to know just how much pull you do have."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

BY GERRY DICK
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 — She might be called the nation's No. 1 Housewife for the food problem of the family market basket is unknown to her. Yet she thinks of peas and carrots in terms of charts and graphs. Bread-making means millions of bushels of wheat to her. Breakfast brings her visions of fields of corn and oats.

She is quiet and retiring, yet she is senior economist of the United States bureau of home economics—Dr. Hazel K. Stiebling. Two similar problems claim most of her waking hours.

How much food is needed to give every American an adequate diet, is the first problem.

How can agriculture supply this need, is the second problem.

Rodney Dutcher is on vacation. Today's "Behind the Scenes in Washington" is written by his assistant, Gerry Dick.

These problems are geared together, she believed, and the solution of one means much toward the solution of the other. From her office in the building of the Department of Agriculture she began her research on the question of adequate diet.

DIET AT FOUR LEVELS

In a study of tremendous value to millions of housewives as well as to the whole field of nutrition study and home economics, she worked out charts and tables to show what foods could and should be purchased to get the greatest possible food value out of the weekly budget.

Today anyone who wants to know how to stretch the food dollar farthest need only write to the bureau of home economics for the series of four standard diets devised by Dr. Stiebling.

These "Diets at Four Levels of Nutritive Content and Cost" are:

1. The liberal diet.
2. The adequate diet at moderate cost.
3. The adequate diet at minimum cost.
4. The restricted diet for emergency use.

Relief officials throughout the country are using the Stiebling recommendations as to the last two diets. The diets are worked out for families of different sizes.

When Secretary Henry A. Wallace, who has declared that an adequate diet for every American must be the goal of any farm program, wants to know how much of each kind of food farmers should raise to give the nation an adequate diet, Dr. Stiebling tells him.

FOOD FACTS

Today, Dr. Stiebling is engaged in a great new experiment. A survey of consumer purchase and consumer income, carried on by the bureau of home economics in cooperation with the bureau of labor statistics in co-operation with the national resources committee has yielded an unprecedented mass of data on hundreds of thousands of families. Dr. Stiebling is comparing the food expenditures of these families with her diets and at last will know what proportion of families are getting them, or are able to get them.

ALL IN THE CARDS

In spite of the collapse of the President's "purge," there will still be quite a few new faces in the congressional set this winter.

Wives of those fortunates who are the "people's choice" probably will play their part in the life of the capital in much the same manner as all congressmen's wives.

The congressman's wife leaves cards at the White House, on down the line, unendingly, until at night she dreams of a succession of cards, like the accordion folders on picture postcards.

The wife of the senator from the state her husband represents asks her to an "at home." It is a smaller gathering. She gets to meet people, observe them. And they appraise her, and feels cowdy. She must give more attention to her frocks, her gloves, her hair-do.

Washington rents are high. To have the right background she must pay $150 to $200 for a four or five-room flat with a good address. Her own wardrobe, adequate for her needs at home, with morning frocks, some simple little afternoon things, for her bridge and tea and literary club teas, and one good evening dress a season simply won't do. They look shabby. And there's always the need to put away something for the next campaign, if they hope to come back. And they do, they most certainly do, for it's very, very glamorous.

The big annual banquet of the Old Timers of Southern Idaho club, better known as the "79ers" was held at the Rogerson hotel lobby today. A dance is planned for tonight and an auto trip around the city this afternoon. Banners float in the streets today in spite of the rain.

John F. Hansen, Twin Falls, is president; Mrs. Annie Bridges, Albion, secretary-treasurer; Lawrence Hansen, treasurer, and "Dad" Walgamott, historian. Speaking at the meeting, Mr. Walgamott said in part:

"The first range cattle brought into the Snake river valley in southern Idaho was a herd of some 300 or 400 Texas cattle, driven by A. B. Norton and M. O. Robinson in 1869. These cattle were turned loose on Rock creek and a home ranch established on the Cottonwood a few miles south of the present city of Twin Falls. A year later, A. J. Hafrel, a wealthy Visalia man, conceived the idea of bringing a band of cattle into the Goose creek mountains for summer, and driving them south to the lowlands of Nevada for winter."

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A bursa is a little sac containing fluid which acts as a protector and lubricator at portions of the body where there is likely to be repeated irritation and pressure. When a bursa is too much pressed upon or irritated, there is likely to be inflammation, with increased fluid and swelling.

The condition commonly called a bunion is one of the most frequent forms of bursitis. It results from a rubbing on the head of a bone of the big toe, caused by the wearing of short, narrow, high-heeled shoes. First the skin over the top of this bone gets red, then there is thickening of the skin with the formation of a callus. Fluid forms in the sac under the skin, and as this fluid increases there is swelling.

The constant wearing of tight shoes will produce such thickening of the skin and swelling of the wall of the bursa that gradually, the whole foot is deformed by the development of a chronic bursitis or a big bunion.

There are other forms of bursitis which are associated with certain occupations. Housemaid's knee is a form of bursitis which results from chronic pressure on the knee-cap associated with kneeling on the floor. Miner's elbow is a similar condition, affecting the elbows of miners.

Actually these little sacs are present in so many different parts of the body that inflammations and swellings may occur from them in all sorts of locations. Golfers frequently get them over the shoulders in back.

In the old days such swellings were sometimes treated by attempting to bang them with a book or by pressing on them with the thumb.

That kind of rough and ready treatment occasionally got a good result, but in many other instances brought about secondary harm that was worse than the bursa.

When a bursa becomes infected, it is a surgical condition demanding prompt treatment by the doctor. Sometimes, also, a bursa is secondarily affected by a disease like gout or arthritis. Sometimes the bursa becomes filled with chalky deposits so that there is a permanent interference with motion.

If the bursa is seen in an early stage, the doctor will usually put you on a splint or a bandage and restrict the motion so as to prevent irritation and increase of the swelling.

Sometimes the doctor puts a needle into the bursa and draws out the excess fluid. In the very worst cases, he is likely to do a surgical operation to remove the bursa entirely.

Garden Provides Alluring Background for B.P.W. Tea

Charming among the garden teas which have continued in popularity due to the ideal autumn weather, was the one arranged yesterday afternoon by the Business and Professional Women's club, and attended by 80 guests at the home of Mrs. H. W. Clouchek, Fifth avenue east. Among the guests were feminine members of the Twin Falls school system, and a number of local business and professional women who are at present unaffiliated with the host club.

Tea was served in the dining room, and guests were escorted to the garden, where numerous flower-centered tables were grouped on the flagstone terrace near the lava-rock fireplace and quaint well, attractive features of the garden.

Flowers in Profusion

Interestingly arranged in a crystal bowl, were a variety of roses from the garden of Miss Cora McCoy. Throughout the rooms were baskets of late autumn blooms in riotous hues, gladioli, asters and roses predominating.

Supplementing the flowers growing in the garden were jars of autumn blooms placed on the fireplace ledge, and bouquets on the quartet tables.

C. OF C. TO PICK NOMINATING UNIT

Selection of a nominating committee to pick the nominees for director posts in the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will be made at tonight's annual meeting, President J. A. Cederquist said this afternoon.

The session is a dinner meeting opening at 7 p. m. at the Park hotel. Cederquist said that it is an open session, with all businessmen invited whether or not they are chamber members.

Change By-Laws

Prior to selection of a nominating committee—a new procedure in C. of C. selection of candidates—the meeting will take action to change the by-laws in order to permit the move. Under the new plan, the chamber would name its nominees by the same plan as the Junior Chamber, whose nominating committee picks from the general membership. Those choices then are voted upon by the members at large.

The step will permit a wider representation of businessmen on the board of directors," Cederquist said.

Will Introduce Secretary

Eugene E. Clark, new secretary, will be introduced at the meeting.

Mapping of proposed chamber projects for the coming year will also be carried out, and the apparent "stymie" in bridge purchase negotiations will probably come in for vigorous discussion.

U. OF I. TOTALS GO ABOVE 193

MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (Special)—Fourteen more students had registered and paid fees at the University of Idaho when the bursar's office closed Friday afternoon, Sept. 23, than at the corresponding time a year ago, reports President Harry Chase Upham.

Total enrollment at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon had climbed to 2,701. The corresponding figure for last year was 2,587, or 14 less. Both counts represent enrollment at the end of the fifth day of classes.

Looking over the daily enrollment figures, President Dale discovered a strange coincidence worthy of "Believe It or Not." Enrollment at 4:50 p. m. the closing hour, the fourth day a year ago was 2,678. It stood at exactly the same figure at 4:50 p. m., at the end of the fourth day this year.

PENNANT HOPES LOST FOR REDS AND GIANTS

Four Teams Hold Keys to National Gridiron Championship

Cubs and Pirates To Open Series For National Flag

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The New York Giants today officially ended their two-year reign as National league champions. They are out of the pennant race and so are the Cincinnati Reds, who at one time had hoped to bridge the gap from the last to first in one season.

But there still is a battle in the National league, with the Chicago Cubs, riding the crest of a six-game winning streak, hot on the trail of the Pirates. Pittsburgh has a two-game lead but moves into Chicago tomorrow for a three-game series which probably will settle the issue. Each contender has seven games left—the Pirates playing three with the Cubs and four with the Reds and the Cubs playing four with the Cardinals in addition to the Pittsburgh series.

The Pirates eliminated the Reds yesterday with a 5-3 triumph. Red Lucas, 36-year-old pitcher, was the hero of the Pirates' victory, winning his 14th consecutive game over his former teammates since he left them five years ago. The Reds started an uprising in the ninth and the tiring Lucas had to have help from Bill Swift. Lee Handley led the Pirates' attack on Paul Derringer, getting three hits in three times at bat. Lloyd Vaughan hit a homer and Al Todd a triple.

Cubs Twin Cardinals

With Clay Bryant pitching his 21st victory with only two days rest, the Cubs captured their 16th game in the last 19 played by trimming the Cardinals, 7-2. Six walks and two Cardinal errors combined with eight hits enabled the Cubs to put on two big scoring innings for all their runs.

The Boston Bees terminated the Giants' championship reign by defeating them twice, 5-3 in 11 innings and 4-2. Bob Seeds lost a fly ball in the sun which permitted the Bees to win the first game. Rabbit Warstler's single in the eighth won the nightcap.

Trade Games

Brooklyn and Philadelphia traded games by 5-1 scores. Dolf Camilli's third homer with a mate on base featured a five-run rally which gave the Dodgers the opener. Claude Passeau held the Phils to a seven-inning victory in the nightcap, allowing only four hits.

The Yankees again took it on the chin, losing a 10-inning game to the Red Sox, 9-8. Jack Wilson's hitless wild pitching for five innings featured the Red Sox triumph. The second game ended in a 2-2 tie after the six innings because of darkness.

Hank Greenberg was able to hit only a double as Detroit won from Cleveland, 7-5. Boots Poffenberger won his second game since he was recalled from Toledo.

Slavin To Be Released

After the St. Louis Browns had won a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 7-3 and 8-4, President Donald Barnes announced that Bobby Slavin would not be retained as manager of the Browns next season. Buck Newsom won his 19th game in the opened and Emil Bildilli, Springfield, (Ill.) rookie, won his first major league game in the nightcap, each pitcher allowing 11 hits.

Nick Mitchell's single gave the Athletics a 4-3 victory in 11 innings over Washington but the Senators came back with a four-run rally in the seventh to take the nightcap, 8-4, in seven innings.

Browns Oust Gabby Street

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—St. Louis Browns' officials thumbed through baseball's "Who's Who" today searching for a new manager to replace Charles E. (Gabby) Street.

Admitting that the "Old Sarge" had served the club faithfully and had done as well as anyone else could have with the material at hand, General Manager Donald L. Barnes issued a statement that the Browns would have a new pilot in 1939.

News of Gabby's forthcoming dismissal followed by two weeks the discharge of Frankie Frisch as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and baseball followers immediately began speculating as to whether Frisch might get the Browns' vacancy.

Although Street had only a one-year contract, news of his dismissal came as a surprise. With virtually no player improvement, he raised the club a notch — from eighth to seventh—in the standings this year, and he was believed safe for an solid for at least one more term.

Vandals Look To Husky Tilt Saturday

MOSCOW, Sept. 26 (Special) — Coach Ted Bank's University of Idaho Vandals had returned to their studies today following a victorious opening day assault on the 1938 gridiron wars.

The Vandals turned back the Oregon State club 13-0 at Corvallis Saturday, and now look forward to another coast conference engagement next Saturday—with a far more powerful foe — University of Washington. The Huskies were beaten Saturday at Minneapolis by the University of Minnesota, 15-0, but Washington will be a big favorite and the Vandals will be underdogs when the teams clash.

The Vandals turned in a fine performance in winning their opening tilt. After playing a scoreless first half, the Idaho players turned on the heat in the third and four quarters to push across a pair of touchdowns.

Gaining the ball on their own 37-yard line in the third period, they moved into mid-field on a 13-yard plunge by their workhorse fullback, George Chrape.

Score In Fourth

The Vandals got their other touchdown in the fourth period after Harold Rolfe had returned an Oregon State punt to the Beavers' 31-yard mark. Harold Durham and Paul Ryan, both substitutes shoved on to the Beaver six-yard line and Howard crashed in on another wide left-end reverse.

Idaho made 15 first downs to Oregon State's seven, completed five out of 11 passes, gaining 203 yards on rushing and 89 on passes compared with the Beavers' gross of 137 yards.

Pin Topplers Open Season

Twin Falls pin topplers get down to earnest tonight as the official 1938-39 season gets under way at Stone's Bowling alleys.

In the Commercial league, Idaho Power takes on the veteran Dell's quintet on alleys one and two, and in the City league Twin Falls Flour Mills meets Brookfield on alleys three and four.

Schedules call for four nights of play each week in the Commercial loop and five nights of play each week in the City league. Eight teams are participating in the former organization and 10 in the latter.

A week-to-week schedule of games will be found daily in the Idaho Evening Times.

Motorists and other highway users in the United States paid an estimated $980,000,000—a record high—in gasoline taxes during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938. This is an increase of more than 100 per cent since 1925.

Wide Open Scramble Looms for Pacific Conference Crown

By JAMES A. SULLIVAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The Pacific Coast conference football race was wide open today as the eight teams prepared for the second week of a season which started disastrously for four of them.

While experts were hastily revising their prediction as a result of opening day results, California, the 1937 champion, and U. C. L. A. stood out most prominently, with University of Oregon a possible dark horse.

Stanford has yet to receive its first test, as the Indians waited a week to open this Saturday against Santa Clara, Sugar Bowl champion.

The other four teams failed to measure up to pre-season expectations. Washington and U. S. C., both by intersectional foes in the openers, should find their strides against easier opposition this week, Oregon State and Washington State, however, drew far superior foes for Saturday's play.

The air went out of U. S. C.'s bubble with the 19-7 defeat by Alabama from the southern conference. It wasn't the defeat so much as the failure of Howard Jones' eleven to show strength that disappointed those looking for the best Trojan team in a decade. Against Oregon State Saturday, the Trojans should look better. Their opponents took it on the chin, 13-0, from an up-and-coming Idaho Vandal eleven Saturday.

Washington, beaten 15-0 by Minnesota at Minneapolis, drew Idaho as its next opponent. The Huskies failed to click against the mid-western team, with fumbles, intercepted passes and backfield confusion contributing to a defeat that was expected but not by the margin that Minnesota held at the end.

California, 12-7 victor in the last two minutes over a St. Mary's team that held the Bears until it tired, went on to Pullman to meet Washington State, which lost 19-2 to the surprising Oregon team of Coach Tex Oliver. California showed some of last year's drive but not the fight defense the 1937 champions presented.

Oregon, whose flashing attack against Washington State showed a team that is likely to be dangerous, faced a tougher foe in U. C. L. A., the eleven that trimmed Iowa of the Big Ten, 27-3, last Friday night. Playing on its home field at Eugene, Oregon was an even bet against the Bruins.

One of the week-end's best games brings together U. S. C., winner of two games by wide margins so far, and Montana, conqueror 27-0 of Cheney in its getaway, at San Francisco Friday night.

Mac Believes Amateur Tennis Officials Should Urge Don Budge to Turn Pro

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — Your average tennis official (and when you say "average" you include them all, because they are all that) can't see past his nose. This is probably due to the fact that he carries his nose very high, not unlike that of a bird dog's tail when pointing a covey.

If the tennis officials could see past their noses (or is "nose" the plural?) they would not be scurrying around these days in an effort to keep Donald Budge from turning professional. And that's just what they are doing. I'll bet you that Donald has been promised everything from a cabin in the pines to a ticket-a-taxiet if he will only agree not to desert the amateur ranks and cast his lot with Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry, those dastards who play for money.

If the amateur tennis fathers could see past their noses they would be urging John Donald Budge to quit the amateur group —and in a hurry. He is slowly but surely killing what small interest there is in amateur tennis. He is killing it because he is too good.

It won't be long before customers will quit patronizing the tournament Budge is in. After all, sports is based on competition and when Budge plays his amateur rivals competition doesn't exist. There isn't an amateur living, and that goes for all the players in all the world, who can take a set from him if he doesn't want them to. Gene Mako took a set from him at Forest Hills Saturday, that's true, but only because they are closer than Scotch and soda, Damon and Pythias, Castor and Pollux, gin and tonic, Swiss and rye, love and motco and rice and gravy. Had he chosen to, Budge could have turned back Mako with the loss of not more than six games.

The fact that Mako was his opponent in the final round is the tip-off on the state of affairs in amateur tennis. Mako is a nice boy, with a sweet smile and a charming manner, but he isn't a great tennis player. In fact, he is scarcely a good one. Yet, so poor is the field, Mako winds up in the final.

Budge should turn professional. Such a move would leave the amateur championship wide open, and a red hot rivalry between mediocre players is more to be desired than a continual "walk-over" of a great one. I would hate to be responsible for the sale to tickets if he stays amateur and goes into the final round again next year. I don't know how many it takes to make a quorum, but that many won't be there.

How would Budge fare as a professional? Now that is an interesting question. To look at him lick the socks off the amateurs one would say he had no weakness. But weaknesses come into view only under pressure, and Budge hasn't had any pressure since Baron von Cramm was made (against his will) an instructor in the Nazi concentration camp. Vines might reveal a Budge weakness. Vines is a hard hitter. A harder hitter than Budge. I am not sure that Budge's forehand would look so good when subjected to a steady flow of forcing shots. And Vines turns on the heat from the start and keeps it on. So does Perry.

But don't be surprised if Budge doesn't turn professional. Our Donald, despite his red hair, lean face and one million freckles, is social around the fringes. He likes the smart clubs, the hour, and that sort of thing. The thought of being separated from such surroundings, and having to play in barns and armories and backyards, repels him. Even for $100,000.

But let's not criticize him. He's only 21. And when one is 21 so many unimportant things are important.

Sacs and Seals Enter Finals In Play-Offs

By United Press

History was repeated in the Pacific Coast league today as the pennant-winning Los Angeles Angels and the runner-up Seattle Rainiers were dropped out of the post-season play-off series, leaving the finals to the Sacramento Solons, who finished third in regular season play and the San Francisco Seals, who just got into the play-offs by a half-game hold on fourth place.

Last year Sacramento finished first in the regular season only to lose out in the semi-finals of the play-offs.

Sacramento put Los Angeles out of the $10,000 series yesterday by splitting a double-header with the Angels.

After Los Angeles had won the opener, 3-2, on Fay Thomas' tight hurling, Sacramento scored its fourth and deciding victory in the wind-up, 10-1. One wild inning, in which the Solons scored nine runs, settled the issue.

San Francisco disposed of Seattle, four games to one, by defeating the Rainiers twice yesterday.

Sam Gibson and Lou Koupal produced the wins, 5-4 and 6-0. In the opener Freddie Hutchinson, Seattle Star, was the loser.

Eagles Trounce Giants in Pro Grid Tilt

By United Press

Philadelphia's Eagles, next to the weakest in the National Football league last year, were judged the most improved team in the circuit today following their early-season showing of scoring strength. They already have won as many games as they did all last year.

The Eagles capitalized on two fumbles to subdue the New York Giants 14-10 yesterday for their second victory in three starts. The only one they lost was a 26-23 decision to the Red Skins in their opening game and they followed this with a 27-7 triumph over Pittsburgh.

A 92-yard touchdown run by Joe Carter, ex-Southern Methodist end who recovered Kink Richard's fumble in the closing minutes of the final quarter, gave the Eagles their deciding margin.

The Rodskins put on a five-touchdown parade to hand Cleveland's Rams their third straight defeat, 37-13. Freshman Andy Farkas scored three touchdowns.

The Green Bay Packers battered the Chicago Cardinals, 28-7, for their second straight victory of the year. Cecil Isbell, passing, kicking, running halfback from Purdue, gave the great exhibition although he failed to score. He pitched bullet passes to Don Hutson time and again in working the ball into scoring position.

Marathon Golfer Near Half-Way Mark for $100,000

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—J. Smith Ferebee, transcontinental marathon golfer, found the Blue Hills course here "the toughest so far," he said today after 18 holes of play.

Ferebee was beginning to show the strain of yesterday's play, in which he shot 183 holes in Hollywood, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz. He made the opening round here in 91. His elapsed time for the round was one hour and 25 minutes, about 10 minutes slower than his play on the opening day.

The 31-year-old sportsman has wagers totaling more than $100,000 that he can play 500 holes in eight cities within four days. Most of the bets are with Fred Turock, Chicago, who is accompanying him on the cross-country airplane jaunt.

Tomorrow Ferebee will play in Milwaukee and Chicago and Mrs. Bingham will judge the toy breeds in the contest. Henry Oppenheimer, also of Portland, will judge other breeds.

Retriever trials, in which Chesapeake, Labradors, and Irish Spaniels are eligible, will be judged by Drexel R. Brown of Portland and Jack Tinney of Buhl. The trials will include a novice stake, open to any dogs that have never won open stakes; an amateur handler's stake, open to retrievers of any age handled by a non-professional; and an all age retriever stake. In the amateur handler's stake, a special trophy will be awarded the best Idaho owned dog.

During both days at Sun Valley, retriever trials will be staged in the forenoon, bench shows in the afternoon. The two-day show will close with a banquet at the Challenger Inn at which time awarding of the almost 200 prizes and ribbons will take place.

Prominent in the retriever contests will be the fine Labrador and Spaniels owned by the Harriman Brothers, W. A. and Roland, of New York.

Oklahoma City Wins U. S. Amateur Baseball Crown

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Oklahoma City won the national amateur baseball championship with a 12-6 victory over Battle Creek in the final of the national tournament yesterday. A crowd of 8,000 watched the midwesterners clinch the title when they hammered three pitchers for 11 runs in the first inning.

Entry Blanks Mailed For Field Trials

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Sept. 26 (Special) — Entry blanks for the elaborate fourth annual fall meet of the Idaho State Field Trial association, which includes all breed bench dog show at Sun Valley, October 10 and 11, together with both field and water retriever trials; and pointer and setter field trials at Gooding, October 12, 13 and 14, have been mailed to members of dog associations throughout the western states and to interested dog fanciers in the east.

The bench show and retriever trials at Sun Valley are fully licensed by the American Kennel club, which means that points won here count toward national grand championships.

Officials believe that at least 300 dogs of more than 40 breeds will be exhibited at the bench show, facilities for which are being furnished by the management of Sun Valley. Many will come from Portland and other coast cities, although early indications are that several easterners will enter show dogs.

Superintendent of the show will be George M. Bingham of Portland, and

Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Alabama, California Called 'Clubs to Watch'

By LESLIE AVERY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Pittsburgh, Alabama, Minnesota and California, four points on the collegiate compass where the accent is on football, formed the vanguard today of grid teams marked "to watch" for the mythical national title.

Pittsburgh in the east, Alabama in the south, Minnesota in the middle west and California on the Pacific coast, dominant teams of the 1937 pigskin picture, asserted their might again in Saturday's curtain-raisers.

Pitt, generally rated the nation's top team despite a scoreless tie with Fordham last year, crushed a highly touted West Virginia eleven, 19-0. The Panthers' "dream backfield" of Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano and Chickerneo, piled up 408 yards of running plays while a stout forward wall held the Mountaineers' yardage to 72.

Huskies Lose 15-0

Minnesota's Gophers, defending Big Ten champions, beat Washington, one of the strong Pacific coast teams. Forgetting about passes, Bernie Bierman's boys kept their feet on the ground in scoring 15-0 over the Huskies.

If it hadn't been for a fumbled punt on the half-yard line, southern California never would have scored against Alabama in the other big intersectional tilt. Beaten by California in the Rose Bowl last year, Alabama's crimson tide whipped the Trojans 19-7 before the day's biggest crowd, 65,000, at Los Angeles.

California's Golden Bears scored 12-7 over a strong St. Mary's team, with a gallant last period rally. A poor punt by Capt. Jerry Dowd set the stage for the winning touchdown in the final minute of play.

L. S. U. Upset Victim

Biggest surprises were the setbacks of Louisiana State, Tulane, Maryland, Illinois and Oregon State. Sugar Bowl representative for two years and rated as one of the strongest clubs in the southeastern conference, L. S. U. was upset 20-7 by Mississippi. Tulane took a 13-10 whacking from Clemson, Maryland fell before Richmond, 19-6, Illinois dropped a 6-0 decision to Ohio university and Oregon State was surprised 13-0 by Idaho.

Semi-Finals of Snake Golf Meet Reached

Some tight matches that took extra holes to decide, and some others that were ended on the 19th hole featured the second round of play in the Snake Valley Amateur golf tournament at the Twin Falls Country club yesterday afternoon.

Winning players in both brackets moved into the semi-finals, which must be completed by Sunday evening, Oct. 2, according to Fred Stone, manager of the tourney.

In the championship flight Jimmie Sinclair edged Mel Cosgriff in a hot battle, 2 and 1; Jimmie Winterholer turned back Earl Frasier, 4 and 3; Fred Stone drubbed Rupert Williamson, 7 and 5, and Val Toolson won over D. Hamilton, 8 and 6.

In the first flight, Sproute Leichliter moved out Jerry Fisher one up on the 19th hole; Earl Davidson eliminated Bill McRoberts, 6 and 4; G. Larson edged E. Wall one up on the 19th; and Pat Wallace put out Grat Ralf, 6 and 5.

Pairings in the semi-finals pit the two top Twin Falls golfers against each other in one bracket of the championship flight when Jimmie Sinclair and Jimmie Winterholer tangle. The odds are about 50-50. In the lower bracket of the same flight, Fred Stone was favored to win over the youthful Val Toolson.

In the first flight, Sproute Leichliter takes on Earl Davidson and G. Larson meets Pat Wallace.

GAVEL TRANSFER SLATED AS NO. 9

When Excelsior Grange presents the Pomona gavel to the Buhl Grange Tuesday evening the ceremony will be the ninth in the Pomona contest series, E. L. Matz, head of the county-wide farm group, said this afternoon.

Excelsior's members will visit Buhl Grange at the Buhl city hall Tuesday evening for the gavel transfer. J. P. Paterson, Excelsior master, will present the gavel to Elmer Phillips, Buhl master. The visitors will then present the necessary program to qualify under the contest.

After Tuesday's event only four more Granges will remain to receive the gavel. They are Deep Creek, Northview, Lucerne and Pleasant Valley. Mets said that Pomona officials hope to finish the contest by the first of the year so that the new Pomona leaders, who will be elected in November, can start off with another project.

Garfield Mine Constructs Mill

BELLEVUE, Sept. 26 (Special)—A crew of 14 men has completed a mill on the property of the Garfield lead-silver mine and is ready to handle the rich ores that have been blocked out on the claims, the company holds near here.

Arrangements have been made to mill the ore at the mine site and truck concentrates to the railroad at Bellevue for reshipment to smelters.

The ore blocked out is rich in character and large in quantity. The company has installed machinery and equipment to handle ores by the flotation process.

STOCKS CRASH IN LONDON MARKETS

LONDON, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Stocks and bonds crashed on the London exchange today in the most spectacular session since the World war.

Hundreds of millions of dollars in market valuation were wiped out as traders sought to hedge their holdings under the threat of a European wide war.

The British pound sterling, bulwark of old world currencies, fell to the lowest level in 3½ years. It fell to $4.75¾, the lowest sterling quotation since March, 21, 1935.

United States Steel common stock led the retreat in trans-Atlantic issues. It sold at an American equivalent of $51½ against its previous New York close of $54½.

JUDGES PICK WRONG SEX

HOLLISTER, Calif. (U.P.)—Judges at a Hollister "Kiddies Parade" covered up their embarrassment as best they could after selecting the best dressed cowgirl from the juvenile contestants. The winner proved to be Gene Woolon, very much a boy.

BLOOMINGDALE, N. Y. (U.P.) — Nine four-leaf clovers and two five-leaf clovers were found in a clump of grass by Frederick C. Lawrence, seven-year-old son of a Bloomingdale clergyman. The clovers were growing in front of the Lawrence residence here.

WAR NEWS LIFTS PRICE OF WHEAT

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (UP)—Wheat prices continued to work higher on the Chicago board of trade today as war news dominated a nervous market.

At the close wheat was up 1½c to 1½c, corn up ⅝c to 1c, and oats ⅜c to ⅞c higher.

Late prices firmed in sympathy with wheat.

200 SPARROWS KILLED

RED WING, Minn. (U.P.) — Ole Hingen, caretaker at Levee park here, found 200 English sparrows dead beneath a tree this morning after a storm. Examination failed to reveal a visible cause of death. Despite the fact that the feathers of the dead birds were intact, park officials believed a lightning bolt killed the birds as they slept in the tree.

STOCKS DECLINE FOR FOURTH DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (UP)—Stocks lost 1 to more than 2 points today in the fourth successive session of decline.

Closing prices were well above the lows of the day but likewise well below the best levels. The latter were made a few minutes before the close on heavy short covering as the latter placating sections of the lighter speech were available. In the last few minutes of trading, the market received from the hights.

The market opened fairly active and 300,000 shares were traded in the first hour. Opening price range was 1 or more shares in Chrysler, which sold at 64⅞; off 2⅞, U. S. Steel opened 1,000 shares; at 52⅞, off 2⅛; General Motors 7,500 shares at 40⅞, off 2⅛, and New York Central 2,900 shares at 13⅞, off 1⅛. Thereafter the market fluctuated narrowly.

Some short covering was noted in advance of the Hitler speech which began 40 minutes before closing time on the exchange floor. At that part of the speech prices showed a firm tendency with trading quiet.

The New York market behaved much better than the London stock exchange where prices were hammered down more severely than they were just before the exchange was closed on Sunday. 30, 1938. British government bonds were hard hit.

The New York bond market suffered wide breaks, especially the foreign section. No market existed for Czechoslovakia. Italian issues had losses ranging to 15 points.

U. S. ENVOYS GET ROOSEVELT NOTE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (UP) — Secretary of State Hull said today President Roosevelt's appeal to two European peace was sent to American envoys at Warsaw and Budapest for the information of Poland and Hungary.

Hull said that the President's message was not transmitted to American diplomats stationed in European countries other than those already mentioned.

Difficulty Leaving

Minister Wilbur J. Carr at Prague, the department announced, reported that American citizens were experiencing difficulty in leaving Czechoslovakia.

The German frontier was closed, he advised the department. Trains were running only to the frontier, and according to reports received in Prague there were no German officials or trains on the German border.

Turned Back

Yesterday morning, 80 Americans with German visas, tickets to Paris, and steamship tickets were unable to cross the border at Eger—a focal point of danger—and returned to Prague. The department announced that the Berlin embassy and consulate were seeking to arrange passage through Germany.

Trains to the Hungarian and Polish frontiers still were in operation, Carr advised, but were not proceeding across the frontiers.

BRITAIN, FRANCE LAUD ROOSEVELT

LONDON, Sept. 26 (UP)—President Roosevelt's plea for peace in Europe today met with prompt recognition by the English and French governments, which cabled messages of "appreciation" to the President.

"His majesty's government hails with gratitude the weighty message of the President of the United States addressed to them and to certain other governments," British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said.

"England has done and is doing its very utmost to secure peaceful solution of the present difficulties and they will relax no efforts so long as there remains any prospects of achieving that object. The president's words can but encourage all those who sincerely desire to cooperate in this endeavor."

Edouard Daladier, premier of France, cabled Mr. Roosevelt, "it is of special value to me that under your high moral authority, the devotion of the entire American nation to the principles which have been recognized and publicly acknowledged by all parties to the Kellogg pact is now solemnly affirmed."

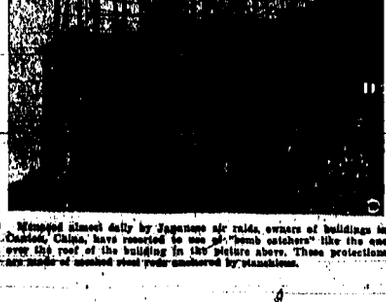
Negro Released On Theft Charge

JEROME, Sept. 26 (Special) — Bob Reed, 52, Negro, was released by Probate Judge Heber N. Folkman on a charge of robbery in probate court this morning when Nathaniel Reed, also a Negro, could not appear as witness, failed to appear against him.

Reed, a transient, was apprehended here last week after he is alleged to have assaulted Orth on the Bill Becker place, taking his money.

Reed was ordered to leave the state. According to information received at the sheriff's office, Reed has been a criminal since 1920, and fingerprints received from Salt Lake City show he had been entered in Washington state penitentiary and McNeil island prison for offenses committed in earlier years.

Clever Chinese 'Catch' Bombs



Menaced almost daily by Japanese air raids, owners of buildings in Canton, China, have resorted to use of "bomb catchers" like the one over the roof of the building in the picture above. These protections are made of meshed steel rods anchored by manchiens.

LA VONDE FREED; JOHNSTON HELD

which set the alleged payment out in the exact amount.

"What does this show but that La Vonde knew about the whole affair before his arrest?" Babcock asked the court. One of the two record books, showed a payment having been made to the Decker Jewelry firm and the other book did not show this payment, according to testimony. The cash register tape for the corresponding period did not show the payment of the $763.30 in cash ever having been made. The state, court observers said, was contending that a new set of books had been made up in order to show that a payment had been made to Olson.

Block, during the morning session today, asked Gillette whether LaVonde was right or left handed. The defense objected but the judge permitted Gillette to answer by telling which hand LaVonde wrote with. Gillette said LaVonde wrote with his left hand and Johnston with his right.

Left-Handed

"From the examination of Olson's wound," Babcock said to the judge during his argument against the release, "there is no doubt in my mind but that the wound was inflicted by a left-handed man."

This statement caused Dunn to fling the prosecutor when Dunn continued his argument after Babcock had finished.

The bullet which was taken from Olson's neck and the exploded .25 automatic cartridge which was found under the front seat of this car, were brought into court for the first time as Gillette, who had previously testified for the prosecution, was recalled as a witness for the defense.

E. V. Larson, one of two defense attorneys for Johnston, asked that these two items be produced in court and the judge ordered Gillette to bring them in. The court recessed while the chief of police secured the two articles. They were then admitted as evidence, after identification by Gillette, and were marked defense exhibits number one and two respectively.

Five Witnesses

Five witnesses were called by the prosecution this morning. They were Dan J. Cavanagh, local contractor and state representative; Max Williams, Salt Lake City, brother-in-law of the dead man and also an employe of the Decker Jewelry company of Salt Lake City; Wayne Decker, head of the jewelry company, also from Salt Lake City; Howard Gillette, chief of police; Hugh G. Hutchinson, employe of the Union Pacific railroad company, a former Twin Falls resident who now lives in Pocatello.

Cavanagh testified that he, Johnston and LaVonde were together when the jewelry shop was looted up to the night of May 21. Gillette had testified that LaVonde told him nobody was present but he and Johnston.

Identified Body

Williams told how he identified Olson's body and also identified the cache of rings which police found in the basement as the property of the Decker Jewelry company and those carried by Olson. He also identified the top of a bag which police said was found in the basement, and the top of the bag in which Olson carried the jewels.

Further identification of the bag top was established by Mr. Decker who said it was the top of Olson's bag which he had with him and which Johnston and LaVonde told Gillette that Olson took with him the last time they saw him alive.

Mr. Hutchinson testified that on May 18 Johnston had approached him for a loan of $750 which he refused to make, telling Johnston he "didn't have the money." The witness said that Johnston told him he would be "closed up" unless he got the money. The state, observers said, was contending to prove that Johnston didn't have the money to pay Olson three days before Olson is believed to have been murdered and the money payment is said to have been made.

Both Smile

As Dunn ended his appeal for the release of LaVonde and the judge moved his discharge, both the attorney and LaVonde smiled broadly. LaVonde and Dunn, after being warmly congratulated by many persons, left the court.

LaVonde joined Johnston, who also looked cheerful, and went to the elevator which took them back to their jail cells, but LaVonde went only to collect his personal belongings. The order granting his release became effective as soon as it was made by Judge Kinney.

E. L. Rayborn, Johnston's other attorney, was not at the hearing this morning with the exception of a few minutes at a time. He was defending another case in district court.

5 Times Faster

Automatic cartridge ejection and a firing speed five times faster than the rifles now used are features of the U. S. army's new 30-caliber rifle, being shown here by E. Johnson, ordnance department officer in the Chicago office of the war department. The gun holds eight cartridges, and gas from the explosion ejects the cartridges, eliminating the hand-operated bolt action of the old rifles.

PARK'S VISITORS SECOND HIGHEST

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. — (Special) — Yellowstone national park travel surged past the 1929 all-season total Sept. 5 to establish itself as the second best year in park history, Supt. Edmund B. Rogers said today.

The Sept. 5 total read 434,432 as compared with the 432,750 final figure for 1936 which was in that year an all-time record. The 1938 season is still 7.3 per cent behind 1937, however, and stands no chance of passing that year, the superintendent said.

The gate continues open until Oct. 1, but by that time it is estimated between 450,000 and 460,000 persons will have entered the park gates, a total considered surprising in view of pre-season predictions.

Rail travel, with a 14 per cent drop, showed the greatest decline on the 1938 records, only 16,217 persons having come to park gates by train. The figure is also below the 1936 total for the same date. Motorcycle and park outfits were the only two classifications running ahead of 1937.

With all gates scheduled to remain open until snow blocks highways, officials are expecting travel to hold up well during September.

INDIAN CHIEF LYRIC TENOR

BOISE (UP)—Chief Kintus Tecumsah, youthful head of the Wenatchee Indians, is declared to be the only Indian lyric tenor in the United States. He sings at church services here, and also makes religious addresses.

Between 1898 and 1912, "Big Bear," a giant grizzly, killed more than 1,200 cattle. Several hunters were paid to spend their entire time trailing this one animal.

4-H SQUAD WILL GO TO PORTLAND

Buhl's 4-H champion livestock team will represent Twin Falls county next week at the Pacific International Livestock exposition in Portland, and three youthful members of the squad "practiced up" today for their attempt to win northwest honors.

The team, under Forrest Goff, leader, won the county championship at the annual county fair. Members are Cornell Lehman, Linton Measley and Kenneth Malone. The group "practiced" this afternoon with assistance of County Agent Harvey S. Hale and Earl Stansell, district club leader.

The Buhl youths, Mr. Goff and Mr. Hale will leave next Saturday, Oct. 1, for Portland. The 4-H judging event will be held Monday at the huge 11-acre livestock grounds. More than 100 teams from all northwest states will be opposing Buhl.

The trip is the team's prize for winning county honors, Mr. Hale said. The boys will stay at Camp Plummer, special quarters arranged by the exposition committee. They will return about the middle of the week.

Although each county is entitled to send its winner to Portland, most south central counties have not usually been represented. It was understood here that Gooding county may send its judging champions.

WORK STARTS ON REBUILDING EAST

BOSTON, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins conferred today with New England governors on the task of rehabilitating 100,000 made homeless by last week's hurricane, tidal waves and floods, and, repairing nearly 4 half billion dollars in property damage.

The death toll of New England's worst disaster neared 650.

Hopkins arrived last night after an airplane and automobile survey of the devastated area.

"It is incredible," he said. "What I have seen convinces me that the heartbreaking stories of death and destruction that brought me hurrying from the coast told but a fraction of the truth.

"There is an emergency of major importance, one that calls for the united efforts of local, state and national governments. These roads and towns must be cleared, repaired, living conditions again brought back to normal."

Already more than 200,000 WPA guardsmen, police, firemen and volunteerae were clearing away the wreckage. As the broken wood and steel was trucked away, bodies were uncovered. Crippled communication lines still delay reports, but the latest compilation by United Press showed the following deaths by states: Rhode Island, 286; Massachusetts, 181; Connecticut, 66; New York, 63; New Hampshire, 14; Vermont, 6; New Jersey, 3; Quebec, 2.

TWO MEN DIE IN PISTOL BATTLE

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Two men stood 12 feet apart last night and fired fatal simultaneous shots at each other.

Jesus Garcia, who fled after stabbing another man, and Frank Jones, member of the posse that hunted Garcia, died before medical aid could be given them. A tiny gypsum mining hamlet of Midlands on the desert.

When the posse came near, with Jones at its head, Garcia fired. He missed his mark with the first shot. Jones raised his gun and as he pulled the trigger Garcia fired a second time.

Undersheriff Stephen Lynch said Garcia had stabbed another miner, Ismal Noriega, during a drunken argument. Noriega was expected to recover.

Italy and Germany To Fight Together

FRANKFORT, Germany, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The Frankfurter Zeitung tomorrow will declare that Germany and Italy will fight together if France and Britain go to war in defense of Czechoslovakia.

The newspaper will describe Adolf Hitler's memorandum to the Czechs as Germany's "last word."

"Attempts at intimidating Germany cannot and will not have the slightest effect," according to an editorial signed by Rudolph Kircher, editor of the newspaper.

CLAUD C. PRATT

Well, this is Claude Pratt again. We're shuffling along taking about 2 rows at a time with New England governors on the task of rehabilitating 100,000 made homeless by last week's hurricane, tidal waves and floods, and, repairing nearly 4 half billion dollars in property damage.

Well, I guess I ought to be shuffling along. I'm really more at home in my garden and I'm thinking about my dahlias. Yes, I'm thinking about my dahlias. I'm thinking about my dahlias. I'm thinking about my dahlias.

AIRPORT LANDING AREA NOW CLEAR

Weeds, in some cases more than four feet high, which formerly covered a larger portion of the runways at the municipal airport had been cut today by 20 members of the Idaho Pilots' association who Sunday worked eight hours on the project.

In all, an area of 250,000 square feet was cleared by the fliers and those weeds which were cut were raked into piles and burned. Completion of the work now gives the field an unobstructed runway north and south of 1,000 feet and another east and west of 1,500 feet. Both cleared areas are approximately 100 feet wide.

The pilots voted to cut the weeds at a special meeting held Friday evening. It was pointed out at the meeting that if the weeds on portions of the runways were allowed to stand into the winter, snow drifting over them and then freezing would make it impossible to take off or land.

A tractor and mower, both used in the work Sunday, were furnished by Guy and Bob Olin, Kimberly club members. Gasoline was furnished by. Arnie Oslund, local gasoline dealer and filer, and a machine rake was furnished by William Thielten, a farmer residing near the airport.

Other members of the group furnished pitchforks, rakes, shovels and weed burners.

MERCHANT "COWBOYS" WILL PERFORM AT KIMBERLY SHOW

KIMBERLY, Sept. 26 (Special) —Kimberly's second annual harvest festival and '49er shows will open with a blaze of fun and laughs—and maybe aching bodies at the baseball park in Kimberly Friday night at 7 o'clock, according to Co-Chairmen Clyde Green and Dean Shipley.

A wild cow milking contest and a merchant's bull ride will provide the fun, under floodlights, and "it'll have to be done in good old cowboy fashion."

The merchants contesting in the wild cow milking contest will each have helpers. They will be working against time with "no holds barred." The animals have been resting comfortably for the past few days, according to the chairmen, and will be in "top shape" for the ordeal. The cows have been grazing in the south hills since last spring and, after a mighty tussle, were captured and hauled into town.

"Beasts of this type are very seldom found—even in the best rodeos," said Shipley today, as he pale-facedly thought of the trials ahead.

Rider Gets Number 13

The "lucky" merchant drawing the digit 13 will have the singular honor and distinction of riding a bull. Rumors have it that several business men have made plans to get out of town for the evening but bonds have already been placed on each merchant's head. To run away now would be a foolhardy matter, according to the leaders of the festival.

Following the fun at the park a '49er dance and show will be presented at the Rocking Chair ballroom.

A full day Saturday will be in store for the people attending the gala affair with a parade in the morning followed by exhibit judging and awarding of prizes.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon an airplane, piloted by Lamoine Stevens and owned by Bob Olin, will drop hundreds of dodgers over the baseball park. Over $150 worth of merchandise will be given to the lucky people finding the signed dodgers.

Racing Program

A racing program for the kids, a spud-picking contest and an old car race will precede the Eden-Kimberly baseball game, and two six-man teams will do battle in a water fight after the baseball game has been concluded.

Saturday evening will see a grand '49er ball and will feature the games and concessions of the '49er shows for fun only. Music for the two evenings will be furnished by Chuck Helin and his Continentals.

The affair will be under the direction of the combined forces of the Kimberly Commercial club and the American Legion Post 76.

No Leftovers, Just Encores On '38 Menu

Sometimes you wish you had a word for it besides "left-over." Why not "encores"? You know those musical selections an artist gives when he's called to the stage a second time. Well, the second appearance of a roast can be like that, an offering quite different but every bit as delightful as the first time.

Because it is an economy in money, fuel and energy to cook enough meat at one time for more than one meal, the wise home-maker learns a variety of tempting ways to serve meat which has already been cooked, and she doesn't let her family consider them as "second best," because she doesn't consider them so herself.

In fact, there are many ways of making use of the remnants of roast or pot-roast in dishes dainty enough for party fare. It is a good idea for a woman who must be cook as well as hostess for a luncheon party to serve a roast to the family the day before, in order to have the meat ready cooked to be served creamed or in salad, or croquettes.

Here are recipes suggested for especially delicious "encore" dishes for a party or the family dinner:

Lamb Croquettes

2 cups minced cold cooked lamb
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup peas
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1-3 teaspoon celery salt Cayenne
Salt and pepper
1 cup thick white sauce
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
Fine dry bread crumbs.

Combine finely minced cold cooked lamb with chopped walnuts and peas and season with onion juice, lemon juice, cayenne, celery salt and pepper. Moisten with thick white sauce. Shape into croquettes and chill. When firm, dip into bread crumbs, egg beaten with milk, and again in bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot lard at a temperature of 390 degrees F.

Italian Beef Hash

2 cups cold roast beef
¼ cup macaroni
¾ cup grated cheese
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup meat stock or water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper.

Cut cold roast beef into dice. Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Place macaroni in a baking dish, pushing it to the sides. Fill the center with diced beef. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Brown the flour by stirring over a hot fire in a dry skillet. Add the melted butter. Add meat stock, salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over meat and macaroni in casserole dish and bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.)

Lodge Starts on Arena Work for Football Battle

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Sept. 26 (Special)—Union Pacific engineers have begun the alterations necessary in the arena of the Sun Valley sports stadium for the football battle which is to be staged Oct. 15 between the Idaho Southern university Bengals of Pocatello and the formidable eleven of Chaffey college of Ontario, Calif.

Advance indications from Bert Hiser, director of Chaffey athletics and former U. S. C. all-American football man, are that the southern California squad will line up for the kick-off in mid-October with full intentions of turning in an intersectional victory for the coast.

Though a small college with only a two year course, Chaffey is fully accredited by the University of California and many a varsity player for the Los Angeles school has put in his freshman and sophomore apprenticeship at Chaffey. The Howard Jones style of play is used exclusively, according to dopesters from that section of the country, and the Chaffey squad has a reputation for spectacular and smart football in its own conference.

The open and covered grandstands at Sun Valley will seat 5,300 persons with bleachers accounting for 5,000 additional. Bleacher seats will sell for half price. Every seat in the stadium will offer full and unobstructed view of the entire gridiron.

Road Unit Urges Gap Completion

FOUR-STATE MEN HEAR PLEDGE OF WORK BY IDAHO

After urging the state of Idaho to take all possible steps toward completion of the Challis-Clayton route as the last major gap in the four states highway route from Canada to Mexico, delegates to the third annual convention of the International Four States Highway association were en route home today.

Many of the Montana and California delegates were not scheduled to reach their homes until tonight, since a number of the road boosters stopped Sunday night at Sun Valley as climax of a southern Idaho scenic tour that concluded the Twin Falls convention. The tour, starting at 8 a.m. Sunday, took the caravan along U. S. 93 on the "eastern" swing and then over Galena into Ketchum.

Idaho Will Help

Answering the stand of the association on the Challis-Clayton stretch, Alan C. Merritt, director of public works for Idaho, informed the delegates that "early action" will be forthcoming on the winding and ungraded route. He said that the task might possibly be done in connection with a proposed reclamation project along Salmon river.

Concerning hard-surfacing of the entire Ketchum-to-Montana run, Merritt declared that it would be a "gigantic job," and would take several years.

Possible Tunnel

Bringing into official light the report that has been rumored in south central Idaho for several years, Merritt said that the state is "considering" possibility of a 1,000-foot tunnel through the upper half of Galena summit. That move, he pointed out, would end the winter blockade of Galena summit, which is closed by snow annually from about November or December until May.

The bid of Brawley, Calif., was accepted by the road association for convention in March, Las Vegas, Nev., which also sought the convention, drew selection for a session in January.

Retiring officers of the association were unanimously reelected. These were headed by Harland E. Wells, Whitefish, Mont., president; Juneau H. Stinson, Boise, vice-president, and Robert Hays, El Centro, Calif., secretary. Hays is the guiding genius behind the group's energetic move to boost U. S. 93 and to bring tourist dollars into Idaho, California, Nevada and Montana.

Election of officers was carried out at the annual convention banquet in the Park hotel. Business sessions Saturday morning and afternoon were held at Legion hall.

See More Business

Optimistic forecast for tourist business featured convention discussions. It was pointed out to the assemblied delegates that next year should be the finest tourist year in history. Plans were outlined to route traffic to and from San Francisco's exposition by way of the four states highway.

Resolutions gave honor to cooperating groups and individuals, and extended tribute to four association leaders who died since 1937.

J. A. Cederquist, Twin Falls C. of C. president, was toastmaster at the banquet. Roy Painter, R. J. Schwendiman, Eugene E. Clark and F. C. Thompson gave brief talks, and President Wells then took over for a final business action.

GUNS ROARING ON CZECHS' BORDER

By JUNIUS B. WOOD

(Copyright, 1938, United Press)

TESHEN, Czech-Polish frontier, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Sporadic gunfire resounded along the Teschen border today after a sharp clash between Poles and Czech guards armed with machine guns.

One Czech policeman and three Poles seeking to cross into Poland were killed and 15 Poles were wounded in fighting last night in this district which the Warsaw government demands be given up by Prague.

The clash was at Stryszat, about two miles from the frontier and two miles north of Teschen. A group of about 40 Polish fugitives from Czechoslovakia tried to cross the Olsa river into Poland and were seen by Czech guards.

A Czech searchlight picked out the fugitives. Police opened fire with machine guns, according to information received here. The fugitives used rifles. Most of them escaped across the border.

There were many other scattered clashes. Rail traffic on two lines from Cracow to Prague has been halted. Last night Czechs tore up tracks across a bridge over the Olsa river. A "peoples guard" of Czech officials and civilians aided the usual frontier guards.

There appeared to be no general "free corps" movement in Poland, but there was an organization called "former front fighters" recruiting Silesian volunteers for action along the frontier. They reported they had signed 50,000 in Poland who are ready to take up arms and cross the border.

CHEST PREPARES FOR DRIVE HERE

Two more generals were still to be be selected today to round out the list of leaders for the Twin Falls Community Chest campaign opening Oct. 11, it was announced by Roy Painter, chairman of the annual drive.

"Generals" named so far include Al Gilbert, Kiwanis; Lionel T. Campbell, Lions; Mrs. O. C. Hall, Twentieth Century club, and Claud Pratt. Mrs. Hall will be in charge of residential solicitation and Mr. Pratt will handle farm soliciting.

Rotary Acts Today

Rotary club was to name its general today. The Chamber of Commerce will select the last of the six, probably at its annual meeting tonight or at the directors' session Friday.

Kick-off breakfast is scheduled Oct. 11 at the Park hotel.

Mr. Painter said that the generals will confere with him and with Mrs. Dorothy Reynolds, Community chest secretary, to chart details of the campaign. He explained that Twin Falls will be partitioned into four sectors, with generals in charge of directing the solicitation by pairs of volunteer civic-minded residents.

Red Feather Symbol

Symbol of the Chest donors will be a red feather.

The Twin Falls campaign, because it uses all volunteer help, is termed one of the most economically administered in the west. Overhead last year was only $147.69, and of that amount $64.85 went for clerk hire, $38.16 for necessary printing and $5 for postage.

TEXAN BLAMED IN HATCHET KILLINGS

ELMENDORF, Tex., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Officers were certain today that Joe Ball, 45, had used his hatchet to kill perhaps half a dozen more women as ruthlessly as he did Hazel Brown, pretty young hostess at Ball's roadside tavern.

At least six women were known to have had "affairs" with Ball and then to have disappeared, just as Miss Brown did. Yesterday Miss Brown's body was taken from a shallow grave along the banks of the San Antonio river, almost 24 hours after Ball had taken his own life by putting a bullet into his heart.

In an effort to learn more about Ball's victims police had taken into custody three of his employes, among them Clifford Wheeler, 22, the Negro who startled two deputies yesterday by calmly relating how he had assisted Ball in dismembering the body of Miss Brown and burying the parts.

Not until Wheeler told his story did officers link the tavern operator, the son of a respectable and well-to-do Texas rancher, with the disappearance of women who had worked for him.

Officers also wondered about Ball's second wife. His first wife was reported to be in Alabama, his third in California, but the second had disappeared as mysteriously as some of his employes.

CHURCH BRINGING MISSION TALKER

A former missionary to Africa who aided in establishing the Congo Christian mission of the Disciples of Christ at Bolenge, 1,000 miles from the mouth of the Congo river, will address an open meeting at the Christian church here at 8-p. m. Wednesday.

He is Dr. Royal J. Dye, pioneer medical missionary. His talk will draw southern Idaho residents from eight counties, it was estimated today by Rev. Mark C. Cronenberger, pastor of the Christian church. No admission will be charged.

Vivid Description

Vivid description of missionary work and the dangers faced by Christian emissaries to far countries will form the theme of Dr. Dye's address here. He is a veteran of the outstanding missionary speakers of America. He has addressed hundreds of conventions, churches and other groups, and speaks under auspices of the United Christian Missionary society, Indianapolis, Ind.

Dr. Dye began work at the Bologne mission in Africa in 1899 and served there until 1907, when his wife was compelled to return to America because of broken health. He later spent a period on this mission field without his family. He was the only doctor for hundreds of miles in the deep Congo country.

Sleeping Sickness

The speaker, according to Rev. Cronenberger, is noted as among the first to attack the problem of sleeping sickness among the natives. He contracted the ailment himself and was forced to leave the climate.

His work took him among cannibals and among other dangers, but he aided in establishing a church at Bolenge that is larger today than any church of his communion in America.

CHANGES ASKED IN WAGNER ACT

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 26 (U.P.)—John P. Frey, president of the powerful metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, today struck sharply at New Deal "brain trusters" and demanded sweeping changes in the Wagner labor relations act and the new wages-hours law.

In an address which opened his organization's 30th annual convention, Frey charged "support" given by the national labor relations board to have rival committee for industrial organization "has developed a menace as dangerous to the institutions as the labor injunction."

Claims CIO Power Shattered

He said the political power of the CIO was shattered in the recent primaries and predicted that the 76th congress would be more sympathetic to federation policies on labor than was the preceding congress.

According to Frey, the federation was not consulted by the administration before the launching of the national recovery administration and was similarly ignored in the preparation of the wages-hours law and the Wagner act. The wages act, he said, was drawn "by individuals who had not been elected to represent the people."

He warned that the federation will fight against such a practice in the future.

Pledge of Amendments

Frey disclosed that Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., author of the labor act, had made a pledge to introduce amendments to it if it operated to the detriment of the federation. This pledge, Frey said, was given to the executive council of the federation a few days before Wagner offered the legislation.

In his annual report, he condemned the labor board as "incompetent and disruptive" and said that vast powers held by the administrator of the wages law threatens to impose "commisar control" over the nation's industrial life.

If pretty Edyth McDonald, above, had been named Jeanette MacDonald, the confusion would be complete. The Temple, Tex., girl, a senior at Baylor university, regularly is mistaken for the movie songbird. What do you think?

I sure had a lot of fun with my new rooster last week and incidentally, along with the fun, for some reason our sales more than doubled. Well, it's New Business we're after so here we are again. Several have asked what my rooster's name is. I really hadn't thought of him needing a name but maybe he does, so let's name the bird. If you have a suggestion, send it in and if it is selected as the best you will receive a valuable prize.

Several people have told me lately that they had heard I was going to quit hatching baby chicks. After I have been sap enough to spend for incubators alone, enough hard earned cash to buy an 80 acre farm at $250 per acre and a couple of Lincoln Zephyrs on top of that I sure am NOT going to quit hatching chicks for a little while yet. Fact is, I fully expect to give birth to a quarter million of them during 1939. Orders are already being booked for 1939 chicks and you can save money by doing the same. Ask us about the special discount for early ordering. If you would like to get a few chicks right now for winter fryers we can supply you almost any Monday. We are going to need some additional flocks to supply us hatching eggs next spring so if you have a good flock of 50 or more and would like to get an extra 10c per doz for your eggs, now is the time to be seeing us. If you sign up to sell us eggs we will supply you with laying mash at wholesale price. We build our mash for "results" and even though we supply it to our egg customers at cost it will make us plenty of profits next spring by giving us 70 to 80% hatches instead of 50 to 60%. If you are going to need some good breeding males we can supply them cheaper now than later.

86 much for the chickens. Now let's get into the Furniture Dept. You know this furniture business is really a sideline just to fill in around our hatchery business and that's the reason we can and do sell at such reasonable prices. Whatever we make from furniture sales is just that much "extra gravy." I guess the reason that I say "gravy" is because I am a Missourian and I still like the stuff. In fact when we don't have company I put it on my bread just like I used to do. I knew this country was lousy with Missourians but there are more than I dreamed. I'll bet there were a thousand of them in to see me last week. Who said "liar"? Well, I know darned well there were fifty! Last week when I stated that my wife did most of the work she said that she had known this for 20 years but never expected me to admit it. I like to surprise people.

Speaking of stoves, we have seven different styles of small size cook stoves from ten to seventy-five dollars. Here's a brand new $16.50 one that I'm going to sell to the first person who plunks down a ten spot; a new bed room suite cut from $50 to $45 for this week; a beautiful used mahogany davenport table that cost $90 for $15; a new walnut stained breakfast set $9.75; a new $65 six pc. walnut dinette $54; a $38 circulator used two weeks $30; a $110 Singer Sewing Machine, guaranteed $40; a Springfield, bolt action .32 rifle, like new, $4.95; and three rooms full of other things at very low prices, or anything you want, in any grade of new furniture, circulators, rugs, carpets, inlaid linoleum etc., special ordered for you at savings from 15 to 30%.

We still have White Leghorn Pullets and colored fryers for sale. Did you know that at present feed prices you can produce eggs for less than 9c per doz. Our phone is "71" and not 75 as was printed last week. 480 Main So., same block, opposite corner as Firestone, just across street from Davidson's Grocery, the best little grocery in town.
