NEW BRIDGE COMMISSION PONDERS SPAN PURCHASE

GOVERNOR, WITH 4 OTHERS, WILL CARRY OUT DEAL

BOISE, March 13 (U.P.) — Negotiation on the possible purchase of the Twin Falls-Jerome inter-county bridge today was in the hands of a five-man commission, appointed Saturday by Gov. C. A Bottolfsen.

Gov. Bottolfsen will act as chairman of the new commission and the other four members are:

Verne Thorpe, Jerome city councilman; Oliver O. Haga, Boise attorney; A. E. Kliss, Buhl farmer; Wa. ne Hill, Caldwell businessman.

"In approving this measure," said Gov. Bottolfsen, "I want it to be distinctly understood that the proposal to purchase the Twin Falls-Jerome toll bridge and incorporate it into the state's highway system was not an administration measure."

The governor made the statement in a letter to Speaker M. L. Horsley (R., Caribou) accompanying his approval of the bill.

Both Promised

"Rather it was a promise of both the Republican and the Democratic parties. Regardless of the turn of the elective fortunes in Idaho, either party would have been obligated to see that a measure providing for purchase of the bridge was introduced.

"The issue with me is in no way personal. I have approved this bill because I felt it my duty to oblige the intent of the legislature in this respect.

"The enactment of this bill does not mean that the bridge will be purchased, nor necessarily at the maximum of the appropriation. The problem is much the same as it always has been, and that is the setting of an agreeable price for the structure.

Agreeable Price

"If this price can be agreed upon and if it falls within the terms of the bill, the bridge will become state property.

"Both parties have kept faith with the people of our state who wanted the toll removed from this structure. Purchase of the bridge now rests entirely upon the success of forthcoming negotiations."

Callahan, Defenbach Chosen by Bott for Top State Positions

BOISE, March 13 (U.P.)—Only one major appointive position in Idaho state government remained unfilled today after Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen announced appointment of a new state comptroller and tax commissioner.

Donald A. Callahan of Wallace, former state senator and a candidate for the U. S. senate on the Republican ticket at the last election was named state comptroller at a salary of $4,000 a year. The post was created by the 25th legislature.

Final Checkup

Meanwhile, the governor signed some legislative measures and vetoed others in a final cleanup of legislation before the deadline tonight. He then will depart for Arco and Sun Valley on a brief vacation. All bills not either signed or vetoed automatically become law.

The governor signed a bill authorizing issuance of $1,000,000 in treasury notes to provide funds to match federal aid grants for highway construction. Bottolfsen said he hoped not more than $600,000 of the funds would be used but the total was authorized as a protection against loss of federal aid.

The notes, bearing 3½ per cent interest, will be retired at the rate of $300,000 annually beginning in 1940 from proceeds of the state five-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax.

Bills Vetoed

Bills to allow the state examiners to collect expenses only on out-of-state examination of motor fuels, redefining use of revenue from the tax on fertilizer, permitting rural high school consolidation were vetoed. Also vetoed was a bill requiring beer vendors to obtain county licenses.

The chief executive signed bills appropriating $150,000 for noxious weed eradication and appointing a three-man commission for weed control. Also signed was a bill abolishing continuing funds for state departments, and a bill easing truck licenses and giving farmers a $5 fee on light trucks with a graduated fee on other sizes.

Other important measures signed included laws: Creating an advisory commission for the state insurance fund; revamping fraternal insurance; authorizing the game commission to match federal grants for wildlife study; setting a new code for engineers; regulating retailers who sell bottled or canned beer; providing for emergency levies for school purposes.

Union Expels Homer Martin As President

CLEVELAND, March 13 (U.P.) — Homer Martin, found guilty on 15 counts by the CIO-endorsed executive board of the United Auto Workers' union, today stood expelled "permanently" from the union which he had headed as president.

The 20 members of the trial board of the organization voted the ouster unanimously. Charges included violation of the UAW constitution by "seeking to deliver the union into the hands of the Ford Motor company."

The board also found Martin guilty of what union members termed "back stairs negotiations" with the General Motors company "to the detriment of the General Motors workers."

To fill the vacancy created by the removal of Martin, R. J. Thomas, of Detroit, was elected unanimously by the board.

LAGUARDIA MAY QUIT PUBLIC LIFE

OGDEN, Utah, March 13 (U.P.) — Fiorello H. LaGuardia, mayor of New York City, is contemplating retirement from public life and would like an opportunity to teach law at a western university.

LaGuardia, fiery little chief executive of the nation's largest city, stopped here briefly Sunday while en route to San Francisco where he will attend the convention of the United States conference of mayors and will see the San Francisco world's fair.

He would make no comment on reports he would like to run for President, said he didn't mind the nickname "Butch" a New York newspaper recently gave him. LaGuardia is president of the conference of mayors.

SEARCH PRESSED FOR HOLDUP MEN

Peace officers of this entire section of Idaho today were aiding in a search for three holdup men, two of them armed, who late Saturday night participated in two stickups, one in the downtown section of Burley and the other, in an automobile, between Paul and Hazelton.

Returning home after setting flares on a project five miles east of Paul at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, Chauncey Plattes, a highway maintenance employe, picked up a hitch-hiker. After Plattes continued his drive a short distance the man he had befriended stuck a gun in his ribs, took $5 from his pocket and forced him to get out of the car. Plattes' car, abandoned and out of gas, was found early Sunday on the Declo-Rupert road four miles east of Rupert.

Robbed in Burley

Less than an hour before Frank M. Bundy, Burley, was walking toward the downtown section. When but one block from the center of town he was approached by two men, one of whom carried a gun. They demanded his money and then took $36 in bills.

Hands Across the Equator

Mutual felicitations are exchanged between Secretary of State Cordell Hull (left) and Brazil's Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha in Washington after the signing of the new U. S.-Brazilian trade pact. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., looks on from the rear. The agreement, calling for extension of a possible $120,000,000 in credits by the United States, is expected to foster trade and offset Nazi inroads.

Borah Attacks Nations For Debt Non-Payment

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.)—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., declared in the senate today that there is no difference between dictators and democracies "when it comes to paying their debts."

"Great Britain and Italy stand side by side in the defaultation of honorable debts incurred in the war," Borah said.

Borah spoke during senate debate on the U. S.-Brazil trade and credit agreement signed last week. The agreement was attacked by Sen. James Hamilton Lewis, D. Ill., as "an underground, subterranean process of violating the law."

Borah declared that "there are approximately $12,000,000,000 in loans outstanding today which our taxpayers eventually will be called upon to pay.

"As far as dictators and democracies are concerned, there is no difference between them when it comes to paying debts," he said.

Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky said that if home owners refused to pay loans obtained from the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the taxpayers would find themselves bearing those burdens, too.

"That may be true," Borah replied, "but at least those are loans to our own people."

Initial Band Enters City's Spring Events

Shoshone's high school band today became the first to enter the area-wide competition of various school units which will highlight the second day activities of spring opening in Twin Falls, set for March 23 and 24, it was announced here this afternoon by those in charge.

The band music and marching contests will be held on the downtown streets Friday evening, March 24, starting probably at 7:30 p. m., although exact time has not, as yet, been set.

24 or 28 Members

Fact that the Shoshone band would enter the competition was announced after a letter to that effect had been received from F. J. Huruda, music supervisor. Mr. Huruda announced 24 or 28 members of the Shoshone band would take part, led by a drum majorette, a senior at the school this year and also a guard on the girls' basketball team.

The band members will be clad in new military type uniforms, made up of the school colors—scarlet and grey. They are outfitted with Sam Brown belts and military caps with a lyre for decoration. Members of the band, organized only last fall include five seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, seven freshmen, ten junior high students and one post-grad. The band instructor, Mr. Huruda, has been at Shoshone one year, being a graduate of Northwestern university school of music, majoring in public school music.

Others Will Enter

Other bands are expected to enter the competition during the balance of this week. Substantial awards are now being arranged and will be announced later. All entries should be sent to Robert H. Warner, care of the Idaho Evening Times.

The first day of the spring opening will feature downtown window displays at local stores, as well as entertaining features.

BUDGET REQUEST DELAYED BY FDR

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.) — The White House announced today that President Roosevelt has been delayed in preparing his message asking congress for additional relief funds and may not submit it before mid-week.

The White House attributed the delay to pressure of other business. However, it was believed in some quarters that Mr. Roosevelt may not yet have finally determined the amount of relief funds which he will ask congress to provide for use of the works progress administration until June 30.

Indications have pointed strongly to a new request for $150,000,000 relief funds—the amount which congress previously declined to provide. However, strong opposition to so large an appropriation has been expressed by many congressional leaders.

Strengthening belief that Mr. Roosevelt desires to canvas the situation more thoroughly before setting a figure on relief needs, was the fact that he planned to confer late today with a group of senators for a general discussion of relief, unemployment and the general economic situation.

HITLER INVITES OUSTED CZECHS' HEAD TO CONFER

PRAGUE, March 13 (U.P.)—Nazi Fuehrer Adolf Hitler today invited Josef Tiso, ousted premier of Slovakia, to confer with him in Berlin.

At the same time, it was disclosed Hitler has postponed a proposed visit to Vienna on Wednesday to participate in a great military parade celebrating the first anniversary of the anschluss or union of Austria with Germany.

The invitation to Tiso, whose cabinet was ousted by the central Czechoslovakia government at Prague in a move to crush agitation for separation of Slovakia from the Prague regime, was announced by the official Slovak press bureau.

Tiso, who had taken refuge in a monastery after being removed from the premiership by Federal President Emil Hacha, returned to Bratislava today from Banovce and conferred with leaders of the Slovak People's party. Thereafter he went by automobile to Vienna to catch an airplane for Berlin.

Previously, Tiso had appealed to Hitler for support in his conflict with Prague.

Choice Unsatisfactory

Although Hacha had since named Karl Sidor, leader of the Hlinka guards in Slovakia, as premier to succeed Tiso, the appointment obviously did not satisfy Germany. Hitler's invitation to Tiso emphasized that viewpoint.

The informant did not indicate whether intervention was to be expected through diplomatic channels or by some more direct means.

"I do not know when or in what form, but it can be assumed that Germany will intervene in some form or other," he said.

"The Czechs have violated the spirit of the Munich agreement. Furthermore, German interests in Slovakia have been menaced. German citizens as well as members of German national groups living in

CAR HITS HORSE; GIRL, 17, INJURED

JEROME, March 13 (Special) — Miss Ida Ott, 17-year-old Jerome high school girl, is in a critical condition at St. Valentine's hospital, as the result of a "freak" accident early Sunday morning, involving an automobile and a horse.

She sustained a concussion of the brain and deep laceration extending the length of her head. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ott.

Also in the Wendell hospital is John Wallgamott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wallgamott, also of Jerome. He suffered a dislocated hip.

Riding in Coupe

The two were riding with Warren H. Albertson, employe of the Bacon ranch northwest of Jerome, owner and driver of the light coupe, when the accident occurred between 2:45 and 3 a. m.

Miss Letha Moore, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moore, Jerome, and Albertson, nephew of S. H. Albertson, escaped with minor bruises.

Apparently observing the horse on the highway, four miles north of the "Y" on highway 93, Albertson applied his brakes and skidded 30 feet before striking the animal, according to investigation made by Earl Small, state traffic officer.

Horse Knocked 85 Feet

The impact knocked the horse 85 feet, and the animal landed in a borrow pit. The machine traveled another 128 feet, apparently overturned, as a gouge-out in the pavement indicated that a car door must have burst open, and completely left the highway, landing upright at a distance of another 18 feet, coming to a stop at right angles with the highway.

Singularly, not a single tire was blown out on the automobile, remarked Small, but both sides of the car, the front and the top were crushed.

Germany's Press Raps Czechs for Reign of Terror

(By United Press)

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler intervened in the troubled affairs of Czechoslovakia tonight by throwing Nazi might behind the demands of Slovakia for greater independence.

Hitler was to discuss with Josef Tiso, ousted by the Czechoslovak central government from his post as Slovak premier, the extent of demands which the Slovaks are expected to make—possibly in ultimatum form—on the Prague government.

One of the principal demands considered likely in political circles was that Prague henceforth guarantee that Germans within Czechoslovakia be "freed from persecution," but in any event the Nazis appeared to be acting to force the central Czechoslovak regime to cooperate more fully in every way.

The Nazi press let loose a barrage of charges against the Czechs, and the semi-official news agency (DNB) reported that 22 Germans had been wounded by Czech and Communist terrorists at Iglau, where fighting was reported still under way.

Independent Czechoslovakia

At Bratislava, the capital of Slovakia, unconfirmed reports circulated that the Slovak leaders, with Nazi backing, would proclaim an independent Slovakia in a broadcast from the Vienna station within the next 18 hours.

Nazi sources made it clear that the situation was "urgent" as a result of Tiso's airplane flight to see Hitler and that Germany was intervening, although the exact form of intervention was undecided.

The controlled Nazi press redoubled its attacks on the Czechs in a manner reminiscent of the Sudetenland crisis.

Hitler postponed indefinitely his scheduled Wednesday visit to Vienna to participate in a great military demonstration on the anniversary of the union of Austria with the reich.

Envoys Confer

The French ambassador, Robert Coulondre, returned hurriedly to Berlin and conferred with Sir Neville Henderson, the British ambassador, at the British embassy.

Well-informed Nazis said they believed that Demarche in the nature of an ultimatum to Prague could be expected within 24 hours.

The turmoil in Czechoslovakia centered on the efforts of the Prague government to crush the independence or separatist movement in autonomous Slovakia by ousting Tiso, who immediately appealed to Hitler for aid.

But from the German viewpoint, the Prague government has failed to "cooperate" with the reich, in many matters since the republic was dismembered by the Munich conference. Nazis have been highly critical of the Prague cabinet, which they said talked cooperation but failed to act in the same spirit.

"Situation Unbearable"

"The situation is unbearable," the Nachtausgabe declared in a triple banner line this afternoon. "The Czechs' blood terror against Germans and Slovaks creates an unbearable situation."

The press generally reported—as it did during the Sudetenland crisis—that there was chaos in Slovakia and that Germans were endangered or attacked.

"An uncompromising fight," said Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff. "Prague must be told that she must keep fire and murder out of Czechoslovakia."

Nazis said it could be assumed Hitler would intervene.

1 KILLED, 1 HURT BY FERRY CRASH

GLENNS FERRY, March 13 (Special) —Arthur Johnson, about 42, son of Gus Johnson, King Hill, was killed, and James Gillis, about 40, Los Angeles, Calif., son of Mrs. Kate Gillis, King Hill, sustained severe cuts and bruises when a light sedan, driven by Johnson, crashed into the rear of a van-type truck Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

The accident occurred on the highway about five miles west of Glenns Ferry. The truck was in charge of Clive Sorenson, Phoenix, Ariz., and was driven at the time by Frank Watkins, Salt Lake City.

No Witnesses

Both cars were traveling east. There were no witnesses to the accident, so far as has been ascertained.

The truck drivers stated at a coroner's inquest Sunday morning that as soon as the impact was felt, they stopped the truck and went to the wrecked car, removing the two men, who were unconscious at the time.

A few minutes later a car brought the two men to Glenns Ferry, where Johnson was pronounced dead. Gillis was treated for his wounds and taken to the home of Clarence Johnson, his brother-in-law.

Father Hurries from Boise

Mr. Johnson, sr., was at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Hafer, in Boise at the time, and came to Glenns Ferry as soon as possible. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Testimony brought out the fact that the truck was traveling at a moderate speed, well over on the right side of the highway, and rear lights burning. The sedan was driven under the body of the truck by the force of the impact and practically demolished. The truck received only minor damage.

Moving Mountain of "Dead Hills" Dumps Tons of Earth into California Valley

GILROY, Calif., March 13 (U.P.)—New pressure piled up behind the moving mountain of the "dead hills" today and it dumped thousands of tons of earth into the Pajaro valley.

Ahead of the strange earth movement was the only power line carrying electrical energy into the Salinas valley, "the nation's lettuce bowl," a vulnerable stretch of U. S. highway 101 and a bridge across the Pajaro valley.

Thomas Joyce, superintendent of the state highway maintenance division, said he believed there was little danger of it blocking the highway or damming the river. Others were not so optimistic.

Dr. Albert Newlin, seismologist at Santa Clara university, said "I'd hate to try and tell what might happen if new rains loosed more earth." The forecast was for rain.

All who checked on the slide with stakes found it was slowing. It was traveling roughly at four inches an hour late yesterday, too slow to be perceptible to the eye.

Out of the rolling hills and rangeland of Lomerias Muertas, known for ages as "the dead hills," it had cut a swath a mile long, and a quarter of a mile wide since it started off a week ago with a boom heard miles away.

Visible from Gilroy, six miles to the north, it looked like a giant highway construction cut spewing out landscape over the lowlands. As it reached the flats it slowed, giving rise to a hope that it would scatter out and halt before traversing the quarter of a mile to the power line and the half mile to the highway.

A new threat developed, however, from fissures fingering out from the main body of the slide. At first only deep gashes in the earth, they suddenly began breaking into new movements of earth. Somewhat like streams of water they converted on the main slide, piling up behind it and giving it the new force toward forward movement.

Whether this would be great enough to force the mountain over the remaining half mile to the highway was problematical.

Engineers estimated it had moved only eight feet in the past 24 hours and that at such a rate it would take a month or more to reach the highway.

Three Proposals Ask Development on Lands Near Payette River

WASHINGTON, March 13 (UP)—Three tentative proposals for operations on the Payette river in Idaho have resulted from a bureau of reclamation investigation of methods of developing supplemental waters near Boise, Commissioner John C. Page of the bureau announced today.

A report by John R. Riter, engineer in charge of the study, suggested three alternatives of irrigation of lands dependent on the Payette river.

Riter suggested $1,550,000 be added to the $1,367,000 already invested in the Deadwood reservoir as one alternative. Under this plan the reservoir would be operated primarily for irrigation purposes and partial use of it to add winter power production would be abandoned.

Annual cost of the plan for repayment of the additional investment and operation and maintenance Riter estimated at $50,000. The government would lose $50,000 it now receives from production of power for the Minidoka project.

Riter's second suggestion was development of the Cascade reservoir on the north fork of the Payette river near Cascade at a cost of $3,000,000. Annual cost over a period of 40 years without interest would be $75,000. The increased use of the Deadwood storage in augmenting the Black canyon power plant's winter power output would bring an annual income of about $6,000, sufficient to meet operation and maintenance costs of the dam and reservoir.

The third proposal in Riter's report was for construction of Cascade reservoir to its ultimately required size of 700,000 acre-feet at a cost of $3,666,000. Riter said this plan would augment power output of the Black canyon plant and would secure desirable flood control benefits on the Payette river below Emmett. He set the annual cost at $89,000 for repayment, operation and maintenance but increased power income from Black canyon would take care of $45,000 of that total.

HITLER INVITES TISO TO CONFER

Czechoslovakia have been mistreated. This can not go on."

It became known here that in the last few days the Nazi government had brought pressure on Prague.

Continued reports that troops had been seen moving within Germany were denied in official quarters.

Press Blitzer

Even before the informant's statement that some form of German intervention might be expected in Czechoslovakia, diplomatic quarters had been impressed by the increasing bitterness of anti-Czech articles in the closely controlled German press.

"Situation threateningly worse; Germans in clashes with Czech gendarmes; Frantic terror at Brno; Wild Czech terror; Germans at Brno and Prague attacked" were typical headlines in afternoon newspapers, which devoted their entire first pages to the Czech "crisis."

Presumably the "crisis" was caused when the central Czechoslovak government dismissed three ministers of the semi-autonomous Slovak government, and sent troops to occupy Slovak cities, to stop a separatist movement. But there was still some lack of clarity in the situation, as reported here.

Nazis Annoyed

The view was unreasonably taken in diplomatic quarters that the Nazi government had determined to bring Czechoslovakia once for all into line with German policy.

Nazis have been annoyed because Czechoslovakia, as the result of its dismemberment, had not reduced the size of its army. Nor had it transferred part of its gold reserves to those governments which obtained part of its territory under the Munich and Vienna dismemberment agreements. It had failed to denounce its military alliance with Russia, or to join the German-Japanese-Italian "anti-comintern" alliance.

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN CCC BURGLARY

Three former eastern CCC youths pleaded guilty in district court today to first degree burglary charges in connection with an attempted burglary at the Rock Creek CCC camp last Feb. 4.

The pleas was entered by George Greenman, by his brother, Douglas Greenman, and by Milford Smith. Judge J. W. Porter set 10 a. m. Thursday for sentence

Two Cases Acted On

Entering of the guilty pleas by the three youths marked action in one of the two criminal cases that were placed formally before the court this morning at the March session opened. With the criminal list the heaviest in several terms, Prosecutor Everett M. Sweeley was to present additional informations this afternoon in other criminal cases.

Jess Merton and Gordon Lucas, two of the six persons accused of receiving stolen goods in the New York store burglary at Buhl Jan. 1, were arraigned together and Judge Porter set 10 a. m. Tuesday for entry of their plea.

Goes to Prison

John Bohrn, one of the six accused with Merton and Lucas, did not face the court because Mr. Sweeley was granted permission not to file information in his case. Instead, Bohrn was to go back to the state prison this afternoon as a parole violator. Information against Harry Ensley, another of the six, probably will be filed in another matter — a forgery charge on which he was also bound over.

Action against the two women completing the six named in the stolen goods charge was indefinite early this afternoon. They are Mrs. Gordon Lucas and Mrs. Ethel Jones.

Other Cases

Other criminal cases to come before the court include appeals by N. Mock, Minneapolis photographer solicitor, and by T. O. Neeley, Kimberly, both fighting municipal court judgments; Lawrence Schubart, burglary; L. C. Harper, grand larceny; Charles Darrow and Robert Meyers, assault with intent to commit robbery; Claude Williams and Lewis Hendrix, robbery; Harry Ensley, forgery; D. M. Harris, Clyde Harris and Elmer C. Mallory, burglary; Cornie Smith, grand larceny in checken theft; George Harshburger and Chester C. Brumet, both 17 and both of Filer, accused of check forgeries.

A. J. Myers has been appointed counsel for Smith after the latter pleaded not guilty Saturday.

TOWN HALL WILL GET NDTED PAIR

With two speakers still remaining on the current Town Hall season program, officials of the Twin Falls organization today had received assignment of the first two lecturers for next year.

The two distinguished talkers will be Dr. Morris Fishbein, spokesman for America's physicians and surgeons and editor of the Journal of the American Medical association and Stanley High, noted international observer.

The assignment of this noted pair will be definite unless the local club disapproves. It was indicated that both speakers will probably be accepted.

Writes in Times

Dr. Fishbein's nationally known health column appears daily on the editorial page of the Evening Times.

Still remaining on the 1938-39 schedule are Kurt Ludecke, former confidential adviser to Adolf Hitler, and DeWitt M. Emery, leader of the nation's small businessmen's organization.

Ludecke speaks here March 23 at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. He is expected to give first-hand and uncensored accounts of the rise of Nazism.

Emery in April

Emery will appear here in April and will discuss "The Wakening of Small Business."

Tentative plans now underway by Town Hall officials call for a possible dinner meeting preceding Mr. Emery's talk, and for starting of the 1939-40 Town Hall sign-up at that time.

CITY AND COUNTY JOIN IN 2 CASES

The city and county will cooperate in prosecution of two cases appealed from Twin Falls municipal court. It developed here today at opening session of the March term of district court.

Harry Benoit, city attorney, was formally entered as associate counsel with Prosecutor Everett M. Sweeley in the appeals filed by T. O. Neeley, Kimberly, and N. Mock, Minneapolis, Minn.

Had Denied Mandate

Sweeley had previously filed a motion contending it was not the duty of the county prosecutor to handle proceedings in district court for cases of this type, involving violation of city ordinances. Judge Porter, however, overruled the claim on March 8.

As a result Mr. Benoit joined forces with Mr. Sweeley today since the city attorney has been conversant with the background in both matters.

Neeley appealed from a sentence of $100 and $25.65 costs, decreed Jan. 31 after he was found guilty by a six-man municipal court jury Jan. 19 on charges of operating a motor car while under influence of intoxicating liquor. Complaint was filed Dec. 31 after Neeley allegedly drove his car onto residential property. He pleaded not guilty Jan. 2 and was freed under $100 bond.

Photography Case

Mock appealed to the higher court from a $100 fine and $3 costs imposed on charges that he violated the city's ordinance against soliciting by out-of-town photography firms. He was found guilty Feb. 4 at a trial in which he waived the right of jury. He filed $300 bond and appealed.

The case has statewide significance as a test of ordinances in other communities as well as Twin Falls.

W. L. Dunn is defense counsel for Neeley; Thomas M. Robertson, jr., for Mock.

and Chief of Police W. W. Williams, Burley, expressed the opinion the two holdups had no connection with each other, because of the short time which elapsed between them.

After Platties had been forced from his machine on the highway, he hailed J. L. Skelley, a Boise salesman. They gave chase to the lone bandit but, because of the head start they did not see him again. The incident was immediately reported to Sheriff Manifold after the salesman and Platties reached Paul. A search started immediately, resulting in recovery of the machine some hours later.

Bundy, after being robbed of the $36 at the corner of Third street and Albion avenue in Burley, informed police as soon as he reached the station.

Descriptions

The man who took $5 from Platties as well as his car is described as being five feet five inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

Description of the two men who held up the Burley resident follows

The man holding the gun was five feet four inches tall. He was wearing a dark suit, light grey hat and new tan oxfords. His companion, apparently unarmed, weighed some 200 pounds and was dressed in dark clothes. Neither wore a mask.

Ping-Pong Tourney Continues Tonight

Ping-pong games scheduled for tonight in the city tournament will be played as per the draw, according to officials in charge of the meet. However, in case participants are absent, due to the basketball playoff, contests can be postponed on mutual consent of the two parties concerned.

Matches not played tonight because of postponements, will be carried over and played on Wednesday night, states Miss Vernis Richards, city recreation head.

POPE PIUS STARTS ON WORLD CAMPAIGN FOR PEACE

STRONG FOREIGN POLICY EXPECTED IN NEW REGIME

VATICAN CITY, March 13 (U.P.)—Pope Pius XII intends to start an active world peace campaign at once, it was reported today as the Vatican settled down to its normal routine after his coronation yesterday as 262nd supreme pontiff.

Opinion was expressed in authoritative quarters that the Pope would work along general lines to further peace, by means of frequent appeals to all peoples to seek salvation through Christ.

At the same time, it was said, he would devote attention specifically to the problem of improving relations between the Catholic church and Nazi Germany.

Strong Regime

As the result of the new Pope's selection of Cardinal Maglione as his secretary of state, it was said here that the Vatican had one of the strongest regimes in memory to deal with world problems.

The influence internationally the new Pope already was exercising, was shown at his magnificent coronation ceremony yesterday when crowds yelled and cheered for him, both inside and outside St. Peter's basilica. Observers were impressed and some went so far as to predict that Pius XII would be one of the most popular of Popes.

German Situation

It was understood that the Pope intended, for the present, to devote himself to the German situation and leave to the direction of Cardinal Maglione other important matters.

Pope Pius was crowned at 1:04 p. m. yesterday on a balcony of St. Peter's.

As the Pope appeared on the balcony, 500,000 persons massed in St. Peter's square cheered him. Cardinal Caccia-Dominioni crowned Pius XII with the triple crown of the supreme pontiff. The Pope read two prayers and, wearing his crown, slowly made the sign of the cross over the heads of the 500,000. He imparted his apostolic blessing to the city and the world.

ROAD SURFACED WITH MUD BASE

SALT LAKE CITY (U.P.) — A herd of sheep trampling over a muddy road proved to be a money-saving inspiration to U. S. Bureau of Public Roads engineers.

A new "sheep-foot roller" and a little cement or bituminous material can transform a 95 per cent plain mud base into a long-wearing road.

This revolutionary development in road-surfacing was disclosed at a course of study conducted in Salt Lake City by bureau officials for state and federal highway engineers of Utah and Idaho.

Not For Main Highways

Engineers, calling the development "the most important in recent years," do not advise it for heavily traveled highways. Six years of experiment with farm-to-market and secondary roads have proved it valuable for this type of use.

Developed after engineers observed that a herd of sheep passing over a stretch of muddy road transformed it into hard surfaced roadway, the new method is inexpensive.

While macadam roads cost about $10,000 a mile and standard pavement as much as $20,000, the new mud roads can be finished for $3,000 a mile, or less.

"Why didn't someone think of using mud before? Probably because the easiest way is the hardest to see," was a government engineer's explanation.

Roller Prepares Base

The new sheep-foot roller is built like an ordinary road roller, but scores of metal "sheep's feet" protruding six or eight inches have been added. The feet of the new machine sink into the mud base to which a small amount of binder has been added and trample it slowly from the bottom up, producing a compact roadbed. Ordinary rollers apply pressure from the top down only.

Other materials once regarded as waste, can also be used to build roads where gravel is available. Salt, sugar, cornstalk derivatives, and liquor from pulp paper mills make satisfactory roads costing as little as $500 a mile, engineers said.

Four-H Clubs

GOODING BOYS' CLUB

One of south central Idaho's most active 4-H clubs during 1938 was the group of boys enrolled in livestock projects under the leadership of Clarence Wells, assisted by Ray Harding, Gooding. These boys organized their club in January, 1938, and have worked with beef, dairy, sheep, and swine projects continuously since that time. Officers during 1938 were John Kornher, president; Charles Luther, vice-president; Bob Bolte, secretary, and Walt Prather, reporter.

Club members who completed their work were as follows by projects: beef — Fred Bliss, Wesley Fiehs, Donald Huyser, John Kornher, Charles Luther, Watt Prather; dairy —Ken Dixon; sheep—Keith Bird, Clifton Brown, Harold Huyser, Martin Luther, Watt Prather; swine—Bobby Bolte, Bobby Carter, James DeBoard, Lewis Meeker, Earl Elsner.

In the club records turned in to the county extension agent and district club agent, these club members listed 10 beef calves with a value of $563.50, one dairy heifer valued at $30, 11 sheep having a valuation of $84.65, and seven hogs with a value of $135; the total value of all projects in the club being $813.15.

OAKLEY BOYS' CLUB

The Intermountain Livestock club at Oakley, with Reed Hunter as leader, had 10 members who completed their 1938 projects.

Six dairy calves and 23 pigs were listed on club records with a total value of $662.64. Competing members were Arnold Harper, president; Matt Warr, vice-president; Kenneth Lee, secretary; Byron Martin, reporter; Derald Mabey, Kay Stanton, Delroy Catlin, Bill Matthews, Bob Matthews and Ralph Severe.

STUDY WILL OPEN ON STARS' LIGHT

AUSTIN, Tex. (U.P.)—The University of Chicago and the University of Texas are ready to combine in a study of star light, with safe delivery at Mt. Locke of an 82-inch telescope lens, second largest in the world.

Transported over a road built to the observatory, the huge glass will photograph objects 400,000,000 light years from the earth. Anyone wanting to know how far that is may multiply the light years by 32,000,000 seconds in a year, then multiply by the 186,000 miles that light travels in a second.

Those wishing a more comprehensible idea of the power of the telescope are informed by Dr. Paul Rudnick of the physics department of the University of Texas that it will reflect the image of a man 3,000 miles distant. If it were not for the earth's curvature, the observers on the west Texas mountain could watch what is going on in Maine in sufficient size to be recognizable.

The equipment in the observatory is designed to serve as a giant funnel for light, permitting astronomers to concentrate in one spot a large quantity of star light. Dr. Otto Struve, director of the sky laboratory, said.

A slow control mechanism keeps the light funnel constantly, on a distant star as it moves. The instrument weighs 75 tons and 30 motors are used in its operation. It is housed in a revolving dome weighing 135 tons, mounted on locomotive wheels.

Will They be Able to Collect?

With the military phases of the Spanish war largely over, a new struggle begins.

First, the Franco regime must restore internal order, and must make some kind of concessions that will get for it least the passive, if not the active, support of a majority of the Spanish people. Otherwise it cannot govern.

The Spanish are a fiercely-proud and independent people, and it is highly unlikely that Franco can impose on it any such iron-shod discipline as that to which Germans and Italians submit. Probably in order to get any sort of co-operation at all from what has been Republican Spain, compromise measures will have to be taken.

Second, the struggle for influence with the new Franco government now begins in earnest.

The headlong rush of the British and French to recognize the Franco government, whether one agrees with this policy or not, has a clear intent. It is this: If those countries refused to recognize Franco and had no traffic with his government, he would turn exclusively to Germany and Italy for the reconstruction and future help which Spain now desperately needs under any regime.

Wisely or not, the British and French have decided that with Franco victorious in a military way, their best bet to salvage something from the wreckage is to recognize him, and by extending help, try to offset German and Italian influence in Spain.

The indignant howls that have gone up in both Germany and Italy at this show that the move is not without possibilities.

Germany and Italy put up the men and the equipment with which Franco won his war. They naturally figure that any Spanish gravy that is dished up ought to go to them.

• • •

Will it? That remains to be seen. Our own United States would quite probably have lost its war for independence had it not been for French men and ships who fought in the United States. The American army swarmed with volunteers who, through the American war, were striking at European enemies.

And yet 17 years after the Revolution, the United States was virtually at war with France, which had befriended her. National friendships forged in war are fragile, and Italian and German troops in Spain were not popular even with the Franco soldiers.

Germany and Italy have made their gamble, and won. But they have yet to collect the prize of political and economic advantages. Between the cup and the lip there may yet be a slip.

First Congress—and 76th

About this time, 150 years ago, the first congress of the United States was in session. (The present one is the 76th.)

The session was held in the old treasury building at what is now the corner of Wall and Nassau streets in New York City.

So slight was the confidence of people generally in the new government, that one of that first congress's jobs was to persuade its members that it was worth while to attend at all. Only 13 members of the house and eight members of the senate took the trouble to attend the opening session.

Today, when everybody is worrying about business conditions, it is interesting to note that one of the first things to be brought before the new congress was a petition from the New York Mechanics and Manufacturers.

It set forth the "deplorable state" of trade and manufacturing, and demanded that congress do something about it.

Britain Gets Groggier

Britain is deadly serious about that rearmament.

You may be sure about that, for the admiralty has just approved as a permanent arrangement a recent experiment in raising the voltage of the grog served aboard His Majesty's ships.

British naval grog will henceforth consist of two parts of water to one part of rum. For many years the ratio has been three-to-one.

Behind all this lies a story. In the days of Admiral Vernon (up to 1746) British sailors got their rum "neat," that is to say, just as it came out of the barrel, and strong enough to corrode a copper penny.

It became customary to dilute it three-for-one. But in later days rum itself has grown weaker, so that the British sailor's delight wasn't much stronger than cambric tea.

Now, evidence of stern British determination, the admiralty has restored some of the wallop to the daily grog ration. When this stirring news reaches Germany, who knows, Hitler may decide to call the whole thing off.

Hey, that story in the paper about the girl who picketed her boy friend because he wouldn't speak to her has got swell possibilities for us south Idaho folks. The girl, you'll recall, picketed the boy friend's house and was rewarded with hugs and kisses.

Our local wenches could do the same. Or our local lads could picket the house of the girl friends with big placards saying: "Susie Is unfair to Tommy; She Won't Marry Him." Or husbands could picket their own homes, carrying signs saying: "Mrs. Clunk is Unfair to Mr. Clunk; She Won't Cook Sauerkraut for Him." Or women could picket a store with signs: "This Store Unfair to Me; Won't Replace Hosiery that Ran."

Or school kids could picket the high school with "This School Unfair to Students; Expects Us to Study." Or a Pot Shots contrib could picket the Times office with "Pot Shots Unfair to Unorganized Contributors; Uses Wastebasket Too Much."

We say silly with full consent of our board of advisers, which also has momentarily given up its study of that spider web up on the ceiling.

These old eyes have seldom seen harder-fought games than those the Indians and Bruins put up in the two affrays thus far in the tournament. But the lads battled with all the sportsmanship—and more—you would look for under tension like that. If the lads can do it this way, why can't officialdom be sensible, too? And we mean whichever segment of officialdom is responsible.

What's more, if the boys avoid each other all season and then meet for the first time in critical tournament games such as these, the tension is entirely too high. It's only a game, after all, and they're just boys.

COISES! POT SHOTS GUTTED BY COUNTY!

Having observed a recent effusion in one of the weekly papers of these parts, Pot Shots has become aware of the fact that maybe he, too, ought to holler for a little pork-barrel. After all, the press fund on Pot Shots is now almost 9,000 excluding those the preasroom boys use to start the metal-pot fires each day.

So we examine the weekly paper's outburst and demand by hark the commissioners run their official record in Pot Shots, which has more readers in this county than any any other publication.

Readers of Pot Shots now cannot keep informed on actions of the county commissioners, and although few of the readers of Pot Shots give two hoots about learning anything except parts of the long-winded proceedings, Pot Shots could use the price paid per inch.

But of course that trivial financial matter has nothing to do with our demand. We're thinking only of our public. And those old meanies, Cal Lindsey, Ben Potter and George Hait, better listen or we'll throw a fit at 'em.

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Dick shows increasing interest in Susie, but she wonders if her financial success may prove a barrier to do with him. Meantime, Susie approaches her first broadcast.

CHAPTER XXIV

DICK escorted Susie to the broadcasting studio. He was attentive, encouraging, vastly excited. Brown orchids trembled on Susie's breast as she faced the microphone. Panic shook her. She couldn't say a word—sing a note—she couldn't. Suddenly her frantic eyes were drawn to the back rows of chairs in the studio. Jeff— His chin went up as he smiled.

At once Susie's panic took wings. At once everything was right with the world. And, at once, she forgot Jeff. Her song of love was for Dick, her nicely worded patter on the subject of beauty was for him. She knew her act had been successful before they crowded around her in the studio, before Mr. Jasper called from New York, before Edna and John Harker went from him.

In a way, as the January days passed, Susie was content, in another way she frantically fought against time. Dick loved her, his every glance, every gesture, told her so. What then was the reserve against which she was powerless? Beyond a certain point he did not go and, totally unversed in siren wiles, Susie knew not how to break through his silence. In his presence she was confident, felt him trembling on the verge of an avowal, shrank from him he escaped her. With every parting she had the frenzied feeling that she might never see him again.

It was a hectic interval, not conducive to happiness, although Susie would have said she was the happiest girl in the world. Her stomach, which already seemed shrunken to walnut proportions, suddenly refused food. She lost five pounds, was forced to use more rouge, felt stringy and burned out. Late hours, days of soaring hopes and black depression began to take their toll.

• • •

IT was toward the last of January that Susie took a cold, a miserable, feverish cold. She managed to broadcast on Friday night and knew that something drastic must be done in preparation for Monday. Under Dick's sympathy she fell. Irritation was added to her wretchedness. In swift pique she broke all engagements for the week-end and went to bed.

Emma came with her gentle massage, which could be so murderous on occasion. She advised a strengthening diet, ordered Susie not to leave the bed until Monday and left her to fret and worry and cough.

Dick did not call on Saturday, nor on Sunday. By Sunday evening Susie was a moist, depressed lump in the big bed. In desperation she called his home to learn that he had gone away for the week-end. Solely her distracted thoughts shifted to Jeff and she wondered about him. What was he doing since Edna and Mr. Harker had gone to Florida? Was he alone in the flat? She remembered how unhappy he had been over the separation from Edna.

Comforted by the thought of Jeff she arose, bathed, brushed her tumbled hair, dabbed on a little powder, and called him. He answered at once.

"What are you doing, Jeff!" she asked, her mood lightening with the sound of his voice.

"Hating myself to death," he answered promptly. "What are you doing?"

"I'm being sick in bed."

"Susie—" The quick concern was a balm to her hurt sensibilities. "What's the matter? Why didn't you call me?"

"What do you call this—a radiogram!"

He laughed, his nice, heartening laugh. "What can I do to help?"

"You can come over and drag me out of the Sunday evening blues."

He hesitated. "What about—Dick Tremaine?"

"Out of town," she said lightly. Somehow Dick's degression seemed less important.

"Do you really want me to come, Susie?"

"Worse than that."

"In 15 minutes then."

She replaced the ivory instrument. The frenzy had gone out of her, peace flooded her heart. She put on a trailing, green velvet house coat, made her bed and turned on the lights.

• • •

JEFF came in, leaving the door decorously open.

"Say—you have been sick," he said.

"Just a mean sniffle." She sat down, curling a foot under her, and motioned him to a chair. "You don't look so festive yourself."

"I'm fine," he answered heartily, too heartily. "Been missing Edna a lot—it's seem queer at the store without you—I've listened to all your broadcasts—you're all right."

"Thank you. I'm getting heaps of fan mail, have been approached by several other sponsors, but—I don't know—maybe I'm not cut out to be a career woman. It all seems so unimportant."

"Any domestic prospects?"

"I'm not sure," she told him honestly. After a hesitation she burst out, "How does a girl go about it to win a man, Jeff!"

"You've got me." He was examining the lighted end of his cigaret. "Just don't try, I'd say—if you're his weakness—" He described a self-explanatory arc with the cigaret. "Look—are you fretting about Dick Tremaine? Is that what made you sick?"

"Gracious, no. He's as attentive as can be. Flowers, telephone calls, dates, he's even postponed his return to California because of me." She said this to reassure herself more than Jeff.

"I suppose you're in love with him." Jeff was not looking at her now.

• • •

"YES, if I can't have Dick all this will have been in vain." She gestured to take in the room and herself. "I don't want to live if I can't have Dick."

"Well, doesn't he feel the same way?"

"I think so but—but I want him to say it," Susie went on, drawing a design on the chair arm with her pointed fingernail.

"Give him time, Susie," Jeff said. "From all the floating rumors I gather that he's gone off the deep end." He sighed, crushing out his cigaret and lighting another.

Changing the subject, Susie asked, "What do you hear from the honeymooners?"

"Very little, but everything good. They're in Havana now." Jeff's voice had lost its ring.

"How grand. When they come back you'll live with them, I suppose."

"Nope—I'm staying in the flat. Harker's my boss. I'm too grown up to have a stepfather." Leaning forward, elbows on knees, Jeff stared between at his shoes. He wasn't himself, uneasy, moody. He must miss Edna a lot, Susie thought.

"Any change in the status quo of your department at the store?" she asked.

"No. It sounds cheap and sourgrapish for me to say this, but Kane pulls some terrible boners. He gets four times the salary they pay me and, I'm telling you the truth, I earn my pay keeping Harker's out of difficulty instead of doing constructive work. Hate myself, don't I?" long chuckled with a shame-faced grin.

"You make sense to me," Susie countered loyally.

They talked on, the city hummed far below. Susie forgot Dick. It was restful to forget him after the weeks of turmoil.

March 13, 1924

The Idaho theater was crowded to the very entrance last evening before the presentation of the "Smile and Style" show began, and every number in the three-part program was heartily enjoyed. The affair was put on by the Twentieth Century club and the Chamber of Commerce, with Mrs. H. C. Ostler and Howard E. Babin as supervisors.

The minstrel show at the beginning was one of the big hits of the evening, featuring Mrs. D. L. Alexander, Mrs. N. J. Keefer, Mrs. J. Lawrence Hodgin, Mrs. J. A. Dygert, Mrs. O. P. Duvall and Miss Emma Smith.

The merchants' revue which constituted the second part was made up of many interesting features. The third division was ushered in by the Twin Falls Underwriters, illustrating the value of insurance.

Mrs. F. W. Buch was hostess to the Mentor club Wednesday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Orta Cryder. Miss Maude McDonald gave a paper on "Our Railroads."

RECEIPTS CLIMB FOR DELINQUENTS

Collection of 1938 delinquent taxes under distraint warrants had mounted today to $8,328.42 of the total $10,467.66 which went to warrant, offices of Sheriff Art C. Parker announced this afternoon.

The collection figure, termed one of the best in recent years, now leaves a balance of only $2,140.27 to be collected on the delinquent personal levies for last year.

Collection work on that outstanding amount will be pushed vigorously, deputies said.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
Evening Times Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13—Before this session of congress ends, there will be a spirited dustup over the emergency powers held by President Roosevelt.

Although he is in the seventh year of his presidency, Mr. Roosevelt still holds most of the extraordinary powers delegated to him by congress. Practically all of these powers either are or were due to expire next June. A few have already been extended for two years; but the vigilant Republican minority in the house is preparing to do battle before any more extensions are voted.

Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican minority leader recently appointed a committee of 17 Republican representatives to study the President's emergency powers. This committee has just begun its sessions, under the chairmanship of Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan.

It will submit to the Republican membership of the house a detailed recommendation on each case. And then the shooting will begin.

TOO MUCH STRENGTH?

Says Congressman Wolcott: "The extraordinary powers we've directly and indirectly given the President have set up a situation where we virtually have a managed economy.

"The President can create a depression—as he did in 1937. And if his power to distribute the money appropriated by congress in any manner he sees fit isn't checked, he can also create a period of seeming prosperity by spending government money.

"The President in these particulars has nearly as much power as Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini. He controls the velocity of credit, the lifeblood of agriculture, business and industry.

"We are going to endeavor to recoup those emergency powers, so that the people may have jurisdiction over all of them, through the congress."

PRESIDENT'S "POWERHOUSE"

The list of extraordinary powers is impressive. It includes:

The power to revalue the gold dollar.

Control of the foreign exchange stabilization fund—a matter of $3,000,000,000, whose operations are secret.

The power to issue $3,000,000,000 worth of paper money.

The power to apportion relief appropriations.

Control over FHA home modernization loans.

Control over the rules under which gold may be imported, exported, bought, sold, or stored.

Control over the use of government bonds secured by Federal Reserve notes.

The power to put the currency on a bi-metallic standard by ordering the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The power to raise or lower any tariff duty by 50 per cent.

These powers, with the exception of that raising or lowering tariffs, are due to expire in the spring unless congress votes an extension. The tariff power does not automatically expire, but is due to come up for consideration during discussion of the reciprocal trade agreement act.

In the case of five other powers, extensions have already been voted. These are:

The Import-Export bank.

The Electric Farm and Home authority.

The Commodity Credit corporation.

The RFC Mortgage corporation.

The lending powers of the RFC.

BATTLE ON CURRENCY LIKELY

Congressman Martin remarks that six years trial have shown that these emergency powers did not solve the country's economic or social problems, and suggests that the country wants "to start at once toward the restoration of balanced government."

It is likely that some of the most spirited debate will come when extension of the devaluing power and the power to issue $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks are up for consideration. The latter power has never been used, and there is no indication that any further use will be made of the former.

But to remove the powers permanently appeals to the Republican leaders as an excellent means of notifying the country that the nation no longer is faced by an emergency and that currency-manipulation fears can be set at rest.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS B. FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Fifty-two years ago an eminent Boston physician, Reginald Fitz, studied infections within the abdomen and described the nature of appendicitis so definitely that it has since that time been recognized as a special disease.

Today it is estimated that 20,000 people die every year from this condition in the United States. Though we now know much more about it and how to take care of it than formerly, there seems to be about 15 times as much appendicitis as was recorded in 1885. According to Dr. D. C. Collins, the number of deaths has increased during the last quarter of a century.

Of course, many cases are now recognized as appendicitis which formerly would have gone undiagnosed and in which the deaths would have been recorded as being due to peritonitis or some other condition.

What is the reason hospitals and institutions throughout the country are constantly studying the causes of appendicitis which come to their attention and also occur.

Without any question, one of the important causes is the occurrence inside the appendix (as determined at the time of operation) of small concretions or hard substances which during abouts irritation, inflammation and secondary infection. There are, of course, also instances in which the infection seems to come into the appendix by way of the blood. There may, however, also be inflammation of the tissue of the appendix itself resulting from some associated condition in the bowel, this inflammation acting to obstruct the emptying of the bowel so as to permit development of an acute infection.

Obviously, people ought to be more careful about eating substances which might form the basis of a concretion, such as indigestible seeds, bones, or fibrous material.

One of the most common causes of death in appendicitis is the taking of drastic cathartics, which irritate the bowel and tend to bring about a rupture of the appendix. If the condition can be diagnosed and suitably controlled by operation before the rupture occurs there is much less danger.

A severe pain in the abdomen, vomiting, fever and tenderness in the right lower one-fourth of the abdomen makes a combination of serious symptoms.

When the doctor is called he will want a count of the white blood cells. Until appendicitis is ruled out, never take a cathartic for pain in the abdomen.

Man Who Lectured Here Wins High Christian Science Post

Election of W. Stuart Booth, C. S. B., as a director of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., elevates to an important post a man who lectured in Twin Falls approximately 10 years ago, Christian Science church members said here today.

Mr. Booth appeared in Twin Falls at the high school auditorium.

The new director has been a trustee of the Christian Science Publishing society but has resigned that post. He succeeds the late William R. Rathvon, and will be nominated for the other positions occupied by Mr. Rathvon, the Christian Science board of directors announced at Boston.

Native of Iowa

A native of Iowa, Mr. Booth removed to Denver, Colo., in early boyhood. He was educated in the public schools of Denver, after which he engaged in business for a number of years. He became interested in Christian Science about 44 years ago. He received class instruction in October, 1895, after which he devoted part of his time to the practice of Christian Science.

Since 1911 he has given all of his time to Christian Science work. He is a member of the Mother Church, also of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Denver, Colo., which he joined in 1896, and in which he served as first reader. DEMOCRATS PLAN PROBE FOR WPA

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.)—House Democrats in charge of appropriations planned an independent investigation of works progress administration policies and projects today before deciding whether to vote President Roosevelt more money for relief.

Members of the house deficiency appropriations subcommittee, who discussed the relief situation with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, said their group would study administration requests "more carefully than ever before" in deciding whether more than the $725,000,000 recently voted was needed to keep the Democratic pledge that "no one shall starve."

One high-ranking member, who asked not to be quoted, said the committee might use its seldom exercised power to call in outside witnesses, so as to judge independently relief requirements.

This member mentioned the federal writers project and the federal theater project as subjects for a study of the needs of persons receiving relief. Both were attacked in the hearings of the Dies committee. They were charged with being hot-beds of Communism.

Local Residents Acclaim Art Exhibit Arranged at Heyburn

"One of the finest displays of art ever shown in Idaho." This is the opinion of Twin Falls residents who have attended the seventh annual art exhibit at the Heyburn high school auditorium, which began March 5 and will continue until March 19.

Noteworthy in the collection are 21 paintings from the celebrated Corcoran art galleries in Washington, D. C., linking eastern art with the art of the intermountain region. In all, 116 paintings of exceptionally fine calibre are displayed. Acclaimed as among the finest of the collection, are those of Moller, who is probably best-known to Idahoans.

Of particular interest to Twin Falls persons, will be the program Friday evening of this week, presented in connection with the display.

Not only will Le Conte Stewart, head of the art department of the University of Utah, give an address, but several local musicians will appear on the program.

Hugh Joslyn, Billy Pomeroy and Gerald Werner will play two trumpet trios and Miss Jean Pierce and Miss Joyce Pierce, also of Twin Falls, will sing two vocal duets.

A one-act play will be presented by four Heyburn high school students, under the direction of Aenon Moller, and violin and vocal selections, other than the Twin Falls numbers, will also be presented

Attend from Twin Falls

Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Oaks and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thomas were present from Twin Falls the opening day of the exhibit.

Among other local residents who have been present at the art showing are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Powell, who visited Heyburn Friday evening.

Mother's Standby in Treating CHILDREN'S COLDS

FOR RELIEVING discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Its poultice-vapor action relieves local congestion and helps the youngster relax into restful sleep.

FOR COUGHING and irritated throat due to colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue. It melts, bathes the throat with comforting medication. Also massage on throat and chest.

FOR HEAD-COLD "sniffles" and misery, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air-passages.

PROTESTS CLAIM DEFENSE HAZARD

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.)—The National Association of Manufacturers and the war department protested the CIO-supported labor amendment to the national defense act today as possibly jeopardizing the nation's safety and recovery.

The amendment would authorize the secretaries of war and navy arbitrarily to forbid national defense contracts to manufacturers considered to be dealing unfairly with their workers.

Opposition Spreads

Opposition has spread to house members of the committee considering the bill in conference with representatives of the senate. Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the house military affairs committee, one of the conferees, has appealed to senate representatives to withdraw the amendment.

May, it was understood, has warned Sen. M. M. Logan, D., Ky., of the conference committee that the amendment would "put house members on the spot," interfere with the business appeasement program and jeopardize recovery.

Adopted by Senate

The amendment was adopted by the senate with cursory debate and without a record vote after submission by senate majority leader Barkley, D., Ky. His sponsorship seemed to have added significance because he is President Roosevelt's leader in the senate. But Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring bolted Barkley on that one and if Mr. Roosevelt takes a position in the dispute he will have to choose between his cabinet adviser and his senate leader.

PETTYGROVE HITS AT FORECASTERS

BOISE, March 13 (U.P.) — Idaho agricultural commissioner E. N. Pettygrove attacked federal crop forecasts today as "prognosticators who ruin agriculture's chances by predicting a year in advance how much the farmer will raise, and what prices will be."

"They ought to take these high-salaried, high-sounding-titled men who predict a year in advance what the country will raise, double their salaries and then clamp a piece of adhesive tape over their mouths," Pettygrove said. "Agriculture would be saved a lot of money."

"I don't know where they get their ideas. They predict a crop before it is even planted. It just means that agriculture has to hurtle a stiff barrier and it can't be done in these times."

Asked if he included the University of Idaho extension service in his protest, Pettygrove replied: "University or federal, I don't like prognosticators.

WHY let all your activities today be ruined by a feeling of congestion in your head due to a cold? You can relieve this discomfort by inserting a little Mentholatum in your nostrils. It will soon break up the congestion of mucus there. Mentholatum will also send soothing medicinal vapors up through the breathing passages. Then your head will feel clearer, your breathing easier. Deweys Hosts to Hoovers—G.O.P. Raises Eyebrow

NEW YORK, March 13 (U.P.)—Local Republicans learned with surprise today that District Attorney and Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey had entertained former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover at dinner last week.

The dinner was at the Dewey residence. As a social event it attracted little attention but politically it caused considerable comment. Dewey and Hoover are considered potential rivals for the presidential nomination in 1940, and Dewey's sponsors have spoken bluntly about any Republican "outsiders" attempting to disrupt the pro-Dewey harmony in New York.

TWIN FALLS, BUHL MEET IN PLAY-OFF TILT

Two Teams Finish Tournament with One Defeat Each

Twin Falls and Buhl, conceded to be the pick of basketball teams in south central Idaho even before the Class A district tournament started, will meet again tonight to decide just which club is really the better. The contest will start at 8 p. m. and if you plan to be there, you had better arrive early, because the third consecutive sell-out is a cinch.

Tonight's battle will be the third of the tournament for the two clubs against each other—and both Saturday and Friday night contests going into overtime periods. The Saturday tilt was 23-21 for Buhl, while on Friday, Twin Falls had won 24-21. Both nights the regular playing time ended with the count of 21-all.

Betting Even

As a result of these last two games, betting was even on tonight's tilts, with the club that can get the breaks probably winning by not more than a three-point margin.

Saturday the two clubs staged a typical 1939 tournament game. The lead see-sawed back and forth for the first half, with Buhl ahead at the quarter, 7-5 and Twin Falls leading at the intermission 12-8.

The Bruins stretched the lead to 20-12 at the end of the third period and appeared headed for an easy victory. But the Indians, led by the great Von Hopkins, staged as brilliant a rally as south central Idaho fans have witnessed in some time and knotted the count at 21-all as the game ended.

Continues Sensational Play

In the overtime period, Hopkins, continuing his sensational shooting, added another field goal to his total to tuck the game away in a "sudden-death" extra period.

Hopkins, leading scorer of the tournament, connected for 14 points during the game, to take the stand-out position of the evening. Bill Folsom, Maurice Hartruft and George Davison played outstanding ball for Twin Falls, with Folsom leading the scoring with eight points.

SPORT QUIBS

By HAL WOOD

Just to give you an idea of what tonight's throng will be like, we'll remind you that 45 minutes before game time Saturday the gym was two-thirds filled. Some of the spectators were reading their Evening Times; some were reading books; half a dozen had magazines. . . and two young ladies on the west side even played tick-tack-toe.

We were afraid it wasn't going to happen this year, but fate finally saved the day. A big dog wandered into the gym prior to Saturday night's game and got a nice hand from the crowd.

But the cheers for the dog paled into insignificance when stacked up against the roar given the man in the white muffler who chased the dog. . . but got stymied when the canine retreated under the bleachers.

By the way, you should sit in the front row of the balcony some time and peer over. Until you do, you'll never know at what peculiar angles and in what peculiar shapes the human ear sticks out.

Nobody else has taken the trouble at this late date, so we'll put in a good word right now for Manager Ed Rogel of this tournament. It's Rogel's first attempt at handling the local classic and as far as we can see things are running to perfection.

And to top that off, there's a good chance that tonight's crowd will set an all-time record in attendance for the district tournament — and receipts are a cinch to be bigger than the amount taken in at the state tournament at Boise last year.

But in handing out any bouquets, we can't forget Dale Wakem, who has been the assisting manager in many a meet now. Tournaments are more or less of a night-mare to Dale, but he always seems to pull through some way or another.

We've mentioned it before — but we're going to state it again: You can't beat those Oakley kids for fight.

Coach Dode Cranney's club was so good in that Saturday morning tilt against Buhl that even the most rabid of Buhl fans couldn't help expressing admiration and wonder at the ability of the Hornet club to stand up against a towering outfit like the Indians.

And the hand the Oakley team gets! The crowd, outside of the town supporting the opposing team, is always 100 per cent for the Hornets — no matter who the opponent is.

Floyd Luft is either a master psychologist or is one of those gents who is born to do things the right way. With that tense Buhl throng waiting to roar a greeting when its team appeared on the floor, several Buhl uniforms headed out from the dressing room. Came the roar as per schedule. But it was three substitutes and not the varsity.

A few minutes later, the Buhl first-stringers trotted out. Came the cheering again, redoubled.

If home town vocal support means anything, all that must have had an effect.

While Oakley furnished the biggest surprise of the tournament, the No. 2 spot along that line must go to Coach Ap Berg's Gooding Senators.

His team lost to the Bruins of Twin Falls Saturday morning by two points — and, says Ap, that was the third time this year Coach R. V. Jones' club had defeated his team by that margin.

"However," Berg states, "Twin Falls has the better team. We really didn't expect to go quite as far with this club as we did."

Which reminds us — without prompting from Mr. Berg — that all except one of the Senator players are juniors — or less — and it looks like a great season for the Gooding mentor come 1940.

Six Class A Quintets Set for Meet

Six Class A basketball teams today were prepared for entrance in the annual state championship tournament at Pocatello on March 23, 24 and 25.

Teams which won places in the meet Saturday night were Boise, defending champion; Bonners Ferry and Idaho Falls, district champions; and Sugar-Salem, runner-up at the Idaho Falls tournament.

Moscow enters the meet without competition, and Pocatello had automatically qualified as the host team.

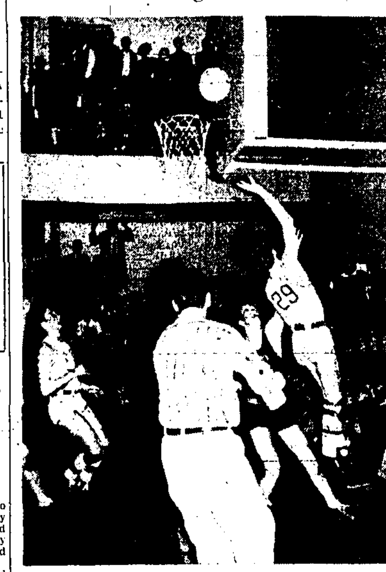
Play-offs will be held tonight to decide two other representatives. Twin Falls meets Buhl here in a third game, and Blackfoot battles McCammon in the same sort of tilt at Blackfoot.

O'DOUL SATISFIED

VISALIA, Calif., March 13 (U.P.)—Manager Lefty O'Doul expressed satisfaction with the way his club was shaping up today after the San Francisco Seals defeated Oakland, 13 to 6, in an exhibition game.

Play Gets Under Way in National A.A.U. Cage Meet

Action in Cage Tournament



The first action photo ever published on a south central district basketball tournament, is presented here. Picture shows George Davison, (29), making a neat one-handed toss as he is fouled by Ted Pence, Buhl guard, in the first Twin Falls-Buhl game that resulted in a 24-21 victory for the Bruins in an over-time period. The Davison field goal brought Twin Falls up to an 18-17 lead and the extra free throw made it 19-17. Davison came back later in the over-time period to toss in the winning basket. Also seen in this picture are Referee Bill Gross, Dale Waite of Twin Falls (with mouth open) and that knee and hand sticking in there belong to none other than the great Vonley Hopkins of Buhl. (Photo by O. A. Kelker, Evening Times staff photographer).

Borican, Cunningham Marks Not Allowed

NEW YORK, March 13 (U.P.)—The two fastest 1,000-yard runs ever made were not entered in the record books today and probably never will be, because of official blundering now rated by track followers along with Referee John Getchell's football faux pas in the last Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech game.

Johnny Borican, Elberon, N. J., Negro flash, beat Glenn Cunningham by a stride in the 1,000-yard special at the Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. Both bettered all records, indoor and out, but strictly unofficially because of starting and time-keeping errors. The race also was clouded by the tactics Borican used to prevent Cunningham's passing him.

Borican's time of 2:08.8, which bettered Cunningham's indoor mark by 1.3 seconds and Elroy Robinson's outdoor record by 9/10 of a second, stands no chance of being recognized because the official starter, Johnny McHugh, reported "Borican beat the gun by about a yard." Cunningham's time of 2:09.2 lowered his own recognized mark by 9/10 of a second, and Robinson's outdoor record of 5/10. His performance cannot be approved because only two stop-watches caught him crossing the line instead of the regulation three.

Borican supporters argued that beating the gun by a yard meant no more than one or two tenths of a second in a race of that distance, and that an allowance should be made and added to his time. Adding two-tenths to his time, his mark would be 2:09 flat, still better than either existing record marks.

Cunningham admirers censured McHugh and claimed he had cost their man the race. If Glenn had not lost that yard, it is possible his bid to pass the Negro runner would have been successful. As it was, many thought Cunningham was fouled because Borican bore out to keep him from passing, and under the rules, which say no runner may "wilfully impede," it was illegal.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 13 (U.P.)—Sixteen teams paired off for their first tests in the national intercollegiate basketball tournament today. Eight will stay to play another day while their victims go back to schools from whence they came.

The other 16 of the 32 entered play their first round games tomorrow, and from then on the field will be cut in half each day until the finals for the championship Saturday night.

Only two of the eight seeded teams play today but the lack of "name" squads did not detract from the interest.

Winona State Teachers of Winona, Minn., and Culver-Stockton of Canton, Mo., start the schedule this afternoon. The Delta Teachers squad from Cleveland, Miss., meets Westminster of Fulton, Mo. Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., plays Louisiana State Normal of Natchitoches, La.; and Suringfield, Mo., Teachers draw East Texas State.

Simpson college, Indiananola, Ia., plays the highly regarded Glenville State team from Glenville, W. Va., in the first night contest. C., drew Peru, Neb.

Finals Tonight In Wood River Outlaw Play

BELLEVUE, March 13 (Special)—Bellevue today believed it possessed the class of independent basketball players in the Wood River district. For two teams, the Bellevue Independents and the Bellevue Yellow Jackets, will battle it out tonight for the championship in the annual outlaw tournament here.

These two clubs entered the finals Saturday night with the Yellow Jackets losers of one game and the Independents undefeated. In that tilt, the underdogs administered a 44-26 lacing to the Independent crew.

In quarter finals Saturday the Yellow Jackets eliminated Gannett, defending champion, 32-29 and the Independents downed Carey, 39-36.

To reach the final game, the Yellow Jackets turned back Carey in an afternoon tilt, 36-24.

MILLS SIGNS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 13 (U.P.)—The list of St. Louis Browns' holdouts was down to three today after Pitcher Howard Mills agreed to get into uniform.

Hailey Rider Captures Ski Meet; Shoshone, Murtaugh Cagers Split

KETCHUM, March 13 (Special) — Wilbur Rathke of Hailey captured the Ketchum amateur ski meet on combined points here Sunday, and the Shoshone Redskins and Murtaugh Savages, ace independent basketball teams, divided victories in two bruising, brawling cage melees.

Rathke turned in a combined time of 2:40.1 for the downhill and slalom events on Ruud mountain.

In basketball, the Savages captured the 3:30 p. m. game by a 46 to 38 count and Shoshone turned around to win the night game by 41 to 36.

Second in Skiing

Second best combined time in the skiing events was turned in by another Hailey youth, George Rathke, whose total was 2:48. George topped his brother in the straight downhill speed test, 1:7 to 1:11.9.

Earl McCoy, Ketchum, and Marvin Obenchain, Ketchum, were right on the heels of the Hailey youths in the race for ski honors.

In club times, Hailey's skiers totalled 9:26, Ketchum 10:59.2 and Carey 13:21.9.

For slalom time only, Wilbur Rathke had 1:28.2; Obenchain 1:34.2 and George Rathke 1:41.

Rough and Tumble

The basketball duels, slated as an additional attraction, stole the show although not as basketball. The games were more in the nature of rough and tumble battles, with the referees having a nerve-wracking time and a fight breaking out on the floor during the second game when Jerry Martin, Murtaugh, swung at Bill Thomason, Shoshone—but missed.

The crowd flocked onto the floor and the fight progressed no further but the game was delayed considerably while teammates argued Martin into playing the rest of the tilt. Neither team had any substitutes on the bench.

Murtaugh won the afternoon fray by holding a narrow edge in both halves. The Savages led, 11-10, at the first quarter, 25-19 at halftime and 34-23 at the third stanza. Bill Powers led in scoring with 17, and Thomason had nine to top Shoshone.

Time to Cool Off

During the third quarter the referees called time out to let the two outfits cool off sizzling tempers.

Shoshone evened the count at night by getting red-hot on basket shooting during the first half, which ended 26-12 for the Redskins. There were plenty of technical fouls called for talking back to the officials. Thomason was high with 14 points, and Powers was next with 12.

Lineups for both games showed Murtaugh playing Dogeagle and Eddington at forwards; Powers, center, and Green and Martin at guards. Shoshone had Haddock and Durfee at forwards; Thomason, center, Tommy Beitia and Berriochoa at guards.

The games were played in I.O.O.F. hall, where the low ceiling forced mostly short shots.

Oakley Offered Place in LDS Salt Lake Meet

Because several members of the Twin Falls Second ward M-Men basketball team are unable to leave their jobs, the champions of the L.D.S. eighth district will not compete in the all-church tourney March 22-25 at Salt Lake City.

Oakley Second ward, runner-up to Twin Falls in the recent Burley tournament, will represent the district instead, according to Cliff Barrows, Twin Falls stake M-Men supervisor. Barrows, manager and coach of the Twin Falls crew which nosed out Oakley 24-22 in the overtime finale at Burley, said that his players "are glad to offer Oakley this chance of attending the all-church tournament." He pointed out that the Twin Falls and Oakley M-Men teams are about on a par in strength and that Oakley will be a competent representative of the district.

Carl Black, Oakley coach, had previously assured Barrows that the Cassia team's acceptance is certain.

A'S INFIELD WEAK

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 13 (U.P.)—Connie Mack, veteran president-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, planned today to give a lot of careful attention to his infield defense. The A's displayed a sieve-like quality in dropping a 14-8 decision to the New York Giants yesterday.

Dodgers Remain Daffy; Defeated In No-Hit Game

TAMPA, Fla., March 13 (U.P.)—Two of Johnny Vander Meer's Cincinnati Red teammates collaborated to pitch the first no-hit game of the season, and maybe the first in Grapefruit league history yesterday.

Vander Meer, last season the first pitcher to hurl two no-hitters in succession, had been scheduled to pitch against Brooklyn, but he was in bed with a slight case of influenza. So his mates, Whitey Moore and Junior Thompson, blanked the Dodgers, 5-0.

There were no hits in the box score, but there should have been one—a double by Peter Coscarart, but some Dodger base-running erased it. Pete reached second safely on his first inning slice down the right field foul line, but failed to touch first and when the ball was relayed to McCormick, he was called out.

13 Quintets Eliminated In First Day

DENVER, March 13 (U.P.)—To the quick and the tall went first honors today in basketball's biggest show, the national A. A. U. tournament. Thirteen of the 55 entrants were packing duffle bags for a sorrowful return trip home as the second day's play began.

Sunday's play, inaugurated this year because of the record entry list, was a "husking bee" which saw only one highly held squad in action, the towering smooth-clicking Antlers of Colorado Springs. The Antlers, obviously under wraps, eliminated the Des Moines, Ia., Collegians 40-33.

In the other 12 games these teams won: Rock Springs, Wyo.; Bogalusa, La.; Sasalle, Colo.; The Marshalls, Salinas, Kan.; Golden State Five, Oakland, Calif.; National Business college, Roanoke, Va.; Young Americans, Minneapolis; Crow Indians of Montana; Bradley's, Milwaukee; and Young Ass'n, Oakland, Calif., and Wichita, Kan.

Big Crowds Expected

Today's tournament crowd promised to far exceed yesterday's 2,500. The peak was not expected, however, until later in the week when the "culls" are weeded out and top seeded teams such as the Denver Nuggets, Bartlesville, Okla. Oilers and Oklahoma City Parks, hit the floor. All the favorites drew first-round byes.

The lithe coppery Crow Indians, from a Montana CCC camp, were victorious yesterday, 39-24 over a young team from Mt. Harris, Colo. Fan interest centered on the second-round game which paired the Indians and Antlers.

Scoring Threat

An individual scoring threat for single-game honors appeared in yesterday's eliminations when little Andy Curtiss of Regis college, a midget among giants, amassed 25 points. Even with his tremendous scoring spurt, the Regis team was defeated.

The highlight of the Monday contests was in prospect for tonight when two of the most heavily backed outfits appear for the first time. The Denver Nuggets, champions two years ago, meet the Marshalls at 9 p. m. Immediately afterward, the Bartlesville Oilers, runners-up to the Nuggets for the second-half race of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. loop, play the Butte, Mont., Boosters.

Illinois Bowler Leads Individual Scoring at ABC

CLEVELAND, March 13 (U.P.)—Al Barney, Pekin, Ill., took the lead in the singles division of the American Bowling congress with a 680 total, while Bob Claggett, Newark, O., moved into second place with a 661 count.

Barney sandwiched high single game of the tourney, 266, between scores of 201 and 213 to average 226.2 for his three games.

In the doubles competition, Vic Maurer and Alex Graham, New Philadelphia, O., led with 1,307.

The five-man event was led by Penn Batteries, with a 2,702.

R. Hobbs, of Lima, O., led the all events.

Mac Hears That New Buddy Baer Is Greatest Thing in Ring

By HENRY McLEMORE

EL PASO, Tex., March 13 (U.P.)—With all the things there are in the world to talk about, you never would guess what Ancil Hoffman chose the other day.

He completely ignored Hitler's rumored designs on the Ukraine, Hedy LaMarr's marriage, and the situation in Spain to talk about, of all things, Buddy Baer. You wouldn't believe that a fellow could talk about Buddy Baer for an hour, but Hoffman did, and before he was finished he was making estimates as to how much Buddy would bank as heavyweight champion of the world.

When Ancil's conversation soared into this high realm I pinched him to see if he were talking in his sleep. He wasn't because he pinched me back and said "Lissen, I'm serious. If Maxie doesn't win the title back from Louis sometime this year, Buddy is bound to."

At this point, Hoffman, who manages both the brothers Baer, waved toward what I thought to be an entire end of the gymnasium in which we were talking, and said "Take a look at him."

What I thought to be the side of a wall turned out to be Buddy. He is that big. Honestly, given an escalator and two clerks, Buddy Baer could pass for a department store. I hadn't seen him in nearly two years, and in that time he set all sorts of records for growing. He has become taller and wider and thicker and broader. And according to Hoffman, who may be a bit biased, Buddy has grown wiser, shrewder, meaner, and better in all the other virtues that go to make up a topnotch fighter.

My conversation with Hoffman and my peek at Buddy took place a day or so before the younger Baer was to fight a fellow named Crowell at the American Legion stadium in Hollywood. Out of curiosity I went to see this fight. To tell you the truth, for 54 seconds Buddy was the most destructive thing since the invention of gunpowder.

He rushed from his corner, fangs bared, and with his gigantic arms flailing in all directions, he knocked poor Crowell so completely unconscious that it took fully fifteen minutes to revive him. During Crowell's hospitalization, so to speak, Buddy paced around and around the ring. Suddenly motivated by a feeling known only to himself, he rushed toward Crowell, parting the group of people who had surrounded him, picked Crowell up as if he were a baby and carried him to his corner. Then, with a final pat on his victim's head, Buddy leaped triumphantly over the ropes and stalked from the arena with the air of a man who has washed his hands of the entire affair.

As Buddy left, Mr. Hoffman came across the ring and, with a sort of Clyde Beatty-Frank Buck look in his eyes, said, "What did I tell you? Who can beat him, I ask you? Who can beat him?"

As I backed down the aisle, I mumbled something that sounded suspiciously like "Joe Louis."

I started running then. Because those are horrid words in the Baer group.

GREATEST BLIZZARD IN FIVE YEARS LASHES EASTERN COAST

STORMS BLAMED FOR NINE DEATHS IN NEW ENGLAND

By United Press

Forecasts of colder weather promised additional suffering today in the blizzard - lashed northeast, threatening to turn slush-covered cities and farms into beds of ice.

The storm, driven by winds of gale force, extended from the middle west to the Atlantic and from Washington, D. C., north to Canada. It started Saturday on the anniversary of the great blizzard of 1888, and continued for three days, as did the almost legendary storm of 51 years ago.

It was the worst blizzard in more than five years in New England, where at least nine deaths were attributed to the storm. Campers and motorists were marooned, transportation almost crippled and ocean traffic menaced.

11 Inches of Snow

At Boston nearly 11 inches of snow fell on top of an earlier three-inch fall, leaving drifts of record-breaking depth. The fall averaged 12 to 24 inches in other New England sections.

Forecasts of freezing weather and continued snow flurries throughout most of the storm areas, however, raised fears of added hardships. Gales which lashed the Atlantic caused storm warnings to be hoisted from Delaware to Maine and forced dozens of vessels to anchor outside harbors.

Schools Closed

Schools were closed in many Massachusetts communities.

Virtually all airplanes were grounded, and at Fitchburg, Mass., 31 cars of a Boston & Maine freight train were derailed.

Most of the storm's victims in New England died of exposure or over-exertion.

Falls of eight to 14 inches were reported in upstate and central New York. Metropolitan New York reported at least eight deaths, all due to the storm.

The heaviest snows of the winter were reported in western and eastern Ontario.

COURT RULES ON GREEN'S ESTATE

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.)—The supreme court ruled today in effect, that Massachusetts is the only state which may levy inheritance taxes on the $37,000,000 estate of the late Edward H. R. Green, son of the famed eccentric multi-millionairess Hetty Green.

The ruling culminated bitter litigation involving Massachusetts, Florida, Texas, and New York. Each state claimed that Green's legal domicile when he died in June, 1936, was within its border. Each claimed, therefore, the right to levy taxes on his huge estate.

Other actions:

Agreed to review constitutionality of certain sections of the national firearms act which provides for registration of firearms.

Agreed to hear a governmental appeal from a Texas federal district court dismissal of an indictment charging Reine Allred and Neal Powers with violation of the Connally "hot" oil act.

Refused to reconsider its recent 8-to-3 decision holding that prompt deposit of copyrighted material with the copyright office is not necessary to establishment of a valid copyright. The decision was rendered on Jan. 30, in a case involving a chapter of "More Merry-Go-Round," written by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen and published in 1932.

OKEH WAITED ON NEW TRUCK FEE

Although reports from Boise indicated that Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen yesterday signed the legislative bill granting $5 license fee for farm trucks of 5,000 pounds or under, no formal authorization had been received here today.

As a result, truck licenses, when sold at all, were going under the old schedule with rebates slated later.

Assessor George A. Childs said that the official authorization must come before the new schedule goes into effect here. The bill slashes license cost of farm trucks, passenger trucks and of commercial trucks in some categories.

Her Fuselage Was Built in 2 1-2 Hours

It took only two hours and 35 minutes to build the 120-pound fuselage for the above five-passenger plane. Reason: a new "plastic" process developed at Hagerstown, Md., which allows an entire section of the fuselage or wings to be molded at one time. "Duramold," a waterproof material consisting of strips of long grain wood, impregnated with bakelite synthetics, was used.

LOYALISTS CRUSH 'RED' REBELLION

MADRID, March 13 (U.P.)—Leader of the republican defense council asserted today that they had crushed a troop revolt against their "peace with honor" program and that tranquility prevailed throughout republican Spain.

They said the council would now hasten to apply measures adopted before the troop rising, and it was believed possible that Gen. Jose Miaja and his colleagues might now make a serious effort to get satisfactory peace terms from the nationalists and end the civil war.

Defense council troops stormed the half day rebel stronghold in the El Pardo palace and the national orphanage yesterday morning. They released 500 persons.

PICKETING MAY CLOSE UP PORT

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13 (U.P.)—Chinese picketing of a Greek steamer consigned to carry scrap iron cargo to Japan reached a point today where a closure of the port of Portland was threatened.

The Portland Waterfront Employers' association scheduled a meeting to decide on a course of action after referring the question to a meeting of the west coast employers' group in San Francisco.

"I believe the trustees will recommend a port closure," Gunther F. Krause, association counsel said. "It is impossible for employers to continue with a contract that the union violates at will."

His prediction followed a ruling by Samuel B. Weinstein, waterfront arbiter, that longshoremen were violating their contract in refusing to work the ship.

Weinstein said longshoremen had a right to refuse to work behind a picket line but said the lines maintained by the Chinese were of a demonstrative nature and did not involve an actual labor dispute.

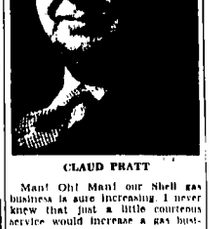
SHARECROPPERS' PROTEST BLASTED

WASHINGTON, March 13 (U.P.)—The federal bureau of investigation, in a report released today, concluded that the January sharecropper demonstration in southern Missouri was a planned protest against economic conditions of sordidness and poverty which were aggravated by the federal farm and relief programs.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover submitted the report to attorney general Frank Murphy, who requested the investigation.

The FBI sustained complaints of demonstrators that they lived in unsatisfactory sanitary surroundings and received hardly the bare necessities of life. But it absolved landlords of charges of persecution.

The report found a few instances of violations of civil liberties, but Murphy announced after studying the report that there appeared to be none warranting federal prosecution except, perhaps, the alleged interception of a telegram to the demonstrators' leader, Owen H. Whitfield, a Negro minister. The federal communications commission is investigating this, he said.



CLAUD PRATT

Man! Oh! Man! our Shell gas business is sure increasing. I never knew that just a little courteous service would increase a gas business this much. As I look out the window I see the men actually washing windshields and polishing off head lights and filling tires and actually changing license plates for the customers. It's hard to realize that this is Old Claud Pratt's Service Station. We've been in the oil for so long I thought it was hard to get out of it but we're coming out in colors. In fact I've decided that a rut is just a grave with both ends knocked out. Claud Pratt has been in a rut long enough. I've decided I'm on the road from the hospital and my eyes are getting brighter as I grow older. Instead of saying watch my smoke I'm going to say watch our white paint. We've ordered new uniforms for our men. They'll have new shirts and black neckties Boy Howdy! they'll do the cake walk and I don't mean maybe. Just say to yourself "I shall buy Shell gas." And I'll buy it of Pratt or I won't buy it at all. Then come out and make your word good and don't forget to get your fill of that Arkansas Motor Oil but don't never get your fill of Claud Pratt, because he thinks he sells merchandise lower than Harry Musgrave. But don't send all your money to the mail order houses. Why not give Harry, Musgrave a chance.

Wives, Mules Land Used in Mate Trading

RUSSELLVILLE, Ala., March 13 (U.P.)—Four persons were charged with bigamy today in a wife-trading deal which reportedly also involved two children, two mules and 80 acres of land.

W. D. Johnson was in jail in default of $1,500 bond and the former Mrs. Odell Brand was in a cell in lieu of $1,000 bond while the former Mrs. Johnson and Brand were free on $300 bond each to await action of the grand jury when it meets in May.

Sheriff D. C. Nix said the wives, who were neighbors in Red Bay, had obtained divorces on grounds of cruelty. The day after the divorces were granted, they married each other's husband, although Judge William Quillen, who granted the divorces, told them they must wait 60 days before remarrying.

Bonds for Johnson and the former Mrs. Brand were set higher than the others because it was believed they arranged details of the swap.

Police Chief J. C. Stone said he was told Johnson gave Brand 80 acres of land and two mules to carry out the deal. In addition, Stone said he was told, Mrs. Brand was to have two of her five children when she became Mrs. Johnson. The Johnsons have two children.

WHEAT FOLLOWS FOREIGN DECLINE

CHICAGO, March 13 (UP)—Wheat prices dipped fractionally in sympathy with Liverpool and Winnipeg in dull trading on the Chicago board of trade today.

At the close wheat was off ⅜c to ⅛c, corn off ¼c to ⅜c and oats ⅛c to ¼c lower.

Generally favorable weather in the winter wheat belt discouraged the buying side. Foreign demand for North American wheat remained slow. Winnipeg wheat prices sagged fractionally.

AUTO CUTS POLE; 3 ESCAPE HURTS

Three youths escaped serious injury but the automobile belonging to one of them was almost completely demolished in an accident Sunday morning that saw the machine tear off a telephone pole on U. S. 30 one-eighth of a mile east of Hansen.

Driver and owner of the car was Robert Shouse, 20, route one, Filer, according to the state traffic officer who investigated.

Riding with Shouse were Clell Ingraham, 20, route one, Filer, and Reed Bankhead, 17, Twin Falls. All three sustained minor bruises and cuts.

Headed west at 7 a. m. Sunday on a road made slippery by frosts, the machine skidded 125 feet, went off into the borrow pit and sheared off the telephone pole, the state officer said. He estimated damage at $300. It was not covered by insurance.

Taylor Expected To Answer Blast On Quitting Jury

BOISE, March 13 (UP) — Statehouse Democrats predicted today Atty. Gen. J. W. Taylor would have a statement "within a few days" in answer to accusations by K. C. Barlow, Cassia county senator and chairman of the senate finance committee that the attorney general was using a "flimsy excuse" to drop the prosecution of Ada county grand jury indictments.

Taylor's answer to questions from reporters was a terse "no comment."

STOCKS ERRATIC ON CZECH CRISIS

NEW YORK, March 13 (UP)—Uncertainties over the Czechoslovak situation and relief appropriations unsettled the stock market today. Trading turned dull.

Selective buying, however, sent a few issues to new highs for the year and longer. Federal Mining and Smelting hit a top of 105, up 5, and Reynolds Metals Convertible preferred at 85, up 5½.

Copper shares, the most active issues, registered losses ranging to a point. Anaconda and Kennecott which control Chile's copper output, eased as the time approached for the Chilean senate to take up a bill passed by the chamber taxing copper exports. It is estimated that the chamber measure would cost Anaconda 21 cents a share annually and Kennecott half that amount on the basis of current copper prices.

Gas and electric utilities dipped small amounts. Steel shares fluctuated narrowly. Farm issues were mixed.

Dow Jones preliminary closing averages: Industrial 150.79, off 0.98; railroad 32.45, off 0.62; utility 26.05, off 0.23.

Stock sales approximated 650,000 shares, against 1,210,000 on Friday. Curb sales were 141,000 shares, against 227,000 shares Friday.

Nazi-Czech Clash Disturbs Europe Peace

WAR LEADERS IN CABINET CLAIMED READY TO RESIGN

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 13 (U.P.)—Reports of serious clashes affecting Germans as well as Czechs and Slovaks reached Prague today as the cabinet met to consider the Slovak problem.

Officially, the tense situation in Slovakia was ended by the appointment of a new cabinet and the relaxation of Czech military rule.

Actually the situation was so serious it was reported that the Czechoslovak government itself might be reconstructed, with Gen. Jan Syrovy, war minister, and Gen. Alois Elias, communications minister—the only army men in the cabinet—retiring.

18 Reported Killed

Reliable reports were received from Bratislava that 18 members of the Slovak Nationalist Hlinka guard had been killed in Slovakia in various clashes Friday with members of the Czech Sokol organization and the Czechoslovak army.

Even more serious from the diplomatic viewpoint was a clash last night at Brno, in Czech territory, between Czech-German youths and Czechs. The disturbances, of which full details were not given, continued until mounted police intervened. Several persons were injured and several were arrested.

Militia Relaxed

Ministers of the new Slovak cabinet include Premier Karl Sidor, former vice premier of the central government; Interior, Dr. Martin Sokol, previously head of the Slovak diet and commerce, Dr. Peter Zatko, secretary general of the Slovak industrial association.

As soon as the cabinet was appointed Saturday night there were signs that the Czechoslovak military activity in Slovakia was being relaxed.

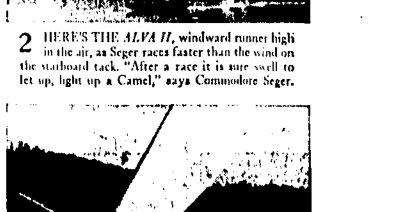
1 THE "SHOVE OFF" "Hiking" an ice-boat at 2 miles a minute is a thrilling and chancy sport. First in line is George J. Seger's Alva II. He is Commodore of the Lake Hopatcong (N. J.) Ice Yacht Club... has won many titles because of his skill and daring.

2 HERE'S THE ALVA II, windward runner high in the air, as Seger races faster than the wind on the starboard tack. "After a race it is sure swell to let up, light up a Camel," says Commodore Seger.



3 LOOK OUT! Ice-boat pilots need the skill and nerves of racing-car drivers. Like those in many other thrilling activities, ice-boat sailors find that Camels never jangle the nerves, Commodore Seger reports. And they're so mild, taste so good!

COSTLIER TOBACCOS—Smoke 6 packs of Camels and find out why they are the LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE in America

ICE-BOAT RACER SAYS:

"For smoking pleasure at its best... Let up—Light up a Camel"

4 NOW'S THE TIME for a Camel. The race over, Seger pushes back his goggles, lets up and lights up. "Camels never tire my taste or jangle my nerves," he says. That goes for Frank Rodecker, champion aquaplaner—Marie McMillin, parachute jumper—Ralph Guldahl, U. S. Open golf champion, and millions of other smokers who also appreciate Camel's extra-mild, costlier tobaccos. See if you, too, don't find more true smoking enjoyment, cigarette for cigarette, in mild, fragrant Camels.
