AMERICA PAYS TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER DEAD

CAPTAIN PORTER LAUDS DEEDS OF WAR VETERANS

Memorial Day Speaker Pays Tribute to Soldiers of Past Wars

RANKS OF THE G.A.R. ARE RAPIDLY THINNING

Americans Urged Not to Forget Hero Dead Lying in Veterans' Fields mortal day and a day of remembrance, picturesque, appealing to triumphal pride; it is a day of sorrow for our sons; but it is a day of comfort for us.

The thoughts of the living must be that it is just the living who have lost their loved ones.

Captain Porter opened his audience by saying: "I am but a pattering old soul; that is it but the wind from the south that has blown me here to ride."

He said: "The Civil War was the last great war in which the United States participated. It is but the living who have lost their loved ones.

At the Memorial Day, pointed out Captain Porter, the Union soldier, the Union sailor, the Union airman, the Union marine, the Union soldier, the Union sailor, the Union airman, the Union marine, the Spanish-American who will be more numerous survivors, and more numerous veterans, have been buried in the same cemetery.

He said: "We have not forgotten the silver-wheated dove of peace would carry a message of joy and comfort at the time of the dark dragon of war, with its fire and danger and sorrow, would descend upon us." He said: "We are in high places, endeavoring to save us the dangers and grief of a war with our neighbors."

The arrest of Dr. Westlake followed an announcement made by Captain Porter, identifying him as a member of the second class to graduate from Twin Falls High School in 1909. There were many of his former schoolmates, many of whom are still living in Twin Falls and adjacent towns, including Kenyon Green, Tom Hansen, James Shidell, Dub; Mr. Jim Crider, Park, Durley, and Mrs. Allie Turner.

At that time there was but one school located in the Blackfoot valley.

The commencement exercises were held in the auditorium of the school, with the band playing.

Dr. Frank Westlake, dentist, of Twin Falls, told a conflicting story of his social life.

He said he had been a member of the "larks," a group of students, but had not been a member of the "larks" during his senior year.

LOS ANGELES, May 30 (UPI)—Dr. Frank Westlake, middle-aged retired physician, was held here today charged with suspicion of murder in connection with the death of his wife.

NEW ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD IS ESTABLISHED

Lient. Herbert Faby brings plane to earth after almost thirty-seven hours in Air

LOS ANGELES, May 30 (UPI)—Another new record has been added to the string already recorded in various parts of the country.

Lient. Herbert Faby brought his Lockheed Vega plane to rest here night after remaining in the air 30 hours, 60 minutes and 40 seconds. This was two hours longer than the old mark for solo non-refueling in air flights.

Faby's record was created to beat the record set by a 24-foot dead stick landing.

It was the fifth record claimed this week. The metropolitan, 20-year-old, busiest man, was a flight instructor and the late J. A. Waters was president. S. D. Clark was superintendent of schools, and L. G. Green, manager of the Cranbrook Inn.

At East St. Louis, Ill., the Zimmerman claimed two records for solo non-refueling flights.

MONOPLANES Green Flash and Yellow Bird Delayed by Adverse Conditions on Ocean

OLD ORCHARD, Me., May 30 (UPI)—Two monoplanes, Green Flash and Yellow Bird, delayed by adverse weather yesterday, were held up until today by adverse weather conditions.

Postponements were decided on after a receipt of a report from Dr. James H. Kimball, the New York weather station, which stated winds would be encountered over the Atlantic.

Flight was suspended until the morning of May 31, but the two planes started again at 11:15 a.m. (local time) after a touch-and-go landing.

Ralph Hepburn, whose plane has given him one of the best performances in the race, started again at 11:15 a.m. (local time) after a touch-and-go landing.

Hepburn, 24, of New York, had planned to fly solo across the Atlantic, but the two planes, which had been flying in formation, were forced to land.

Mr. Anna Haydon, 75, was fatally burned in her home when she attempted to extinguish a fire caused by the burning of oil. The burning liquid, which was expected to live.

Many Good Golfers In Golf This Year; Youthful Horton Smith in Limelight

By FRANK GITTETT,
United Press Sports Editor.
NEW YORK, May 29 (UPI)—It seems as if this is to be a year of golfing, with Bobby Jones, Sam Cochran, and Bobby Jones had best look to his laurels.

Now boys will be getting back to golf, especially day trips to the "orthodox" open at Manuchuck.

Bobby T. Jones, Jr., must have had a bright and brilliant battling eye keen, for if the goat of early spring is any critter, the personal challenge to play accuracy will take on a new edge this year.

Young Horton Smith, who celebrated his 21st birthday last week at Whistler, British Columbia, showed what he could do. More he could do by knocking off two rounds of 66 in the same day.
Then he slowed down, was only able to make 72 in the next four days, his final count was 64-70-71-73.

That's golf. And about the same time, British boys broke the hearts of those British pro girls at St. Cundum the year around, grabbed themselves off a 61. That's minute.

Walter Hagen's 67 at Muirfield must not be overlooked. It was with that one cracking round that he challenged the British for the British open championship.

Daily Poem

THE EAGLE

John Ruskin, in "The Abenc of Skiddaw," says: "I have to the eagle; how shall it cry? From the breast of the bird which reaches on high? His voice is the mountain-hill?"

What would he say?

Where beats the brook backward the flap of his wing?

Lo, at where impelled by his tempest-like force,

In clouds-bird-like circles he wheels on his course;

For the rock that is born to be broken is broken;

Scarred leaves lie thunders crazily raining.

WE ARE REMEMBERING

We are remembering, today. Our usual duties we have put aside so that for a few short hours we may pay homage to the record of accomplishment of our immortal dead. In a real sense our minds, our hearts, our hands reach back through the mist of years so quickly sped that we may inform ourselves anew of the gallant strength of those forbears of whom today we find ourselves heirs.

And what do we remember?

Some few there are of us whose memories go back to days of high excitement, hot passion and stern struggle in '61 to '65 when the fabric of the Union was all but torn to shreds. We remember with gratitude that our nation survived, and we give thanks today for the stalwart stamina of those whose services and sacrifices made possible to us a saved country.

We remember, too, that even further back our country was born because courageous men and women supported their convictions with armed strength and fought and persevered that we might be free and independent.

We remember out of the pages of our own memories, many of us, the long lines of men in blue who on this same day in years gone by marched before us in remembrance of departed comrades. Their ranks have been depleted, but in the memories of us now living they are enshrined as gallant patriots whose courage and devotion furnished us the pattern of accomplishment we have striven to fashion.

We remember the lines of men who entrained from hamlet and city all over our country when the war with Spain came. We recall their casualties from fighting and disease, and the improved status today of Cuba and the Philippines we credit to the ideals they cherished and fought to establish.

We remember the days of '17 and '18 when millions of men and billions of money were poured into the maelstrom of Europe's madness that the world might be made safe for democracy and that we might end war. We remember that those men were called on to face the most horrible weapons of war that man's ingenuity has evolved.

And we remember, too, that war is still in the saddle, that mankind still depends on the force of arms for ultimate protection when our other flimsy defenses have proved inadequate.

Because we are aware that war is still accepted as the final arbiter of national destinies, we regretfully remember that our country must continue to defend itself that it may not be crushed by some nation mad with lust of power and aggression. In this connection we remember with what pride it has been said of our country that it is invincible, that it is safe from conquest. If we are honest and informed, we accept such talk for what it really is—mere childish prattle founded on a false conception of our own power and our preparedness.

We remember today to hate war as wasteful, savage, barbarous—but we are spurred by necessity to know we must still depend on it.

We are remembering, today.

ABOUT HEALTH FOODS

The American public should beware of "health foods," "life grains," and other food products, for which makers claim curative or health-giving properties, say officials of the Food, Drug and Insecticide Administration, United States Department of Agriculture.

The administration believes the use of the word "health" in connection with foods constitutes a misbranding under the food and drugs act. The use of this word implies, says W. G. Campbell, chief of the administration, "that these products have health-giving or curative properties, when, in general, they merely possess some of the nutritive qualities to be expected in any wholesome food product."

"The label claims on these products," he says, "are such that the consumer is led to believe that our ordinary diet is sorely deficient in such vital substances as vitamins and minerals, and that these so-called 'health foods' are absolutely necessary to conserve life and health."

"In the enforcement of the food and drugs act, it is necessary to warn manufacturers of these products to have their labels conform to the facts of medical science and actual laboratory tests. The Food, Drug and Insecticide Administration does not object to calling these products 'wholesome,' but the effort to give the impression that we all need something added to our everyday diet if we are to avoid nutritional disaster is a misrepresentation which the food law enforcing foods and waters are not only a waste of authorities aim to combat."

"So-called 'health-giving' biscuits, for instance, have no responsible properties but are responsible for money if purchased for their cure—a more serious loss because their use is relied upon as a substitute for approximate corrective measures, as a proper diet, exercise and sunshine."

GOOD WILL VISITORS

A PARTY of 11 European journalists is now on a good will trip to the United States, the purpose being to study American newspaper methods and also our economic and political situation. The group includes some outstanding publishers from Belgium, Greece, Yugoslavia, Estavia, Poland, France, Italy, Rumania, and Spain.

The party is to arrive in Portland on June 21 and will go from that city to Seattle, thence east with a stop at Yellowstone park.

Perhaps their visit will be enlightening to the visitors because many Europeans get an impression from the "movies" and from western fiction that this is a land where the horned and Indians take the warpath at sunrise.

The farm population of the United States is now said to be the lowest in twenty years. The Bureau of Economics of the agricultural department estimates our farm population January 1 last at 25,511,000 as compared with a peak of 32,000,000 in 1909. But for the fact that the birth rate on farms has begun exceeding the death rate, the farm population would be much lower today than it is, since the trend has been from rural to urban communities for some years. The bureau states that 1,960,000 persons left the farms last year for the cities, while 1,382,000 went from cities to farms. Improved transportation facilities have enabled many actual farmers to reside in towns and cities, where they desire to take advantage of the educational facilities for their children, and still operate their farms, but in these cases persons so living are no longer counted in the official statistics as farm residents, although to all intent and purpose they are farmers.

We remember the days of '17 and '18 when millions of men and billions of money were poured into the maelstrom of Europe's madness that the world might be made safe for democracy and that we might end war. We remember that those men were called on to face the most horrible weapons of war that man's ingenuity has evolved.

And we remember, too, that war is still in the saddle, that mankind still depends on the force of arms for ultimate protection when our other flimsy defenses have proved inadequate. Because we are aware that war is still accepted as the final arbiter of national destinies, we regretfully remember that our country must continue to defend itself that it may not be crushed by some nation mad with lust of power and aggression. In this connection we remember with what pride it has

Charles H. Smith Returns after Attending Brother's Funeral in the Town of Willard.

BURLEY News Bureau, Idaho Evening Times.

BURLEY, Idaho, May 30 (UPI)—Charles H. Smith, farmer living near here, has just returned from Willard, Utah, where he attended funeral of his brother, Alton H. Smith, who died Saturday morning. A very strange accident. About two weeks ago Mr. Smith was standing in his front yard along the road when a wild horse, which was being driven along the road, went wild and dashed through the fence, and into Mr. Smith's yard, causing him to fall with such force that he was unconscious.

The mystery is why the machine happened to deflect at such an unusual angle, since

Mrs. Matilda Kinnan, who lives

across the street, says her brother was accompanied by Miss Ruth Aschendorf, who has been taking the Willard course
