IOWA WILL SEEK REINSTATEMENT IN THE BIG TEN

The will be was conjecturable. The subcommittee may do any one of three things:
 1. Immediately reinstate the Hawkeyes.
 2. Make the period between now and January 1, 1926 (when the suspension was to have become effective) a probationary one and allow the faculty committee to again take a vote in connection with Iowa.
 3. deny the Iowa plea and refer the faculty committee's report to the Big Ten committee.
 The delegates who will represent Iowa are Edward Lauer, newly appointed physical education director and Louis Peters, the Iowa member of the conference athletic committee.

Outcomes of Plea Remains In Doubt; Hawkeyes' University Ready to Present Position

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP)—Two Iowa professors today were to appear before a subcommittee of the Big Ten faculty athletic committee, with a plea that the University of Iowa be reinstated as a member in good standing in the Western conference.
 Iowa was suspended by the athletic committee a little more than a week ago for violation of the conference's rules which prohibit subsidizing of athletes.
 The Hawkeyes have a petition ready which asks for reinstatement and they will present it today to the subcommittee, which is composed of professor E. A. Goodenough, Illinois; James Foy, Indiana; Brown, Hopkins and Minnesota; J. E. French, Ohio; Rick Springer, Wisconsin; and St. Louis.

INDIAN SCOUT LAID TO REST

SODGE GRASS, Mont., June 4 (AP)—White-Man-Runs-Him, 75, a famous old Crow Indian scout, was buried this morning after simple ceremonies in the Baptist mission here in the heart of the Crow Indian reservation. Members of the American Legion had charge of all the services, it being the scout's last request that that organization conduct his funeral ceremonies.
 White-Man-Runs-Him was the last survivor of six Crow scouts who led Gen. George A. Carter from Hoston to Little Big Horn, where Carter's command was annihilated in June, 1876. The old scout died on his ranch here yesterday.
 Although his name was not as well known as that of Custer, another of the six, the last survivor was in late years regarded as one of the finest types of the Indian race, and was the subject for much artist's work.

Daily Poem

A GIRL LIKE YOU

Oh, O'asis Gaudier in Rutland Herald

The faith of a little girl like you
That counts with the world's great men,
When a fellow's down and misery lies
And his lips can vouch no song,
That makes his weakness the martyr's love
And the scheme of life proves tame,
It's knowing somehow that still you care
That makes a fellow game.

When he wants to quit in the first long lull,
Then back in the grilling race,
When he feels the world's not worth while,
And he balks at the speedy pace,
It's then that the faith of a girl like you
That makes his weakness the martyr's love,
And he plays to win as a man should do,
The game he might have lost.

It's girls like you that keep him straight,
Keep him white clear through and clean,
It's girls like you that make men great,
And that's what they ought to know.

Oh, it's good for the man, when all seems night,
When the clouds hide the goal from sight,
Just to kneel down in prayer, say, "Fist,"
For the sake of a girl like you.

THE SURE TARIFF BARRIER

NEWS REPORTS that foreign neighbors and customers of the United States are displaying resentment over some of the high schedules in the Hawley tariff bill, need cause no surprise.

Theoretically, the tariff is for the protection of our products, agricultural and industrial. Actually, this is not so true as it should be. Tariff is used in some cases to protect industries that have no need of protection, and the result is to create monopolies.

The United States manufactures most of the aluminum products and comes so nearly having the business cornered as to make American aluminum manufacturing interests virtually a monopoly.

Andrew Mellon is credited with being one of the heaviest stockholders in aluminum manufacturing concerns, and the tariff is so high that the industry can sell at very high prices and still beat foreign competition.

A few years ago manufacturers of print paper fought to have a big tariff duty imposed so that their products could be "protected" against foreign made paper. The outcome of such action, of course, would have been that the price of print paper would have been raised sharply in the United States. Newspapers became alarmed over the prospects of having their print paper bills increased and fought the paper manufacturers' proposal, and the tariff was not adopted. The result was that newspapers were spared the necessity of heavy additional expense under the guise of "protection," and the paper companies met foreign competition. The manufacture of print paper has increased by leaps and bounds since then, notwithstanding the leaders in the business were convinced that they faced ruin unless they had the benefit of tariff protection.

The American standard of living is much higher than the standards of living in most of our competing countries, and the necessity of some tariff barrier is taken for granted by a big majority of students of public affairs. The democratic party in the past election realized this by adopting the principle of the protective tariff.

Agriculture needs tariff protection if the products grown and produced on our farms are to compete with crops grown on cheap lands in other countries, but agricultural interests protest that industry receives benefits over agriculture in the ratio of two to one. Agriculture takes half a loaf, and industry is handed a whole loaf by the tariff. Naturally, agriculture resents such discrimination.

There is a lot of unbecome tied up in this tariff business. The tariff used to have appeal chiefly for the farmer, but industry has moved into the picture and taken the big end of the benefits, sometimes for the purpose of creating monopolies and hoisting prices to the sky.

There can be little doubt that some of the schedules should be lowered. We talk a lot about our American initiative and manufacturing genius. Why coddle it with unnecessary tariff protection when such protection merely subjects the general public to a process of gouging?

THE CHILD WITH BAD EYES

The importance of providing proper educational facilities for children with defective vision is stressed in a recent statement issued by Mrs. Winifred Hathaway, associate director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, who points out that many a child suffers great injustice in school simply because nobody realizes that he has weak eyes.

"Educators have found," she remarks, "that many children who had been accounted stupid, sullen, morose, mentally sub-normal and even criminal, displayed excellent intelligence and pleasing dispositions as soon as their defective vision was recognized and they were placed in sight-saving classes. The necessity for some children to take the same work over again, a serious educational waste, is frequently traced to eye difficulties."

Aside from the great loss of children whose troubles can be ended by the provision of glasses, Mrs. Hathaway estimates that there are at least 60,000 school children in the nation who need to be educated in special sight-saving classes. At present, she says, there are not enough classes of that kind to accommodate a tenth of the number.

Not only is there need of special work being done as regards the eyesight of children, but they need to be examined thoroughly as to their physical fitness to do work. The pre-school clinics being conducted in Twin Falls under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher organization have such purposes behind them and undoubtedly have a real value to both children, parents and the schools.

TO TEST YOUR WEIGHT

Most of us often wonder how the figures given on the scales showing our correct weight for our height are obtained," says Mrs. Iva Church Sanderson of the National Dairy Council. "Here is a new, easy way to see whether your weight as much as you should for good health's sake. It is based on the system in use at the Johns Hopkins hospital. Measure your height without shoes, allow 110 pounds for your five feet and multiply the number of inches over five feet by 5.12—that is, allow 5.12 pounds for every inch. There may be as much as 10 pounds variation and still you will be in the normal weight group, depending on whether your bones are light or heavy. Also, age makes some difference in the wisdom of being either slightly underweight or over weight."

Nutrition authorities in general agree that your weight is a pretty good index of whether you are getting the right amount of foods for health and growth. Monthly weighing is advocated for all of those who are concerned with good health habits.

"Workmen frequently suffer bodily fatigue out of all proportion to the amount of physical labor performed in a given period of time, simply because delicate muscles of the eye are kept under constant tension in holding the eye adjusted for long, heavy loads of close work."—Dr. B. Franklin Royer, medical director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

HERD SURPLUSES

(Idaho Statesman)

A point worth the reflection of Idaho dairymen is the "herd surplus" problem. The Idaho Holstein association, at a meeting of breeders of the type held in Jerome county recently.

Idaho is fast developing into a source of high-grade and purebred dairy stock for her neighbors. The demand for such stock is increasing, and the dairyman purchases certain Idaho-bred dairy cows. Stock buyers from the neighboring states come into the Idaho dairymen communities, purchase, and take to their home states the cows they sell at a profit elsewhere. This profit, Davis contends, belongs rather to the breeder than to the speculative middleman.

The benefits to be derived from cooperative marketing have been proved again and again in Idaho. It is the duty of the dairyman to create an economic foundation. Cows are a crop, not less than wheat, cotton, beans, and it is just as logical that the returns of cooperative marketing, the keynote of which is the elimination of the middleman, can be successfully applied to the handling of the herd surplus.

The $25 to $50 profit made by professional buyers, which is well so to the breeder, or at least be divided between the breeder and the ultimate buyer. At the estimated $25 per head, the Idaho cow sold in California last year at the amount of $150, a sum altogether too large to be disregarded. The dairy industry in Idaho would undoubtedly profit greatly if some cooperative method of handling herd surplus from breeder to user, eliminating the middleman, can be devised.

DOUBLE WEDDING HELD AT BURLEY

Burley News Bureau Idaho Evening Times

Idaho American Farmer

HEALTHY, energetic, and a double wedding of more than usual interest was celebrated at the home of Bishop and Mrs. J. C. Cranley at Oakley on Saturday last, when the Misses Florence Cranley and Mrs. Florence Cranley were united in marriage in one ceremony. Miss Florence was married to Leonard H. McHenry of Boise Saturday afternoon and son of J. H. McHenry, prominent legislator of Idaho and well known business man of the Idaho metropolis. Mr. and Mrs. McHenry will enter a very happy wedding trip, both to Portland, Ore. Mr. McHenry is now engaged at the home of his parents in Boise.

Miss Clara Cranley became the bride of Kenneth S. Stringfellow, cashier of the Oakley Farmers' Commercial bank, son of Mr. Stringfellow of Paine, Idaho. They will be at home in Oakley after a short visit to Portland of three weeks.

Only a few very intimate friends were guests at the wedding, but a very beautiful but simple one. Miss Florence was accompanied during the past year, by a beautiful wedding gown of archdiocese, both in Portland, Ore. in a dress of exquisite design.

After the ceremony the principal guests were served with a dainty wedding luncheon, after which the happy couples departed immediately upon their wedding trips.

Mrs. Mrs. A. K. Calkins, who have made their home for many years, departed on the evening train for California, where they will reside in the future. They have relatives in California and they hope to make their home near their people. Mr. Calkins has a public sale of his property during the past week.

Dr. and Mrs. Ben Schultz returned Monday morning from a short visit with Mrs. Schultz's father and mother in the latter river country.

Miss Leola Crane arrived home from the University at Pocatello where she spent the past year as a student. She will spend the summer with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Crane, of Coconino county.

Mrs. O. H. Hays, widow of the late Justice Hays of Coconino county, is visiting in Burley. She has resided in La Grande, Oregon, for some years, since the death of her husband. Mrs. Hays lived in Albion for many years, and has a host of friends there and in Burley where she lived after the death of her husband.

Robert Bartlett left Sunday morning for Seattle where he will be connected with the chemical department of a sugar factory. He expects to remain there during the summer. He is a son of S. W. Bartlett of the Burley flat.

CONOCO ETHYL

CONOCO ETHYL GASOLINE

COOL running at all speeds

No engine can knock and stay cool. Because Conoco Ethyl Gasoline eliminates knocks, it insures a cooler running engine. That's why Conoco Ethyl is the ideal summer motor fuel.

Of course, Conoco Ethyl is the essential fuel for high compression motors. Ethyl Fluid made these motors commercially possible. But Conoco Ethyl offers real economies for motors of ordinary compression too. It greatly reduces wear and tear, produces more power, particularly in carbon coated motors lessens gear shifting and makes hill climbing a sporadic burden.

Conoco Ethyl is not a carbon remover. But it does make carbon deposits a source of power, so that these deposits decrease the combustion area in the cylinders, thereby automatically increasing the compression ratio. Conoco Ethyl functions perfectly under this increased pressure.

And remember Conoco Ethyl is a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra miles motor fuel, and Ethyl Fluid, developed by General Motors. All Ethyl Gasoline is not Conoco Ethyl. To be sure you are getting Conoco Ethyl fill only at those pumps which display the Conoco Ethyl sign.
