CANTON BATTLE STILL RAGING; SHANGHAI QUIET

Washington Dispatches Tell of Conditions in War Stricken City; American Gunboat Is Fired Upon.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Official advices from China today while indicating gradual subsidence of the anti-foreign disturbances at Shanghai, disclosed the fractional warfare in the Canton area was spreading slightly, although the general situation there was described as unchanged.

In Shanghai, great improvement was noted by Consul General Cunningham, there being no recurrence of disorders and violence. The anti-foreign strike in the international settlement continued and had extended to British and Japanese-owned river steamers, the message added, but there was no development to cause alarm for the safety of Americans or their property.

Boat Under Fire

A dispatch from Consul General Jenkins at Canton reported the American gunboat Campanga had been fired on from the shore while escorting a launch laden with provisions for the Christian college but no damage had been done and that all Americans were safe at 1 p. m., June 10. He added he had warned the military authorities again American lives and property ought not to be placed in jeopardy.

The official advices did not mention any return fire from the Campanga as has been reported in press dispatches. The action of the naval commander in returning the fire, however, was entirely in accord with the policy that has governed American naval activities in similar cases in China during recent years, and there seems to be little doubt that the warning given to the military authorities must have included the blunt statement that American war vessels would promptly and effectively return fire directed upon them from any quarter or by any faction in the Canton struggle.

LONDON, June 12 — A dispatch to the Daily Express from Hong Kong dated Thursday says British river steamers were arriving at night from Canton, crowded with refugees. Some of them reported that they were fired upon and that they had wounded passengers on board.

Idaho Falls Will Greet Jardine With Celebration Today

Secretary of Agriculture, Native Son of This State, to Receive Warm Welcome at Reception in Upper Valley.

POCATELLO, June 11 (AP)—Keyed to the highest pitch in its history, Idaho Falls, center of one of the richest agricultural sections of the United States, the upper Snake river valley, this morning will greet William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture and native of Idaho, on his return from the Targee forest and tonight will pack the Colonial theater to listen to the keynote address of the cabinet member.

Thousands of citizens of the upper Snake river valley, delegations from southeastern Idaho towns and state officials will be in the city today to hear Mr. Jardine's address, which will be his first speech of any importance since his appointment to his present position.

Speaks as Farmer

Speaking as a farmer to the farmers of this section of Idaho, it is expected that the secretary's address will reveal his stand on problems confronting United States agriculture and methods which will be used by his department during this administration in placing America's basic industry on a firmer foundation than it has been in the past.

Secretary Jardine will be the official guest of the Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce while in the city tomorrow and that body has completed preparations for the greatest celebration ever held in the city.

Starting at 10 a. m. Mr. Jardine will be taken by motor over adjacent sections of the county and will visit the New Sweden district.

TAX REVISION COMING SMOOT OF UTAH SAYS

Chairman of Senate Finance Committee Predicts Action by Congress at Next Session; Opposed to Tariff Reduction.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Tax revision at the coming session of congress was predicted today by Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, who at the same time declared his opposition to any attempt at tariff revision.

As a member of the foreign debt commission, he also expressed hope the near future would bring some developments in the refunding of various foreign loans. He had received notice, he said the commission would receive next month to continue settlements.

Surtax Reduction.

"I feel certain that the surtaxes will be reduced," he said, 'and have no doubt the tax will be brought down to 25 per cent and perhaps less. Some of the opponents of surtax reduction at the last revision have come

BOISE HOST TO PLANT PEST MEN

Delegates From Many Western States and Mexico Attend Meeting in Capital of Idaho.

BOISE, June 11 (AP)—With delegates from Mexico, British Columbia and all western states save Colorado and New Mexico, the annual convention of the Western Plant Quarantine board opened a three-day session in Boise today.

Governor C. C. Moore delivered an address of welcome to the delegates emphasizing the importance of inspection and quarantine work to the safe development of the agricultural territory of the west.

W. O. Jacobsen, chief of the bureau of plant industry of California, told the delegates of California's problem in patroling the various seaports in an effort to keep out pests. Figures show the inspections in this field are increasing about 10 per cent annually, he said, and it is necessary to keep a closer watch because of the normal increase in the pests to be guarded against.

CALIFORNIA'S WAY

He also told of California's war against pests that are brought in by way of highways and the inspection service maintained to close off this avenue of infestation.

O. H. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture of California, is attending the convention, being a charter member and first president of the board.

Quarantine problems as they exist in other states will be discussed at Friday's and Saturday's sessions of the board.

Elections, Parade and Campfire Make Busy Day for G. A. R. and Auxiliaries

G. A. R. CAMPFIRE IS ATTENDED BY MANY CITIZENS

Stories of the Civil War Related at High School Auditorium Augmented by Tales of World War Veterans.

Campfire stories of civil war veterans were augmented by relation of experiences by younger veterans of the world war at the campfire of the thirty-eighth annual encampment of the Idaho department, Grand Army of the Republic, held Thursday evening in the Twin Falls high school auditorium, and impressive admonition delivered on this occasion by the elder veterans to maintain and perpetuate loyalty to American institutions and ideals elicited the renewal of pledges in this cause on the part of spokesmen for the younger veterans and for women's auxiliary organizations.

Not less than 300 Twin Falls citizens joined with the veterans and auxiliary members at the campfire, which was presided over by C. L. Longley, Idaho department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. The program included a number of appropriate musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental, and was closed after a most effective reading by Commander Longley and a quartet, with singing of America by the audience.

Ex-National Commander

Speakers included C. G. Burton of Portland, past national commander and representative at this encampment of the present national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; Mrs. Nellie Hadley McMillan of Manhattan, Kansas, national president of the Ladies of the G. A. R., and Mrs. Marie Steyer of Idaho Falls, department president of the Women's Relief Corps.

Winner of Rare Award for Valor at Reunion Here

The only surviving soldier of the regular army in the civil war upon whom was conferred the congressional medal of honor is attending sessions of the thirty-eighth annual encampment of the Idaho department, Grand Army of the Republic, in Twin Falls.

He is James Kephart of Gooding, who enlisted September 5, 1861, at St. Louis, in the 13th United States infantry regiment of which General W. T. Sherman was the first colonel.

He was awarded the congressional medal of honor for gallantry in action at Vicksburg, Mississippi, May 19, 1863, when the Union forces under General Grant stormed the works, the 13th infantry being one of the first units to place its colors on the captured works, and suffering in casualties 43 per cent of its total strength in the single afternoon's engagement.

The congressional medal of honor which Mr. Kephart wears, has been bestowed in the century and a half of the history of the United States upon less than 300 heroes in its fighting forces in all its wars. The medal awarded to Mr. Kephart, he was informed at the time of the award, was the sixty-second award of its kind in the history of the nation up to that time.

Mr. Kephart was a youth of 19 years when he won by his gallantry at Vicksburg the congressional medal, and he is now in his eighty-fourth year.

During his period of service in the civil war, Mr. Kephart suffered a severe wound in the leg, and upon his own insistence, remained for nearly two weeks out of doors under a tree, refusing to be taken to a field hospital during that time, until the wound had made considerable progress toward healing.

Mr. Kephart was one of the veterans who wear the congressional medal who was invited three years ago to serve as one of the bodyguard of the late President Harding on the occasion of the dedication of the unknown soldier's tomb in Arlington national cemetery.

VETERANS NAME CITY IN NORTH FOR NEXT MEET

Coeur d'Alene Selected for Encampment in 1926; Officers Elected to Three Organizations at Meetings Thursday.

The thirty-ninth annual encampment of the Idaho department, Grand Army of the Republic, will convene next year in Coeur d'Alene, according to decision reached here Thursday at second day's sessions of the thirty-eighth encampment. Invitations also were received from Boise, through John Regan post, American Legion, and from Pocatello.

State conventions of the Women's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R., in session here coincidently with the encampment, acquiesced in the veterans' choice of Coeur d'Alene for the next meeting place. Coeur d'Alene entertained the encampment and conventions of auxiliary organizations five years ago.

Officers who were elected at Thursday's sessions of the encampment and conventions of the auxiliary organizations will be installed at a joint installation to be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the Elks lodge rooms. Work of the encampment will have been completed then, while officers and delegates of the auxiliary organizations will continue sessions until later in the day to dispose of uncompleted business.

Grand Army men at Thursday's encampment sessions elected George Gardner of Emmett, commander of Emmett post 10 to Idaho department commander for the coming year. Mr. Gardner served under Admirals Farragut and Porter in the Civil war and is believed to be the only sailor to have been elected commander of any department of the Grand Army. He has been a resident of Idaho since 1870, coming to this state from

SHEPHERD TRIAL OPENS; ACCUSED OF KILLING SON

Chicago Heir Pointed Out by Prosecutor as Being Panhandler Who Wanted to Live Off Wealth of Youth.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Castigated in the prosecution's opening statement as a constitutionally lazy man who, with his wife, lived as panhandlers upon the bounty of a boy whom he greedily slew with typhoid germs when the youth indicated an intention to assume control of his $1,000,000 estate, William Darling Shepherd, Chicago lawyer, went on trial today for the murder of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

"He saw his meal ticket slipping away," said Robert E. Crowe, the state's attorney, in outlining that the state regards as the motive for the alleged murder.

INQUEST ORDER DENIED BY COURT

Cause of Wealthy Woman's Death Sought by Salt Laker; Judge Claims No Jurisdiction

SALT LAKE CITY, June 11 (AP)—Request for an inquest to determine the manner and cause of death of Mrs. Josephine A. Parks, wealthy New York city widow, who died there in March, 1923, and who is buried here, was denied here today by City Judge Gaylen S. Young, who decided he had no jurisdiction to order an inquest.

The request for the inquest was made in an affidavit signed by Z. C. Salin, cousin of the deceased and filed with Judge Young June 1. In the affidavit Salin asked that the body be exhumed and an inquest held, intimating that Mrs. Park came to her death in a mysterious manner and that the disposition of her estate, said to be valued at $2,000,000, may have had something to do with her death.

Estate to Mrs. Dahlquist

It was claimed in the affidavit that practically the entire estate was left by will to Mrs. C. G. Dahlquist and her children of this city, while blood relatives were cut off without recognition. It was further claimed that Mrs. Dahlquist was referred to in the will as a sister, while in fact, the affidavit states, she was no relation whatever.

Judge Young in deciding that he had no authority to order an inquest stated that if New York authorities should decide to make an investigation the Utah authorities would then have jurisdiction to aid in any way which might be necessary.

STRIKING MINE WORKERS TAKE CANADIAN CITY

One Dead and Another Seriously Wounded as Result of Trouble in New Waterford; Police Find Refuge in Jail.

HALIFAX, N. S. June 11 (AP)—Five hundred troops entrained tonight, fully equipped and steel-helmeted, for duty in the Cape Breton coal fields where clashes between striking coal miners and corporation police today resulted in the death of one miner, the serious wounding of another, injuries to two score and the repulse of the police.

NEW WATERFORD, N. S., June 11 (AP)—Striking mine workers were in undisputed possession of the streets of this town tonight after a day of struggle in which one of their number was killed by gunfire, a second was shot and seriously wounded and a large number of miners and police employed by the British Empire Steel corporation were injured, some of them severely.

General Manager H. J. McCann of the corporation and a number of officials who were in New Waterford power station when it was captured by strikers about noon, were missing and were believed to have sought safety in the woods.

Of the force of company police which sought to defend the station, 24 were in the town jail for their own protection, several were in a hospital and the others were dispersed.

Striker Shot Dead

William Davis, a striker, was shot dead when company police defending the power station opened fire. Gilbert Watson, also a striker, was shot through the stomach.

The trouble, the first serious disorders in a strike now three months old, began early today when officials and company police seized the power station three miles from the center of New Waterford, and prepared to start the plant, which generates power for the maintenance of a group of mines in the southern area of the Cape Breton coal fields.

Pickets of the United Mine Workers of America who had taken possession of the plant several days ago, retired to the baseball park where they were joined by hundreds of miners from

Arizona Publisher Tells Jury of His Motives At Hearing

Editor Accused of Criminal Libel on Trial at Yuma; Arguments Over Admissability of Testimony Features Day.

YUMA, Ariz., June 11 (AP)—Arguments over the admissibility of defense testimony designed to show the motives and state of mind of George W. Lynn, Yuma publisher, in publishing an editorial attack upon R. F. Sanguinetti, wealthy merchant and land owner, occupied the greater portion of the day and finally ended in a defense victory at the trial of the publisher on a charge of criminal libel here today.

A state contention that the truth of the editorial that resulted in Lynn's being brought to trial would first have to be shown before the defense could take up the question of motive was overruled by Judge E. Elmo Bollinger of Mohave county, at the end of the lengthy clash of opposing counsel.

State Objects

Lynn took the witness stand in his own behalf during the morning and the state objected when he was asked to explain his motive when he wrote to Sanguinetti, the complaining witness, asking that the latter's firms place no more advertising in Lynn's newspaper, the Yuma Herald."

The letter, which formerly had been introduced by the prosecution, declared that Lynn believed Sanguinetti was inspired by greed for money, did not have the best interests of the community at heart and that the publisher did not care to build up the merchant's institutions by carrying his advertising.

The publisher will resume the witness stand tomorrow, the eighth day of the trial. Defense attorneys announced today that Lynn probably would be the last defense witness. Numerous rebuttal witnesses have been summoned by the state, indicating that it will be the first of next week before the case goes to the jury.

FINANCE BILL IS CENTER OF CABINET TALK

French Chamber of Deputies Spends Considerable Time on Ways and Means of Helping Out Present Situation.

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—M. Caillaux and the finance committee of the chamber of deputies have been threshing out the finance minister's bill for fiscal reform during the past three days. The discussion has been completed, but although M. Caillaux has apparently won over to his viewpoint the majority of committee members, the socialists are still holding out and declare they will oppose the government in parliament next Tuesday when the bill comes up for open debate.

A capital levy is the point at issue on which both sides refuse to yield. M. Caillaux announces in a determined way that he will oppose such a measure. Close followers of French politics are convinced that one side will give in before next week and it seems to be the consensus that "it will not be Caillaux."

Rather Resign

"I would rather resign than be forced into putting through a capital levy" he is reported to have said. On the other hand he has made it plain that the country must be prepared to stand additional taxation.

M. Caillaux also insists that the annuities receipts from the Dawes plan shall be kept out of the credit side of the budget and shall be utilized in the reconstructed regions and for amortization of the foreign debt.

Calling on Deputies

Socialist organizations all over the country are calling upon the deputies representing them to stand by their guns and retreat not an inch on the capital levy.

Interallied debts formed a large part of the minister's declarations. Several times he expressed an earnest desire to reach an early settlement but declared a balanced budget was the first and essential condition France must fulfill.

TAX REVISION IS COMING DECLARES UTAH SENATOR

to agree that the best way to bring prosperity is to allow business to proceed with as little hindrance as possible. I think congress has enacted high rates not only interfere with established business, but also prevent new enterprises.

"I want to see all discriminatory taxes eliminated from the law. Nobody can tell definitely how much we can reduce taxes next season until after the June payments are made, and the returns are examined. I think it will be between $550,000,000 and $575,000,000. Tax reduction is, in my opinion, of greater interest to the American people than anything else.

Increase Exemption

"An effort will be made to increase the amount of exemption on small incomes, and there may be a slight reduction in the amount of taxes imposed on them, but I have always thought men with incomes of from $4,000 to $5,000 a year are not good Americans unless they are willing to pay a tax towards the maintenance of the government."

Senator Smoot said he favored elimination of the federal inheritance taxes, leaving to the federal government the collection of income taxes.

No Tariff Revision.

Predicting there would be no tariff revision at the next session, he asserted that an attempt to change any of the rates would precipitate a general revision, which he felt should be avoided. With the president having power to adjust rates up and downward to the extent of 50 per cent to meet any change in conditions the present tariff, he said, should be considered stable for some time.

In a conference with the president tomorrow, Senator Smoot hopes to obtain sufficient information to permit him to decide what his committee can do during the summer and fall in preparing for tax legislation at the next session.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Jack Wasdahl, 21 years of age, came to Chicago from Denver a week ago, looking for employment. He was taken to the psychopathic hospital.

Sultan of Morocco Can Count on Help of French Nation

Premier Painleve Assures Head of War Ridden Country of Loyal Aid in Quelling Disturbances Within Borders.

RABAT, French Morocco, June 11 (AP)—The sultan of Morocco can count on the entire loyalty and energy of France to maintain intact his authority, the French premier, Paul Painleve told Sultan Mulai Yussef, whom he visited today. M. Painleve was accompanied to the palace by Marshal Lyautey, the French resident general. He came to Morocco yesterday by airplane from France.

The premier and Marshal Lyautey motored to the de jure ruler's palace today with an escort of Saphis and accompanied by the highest military and civil officials in the French protectorate. The conversation was conducted through an interpreter.

"You have the sultan's salutations" said the interpreter to M. Painleve, "your visit brings gladness to the heart of the sultan. It means that France has interested herself in Morocco with all her heart."

M. Painleve replied: "I am happy to present my respects to the sultan. He can count on the entire loyalty and energy of France."

The premier then visited war wounded in the hospitals. He will inspect the front lines tomorrow.

collieries in the vicinity.

2000 Surround Place

About noon a force of strikers estimated at 2000 surrounded the place, cutting off all communication with the outside. The strikers were led by MacNeil, a member of the United Mine Workers board for the district. The crowd was charged by the company's mounted police, about 45 in number. But the men were either unaccustomed to horses or insufficiently trained, for the horses milled in the crowd. Swarms of strikers began dragging policemen to the ground.

It was then that the shooting started. Four more men, three strikers and a policeman, were seriously injured and were taken to a hospital.

In fifteen minutes the power station was in the hands of the miners and its defenders had fled.

Mounted Men in Jail

Twenty-four mounted men were lodged in the town jail for protection.

Several were wounded and all bore marks of battle. Several other horsemen were dragged from their mounts and beaten, while others escaped to the woods.

Tonight the victorious miners were marching and celebrating in the streets of New Waterford, but the local police reported no disorders.

The strike in the Cape Breton coal fields began early in March when 12,000 miners threw down their tools after the British Empire Steel corporation closed several collieries and suspended store credits to 2000 striking miners in the southern section. Negotiations for a return to work failed when the company insisted upon a wage cut of 10 per cent and concessions in working conditions.

OTTOWA, Ont., June 11 (AP)—Advices received here state that Attorney General O'Kearn of Nova Scotia had requisitioned troops for the Cape Breton area and that Colonel Ellerr was leaving Halifax with a local force tonight.

union of the states and wrote with their blood the first complete guarantee of human liberty," Mrs. Steyer presented on behalf of the Women's Relief Corps, large silk flags for each of Twin Falls' public schools, which were accepted on behalf of the school district by Ernest D. Bloom, superintendent of Twin Falls schools.

Appeal for codification of international law and establishment of a world court as the most effective means of insuring peace was sounded by Mr. Burton, who served for many years as a judge in Oregon.

"The Grand Army knows what war is, and the Grand Army is for peace," Mr. Burton declared.

Respect to Borah

"With all due respect for the senior senator from Idaho," Mr. Burton asserted, "the thinking and praying people of America are for establishment of the world court to apply clearly defined international law in cases of trouble between nations to avert warfare."

Mr. Burton discussed martial music at some length. Union veterans of the Civil war like to hear "Dixie" now better than they once did and this he said, is a result largely of the fact that "the sons of the south and the sons of the north marched together in battle to remove the yellow banner of tyranny from the new world in 1898."

Tells of Work

Telling the work and objectives of the Ladies of the G. A. R., Mrs. McMillan declared that the organization has pledged itself to teach "what it cost to make America and what it means to be an American," and to maintain and perpetuate the memory and work of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In a G. A. R. symposium with which the campfire opened, Melvin Nichols, commander of the Boise post, called upon young men and women of America to "keep the sunshine upon American ideals of patriotism and loyalty to country as long as you live;" R. H. Barton, of Moscow, past Idaho department commander related two interesting coincidences with respect to his experiences as a soldier with Sherman's forces on the famous "march to the sea," and J. L. Denman, department adjutant and finance officer, gave most effectively an original and eloquent tribute to the flag.

Albert is Speaker

Spokesman for the younger veterans were Lester Albert of Boise, American Legion department adjutant, and Harry J. Benoit of Twin Falls, each delivering eloquent addresses combining amusing world war incidents with pledges of loyalty to American traditions and tribute to the service of the veterans of the Grand Army.

Former Senator M. J. Sweeley, in the absence of his son Captain E. M. Sweeley, veteran of both the Spanish-American and World wars, served as spokesman for the Spanish-American war veterans, asserting that the man who placed his liberty and his life at the disposal of the nation in a time of national crisis exemplified a most commendable obedience to law and was entitled to the same measure of reward and gratitude as those called into service on the battlefield. He declared that the Spanish-American war had brought a blessing in that it served to heal the wounds and close the gap between the North and South, and a responsibility in that it brought the United States into the position of a recognized world power. This nation, he declared, having entered the world war, should have remained in alliance with its allies until establishment of permanent peace.

Sons of Veterans chose as their spokesman, I. H. Masters who briefly pledged allegiance on the part of the members of that organization to the ideals which their fathers fought to maintain.

The musical program included two numbers, "Tenting Tonight," and "Comrades in Arms," by a quartet composed of D. A. Salmon, J. S. Hull, L. L. Patrick and George W. Rice. A. W. Peck sang, "The Americans Come," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Margaret W. Peck. Miss Tessie Pfeifauf played violin selections with accompaniment by Mr. D. E. Regan, and an instrumental trio was given by Miss Helen Jackey, piano; Miss Nellie Galloway, guitar, and Miss Florence Jackey, mandolin.

to drive a truck for a living. It was pretty hard to contemplate the dreary winter ahead of them."

The prosecutor continued with the introduction of his first witnesses to drive at the motive, and the establishing of a "corpus delectis" being left for later sessions. Judge Harry Olson, instigator of the investigation culminating in the trial, spent a brief ten minutes as the first state witness.

Olson on Stand

Judge Olson was denied the privilege of expounding upon his accusation that Shepherd took young McClintock's life as a part of a sixteen year-old plot to obtain the McClintock fortune that cost the lives of Mrs. McClintock Sr and Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of the judge.

Olson had his judicial dignity assailed almost immediately by W. W. O'Brien, associated with William Scott Stewart in defending Shepherd.

"Did you know Emma Nelson McClintock?" was the first question Prosecutor Crowe asked, speeding a field the defense had vainly sought to close.

O'Brien Objects

"I object," O'Brien snapped harshly, added a "wait a minute," to Judge Olson and, when he replied "Yes" the dapper little attorney was at him.

"I object to Judge Olson doubling in brass, playing the lawyer, witness and chief justice," snapped O'Brien, "and I wish the court would instruct him not to answer when an objection is made and to conduct himself the same as any other witness."

The objection was overruled and Judge Olson's testimony, awaited for weeks proved a dreary account of meetings and acquaintance with McClintock, and once with Shepherd.

Rapid Fire of Questions

A rapid fire staccato of questions on cross examination completed his testimony in two minutes more.

The judge had seen the elder McClintock but once, and said "I don't remember, I may have said ——" when asked if he had ever seen the younger McClintock.

The judge obviously disappointed, said he expected to be recalled later.

Alexander Reichman, attorney for the Northern Trust company which has control of the McClintock estate pending final disposition under the will of young McClintock, was the next and final witness of the day.

His testimony will be resumed tomorrow.

Reichman, a friend from childhood of he elder McClintock, was made guardian with Mrs. Shepher of Billy McClintock upon Mrs. McClintock's death.

He told the history of the McClintock family and of squabbles with the Shepherds over the guardianship and of their broken agreements to care for the lad.

His testimony was broken constantly by defense objections. Stewart told the court out of hearing of the jury the defense would show Reichman's interest in the McClintock estate was aroused by ulterior purposes.

Reichman denied telling Shepherd he intended to "get a slice of the McClintock estate" for himself.

Stringfellow of Boise, who is in Twin Falls in the interest of the association. Mrs. Stringfellow spoke to the members of the Women's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. yesterday, and secured their hearty endorsement of the home products and general buy at home movement.

Other women's organizations of the state including the Federated Women's clubs and Business and Professional Women, are lending their support to the movement.

Speaking to a News reporter yesterday of her work with the women's groups, Mrs. Stringfellow said: "Women are the purchasing agents for the homes, and they have it in their power to put Idaho industries in the front rank, by insisting on Idaho manufactured goods when ordering from their dealers. United support for our present industries would mean new industries for our state, increased payrolls, reduced taxes, and more liberal support for schools, good roads and other community enterprises for the general good.

"This is not a selfish enterprise for the mere selling of more goods, but it is a community building and a state building enterprise. Women are especially interested in it because it means better opportunities for our young people to secure employment at home, and not have to seek it in the larger industrial centers outside of Idaho.

"The home spirit of loyalty and state and civic pride that will make a success of the home products campaign, should be applied to our educational institutions which are entitled to the united support of Idahoans, and we might go further and apply it to the natural beauties of the state. 'See Idaho First' is a slogan that might be revived in this connection. Loyal citizens should know their own Shoshone falls, the Venice of the West, the Moon, and the so-called 'Switzerland of America' in the Sawtooth mountains, before they spend time and money on outside vacation attractions.

"If we can imbue our citizens with something like the famous California spirit, it will mean a great revival of faith in the future of our state, and judging by the way the women are taking hold of the campaign, we are due to have such a revival. Women are naturally 'missionaries of optimism' and when their faith is expressed in works, 'selling Idaho to Idahoans' becomes a fact, and not a platitude."

Resolution Supporting Home Products

Whereas, it is a sound economic principle to spend money in the community where it is made, so that the community may grow and prosper; and also to patronize home manufactured goods and products in preference to those imported from other states; and

Whereas, we feel that it is consistent with the patriotic aims and ideals of our organization to pledge our loyal support to the Home Products campaign and the general buy-at-home movement inaugurated by the Idaho Home Industries association; and

Whereas, we believe that a stronger spirit of civic and state pride and loyalty should be encouraged among our citizens, in support of Idaho business enterprises, as well as Idaho educational and other institutions, so that they may be strengthened and the general prosperity of the state increased; Therefore, be it resolved, first, that we pledge ourselves to purchase Idaho made goods as far as we possibly can;

Second, that we endorse the work and ideals of the Idaho Home Industries association in its efforts to build home industries, increase payrolls, and promote the material prosperity of the state;

Third, that we carry this message back to our home organizations and urge them to act upon it;

Fourth, that we use our efforts to secure publicity for the campaign, by the spoken word in our meetings and by articles in the newspapers of our home towns.

Twin Falls Woman Elected

Mrs. Laura B. Whitney of Twin Falls was elected department president of the Ladies of the G. A. R. to succeed Mrs. Ella Talor Olsen of Parma, and other department officers were elected as follows: Senior vice president, Mrs. Maude Keefer, Twin Falls; junior vice president, Mrs. Margaret Holbrook, Pocatello; chaplain, Mrs. Lulu Severns, Hansen; treasurer, Mrs. Anna B. Wiseman, Hansen.

More than 40 veterans of the Grand Army marched on foot Thursday afternoon in a parade, spurning automobiles that were made available to all of the older veterans but which were used by only eight or ten of them whose physical inability alone prevented marching with their comrades. In the parade the older veterans and members of the auxiliary organizations were joined by the Sons of Veterans, veterans of the Spanish-American war and members of the American Legion, Idaho national guard units of Twin Falls and Kimberly and boy scouts of Twin Falls.

War Times Recalled.

Days of '61-'65 were lived over again at the campfire session Thursday evening, in which more than 300 Twin Falls citizens jointed with more than 200 Civil war veterans and officers and delegates of the women's auxiliary organizations.

Speakers included G. C. Barton of Portland, past commander in chief and representative at this encampment of the present commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic; Mrs. Nellie Rhodes McMillan of Manhattan, Kansas, national president of the Ladies of the G. A. R.; Mrs. Annie Steyer of Idaho Falls, department president of the Women's Relief Corps.

In the G. A. R. symposium that opened the program, speakers included Melvin B. Nichols of Boise, department judge advocate; R. R. Barton, of Moscow, past department commander; J. L. Denman of Boise, department adjutant.

Younger Veterans Take Part.

Speakers in an American Legion symposium included Lester F. Albert of Boise, American Legion department adjutant, and Harry Benoit of Twin Falls. Former Senator M. J. Sweeley of Twin Falls was spokesman for the Spanish war veterans, and I. H. Masters represented the Sons of Veterans.

C. L. Longley, G. A. R. department commander, and a quartet gave at the close of the program an impressive reading, "Shiloh After the Battle." Veterans of the Grand Army were guests of Sons of Veterans and veterans of the Spanish-American and world wars at luncheon Thursday in the Methodist church parlors, covers being laid for more than 250 persons including officers and delegates of the Women's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R.

Referring in his annual report to the encampment Thursday to the fact that the Idaho department has at present 232 members, "a very much better showing, proportionately, than that made by some of the larger encampments," C. L. Longley, retiring department commander, declared:

"Under existing circumstances, 60 full and pregnant years after the close of the Civil war, to which every comrade had given from one to four years, it is needless to urge further effort to recruit our ranks. In fact, nearly all who are eligible are members, either active or otherwise. What I do urge and most profoundly desire, is to see the comrades ignore the jibbing chimney corner and stand together by attending, so far as is possible, all post meetings and other organization functions.

"'Peace hath her victories, no less renowned than war;' and I am most proud to believe, as I do believe, that the Grand Army of the Republic, standing, as 'it has always done, for the best and highest ideals, has made in its civil life a record quite comparable to that of its military activities—and there could be no higher commendation!

"We have, at least, given a new meaning to the word 'comrade' by us so richly endowed that the world war found the Hun soldier hiding behind it when capture was imminent."

G. C. Barton, past commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, with an escort from the encampment, Thursday visited conventions of both the Women's Relief Corps and Ladies of the G. A. R., and addressed each briefly, expressing appreciation of the work and objectives of the women's auxiliary organizations.

Sessions of both auxiliary societies Thursday were given over largely to reception of reports of officers and committees.

Stand by Idaho Institutions

Both conventions adopted resolutions suggested by Mrs. R. S. Stringfellow of Boise, endorsing the work and ideals of the Idaho Home Industries association, and pledging members to "purchase Idaho-made goods as far as we possibly can" and to "carry this message back to our home organizations and urge them to act up-

COLORADO DEATH PUZZLES POLICE

Cremation of Health Seeker and Disappearance of Brother Object of Investigation.

MONTROSE, Colo., June 11 (AP)—The cremation of Miss Lillian Fye, 31, a health seeker, in the last stages of tuberculosis and the disappearance of her brother, Otto A. Fye, 43, after their cabin near here was destroyed by fire early today became the object of an investigation tonight by authorities.

The charred remains of Fye's sister were found on a cot in the cabin where she had lain bedfast, unable to walk. The coroner late today announced that the back of the woman's skull had been crushed, but whether before or after her death he was unable to determine.

The Fye cabin was located in a forest, 16 miles from Montrose, an isolated section. A neighbor woman, who visited the invalid Lot Monday, told the investigators that Miss Fye had said she felt she had not long to live.

The investigation tonight was being concentrated toward the capture of her brother.

DETECTIVES TO EXAMINE MAN

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Police tonight sent for New Britain, Conn., detectives to examine Joseph P. Johnson, 46, arrested today in connection with a Minneapolis robbery, after he admitted being an intimate friend of Gerald Chapman, now under death sentence for killing a policeman in Connecticut.

Police said Johnson is known in the middle west under the names of Joe Clifford and William G. Briggs and is wanted for breaking jail at Stillwater, Minn., San Francisco, Chicago and Rockview, Pa.

CANTON BATTLE STILL RAGES, SAY REPORTS of the British concession against thousands of rioting coolies.

A previous dispatch from Hankow dated Thursday reported the killing of eight rioters and the wounding of many by machine gun fire in an attack on the British volunteer armory. The above dispatch may refer to a new attack.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11 (AP)—Nearly a score of apparently disconnected incidents featured today's news from China.

In the south, the fighting around Canton continued with increasing casualties while the American gunboat Panpanga was fired upon and returned the fire.

At Shanghai students who took part in the riding which brought anti-foreign feeling to a climax May 30, were ordered by the mixed court to furnish bonds for their future good behavior.

At Peking the Chinese foreign office replied to a note from the diplomatic corps, saying that it was impossible for the Chinese government to admit that Chinese demonstrators were responsible for the Shanghai disturbances.

Students Demonstrate

At Mukden, Manchurian headquarters of Chang Tso-Lin, students held a demonstration, but efforts to produce a general strike were reported to have failed.

Reports from interior China were encouraging with no serious outbreaks apparent. Some fear had been expressed for the safety of foreigners in the interior because of the difficulty of providing protection for them.

First information from Chinese sources that the Russian soviet government was taking an active part in China's civil difficulties came from Canton where the commander-in-chief of the Yunnanese troops holding the city said the Yunnanese had been offered $10,000,000 and 60,000 rifles with ammunition by Russia, under certain conditions. It previously had been known that Russian officials sympathized with the students at Shanghai and other radical groups, but no statement had been forthcoming from any Chinese leader regarding possible aid from the soviet.

Efforts Unsuccessful.

Efforts of Canton commercial interests to persuade the battling armies to move out of the city had not proved successful, but the Chinese chamber of commerce continued to send delegations to confer with the opposing leaders. A Chinese commercial delegation also conferred with the British consul.

United States marines were landed on the island of Honan, headquarters of the Cantonese troops trying to recapture Canton from the Yunnanese. The marines were said to have been landed to protect American property. The Campanga, when she drew the fire of the Chinese, was convoying a supply launch of the Canton Christian college. When she returned the fire, the Campanga acted in accordance with a practice of long standing, providing such action. No international complications are expected to result from the firing. No one was injured.

Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, was reported to have ordered about 1000 of his troops, now near Nanking, to move to Shanghai and keep order there. This was interpreted as a maneuver to extend the limits of the territory Chang and his armies now dominate.

Despite the tight waterside strike at Shanghai the situation is considered better. Food supplies there are said to be adequate.

Big Demand for Aluminum.

Nowadays the aluminum industry has its own to huge proportions. Most of the aluminum produced is made by the Hall-Heroult process which was patented by Doctor Heroult, a Frenchman, and C. M. Hall, an American. For several years France was the only country producing the metal but now there are plants making it in many countries, the United States leading. Aluminum is used largely in the form of alloys in the construction of automobiles, airplanes, dirigible balloons, machinery and household utensils and in the manufacture of cloth.—Cleveland News-Leader.

A UTAH PROBLEM.

Those who feel that no particular importance attaches to the situation with respect to the noxious weed menace in those counties where it exists, would do well to give a little more thought to the subject.

In Millard County, Utah, a continuing appropriation of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year for four years has been provided by the State Legislature and will be spent in a final supreme effort to rid the agricultural lands of the county of Henry Cress, commonly known as White Top.

The effort may succeed; on the other hand, it may not, but a four-year effort is going to cost a million dollars and it is evident that the people of Utah consider it worth the money.

Of course no such situation as this exists anywhere in Idaho, but it would come into existence in a very few short years if permitted. If the people of the Utah County win their fight, well and good; if they do not the farms of the County are doomed. Land even partially infested with White Top, Wild Morning Glory, Knapp Weed or Quack Grass or Canadian Thistle becomes at once of questionable value and where the infestation reaches anything like the point of saturation further cultivation might just as well be abandoned and the land given back to nature exactly as has taken place in the case of a number of formerly fertile and prosperous valleys in California.

The problem of noxious weed infestation is always an individual problem. Much solid work may be done by those in authority and valuable assistance rendered to all who are in need of it but without the whole-souled co-operation of the landowners themselves it is a question if much real progress can be made.

In Millard County, Utah, a million dollars will be spent in a two-year effort to wipe out the scourge, but unless the people themselves will do their full share of the work, and individually accept the responsibility involved in the doing, the million dollars, of itself, will not rid Millard County of White Top.

THE BATTLE IN TENNESSEE

Famous lawyers, orators and educators will be marshalled at that trial of the high school science teacher at Dayton, Tennessee, for teaching evolution. Science and religion will fight it out in the presence of an unprecedented audience, near and far. That is, what the scrappers regard as science and religion will fight it out.

The scope of the thing—and the defendant's name in Scopes—grows rapidly. There may be a huge stadium for a court. The proceedings may be broadcast by radio. They will be wired to the entire press of the nation and a large part of the outer world. Vast audiences will listen to arguments the like of which most of them have never heard or read before. And they will learn something. At least, the open-minded ones will.

And will religion kill science off, or will science kill religion off, or will the two cut each other up?

Foolish questions! Science is true and eternal, and so is religion.

There is reason to hope that when the smoke of battle is over, each will go its own way, as healthy as ever, but possibly a little more chastened, and more ready to keep on its own side of the fence, with a better appreciation of the other's functions and value.

There may be new realization of the truth that science and religion belong together, and should get along with each other, complementing and helping and tolerating each other, as man and woman do.

NATION AGAINST GENEVA ACTION

Liberia Dislikes Being Placed in Prohibited Arms Zone at Traffic Conference.

GENEVA, June 11 (AP)—A protest from Liberia against being put into the prohibited arms zone was unheeded by the arms traffic conference today, but an American proposal was approved, automatically releasing Liberia from the forbidden zone when the adopted legislation calculated to prevent gun running into neighboring African districts.

Abyssinia is left outside the barred zone before she passes regulations against contraband, while Liberia is included until she has done so.

Insists on Zone

Theodore E. Burton, head of the American delegation, insisted Liberia should be left in the special zone for the present because of the warlike tribes around her. The Liberian consul, however, contended it would be tantamount to treating Liberia on a basis of inequality.

A second striking incident at the session was a violent protest from Persia against inclusion of the Persian gulf and the sea of Oman in the forbidden maritime zone. The Earl of Onslow announced if the Persian gulf were excluded it would be a grave act and endanger the whole convention so far as England was concerned.

The conference adopted the British view and the Persian gulf remains in the barred zone.

Theatres

IDAHO

Despite the presence of two such sterling comedians as Fred Thompson and his horse, "Silver King," a baby is the real star of "The Bandit's Baby." Or more strictly speaking, a baby together with several other babies, cause most of the laughter which has rocked the critics right out of their accustomed cynicism wherever this new F. B. O. production starring the famous athlete and his equally celebrated horse has been shown. "The Bandit's Baby" comes to the Idaho theater today for its initial performance in this locality, and to judge by the reports which have been received it is the most uproarious comedy-melodrama in which Thompson has ever been featured.

An "Our Gang" comedy and "Rolling Down to Rio" with Uncle Sam's navy are added features to the bill.

ORPHEUM

An afternoon or evening spent at the Orpheum theater will be well invested from an entertainment standpoint. The management has secured what we believe to be one of the most unusual films shown in this city in many a day. Its title, "White Man," will recall to your mind that it is an adaptation of George Agnew Chamberlain's popular novel first published as a serial in the Women's Home Companion and subsequently carried through many months at the top of the list of best-sellers.

The film version has preserved all the picturesque atmosphere of the book and has graphically brought to life many thrilling moments that make it ideal picture material.

DEBTS FAR IN EXCESS OF ASSETS PROMOTER DECLARES IN PAPERS

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP)—Debts in excess of $1,012,000 and assets totaling $1706 are listed in a voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed in the federal court here today by William Miller Graham, for many years prominent in the oil industry in California and Oklahoma.

The largest creditor is the Prairie Oil and Gas company of Oklahoma, to whom Graham says he owes $600,000. Another item is $210,714.90 which the government claims is due it in income taxes, though Graham adds that this claim is being contested. The assets include $1556 in debts owing the petitioner and $150 in personal property.

Graham and his former wife, Mrs. Eleanor Lee Graham of Santa Barbara, socially prominent, developed at Montecito, the great estate known as "Bellosguardo," which the late former Senator William A. Clark purchased as a winter home shortly before his death.

Derivation of Rosary

The word "rosary" is derived from the Latin "rosarium," which originally was a garland of roses and used to crown the image of the Virgin Mary. As a rosary, in its present use, it was instituted in honor of the Virgin by St. Dominic.

LABOR DISPUTE BEFORE BUREAU

Jurisdictional Dispute Between Plasterers and Bricklayers Unions Heard by Officials.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The jurisdiction dispute between the plasterers and bricklayers unions has developed into one of the most important problems ever brought to the attention of the conciliation bureau of the labor department, in the opinion of officials here, who have been studying the situation for some time.

Despite secrecy placed by officials around their attempts to settle the dispute, it became known today that the entire case had been laid before Secretary Davis in an effort to prevent a general strike of the two organizations.

Plasterers' Rights

Developments in the dispute, in which the bricklayers question the right of plasterers to organize separately in cities where they are members of the bricklayers' union, have been studied with especial attention during the last few weeks by the department's conciliation bureau and it has taken every opportunity to work for an agreement.

The strike announcement in New York last night by President McGivern of the International Plasterers' union, however, came as a complete surprise to labor department officials, and they are inclined to regard the controversy as second in importance among those considered by the conciliation bureau, only to the nation-wide mine strike in 1922.

Efficiency in Kissing

"Should the young man remove his hat when kissing the young lady?" an etiquette book ad wants to know. Offhand, and as an innocent bystander, we should say, having in mind the bonnet-like hats the gals are wearing—hats that overhang like the porch on a bungalow roof—offhand we should say that he'd have to remove his hat, if he has any idea at all of efficiency.—Detroit Free Press.

Fine View for a Chemist.

The famous asphalt lake of Trinidad has a rival. Situated at Basque in British Columbia, says a Canadian dispatch, is a lake that contains, not asphalt, but Epsom salts! The salts extend to a depth of forty-one feet, and perhaps go much deeper; the miners who first stumbled upon the lake drilled to that depth and then had to stop for lack of drilling facilities. The lake covers seven acres and has a hard, crystal surface. When the snow melts from the mountain sides the surface is covered six inches deep with water, which quickly becomes brine. Then the sun evaporates it, and all that is necessary is to score and lift off the thick crust that has formed. Spring freshets prepare another seven-acre pan, and the miners harvest a crop that they may dispose of for seventy-five dollars a ton. A few years ago the same product sold for nine dollars.—Youth's Companion.

than ever. I—I can't take the chance. My hand wouldn't be steady. I—I'd miss. Then he'd get a greater revenge than ever. He'd ruin her life—and yours!

"Mine? Ruin my life?"

"You care about her, don't you? I've seen it, boy." Old Jim rose now. "I saw it in your eyes this afternoon—I saw it there tonight. That's what made me come here. I want to get your promise."

"Then his voice trailed away.

"My promise? To what?" answered Bart.

"That—that you'll marry Anita."

"I?"

"Yes!" Old Jim had caught him by the arms now, and was holding in a grip that was almost spasmodic in its intensity. "You care about her—I know you do. I want you to marry her. You'll have money—plenty of it. You can go away—to New York, or maybe across the water—some place where he couldn't get his hands on her and torture her and tear the heart out of me! I'll help you—I give you my word that I'll help you! I'll pretend to hate you, I'll let him think that it will be a living agony to me to see her married to you! Then he'll consent to it—because he will think it will hurt me. Bart—" the man's finger nails were digging deep into the tight-clasped arms now—"I'll do anything in the world for you if you'll only promise! I'll crawl on my knees to you, I'll—"

"But why—why should you think that she would marry me? That she even thinks of me other than to be grateful for that night on the road? Why—"

"Maybe she doesn't, but I'll help. I'll talk you up to her—I know she likes you better than anyone else. And I'll try to make her love you."

Then he stopped. Bart Rogers waited long for him to continue, but no words came. The clutch at the younger man's arms released slowly. Then the old man turned despondently away.

"—I guess I've been a fool," came at last. "Just forget I've ever been here."

"I can't do that, Jim." Bart Rogers was following him to the door. "But I'm afraid you've asked some impossibilities. In the first place, a girl doesn't marry a man unless she really loves him. Then she marries without influence from anyone. If that time ever comes, you'll find me waiting for Anita, and if she's willing to go with me, it'll be whether I have money or not, and in spite of what 'Bull' Frannston or anybody else has to say or think about it. I'll—"

"Don't!" The appeal had come in a whisper that was almost frantic. "Don't—please—please, for God's sake don't!" He looked about him hurriedly. "That can't be, Rogers! Understand—it can't be! You can't take her that way—you mustn't—hear that! You mustn't! You've got to promise me that before I leave this room!"

Bart Rogers smiled mirthlessly.

"We're discussing a good many things that may never happen. But if I'll help you any, Jim—I'll promise!"

And through the night, as Bart sat by the window, alone in his grief there were moments when, in spite of his sorrow, his mind reverted to the visit of the shadowy Old Jim, and his strange, mysterious request.

It brought questions—a myriad of them. And some answers. More than once, in the years which had followed their first meeting, Bart Rogers had wondered why Anita Frannston allowed herself to suffer the cruelties which must be her lot at the hands of her father. This was an independent age, Rogers told himself, an age when a girl was forced neither through precedent nor public opinion to countenance indignities or mistreatment. This was an age when a girl, rather than submit to cruelties, could make her own way in the world, and Rogers had wondered why she had not done so. Tonight there had come an answer in an unanswerable mystery. Was it Old Jim, who through the fear of what he knew inevitably would descend upon her, who had kept her in the unkind hands of her father, rather than allow her to go forth to apparent security, and by the excursion bring even a worse fate upon herself? What was that fate? What was the evil thing which "Bull" Frannston held in his keeping? What sort of a power could this man hold, which, through a few words, could control the destinies of two persons?

Breakfast, then the perversity of nature, demanding sleep after denying it, sent the fatigued man to a few hours' rest. After that—a cemetery, and a caustic, snapping-tongued man, who accompanied him back to the hotel, only to leave him the moment they reached the door.

"Going to send for you tonight," was his parting. "Don't go running around. I want to know where to put my hands on you when the time comes. We've got to talk over some things."

"I'll be on my room."

"Very well. I'll count on that."

Then he turned into the crowded street, leaving Bart Rogers alone, once more with his grief and his conjectures. The motley collection of human riffraff that flocks to every oil boom town was present in full force below in the street.

But up in his room, Bart Rogers watched dusk and then night come with hardly a thought of the milling throngs so near. He had left word at the desk that he was not to be disturbed by any one save a messenger from the office of Leon Barrows—even that afternoon as the one dilapidated carriage followed the hearse to the cemetery, a man had scrambled out from the sidewalk with an offer for his land.

Not that Bart Rogers did not care to sell, either. Right now, however, he did not want to discuss the sale of land, or to bicker over prices. His thoughts were on a different thing, on the loneliness of a mound he had left behind that afternoon.

An hour he watched the money-mad mob in a vacant, detached manner, at last to rise at the sound of a knock on the door. Old Jim was there, looking queruously up at him, but this time he did not enter.

"Lawyer Barrows sent me for you."

"Certainly." But it reached for his hat and joined him. Slowly they descended to the street, then forced their way to the broad, wooden sidewalk which led to the office of the attorney. There Old Jim tugged at his arm, and when Bart turned toward him, asked guardedly:

"What is it? What does he want you for?"

"I don't know. He told me this afternoon that he would want to see me tonight. He said he had some things to talk over with me."

"Is it about money?" There was a sharp insistence in the older man's voice.

"I don't know. I suppose so—about what my father left and that sort of thing. It all has to be settled up and—"

"Then be careful! Understand—be careful! Don't do or say a thing without being sure of your ground. Don't make them any promises—"

"They?"

"Yes, they've been up there talking for an hour. He called me from the window and sent me over to the hotel. Lawyer Barrows didn't send me. He—"

"Whom do you mean? I don't—"

But the question and answer were ended by a flood of light from the office of Leon Barrows. The door had opened, to disclose the attorney standing there in wait. Old Jim turned hurriedly and descended the stairs. Rogers went forward, and walked toward the desk, where sat the one man in the world he had regarded as an enemy, "Bull" Frannston!

Sea-Shells.

It is a very pleasant hobby for those people who live by the sea to gather on suitable shores the delightful sea shells that lie on the beach among the pebbles or glitter beneath the water. No understanding of conchology is necessary to appreciate the beauty of the shells that invite attention. There is none more delightful to look at for perfection of design than the nautilus, which reminds us vividly of the illustrations to the stories of Charles Dickens. The pointed top, the Venus' ear and the sea shells are equally attractive. Many artists have derived direct inspiration from these little wonders. The fan tracery in European architecture must have owed its origin to the fan sea shells, with their exquisite markings. The colors frequently seem to have been put on by hand, so geometrically do they encircle the tiny home.

Isinglass.

Isinglass is the dried swimming bladders of several varieties of fish. The amount of gelatin in isinglass is from 83 to 93 per cent, and even more. It is prepared by tearing the air bladder, or sound, from the back of the fish, from which it has been loosened by striking several blows with a wooden club. The membrane in cold water. The black outer skin is removed with a knife, again washed, and spread on a board to dry in the open air, and with the white, shiny skin turned outward. To prevent shriveling or shrinking the bladders must be fastened to a drying board.

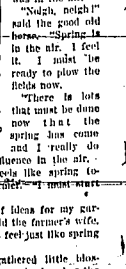
Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE FARM'S SPRINGTIME

When everyone was fast asleep in the farm house and on the farm, Mistress Springtime waved her springtime greetings over them all so that when they got up the next morning they all felt that spring was in the air.

"Neigh, neigh!" said the good old horse. "Spring is in the air. I feel it. I must be ready to plow the fields now.



On Their Way to School.

"There is lots that must be done now that the spring has come and I really do feel its gentle influence in the air.

"Somehow it feels like spring today," said the farmer. "I must start my planting."

"I've got lots of ideas for my garden this year," said the farmer's wife. "You know it does feel just like spring today."

The children gathered little blossoms on their way to school and as the soft spring air came in the school windows they found it hard to think of anything else but the woods and flowers that might be out, and birds that might have arrived for the summer, and walks that would be so lovely, and games to be played out-doors now that it seemed so pleasant.

"Spring has come, grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky Pig. "I have a good spring appetite."

"So have I, squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig.

"I'd enjoy a good meal now," said Porky Pig. "Really the spring is giving me an appetite."

"I'd like a bite myself," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"So would I," said Pinky Pig's Brother.

"Spring certainly is in the air. I hadn't any appetite for quite a while and now I feel my old self again," said Miss Ham.

"Squeal, squeal, no one could have noticed your lack of appetite, Miss Ham, but they could have noticed mine, squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon. "But I think I could eat again now."

"I have a springtime appetite," said Sammy Sausage. "Squeal, squeal, I most certainly have."

"So have I, grunt, grunt," said little Grunter.

"I could eat a morsel of food, too, squeal, squeal," said little Black Squealer.

"Ah, for a nice rest in the mud and a good banquet," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Not a bad idea, not a bad idea," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, a pleasant day," said Red Top the Rooster.

"Cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Hen, "a pleasant day indeed, Red Top."

"Quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck, "I feel just like a brook party. I do believe I'll give one."

All the ducks waddled after Mrs. Duck, who led the way down to the pond.

"Ha-ha-ha-a," said Sir William Goat, otherwise known as Billy Goat, "I must have a walk around the barnyard and see what there is to eat. A walk will help my appetite and make it something of which I may be justly proud."

"Baa, baa, baa," said the little lambs, "we love to play this lovely day."

"Me-ow-me-ow," said Jem, the cat, "I must have a nice sleep in the sunshine. It will do me good. Then a cupful of warm milk and all will be well."

"I'd Enjoy a Good Meal Now."

"Gobble, gobble," said the turkeys, "the little turkeys are becoming stronger every one of these fine spring days.

"Gobble, gobble, gobble, they're a lovely little lot of turkeys."

So, everything and everyone on the farm felt that Springtime had visited them, for though they didn't actually know of her visit to them the night before, they all said that spring was certainly in the air.

Jammed His Fingers

Old Gentleman—What are you crying for, my little man?

Little Man—Boohoo! Dad spanked me 'cause I jammed my fingers.

3 DEFENDANTS NAMED IN SUIT

Number of Persons Former Actress Suing Narrows Down; Wants $200,000 Damages.

NEW YORK, June 11—The number of defendants in the $200,000 slander suit of Mrs. Marion Callister Smith, wife of a banker and a former actress, has been reduced to three. At the conclusion of the plaintiff's case today, Justice Delehanty, in supreme court, ordered the complaint against Bronson Batchelor, Inc., publicity agent, and Roger B. Jenkins, a member of the firm, stricken out.

There were originally seven defendants. The remaining defendants are George W. Burleigh, attorney; Barry N. Smith, head of the national information bureau, and Mme Anne E. Guerin, former representative in the United States of Mme Millerand, wife of the former president of France.

Burleigh called as a witness by the plaintiff, testified he was attorney for Mrs. George Crosby Perine, Baltimore society woman, who was national chairman of the American and French children's league, a war charity. He admitted advising Mrs. Perine to resign from this organization, of which Mrs. Smith was a leader, and to incorporate a rival organization, the American-Franco children's league.

IDENTITY OF SLAYER STILL A MYSTERY TO CHICAGO AUTHORITIES

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—The identity of the slayer of Walter O'Donnell, beer runner, failed to emerge from its haze of secrecy today despite the efforts of Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman, who forced four eye witnesses to act out the story of the roadhouse gun fight last Sunday morning, the result of which was the mortal wounding of O'Donnell and his aide, Harry Hassmiller of Bayonne, N. J.

But when it came to the shooting of O'Donnell there were only shrugs and silence. The sheriff declared, however, that he is not without other clews.

SECOND MURDER TRIAL OF TOURIST IN DEATH OF M'QUOWN GOES SLOW

SALT LAKE CITY, June 11 (AP)—The second day of the trial of Mark Collins of Chico, California, charged with the murder of C. H. McQuown, Idaho lumber salesman, during an alleged holdup here October 11, 1924, went slowly today, Sheriff Benjamin F. Harris being the only witness examined.

Attorneys for Collins endeavored to show discrepancies between details related by Sheriff Harris at the first trial and those made on direct examination at the present trial. The jury which tried Collins last April was unable to agree.

CANINE TRAFFIC COP SLIPS AND IS KILLED UNDER WHEELS OF CAR

"Speed Cop," a black and tan mongrel dog who during the last few weeks has become familiar to car drivers in Twin Falls as the guardian of the traffic button at the intersection of Main and Shoshone streets, is dead. He was killed Thursday evening by the wheels of a car near the main business corner, when he slipped and fell as he ran alongside barking his indignation at what he considered too fast a speed for that place.

"Speed Cop" has been watched with interest by taxi drivers at the stand in front of the Majestic drug store, who declare that he showed almost human intelligence in showing his displeasure when a car driver took the intersection too fast. Slow cars failed to move him from his stand at the button or near it but a car moving at a faster rate of speed caused his canine blood to boil.

Thursday evening he started in full pursuit after a car only to slip and fall under the wheels. His howls of agony were heard by many and a small crowd gathered on the sidewalk where "Speed Cop" kicked his last and lay still, never again to chase a car.

ANTI-TRUST LAW CHARGE IS MADE

Violation of Sherman Act in Cattle and Calf Industry Is Claim at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—A suit charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law against the Tannera Products company and 149 other firms and individuals dealing in cattle and calf hair and hair felt was filed in the federal courts here today by the United States district attorney at the direction of Attorney General Sargent.

The action seeks to prevent the defendants from further alleged violation of the anti-trust act and to bring about a dissolution of the alleged combine and monopoly.

The government charged the defendants are engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade and commerce in cattle and calf hair and soft hair felt, and are attempting to monopolize such trade and commerce in violation of the anti-trust laws.

In addition to asking the dissolution of the alleged "combination," the petition asks the Tannera Products company and the American Hair Felt company be dissolved.

Mrs. John A. Johnson was hostess at a charming bridge party Wednesday at her home on Washington street, complimentary to Miss Minnie Hofman of La Grande, Oregon, who has been instructor of mathematics in the University of Wyoming for the past year and who has been the guest of Mrs. Johnson en route to her home. The favors in the card games were won by Mrs. Glen Jenkins and Mrs. L. A. Bethel, and the guest of honor was presented with a dainty gift. Following the games the hostess was assisted by Miss Bertha McCleary in serving delicious refreshments. The rooms were most attractive with a profusion of roses. The guests were Mesdames Glen Jenkins, L. A. Bethel, W. A. Shear, Walter, W. S. McCleary, C. S. McCleary, A. Beem, Arthur Wood, J. Brennan, H. McMillan, A. Scholten and G. Anthony all of Filer, and Mrs. A. A. Timm of Twin Falls.

The Woman's Council of the Christian church met at the home of Mrs. T. S. Bandy on Walnut street Thursday afternoon. The business meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. C. E. Allen. The afternoon was spent socially and was in charge of the executive committee of the council. About thirty-five members were present and delicious refreshments were served. This was the last meeting of the council until the fall activities begin.

Mrs. Mark Musser entertained the Entre Nous club Thursday at her home on Sixth avenue north. The usual games of bridge were played, Mrs. A. Putzier winning the favor for high score and Mrs. G. H. Halpin, low. A three-course luncheon was served after the games at the small tables which were centered with low bowls of pansies, and garden flowers adorned the rooms. Miss Martha Sells of American Falls, who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. A. Putzier, was a guest of the club.

Mrs. Patrick Wynn entertained the members of the Women's Progressive club and their children with a delightful picnic at her country home on Wednesday afternoon. A short business session was held followed by an enjoyable program of songs and recitations by the children. The children then spent some time playing games, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments to the twenty-three children, eighteen members and four visitors who were in attendance. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Earl Schlt on June 24.

This week Mr. and Mrs. August Kolb celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary in the midst of a host of friends who took them by surprise. J. Burns and family, former neighbors of the Kolb family in Texas, had come from Eden. The other guests, some sixty all told, were members of the local Lutheran church. Mr. August Kolb and Miss Ottilie Fleischhauer were united in holy wedlock on June 7, 1885. They made their home in Fort Dodge, Iowa. There four children were born to them: Carry, Edward, Walter—these three are at present living in California—and Edna, who is staying with the parents. In 1913 Mr. Kolb and family moved to the Rio Grande valley in Texas. Since March, 1919, Mr. Kolb has lived on the Twin Falls tract. Mr. Kolb made his home on a five-acre tract one mile north of the county hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Dobson entertained with a party Wednesday evening. The rooms were decorated with pansies, sweet peas, and roses. The evening was spent playing pinochle, J. Hunt winning high prize, B. Crowe consolation. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Benson, Miss Hazel Malhaffey, Miss Alma Ludwig, Mr. H. Haverland and Mr. B. Caulo.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Burtt was the scene of a pleasant surprise party Saturday evening when 18 relatives and friends walked in loaded with freezers of ice cream and plates of cake. The occasion being Mrs. Burtt's birthday anniversary, she was presented with several dainty and useful gifts. Dancing and pinochle were enjoyed until a late hour when everyone did full justice to the refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Carlson of Jerome, Mr. and Mrs. W. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Patrick and son, junior, of Filer; Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Allsberry and children of Kimberly; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bandy and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Booth and daughters.

Mrs. Nellie Owen was hostess to the Mountain View club Wednesday with 17 members and six visitors present. Mrs. W. Bruley, Mrs. Brandon, Mrs. Bernard and Mrs. Crays; Misses Maurine Ballard and Verla Booth were guests. The usual business was transacted after which Mrs. France presented a clever contest, Mrs. Kloft winning the prize offered. Delicious ice cream and cake was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Louise, and Maurine Ballard. The next meeting will be with Mrs. McDowell as hostess, June 24.

The Blue Lakes Boulevard club met at the beautiful country home of Mrs. George H. Smith Wednesday afternoon, 17 members answering roll call with a recipe or kitchen help. Six guests were present: Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Stelne and daughter, Miss Martha, Mrs. Sweiger, Mrs. French of Texas and Miss Mary Ruth Fisher. After a short business session, Miss Fisher gave a most instructive and interesting talk and discussion on "Well Planned Meals and Care of Food in the Home." During the social hour Mrs. Smith assisted by her daughters, Misses Frances and Margaret, served delicious refreshments.

LIGHT AND MOTION ARE DAMAGE SUIT FACTORS

An automobile owned by M. W. Goldman with which a car driven by Gustav G. Fletcher, orchestra director, collided on the state highway at the west boundary of Twin Falls on the evening of April 10, last, was not in *motion and its lights were not displ*ayed, according to testimony in Fletcher's behalf offered Thursday at trial in the suit for $500 damages in which he is defendant. Plaintiff Goldman in his complaint asserted that Mrs. Goldman was driving the Goldman car at the time when it was in motion and lights were displayed.

Witnesses in behalf of the defendant including T. M. Robertson and his sons, John Robertson and Tim Robertson, testified that the Fletcher car passed their machine and almost immediately thereafter crashed into the Goldman car that was standing still without lights.

Knew Value of Rifle

The Arab caravan men who lived in trade across the Sahara through wastes patrolled by robber tribes had a proverb which told a deal of truth. "Without doubt," they said, "Allah is great, and Mohammed is his prophet, but Sidi Vlaster (Mr. Winchester) is the trader's real friend."

WYOMING TEAM POLO CHAMPION

Fort Russell Army Players Defeat Boise Civilian Team in Hard-Fought Contest.

BOISE, June 11 (AP)—Breaks of the game, coupled with a shade better teamwork gave Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., a 5 to 3 victory over the Boise civilian team, and the championship of the northwest, after a thrilling game here this afternoon. The game was the finest ever seen in Boise in the five years that the northwest tournament has been held here.

It was anybody's game until the final bell. Fort Russell got a good start and made four points in the first half, while Bois egot only one. After the fourth chukker, however, the civilians tightened, and made two points while the Thirteenth cavalry team added one. Twice during the contest Boise lost a goal when a horse stepped in front of a ball leading directly for the post. Herbert Lemp, captain of the Boise team, was the outstanding man in the game.

THAW ENJOYS NIGHT ALONG BROADWAY FOR SECOND TIME 2 WEEKS

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Harry K. Thaw, whose second return in two weeks to the bright lights of Broadway since his release from an institution has brought him renewed publicity, issued a statement through his counsel tonight saying he would not submit to any further "hounding or pounding." Thaw last night spent a quiet evening in a night club with a bevy of chorus girls.

In his statement he demanded the "same fair and square chance to which every American is entitled," and asserted he had done nothing to warrant "exploitation" in the news papers.

The statement says in part:

"I purpose to prosecute any false accounts published against me in the future. The public in general has been giving me the same fair and square chance which every American is entitled to. There is no reason why I should be treated differently by the press.

"I have a right to go about my business as long as my conduct is not different from those of any other man.

"The stories recently published about me are utterly false. I gave no gifts or exaggerated tips, nor lavish entertainment."

SENATORS LOSE DETROIT GAME; SCORE 7 TO 4

World's Champions Bow to Tigers; Johnson Suffers Third Defeat; Chicago Beats Philadelphia by One Run.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—After raising their world championship emblem at ceremonies before the game the Senators bowed to Detroit today 7 to 4. Walter Johnson suffered his third defeat of the season. Whitehill pitched a steady game for the Tigers throughout.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
Detroit	7	11	1
Washington	4	10	1

Batteries: Whitehill and Woodall; Johnson, Ogden, Marberry and Ruel.

CLEVELAND 4—NEW YORK 1

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Babe Ruth drove out his first home-run of the season today but the Yankees lost to Cleveland, 4 to 1. Speaker's homer with two on base in the third gave the Indians their margin of victory. Ruth got two singles besides his homer, making half of the six clouts the Yankees could count off Southpaw Miller, a recruit from the Terre Haute club in the Three I league.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	4	7	0
New York	1	6	0

Batteries: Miller and L. Sewell; Pennock, Beall, H. Johnson and Bengough.

CHICAGO 6—PHILADELPHIA 5

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 (AP)—The White Sox evened the series here today by taking the second game from the Athletics six to five. Rommel and Robertson were both driven from the hill in the third inning but excellent relief hurling by Mike Cvengros and Arthur Stokes brought a halt to the hitting and turned a slugging game into a hurling duel. Sheely's double and a single by Falk in the fourth inning scored the winning run.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	6	11	0
Philadelphia	5	9	0

Batteries: Robertson, Cvengros and Crouse; Rommell, Stokes and Cochrane, Perkins.

ST. LOUIS 9—BOSTON 7

BOSTON, June 11 (AP)—The heavy hitting of Kenneth Williams was chiefly responsible for St. Louis taking the second straight game from Boston, 9 to 7 today. In the seventh inning he planted the ball in the right field bleachers. With two out and two on in the eighth and the score tied, his double resulted in two runs. Also afield Williams shone, making a shoestring catch, as did Sisler.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	9	13	0
Boston	7	10	1

Batteries: VanGilder, Davis and Dixon, Rego, Severeid; Ross, Quinn, Fuhr, Ruffing and Pichich.

COLLEGES WILL MEET IN SPORTS

Stagg Field at Chicago Today Is Scene of National Championship Meet; Many There.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Intercollegiate track and field stars from 62 universities and colleges will match their speed and brawn in the preliminaries of the national collegiate championship meet on Stagg field tomorrow to reduce the field for the finals Saturday afternoon.

The most recognized as the outstanding event in intercollegiate athletics held primarily to determine the individual national champion of each event.

With the exception of southern California, which won the eastern intercollegiate meet, winners of other sectional championships will participate. These include Michigan, victor in the western conference championship; Leland Stanford, winner of the Pacific coast conference title; Missouri, winner of the Missouri valley conference games; Swarthmore, winner of the middle Atlantic conference; Washington, champion in the northwest games, and Texas, southwestern conference title holder. Four California institutions will be represented.

SHERIFF'S POSSES IN PURSUIT OF MEN WHO ROBBED MISSOURI BANK

JOPLIN, Mo., June 11 (AP)—A posse led by Sheriff Joe Gailey, early tonight were in pursuit of three of five men who held up and robbed the Bank of Sulphur Springs, Ark., at noon. Approximately $2,000 was obtained.

Two of the robbers were wounded and captured and, in the firing which followed the bank raid, L. M. Stout, president of the bank also was seriously wounded.

The three escaped bandits were surrounded in a heavy woods near Sulphur Springs and intermittent firing followed between posemen and the highwaymen. The trio managed to escape in another motor car. When the robbers appeared at the bank, Miss Clara Abercrombie, assistant cashier fled, unseen by the bandits and gave the alarm.

Two robbers were wounded by citizens. They sped away in an automobile.

PORTLAND GRAIN

PORTLAND, June 11—Wheat—Soft White, July $1.15, Northern Spring, June $1.60. Hard White, June $1.60.

RAINS IN CANADA ARE REFLECTED IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 11—Influenced by rains in Canada and the domestic spring wheat states, as well as by the Canadian government crop report, the wheat market here averaged lower today. Closing quotations on wheat were easy at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4c down, July $1.02½ to $1.02 3-8, and Sept. $1.50½ to 1.50 3-4, with corn showing 1-8 to 3-4c gain, oats unchanged to 5-8c higher and provisions varying from 10c decline to 35c advance.

Canadian wheat crop figures were hardly as bearish as traders here had looked for, but were emphasized by the generous rainfall reported today from both sides of the Canadian boundary. However, on the price decline which resulted here the best sellers of yesterday became aggressive buyers and with much talk current as to possible ill effects from hot weather in Europe the market turned temporarily upgrade. Smallness of shipments from Argentina were likewise a strengthening factor, and so too was a report of dust storms over western Kansas.

Gossip that Chicago millers were paying higher premiums for cash wheat and that millers in Texas were offering a premium for the first run of the new crop in Oklahoma, tended further to lift wheat values in the final hour. Freezing on the part of holders here though, was removed at the last, and gains which had been scored were more than wiped out. There was a relative dearth of new export business, today's wheat sales to Europe being only 300,000 bushels.

Dry weather and crop damage reports touching corn in some sections as well as cold and lack in general gave strength to prices for corn and oats. Provisions trade was light and the market irregular, in line with hogs.

CONSTRUCTIVE FORCES AT WORK ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—

	Industrials	Railroads
Thursday	121.54	100.93
Wednesday	120.46	100.42
Week ago	121.85	102.08
High 1925	126.10	101.68
Low 1925	114.31	96.13

Total stock sales 1,216,000 shares.

Constructive forces were actively at work in today's stock market, which moved to higher ground under the leadership of the oils, motors and public utilities. Resumption of pool operations in several issues, heretofore dormant, was encouraged by the continuance of easy money rates and favorable dividend and trade developments.

Publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute, showing a drop of 17,550 barrels in the daily average production of crude oil for the week ended June 6, the first reduction in about eight weeks, stimulated the demand for the oil shares. Texas company, whose earnings are running at a record rate, moved up 2¾ points to 52 3-4, the highest price in two years, and was followed into new high ground by General Petroleum, Independent Oil and Gas, Phillips and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies. American Republics, a holding company with several oil subsidiaries, soared 10 points to a record top at 68.

WOOL

BOSTON, June 11 (AP)—Business in the wool market is moving along in the same level as of late except fleece wools. Some of this stock is held at a little higher figure. Best choice DeLaines have moved up to 53 cents in the grease for a limited quantity, based on shrinkage of sixty per cent. This would mean fully $1.32 per pound clean.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The raw sugar market was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged, with spots quoted at 4.40 duty paid.

Raw sugar futures were generally easier, owing to selling by houses with Cuban and European connections. Prices declined 2 to 3 points on the active positions but rallied partially near the close on covering and were finally unchanged to two points lower. July closed 4.27@, Sept. 2.84, Dec. 2.93; March 2.95.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.50 to 5.75 for fine granulated. New business was still light, but a continued good withdrawal demand was reported.

GOVERNMENT BONDS

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Liberty bonds closed:

World's Tallest Yews.

Professor Badoux, of Zurich, declared recently that the tallest yew in Europe is one growing wild on a rocky cliff in the forest of Chillon, which boasts a little more than 70 feet, but Professor Henry points out that the magnificent group of yews commonly known as the Close Walks, near Midhurst, rise straight up for from 80 to 92 feet. Probably these are the tallest yews in the world. They are about 200 years old. Yews are said to reach great heights in the Himalayas, but none there has been accurately measured and reported. In some parts of Europe the species is dying out.

The Successful Man.

The complaining, fault-finding habit depresses the mental faculties and tends to lower efficiency. It is the man who sings at his work, the one who is bubbling over with gladness, with a sense of abounding vitality that is the normal, healthful successful man.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

Ash Quantities Compared

A cord of hardwood will make only 60 pounds of ashes, while a ton of hard coal will make 200 to 300 pounds.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION
Final Proof

I, Alfred W. Brooks, of Freeport, Long Island, New York, who made Entry No. 88 under the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of Idaho, commonly known as the "Carey Act" approved March 2nd, 1899, which embraces Northwest Quarter of Southwest Quarter (NW¼ SW¼) of Section 26, of Township 12 S. of Range 13 E. B. M., do hereby given notice of my intention to make final proof to establish my claim to the land above described, and that I expect to prove that I have resided on, reclaimed and cultivated said land as required by law before W. Lee Howard at Buhl, Idaho, on the 27th day of June, 1925, by two of the following witnesses:

ALFRED W. BROOKS.

FRONTIERSMAN OF SOUTH IDAHO CROSSES DIVIDE

Jake Fritz, Early Day Miner, Cattleman and Stage Driver, and Factor in Twin Falls Development, Dies Here.

Jake Fritz, for more than 30 years a frontiersman, cattleman, miner, stage driver and force operator in Idaho, and who played a prominent part in the events leading to the building of the Twin Falls country, died here early this afternoon from effects of an illness from which he had suffered for several years. The end came while Mr. Fritz was asleep. He had been confined to his room for several days, and hardly before he expired he asked that word be sent to E. A. Reed, a friend of many years, who was with him when he breathed his last. Word of Mr. Fritz's death, which was not unexpected, quickly passed to his many friends in Twin Falls. The body was taken to the Grossman mortuary. Arrangements for funeral services, which, it is expected, will be held under auspices of the Elks lodge, had not been completed Thursday evening.

Jake Fritz was born in the State of New York, August 21, 1856, and died at Twin Falls, Idaho, June 11, 1925. He came to the west when a boy and his life had been on the frontier; and his work had been a marked part in the development of the northwest.

In his young manhood he came to Colorado and there was employed as a ranger of cattle herds on the plains of northeastern Colorado and southern Wyoming. The herd owners found him trustworthy and he always held positions in confidential relations with his employers. The home ranches of his employers were in the vicinity of Greeley, Colorado; and he is well and favorably known there. In addition to his employment in the cattle business, Mr. Fritz worked in the mines of the Black Hills country.

From Colorado, he came to the state of Oregon and again engaged in the cattle business with home ranches near Ontario for several years; and with the same relations with his employers as formerly enjoyed in Colorado.

Wide Circle of Friends

Twenty-eight years ago he came to Idaho and was employed at mining in the Hailey district, at which place he became acquainted with J. B. Perrine. About 26 years ago Mr. Perrine employed him at the Blue Lakes ranch in which capacity his acquaintance with the residence of the Twin Falls tract began, and his integrity in business and loyalty to friends are well known. No citizen has a wider circle of loyal friends than had Mr. Fritz. For many years he operated the Blue Lakes ferry and his happy disposition and courteous service won him friends not only on these tracts, but the friendship of every traveler that crossed athis river point.

Mr. Fritz had no desire for prominence; and made no effort to be credited notoriety in his work. He chose, rather, to do his work well and was satisfied with the confidence of those with whom he worked as a fitting reward.

No Public Notice.

While no public notice was made of the work he did so well, the facts are that the preliminary examinations of the lands comprising all of what are known as the "Twin Falls tracts" were intrusted to him and his reports largely relied upon by those who were prominent in the enterprises. The reports so made were not general but included the classification of lands as to values. No individual is more familiar with the several tracts including the entire Brunean tract than was Mr. Fritz; and the reports made by him are an important part of the records kept by those in charge of these then proposed developments.

Prior to the opening of the Twin Falls tract, Mr. Fritz drove the stage between Shoshone and Rock Creek crossing at Shoshone Falls. With the pioneers of this section of Idaho and with those who traveled over this then desert waste, no one was better known.

A friend of Mr. Fritz of many years standing said Thursday evening concerning him, "All his life work was done in a quiet and courteous manner and without desire to be known except as a friend of his fellowmen. Having no near relatives, he had no desire to accumulate wealth; but he always used his earning capacity and placed his spare money where it did good to others. His many donations are not known; and only his nearest friends know anything of what he has done for his acquaintances who were struggling to support families and whom he deemed worthy. Not a few of the residents of Twin Falls have received town lots and other assistance and have been able to live with comforts that could not otherwise have been theirs to enjoy. He is written 'as one who loves his fellowmen.'

"Not only those who gather around Buhler here, will mourn his departure, but wherever he has lived quiet tears will burn the cheeks of those who knew him best.

"Those who knew Jake Fritz intimately were impressed with his uniform courtesy, candor and with his loyalty to his friends and in sincerity now say:

"Beloved friend, farewell.

"Farewell! A word that must be, and hath been—A sound which makes us linger, yet—farewell."

Proclamation

In memory of the courageous men and women who carved the State of Idaho from the desert, mountain and plain, the Eleventh session of the Idaho Legislature set aside June fifteenth as a legal holiday in this state and designated it

"Idaho Pioneer Day"

Therefore, it gives me pleasure to remind the people of Idaho of this provision of our statutes, and I do hereby proclaim Pioneer Day, June fifteenth, a public holiday.

I trust that the day may be given to public exercises in commemoration of the spirit of the sturdy souls who have builded us a great commonwealth. We can do well to recount the tales of their heroism and sacrifice, and perhaps we may be inclined with a greater sense of the responsibility of citizenship bequeathed by them to the present generation.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the State of Idaho. (SEAL)

Done at the capitol, this tenth day of June, A. D., 1925, and of the statehood of Idaho, the thirty-fifth year.

(Signed) C. C. MOORE,
Governor of Idaho.

(Signed)
Attest: F. A. JETER,
Secretary of State.

SHORT ROUTE TO CRATERS FOUND

E. V. Berg, Twin Falls Engineer, Makes Survey and Reports to Kimama Citizens.

A road from Kimama, Idaho, to the south border of the Craters of the Moon national monument, that will reduce from 30 to 40 miles the distance to the Moon Craters as compared with any existing route from the south and provide a more direct route from this region to northeast Idaho and the Yellowstone park, can be built at a cost of approximately $100,000, according to a report made to citizens of Kimama by E. V. Berg, Twin Falls engineer, who has just returned after completion of two weeks spent in locating and surveying the proposed route.

The proposed road would extend over a distance of 40 miles and would involve only two difficult points, one of them being the construction of about a mile of road through lava formation at the south border of the Moon Craters, Mr. Berg stated Thursday. The rest of the road, he said, would be easy construction.

Spokesmen for the communities of Kimama, Paul, Rupert and Twin Falls, Mr. Berg said, are expected to hold a conference at an early date to work out plans for proceeding with the road building project. It is considered probable that the state highway department will be requested to designate the proposed road as a part of a state highway.

Visitors are beginning to arrive at the Moon Craters, Mr. Berg stated. The custodian is building at his own expense within its boundaries.
