VOLSTEAD ACT CAN AND MUST BE ENFORCED

Dry Forces Bring Array of Talent to Support Contentions That Statutes Shall be Made Effective.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Volstead act can be enforced relatively as well as other laws, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of liquor prosecutions, declared today before the senate prohibition committee.

Before Mrs. Willebrandt was called to the stand at the beginning of the third week of the hearing, the dry sounded a trumpet call to the federal government to convince opponents of the prohibition laws that these statutes can and will be made effective.

Appearing for the Methodist Episcopal church, south, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., declared that the law should be enforced in the wet sections of the east at whatever cost of men and money to protect the remainder of the country.

Tightening up of the enforcement statute also was urged by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of New York, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; Fred B. Smith, chairman of the citizens committee of 1,000 for law observance and enforcement, and Colonel Walter P. Jenkins, of New York, national secretary of the Salvation Army, who appeared as the personal representative of Commander Evangeline Booth.

More Teeth Needed.

More "teeth" in the law also were urged by Mrs. Willebrandt, who suggested especially that the act be amended so that federal judges can make punishment fit the crime in the case of major offenders, the kind, Mrs. Willebrandt said, the federal courts should deal with.

While the committee thus was lodged with requests for tightening up the law, another administration measure was drawn up today by the treasury to make more effective present coast defense against contraband liquor.

Discussion of further agreements with Great Britain for curbing smuggling from that country were renewed with a trip by state and treasury department officials to London to confer in connection with the international phase of the situation.

With the exception of Bishop Cannon, all witnesses today, and especially Mrs. Willebrandt, were questioned at length by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the wet prosecutor.

Additional Time Given.

This finally led to formal written protests from those presenting the case for the drys with the result that Chairman Harreld announced that the drys would be given additional time.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Senator Reed engaged in a good deal of fencing, with the senator disagreeing with her.

"It will take a longer period of time to get the law operating fully than has been the case with other laws," she said.

"How many men would you need to enforce it?" the senator asked.

"That is difficult to answer. I

Verdict of Guilty Is Foreshadowed In Court Martial

Adjournment Taken in Cocktail Case With Indications That Colonel Williams is Not Exonerated.

SAN DIEGO, April 19. (AP)—Colonel Alexander S. Williams today drank the dregs of the cocktail he offered to Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler last month, when the military court trying him on a charge of intoxication preferred by the general, adjourned under circumstances leaving no doubt as to Mrs. Coolidge.

While the court made no comment or announcement, other than that it had adjourned the circumstances of its adjournment were held admissible as indicating that the colonel, guilty or appearing drunk in the public rooms of the hotel Del Coronado the night he gave a dinner party in honor of General Butler.

Officers familiar with court martial procedure explained as the court departed that adjournment without definite announcement of acquittal is a military court's courteous way of informing a defendant he has been convicted.

Findings and recommendations of the court will be sent direct to the judge advocate general of the navy at Washington and communicated by him, together with his recommendation for sentence, to the secretary of the navy. The verdict is expected to be officially announced in the national capital within a week or two.

Colonel Williams' trial originated in a dinner party the colonel gave at his home March 6, in honor of General Butler, who was sent to San Diego to relieve Williams as commander of the marine base.

Strange Sea Beast With Trapdoor Eyes Terrorizes Indians

Lurid Tale of Ocean Monster Brought to Land by Pacific Seal Hunters.

PORT ANGELES, April 19. (AP)—A sea beast, twice as big as an elephant and with eyes that work like trap doors, was reported here today by Quilliayute Indian seal hunters of the Pacific ocean, 60 miles southwest of Port Angeles.

Joe Pullen, former Indian chief of police at Taquah, a small town near the scaling grounds, and his crew of two, declared that they nearly threw their canoe overboard when the monster appeared at the surface near their boat. The beast worked its shutter-like eyes as it surveyed the canoe, but made no motion toward it. The Indians, after a moment of frozen terror, made record time to the beach.

Some who have made a study of the matter opine that an earthquake in Japan September 1, 1923, shifted the Japanese current and that the strange sea beast as a stray Oriental sunfish.

ITALIAN DEBT IN CENTER OF STAGE

Sharp Debate Indulged in Over Matter of Terms of Proposed Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—The Italian debt settlement returned to the center of the senate stage today and was subjected to an attack that met a stiff defense of the agreement and the American debt funding commission.

With the final vote set for Wednesday, Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, declared that "we must refund this debt now and Italy must be permitted to balance its budget, or Italy will never be in a position to pay us anything," while Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, assailed the agreement and Mussolini. The recent speech of the Italian premier in Tripoli, he declared, "Bristles with bellicose bluster."

In the midst of the spirited debate a concurrent resolution was offered by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, providing that the United States settle on terms contained in the Italian agreement with all its debtors, and practically, farmers, for indebtedness created by reason of the world war.

Similar Terms to Farmers.

Farmers should be permitted 62 years in which to liquidate their debts to the government and should be charged the same interest as Italy, Senator Nye said, "so that the United States may be dealing with its own people at least as liberally as it deals with foreign debtor nations."

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the funding commission, expressed an opinion that "it will be a long time before we get another chance, if the senate does not approve this settlement.

Senators Swanson, Virginia, Harrison, Mississippi, and Caraway, Arkansas, all democrats, criticized the senate finance committee for "failing to make a thorough investigation of Italy's ability to pay," but Senator Reed replied that the committee had made a very careful scrutiny.

VERDICT OF JURYMEN IN LATEST HERRIN OUTRAGE FAILS TO NAME GUILTY

HERRIN, Ill, April 19. (AP)—The coroner's jury which has been investigating Herrin's latest factional clash, which last Tuesday resulted in the death of six men, returned a verdict of "homicide" at the hands of parties unknown to the jury, tonight after an all-day session.

The principal witness heard today was Deputy Circuit Clerk John Ford, an eye-witness to the shooting, who miraculously escaped death last Tuesday and who is a candidate for sheriff against the incumbent, Shelton, in tomorrow's city election here.

URGES OBSERVANCE OF PROHIBITION STATUTE

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—Daughters of the American Revolution opened today their 35th congressional conference.

The delegates heard an address by their president general, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, on the prohibition law.

Mrs. Cook coupled an appeal for observance of the prohibition law with advocacy of daily reading of the Bible, without sectarian comment, in public schools. She urged also that care be used to prevent propaganda of liberal doctrines from succeeding in their "attempts to make our schools and the text books of history read by school children of the country, vehicles for propaganda in support of their pernicious theories."

Concerning law enforcement, Mrs. Cook declared, "we are at the cross roads," and that "there can be no negative conduct in relation to this great issue, for all conduct is positive. We are either for or against law observance and law enforcement."

SENTENCE JUVENILE OFFENDERS

IDAHO FALLS, April 19. (AP)—Four of a group of juveniles, who have been shooting off giant powder caps stolen from the C. W. and M. company's powder house, were sentenced to the industrial school at St. Anthony by Judge H. K. Linger in probate court.

NEW LANDSLIDE INTERFERES IN RESCUE EFFORT

Fresh Fall of Rock Undoes Work of Hours in Attempt to Save Lives of Imprisoned Miners.

(By the Associated Press.)

QUINCY, Cal, April 19.—Sixty miners were working at top speed tonight in an endeavor to rescue six tunnel workers entombed in the Grizzly creek lure of the Feather River Power company since Saturday night.

The rescuers worked in the face of pessimistic reports today that the six men might have suffocated before an air pipe line was worked into the section where they were imprisoned by a cave-in on one end and the unbared section of the tunnel on the other. A new landslide in the section where the rescuers were working today practically wiped out the progress made and tonight it was estimated that nine or ten hours would be required before the imprisoned men would be reached.

The tunnel is being constructed as part of a net work of hydro-electric waterways fed from Lake Almanor, the biggest artificial lake in the world.

Work Greatly Hampered.

At 4.45 the rescuers sent out word that 18 feet separated them from the imprisoned men. The work was hampered considerably by falling timbers.

Relatives of the entombed men assumed dead was strengthened tonight by the fact that no sound or signal has been heard from the chamber in which they are held. Two doctors from Oroville, California, with complete hospital equipment are at the portal prepared to minister to the miners when they are reached if a spark of life remains.

PROTEST HALTS SHIP SALE

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—Sale of the American-Orient Mail line to R. Stanley Dollar was held up today by a senate resolution of protest.

Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board was preparing to sign the bill of sale when the resolution of Senator McNary recommending Dollar a bid of $4,500,000 be thrown out, passed unanimously. The chairman said he would withhold his signature until the shipping board had considered the resolution.

The shipping board ordered signing of the contract upheld pending report by general counsel of the board on the legal status of the matter. The report is expected tomorrow.

Gruesome Find Is Believed Evidence Of Old Time Crime

IDAHO FALLS, April 19. (AP)—A badly decomposed skull and other bones of a mutilated male body, all that remained of some tragedy of the past, were found in a shallow grave near here today. Sheriff C. E. Criddle brought the bones to his office.

The teeth were in excellent condition. Officers and others who examined them believe they belonged to a man about 40 years old. Half the skull was fairly solid, although dry and powdery. Officers are unable to tell just how long the bones had been in the ground. The fact that the grave was but two feet deep leads to the belief that the man met foul play and was buried hastily.

The bones, had they been in a wooden casket, might give rise to the belief that the man had been dead many years, but the fact that they were found about 150 feet from the banks of the Idaho canal leads the officers to think that the body had decomposed quickly and that the man had been buried but a few years at most.

MUST RETURN TO ANSWER CHARGE

Fort Douglas Corporal Is Accused of Complicity in Liberty Bond Theft.

SALT LAKE, April 19. (AP)—Thomas L. Shumway, former corporal at Fort Douglas, today entered a plea of guilty to an indictment returned by a federal grand jury in New York charging theft of Liberty bonds from the Hanover National bank, New York, in October, 1921. He was held in $20,000 bail for the New York federal authorities.

Maroukey was taken into custody shortly after the theft of ten $500 Liberty bonds from the bank. Eight of the stolen bonds were recovered and upon promising to make good the other two, Maroukey was released to return to his home. He subsequently disappeared without making restitution. Recently it was learned that he was a soldier stationed here and his indictment and arrest followed.

WILL CENSOR RECORDS.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 19. (AP)—Mayor Wade Hymans of Baton Rouge today announced that the sale in Baton Rouge of any phonograph records which might be termed vulgar or indecent would be stopped.

The question of whether a given song is vulgar will be decided by a committee which he will appoint, if this is necessary, the mayor stated.

FIFTY FEET OF FLOWING LAVA COVERS VILLAGE

Violent Eruption of Historic Volcano Destroys Entire Village While Inhabitants Stand Helplessly By.

(By the Associated Press.)

HILO, T. H., April 19.—The native village of Hopnuloa lies under 50 feet of cooling lava today, despite sacrifices of Hawaiians to Pele, goddess of the volcano, the villagers offered pigs and distilled liquor to Pele, but molten rock streams from Mauna Loa rolled over the homes of the hundred inhabitants.

Some of the residents fled in canoes. Others, warned by clouds of smoke and steam, had time to drive flocks of sheep to other villages. A few saved some of their small belongings.

As the red-hot lava poured through the village, it set fire to fifteen buildings and covered the ruins. The beach where natives had launched their fishing boats, was covered, by smoking rock. From the sea arose clouds of steam and a roar like the exhaust of a thousand locomotives as the lava formed a new promontory on the ocean bed.

Overhead were army airplanes endeavoring to photograph phenomena for the benefit of science.

Efforts of social photographers were little successful, for as they circled in stifling heat 3,000 feet above the river of fire their view was obscured by huge clouds of smoke and steam.

Crowds Watch Flow.

The flow, which halted for a time Saturday night when Hopnuloa was destroyed, increased in volumes Sunday. The watching crowds surged dangerously close, but were driven back by police.

BIG FAIR PLAN UNDER WAY

POCATELLO, April 19. (AP)—A district fair will be staged at the Blackfoot fair grounds next September and sponsored by an association composed of Bingham, Bonneville and Bannock county, was assured here today when over 3,000 Pocatello and Bannock county citizens signed a petition calling for the formation of the district.

A delegation of thirty Blackfoot residents assisted in obtaining these names here today.

The Blackfoot fairgrounds, valued at $125,000 will be deeded over to the district.

Shot Fired at Car Results in Arrest On Murder Charge

Coroner's Jury Verdict of Exhoneration is Superceded by Action on Complaint of Brother of Victim.

RANGELEY, Colo., April 19. (AP)—Earl Cook, wanted for the murder last Friday night of Mrs. John Miller, 27, of Dragon, Utah, who today surrendered to Sheriff Miller of Rio Blanco county, here has been placed in jail at Meeker, Colorado. His preliminary hearing has been set for April 23.

After an inquest here today, a coroner's jury returned a verdict that Mrs. Miller came to her death from a "gunshot wound at the hands of Earl Cook," but exonerated Cook from blame.

This morning, however, James Calthrop of Vernal, Utah, brother of the dead woman, swore out a formal complaint charging Cook with first degree murder. Cook, Sheriff Miller said, told him that he had fired at the automobile in which Mrs. Miller was riding but with the intent of killing the woman but to damage the machine.

ACCUSED MAN IS ACQUITTED

Captain Orville Clampitt, Army Chaplain, Is Given Clean Bill of Health.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19. (AP)—Captain Orvile Clampitt, army chaplain, tonight was found not guilty on all counts of improper intimacies with Lucille Swallow, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, girl by a court martial which has been in progress at the presidio here.

The acquittal came after Clampitt took the stand in his own behalf and gave his version of his relationship with Miss Swallow while she was stationed at Fort Leavenworth.

The point about which this testimony revolved was the statement from the accused captain that he had never kissed Miss Swallow while she had lived at a lodging house in Fort Leavenworth. What he did do, the captain said, was to visit a soldier who had quartered in the same house. It was while he was in the private's room that Miss Swallow entered and said she wanted to talk with Captain Clampitt alone. It was then the girl made the alleged improper approach Captain Clampitt testified.

"I requested Fritz the private to leave the room," Captain Clampitt testified, "the girl then became hysterical and I was impressed with the fact that she was making advances and extended an invitation which I repulsed."

Captain Clampitt said he had been unable to locate private Fritz in whose room Miss Swallow attempted to compromise him otherwise he would have produced him to testify at the court martial.

In acquitting Captain Clampitt today the court martial announced that the accused officer was freed on the first ballot on every count in the charges brought against him.

WILL OPPOSE LIQUOR TO THE LAST DITCH FAMOUS LEADER SAYS

CHICAGO, April 19. (AP)—"With my last breath and ounce of strength I will fight for prohibition," said Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, today, who is here with her brother, General William Bramwell Booth, to attend the army congress now in progress.

"America has led the way. Prohibition has been proven. I can cite hundreds of instances where men in the days of the saloon never gave their families money and now own homes and automobiles," asserted Miss Booth.

"Every man and woman should put aside their selfish motives. The talk for light wines and beer without a saloon is impossible. No matter where it is sold, even from the tail of a kite, if that is possible, such place would become a saloon. It would be a place of drunkenness and crime."

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

The Italian debt settlement was debated in the senate.

The drys presented another list of witnesses opposing liquor law modification.

The administration asked for further laws to tighten prohibition enforcement.

John Philip Sousa outlined his copyright troubles before a joint congressional committee.

Attorney General Sargent announced the government spent $61,312 in prosecuting Senator Wheeler.

Secretary Jardine advocated and the corn belt delegation opposed the Tincher farm relief bill.

The senate asked the shipping board to hold up sales of the Admiral Oriental line to the Dollar interests.

The Daughters of the American Revolution opened their convention and were addressed by President Coolidge.

Notification was given that the United States would not participate in the Geneva conference for discussing world court reservations.

MORE ATTENTION TO CITIZENSHIP IS PRIME NEED

President Coolidge In D. A. R. Address Stresses Necessity of Greater Interest in Civic Duties.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Citizenship in America is not a private enterprise, but a public function, President Coolidge said in an address tonight before the thirty-fifth congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution during which he urged the people to exercise a greater interest in their government by going to the polls on election day.

"The whole system of government," he asserted, "rests on the ballot box. Unless citizens perform their duties there, such a system of government is doomed to failure."

Making a passing reference to law enforcement as relative to the duties of citizenship, the president said that it "cannot be denied that in the splendor and glamor of our life the moral sense is sometimes blinded.

"It cannot be disputed," he said, "that in too many quarters there is a lack of reverence for authority and of obedience to law. Such occurrences are sporadic and produce their own remedy. When society finds that its life and property are in peril from evil doers, it is very quick to organize its forces for its own protection. That cannot fail to be done in our own country, for our people as a whole are thoroughly law abiding."

The president held however, that it was not in violence and crime that the greatest danger lies, for these evils were quickly apparent and could be suppressed. A far more serious danger, he said, lurks in the shirking of those responsibilities of citizenship, where evil may not be so noticeable, but is more insidious and likely to be more devastating."

The address was delivered on the anniversary of the battles of Concord and Lexington, and after referring to the form of government set up as a result of the revolution, Mr. Coolidge said:

Must Arouse Public Interest.

"If we are to keep our representative form of government and to maintain the principle that the majority shall rule, it behooves us to take some steps to arouse the interest of the citizenry to a greater interest in their civic duties on election day. Many remedies have been proposed, from disfranchisement to criminal action. The most practical, I believe, would be for all bodies of men and women interested in the welfare of this country to join together under some efficient organization to correct this evil.

"It was hoped that giving the vote to women would arouse a more general interest in the obligations of election day. That has not yet proved to be the case. The presidential election in 1920 was the first after the adoption of the the universal suffrage amendment. There is no way to divide the total vote cast by men and women. But after that election some rather complicated calculations were made based on the assumption that the accession of women might be presumed to double the

United States Will Not Be Present at World Court Meet

American Government Formally Declines Invitation of League to Participate in Session at Geneva.

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—The league of nations invitation to participate in the world court conference in Geneva next September was declined formally today by the United States. Acknowledgement which was cabled by Secretary Kellogg to Alan F. Winslow, charge d'affaires at Berne, legation for transmission to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, said it did not seem "appropriate" for the American government to be represented, by stating attendance the league referred to the forty-eight country protocol signatories saying them to indicate to the United States the difficulty of testing the same reservations by direct negotiations.

"It would seem to me," Mr. Kellogg said, "to be a matter of regret if the council of the league should do anything to create the impression that there are substantial difficulties in the way of such direct communication."

The acknowledgement also stressed the view of President Coolidge that American representation court not serve "any useful purpose" and contended that the senate reservations "are plain and unequivocal and according to their terms they must be accepted by the exchange of notes between the United States and each of the 48 states * * * before the United States can become a party and sign the protocol."

Among other reasons for declining the invitation, it was stated that no authority existed for varying from the correspondence course started by the secretary with the 48 capitals, Mr. Kellogg forecasting "no difficulty in the way of securing the assent of each signatory by direct exchange of notes as provided by the senate."

RAILROADS ARE TO BLAME FOR COAL SITUATION

Union Chief Declares Bituminous Industry Is Threatened by conspiracy to Cut Down Wages.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A rail road "conspiracy," headed by W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is forcing the bituminous coal industry into bankruptcy, Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, charged today before the house commerce committee at a hearing on coal legislation.

Opposing arbitration proposals for the industry, Mr. Murray assailed "any plan for government intrusion that would take from the miner his right of self-determination," and launched an attack against Mr. Atterbury.

"General Atterbury asserts that the railroads are going to force coal mine wages downward, he said, "and his plan is nothing short of execution of a conspiracy that dictates coal prices. He is opposed to coal mine wages comparable with American living standards."

Success of the railroads in "dictation of ruinous coal prices" is made possible said Mr. Murray by the big per cent over-development in the soft coal industry. He declared that bituminous operators, instead of accepting the challenge of the railroads, are asking labor to accept wage reductions.

Too Much Competition.

Mr. Murray said that in the bituminous industry "cut throat" competition had developed, "dissipating large pools of capital, wrecking mining communities and demoralizing the labor structure of the industry."

Union miners, he said, would not object to creation of a federal fact finding commission provided miners are given ample representation. The facts gathered are to be used to eliminate uneconomic and unscientific freight rates, curb railroad conspiracy, ascertain operators' profits, and show the exact relationship between producing companies and selling agencies."

Abrogation of Jacksonville wage agreement with miners was charged among thin others by the witness to the Pittsburgh Coal company, in which he said Secretary Mellon is financially interested.

VOLSTEAD ACT CAN AND MUST BE ENFORCED

can't think it would take any vigorous."

Mrs. Willebrandt told the board her conclusion as to law enforcement on conditions in those states which are doing their part in enforcing criminal particularly Kansas and Idaho.

Senator Reed disputed the assertion that the law is being well enforced in Kansas, citing police statistics of arrests in Atchison and Kansas City, Kansas. He also called attention to seizure of thousands of stills in southern states which were dry before the eighteenth amendment was ratified.

State Action Sought.

With respect to the "wet secession" of the east, on which Bishop Cannon said stress, Mr. Willebrandt said the federal government would have to keep on hammering away at law enforcement there until the states will out enabling acts "fall into line."

Bishop Cannon, who is chairman of the legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon league, told the committee he spoke for the third largest Protestant denomination in the country, and that the assertion of the "wets that distilling and brewing in the home are universal could not apply to the approximately 20,000,000 members of Protestant churches, 21,000,000 Sunday attendants and 8,000,000 members of young peoples societies.

The bishop called attention to "vast worthy" that testimony present ed by opponents of prohibition had come from persons living in those sections which always had opposed prohibition and which are doing much now to nullify dry statutes.

Endorses New Act

Mrs. Boole strongly endorsed the new administration bill drawn by Linwood C. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief, and designed to strengthen the Volstead act. This and other witnesses urged that modification measures presented in the wets be rejected.

"We believe," said Mrs. Boole, "that there should be a sufficient number of federal prohibition officers under competent administrators, a sufficient number of judges that trials may be speedy; that punishment should be adequate, and that there should be careful supervision of the permit system.

"In the full force of the government, federal state and local, should be used to indicate the fact that this is a government of law and that without the sovereignity of law, government will fail."

Senator Reed wanted to know whether it was better to have distilling in the home in the presence of children or to have it done legally some place else.

No Question of Choice.

"I do not concede that we have to accept either of the two evils," Mrs. Boole retorted as the crowd laughed. Mrs. Boole conceded that there was lax enforcement of dry laws in some cities of the country, as did Bishop Cannon and other witnesses. That was used as one of their arguments for putting more teeth into the Volstead act.

"The way out of the present situation is not to surrender," declared Mr. Smith on behalf of the committee majority. Also said, "The eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act can be reasonably enforced if the various states, municipalities and the federal government will give adequate support to these measures."

On behalf of the federal Mrs. Boole, who is all, Colonel Jenkins presented a statement declaring much better enforcement of prohibition is found by the [illegible] Act. It is by good women, the president declared.

STRIKE LEADER GIVEN OVATION

Youthful Organizer Returns From Jail to Carry on Battle for Textile Workers.

PASSAIC, N. J., April 19. (AP)—"Peace, protection and victory" were the keynotes in the address of Albert Weisbord, youthful textile strike organizer, who returned today to the scene of strike activities under $30,000 bail, after eight days in jail on four indictments for inciting to riot, inductive to government and conspiracy.

Weisbord addressed nearly 3,000 of his followers on a vacant lot in Wallington, donated by Mayor Samuel Nelkin for the strikers' use. He was given a big ovation and received two large baskets of flowers. At the conclusion of the speech, when he showed signs of physical weakness, he was carried in a waiting car on the shoulders of the strikers.

The organizer said that the strike was had "one hundred per cent jail bird leadership, which, under the condition existing here, is no disgrace, but a singular honor."

Move to Break Strike.

He repeated his charge that a restraining order obtained by the Forstmann and Huffmann company was a move to break the strike and declared the injunction cannot run the mill.

"We will pursue our course in the same peaceful and orderly manner as before," he said.

Sheriff Charles W. Morgan and 150 deputies took charge of the situation in Passaic today. Small picket lines were allowed by the sheriff at Botany and Gera mills, and no attempt was made to picket the Forstmann and Huffmann plants, either in Passaic or Garfield. The deputies were armed with clubs, but no tad guns were in evidence in the city.

VERDICT OF GUILTY IS FORESIGHTED IN TRIAL

Mrs. Butler, Major and Mrs. Ross Rowell, Major and Mrs. Russell R. Davis, Captain and Mrs. Clifton R. Cates, Captain and Mrs. George F. Stokes, Major and Mrs. John L. Dower, and Captain and Mrs. Charles E. Rice.

All these officers testified at the court martial, but their wives and other members and guests at the party were not called in the stand by either prosecution or defense. Nor was any woman witness of Colonel Williams' behavior at his home or at the hotel brought into court, or mentioned, except casually, in the testimony.

Several days after the party it became known that General Butler had preferred a charge of intoxication against the colonel. In subsequent public statements the general pointed out that his charge was based not on the dinner party but upon what transpired at the hotel Del Coronado a little later in the evening "when I was not a guest of this officer."

General Butler testified his host was "full" at the party, and, when he saw him later at the hotel, so staggeringly drunk he had to be carried out. In fact, he added, the colonel, whose distinguished military record had not been smirched in 27 years of service, was so drunk that he giggled.

Defense Urges Illness

The defense fought back with witnesses who said the colonel did not appear to be intoxicated; though some of them admitted he was unsteady on his feet, probably from illness.

Most of the officers who attended the dinner party were certain the cocktails served there contained very little, if any, alcohol, and one of them told the court "you could have held a dozen of them."

General Butler did not express an opinion on the potency of the cocktails but declared General Williams had pressed him to drink one.

To refute the general's testimony who told how tooth trouble such as the defense called several surgeons had been bothering the general before the party might lead one to "see visions induced by dental lesion."

Doctors testified that hexyl resorcinol, a medicine Colonel Williams was taking under his physician's instructions, could make a man dizzy or give him "gastric trouble" severe enough to make him seem drunk.

One Sensational Phase

The most sensational phase of the trial concerned allegations by officers of the colonel's command that General Butler had browbeaten them into changing their written statements on the Coronado affair so as to say "he was drunk," instead of he was unsteady on his feet," or words to that effect.

The general admitted he had told several officers they were "boys running around in circles" and had better go back and write true statements or "expect to get into trouble." He denied, however, he had tried to get anything out of them but the truth."

vote. The calculators reached the conclusion that of the approximate 27,000,000 votes cast only 37 per cent represented the votes of women. Some say the percentage of feminine vote was greater in 1924. Others say it was less.

Will Take Time.

"I am not disposed to accept these conclusions as altogether fair to the women. And it stands to reason that it would take some time for them to become used to exercising the privilege which had belonged to the men of this country for so many generations.

"It is not my purpose to draw any distinction between the men and the women as to the extent to which they may take advantage of their privilege and perform their duty at the ballot box. But rather it is my idea to call your attention to the startling fact that in the last two presidential elections barely 50 per cent of them qualified to vote have done so. In the senatorial elections in off years the voting percentage is much smaller.

Ballot Box Only Way.

The position occupied by this situation lies in its insidiousness. With the monopolizing of popular powers, the direct election of practically all public officials, and the direct nomination of most of them, there is no opportunity for the expression of the public will except at the ballot box. It is perfectly evident that all those who have selfish interests will go to the polls and will be active and energetic in securing support for their proposals and their candidates. The average voter expresses what he believes to be the public interest. Unless they appear on election day their interest will be unrepresented."

HIGH WINDS HALT FLIGHT

SANTE FE, N. M., April 19. (AP)—Major William H. Hayton, commanding officers of the 120th observation squadron, Colorado National Guard, and Lieutenant Dan Kearns, were forced down noon but encountered high winds and were forced down here. They will resume their flight to Denver tomorrow, weather permitting.

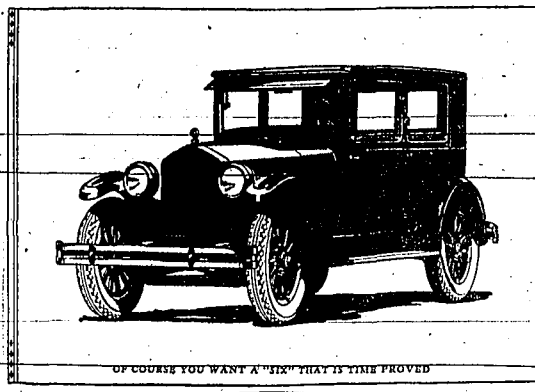
300,000 ESSEX OWNERS

They know its time proved value, its rare smoothness and performance, its sturdiness and economy



OF COURSE YOU WANT A "SIX" THAT IS TIME PROVED

Essex proved that everyone wants a "Six." But low price is not the only reason why 300,000 owners are praising it so highly nor does price alone explain the reason for its continued sales leadership. Time proved qualities are what owners talk about. They speak of the little attention Essex requires and of how frequent and small is the service cost.

They tell of economy in fuel, oil and tires. And they praise Essex smoothness in performance, its nimbleness and its power. They are the greatest Essex sales influence.

The Essex motor is built under Super-Six patents that give a performance and quality exclusive to this famous principle. Because of its vast production and the constant development of economical and precision methods of manufacturing its cost is little more than the lowest priced car on the market. Can you ignore such facts in the choice of your car?

CORN BELT PLAN BACKERS OPPOSE JARDINE EFFORT

Tichner Farm Relief Bill Meets With 'Emphatic Disapproval' of Delegations From the Middle Western States.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Administration forces supporting the Tincher farm relief bill and middle western delegations backing the corn belt plan today came to the parting of the ways.

Secretary Jardine urged the Tincher bill before the house agricultural committee, while the delegations issued a statement affirming their "emphatic disapproval," of the measure and terming it "pink pills for pale people."

Mr. Jardine assured the committee that the president approved the general principles of the Tincher plan, to extend credit to farmers' cooperative associations and set up a federal farm board to promote profitable marketing. As to the farm bill, the secretary looked with disfavor on its proposition for stabilization of prices by levying an equalization fee on basic farm commodities.

Secretary Jardine told the committee that the Tincher bill "does not propose any artificial disposition of the surplus such as would lead to an aggravated situation later.

No Price Fixing.

"It involves no governmental price fixing, nor does it put the government into the business of handling farm products," he added. "It is not a threat to consumers, but is instead a contribution to the general stability of supply and markets.

"It keeps the business of marketing farm products in the hands of farm-controlled agencies, where it belongs. It is sound, constructive, and will benefit every farmer in the United States."

The corn belt delegations asserted that the Tincher bill and the Fort proposal, a somewhat similar measure, "merely provide for another governmental loaning agency," and added:

"Neither individual farmers nor cooperative associations want to borrow any more money. They do not want to get into any more debt. What they want is a price for their products. Neither of these bills addresses itself for the task of securing a better price for the farmer.

Farmers Know, Best.

"The farm delegations came to this congress with a definite understanding of what the agricultural problem actually is. They have submitted to legislative proposal addressed to the solution of the problem as it is. They know that the farmer is out of step with the divine music of the universe. Farmers feel that they know best the sort of legislation necessary to procure equality for agriculture.

"They realize that any legislation that does not make the existing tariff effective will not enable the farmer to secure a domestic price for such of his products as are consumed in America, independent of the world price received for the surplus. Any legislation that does not address itself directly to bringing about this result will not meet the situation."

Rare Exhibits of Pearls

In a shop in Regent street, London, is being shown a remarkable collection of pearls gathered from fisheries all over the world. There are white Austrian pearls with their silver sheen very beautiful, but cold in color, that can be worn triumphantly by the pale blonde. The warm magnolia-tinted pearls from Ceylon, or the golden and brown pearls found in the depths of the Red sea are ideal for darker women, as are the rare black pearls found only in the Gulf of Mexico by pearl fishers searching for black mother of pearl.

Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap now ended. New way provides true protection—discards like tissue

WITH the old time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense, plus the embarrassment of disposal. And thus spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

HAROLD LLOYD AT IDAHO

"Old Man 'Hard Knocks' is the greatest home-run hitter in the world!" says Harold Lloyd, whose first Paramount release, "For Heaven's Sake!" produced by the Harold Lloyd corporation, comes to the Idaho theatre tomorrow for four days.

"More persons have started home after stepping out on the high road just because hard knocks came their way than for any other reason.

"Who hasn't heard of the famous 'School of Hard Knocks!' Most of our well known screen players are graduates of that academy. You've got to make up your mind to one thing—success doesn't come easily, no matter what you're doing.

"In the making of 'For Heaven's Sake!' there were nights when J. Sam Taylor, my director, and a bunch of 'gag' men sat around until eleven or twelve, horribly discouraged, thinking that we'd have to work harder, but never giving a thought to quitting. If we had, millions of people would have missed a laugh more than they haven't experienced in a long time. To use the old navy expression, 'A winner never quits, and a quitter never wins.' That's how we feel—and we're mighty proud of 'For Heaven's Sake!' I hope you like it."

"THE MYSTIC" AT ORPHEUM

Lives of many people are strangely parallel.

Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle, who have the leading roles of Director Tod Browning's "The Mystic," a production now being shown at the Orpheum theatre, compared biographies during the filming of the picture and found that they have traveled strangely parallel courses.

Tearle was born in America, but was taken to England while a child. Miss Pringle was born under the Stars and Stripes, but was also taken to England while a child.

Both Tearle and Miss Pringle were educated in London and both went on the stage in that city. Both have traveled all over the world and both have been on the American stage. Now they film themselves picture celebrities playing the feature roles of the same film production.

The ambition of each is to be a great film star, and they are so convinced their lives are traveling in a parallel that each thinks what happens to one will soon occur to the other. The couple will watch each other's career with sympathy and interest.

HEARS CREAMERIES' FIELD MAN

W. P. Joiner of New Plymouth, Idaho, field man for the Intermountain Creamery association, who is spending the week end in Twin Falls county, was a speaker at a meeting of the Kimberly grange held Monday evening in the basement of the Methodist Episcopal church in Kimberly and attended by 40 members. Mr. Joiner discussed activities of the several cooperative creameries of Southern Idaho for which the association that he represents is selling agent.

Other speakers were Harry Nelson of Twin Falls, grange deputy and field man for the Twin Falls County Cooperative Dairymen's association, and E. C. Montgomery, master of the Russell-Lane grange.

The program was arranged by Mrs. J. W. Carroll, Kimberly grange lecturer, and E. S. Wood, master of the Kimberly grange, presided.

Mr. Joiner will speak this evening at a meeting of the Marsh grange and on Thursday evening he will address a meeting of the Hollister grange.

Scout Leaders Will Prepare Camp Meal

Twin Falls boy scout council members have been invited to accompany a group of prospective scoutmasters on a hike this evening to Camp Perine to receive instruction in camp cooking under direction of F. Douglas Hawley, district scout executive, it was announced at a meeting of the council Sunday afternoon. The cooking lesson will mark completion of the training course in which the candidates for scoutmaster have been engaged during the past five weeks. The training course has been conducted under direction of W. E. Nixon, council commissioner of education.

Dr. W. F. Passer, who has served for five years as commissioner of boy scouts in Twin Falls, resigned and R. W. Gardner, past president of the local council, was appointed to fill the vacancy at the council's meeting Sunday.

Mr. Gardner, as chairman of the committee in charge of observance of boys' week in Twin Falls, May 2-8, outlined plans for the week's events including junior administration of municipal offices for one day, boy scout parade and field day, and planting of a walnut from the tree planted by boy scouts at the grave of Theodore Roosevelt.

KIWANIANS HEAR BERG'S PLANS FOR RECLAMATION

Plans for use of turbines connected directly with centrifugal pumps to lift water stored at American Falls reservoir and carried through Twin Falls canal system to reclaim 50,000 acres in this county and to provide the Salmon river project with a supplemental water supply were discussed at a meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday evening by E. V. Berg, Twin Falls engineer, who has worked out and advanced the proposition.

Members of Twin Falls board of education also were guests of the club and F. B. Johnson, treasurer, discussed the effect of reduction in property valuation upon the district's forthcoming tax levy.

Cowboy Hats and Silk Socks Taken At Hansen Store

Three cowboy hats, six blankets, two cases of rifle cartridges, a dozen pairs of silk socks and a quantity of cigarettes and tobacco were among the articles missing from the Schaefer general store at Hansen following a visit of burglars to the establishment last Saturday night, according to report made to the sheriff's office here Sunday evening.

The burglars are believed to have entered the store through a transom over the door at the rear and carried their plunder through the front doors to their car outside.

During the interval between the burglary and its discovery Sunday evening, car tracks and other possible clews were obliterated with the exception of finger prints discovered on the window pane, according to Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Jones, who made an investigation immediately after the report was received here.

Fear Was a Friend

A few weeks before his death Lord Leverhulme, in his presidential address to the Institute of Certified Grocers at Scarborough, said that he felt sure that the greatest help to any of them was fear, and that fear had been his best friend. His first recollection was fear. He had fear of continuing a clerk at his father's business, and that fear persuaded his father to put him on the road as a commercial traveler at the age of nineteen. He marched at the age of twenty-two, and then fear came as to whether the profits would keep a wife.

Later fear drove him into soap. His soap, widely advertised, was floated as a company in 1884. In the words of one of his numerous obituaries: "The years that followed marked the growth of a business ideal that was almost epic in its triumphs and ramifications."—Spectator, London.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Edited by
Mrs. E. B. Williams

Mrs. J. A. Griffith was hostess to the ladies of the Shinnock club last Thursday afternoon. Eight members were present and Mesdames Peterson, Timms and France were guests. The afternoon was spent with needlework and music and a short business session was held. Before the meeting adjourned the hostess served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Miss Mae McGinnis on April 28.

Mrs. Roy Davis entertained the Safety Social club Thursday afternoon. Eleven members and two visitors were present. At the business session the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Jennie Thletten; vice president, Mrs. Myrtle Sanders, secretary; Mrs. Mildred Fuller; treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Stewart; reporter, Mrs. Nora Graham. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served dainty refreshments.

On Monday afternoon the Star Social club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. A. Full Johnston on Ninth avenue east, with Mrs. H. D. Reed, Mrs. W. T. Scilley and Mrs. W. O. Smith assisting. After the regular order of business with Mrs. W. O. Smith, vice president, presiding, a book contest was held, each member wearing some article indicative of the title of a book, the guests throughout these titles, and Mrs. James H. Munn received a book as a prize for the greatest number of correct answers. A pleasant social hour followed and the hostess served most delectable refreshments to the twenty-eight members in attendance.

The Neighbors of Woodcraft held their social meeting Friday evening in the Business and Professional Women's club rooms. Mrs. Maguire, Mrs. Shipman and Miss Hagar were the committee on arrangements. At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Rural Federation in the Business Women's club rooms on Saturday the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. M. P. Kenworthy, first vice president, Mrs. Roy Evans; second vice president, Mrs. Albert Putzier; recording secretary, Mrs. Henry Champlin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ralph Leighton; treasurer, Mrs. C. B. Lindsey.

CONGRESSWOMEN

"Folks don't bother much about seeing the lady members any more," says the doorkeeper of the ladies' gallery in the House of Representatives. "Once in a while a woman steps up and asks me where the three lady congressmen sit, but not very often."

When there was only one congresswoman in the House, she got more attention than three get now. When there are three times three, they will get still less. It is getting so that a woman who comes to Congress is simply a member of Congress.

That is the way it ought to be, and the way sensible women prefer it. Woman takes her place in the work of legislation, or in any other form of public service, on equal terms with man. Her best work is done quietly, expressing women's ideals but without self-consciousness of sex. Political equality—political co-operation of men and women in equal terms—seems to have arrived.

THE COST OF RULERS

"It is reported that the German people are finding presidents far less expensive than Kaisers. President von Hindenburg's salary has been increased and he has been voted an allowance for official expense. Yet the total amount paid to him by Germany is trivial when compared with what it cost to support William Hohenzollern in the style he expected. Lately this difference in upkeep of government heads has been called to general attention by the former emperor's demands for a "settlement". The Germans aren't keen about paying him huge sums of money now, and the discussion of such sums recalls to mind the costliness of monarchs.

It is a wholesome sort of reminder. Right now it may help to discourage any reformers who have been hoping to get one or another Hohenzollern back on a German throne.

A MOSLEM LEAGUE

There is talk now of a "Moslem League of Nations" uniting the 220,000,000 Mohammedans of the world. The project, as set forth in some of the foreign dispatches, seems rather alarming.

An Islamic Congress is to meet at Cairo in May to select a new Caliph of the Mohammedan faith. There will be an effort made there to call a subsequent assembly at Mecca, representing the whole Moslem world. If the plan of Shiek Abul Assim is carried out, there will be an effort to organize the Caliphate into a sort of supergovernment for all Moslem states.

"The consequences of this plan would be incalculable," says a British observer. "For it would establish a Moslem League of Nations more coherent and effective than its prototype at Geneva."

Moslem scares are periodical and eternal, and it is seldom that anything comes of them. For years now there has been talk of a new "Holy War" against Christendom and Christendom still seems as safe as ever, menaced only by its own shortcomings.

It would be a some job, actually, to unite the 220,000,000 Moslems of the world for joint action, political or military. There are 70,000,000 of them in Europe, 140,000,000 in Asia, 45,000,000 in Africa and 30,000,000 in Oceania. The various units have all fallen apart, finding co-operation impossible in recent times. The largest continental block, the Asiatic Moslems, are divided among Turkey, Arabia, India and other countries, with most of them in India, which is not a nation at all. Turkey and the Arabian countries are always quarrelling. Mustapha Kemal, the ablest leading Moslem, carry nothing for religion. The religious followers of the Prophet elsewhere care nothing for him.

If the fiery sheiks of the desert, however, can drum up some sort of Moslem League of Nations, it might really be a good thing in some ways. It would hardly kill off the League of Geneva. A little healthful competition might impel the Geneva organization to get together and develop more efficiency in behalf of international Christendom.

SON OF KAZAN

WNU Service

A new terror held Baree rooted there. In an instant the whole world had changed. It was a flood of sunlight. Everywhere he looked he could see strange things. But it was the sun that frightened him most. It was his first impression of fire, and it made his eyes smart. He would have slunk back into the friendly gloom of the windfall, but at this moment Gray Wolf came around the end of a great log, followed by Kazan. She mauled, Baree joyously, and Kazan in a most doglike fashion wagged his tail. This mark of the dog was to be a part of Baree. Half wolf, he would always wag his tail. He tried to wag it now. Perhaps Kazan saw the effort, for he emitted a muffled yelp of approbation as he sat back on his haunches.

Or he might have been saying to Gray Wolf:

"Well, we've got the little rascal out of that windfall at last haven't we?"

For Baree it had been a great day. He had discovered his mother—and the world.

And it was a wonderful world—a world of vast silence, empty of everything but the creatures of the wild. The nearest Hudson's Bay post was a hundred miles away, and the first town of civilization was a straight three hundred to the south. Two years before, Tusoo, the Cree trapper, had called this his domain. It had come down to him, as was the law of the forest, through generations of forefathers, but Tusoo had been the last of his women family; he had died of smallpox, and his wife and his children had died with him. Since then no human foot had taken up his trails. The lynx had multiplied. The moose and caribou had gone unhunted by man. The beaver had built their homes undisturbed. The packs of the black bear were as thick as the trucks of the deer farther south. And where once the deadfalls and poison-baits of Tusoo had kept the wolves thinned down, there was no longer a menace for these mobsquas of the wilderness.

Following the sun of this first wonderful day came the moon and the stars of Baree's first real night. It was a splendid night, and with it a full red moon sailed up over the forests, flooding the earth with a new kind of light, softer and more beautiful to Baree. The wolf was strong in him, and he was restless. He had slept that day in the warmth of the sun, but he could not sleep in this glow of the moon. He nosed uneasily about Gray Wolf, who lay flat on her belly, her beautiful head alert, listening yearningly to the night sounds, and for the tonguing of Kazan, who had gone like a shadow to the hunt.

Half a dozen times, as Baree wandered about near the windfall, he heard a soft whir over his head, and once or twice he saw gray shadows floating swiftly through the air. They were the big northern owls swooping down to investigate him, and if he had been a rabbit instead of a wolf-dog whelp, his first night under the moon and stars would have been his last; for unlike Wapoos, the rabbit, he was not cautious. Gray Wolf did not watch him closely. Instinct told her that in these forests there was no great danger for Baree except at the hands of man. In his veins ran the blood of the wolf. He was a hunter of all other wild creatures, but no other creature, either winged or fanged, hunted him.

In a way Baree sensed this. He was not afraid of the owls. He was not afraid of the strange blood-curdling cries they made in the black spruce tops. But once fear entered into him, and he scurried back to his mother. It was when one of the winged hunters of the air swooped down on a snowshoe rabbit, and the agonizing agony of the doomed creature set his heart thumping like a little hammer. He felt in those cries the nearness of that one ever-present tragedy of the wild—death. He felt it again that night when, snuggled close to Gray Wolf, he listened to the fierce outcry of a wolf-pack that was close on the heels of a young caribou bull. And the morning of it, and the wild and thrill of it all, came home to him early in the gray dawn when Kazan returned, holding between his jaws a huge rabbit that was still kicking and squirming with life.

This rabbit was the climax in the first chapter of Baree's education. It was as if Gray Wolf and Kazan had planned it all out, so that he might receive his first introduction in the art of killing. When Kazan had dropped it, Baree approached the big hare cautiously. The back of Wapoos, the rabbit, was broken. His round eyes were glazed, and he had ceased to feel pain. But to Baree, as he dug his tiny teeth into the heavy fur under Wapoos' throat, the hare was very much alive. The teeth did not go through into the flesh. With puppyish fierceness Baree hung on. He thought that he was killing. He could feel the dying convulsions of Wapoos. He could hear the last gasping breaths leaving the warm body, and he snarled and jugged until finally he felt back with a mouthful of fur. When he returned to the attack, Wapoos was quite dead, and Baree continued to tire and snarl until Gray Wolf came with her sharp fangs and tore the rabbit to pieces. After that followed the feast.

So Baree came to understand that to eat meant to kill, and as other days and nights passed, there grew in him swiftly the hunger for flesh. In this he was the true wolf. From Kazan he had taken other and stronger inheritances of the dog. He was magnificently black, which in later days gave him the name of Kusketa Mohkah—the black wolf. On his breast was a star. His right ear was tipped with white. His tail, at six weeks, was bushy and hung low. It was a wolf's tail. His ears were Gray Wolf's ears—short, stout, pointed, always alert. His fore-shoulders gave promise of being splendidly like Kazan's, and when he stood up he was like the trace-dog, except that he always stood sidewise to the point or object he was watching. This, again, was the wolf, for a dog faces the direction in which he is looking intently.

One brilliant night, when Baree was two months old, and when the sky was filled with stars and a June moon so bright that it seemed scarcely lighter than the tall spruce-tops, Baree settled back on his haunches and howled. It was a first effort. But there was no mistake in the note of it. It was the wolf-howl. But a moment later when Baree slunk up to Kazan, as if deeply ashamed of his effort, he was wagging his tail in an unmistakably apologetic manner. And this, again was the dog: If Tusoo, the dead Indian trapper, could have seen him then, he would have judged him by that wagging of his tail. It revealed the fact that deep in his heart—and in his soul, if we can concede that he had one—Baree was dog.

In another way Tusoo would have found judgment of him. At two months the wolf whelp has forgotten how to play. He is a stinking part of the wilderness, already at work preying on creatures smaller and more helpless than himself. Baree still played. In his excursions away from the windfall he had never gone farther than the creek, a hundred yards from where his mother lay. He had helped to tear many dead and dying rabbits into pieces; he believed, if he thought upon the matter at all, that he was exceedingly fierce and courageous. But it was his ninth week before he felt his spurs and fought his terrible battle with the young owl in the edge of the thick forest.

The fact that Oohoomisew, the big snow-owl, had made her nest in a broken-stub not far from the windfall was destined to change the whole course of Baree's life, just as the blinding of Gray Wolf had changed hers. The creek ran close past the stub, which had been riven by lightning; and this stub stood in a still, dark place in the forest, surrounded by tall black spruce and enveloped in gloom even in broad day. Many times Baree had gone to the edge of this mysterious bit of forest and had peered in curiously, and with a growing desire.

On this day of his great battle his fare was overpowering. Little by little he entered into it. His eyes shining brightly and his ears alert for the slightest sounds that might come out of it. His heart beat faster. The gloom enveloped him more. He forgot the windfall and Kazan and Gray Wolf. Here before him by the thrill of adventure. He heard stranger sounds, but very soft sounds, as if made by padded feet and downy wings, and they filled him with a thrilling expectancy. Under his feet there were no grass or weeds or flowers, but a wonderful brown carpet of soft evergreen needles. They felt good to his feet, and were so velvety *that he could not hear his own move*ment.

He was fully three hundred yards from the windfall when he passed Oohoomisew's stub and into a thick growth of young balsams. And there—directly in his path—crouched the monster!

Papayuchisew (Young Owl) was not more than a third as large as Baree. But he was a terrifying looking object. To Baree he seemed all head and eyes. He could see no body at all. Kazan had never brought in anything like this, and for a full half minute he remained very quiet, eyeing it speculatively. Papayuchisew did not move a feather. But as Baree advanced, a cautious step at a time, the bird's eyes grew bigger and the feathers about his head ruffled up as if stirred by a bit of wind. He came of a fighting family, this little Papayuchisew—a savage, fearless, and killing family—and even Kazan would have taken note of those ruffling feathers.

With a space of two feet between them, the pup and the owlet eyed each other. In the moment, if Gray Wolf could have seen, she might have said to Baree: "Use your legs—and run!" And Oohoomisew, the old owl, might have said to Papayuchisew: "You little fool—use your wings and fly!"

They did neither—and the fight began.

Papayuchisew started it, and with a single wild yelp Baree went back in a heap, the owlet's beak fastened like a red-hot vise in the soft flesh at the end of his nose. That one yelp of surprise and pain was Baree's first and last cry in the fight. The wolf surged in him; rage and the desire to kill possessed him. As Papayuchisew hung on, he made a curious hissing sound, and as Baree rolled and growled his teeth and fought to free himself from that amazing grip on his nose, fierce little snarls rose out of his throat.

For fully a minute Baree had no use of his jaws. Then, by accident, he wedged Papayuchisew in a crotch of a low ground-stump, and a bit of his nose gave way. He might have run then, but instead of that he was back at the owlet like a flash. Flop went Papayuchisew on his back, and Baree buried his needle-like teeth in the bird's breast. It was like trying to bite through a pillow, the feathers were so close and thick. Deeper and deeper Baree sank his fangs, until he felt they were beginning to prick the owlet's skin. Papayuchisew—jabbing a little blindly with a beak that snapped sharply every time it closed—got him by the ear.

This Flavor

alone will satisfy you in quick cooking oats.
"Quaker" flavor

IN QUICK QUAKER—the world's fastest hot breakfast—the famous toasty flavor of the real Quaker Oats has been retained.

That, to you, is important; for flavor is the big point, after all, in food.

No other brand has that flavor. It took Quaker Oats experts years to attain it, and, at the same time, give you 3 to 5 minute cooking.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamines and this "bulk" are thus combined in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced food.

That is why, in quick cooking oats, as in the regular, the important point to millions is to see the picture of a Quaker on the package of Oats that they buy.

CLEVELAND WINS TILT WITH SOX

Chicago Club Unable to Solve Smith's Delivery Until Game Has Gone Seven Innings.

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians drove Blankenship off the mound in the first inning and acquired a substantial lead to win from Chicago today 5 to 1. The White Sox were unable to solve Smith's delivery until the seventh when they bunched hits to score once and save themselves from a shutout.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	5	13	0
Chicago	1	6	1

Batteries: Smith and L. Sewell; Blankenship, Levsrett, Connelly and Schalk.

ST. LOUIS TAKE FIRST GAME

DETROIT, April 19—(AP)—St. Louis finally broke the spell and won a ball game today. In freezing weather Gaston pitched the Browns to a 4 to 1 victory over Detroit. Three errors by Warner and a triple by Lamotte were factors in the score. Gaston was wobbly at times but effective with men on bases.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	4	7	0
Detroit	1	5	3

Batteries: Gaston and Ferrell; Wells, Fartout, Gibson and Hasler.

TWIN BILL AT BOSTON

BOSTON, April 19 (AP)—The Red Sox and Athletics divided the Patriot's day twin bill here today. While Lefty Grove held the Sox to three scattered hits, his team-mates thumped Wingfield for seven safeties and took the morning encounter, 3 to 1.

In the afternoon, after the annual B. A. A. marathon, 15,000 fans gathered to see the home team upset the Mackmen, 2 to 1. Ira Flagstead turned in several circus catches in the outfield, cut off two Philadelphia runs at the plate and headed a four man double play that nipped a threatening Philly rally.

First game:

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	3	7	1
Boston	1	3	0

Batteries: Grove and Cochrane; Wingfield and Bischoff.

Second game:

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	1	8	0
Boston	2	6	0

Batteries: Hoamgartner, Pate and Cochrane; Ruffing and Bischoff.

WILL ARRANGE BIG MATCH

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 19 (AP)—Tex Rickard arrived here this afternoon to meet Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, here tomorrow morning to sign articles of agreement for a championship match next August or September in which Gene Tunney will probably be the contender for Dempsey's crown.

The heavyweight champion will arrive here from El Paso either tonight or early tomorrow. All arrangements for signing of articles were conducted by wire and were completed before Rickard left New York. Dempsey endeavored to have Rickard meet him in El Paso Saturday, but the promoter asked Dempsey to meet him farther east and Fort Worth was chosen because Rickard's old home was at Henrietta, near here.

Rickard said that in all probability he will give Gene Tunney opportunity of unseating the champion.

"Tunney, in my opinion," said Rickard, "is the logical man to meet Dempsey. Tunney is a better fighter than Wills, and for that reason I expect to send him in."

Rickard explained that he and Tunney already under contract, and thing will be in readiness. The fight that as soon as Dempsey signed every will take place August 12, September 2 or 16 in New York.

DEMPSEY READY FOR ANY FIGHT

Champ Not Particular Just So Some Sort of Title Match is Arranged.

EL PASO, Texas, April 19. (AP)—Jack Dempsey left here tonight for Fort Worth where he will meet Tex Rickard tomorrow and discuss terms for a fight with Gene Tunney. The champion is confident that the conference will result in a meeting with Tunney in New York next September.

"I am ready and anxious to meet Tunney and it looks as if the making of the match is only a question of a few hours," Dempsey said before his departure. "I understand that Rickard is prepared to talk business, and I intend to meet him more than half way.

"I also understand that Rickard does not want the Harry Wills match, but should he change his mind and pick Harry to fight me instead of Gene, I'll be ready to sign. I have been traveling around the country for six months trying to talk business with promoters who made overtures regarding a match with Wills, but when it comes to posting a guarantee none of them see into want it.

"I intend to fight in a title bout next September even if I have to promote the match myself."

POCATELLO SIGNS UP ONE

POCATELLO, April 19. (AP)—One local player, Lee Warren, infielder, signed with the Pocatello Pirates today, and two men from the Butte Miner league arrived to join the local squad.

William Delaney, of the minor league, is a twirler of exceptional ability and has been with that aggregation for the past three years. Dewey Mellechan has been with the Miners for five years and his work here in the infield has been particularly brilliant.

Both these men signed contracts about two weeks ago.

There is a possibility that Clarence Zienka, formerly with the Butte Miners league, will arrive in the city tomorrow. Manager M. Benner stated today.

CHAMPS LOSE TO CINCINNATI REDS

Mays Pitches Brilliant Game and Pittsburgh Gets Second Drubbing in Three Games.

CINCINNATI, April 19. (AP)—Through the brilliant pitching of Carl Mays, the Reds made it two out of three in the present series with the world's champions today, winning 2 to 1. Cuyler scored Pittsburgh's sole tally in the ninth when he walked, stole second and scored on sacrifices. Wright was spiked on the hand when Rousch slid into second base in the eighth and had to leave the game.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburgh	1	4	2
Cincinnati	2	7	1

Batteries: Kremer, Oldham and Smith; C. Mays and Picinich.

CUBS DEFEAT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, April 19. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 4, in a thrilling 14 inning contest being the second defeat for the Cardinals this season, out of seven starts.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	5	8	2
St. Louis	4	11	3

Batteries: Root, Jones and Gonzales; Huntzinger and O'Farrell.

GIANTS WIN FROM BRAVES.

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—The Giants won in a romp from the Braves today, 8 to 3, driving Bill Ryan from the mound in the fifth and sixth frames. Elmer Hearn succeeded Ryan and held the Giants scureless in the last three innings. Cold weather kept the attendance down to about 1500.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Boston	3	10	1
New York	8	13	3

Batteries: Ryan, Hearn and Tyler; Barns and Hartley, Snyder.

ROBINS DEFEAT DODGERS.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19. (AP)—Yielding only five hits, Rob McGraw outpointed Wayland Dean in a slab duel today, the Brooklyn Robins moving out the Phillies by 4 to 2. Errors aided the Dodgers in scoring all their runs. After tallying once in the ninth, the Phillies loaded the sacks, but Henline, batting for Buskey drove into a force play at second.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	4	6	1
Philadelphia	2	5	4

Batteries: McGraw and O'Neil; Dean and Wilson.

Twin Falls to Greet Pilot and Players

Manager Carl Zamloch with five professional players forming the nucleus of Twin Falls team in the Utah-Idaho league, left California Monday and will arrive here Tuesday, according to advices received by A. H. Colwell, president of the local club. It is anticipated that the manager will start workouts for his men and candidates for the team within a day or two.

Cliff Osborn of Salt Lake, infielder and member of the Copper league championship team last season is a new recruit for the Twin Falls team and will arrive here Tuesday, Mr. Colwell has been advised.

Shoes That Pinch

If you are at any time compelled to wear a shoe that pinches, it may be of value to know that a folded cloth dipped in hot water and laid over the offending part will at once afford relief. EARLY SPRAYING ONLY EFFECTIVE

Horticultural Inspector Points Out Serious Consequences of Delaying War on Worms.

Control of the codling moth or apple worm can only be obtained by concentrating attention on the first brood of worms, according to E. V. Gipson, district horticultural inspector. Furthermore, Mr. Gipson stated, apples that are sprayed early do not go onto the market with a spray coating, against which propaganda last year assumed alarming proportions and will undoubtedly have a serious effect on marketing of western fruit this year unless late spraying can be avoided.

In view of these factors, Mr. Gipson recommended the serious consideration of the fruit growers of this region the following recommendations issued by M. L. Dean, director of the state bureau of plant industry:

"The time is at hand when plans should be completed for the application of the calyx sprays for codling moth control. I mention calyx spray because experience for the past few years has taught us that the double calyx spray is the only safe method to get real codling moth control. Control we must have and by the double calyx spray you can get it.

"Late sprays are dangerous because they leave a poisonous residue upon the apple that is considered to be a menace by the trade, especially in the foreign territory. Inspections will be made by the federal food and drug division and fruit showing this condition cannot be shipped, hence spray early, and apply a double calyx application. The first should be applied as soon as the petals begin to fall, with mixed varieties such as Jonathan and Romes, repeat in ten days; with other varieties such as Jonathan and Delicious repeat in six days. Use four to six pounds of arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water. Do not use more than six pounds, but use it thoroughly. Spray early and thoroughly, thereby avoiding late applications, dangerous warnings and efficiency. Watch for the spray dates of the department, then follow carefully."

Officials' Salaries Restored by Board To Former Figures

Schedule of salaries for Twin Falls county's elected officials, which was reduced by a former board of county commissioners two years ago, was restored to its former status by action of the commissioners in session here Monday. Under the new schedule, which becomes effective next January following the general election, sheriff, assessor and treasurer, whose present salaries are $1800 a year each, will receive $2000 a year each. Salary of the probate judge, which was cut by the former board to $1500, will be restored to $2000 a year, and the salary of the county superintendent of public instruction, which was reduced to $1500, will be restored to $1800. Salaries of the coroner and county surveyor will be increased 100 per cent, advancing from $100 to $200 a year each.

Salary of the county auditor and clerk of the court, which the former board unsuccessfully attempted to reduce to $1800 a year, continues at $2000 a year for the four-year term of that office.

Salaries of the commissioners and of the county attorney are fixed by statute.

Appeal made nearly two years ago by O. M. Etter and other citizens from the commissioners' order reducing official salaries, is still pending before the state supreme court.

Chamber Votes on Merchant Shipping

Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors at a meeting at luncheon Monday heard Shad L. Hodgin, former president of the chamber, discuss the proposal for reclamation of about 20,000 additional acres and for providing supplemental water supply for the Salmon River project that has been advanced by E. V. Berg, Twin Falls engineer, for whom Mr. Hodgin has been retained as attorney in this undertaking.

Directors individually in terms of enthusiasm expressed approval of the undertaking.

Members of the board also was recorded their vote at this meeting on the propositions with regard to the United States merchant marine which had been submitted for referendum vote by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The vote here was in favor of each of the eight propositions submitted which, if favored by vote of two thirds of its entire voting strength, will commit the United States chamber to the proposed program.

The propositions, or recommendations, are:

1. That duties of a reduced shipping board be confined to regulation of relations of merchant shipping to the public.

2. That services undertaken by the government for merchant shipping not performed by the shipping board be transferred to the department of commerce.

3. That authority to order increases or decrease of trade route operations and authority to determine all questions as to sale of vessels operating such on route should be given to a federal shipping council serving without compensation.

4. That in each region of entry in which there is a maritime interest there should be a representative advisory shipping council serving without compensation.

5. That the president of the fleet corporation shall have the duty of carrying into execution the decisions of the federal shipping council as to increase or decrease of trade route operations and sale of any vessels so operated.

6. That where necessary for maintenance of trade routes state, and pending transfer to private ownership, entire responsibility for operation of government owned merchant vessels should be given to the president of the fleet corporation.

7. That government aid to shipping should be limited to vessels operating on trade routes, and to higher types of ocean service which can be obtained through mail subventions, and should be sufficient to permit operation on all essential trade routes and to secure the higher type of ocean service.

8. That government aid should be restricted to American built vessels.

Sign Oil Lease on Thousand Acres in Melon Valley Field

BUHL, April 19.—(Special to The News)—Owners of approximately 1000 acres of land in the Melon Valley district north and west of here, at a meeting of the Melon Valley Oil association in the Melon Valley school house this evening, signed leases on her terms of which Charles H. Mullins of Miles City, Montana, will make a geological survey and inaugurate drilling operations with view to development of oil production possibilities of the region.

The lease was signed by every land owner in the district who was present at the meeting and enthusiasm over the prospect was manifested.

The district comprises between 1000 and 5000 acres.

Mr. Mullins, on a recent visit here, expressed confidence that oil would be encountered in drilling operations and asked for leases covering 5000 acres. He is to return with geological experts to begin active work when advised that sufficient acreage has been signed up.

Under terms of the lease which were agreed upon recently by the landowners, Mr. Mullins will have 60 days in which to make a geological survey and one year in which to drill a well. If he strikes a dry hole he has another year to complete a new well. He agrees to drill on each 160 acres within three and one-half years or within a year, will pay twelve and one-half per cent royalty and wants leases on 5000 acres.

When he was in Buhl, Mr. Mullins stated that he would finance himself and that there would not be any stock for sale. He also stated that he would reserve 80 to 160 acres for his company and would sublet the remainder to other companies. He said there would be no difficulty about getting drillers if he should bring in a well.

Tourists Return To Wood River

KETCHUM, April 12.—The road is open to Hemming's sawmill on Wood River and Board's sawmill on Warm Springs creek. The snow is all gone, grass is getting green and there are no mud holes; the roads are good.

E. S. Fisher is working on his new hotel and expects to be ready to open for business not later than June 1.

The state has taken over the work on the road between Ketchum and Bailey and work is expected to be commenced soon.

Prospects are very good this season for mining; there being a number of mining men in the country.

Trail creek and Galena roads are expected to be open to travel not later than May 15.

A number of tourists' cars have already been through the town and are making camps in the different streams.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A short talk on forest preservation to senior high school students Thursday, and a junior high assembly will be the only assemblies this week. Al Francis will give some violin numbers for the junior high pupils, accompanied by Mrs. Stinson, and a little play illustrating girl reserve work, together with a comic stunt will be contributed to the program by the seventh grade girl reserves. Miss Hartwig and Miss Smith will be in charge of the assembly.

Blue Triangle and Hi-Y will meet Thursday.

Those who will represent Twin Falls in a spelling and rapid calculation in the coming commercial contest to be held here, and with Miss Agatha Shamwell during the fourth hour Monday. As written spelling lessons will be held during the fourth hour study period every day this week, and the two having highest score at the end of the week will represent the school. Similarly, rapid calculation drills will be held after school for a twenty minute period every day this week to determine the contestants. About fifteen people are going out for spelling, and five for rapid calculation.

The first of a series of seven grammar tests was given to all high school students during afternoon advisory period Monday. These are the tests given to freshmen upon entrance to an Idaho educational institution, and if the freshman does not pass he is required to take the "dunce head" English course without credit. No senior will be allowed to graduate this year from Twin Falls high school who has not passed this test. The average grade of Twin Falls high school graduates taking this test at the state university this year was such that the English teachers of the building are endeavoring to correct the condition, but the record of Twin Falls people at other state institutions was somewhat better than at the university. Twenty-seven and two-tenths per cent of all students entering the university have to take "dunce-head" English this year.

The eight girls of the sunbonnet chorus in the operetta, and Rosalie, Nick and Martha of the operetta cast will give two songs before the meeting of the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon.

Kimberly Men to Plant Many Spuds

KIMBERLY, April 19.—Judge Herman H. Taylor of the supreme court and Mrs. Taylor of Boise, visited several days the early part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. L. Stane. The Taylors were enroute to Pocatello on business making the trip overland.

Carl Ridgeway and Charles Teater returned Tuesday from Helena, Montana, where they purchased seed potatoes to plant about 100 acres this spring.

Mrs. Charles Coiner is a patient at home this week suffering a severe attack of mumps.

Mrs. Virgil Hall, who underwent a major operation at the General Hospital two weeks ago, returned to her home Sunday and is improving slowly.

Vance Brown and family, who left Kimberly two years ago for Tennessee arrived Monday from Memphis and will make their home here. The Browns made the trip by auto in twelve days averaging 250 miles per day.

Superintendent H. L. Powers returned the latter part of the week from business trip to Boise.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross of Hazelton arrived Wednesday from Salt Lake and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Ross before returning to their home.

W. E. Jones, who has spent several months visiting relatives in California, returned to Kimberly early in the week to spend the summer with his son, Lloyd Jones.

Forty-seven couples attended the Married Folks Dance held in the Legion hall on Tuesday evening. This is the largest crowd assembled at these dances held this spring. Benoit's Rainbow orchestra furnished delightful music.

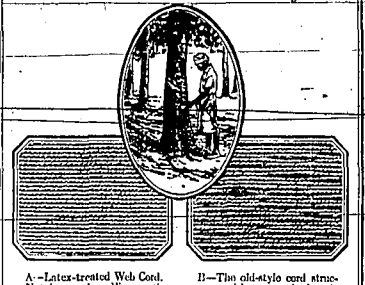
Latex, the milky-white liquid that flows from the bark of a rubber tree, is the source of all rubber. The United States Rubber Company ships latex from its rubber plantations in the Far East to its tire factories. Special machinery treats tire cords in a latex bath and lays them side by side, producing Web Cord. See below.



A—Latex-treated Web Cord. Note how cords lie smooth and parallel and absence of cross tie-threads.

B—The old-style cord structure with cross tie-threads and uneven position of cords. Compare with Web Cord.

Here are the Answers to your Questions about Latex-treated Web Cord

Q—What is Latex-treated Web Cord?

A—Web Cord is the special cord structure developed by this Company for Royal Cords and other United States Tires.

Q—How does Latex-treated Web Cord differ from the cord structure used in other makes of tires?

A—Each individual cord from which Web Cord is made is latex-treated by immersing the cords in a latex bath. The cords are then laid side by side and when the liquid dries they become webbed together by pure, natural rubber.

Q—Don't other manufacturers treat their cords?

A—Some do, but not in latex.

Q—What is the object of treating cords with latex?

A—All tire cords must be impregnated with rubber. Using latex impregnates the cords with rubber, without using chemicals.

Q—Why don't other manufacturers use the Latex Process?

A—The Latex Process was developed, patented and is owned by the United States Rubber Company.

Q—What are the advantages of Latex-treated Web Cord?

A—Greater flexibility, strength and longer life in cord fabric. The Latex Process surrounds and protects each cord with rubber and webs it to its neighboring cords with a flexible rubber coating. This does away with the necessity for cross tie-threads.

REACTION NOTED IN WHEAT MART

Grain Values Undergo Sudden Set-Back During Closing Hours of Day's Business.

CHICAGO, April 19. (AP)—Wheat values underwent a sudden setback today toward the last, owing largely to increased selling to release profits. The fact that the market had climbed to 10 cents above prices which were current at one time last week was likely responsible for the reaction. Wheat closed irregular at 1 cent net decline to 3-8c advance; May (new) $1.07 3-8 to $1.07 1-2 and July $1.13 7-8 to 1.14, with corn 5-8 to 7-8c off, oats a shade to 1-4c down, and provisions virtually unchanged.

Contributing to the late weakness of the wheat market were estimates from railroad sources that the wheat yield of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Nebraska this season would total 337,000,000 bushels against 139,000,000 bushels a year ago. Indications that further amounts of wheat were being purchased in the northwest to be brought here for delivery on May contracts tended also to undermine the market in the late dealings. Besides, there were prediction of warmer weather and of welcome moisture for the spring wheat area.

Falling off of 1,820,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total failed to check the late downward trend of wheat. Earlier, however, a sharp new advance here had been scored, owing to Winnipeg reports of active buying for Europe, both for immediate shipment as well as future delivery. Subsequently there appeared to be a lull in trans-Atlantic demand. Then with increased selling pressure rapidly developing here, the day's early gains were wiped out, a majority of traders leading to the opinion that such a result was to have been expected in view of the swiftness of the preceding advance.

Improved weather made corn trades lean to the selling side of the market almost from the start. Oats sympathized with corn.

Better eastern and foreign demand for lard steadied the previous market.

STOCK MARKET PRICE MOVEMENT UNCERTAIN

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—Uncertain price movements characterized today's stock market, which failed to break out of the narrow trading area within which it has been fluctuating for the last three weeks. The average of 20 leading industrial shares showed a slight gain on the day, the average of 20 leading rails a slight loss, while total sales again barely exceeded the million mark.

Prices opened strong, sold off from the highs when bear traders launched a fresh selling attack on Hudson, following publication of a report that the company had sharply curtailed production, rallied sharply when this selling failed to bring about any general liquidation of the motors, receded again in the afternoon on speculative disappointment over the positive stand taken by Chairman Gary against any increase in the United States Steel common dividend at this time, and closed with more or less irregularity.

The most illuminating information on the present business situation was given by Chairman Gary at the annual stockholders' meeting of the steel corporation when he said that the present bookings of about 28,500 tons a day compared with 35,561 on the corresponding date last month and 17,179 tons a year ago while present shipments were 34,141 tons a day against 31,142 last month and 45,956 a year ago. Considering the backwardness of the season, the results, he said, were satisfactory. United States Steel common opened at 119 1-4, advanced to 120 5-8, and then dropped back to 118 1-4, closing at the bottom. Other stocks showed mixed fractional changes on the day.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—The raw sugar market was unchanged today with nearby sugar available at 4.14, while shipment sugars were fractionally higher. Sales included 15,000 bags of Cuban, in part, and 10,000 bags of Porto Rican due late this month at 4.14 to a local refiner and 25,000 bags of Cuban, May shipment, to an operator at 4.24.

Reports that the president of Cuba had recommended to mill owners that they cut their production 10 per cent during the present crop, which would bring the final output down to 4,711,255 tons against earlier expectations of around 5,378,000 tons, apparently had been discounted and had little effect in the raw sugar future. The opening was steady on Cuban buying, but after rising around the previous close, prices finally weakened under liquidation and commission house selling, with the close 2 to 4 points net lower. May closed 2.36 to 2.37; September 2.65; December 2.76.

Demand for refined sugar was less active although withdrawals on old contracts were in fair proportions. Prices were unchanged to 5 points lower at 5.20 to 5.60 for fine granulated.

"Chew Well to See Well"

Chew well if you would see well, urges Sir Arthur Keith, a great British anatomist. Decreased exercise of the jaws, and not eye strain, is responsible, short sight, he claims. Diminished use of the jaws in masticating the soft foods of modern diet, he asserts, is changing the shape of the face, lengthening the eye sockets, thus elongating the eyeballs and weakening vision.—Popular Science Monthly.

COUNCIL WOULD CHAIN DOGS TO SAVE FLOWERS

Depredations Charged to Dogs and Nuisance Attributed to Keeping of Cows Come in for Attention.

Under terms of a proposed ordinance which Frank L. Stephan, city attorney, was directed to draft by Twin Falls city council in regular session here Monday evening, all dogs within the city limits would have to be confined or in the immediate control of their owners during the period from a half hour before sunset to a half hour before sunrise each day. Owners of dogs that trespassed on neighbors' property also would be liable for payment of fine in the sum of $25. The proposed measures were considered with view to putting a stop to depredations attributed to dogs in gardens and flower beds.

Suggestion that dogs be confined at night was offered by Commissioner T. J. Douglas, and Commissioner W. T. Leslie proposed trespassing dogs be made subject to fine.

Protest Over Cows

Complaint in regard to keeping of cows in proximity to dwelling houses was registered at the council meeting by two delegations, one representing residents on Fourth avenue west and the other appearing for protestors on Fifth and Sixth avenues west. Ordinances were examined and the delegations were advised that their petitions would be referred to the police and males, in the city must make chief with power to take action. Under the ordinance owners of cows, horses rather elaborate arrangements to keep their premises in sanitary condition.

Library Needs Told

Importance of the public library in the life of the community was indicated by W. E. Nixon who with Stuart H. Taylor appeared as spokesman for the library board to request that a tax levy of 1.3-4 mills be made this year, for library purposes. The suggested levy is the same as that made last year. It is expected to return revenues of approximately $8500.

The annual report of the librarian, Mr. Nixon stated, probably will show that the library's circulation this year has exceeded last year's circulation by about 4000 volumes. Out of a total of 7000 volumes, nearly 6000 each day are in the hands of patrons of the library, Mr. Nixon stated. There has been expended during the year about $2000 for new books, and expense of rebinding worn books has been considerable.

Study Finances.

Council members informally considered requirements of the budget for the fiscal year beginning next May, and in this connection figures compiled by the city clerk were studied showing that it will be necessary to raise next year for bond, interest and sinking fund a total of $64,757. Of the total amount, $17,800 is to be used for retirement of bonds, and $15,767, will be required to meet interest charges.

Actual income of the city for the current year, according to estimate made by the city clerk, will exceed the amount of the budget by about $24, while the budget appropriation seems likely to exceed the amount of the actual expenditures by approximately $4300, which will remain as a credit balance at the end of the year.

Woodmen of World Greet Head Consul On Official Visit

J. I. Boak of Denver, head consul of the Woodmen of the World, on a visit to members of the order in this district, was the guest of honor Monday evening at a banquet served for 75 members and guests in Tom's cafe and later he addressed a meeting of more than 100 persons. Speaking on the subject, "Fraternity, the World's Greatest Stabilizer," the head of the order made an eloquent and powerful appeal to patriotism and pleaded for fidelity to American ideals and institutions.

The audience included delegations of members of the order in Jerome, Buhl and Burley and also the members of the boy scout troop for which the Woodmen of the World camp of Twin Falls is sponsor.

Mr. Boak was introduced by E. L. Ashton, Twin Falls mayor. Dr. J. F. Langenwalter was toastmaster at the banquet and presided as chairman at the meeting that followed it.

The program for the meeting included several numbers by a quartet composed of Walter Carter, James S. Hall, A. D. Bellamy and L. L. Patrick, with accompaniment played by Mrs. James S. Hall.

During the afternoon following his arrival here, Mr. Boak was taken by E. F. Prater, consul commander of the local camp, and other members, on a sightseeing trip over this vicinity. He came here direct from Denver, and will visit camps at Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Rexburg on his return trip to be made by way of Montana.

DEFER CONTRACT AWARD

Contract for building of a cement sidewalk on the south side of the highway from Twin Falls city limits to the county general hospital was not awarded by the county commissioners in session here Monday because the contract forms had not been completed. The commissioners will convene on Wednesday at which time the contract will be awarded, it was stated. Eight bids on the work were received and opened last Saturday.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR UPSETTING AUTOMOBILE

H. B. Hendricks is at liberty under $100 bond for his appearance at trial Wednesday in police court here on charges of reckless driving. Hendricks, according to police reports, drove his Overland car on Main avenue west Sunday afternoon into a Ford sedan, overturning the sedan with its occupants, Lindsay Holman and Everett Wooley. Neither was seriously injured. The crash occurred when the sedan, moving ahead of Hendricks' car, turned onto Eighth avenue west. After the mishap, according to the police report, Hendricks speeded his car and was chased for nearly our miles before being overtaken. He is to be represented at trial by W. L. Dunn, attorney.

A Desirable Policy

Our Guaranty Collision Policy is so much in demand that one of our competitors—one of the leading real estate and insurance agencies of this City called upon us recently submitting a proposition to us to broker their automobile collision business through this agency in order to secure for their clients the great savings made possible through our modern method of writing collision insurance. We declined their proposition believing that the car owner would rather have his connection direct with the agency issuing the policy.

Our Guaranty Collision Policy will save you 50 per cent, at the same time guaranteeing you full collision coverage just the same as though you had paid a full collision premium.

A Comparison of the following rates which are made possible only through our popular Guaranty Collision Policy, with others recently published, further emphasizes the savings to be effected by having this agency write your automobile insurance.

Another Advantage we offer you is that we can write your collision insurance independent of other coverages if desired.

There are Two Age Groups for Collision Insurance: (a) "New Cars"—Automobiles originally purchased new not more than six months prior to date insurance attaches. (b) "Old Cars"—All other automobiles.

Separate rates are named for "Open" and for "Closed" models and are designated "O" for open models and "C" for closed models.

It will be noted that the same named cars appear under more than one rate schedule. This is due to the difference in the size and value of the different models of the same make.

Rates apply to cars equipped with approved bumpers.
