PUBLIC HOUSING BILL HITS SNAG IN UPPER HOUSE

New Difficulty Arises Just as Leaders Anticipate Passage of Buildings Measure; Conference Today.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 4. The $165,000,000 public buildings bill struck another snag today in the senate just as leaders anticipated its passage after the ironing out of differences over the method of expending the $100,000,000 provided for new construction outside of the District of Columbia.

The new difficulty arose out of the question of whether the $15,000,000 proposed for completing buildings already authorized is to be made available immediately or extended over a period of years at the discretion of the treasury department.

Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, and others insisted that the money should be made available immediately and after a series of conferences leaders on both sides agreed to get together tomorrow before the senate meets in an effort to reach a compromise.

Want Action.

Senators on both sides of the chamber express desire to get action on the bill without a filibuster and the speedy was a unanimous consent agreement where by beginning, tomorrow debate will be confined to the measure, till the final action is taken. This would shut out discussions of prohibition or other subjects such as engaged the senate today for three hours.

From the first there has been an insistent demand from the democrats to which republicans have yielded, that Secretary Mellon be shorn of much of the discretionary power conferred upon him by the house measure. This demand was translated into another amendment today by Senator Jones, New Mexico, under which the treasury secretary would be "directed" to complete certain specified buildings authorized before the war or since.

Oral Bombardment.

Senator Jones omitted buildings in a score of states which should be authorized and this led to a general debate during which about or more senators whose states were excluded bombarded the New Mexico senator with questions without regard to the rules of the procedure usually governing in debate. So intricate did the discussion become, that room half the senate was gathered in the center aisle with the official reporters darting among them in an effort to keep up with the exchanges carried on in conversational tones.

Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, who was presiding, finally ordered all senators to their seats and from that time on spectators in the gallories could gather some idea of what the discussion was about.

Arctic Explorer Tells of Efforts To Move Supplies

Gordon Scott, in Charge of Motor Contingent of Detroit Expedition, Recites Story of Northland Hardships.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 4. (AP)—Gordon Scott, in charge of the snow motor contingent of the Detroit Arctic expedition with which an attempt was made to freight supplies from Nenana to Point Barrow, Alaska, stopped in Spokane today enroute to Detroit. Scott, who formerly resided here, left Alaska April 24, after having been forced to leave his supply train at Hot Springs, some 160 miles from Nenana, where freight was picked up by dog teams.

"The going was hard from the start," he said of the effort to move the supplies with snow motors.

"There was no trail and we were forced to pick our way. It was uphill over stumps and chunks of ice and frozen snow. Often we had to go ahead and virtually build a road for the motors."

Scott expressed confidence that Captain George H. Wilkins, head of the expedition, will be successful in his efforts to fly over the pole.

"The entire expedition is confident of success and the morale of the members is wonderful," he said.

WATSON AHEAD IN VOTING

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 4 (AP)—United States Senator James E. Watson apparently had been returned a winner in the republican senatorial primary on the face of incomplete unofficial returns tonight.

Senator Arthur R. Robinson was maintaining a slight majority over the combined vote of all his four opponents for the short term nomination while the fight for the democratic long-term nomination appeared to be a nip and tuck race between William A. Cullop of Vincennes, and John E. Frederick of Kokomo.

RAIN IN GATE CITY

POCATELLO, May 4. (AP)—A dry period for the last two weeks was broken here today when a heavy rainstorm hit the city about five o'clock. Accompanied by a high wind the storm lasted perhaps fifteen minutes and then the wind moderated and rain has fallen steadily since.

SEVEN DIE IN FIRE THAT DESTROYS FAMILY HOME

BELLEVILLE, Ill., May 4. (AP)—Seven members of a poverty stricken family were burned to death today when a fire swept their three-room dwelling.

The dead are John Hans, 45, coal miner, his four children, Vernell, 9, Marguerite, 7, Eleanor, 6, and Ray mond, 4, and two children of his wife by a former marriage, Irene Malone 17, and Billy Malone, 14.

The mother, her oldest son, Morton, 20, and two months' old baby Oliver, who escaped, are in the hospital suffering from burns, but will recover.

Mrs. Hans said her husband perished in an effort to warn the children after he had instilled her and the boy from the house.

NICARAGUA IN STATE OF WAR

Revolutionary Forces Capture Atlantic Coast Towns; Governor Is Imprisoned.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 4. (AP)—After declaring a state of war today, the government sent a military force to the Atlantic coast to cope with a revolutionary movement started by Liberals, who have captured the towns of Bluefields and Rama.

News leaking through from Bluefields despite a censorship established by the revolutionists, says the governor and director of police have been imprisoned. A general and two of his soldiers were killed in fighting Sunday and the rebels are reported to have sacked the national bank.

Surprise Garrison.

Early Sunday morning the revolutionists, commanded by Luis Beltrain Santoyal and Elizeo Duarte, surprised the government garrison, capturing Bluefields and imprisoning the governor, Colonel Ernesto Solorzano Diaz, and the director of police.

General Anastasio Requiera, commander of the government forces at El Bluff, situated across the bay, proceeded toward Bluefields in a boat with 20 men. As the boat neared the town the revolutionists opened fire, killing General Requiera and two of his soldiers. The boat put about and returned to El Bluff, where the government maintains a large garrison.

Later in the day the revolutionists, after two attacks, captured Rama, about 60 miles from Bluefields. The government force there was outnumbered by the revolutionists.

UTAH WOOL CLIP SELLS FOR 34½ CENTS POUND: LARGEST POOL IN U. S.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 4. (AP)—Utah's famous wool clip, the Jericho, said to be the largest pool of high grade wools in the United States, was sold Monday to R. Harris Wool company for 32 1-2 cents, it was announced today by Marcus Harris, vice president of the company who negotiated the deal with a committee representing Fountain Sheep men. The sale was unexpected for a few day ago word was treasured in local wool circles that Jericho was planning to ship to Salt Lake and store anticipating a market above that existing now. At one time it was said Jericho was contemplating holding for 40 cents.

The 1926 Jericho is expected to amount to approximately 800,000 pounds. This is only an estimate for about seven days shearing to remain yet at the Jericho corral. Movement of the Jericho clip to St. Louis will commence Thursday, the purchasers said. Purchase was made for the St. Louis house of the company, but Mr. Harris is not certain whether it would be held there or moved on to Boston.

Sale of the Jericho means that approximately 50 per cent of this year's Utah wool clip has passed from the hands of the producers. For the most part the price has been around 35c. This year's clip in Utah is expected to amount to about 14,000,000 pounds. On this basis transactions to date cover approximately 7,000,000 pounds.

PET PARROT PROVES TO BE CHAMP AT WALKING

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)(AP)—The pet parrot of Michael Goetz, of Morton Grove, is less loquacious than many of its kin, but as a walker it has no equal.

"Johnny" staggered into Evanston today muddy and fatigued from an automobile. The parrot had walked for 15 miles, his clipped wings preventing the more facile mode of locomotion employed by his ancestors.

When Goetz went to Europe some months ago, he left Johnny with Mrs. James Nugent of Evanston, who brought him back to Goetz, on the latter's return, with a bill for $25 for sunflower seed and other necessaries. Goetz failed to pay the bill and Mrs. Nugent repossessed the parrot. An Evanston constable went to serve the writ, confiscated Johnny, and started with him to Mr. Nugent's. Somewhere on the road home the bird left the car without even thanking the constable for the buggy ride.

This morning it trekked into Evanston, where it will spend the next few weeks in recuperation and litigation.

DEBATE BEGINS ON FARM RELIEF IN LOWER HOUSE

Haugen Bill Given Technical Right of Way With Two Others in Position to be Called Up as Substitutes.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 4. — After months of committee deliberation, four days of debate on farm relief began today in the house under a rule providing for the consideration of three bills reported by the agricultural committee—the Haugen price stabilization measure, the Tincher credit plan and the Curtis-Aswell commodity marketing proposal.

The Haugen bill was given technical right of way with the other measures in position to be called up as substitutes. So insistent were the demands for time to speak that night sessions are in prospect later in the week to pad out the allotted four days. The house will devote tomorrow to other bills, resuming the farm relief debate Thursday and continuing it uninterruptedly until Saturday night.

Would Redeem Pledge.

Chair Haugen of the agriculture committee opened the debate with a plea for enactment of his bill, which, he said, would place agriculture on a parity with industry and redeem the pledge of the republican party to the farmers.

He maintained that the measure would make the tariff "100 per cent effective for agriculture," and that it was a simple remedy, "not complicated and not partocialistic." Defending the proposed $375,000,000 appropriation for a revolving fund, which would be used to stabilize prices of basic commodities, he explained that after two years the farmers themselves would maintain the fund by paying an equalization fee on the sale of their products.

Unusual Rule.

The rule to consider the three bills simultaneously was adopted after a general discussion of the parliamentary procedure involved, during which Representative Pou, North Carolina, ranking democrat on the rules committee, said the rule was an unusual, "it ought to be put in a museum."

Chairman Snell, however, defended the procedure, declaring the rules committee had considered it should give the house an opportunity to pass on all three bills in view of the agriculture committee action in reporting all of them without recommending the passage of any particular one.

Representative Garrett, democratic leader commented sharply on the fact that the 21 members of the agriculture committee could not muster a majority for any bill, adding that "it remains to be seen whether the 435 members of the house can."

FREAK STORM DESTROYS FINE PRUNE ORCHARDS

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 4. (AP)—A strip of Clark county's finest prune orchard was laid waste by a small tornado which swept a path about eight miles long north of here today. Trees were uprooted, many buildings were demolished, uncorked or torn from their foundations by the freak storm.

While the surrounding country was enjoying fine weather a black funnel shaped cloud swooped down, and within six minutes spread a ribbon of destruction about two hundred yards wide between Vancouver and the town of Orchards.

No one was injured, said reports gathered here late today.

AWARDS HIGHWAY CONTRACT

POCATELLO, May 4 (AP)—Contract for surfacing 10 miles of highway north of the city of Blackfoot was let to the Morrison-Knudson company of Boise, Idaho, it was stated here today by H. W. Gregory, director of highways.

COUNCIL URGES LAWS REVISION

Modernization of Criminal Statutes and Procedure Asked by Protective Association.

PINEHURST, N. C., May 4. (AP)—Curbing of crime rests largely upon the will of the people to stamp it out, the executive council of the American Bankers' association was told today in a report by its protective department. It suggested that modernization of criminal laws and procedure as sponsored by the American law institute "will result in a strong deterrent against crime" and urged its support by the bankers.

Pointing out that since 1924 two-thirds of all the bank robbery of violence were in California, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas, the report continued:

Sharp Reduction.

"The six months ended February 28 witnessed the sharpest reduction in criminal attacks against member banks in the history of the protective department. Crimes of violence were cut to less than half of those reported last year with daylight robberies dropping from 80 to 35 and but 14 burglaries reported against 49 last year, a reduction of 71 per cent. With forgeries reduced, the advance of banking in coping with criminals is more rapid this year than any time since 1919 when the present wave of crime began its sweep across the country."

GREAT BRITAIN WOULD AID U. S. IN LIQUOR WAR

London Government Advises Secretary Kellogg of Willingness to Co-operate in Prevention of Rum Smuggling.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Great Britain wants to do its part toward preventing smuggling of liquor into the United States.

The London government so advised Secretary Kellogg in suggesting a conference to work out by informal agreements cooperative measures for tightening the rum blockade. Invitation to a conference, to be held shortly in London has been accepted.

Correspondence between Washington and London on the subject, made public tonight, discloses that the idea for tighter restrictions with Great Britain's aid originated with British authorities and that the conference invitation was extended "as proof of the desire of his majesty's government to give such assistance to American prohibition agencies as it is possible to give in the circumstances."

To Arrive This Month

In accepting the invitation with "deep appreciation," Secretary Kellogg said the American delegation would arrive in London by the end of May. The American delegates will include assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, William R. Vallance, assistant to the solicitor of the state department and Rear Admiral Billard, commandant of the coast guard.

The correspondence reveals that British shipping laws are being rigidly enforced against vessels suspected of rum running, that registries of shipping in the West Indies have been called upon to take special care to prevent transfer to the British flag of vessels intended for the smuggling trade and that the British want to remove liquor smugglers from the register of that country.

Desire to Co-operate

Specific instances where British shipping laws have been applied with unusual severity against suspected rum runners are cited as additional proof of the desire to cooperate with American prohibition authorities. The correspondence points out that if American agents will help supply evidence for prosecution of liquor smugglers, British officials will be glad to institute proceedings for their conviction. Accepting this offer, Mr. Kellogg added:

"I gather from your note that this government will co-operate fully in assisting your government in obtaining the necessary evidence on which to

SERIOUS CLASHES OCCUR IN LONDON

Hoodlums and Police Mix in Dockland District; Several Participants Removed to Hospitals; First Disturbance.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, May 5. — Serious clashes occurred tonight between the police and hoodlums in the Polar district, and several of the participants were removed to hospitals. This district is in east London dockland and the mob is notoriously tough.

Gangs of roughs held up motor cars and lorries taking workers to their homes; they compelled the passengers to alight and then wrecked the machinery of the cars, set fire to one and by blocking the street prevented the firemen from quenching the flames.

A taxicab was thrown over the bridge into the river but the driver escaped. Many of the passengers were girls, who were terrified by the violence of the mob and several fainted.

Police clubbed the rioters severely. The rioters were not trade unionists nor acting under union orders.

NO NEW NEGOTIATIONS

LONDON, May 5 (AP)—At midnight, the general strike had been in progress 24 hours and had stalled the great bulk of the country's industries. So vast is the movement and so many are its ramifications, no single definite development can be observed. London and other great cities present the unusual aspect of many thousands of persons and conveyances in aimless motion, with an almost total suspension of work, except in vital services.

There have been no new negotiations, so far as the public is aware, seeking a settlement of the strike—no move to this end on either side. That the government does not propose to initiate new parleys, is obvious from the statement contained in its official newspaper, the first number of which was issued last (Tuesday) night—"the strike leaders have made no move, and the next step is with them."

Tie-up Nation-Wide.

Although the strike extends from one end of the country to the other, people, aside from certain inconveniences, have not even begun to feel its real effects. The government and those leaders identified with the most those leaders identified with the most important industries, operating separately, but in some cases together, have already set up machinery for supplying the populace with those things absolutely essential for its existence.

It would appear as if the government were settling down to a long fight. It is officially asserted that the tie-up is not so complete as strike

Pacific Coast Is Scene of Dispute Between Factions

Differences of Labor Organizations and Employers Reported From Number of Cities; 3 Strikes Involved.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—Differences between labor organizations and employers involving three strikes and some instances of incipient rioting, attracted public attention in a number of Pacific coast cities today.

In this city several reports of attacks on non-union carpenters taking the place of union men on open shop jobs were received by the police.

In each instance the attackers had dispersed by the time the police arrived.

Vancouver, B. C., reported the stoppage of building at a number of points with approximately 375 men on strike. The trouble started when 200 of the men stayed at home Saturday in a campaign for five days a week.

Four building trades unions called meetings at Portland, Oregon, to consider the refusal of the employers to submit a wage difference to the state board of conciliation. The unions involved are the building laborers, roofers, from workers and hoisting engineers.

STRIKE TOPIC STIRS CAPITAL

British Situation Furnishes Engrossing Subject for Discussion in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Great Britain's first general strike created an engrossing subject for discussion in both official and labor circles of Washington today, but the only statement forthcoming was that of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in which he sympathized with the British rest miners and declared their demands should speedily be met.

Officials generally declined to speculate on the probable effects of the strike on American industry and commerce, in the belief that unions in this country would not be wanted in England and probably would unduly agitate an apparently serious situation.

Announcement was made at the White House that President Coolidge sees no connection between the crisis in England with labor conditions in this country and that he does not believe the strike has progressed to the point where it might affect this country's commerce to an appreciable degree.

That conditions in the American coal industry were satisfactory was made known in a report to the president during the day by Secretary of Labor Davis, who based his information on a conference with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers. Mr. Lewis, who is in Washington on what he described as routine matters, declined to comment today on the British strike.

Meanwhile, the government received its first official report on the strike from Ambassador Houghton at London. The report declared that the people generally seemed to be taking the situation calmly, but that it could not be predicted whether the effect of the strike would be to force a renewal of peace negotiations within the next few days or whether it would lead to a prolonged conflict.

BUSINESS AS USUAL IS ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY OFFICIALS OF SHIPPING

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Shipping officials here announced a "business as usual" program today.

The general strike in England, if prolonged, may disrupt shipping service between England and America, but no immediate crippling of Trans-Atlantic commerce is expected, they said.

Up to the present no changes have been made in sailing dates of vessels plying between this and English ports, no passenger reservations have been cancelled and none of the 2,000 British seamen in the port of New York have deserted their ships.

It was stated at the Cunard docks here early tonight that the Aquitania with a crew of 578, would sail at 1 a. m. tomorrow as scheduled. Members of the crew said they would join the strikers on arrival at Southampton.

Officials of the J. H. Winchester and Company, operators of the American Merchant line, said today that they felt no concern over discharge from London of their steamship.

GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER PUBLISHES FIRST ISSUE

LONDON, May 5 (AP)—The British Gazette, a daily published by the government at the office of the Morning Post made its first appearance tonight. It announces its aim as "the sale of 500,000, but will extend its circulation as rapidly as possible and increase its size from four pages."

The Gazette says it is run on the authority of the government and at government expense, if necessary.

"Nearly all the newspapers have been silenced by violent concerted action," it asserts in its leading article, "and this great nation, on the whole the strongest community which civilization can show, is for the moment reduced in this respect to the level of African natives, dependent only on rumors which are carried from place to place.

"In a few days if this were allowed to continue, the rumors would poison the air, raise panics and disorders, inflame fears and passions together and carry us all to depths which no sane man or woman can even bear to contemplate."

WETS AND DRYS AGAIN ENGAGE IN WORDY WAR

Senate Leaders of Two Factions—Flay Each Other in Long Discussion; Democrats Start Oral Battle.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 4. Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists flayed each other today in the senate as pending legislation was shunted to one side for a discussion that took up three hours and ended almost where it began.

The debate was all on the democratic side of the chamber and before it ended nearly all seats on the republican side had been vacated along with many on the minority side.

Senators Ferris of Michigan, and Sheppard of Texas, led the assault for the drys, while Senator Bruce of Maryland, replied with a speech in which he urged the country to extricate itself "from the jungle of prohibition and get out once more on the high road that leads to temperance."

Opens Discussion

Opening the discussion with a long prepared address, Senator Ferris assailed both the wets and the drys; the former for seeking to break down the Volstead act and the latter for laying down on their job of educating the country against alcohol as a beverage after that law went into effect.

Senator Sheppard contented himself with reading testimonials for prohibition from educators and employers over the country and censuring those who would divert alcohol from the "thousand and one" uses to which it is put in industry and convert it into a beverage sanity and temperance.

Denouncing those who made up the legalized liquor traffic in pre-Volstead days as "vultures," Senator Ferris said that consciously or unconsciously, those now seeking to amend the Volstead act were supporting that class. He described that as being that class. He described that situation as amazing.

Censures Drys

Severely censuring the drys for abandoning their campaign of education, Mr. Ferris declared that the kind of education now going on through the propagandа of the wets "is pernicious and destructive in the extreme."

The wets also were accused by the Michigan senator of an effort to repudiate the constitution by bringing back beer and light wines. In that connection he warned the drys that this was no time for them to "lie down and surrender their only program of hope."

Replying to this address and that by Senator Sheppard which followed, Senator Bruce said the fact that prohibitionists now so eagerly replied to assaults of the wets showed that the tide of public opinion was swinging steadily against them.

Urging that the drys refrain from taking up the senate's time with debate, the Marylander challenged them to join the wets in a referendum on the prohibition question so the issue could be settled by the people.

"We welcome a contest of strength at any time," he said.

prosecute persons who violate British laws."

Rum running between the Bahama Islands and American shores is particularly mentioned, the British agreeing "to permit specified United States cutters to enter British territorial waters at Gun bay and the island contiguous thereto in strict compliance with the admiralty regulations governing visits of foreign armed vessels to British waters or ports."

"This concession," Great Britain said, "is made on the condition that it be confined to the area in the Bahamas and it be limited in duration to a period of one year at the end of which time his majesty's government will be prepared to entertain a request for the continuance of the arrangement."

IDAHO EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE

Department of Commerce Report Indicates Shipments Are Larger Than Ever Before.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Slight improvement was noted in the merchandise exports of Idaho during 1925, statistics released recently by the department of commerce showed. Foreign shipments for the year totalling $1,912,707 were made compared with $1,881,120 during 1924, reflecting an increase of $31,587.

Incidentally this state replaced North Dakota in the yearly standing of the states of the union in the race for export marks.

Fruit constituted the chief item of export during the year under review, $1,000,000 and amounted to $389,341 in value. Second place fell to concentrates, about of which brought $345,245, while the only other commodity recorded in the year's efforts was books and pamphlets valued at $133,332.

Total exports from the United States during 1925 amounted to $4,919,011,495, as compared with $4,998,154,956 during the previous year, an increase of over $20,000,000. Each of the first three quarters of the year showed increased over 1924, the first quarter registering exports valued at $1,171,500,000 more than the corresponding quarter in 1924, the second $100,000,000 more, and the third $102,000,000 more. The last quarter however declined in its exports in time of $92,000,000.

The first 10 states in the order of their importance were New York, with exports valued at $810,116,953; Texas, $755,665,052; Pennsylvania, $302,809,783; Louisiana, $265,891,911; California, $218,255,719; Michigan, $217,209,227; New Jersey, $211,030,599; Illinois, $201,560,334; Ohio, 152,597,683; Virginia, $148,745,613.

leaders intended and that people are rousing themselves to help the government keep things going. It is impossible yet to indicate the full extent of which volunteers are enrolling or whether they are suitable to the demands of the situation. Unquestionably large numbers have undertaken public service, but will need training for special work, and it will be some time before they are wholly effective.

May Face Food Shortage.

Among the chief causes of anxiety is necessarily the attitude of the seamen and ship's firemen. If their union carts its lot with the strikers, the country will be faced with the ugly prospect of food shortage, for which enrollment of volunteers could not compensate.

Tie up of work at the docks seems virtually general throughout the country, but here again the figures are incomplete and people are asking even if dock labor is satisfactorily replaced by volunteers, where the food is to come from if the shipping where by it is imported is held up by the refusal of seamen and firemen to perform their duties.

UTAH EXPORTS NEARLY DOUBLED DURING 1925

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Utah nearly doubled its 1924 exports during 1925, statistics released by the department of commerce showed. This state last year had foreign shipments valued at $1,652,107, compared with only $850,754 for 1924, reflecting an increase in this foreign trade of $801,353. Incidentally it supplanted North Dakota, Alaska and Washington, D. C., in the relative standing of states of the union in point of export valuations for the year under discussion, while it trailed New Mexico, just ahead of it on the list by a paltry $10,000.

The export trade of the state was quite diversified. Unmanufactured asphalt bitumen led the list of commodities with a valuation of $238,820. Sheep exports finished second with totals of $110,511, and then came vehicles and parts of, amounting to $112,008. Other items of lesser importance were paraffin wax, totaling $71,952; canned pineapples $61,712 and sulphur $41,800.

Sassafras in Medicine

The roots of sassafras very early in American history became an important article of medicine. It is sometimes called the "aghe tree" as a deduction of its bark was supposed to cure that disease. Sassafras tea, an infusion of the young shoots and roots, has long been a favorite remedy for colds and a stimulant.

The combined bands of senior and junior high school under the direction of J. T. Bainbridge, will render a program before the high school at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. War veterans are invited to be present, and special place is to be provided for civil war veterans. The program is as follows: March, "Heroes of War" (Charles L. Johnson); overture, "Enchanted Knight" (C. E. Wheeler); intermezzo, "Carnation" (Charles L. Johnson); song, "Songs of the Nation" (Mackie Beyer); solo, "Vacant Chair," played by Roderick Wright; solo, "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," played by Robert Deiss; march, "Spirit of Freedom" (H. O. Wheeler); song, "Idaho, My Idaho" (J. T. Bainbridge), and "Star Spangled Banner."

Chief business of student council meeting Tuesday was the consideration of a proposed body of rules to govern extra curricular activities of the state. During the past two years Twin Falls high school through her student council, principal and superintendent, has worked out a system of requirements for awards which has proved much comment and admiration among school heads of the state and various part of the country. A committee appointed for the purpose has arranged a very detailed system for eligibility for awards and the kind of awards to be given which, although it is considered superior to that now in force in the local school, yet is surpassed by one method in some respects. No decision was reached by the student council as to whether Twin Falls high school should vote for acceptance of this proposed plan.

HOUSE APPROVES REPORT ON BILL

Measure Embodies Co-operation Between Interior Secretary and Various States.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—The house today approved the conference report on the interior department appropriation bill after Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, in charge of the measure, announced the senate conferees had receded on two controversial senate amendments, one regarding the Red Lodge, Montana, road, the other to increase from $7,500 to $10,000 the salary of the commissioner of reclamation.

This action foreclosed the possibility of Montana receiving an extension of time under the bill for use of its share of the federal aid funds for reconstruction of the Red Lodge road.

As approved, the bill embodies the house plan for cooperation between the secretary of interior and states in the selection of settlers for the Spanish Springs, Vale, Owyhee, Baker and Sun river reclamation projects. The secretary also would be authorized to work out plans for additional cooperation in developing the projects.

The senate must pass on several points in the bill before it can go to the president.

The resolution, which will be submitted by Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, of Cambridge, Mass., chairman of the legislation committee, urges the establishment of local law enforcement associations throughout the United States to aid in the enforcement of prohibition.

Simple Chords

The simplest chord in music is a note with its third, either major or minor, and a fifth, whether played together or in the form of an arpeggio. The more extended chords in general use are the ninths of the seventh, eleventh, and the thirteenth, and their inversions. Several of the latter are known by different names when they are inverted.

FRANCE IS NEW "MELTING POT"

People of French Republic Complain Against Influx of Foreign Laborers.

PARIS, May 4 (AP)—French people are complaining that their country is getting to be too much of a "melting pot." They feel that they are being overrun by foreigners, not those who come as tourists, but those who come to settle.

As an example, the part this foreign element plays in general labor is given by the personnel of a cafe-restaurant, where the proprietor is the only representative of France. The cashier is a woman Turk, the two waiters are Spanish, the dishwasher is Hungarian and the cloakroom woman is Armenian. The orchestra is composed of an violinist who is Belgian, an English pianist, a Polish saxophonist and a Martinique native for the jazz effects. This restaurant is in a leading seaport of Brittany, where foreigners are most likely to be found, but there are many foreigners in other cities also.

Although it has always been so, but never openly admitted, it is becoming a recognized thing that four sixths more than the natives in France. A French woman, married to an Englishman, stopping off at a Vignon on the way to the Riviera, was given a room at a hotel marked sixty francs. When it was known that she was French and lived in France the price was lowered to 45 francs, the manager explaining that the hotel wishes to cultivate native clients who might return or send their friends, whereas the foreign tourist was not likely to pay a second visit to the town.

When the Paris musical world learned that jazz had invaded the Metropolitan opera house in New York, there was considerable lifting of noses with the feeling that no such profanation was possible within the "National Academy of Music" as the Paris opera house is called.

Now it has been announced by Comoedia officials that Paul Whiteman's band of American jazz artists will give two concerts at the opera house during the latter part of June.

The recent presentation of a jazz ballet at the Metropolitan brought comment from musical Paris that after all, it was no great matter that a "new rich" musical organization like the Metropolitan should admit "fresh music."

Even wrong numbers on Paris telephones cost money since the rates were increased and in big hotels it is just as expensive to get a wrong number as the right one.

The new rates have done away with all free telephoning or even reduced rates for customers in cafes and restaurants, most of which carry a sign warning regular customers that all former arrangements are ended.

Distracted Parisians feel that paying the same sums to talk to an unknown and usually ill-tempered subscriber as to the person asked for is the logical but bitter climax to their admittedly poor telephone service.

MONTANA FOREST FIRE IS BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

MISSOULA, Mont., May 4 (AP)—The most serious fire of the season in the Flathead national forest, east of Belton, Montana, since yesterday was partially under control early tonight, said advices received here.

The flames have burned over an area of nearly 400 acres and are still advancing on the north side of the middle fork river, while they have been controlled on the south side of the stream.

A force of 50 men is fighting the fire. A light shower late Monday helped to bring another forest fire, 47 miles west of here, under complete control, forestry officials said.

IN ENGLAND

Labor matters in England have eventuated rather faster than was looked for. The big general strike of the Century is on, and it is too early yet to hazard a guess as to what the outcome may be.

In examining the situation, however, the basic difference between the people of the two countries should not be lost sight of. A strike such as the English strike in America would be a very different thing to the program which will go into effect with the British clamp. Violence and radical action is most unlikely. General suffering outside the ranks of the strikers will be carefully provided against through the co-operation of both sides. Probably there will be little lawlessness no matter to what extremes they go. There will be speeches and parades and possibly incipient rioting but the phlegmatic disposition of the British people will operate to keep down drastic action of any sort and in the end an adjustment will be reached.

The moral and psychological effects will be bad, both in England and on the continent and it may be that this will be reflected in the stock market very sharply. Shipping will be curtailed and the pound sterling may eventually reflect the general depression which always follows the unsettling of industry but in the long run the English people will "muddle through."

In other than stock market circles there will probably be little effect of the strike in America, no matter what the outcome.

MODERATION

"Moderation in all things," was Chauncey M. Depew's answer when asked to what he attributed his long life.

It is one of the simplest rules ever given in answer to a question which is continually asked of elderly men and women.

Simple though it is, it is hard for a nation like ours to follow. We pursue fads and new movements, prosperity and pleasure, too intensely and too swiftly to be moderate as we go along. Yet it is a habit worth striving for, rewarding with peace, sanity, health and similar blessings most of those who acquire it. The "middle way" is best.

FEWER TRAFFIC DEATHS

There are more automobiles in use in this country now than last year. Yet traffic accidents show a tendency to decrease. According to the National Safety Council the number of traffic deaths in the United States during the first three months of 1926 was 583 less than in the same period of 1925, a 11 per cent drop.

In some communities accidents are increasing. In others they have been so greatly reduced in number as to make the whole average lower. What some communities can do in the matter of traffic regulation, others can do as well if they will try. Wider and better thoroughfares, wiser and better enforced regulations. Drivers more skilful and more courteous, all help to solve the traffic problem, which has come to stay.

At the Theatres

ORPHEUM VAUDEVILLE

A five-act vaudeville bill in connection with the photoplay program at the Orpheum theatre today includes:

Walters & Russell, a talented pair of terpsichore artists in "Novelty Taps and Steps," featuring singing and upside-down dancing. Every known style of dancing is included in their repertoire.

Sax & Wood are a decidely clever and entertaining couple who present an offering under the title of "A Rural Courtship." Words and music are especially written for them and serve to entertain delightfully with here and there a harmony song number interspersed.

Seeley & Walters, two versatile people, comprise the personnel of this clever team in their comedy creation "The Flapper and the Rube," consisting of comedy singing and conversational patter. They feature the jazz dancing of today and the dancing of 1776, appropriately costumed.

The miniature revue, combining singing, dancing and music, presented by Harvey Shelvys and Evans is certain to appeal. They are individually clever and each one has opportunity to show talent.

Tex Terry, from out of the West romps Tex Terry with his ropes and pistols. He handles them with a proficiency that shows years of practice and all of his tricks are unique, demonstrative and sensational.

"THE UNTAMED LADY"

Gloria Swanson in "The Untamed Lady," playing at the Idaho theatre today, Thursday and Friday, presents a dashing romance, written especially for her by Fannie Hurst.

The story revolves around an intriguing and spoiled young woman with a frightful temper and 20 million dollars, (too much money). Gloria as the heiress, lives through one delightful situation after another with her old time finished acting and lovely in her stunning gowns amid a lavish setting. The theme is rich in sable comedy and is full of pep and speedy action.

Lawrence Gray plays opposite Gloria as a determined suitor. His efforts to subdue the charming Gloria hold the audience spellbound.

Gloria is at her best in this type of play and will delight her admirers with her beauty and acting.

"His Brother's Keeper," the special added short feature is a very interesting subject. The International Printing Pressmen built and maintain at Colorado Springs, Colorado, the greatest Trades Union Home for aged and disabled members in the world. Millions of dollars have been spent in making of it one of the greatest and most beautiful institutions of its kind that can be found anywhere. No charity is accepted. All members of the union help support and care for men working on the local newspapers, about 41 of them, "at their job." The late President Roosevelt said, "It's a credit to the Nation." A trip to Colorado Springs is necessary to make you realize the complete success you will find. Pictures taken by our cameraman will be shown here but you must see the place to go there but you now have the opportunity of seeing it at the Idaho theatre.

"Cheap Skates" is the comedy. The Idaho News Review is the short film feature on this entertaining bill.

Cleaning Ornaments

Bronzes and gilt ornaments can be cleaned only by brushing carefully with dry quality, small paint brushes. When too dull and shabby they must be done over by a professional. When the cheaper quality of gilt frames get shabby, take enough flour of sulphur to give a golden tinge to a pint and a half of water and add four bruised onions. Boil 20 minutes, then strain and cool. Wipe the dust from the frame, and with a small, soft brush paint it over with the liquid. Then set aside to dry. When dry it will look almost like new. The more expensive big frames must be regilded by a professional when very shabby, though they may be touched up once or more times with this liquid, which will help their appearance.

BAREE
Son of Kazan

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

WNU Service

Perhaps it was in this moment that the Great Spirit of things meant Baree to understand—that at last it was given him to comprehend that his day had dawned, that the rising and the setting of his sun no longer existed in the sky, but in this girl whose hand rested on his head. He whined softly, and inch by inch he dragged himself nearer to her until again his head rested in the hollow of her lap.

For a long time after Pierrot left them the Willow did not move from where she had seated herself beside Baree. It was at last the deepening shadows and a near rumble in the sky that roused her from the-four of the things Pierrot had told her. When she looked up, black clouds were massing slowly over the open space above the spruce-tops. Darkness was falling, in the whisper of the wind and the dead stillness of the thickening gloom there was the sullen brewing of storm.

Nepeese shivered and rose to her feet. For the first time Baree got up, and he stood close at her side. Above them a lightning-flash cut the clouds like a knife of fire, followed in an instant by a terrific crash of thunder! Baree shrank back as if struck by a blow. He would have slunk into the shelter of the brush 'wait of the wigwam, but there was something about the Willow as he looked at her which gave him confidence. The thunder crashed again. But he retreated no farther. His eyes were fixed on Nepeese.

She stood straight and slim in that gathering gloom given by the lightning, her beautiful head thrown back, her lips parted, and her eyes glowing with an almost eager anticipation—a sculptured goddess welcoming with bated breath the onrushing forces of the heavens. Perhaps it was because she was born on a night like them. Many times Pierrot and the dead princess mother had told her that—how on the night she had come into the world the crash of thunder and the flare of lightning had made the hours an inferno, how the streams had burst over their banks and the stems of the pines had creaked and groaned and snapped in its fury—and the beat of the deluge on their cabin roof had drowned the sound of her mother's pain, and of her own first babyish cries.

On that night, it may be, the Spirit of Storm was born in Nepeese. She loved to face it, as she was facing it now. It made her forget all things but the splendid night of nature; her half-child soul thrilled to the cool and fire of it; often she had reached up her bare arms and laughed with joy as the deluge burst about her. Even now she might have stood there in the little open until the rain fell, if a white form Baree had not turned her. As the first big drops struck with the dull thud of leaden bullets about them, she went with him into the balsam shelter. It seemed an interminable time before the thunder relied for its fury east, and the lightning died away into distant and intermittent flashings. Even after that the rain fell for another hour. Then it stopped as suddenly as it had begun.

With a laughing gasp Nepeese rose to her feet. The water coursed in her moccasins as she walked out into the open. She paid no attention to Baree—and he followed her. Across the open in the treetops the last of the storm clouds were drifting away.

Nepeese looked down and saw Baree. He was standing clear and unbrushed, with freedom on all sides of him. Yet he did not run. He was waiting, yet as a waterfowl, with his eyes on her expectantly. Nepeese made a movement toward him, and hesitated.

"No, you will not run away, Baree. I will leave you free. And now we must have a fire! Let us hunt for the wooded, Baree."

With her wet clothes clinging to her tightly, she was like a slim shadow as she crossed the soggy sward and buried herself among the forest trees. Baree still followed. She went straight to a birch-tree that she had located that day. Her knife, starting off the shaved layer, in a twinkle of little tongues of fire. She heaped load after load of wood until she had a great pile. From a bottle in the wigwam she secured a dry match, and at the first touch of its tiny flame the birch-bark flared up like paper soaked in oil. Not until it was blazing a dozen feet into the air did she cease piling wood on it. Then she drew sticks into the soft ground and over these sticks she stretched the blanket out to dry. After that she began to undress.

The rain had cooled the air, and the taste of it—laden with the breath of the balsam and spruce—set the Willow's blood dancing in her veins. She forgot the discomfort of the deluge. She forgot the Factor from Lac Bain, and what Pierrot had told her. She danced about Baree, tossing her mass of hair about her, her naked body shimmering in and out of it, her eyes aglow, her lips laughing in her uncontrollable happiness—the happiness of being alive, of drinking into her lungs the perfumed air of the forest, of seeing the stars and the wonderful sky above her. She stopped before Baree and cried laughingly at him, holding out her arms:

"Ahe, Baree—if you could only throw off your skin as easily as I have thrown off my clothes!"

She drew a deep breath, and her eyes shone with a sudden inspiration. Slowly her mouth formed into a round O, and leaning still nearer to Baree, she whispered:

"It will be deep—and sweet tonight. Nimo—you—we will go!"

She retired to him softly as she slipped on her wet moccasins and followed the creek into the forest. A hundred yards from the open she came to the edge of a pool. It was deep and full tonight, three times as big as it had been before the storm. She could hear the splash and tinkle of water. On its rutfled surface the stars shone. For a moment or two she stood poised on a rock with the cool depths half a dozen feet below her. Then she flung back her hair and shot like a slim white arrow through the starlight.

Baree saw her go. He heard the plunge of her body. For half an hour he lay flat and still, close to the edge of the pool, and waited her. Once she was gone a long time. He whined. He knew she was not like the beaver and the otter, and he was filled with the immense relief when she came up.

So they lay first, panting, in the cool, deep pool, the big fire; and later, when the Willow's clothes and the blanket had dried, a few hours' sleep. At dawn they returned to the cabin.—It was a cautious approach. There was no smoke coming from the chimney. The door was closed. Pierrot and Bush McTaggart were gone.

Chapter VIII

It was the beginning of August—the Flying-up Moon—when Pierrot returned from Lac Bain, and in three days more it would be the Willow's seventeenth birthday. He brought back with him many things for Nepeese—ribbons for her hair, red stockings which were worn at times by the two English women at Nelson House, and chief glory of all, some wonderful red cloth for a dress. In the three whiteys she had spent at the Mission these women had made much of Nepeese. They had taught her to sew as well as to spell and pray, and at times when Pierrot came to the Willow a compelling desire to do as they did.

So for three days Nepeese worked hard on her new dress and on her birthday she stood before Pierrot in a fashion that took his breath away. She had piled her hair in great glossy masses, and rolled on the crown of her head—as Yvonne, the younger of the English women, had taught her, and in the rich jet of it had half buried a vivid sprig of the crimson fireflower. Underneath, and the glow in her eyes, and the red flush of her lips that which came from the wonderful dress. Fitted to the slim and virginous beauty of her form—as the style had been two whiteys ago at Nelson House. And under the dress, which reached just below the knees—Nepeese had quite forgotten the proper length, or cl—her material had gun out—came the neeps de bottes of red ticlet, real stockings and the wonderful shoes with high heels! She was a vision to fire with the gods of the forest night have felt their hearts stop beating. Pierrot turned her round and round without a word. At last, but just when she felt him followed by Baree, and hopping a little in the tightness of her shoes, the saddle faded from his face, leaving it cold and staring.

"Mon Dieu," he whispered to himself in French, with a thought that was like a sharp stab at his heart, "she is not of her mother's blood—no. It is French. She is—yes—like an angel."

There was a change in Pierrot. During the three days of her dress making Nepeese had been quite too excited to notice this change, and Pierrot had tried to keep it from her. He had been away ten days on the trip to Lac Bain, and he brought back to Nepeese the joyous news that M'sieu McTaggart was very sick with pneumonia—the blood poison—news that made the Willow clap her hands and laugh happily. Pun he knew that the Factor would get well, and that he would come again to their cabin on the Gray Loon. And when next time he came—

It was when he was thinking of this that his face grew cold and hard, and his eyes burned. And he was thinking of it on this her birthday, even as her laughter floated to him like a song. Then, in spite of her seventeen years, she was nothing but a child—a baby! She could not guess his horrible visions. And the dread of awakening her for all time from that beautiful childhood kept him from telling her the whole truth so that she might be prepared. Pierrot had confided in her—he thought—and she had listened, wide-eyed, to the story of the Factor's love. He was a good man, he had told her, and she would be the wife of such a man. And she should laugh and sing and pray—and have no share in the black foreboding that had come to spoil his life.

On the day there came up from the south Macdonald, the government mounted policeman. He was strong and gray, and a great, free laugh and a clean heart. Two days he remained with Pierrot. He told Nepeese of his daughters at home, of their mother, whom he worshiped more than anything else on earth—and before he went on in his quest of the lost girl, he, of Bauldsian, gave her both pictures of the Willow as he had first seen her on her birthday; her hair piled in glossy coils and masses, her red dress, the high-heeled shoes. He carried the negatives on with him, promising Pierrot that he would get a picture back in some way. Thus fate works in its strange and apparently innocent ways as it spins its webs of tragedy.

• • • • • • •

For many weeks after this there followed tranquil days on the Gray Loon. They were wonderful days for Baree. At first he was suspicious of Pierrot. After a little he tolerated him, and at last accepted-him as a part of the cabin—and Nepeese. It was the Willow whose shadow he became. Pierrot noted the attachment with the deepest satisfaction.

"Ah, in a few months more, if he should peep at the throat of M'sieu the Factor," he said to himself one day.

In September, when he was six months old, Baree was almost as large as Gray Wolf—big-boned, long-footed, with a deep chest, and jaws that could already crack a bone as if it were a stick. He was with Nepeese whenever and wherever she moved.

It was late in August when Baree saw the first of his kind outside of Kazan and Gray Wolf. During the summer Pierrot allowed his dogs to run at large on a small island in the center of a lake two or three miles away, and Nepeese would row them fish for them. On one of these trips Nepeese accompanied him and took Baree with her. Pierrot carried his long caribou-gut whip. He expected a fight. But there was none. Baree joined the pack in their rush for fish, and ate with them. This pleased Pierrot more than ever.

"He will make a great sledge-dog," he chuckled. "It is best to leave him for a week with the pack, ma Nepeese."

Reluctantly Nepeese gave her consent. While the dogs were still at fish, they started homeward. Their canoe had stolen well out before Pierre discovered the trick they had played on him. Instantly he leaped into the water and swam after them—and the Willow helped him into the canoe.

Early in September a passing Indian brought Pierrot word of Bush McTaggart. The Factor had been very sick. He had almost died from the blood poison, but he was well now. With the first exhilarating tang of autumn in the air a new dread oppressed Pierrot. But at present he said nothing of what was in his mind to Nepeese. The Willow had almost forgotten the Factor from Lac Bain, for the glory and thrill of wilderness autumn was in her blood.

Small Change

A keen rakie to business was out with a strange pack, and, owing to a series of mishaps, had got out of touch with the field. Jogging along a country road, he came upon a lad herding a few cows. The lad was sitting at the foot of a tall hedge.

Thinking he was passing there, my boy? asked the sportsman, curiously.

"Lookin' for small change, sir," grinned the lad. "The master always jumps higher than 'is horse at this edge."—Edinburgh Weekly Scotsman.

RISE IN RIVER POSTPONES CUT AT HEADGATES

Twin Falls Canal Company to Continue Normal Water Delivery for Time as Result of Augmented Flow.

Flow of Snake river, which has been falling rapidly during the past few days, has been augmented so that it will not be necessary for the Twin Falls Canal company to reduce water deliveries on Wednesday to 80 per cent of the normal supply, it was announced Tuesday evening by Burton Smith, general manager for the canal company.

The reduction was arranged for when word was received late early Tuesday that the flow of the river was falling so rapidly that it seemed probable that not more than 2000 second feet of water would be available to the Twin Falls company at Milner dam on Wednesday. Later information, Mr. Smith stated, was to the effect that the reduction probably would not be necessary for a few days.

Cuts Storage Rate.

Storage of water in the American Falls reservoir can continue only as long as there is a surplus of water in the river over and above the amount required to supply the claims of power company and irrigation projects below American Falls under their filings on natural flow waters. It was reported here Tuesday that there had been impounded in the American Falls reservoir a total of approximately 112,000 acre feet of water since the gates were closed on April 21.

KINDERGARTEN EXPERTS WOULD CHANGE METHODS

KANSAS CITY, May 4. (AP)—Practice of teaching all children to read when six years old, regardless of their individual mental capacities, was criticized by experts in reading instruction at the annual meeting of the international kindergarten union here today.

In a report submitted at the session it was shown that 20 per cent of 22,000 children examined were not ready for reading instruction at the time they entered school. Of these 75 per cent were from English speaking homes and 50 per cent of those not ready were from three and one half to 10 years old.

NO MINOR PARTS IN SENIORS' CLASS PLAY

The senior class of the Twin Falls high school on Thursday and Friday evenings offers the public a play of unusual merit and cleverness in "Rollo's Wild Oat" by Claire Kummer. Each member of the cast has been working on his part for six weeks and the result will be a finished and artistic production. There are good major parts in the play—no truly minor parts. The audience will enjoy the serious Rollo who dreams of himself as one of the world's great thinkers. Loyal Perry, who plays this leading part, has already demonstrated his acting ability in the school play "Only 38". Betty Wilson will portray Goldie, the charming little actress who loves children, and flowers, and her sweet grass scented basket.

Rollo is ably attended by Hewston, a very superior valet who also has aspirations toward Hamlet. Not a little of the humor of the play is contained in the role of Stein, the Jewish stage manager, most cleverly portrayed by Walter Scougher. He is assisted by an old-style group of actors whose lines concerning Shakespeare are quickly forgotten at the prospect of a square meal at Rollo's expense. These roles will be taken by Cora Jensen, Milas Walters, Keith Evans, and Clarence Wagner. In the last act of the play the audience is introduced into Rollo's country home where they will meet his irritable, unreasonable, yet lovable grandfather, played by Carl Hahn, his dignified, romantic aunt, Melba Nelson, and the pert little maid, Bella, played by Dorothy Barger.

Would Make Canyon National Monument

Designation of Snake river canyon from the mouth of Salmon river, northeast of Buhl, to Hansen bridge, 10 miles east of Twin Falls, as a national monument was suggested by meeting of the Twin Falls Chamber Arthur L. Many scenic wonders are located in this section of Snake river canyon, including Thousand Springs—Clear Lakes, Crystal Springs, Upper Salmon Falls, Blue Lakes, Auger Falls, Shoshone Falls, Devil's Corral, Twin Falls and Hansen bridge.

The project was referred by the directors to the civics committee of which Frank L. Stephan is chairman. The committee is to investigate the project and, if it is deemed feasible assistance of Congressman Addison T. SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Edited by Mrs. E. B. Williams Phone 396

The Twentieth Century club celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the club and complimented the charter members who still reside in Twin Falls at the annual breakfast held Tuesday, May 4, in the dining room at the Hotel Rogerson. The tables were especially lovely with maypoles wrapped in ribbon in pastel shades, around which were placed tiny dolls gowned in pastel hues. Crystal baskets held lavender and white lilacs, bridal wreath and honeysuckle, and interspersed with these were lavender, pink and yellow and green candles in cut glass holders. The original and artistic favors placed at each cover were candy maypoles with pastel ribbon streamers.

The charter members and Mrs. D. H. Bielham, of Blackfoot, state president of the federation, were seated at a round table in the center of the room, in the center of the table was placed a large basket of the chosen flowers with candles at either end and the pretty maypole favors. Places were marked at this table for Mrs. Kennedy Blackwell, Mrs. M. J. Sweeley, Mrs. Joseph Seaver, Mrs. Burton E. Morse, Mrs. H. W. Cloachek, Mrs. John Ault and Mrs. E. B. Williams.

The program was in the form of "A Birthday Musicale." The invocation was given by Mrs. J. D. Whelan; Mrs. R. H. Atkinson was toastmaster and introduced the following numbers: Duet, "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," Mrs. George Balch and Miss Cleo Hunt, with Mrs. Duvall at the piano; "Out Where the West Begins," Mrs. H. L. Austin; "The Long, Long Trail," Mrs. T. George Hislop; vocal solo, "Sunlight," Mrs. Duvall, accompanied by Mrs. D. L. Alexander; "The Old Oaken Bucket," by Mrs. W. T. Potter; "One Sweet Day" by Mrs. Charles Pryor. The club chorus sang "The Bridal Chorus," Mrs. E. M. Wolfe, the outgoing president, responded to "Bubbles," and Mrs. H. C. Maguire, the incoming president, spoke on "Blossoms." Pioneer days in the Twin Falls country were especially stressed in the speeches and reading, with many complimentary words to the charter members, who were each presented with a beautiful corsage of sweet peas, roses and ferns, and it is evident that the entire affair will be cherished as a red letter day to all who were fortunate enough to be numbered as first members of the club.

Mrs. Bielham, of Blackfoot, state president of the Federated clubs, spoke on the many things dear to her heart and she hopes to see accomplished by Idaho women for the uplift of the state and nation. Mrs. S. W. Wilson, also of Blackfoot, district president, spoke of the meeting to be held by the Federated clubs at Warm River camp near Ashton, at which time the study and problems of law enforcement will be taken up in detail. Mrs. S. W. Rosecrans, of Burley, vice president at large, spoke briefly of her pleasure at being made to feel so welcome and that Burley has adopted the paeonia as their city flower. Several delightful selections were rendered by the high school orchestra during breakfast.

The Catholic Women's League will hold their annual blossom luncheon Thursday, May 6, at the Hotel Rogerson. As it is a parish affair, all ladies of the parish are invited. Those who desire to attend may secure tickets from Mrs. George Wallace before tonight.

Members of the Wayside club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. C. E. Medlin, Mrs. E. E. Burns assisting, on Tuesday afternoon, May 4. After the usual business session, Mrs. D. F. Clark had charge of a most interesting program on "Idaho Playgrounds." During the social hour a dainty two course luncheon was served. Seven members of a poverty stricken family were guests.

LOGAN DEFEATS IRRIGATORS IN OPENING GAME

Collegians Triumph in First Contest; Score 4 to 1; Twin Falls Fast on Defensive Work; Stands Well Filled.

LOGAN, May 4 (Special to Times-News)—Logan took the opening contest from Twin Falls here today, 4 to 1, in a fast big long drawn out game of ball. Heffner, pitching for the Irrigators, kept his hits scattered and held the collegians scoreless until the sixth, when they scored two runs on a hit and an error. Logan scored one in the seventh and eighth on walks and hits. Heffner was relieved in the sixth by Bevo.

Oliva, pitching for the Collegians, allowed but six bingles and these were well scattered. Fitzgerald was the only Irrigator to get more than one safe hit, gathering two singles.

Three Double Plays

The Irrigator infield, although badly capped by the loss of Backer, third baseman, pulled three double plays and looked good. Dwyer held down the hot corner and played a nice game, but was weak on fielding bunts.

Osborne was robbed of a home run in the seventh when the Logan center fielder made a circus catch of his long drive and was knocked out completely by the ball. The Irrigators protested the catch but the umpire called it a fair catch.

The Irrigators lone score came in the ninth when McBride scored on Apperson's infield out. McBride singled and was advanced by Rifbitting for Bevo and a passed ball but him on third.

Large Crowd

A crowd of about 1500 people filled every available spot on the field and were led to the field by the American Legion drum corps, who headed the opening day parade through the business section.

Mayor Lundstrom of Logan heaved the first ball over to officially open the League season and the umpire called it a strike. Box score:

YOUNG STRIBLING MAY BOX PAUL BERLENBACH

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Young Stribling probably will displace Jack Delaney as an opponent for Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavy weight champion, in a 15-round title match at the Yankee stadium June 16, promoter Tex Rickard announced today. Negotiations with Stribling were opened, Rickard said, as a result of Delaney's failure to accept terms offered him for the match.

Joe Dundee of Baltimore, one of the two leading challengers in the welterweight division was notified that he must cancel his engagement at Madison Square Garden, May 21, to meet Eugene "Shuffle" Callahan of Chicago. Promoters of the Coney Island stadium protested the match on the grounds that it was just one week before Dundee faces Willie Harmon there in a welter weight elimination contest and the protest was upheld.

GRAIN SUFFERS PRICE SLASHES

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—What suffered severe new slashes in price today owing to widespread trade disturbance due to the British general strike. Closing quotations in the wheat market here were unsettled 1 3-8c to 3 3-8c net lower; May new $1.58 1-4 to 1.58 5-8, and July $1.38 5-8 to 1.38 1-2, with corn 1-4c to 7-8c down; oats 1-8c to 1-4c off and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 5c.

At one time today the wheat market here showed a setback of nearly 5c a bushel on some transactions as compared with yesterday's finish. Word that the day in other lands resulted in considerable export buying, especially at Winnipeg, helped to rally prices here toward the last. Earlier advices at hand indicated that Argentine and Australian wheat afloat for England would be diverted to other European countries and that this would entail demand for wheat from North America.

Rain In Prospect.

Good prospects of rain in the spring wheat area both north and south of the Canadian line tended further to weaken prices. Favorable crop reports from the southwest counted also as a bearish influence. In this connection, significance was attached to word that 10,000 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat was being shipped to Chicago from Kansas City at 1 1-2c over May delivery here and that a good deal more wheat might work in Chicago from the southwest. A decrease of 4,152 bushels in the world's available supply was announced but was small compared with 13,541,000 bushels, falling off a year ago.

Corn and oats were weak owing to sympathy with wheat.

Provisions also averaged lower as a result of grain weakness.

SPECULATORS FAIL TO UNSETTLE STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, April 4. (AP)—Speculators for the decline failed today in their effort to bring about another unsettlement in stock prices as a result of the general strike in Great Britain. Prices were carried down one to three points in the first outbreak of selling, but the reaction did not bring out any appreciable volume of forced or urgent liquidation and prices rallied briskly during the afternoon.

Closing quotations were generally higher, a long list of active issues showing net gains of one to six points on the day. Total sales were 1,067,800 shares as compared with 1,508,700 yesterday.

Wheat prices were the hardest hit by the strike news, breaking 2 1-2 to nearly 4 1-2c a bushel, and then rallying slightly. May wheat closed at $1.58 1-4 a bushel after having sold down to $1.56 3-4. Cotton held relatively steady. Foreign exchanges were heavy although sterling was strongly supported by buying reported to be for the account of the British government. French and Belgian francs touch new record low levels at 3.22 and 3.26c respectively.

The calmness with which the London markets accepted the strike, the continuance of easy money rates and the constructive nature of most of the day's domestic business and earnings reports helped to restore confidence in the market. There seemed to be a rather general opinion in financial circles that the strike would be of short duration and that any adverse effect on our business with Great Britain would be compensated by increased business in other countries, particularly those where British competition is a serious factor.

MONEY.

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Call money steady; high 3 1-2; low 3 1-2; ruling rate 3 1-2; closing bid 3 1-2 offered at 3 3-4; last loan 3 1-2; call loans against acceptances 3; time loans steady, mixed collateral 60 to 90 days 4; 4 to 6 months 4; prime mercantile paper 4 to 4 1-4.

LIBERTY BONDS.

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Liberty bonds closed:

3 1-2s	100.25
4 1-4s	102.23
First 4 1-4s	100.29
Second 4 1-4s	101.29
Third 4 1-4s	101.10
Fourth 4 1-4s	101.26
U. S. treasury 3 3-4s	101.10
U. S. treasury 4s	104.17
U. S. treasury 4 1-4s	105.11

METALS.

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Copper—Quiet; electrolytic spot and futures 12 7-8.

Tin—Firm; spot and nearby 63; futures 59.

Iron—Steady; unchanged.

Lead—Steady; spot 5.85.

Zinc—Steady; East St. Louis spot and futures 6.70 to 6.75.

Antimony—Spot $13.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—A decline of 1-32c centered the raw sugar market today, with increased offerings of nearby supplies. Sales included 15,000 bags of Porto Rican for first half May shipment, 21,000 bags of Cuban in port, and 10,000 bags for immediate shipment all at 4.44 delivered.

The general strike in the United Kingdom, and the lower spot market explained a decline in raw sugar futures, completely overshadowing the report that the president of Cuba had signed the bill restricting production of sugar. May closed 2.41; July 2.51; September 2.63; December 2.74; January 2.47.

Although no improvement was noted in new business to refined sugar with withdrawals on old contracts again substantial, refiners maintained their prices unchanged at 5.20 to 5.60 for fine granulated.

SELF-DENIAL TO EASE AUTO JAM

Business and Professional Men Take Lead in Move to Relieve Parking Congestion.

Twin Falls business and professional men will take the lead in a movement to relieve automobile parking congestion by refraining from parking their own cars on business streets during business hours.

This movement was launched at a meeting Tuesday of the directors of Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce at which Asher R. Wilson, president of the chamber, was authorized to appoint a committee to interview business and professional men to invite them to cooperate in the undertaking. Personnel of the committee named is as follows: W. H. Eldridge, E. L. Ashton, T. F. Williams, A. L. Swim, W. R. Priebe, Harry Vogel, Ralph R. Smith, W. H. Burkholder and Claud Brown.

It is suggested that Twin Falls citizens shall voluntarily yield their right to park their cars during business hours on Main avenue, two blocks in each direction from the intersection with Shoshone street, and on Shoshone street, one block in each direction from the intersection with Main avenue.

Problem Grows Serious.

Purpose of this "self-denial" movement is to relieve congestion that is reported to be interfering seriously with Twin Falls' trade relations with patrons living in the country as well as to reduce traffic volume on the principal thoroughfares. The problem has claimed the attention of the city council for some time, and no satisfactory solution has yet been worked out by that body which has considered among other things, possibility of imposing a time limit on parking.

The self-denial suggestion came as a result of a recent visit made to the south by William Simpson, who found there a general practice among business men of parking their cars at some distance from their places of business.

The movement in Twin Falls has been launched among the business and professional men, but all Twin Falls citizens are invited to cooperate, and chamber of commerce officials indicated that they will welcome general expression of opinion on the subject.

Business Houses To Close Memorial Day

Twin Falls business houses will be closed all day Monday, May 31, in observance of Memorial day which falls this year on Sunday. Decision to this effect was reached at a meeting of Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday.

Memorial day is one of the five holidays that are observed in Twin Falls with closing of business houses in accordance with agreement reached some years ago. When the holiday falls on Sunday it is the custom to close business houses the following day.

CORNS
In one minute the pain Gone!
Gets at the cause of corns

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads work like magic, because they remove the cause—pressing or rubbing of shoes. The pain goes instantly. Amateur paring or burning with drops of acid is dangerous and foolish. Use Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads, the safer way. Antiseptic, healing. They protect while they heal. Sizes for callouses and bunions, too.
