HOOVER URGES NATIONAL PLAN OF DEVELOPMENT

Secretary of Commerce Declares Water Resources of Country Must Be Considered Under Broad Policy.

(By the Associated Press.)

OMAHA, Nebr., Sept. 29.—The United States has reached the stage where it must consider the development of its water resources as a whole and should proceed at once with a great national plan of construction, Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, told leaders of the Missouri river project at conferences here today.

"We have reached a new era in development where we can form national policies for full use of our streams and lakes," he said. "Water is our greatest undeveloped resource, and now that we have the capital we should go ahead with that development.

"We must take a large vision, must consider each drainage system separately, organize the first step at once, proceed with the engineering projects which are certain, and prepare to enter a national construction program such as we would have now if we had not been compelled to participate in the world war. I believe we would be negligent if we do not undertake this great development."

Suggests Benefits.

Such an organized plan could develop 35,000,000 horsepower from water instead of the present 11,000,000, bring 25,000 miles of modernized waterways of streams and lakes and add 30,000,000 acres of land to the country's agricultural domain by reclamation, Mr. Hoover predicted.

"Our water resources lie all over the nation," the commerce secretary explained. "By creating a national sentiment for such development would receive due consideration for your problem. The problem of navigation, power and reclamation simplify themselves as part of a whole program. We do not propose to have all these things done tomorrow; we could not yet use all the resources, but we will need this whole development in a quarter of a century because the population undoubtedly will increase 40,000,000.

Mid-West at Disadvantage.

"At present the shift of economic currents resulting from the war have put the midwest in a distorted position. Combined with the Panama canal and water rates which remained the same as before the war, this makes the effect of a conspiracy against the great west.

"Unfortunately the whole of disadvantages arising are reflected into the mid-western territory. With higher labor and material we cannot contemplate much reduction in rail rates, as railroads are the most efficient in history. We must seek an alternative.

"Experience on the barge system between St. Louis and New Orleans shows that transportation can be given at pre-war rates, with a satisfactory profit. The cost for 1,000 bushels of grain for 1000 miles by barge is from $30 to $65, while by rail it is from $150 to $200.

"Within the Mississippi system are 9,000 miles of possible waterways. Half of this has been deepened, but in separate sections as the result of lack of program because the strength of transportation is not in its parts but in the whole. Great systems of barges will spread on every river in the valley. A great system will be more economical than a single river development.

"The criticism of this program comes from two sources, agriculture and railways. The agricultural community feels it is over-producing foodstuffs and believes it is unwise to bring other lands into production. But in 10 or 15 years we will need it. I would favor suppressing the change, if land could be brought in agricultural use over night."

Property Damage Is Only Toll in Vera Cruz Storm

VERA CRUZ, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Although considerable property damage was caused in the city of Vera Cruz by a hurricane which swept it yesterday, the city today was returning to normal with little to justify early reports that it had been destroyed or greatly damaged.

A correspondent for The Associated Press who arrived on the first through train from Mexico City in response to reports that the city was severely damaged, found the business and residential sections presenting a normal appearance. Although reports were received that two persons had been drowned in the outlying poorer quarters of the city, the local authorities thus far have been unable to find any deaths. No foreigners were injured.

Property losses, which may reach 200,000 or 250,000 pesos, consist of razed wooden buildings along the waterfront, including a yachts club, a group of [illegible] house and refreshment stands and a wrecked marine coal landing station.

IDAHOANS GREET COAST BOOSTERS

Los Angeles Trade Excursion Members Entertained by Pocatello Commerce Chamber.

POCATELLO, Sept. 29. (AP)—Members of the Los Angeles trade excursion arrived in Pocatello late this afternoon from Blackfoot, where they were met by a delegation from the Pocatello Chamber of Commerce. After being taken on a tour of the city they were entertained at a banquet which was attended by more than 100 Gate City business men and their wives.

Charles C. Moore, governor of Idaho, who met the party at St. Anthony, and accompanied it through the Upper Snake River valley during the day, was the principal speaker at the banquet here tonight.

Governor Moore outlined the possibilities of Idaho, which he said were far from being fully developed and declared that Idaho was looking to the Pacific coast for markets for the major portion of her produce.

Thompson Talks to Filipino Veterans; Tribute to Leader

MANILA, Sept. 29. (AP)—Speaking today at Kawit to Filipino veterans of the revolution against the United States a quarter century ago, Carmi A. Thompson said that General Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the revolution was better known in the United States than any other Filipino and that the American people respected him for his honor and bravery. Mr. Thompson has been in the Philippines several weeks investigating conditions for report to President Coolidge.

Against Exploitation.

General Aguinaldo addressing the large assemblage near his home, said that if capital could be brought to the Philippines and invested without any attempt to exploit the country, he was convinced that the Filipinos would assist in encouraging foreign capital.

The best proof that the American government did not intend to exploit the Philippines, said Aguinaldo, was the fact that Governor General Leonard Wood had been sent to the Philippines. He had agreed to co-operate with the governor general because he believed that Wood was working for the best interests of the Philippines.

Aguinaldo said that the veterans of the old revolution had been called unpatriotic by some political leaders, but that this was because of the veterans' friendship for Wood.

COTTAGE OWNER THINKS SIELAFF WOMAN COACHED

Carmel Witness in McPherson Case Names Discrepancies in Defendant's Story; Mother of Evangelist Collapses.

(By the Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—H. C. Benedict, owner of the Carmel cottage which figures in the Aimee Semple McPherson case, intimated on the witness stand here today that he got the impression that Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff had been coached by the woman who actually lived at Carmel, before Mrs. Sielaff attempted to perpetuate the so-called hoax.

Mrs. Sielaff is co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, in preliminary hearing of conspiracy charges growing out of the disappearance case.

Benedict, questioned by S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Sielaff, who is charged jointly with [illegible] of criminal conspiracy, said Mrs. Sielaff told him certain things about the cottage which no one but its actual occupant could have known.

Recalls Incident.

The cottage owner testified that an incident of turning over the soil in the dooryard to demonstrate the character of earth, was one which he had never mentioned to a "soul in the world." Mrs. Sielaff told him of it on their first meeting.

Attorney Hahn declared his purpose was to dissipate the impression that his client was a "fake" and that on the contrary, she was employed and coached in what she did.

The morning session of the hearing was brought to a sudden end by Mrs. Kennedy collapsing. She was led from the court by her daughter and a lawyer. She had recovered sufficiently to attend the afternoon session. Mrs. McPherson in the hearings today showed the strain under which she is laboring. In the late day her chief concern seemed to be whether her mother could bear up much longer.

Orders Additional Guards.

Judge Blake, after the evangelist's chief attorney had protested that camera men and reporters had pursued Mrs. Kennedy when she was led from the courtroom, ordered additional guards for the hearing.

The greater part of the sessions were taken up with reading the transcript of the testimony Mrs. McPherson gave before the grand jury that investigated her reported kidnaping. The testimony followed closely the story Mrs. McPherson told when she reappeared in Arizona after having been missing for many days. In the meantime, the state contends, Mrs. McPherson occupied a cottage at Carmel.

Benedict, in answer to Hahn's question, said he had noticed Mrs. Sielaff's ankles and that they were entirely dissimilar to those of the woman who lived at his Carmel cottage. The ankles of the Carmel woman, he said, were "heavy."

Never In Cottage.

Benedict said it was evident from his conversation with Mrs. Sielaff that she had never been in the Carmel house. He said this in explanation of his testimony yesterday that he thought at the time that the woman was a "monumental faker."

Benedict answered several discrepancies in Mrs. Sielaff's description of the Carmel house as his reason for disbelieving her.

Hahn asked Benedict to look over the court room and see if he could locate a hat on some woman's head that was similar to the one the Carmel woman had worn.

"If you do pick out one," said Attorney Gilbert, of the evangelist's counsel, "I'll take it off her head and put it in evidence." Hahn then borrowed a pair of "goggles" from Gilbert and stated he would put them with a hat picked out by Benedict, on Mrs. Sielaff to demonstrate how the Carmel woman looked. The court would not permit it.

ESTIMATE GROWTH IN IDAHO TURKEY POOLS

BOISE, Sept. 29. (AP)—Inquiries for information about Idaho turkey pools received in larger numbers than ever before, assure a larger range of bids, officers of the Idaho Turkey Growers' association announced today. Estimates place the size of this year's pools at 50 carloads, as compared with 27 last year.

This estimate includes the Thanksgiving pool, bids for which will be opened early in November, the Christmas pool to be sold December 1, and after Christmas shipments, to be sold about January 1.

CALIFORNIA FOREST FIRE PLACED UNDER CONTROL

CHICO, Cal., Sept. 29. (AP)—The forest fire which threatened Jonesville for the past three days, was placed under control today after burning over 14 sections of land, including several acres of new timber belonging to the government.

The Diamond Match company properties at Jonesville were destroyed and a number of summer homes threatened there. A light rain started falling today, greatly aiding the fire fighters. About 500 men are still on watch to take care of the small outcrop of the flames.

Mrs. Crumroy Enters Idaho Penitentiary to Serve Life Sentence

Rupert Woman Maintains Outward Calm as She Steps Off Train in Capital City.

BOISE, Sept. 29. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Crumroy, who entered the Idaho state prison this afternoon under a life sentence as the convicted poison murderess of her second husband, Carl Crumroy, Minidoka county farmer, continued to evidence the outward calm which marked her trial and conviction at Rupert. She even smiled when asked if she preferred a life sentence to the death penalty and answered by saying, "While there's life there's hope."

Arrives With Sheriff.

Arriving here this afternoon in the custody of Sheriff and Mrs. W. B. Cole, Minidoka county, Mrs. Crumroy was met by Warden J. W. Wheeler and taken to the state prison where she lost her identity and became inmate number 2691. At the Union Pacific station she smilingly consented to pose for newspaper photographers and carefully rearranged her coat before pictures were taken.

Asked if she would mind answering questions of reporters, Mrs. Crumroy replied, "certainly not, but I will answer only those I want to." She announced her attorneys, Harmon E. Hosier and J. H. Felton, had already started the work of perfecting the appeal of her case to the state supreme court.

DIRECTORS TO FIGHT POWER DAM PROJECT

EL CENTRO, Cal., Sept. 29. (AP)—Directors of the Imperial Irrigation district today instructed their attorney to take immediate steps to prevent use by the Utah Power and Light company of water at Flaming Gorge on the Green river, tributary to the Colorado river.

Today's action was the result of notice that the Utah corporation has applied to the federal power commission to make permanent the temporary permit granted the corporation in 1923 for a dam 270 feet high and 875 feet long, creating a reservoir 60 miles long, covering 37,200 acres and capable of generating 63,000 horsepower hydro-electric energy.

EXPECT LARGE SEED CROP

BOISE, Sept. 29. (AP)—Idaho seed growers expect to harvest 20,000 acres of alfalfa seed for a total production of 4,200,000 pounds of recleaned seed, according to the report today by Julius H. Jacobson, Idaho federal crop statistician. In 1925, 10,000 acres produced 3,840,000 pounds. Red clover seed production this year is estimated at 3,552,000 pounds from 16,000 acres planted as contrasted with 3,300,000 pounds from 11,000 acres in 1925. Reduced production is attributed to hot, dry weather.

DENIES MOTION FOR DISMISSAL IN FRAUD TRIAL

Judge Mack Decides Daugherty-Miller Conspiracy Case Must Continue After Hearing Arguments of Counsel.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The conspiracy trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, halted to permit Judge Mack to listen behind closed doors to lengthy arguments of defense counsel for dismissal, will resume tomorrow. The dismissal motions were denied late today and an announcement was made that Judge Mack had decided the case must go on.

The scene of the trial was transferred to the judge's chambers in the Woolworth building from open court, as soon as United States Attorney Buckner rested his case yesterday afternoon. The jury was sent home, the defendants left and only judge and counsel were permitted to attend the private hearing.

Unusual Procedure.

Although this procedure was said by attorneys and court attaches to be unusual it was said not to be unprecedented. No reason was officially given for not hearing the motions in open court.

The special hearing adjourned after a two-hour session yesterday and resumed at 9 o'clock today. When the jury was ready to file into the box at 10:30 o'clock the clerk announced that the morning session had been adjourned. At 2 o'clock judge and lawyers were still closeted in the chambers and again the jury was sent home.

In the Woolworth building reports were numerous and varied as to what was going on in Judge Mack's rooms, but the only official announcement was made about 7:30 when the meeting at last broke up.

Resume Sessions.

At that time Buckner told newspaper men that the court had given him permission to state that the motions for dismissal had been denied and that the regular court session would be resumed tomorrow, when the defense will attempt to break down the evidence presented by the government in the first three weeks of the trial.

He also said that Judge Mack had ruled that George E. Williams, who was assistant to Miller when the latter was alien property custodian in 1921, had not been shown to have been a co-conspirator in the alleged illegal release of $7,000,000 assets of the American metal company, impounded during the war under the trading with the enemy act.

Government Charges Graft.

Miller and Daugherty, who was attorney general at the time, are charged with conspiring to defraud the government of their best service in permitting release of the assets. The government alleges that they permitted the release under the inducement of "hypodermic injections of graft" made by John T. King, republican leader hired for $441,000 to arrange the release.

The ruling concerning Williams was brought about by defense objections to testimony given by Richard Merton, German metal magnate, who came to this country to arrange the assets and release and who hired King to put the transaction through for him. Merton told on the stand of conversations he had with Williams concerning the metal company claim before filing it with the government.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Miller, contended that under the law this testimony was admissible only if Williams were shown to be a co-conspirator, which he said had not been proven. Judge Mack ruled today that there had been no evidence to show that Williams had been a co-conspirator, but whether he ordered the testimony stricken out or permitted it to remain the record was not announced.

After he had told of the judge's two rulings Buckner responded to questions that he said everything he had been given permission to say.

FIGURES SHOW DAMAGE TO STATE TIMBER LAND

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 29. Idaho fires covered 241,930 acres of forest reserve, 44,530 acres of private and state holdings within national forests.

Of the total fires 589 burned in Montana and 778 in Idaho.

FORTY-THREE MEN ARE FOUND ALIVE IN DEPTHS OF MINE

Rescue Workers Cross Shaky "Cat Walk" to Get Food Supplies to Entombed Miners; Prepare to Release Prisoners.

(By The Associated Press.)

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 29.—Forty-three imprisoned and starved miners were found "alive and well" today half a mile from the earth's surface in the G. Pabst iron mine, where they had been imprisoned five days.

A plea for light greeted rescue workers who crossed a shaky 30-foot "cat walk" and penetrated the prison of the men. The miners reported they had subsisted on birch bark tea which they made in their lunch buckets over the fire of their miners' lamps.

Sirens and horns of the town sounded the hopeful note which thousands have waited for since noon last Friday, when a cage dropped in a shaft, loosening tons of rocks and earth, killing three men outright and trapping the 43 miners on the eighth level of the mine almost a half mile from the surface.

Work Up From Lower Level

Shortly before noon miners and rescue workers from Chicago worked their way up to the eighth level from another level almost a mile from earth's surface and found ladders extending to the eighth level in fair condition. They threw rails and power lines across a 30-foot chasm, and with the daring of tight rope walkers skipped across the hole of imprisoned men to be greeted by Tom Trewartha, a sturdy mine boss, who reported all hands well.

Rescue workers tapped a signal on an iron pipe shortly before they reached the men; received a signal in reply.

George Hawes, assistant [illegible] safety of the Pullman company, of Chicago, who formerly worked here and who volunteered for rescue work was the first across the "cat walk" and was greeted by Trewartha, who grasped his hand.

Greets Mine Boss

"How are you?" Hawes asked.

"We are all o. k. Forty-three men all right. We lived on tea made from birch bark."

Hawes shouted the news to his companions who hurried to an outer shaft and reported the men "alive and well."

Shortly thereafter food and carbide lights were enroute to the men, while preparations on the surface were made to remove them to hospitals for treatment and to remove them of their damp and soggy clothing.

Hundreds of anxious relatives and rescue workers on the surface were overjoyed when rescue workers reported the men were "alive and well."

Give Way to Emotions

Some cried and wept for joy, while others rushed to their homes and prayed in thanksgiving. Rescue workers dropped their tools in other shafts and smiled grimly and sank to cots to rest, thanking that their effort had not been in vain and in knowing they had carried out the miners' motto "never abandon hope."

With Hawes, going up the shaft, was Chief Engineer Oscar Olson of the Oliver company and Captain Gust Erickson, in charge of the Pabst mine. It was Erickson who had superintended the construction of two tunnels around the shaft obstruction and who at considerable risk bridged the shaft from the twentieth level after it had been reached by two days of hard work across hundreds of feet of open shafts to the shaft ladders, some of which remained in good condition. He left the mine shortly before the accident last Friday.

FIND CHARRED BODIES OF TRIO

Men Lose Lives in Fighting Forest Fire Which Threatened Nevada Capital City.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 29. (AP)—Charred bodies of three men, two of them inmates of the Nevada state prison, were found today in the hills just west of Carson City where yesterday they lost their lives fighting a forest and brush fire which for several hours threatened the state capital as it swept down the mountainside.

Bodies Close Together.

The third body was that of Ralph Morse, an Indian section hand employed by the Virginia and Truckee railroad. The convicts who lost their lives were George Brown, serving one to five years for burglary from Churchill county, and J. E. Mitchell, serving a one to 14-year term for assault with intent to kill. The three bodies were found in a radius of about 150 feet of each other.

Bryant Whitmoore, a prison guard trapped in the flames, is in a serious condition in a Reno hospital. His physician said today he might die at any time. Arthur Sunday, fire patrolman for Lake Tahoe resorts, also badly burned in fighting the flames, was thought to be more seriously burned than Whitmoore, has a chance for recovery.

DISMISS MURDER CHARGE AGAINST ORTING PASTOR

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 29. (AP)—Murder charges filed against Rev. George E. Seeley, pastor and editor at Orting, Washington, after Emile Matsumoto was killed by federal liquor raiders whom Seeley accompanied August 30, were dismissed today in superior court at Tacoma.

Prosecuting Attorney Seldon, in dismissing charges declared that evidence was insufficient. Seeley was arrested with three federal agents, W. H. Kinnaird, R. A. Lambert and Mark Y. Croxall, all of Tacoma, whom he led in a still raid. The case of the agents was taken into federal district court, but dropped after the federal court ruled that they could not be prosecuted in state court.

Populace Stirred By Shooting of 3 German Civilians

French Officer Slays One and Wounds Two Others; Burgomaster Appeals to League of Nations for Probe.

GERMERSHEIM, Germany, Sept. 29. (AP)—The populace of this town is seething with excitement over the recent shooting to death of one German civilian and the wounding of two others by a French officer of the army of occupation.

Dr. Bell, minister of the occupied area, is scheduled to arrive here on October 1 to conduct a personal investigation into the matter.

Charges Oppression.

Meanwhile the burgomaster of the town, in the name of the populace, has telegraphed an appeal to the league of nations and the German and Bavarian governments charging that the town is being oppressed by the French garrison and asking that a neutral court be formed to investigate the tragedy. He also demanded the evacuation by foreign troops as quickly as possible.

The appeal, in part, says:

"Because the lives of our citizens are no longer safe, the populace is stirred to the highest indignation. We protest before the whole world against the slave-like maltreatment to which we are subjected by a foreign power, making the league of nations responsible for present and future sacrifices and demanding the expiation of a crime against three of this city's inhabitants."

THE SPORTS OF A DAY

TEAMS ENGAGE IN LIGHT WORK

Cardinals and Yankees Get First Limbering Up Since Close of Regular Season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. (AP)—With unprecedented interest in their world's series battle indicated by a complete sellout of reserved seat tickets here three days before the opening game, the Yankees and Cardinals today went through the first workouts they have had since closing the regular season.

The death of Rogers Hornsby's mother kept the Cardinal manager from practice and cast a shadow over the National leaguer's camp. Under the direction of Bill Killifer, however, the St. Louis squad put in a brisk drill at the Yankee stadium where the series starts Saturday.

Rush At Box Office.

While the players limbered up in comparative peace and quiet there was anything but that at the offices of the Yankee club near Times Square, where the rush of applications for tickets resulted in over-subscription of the available supply by 15,000. The Yankees put 25,000 reserve seat tickets on sale in blocks of three for the first, second and sixth games but the flood of requests approximated 40,000, Business Manager Edward G. Barrow said.

This demand breaks all records for the series here, where at least part of the classic is being staged for the fifth time in six seasons. It indicates the probability of tremendous demand Saturday, when some 38,000 tickets in unreserved sections of the grandstand and bleachers will be put on sale, starting at 10 a. m.

Babe Slightly Crippled.

The Yankees took the field for practice first today but did only light work, occupying an hour with hitting and fielding drill. Benny Bengough, the catcher with a broken arm, was a spectator and will see the big games although he has no chance to play. Babe Ruth, the other Yankee casualty, will be able to play, but took his workout with caution. He did little running and no quick starting.

The big slugger has a weak ankle, slightly sprained in going after the ball along the right field foul line near the close of the season and he said that his knee also developed some sprain.

"I'll be in shape Saturday," he promised after the practice period.

Cards Enthusiastic.

The Cardinals went at their work with enthusiasm. They were glad to dig their spiked feet into the turf again. Rain Tuesday kept them indoors and several of the regulars did not make the final trip to Cincinnati to close the season, today's call to the bat found them baseball hungry.

The National league players, with the exception of Roy Blades, fast outfielder, reported themselves fit for the important test. Blades has not recovered sufficiently from injuries suffered several weeks ago to hope to play in the series.

No further word concerning the likely opening game pitchers came from either camp, but observers continued to view the prospect of a southpaw battle between Herb Pennock of the Yankees and Willie Sherdel of the Cardinals. Urban Shocker and Grover Alexander, veteran right handers, seemed slated for second game assignments here, although Manager Miller Huggins of the New Yorkers is known to have considerable confidence in Dutch Ruether, seasoned southpaw star.

HORNSBY TO PLAY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. (AP)—Rogers Hornsby will manage and play second base in the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals in the world series with the New York Yankees opening here Saturday. When informed of his mother's death in Austin, Texas, today, he said that as it was his mother's dying request that he remain with his team, he had decided to stay here with them. He had been informed, he said, that the body of his mother will not be buried until he returns to Texas.

LEAGUE LEADERS BATTLE TO TIE

Kimberly and Declo Play 10 Innings Without Breaking 2 to 2 Score; Dark Stops Game.

Kimberly and Declo, in the second of a series of three games to determine the South Central Idaho baseball league championship, that was played here Wednesday, went into a tie, 2 to 2, in a 10-inning game that was called on account of darkness. The third game of the series is to be played next Sunday at Burley. Kimberly and Declo finished the league season in a tie for the first place. Kimberly won the first of the post-season games played at Declo last Sunday by score of 3 to 2.

Stormy weather tended to discourage attendance at the game here Wednesday and only a small crowd witnessed the contest which rated as one of the best exhibitions of the national game ever played on the Twin Falls field.

No scoring was recorded until the seventh inning, when Kimberly put across two runs. Declo scored in the eighth and again in the ninth inning. The tenth period was scoreless.

Bortz, on the mound for Declo, held Kimberly batters to four hits, struck out 12 players and issued passes to only two men.

Ernest Fuller, Kimberly pitcher, allowed 10, struck out 11 Declo batters, and passed none but hit two with pitched balls.

Red Cross Leader Tells Club Women Of County's Need

Importance of the Red Cross preventive program as applied to local conditions and the need that exists in the county for a public health nurse were stressed in a brief address delivered by Miss Helen Kersey, representative of the Red Cross society in Idaho, before the members of the Business and Professional Women's club, assembled for their weekly luncheon in the organization's club rooms here Wednesday noon.

"Expense of a public nurse," Miss Kersey said, "would be many times saved to the community through the checking of preventive disease and the general promotion of public health."

At the conclusion of her address Miss Kersey touched upon the relief work now being done in Florida by the Red Cross and spoke briefly of the war work relief which is a permanent part of the organization that is at the service of the enlisted men and the discharged veterans.

Visitors at the luncheon were Mrs. Ethel Wheelright of Huntington, West Virginia, Mrs. Vera Kinkle and Miss Gretchen Badgeley of Kimberly.

BLUE AND WHITE SET FOR BATTLE

High School Bruins Get Last Hard Scrimmage Before Contest With Albion Eleven.

Plastino sent his Bruins through their last hard practice of the week last night. The Blue and White aggregation are rounding into shape for the first real contest of the season with Albion Normal Friday. Sullivan looks like a real find in the backfield and apparently is the man the Bruins have been looking for. Ratcliffe and Lucas will probably hold down the new at the position, but have been showing considerable aptitude in their wings in the Albion game. Both are new places. Ted Williams is nursing a bad knee and will probably not be able to start in Friday's game. Stimpson has been holding down the guard position, while Leiser is working on the other side of center. Anderson at center is improving his passing and will probably start at that position.

Robertson at Helm.

In the backfield Robertson will be at the helm with Owens and Berg at halves and Sullivan at full. The Bruin fans will be treated to a new brand of football Friday and it looks as though Sullivan will be the cause of it all.

The Albion team will have but a few of last years' men in the lineup. Adkins and Patten at halves are two veterans in the lineup. Adkins and Patten at halves are two veterans and both come from Filer high school. Adkins held down a wing position last season, but has been shifted to half this year. Patten developed into a real plunging back last year and will be a hard man to handle.

New Skipper.

Powell at fullback and Reynolds at quarter are comparatively new men. Redford and Thompson will hold down the ends; Butler and Vickery, both veterans, will be at the tackles. Butler will be especially remembered as the running mate for Hawley on last season's team. He is a moose in size and makes a line all by himself. Parks and Hessley at guards are men with experience and Reynolds at center complete Coach Jacobsen's forward wall.

The season ticket sale has been better than was expected by the managers and they have decided to place the remaining tickets on sale at the gate Friday at a reduced price, allowing for the game played last Friday. The game is called at 3:30 p. m.

AVER ACCUSED YOUTH INSANE

Parents and Other Relatives Testify Everett Norris, Forger Suspect, of Unsound Mind.

Parents and other relatives and acquaintances of Everett Norris of Buhl, 22 years old, who is accused of forgery in connection with alleged issuance of a bad check, testified in district court here Wednesday in an effort to prove that the accused man is defective mentally and irresponsible.

Testimony of a number of additional witnesses for the defense will be introduced today, it was stated by E. V. Larson, defense attorney, when court recessed Wednesday evening.

Father on Stand.

Thomas Norris, father of the defendant, on the witness stand Wednesday referred to two instances which in his opinion indicated that his son was of unsound mind.

On one occasion, Norris said, Everett complained of suffering from the heat while working. The father said that he advised the boy not to work so hard, but Everett, he said, replied that the harder he worked the less he felt the heat.

On another occasion, Norris testified, Everett insisted that his father pay a debt of $4 to a man who owed Everett $14 for labor prior to the employer's settlement with the boy. The father indicated that he considered his son's demand on that occasion an unreasonable one.

Other witnesses testified that young Norris had displayed strong disposition to avoid companionship of other persons and when brought into controversy with other persons his disposition was to avoid such persons thereafter.

Statement was made by one witness that young Norris had enlisted in the army about five years ago after confiding in the witness that he had been associated with other persons, whose names he refused to divulge, in a burglary.

Specific Charge.

Everett Norris is charged specifically with issuance of a check for $7.30 bearing signature of D. K. Frost that is alleged to have been forged. The check bears date of July 29, last. It is said to have been cashed for Norris at the Riley millinery store in Twin Falls.

Selection of the jury in the case was completed in the forenoon Wednesday and the state's case was presented with testimony of J. A. Keefer, cashier of the Twin Falls National bank; D. K. Frost, proprietor of a public market; Anna Nelson, milliner; Sheriff M. E. Finch and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Jones.

Defense witnesses Wednesday were Monroe Hyder, Mrs. Sarah Norris, Dr. F. W. McManus, Henry Norris, O. D. Sanford, W. L. Norris and Tom Norris.

Members of the jury were J. H. Swan, A. C. Burkhalter, D. D. Ryan, H. E. Rounds, W. H. Wright, William Baker, B. A. Graham, C. H. Stinson, George D. Saylers, L. I. Benoit, Ed. Kluender, G. H. Self.

PERSHING DECLINES

"I am compelled to deny myself the opportunity for an honor that might well crown the career of any soldier," writes General Pershing to a post of the American Legion which was urging on him the leadship of the Legion.

"I am not a candidate for the office, and have not authorized the use of my name in that connection. I shall be content to serve in the ranks. Because of important work that I have on hand at present, it would not be possible for me to give the exclusive attention to this task which efficient leadership demands."

This sount sufficiently definite and decided. Nevertheless there is a strong demand in many quarters for Pershing in that important position. It is just possible that the urgency of the requests from friends and admirers may yet cause him to change his mind. If not, it is to be hoped that the Legion may be able to find someone as well fitted. And it is something for Pershing to remember that he was offered by others and denied to himself "the opportunity for an honor that might well crown the career of any soldier."

SILK PRICE CONTROL

The Japanese government, it is said, plans to subsidize the silk producers to enable them to withhold their product from the market when necessary, and so keep the price from falling too low.

It is same such assistance as Brazil has given her coffee growers, and it suggests the governmental support given the British East Indian rubber producers in controlling market and prices. Japan is the greatest producer of raw silk, and the price has fallen more than 25 per cent in the last three years.

It is not likely, however, that Japan will go very far in this direction. For there is a trade weapon in this and other countries which is lacking so far in the case of rubber and coffee. Rayon, the artificial silk, can be used for almost any purpose the natural silk can be used for, and its quality is steadily improving. The United States can produce or buy all the rayon it wants, and has ample weaving facilities to supply its own market.

So great, in fact, is the development of this new industry that it may eventually put the silk worm out of business and drive Chinese and Japanese silk growers into some other industry.

EMPTYING THE LAKES

Nature appears to be in league with Chicago in pouring out the Great Lakes through that celebrated drainage canal. Recent geological surveys are said to show that the earth's crust in the lake region is gradually tipping toward the west, giving the water just the slope it needs for emptying where Chicago wants it.

The rate of tipping, however, is only 9 or 10 inches a century, so that it will take about 3,500 years to drain the whole system and leave Niagara Falls dry.

And by that time Chicago may have her own sewage disposal plant finished.

Mrs. W. A. Van Engelen entertained at her home on Eighth avenue north on Wednesday with a charming luncheon, complimentary to Mrs. F. C. West, who is leaving soon to make her home in Salt Lake. Places were marked for 12 at one large table featuring a color scheme of yellow in all of the decorative details. Following luncheon the afternoon was spent with needlework, conversation and music.

At the Theatres

"THE AUCTION BLOCK."

"The Auction Block," coming to the Orpheum today, is adapted from Rex Beach's famous novel of the same name by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Eleanor Boardman, who plays the leading role in the film, appears as the daughter of an ambitious mother who determines to marry her off to any man who is wealthy. As it happens, the heroine weds the son of a millionaire, but instead of appeasing the ambitions of her parents by giving her money, she refuses to take a cent of the wealthy man's millions until she reforms her husband from the drinking habit.

"THE CAT'S PAJAMAS."

Brilliant in effects and charming in story. That's "The Cat's Pajamas," which had its premiere yesterday at the Idaho theater. Betty Bronson, costarred with Ricardo Cortez, is as sweet and lovable as she's ever been. The picture, essentially dramatic, contains tremendous heart-tugs. Pathos and humor intermingle through the scenes like sunshine and rain.

"The Cat's Pajamas" closes tonight.

Badly Inflamed Varicose Veins

Relieved and Reduced by Simple Home Treatment that Must Give Relief or Money Back

No sensible person will continue to suffer from dangerous swollen veins or bunches when the new powerful yet harmless germicide called Emerald Oil can readily be obtained at any well stocked drug store.

Ask for a two ounce original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse substitutes. Use as directed and in a few days improvement will be noticed, then continue until the swollen veins are reduced to normal. It is guaranteed and is so powerful that old chronic cases of running sores or ulcers are speedily healed. All druggists are selling lots of it.—Adv.

LYDIA of the Pines

by Honoré Willsie

(© by Frederick A. Stokes Co.) WNU Service

"You take her to the window and I'll get the lemo, Kent," said Charlie.

Kent led the way to the window seat. "You're a good old sport, Lyd," he said. "Charlie'll look out for you. I gotta get back to Olga."

He returned to make peace with the pink organdie. She was very lovely and Kent was having his first flirtation. Yet before he went to sleep that night the last picture that floated before his eyes was of a thin little figure with worn mittens clasped over patched knees and a ravished child's face looking into his.

Charlie Jackson sat out two whole dances with Lydia. Their talk was of Adam and of fishing. Lydia longed to talk about Indians with him but didn't dare. Promptly at ten, Amos appeared at the front door.

Lydia's first party was over. Amos and old Lizzie were charmed with Lydia's description of it and were sure she had had a wonderful time. But Lydia felt that the dress had made of the party a hideous failure. She knew now that she was marked among her mates as a poverty-stricken little dowd whom popular boys like Kent and Charlie pitied.

And yet because life is as kind to us as we have the intelligence to let it be, it was out of the party that grew slowly a new resolve of Lydia's—to have some day as pretty hands and as well-shod feet as Olga and Hilda and Cissy, to learn how to make her dresses so that even the composing of an organdie might not be beyond her.

John Levine was running for sheriff on the Republican ticket. He was elected early in April by a comfortable majority and invited Amos and Lydia to a fine Sunday dinner in celebration at the best hotel in town.

Lydia's life was so different from that of any of the children that she knew, that growing into adolescence with the old bond of play disappearing, she fell back more and more on resources within herself. This did not prevent her going faithfully once a month to call on Margery Marshall. And these visits were rather pleasant than otherwise. Margery was going through the paper doll fever. Lydia always brought Florence Dombey with her and the two girls carried on an elaborate game of make-believe, the intricacies of which were entirely too much for Elvira Marshall, sitting within earshot.

Amos' garden was a thing of beauty. Its trim rows of vegetables were bordered with sunflowers, whose yellow heads vied in height with the rustling ears of corn. Amos had a general grudge toward life. He had a vague, unexpressed belief that because he was a descendant of the founders of the country, the world owed him an easy living. He had a general sense of superiority to his foreignborn neighbors and to the workmen in the plow factory.

But in his garden, all his grudges disappeared. He always felt nearer to his wife. In the garden. She, too, had been bred on a New England farm. He always felt as if the fine orderliness of the rows was for her.

Lydia greatly preferred weeding the garden to cleaning the house. Indeed the contrast between the fine garden, the well kept patch of lawn and the disorderly house was startling.

One afternoon in August, clad in her bathing suit, now much too small for her, she was working in the garden, when a voice behind her grunted: "Eat!"

Lydia jumped and turned. The old squaw of two years before stood begging. She was as pitifully thin as ever. As she stared at the ugly old Indian, Lydia's throat tightened. She seemed to feel baby Patience's fingers clinging to hers in fear.

"Want some vegetables?" she asked, motioning toward the garden.

The squaw nodded eagerly and held up the dirty apron she was wearing. Lydia began slowly to fill it, talking as she worked.

"Where do you live?" she asked.

"But that's twenty miles. It must take you a long time to walk it. Poor thing!"

The squaw shrugged her shoulders. Lydia stared at the toothless, trembling old mouth, hideous with wrinkles, then at the gnarled and shaking old hands.

"Haven't you anyone to take care of you?"

"All sick—boy sick—man sick—girl sick. All time sick, all time nothing to eat."

"But won't some other Indian make you a garden, a little one?"

Again the squaw shrugged her shoulders. Her apron was full now. She produced a string from inside her waist and tying the apron up bag-like, she slung it over her shoulder. Then she gave Lydia a keen glance.

"Friend," she said, briefly, and turning, she tottered painfully out of the gate.

Added Beauty In an Hour

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I use a hair dressing which great experts made especially for me. It keeps my hair curly, gives it a sheen. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. Yet everyone who sees me on the stage or off marvels at my curly, glowing hair.

Now I have placed this dressing at every woman's call. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle.—If it doesn't delight you, doesn't double the beauty of your hair at once, ask for your money back.

Go try it now. It is one of the best helps I ever found for women, especially for those with bobbed hair.

JUST NEVER SAW SUCH A CHANGE IN A PERSON

That's What Pocatello Man's Friends Tell Him Since Karnak Has Rid Him Of 20 Years Stomach Misery And Built Him Up From 143 to 181 Pounds.

"Twenty years of stomach trouble brought me to the point where I had to live on milk and crackers for months, and I lost weight and strength till my feet and legs would hardly hold me up, and now that Karnak has built me up from 143 to 181 pounds and put me in the pink of condition you bet I'm one hundred per cent for it," declares C. W. Holloway, of 341 N. Main St., Pocatello, Idaho.

"As sure as I ate anything gas would form and cause pains through my stomach like pins sticking me," continues Mr. Holloway. "I had heartburn so bad it seemed like it was on fire, my mouth felt scalded, and stomach cramps would almost double me up at times.

"My back felt so sore and achy in the region of my kidneys I could hardly get up when I was down, and I had a ringing in my ears all the time and often became so dizzy I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. I got so weak and nervous I couldn't even drink my coffee without spilling it, and there were many days I wasn't even able to go to my work.

"I tell you I had just about lost all hope when a friend put me on to Karnak, and eight bottles of this medicine has made a well man of me. I eat anything on the table now, never have a particle of trouble with my stomach, and don't have an ache or pain in my body. I never have to miss an hour from my work now, and my friends all say they never saw such a change in a person as Karnak has made in me. Just have anybody see me about Karnak."

BABSON DISCUSSES QUESTION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES AND POLITICS

Noted Statistical Authority Declares Country Must Get Away From Expensive Primary Elections If It Would Avoid Disaster.

BABSON PARK, Sept. 21. (Special to The News)—Roger W. Babson today discussed the public utilities situation with especial reference to politics. What he says does not apply to our own community. Our public utilities have been very clean and have kept their hands off from political interference. There is something in his warning however, which should be carefully heeded.

Illinois Politics.

"The senatorial committee, consisting of Reed, LaFollette and King, has just completed its work and will soon publish its printed report. It is true that no such sums have been uncovered in connection with the Illinois senatorial contest as existed in the case of the Pennsylvania senatorial fight where millions were spent. Nevertheless, conditions exist in Illinois which are very disheartening. At the present time the committee has uncovered about $1,000,000 which was spent in connection with the senatorial primaries in Illinois. The amounts spent for each candidate are approximately as follows:

Frank L. Smith	$290,000
William B. McKinley	355,000
Deneen County Ticket	130,000
Crowe Barrett Ticket	170,000
George E. Brennan	20,000

If the United States of America is to be a success, and if we are to avoid such a turnover as Russia has experienced, we must get away from such expensive primary elections. Nothing will so elicit radicalism as the feeling that only a wealthy man can be elected to office or that the vested and capitalistic interests of the country control elections. Every business man and investor is anxious to avoid any such disasters as have wrecked Russia and are now threatening other European countries. Furthermore, we do not wish to turn, in this country, to any such solution as has been resorted to in Italy, Spain and other countries, namely, the use of a dictator. In order to avoid such catastrophes, however, it is absolutely necessary to have a primary election where an honest poor man has a chance and where money is not the controlling factor.

Public Utility Contribution.

"My purpose is not to discuss the question in its broad sense, but rather in its relation to public utilities. The troubles which the railroads suffered for a period of 20 years started with their meddling into politics. The politicians later meddling with the railroads was merely a reaction of the railroads meddling with the politicians. It may temporarily be safe for a corporation to be in politics when it is betting on the winner; but when it bets on the loser, which it ultimately always does, there follow great difficulties. The street railways were enriched with political graft, contributions, etc., and they reaped a tremendous amount of trouble therefrom. Learning the lesson from the railroads and street railways, most power and light companies have thus far kept themselves very clean and have refused to get mixed up into local politics. Instead of spending money on local politicians, they have spent money on selling customer ownership stock which has been a far better policy.

"It is understood that the above mentioned senatorial committee report will show that the public utilities for Cook county, Illinois, unfortunately have made a great mistake. The following are reported as contributing to Smith's campaign:

Samuel Insull	$125,000
Ira C. Copley	25,000
Clement Studebaker	20,000
Allen F. Moore, Smith manager	75,000
Frank L. Smith, himself	45,000
Daniel Schuyler, Insull lawyer	2,500
Julius Johnson, Sec. Ill Com. Com.	500
From other sources	2,500

"The companies controlled by these men practically dominate their field in Illinois. Mr. Insull is head of the Commonwealth Edison company, which furnishes electricity for the city of Chicago, the People's Gas, Light and Coke company, which owns the gas monopoly of Chicago, and the Elevated Railways, which furnish the only rapid transit of the city with the exception of the steam roads. The Northern Public Utilities and the Central Illinois Public Service companies are also Insull properties. Copley and Studebaker are also deeply involved in public utilities.

"Frank L. Smith was running against Senator McKinley in the recent primary in which Senator McKinley was defeated. Some time ago, it is reported, Senator McKinley sold his public utilities properties to Clement Studebaker, a man whose name appears in the above mentioned list. This would account for Studebaker's connections with the McKinley fight. Samuel Insull, who is probably the greatest utility operator in the world, also has doubtless good reasons for making his contributions. I criticize none of these men personally for I might have done the same thing under the same circumstances. I merely emphasize the fact that over two-thirds of the contributions on both sides of this campaign came from people interested in public utilities. Irrespective of its effect on the future of democracy, I say it is very dangerous for public utility investors.

Insull and Studebaker Properties.

"The company under the control of Clement Studebaker is the Illinois Power and Light corporation which includes very valuable power and light plants, street railway companies in various cities, and nearly a thousand miles of interurban lines in the central part of Illinois, which assets running into millions of dollars. The other member of the trio, Ira C. Copley of Aurora, controls the utilities that serve the Fox River valley. The population of Illinois is a little more than 7,000,000, and the companies that these men represent have a monopoly in their field upon the service of more than 4,500,000 of this population. The sinister fact about all this is that Colonel Frank L. Smith nominated at the republican primaries for United States senator, is chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, which has supervision of the public utilities controlled by the three utility magnates.

"Mr. Insull, apparently contributed funds to George Brennan, democratic aspirant to the senatorship, and the Deneen and Crowe Barrett factions of the republican party in Chicago. Senator Reed, in commenting upon this, remarked: 'This public utility giver played to kind on both feet.' The American people have always suspected campaign givers who were generous with money to all parties. When Jay Gould did this sort of thing more than 30 years ago the practice was denounced as corrupting and demoralizing. The Illinois commerce commission ought to be interested in the expenditures of utilities which it supervises. How can Colonel Smith initiate investigations when he himself is the chief beneficiary of the money spent in campaign contributions? In order that readers may not think that I am prejudiced in this matter let me call attention to the following language used by the grand jury: 'Evidence of gross and flagrant violations of the election law have been produced before us and it appears that in some of the wards of Chicago the right of franchise has almost been lost because judges and clerks of elections made no count of the votes cast and made official returns without reference to the votes cast.'

Effect of National Affairs

"In view of the unfortunate effect this is bound to have on the nation as a whole and public utilities in general, I must call attention to the real root of the trouble. This is that no kind of legislation will make people honest. We hail the primary as a solution of our election troubles, but these troubles still exist; we hailed prohibition as a solution of the liquor problem, but the liquor problem still exists, and so it goes. Our personal, industrial, national and international problems are solved only as the hearts of people are changed. It is true that men create values, but it must be remembered that souls create men. The security for our investment depends on a pure and stable democracy, which in turn depends upon a righteous people. When a public utility or any other corporation does such things as are herein related it is undermining the whole structure so that it may some day tumble and destroy us all.

"I am often asked what makes the Babsonchart of business conditions, which now registers at 13 per cent above normal, go up and down. My first answer is that it is because there is a movement in check transactions, railroad earnings, crop movement, business failures, foreign trade and the various other things which go in to make up the Babsonchart. The truth is, however, that these are mere indicators of business which have no more to do with making business good or bad than has a thermometer with making the room hot or cold. The movements of the Babsonchart are determined by the changes in the desires, the motives and hearts of the people. Every panic has been due either to a disregard of the ten commandments or the multiplication table. Such acts as have happened in Illinois politics may not only react disastrously on the public utilities of the country, but also on business as a whole."

WHEAT VALUES GET BIG LIFT

Active Buying on Unfavorable Crop and Harvest News Results in Upward Swing.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. (AP)—Active buying together with waning of pressure to sell, gave a decided lift today to the wheat market here. Signs pointed to probable nearly all-around sealing down of crop estimates in Europe. Closing quotations of wheat were strong, 1 5-8c to 2 3-8c net higher; corn finished 7-8c to 2 1-4c up, oats showing 1-8c to 2 3-8c decline and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 37c.

According to current reports, a general downward revision of crop estimates is looked for in Germany, Poland, Roumania and Austria, as well as quite likely in Russia, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia. Meanwhile the crop movement in Canada continues laggard with today's arrival at Winnipeg totaling but 1291 cars against 1717 last week and 2357 a year ago. In addition it was officially announced that exports of domestic wheat and flour since July 1 have aggregated 1,000,000 bushels a day, an amount far in excess of previous unofficial figures.

Unfavorable Reports.

Complaints of delay to domestic winter wheat plowing and seeding attracted considerable notice and the wheat market was also more or less influenced by wet weather and crop damage reports that strengthened the value of corn. In addition, Minneapolis advised of a better flour demand as well as of increasing reports of wheat being damaged by sprouting in shock. Cash wheat prices held strong, the percentage of good wheat being small. Primary receipts of wheat today were 1,554,000 bushels, compared with 1,088,000 bushels a year back

Although corn prices were lower early, there was a subsequent rapid advance. The effect of moist weather over part of the corn belt was emphasized by a forecast of unsettled conditions and by crop damage news, especially from Missouri.

Provisions reflected the action of grain.

MARKET NERVOUS DUE TO MONEY SITUATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 29. (AP)—The stock market presented a spotty appearance today, with closing quotations irregularly lower. Extreme nervousness over the money situation was again apparent, due to the marking up of the call money rate from 5 1-4 to 5 1-2 per cent and the stiffening of the charge on the longer time loans and commercial paper. With directors of the federal reserve bank of New York holding their regular weekly meeting after the close of the market tomorrow, there was a rather general tendency to unload stocks in anticipation of a possible increase in the rediscount rate.

The day's business news was largely constructive. The chief development of the day was the raising of the regular dividend on the common stock of the Baltimore & Ohio from $5 to $6 which was announced after the market closed. The weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the sustained activity of the industry and the prospects of a good fourth quarter, but this was offset, in part, by the drop in the prices of heavy melting steel in the Chicago district. United States Steel common closed nearly a point lower at 148 1-8 after having sold close to the 150 mark earlier in the session.

100 LOSE LIVES IN FOREST FIRES

Death List Smaller Than Usual, Although Season Is Worst in 15 Years.

SPOKANE, Sept. 29 (AP).—Warfare engaging legions of fighters, costing thousands of dollars daily for its maintenance and leaving in its wake losses of millions, has been waged for weeks through the forests of western United States.

The fight has continued on a hundred fronts, with now and then a gain here or a loss there, but millions of acres of the ally that would have decided the battle definitely—a general heavy rainfall.

Most Serious Since 1910.

The fire menace was more serious the last season than any time since the great fires of 1910 in the Pacific Northwest, when vast areas of valuable timber were destroyed and a hundred lives were lost. Fatalities this year have been small in number, although hundreds of acres of timber lands have been burned over.

Airplane patrols, field telephones and radio and an elaborate system of lookouts serve under ordinary circumstances to hold the fires in check, but when a general conflagration gets a start and blankets the countryside for miles with a heavy pall of smoke, the patrols are unable to detect the smoke that tells of a newly started fire.

Classes of Fires.

Forest fires are generally of three classes—ground or brush fires, trunk fires and crown fires. The former creep over the ground, burning the low growth. They may do little damage to merchantable timber, except to kill certain species of trees. Greater loss oftimes is to the young growth which would form the succeeding forest crop. Trunk fires burn along the ground and in addition run up the tree trunks, burning them so as to make the trees useless for commercial purposes. Crown fires are those that sweep through the tops of trees, jumping for hundreds of yards at a bound.

It is when the forest becomes a holocaust that the fires run uphill more rapidly than down the opposite slope, sometimes leaping from one hilltop to the next without burning the intervening valley.

GOOD BATTLE PLANE OF NECESSITY IS UNSAFE

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 29 (AP).—A good battle plane is necessarily an unsafe plane, and it is the element of danger that offers the pilot of such a ship his greatest protection in aerial battle.

Officers of the army air corps and officials of McCook field, here believe that. The primary requisites in fighting planes are speed and maneuverability. These little ships must be able to twist and turn sharply and suddenly, to follow the enemy's zigzagging, or to avoid his sudden rush from behind a cloudbank. They must be highly maneuverable.

This means that the controls must be sensitive to an extreme degree. When a pursuit pilot in battle elevates his ailerons or other control he wants immediate response. It is this sensitiveness and extreme flexibility, McCook field officers say, that makes the pursuit plane unsafe and treacherous in the hands of an inexperienced pilot. More than one death may be attributed to the fact that the pilot's experience had been almost wholly on "slow" ships, and had not developed the delicacy of touch necessary to piloting one of the "finger pressure" planes.

Building Experts To Hold Sessions

Kansas City Will Be Host on October 4 to 7 to Contractors From Many States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Convinced that public and private construction costs are now unnecessarily high, building experts from all parts of the country will meet at Kansas City October 4-7, in an effort to remedy existing conditions.

The conference, which will be under the auspices of the Associated General Contractors of America, will give special attention to the record-breaking construction activities of recent weeks, it is announced.

The following elements, among others, are cited as causing construction costs to mount unnecessarily and are scheduled for intensive consideration by the conference: Incomplete or muddled contracts; misuse of lien laws; pronounces issuance of surety bonds; construction of public works under the 8-day labor system; seasonal operations, and wasteful financing methods.

Lands in 19 States Available for Parks

Chain of State Playgrounds to Supplement National Monuments, Aim of Conference.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—A chain of state parks is the aim of the national conference on state parks, of which John Barton Payne is president.

Such a system of public playgrounds is made possible under a recent act of congress permitting the states to acquire unreserved public lands for this purpose.

Mostly In West.

A survey made by the conference shows that nineteen states have such lands, the aggregate acreage being 185,000,000 lying mainly west of the Mississippi river. Land is available, however, for parks in three southern states, Alabama, Florida and Louisiana.

The land committee of recreational survey of federal lands has made a study of specific tracts which possess features of value for local purposes. It has picked out thus far 88 units containing 2,000,000 acres, of which 39 units, embracing 1,500,000 acres, have been withdrawn from other disposal by the general land office pending action by the state concerned under the new law.

Proposed Sites.

JUDICIARY CHAIRMANSHIP CENTERS ABOUT NORRIS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP)—Whether Senator Norris of Nebraska will realize his ambition to become chairman of the powerful senate judiciary committee is regarded by many political observers in Washington as doubtful.

The Nebraskan, considered by republican regulars as a radical, is in line for the chairmanship under the seniority rule. The republican organization broke that rule, however, so as to prevent the late Senator LaFollette from succeeding to the chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee.

Senator Norris has not been in sympathy with the policies of the present or previous republican administrations. He has long advocated investigations of business combinations, and many of the independent agencies of the government. As chairman of the judiciary committee he would be in position to carry through some of the major proposals he has been advocating. A new chairman, to succeed the late Senator Cummins, must be chosen at the opening of the next session.

Some observers believe the selection will be governed in a large measure by the outcome of the November Senatorial elections. If the democrats gain control of the senate then will come interbreing after next March 4, others believe. Senator Overman of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the judiciary committee, would be elected chairman next December. Should the republicans retain control of the senate, however, the old guard of the "progressives" in order to organize the body, then many believe Senator Norris will be [illegible]

T. O. Merrill, its executive secretary, is the employe. When outside help is needed it is borrowed from the war, interior, and agricultural departments, whose secretaries make up the commission.

The commission has jurisdiction over power developments in the nation's waterways.
