JUDGE SENDS SEVEN NORTH IDAHOANS TO PENAL INSTITUTIONS

Attorney General Moves to Oust Shoshone County Officers and Mullan City Authorities in Conspiracy

(By The Associated Press)

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Dec. 31—Seven principal defendants in the Mullan "whiskey rebellion case" today appearing before Federal Judge J. Stanley Webster, said that they considered an appeal from their convictions for conspiracy would be hopeless, and were sentenced to prison.

Mayor Arthur Harwood, Mullan, four village trustees, Chief of Police P. O. Welch and Policeman H. Morphy, those who appeared, had been sentenced this morning, following conviction with 17 others of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. Some of them will serve terms in the county jail, and for others the judge ordered commitments to McNeil Island federal prison.

"I consider an appeal hopeless," said Welch. "I worked my best for the city and never accepted a dime in graft money. I will begin serving my time at once in the penitentiary."

His allusion was to the defense contention that although the city accepted "donations" from saloon keepers and proprietors of various vicious resorts, the money was used for legitimate civic purposes. The government retorted in the trial that Mullan merely licensed liquor and vice.

Sheriff Out On Bond

Sheriff R. E. Weniger and his deputy, Charles Bloom, are still out on $5000 bonds. The attorney general of Idaho acted to remove the Shoshone county officers and the Mullan officers from their positions if they did not resign.

"I am still sheriff of Shoshone county," Weniger said today.

Before Chief Welch appeared to be committed to prison, Mullan citizens were reported raising a $3300 appeal bond for him.

The sentences included:

Sheriff Weniger, two years in federal prison and $1000 fine; Deputy Sheriff Charles Bloom, 15 months; Chief of Police Welch, 15 months; Policeman Morphy, a year and a day; Mayor Harwood, 18 months and $1000 fine.

George Houston, trustee, 15 months; Henry Foss, trustee, 10 months; Charles Ristau, trustee, 10 months; John Wheatley, trustee, 15 months.

Judge Webster condemned bitterly the conditions prevailing at the little mining town of Mullan during the "license system." He spoke of the difficulty a good house wife would have in raising children there, when the officers responsible for upholding the law were themselves breaking it.

"Why, a good woman could not go down the principal block without seeing whiskey houses, gambling houses and disorderly houses," said Judge Webster.

"Does that advance the welfare of any municipality? Is that a display of the [illegible]

Four Persons Perish in Southern Crossing Crash

GULFPORT, Miss., Dec. 31 (AP)—Four persons were killed, two were injured seriously and one was slightly hurt when their automobile was struck by a Louisville and Nashville eastbound passenger train at the Thirty-ninth avenue crossing here tonight.

Those killed were:

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH P. McNAMEE.

Their daughter, MARY, 10.

MRS. INEZ DUCKWORTH.

Boise Chamber Leader Urges Aid for Farmers

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—"Helping the farmer is the best work the chamber of commerce can do in 1930," said W. E. Graham, local merchant, chosen today as president of the Boise chamber.

C. L. Wheeler, wholesaler, and C. A. McLean, banker, were elected vice president and treasurer. Walter T. Lockwood was re-elected secretary-treasurer. They will be installed Thursday at a joint meeting of the chamber and the Rotary club.

Railway Company Scores In Appeal to High Court

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—The Oregon Short Line railroad today won an appeal to the state supreme court to escape payment of water assessments on the part of its right of way which passes through the Minidoka irrigation district.

The railroad brought the suit when in 1928 the district levied an assessment against the right of way. The district court approved of the assessment and the appeal followed.

The supreme court found that no water had ever been made available to the right of way and so no levy could be exacted.

1929 Places Industries And Agriculture In Harmonious Relation With Government

High Officials, Responding to Customary Call For New Year's Statements on Outlooks for Prosperity, Express Optimism

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31—Economic records of 1929 completed tonight revealed a year in which the national government, through manifold agencies was drawn to more intimate association with and participation in the nation's industrial, commercial and agricultural life activity than has ever been effected in any peace-time era.

Higher officials who responded to the customary call for New Year's statements on outlook for American prosperity in 1930 spoke in the light of [illegible] unusually close and persistent experience with developments of the business world, and found reason for basic optimism.

Secretary Mellon, prefacing his statement with a mention of the inevitable hazards of economic prophesy, declared that he could "see nothing in a present situation that is either menacing or warrants pessimism." Some seasonal slackness in winter months might be possible in trade and commerce, he said, but hardly more than ordinary.

"I have every confidence that there will be a revival of activity in the spring and that during the coming year the country will make steady progress," he continued. "In the credit

HOOVER CONSIDERS IDAHOAN FOR POST

Friends of William E. Lee, Moscow, Seek Appointment to Commerce Commission

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—While one jurist, Robert M. Jones, Tennessee, was seeking to avoid service on the interstate commerce commission today, the friends of another, William E. Lee, Moscow, Idaho, were urging his appointment to that government agency.

In a statement at his home in Knoxville, Chancellor Jones—whose nomination has been held up in the senate on objection of Senator Black, Alabama—said he did not wish to serve because he would have to make decisions which would be attacked in some sections of the country.

He has not yet communicated to the president his decision against serving on the commission and consequently there was no statement at the White House. Should he insist that his name not be considered further by the senate, his nomination probably would be withdrawn.

Friends of Chief Justice Lee of the Idaho supreme court were hopeful that he would be selected from the dozen or more men whose names have been advanced for the post made vacant by the resignation of Johnston B. Campbell, effective January 5. Justice Lee is under serious consideration.

COMPLETE SURPRISE TO IDAHOANS AND JUSTICE

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—Report that William E. Lee, justice on the Idaho supreme court, was being given "serious consideration" by President Hoover for appointment to the interstate commerce commission, came as a complete surprise to Idahoans today, including the justice.

Justice Lee said his first notification of the action of the Idaho delegation in

GAIETY REIGNS AT LAST 1929 EXCHANGE SESSION

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—With customary whoopee, the New York stock exchange today said goodbye to interim 1929.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock this afternoon, a negro military band played jazz tunes on a platform erected over two of the trading posts on the floor. Business proceeded as usual, but crowds in the gallery dumped miles of ticker tape and bushels of confetti on the heads of the traders, who now and then stopped work to yell and pin colored paper streamers on each others' coat tails.

The curb market also made merry with music and mummery, cheering the passage of the old trading year as the closing gong sounded.

CANADIANS PREPARE FOR HOP TO OUTPOST

With Improved Visibility Dominion Fliers Perfect Plan to Hunt for Eielson

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 31 (AP)—With the visibility improving, although the temperature had not modified, the Canadian fliers, who will search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, missing since November 9 between Teller and North Cape, Siberia, today were preparing for a New Year's day hop to Nome.

The third ship was tested today and all three are now ready for the trip across the 400 miles of snow-covered waste. They will stay in Nome but a short while, going from there to Teller, their base until they fly to the fur-trading vessel Nanuk, frozen in the ice off North Cape.

Although Captain Pat Reid said yesterday that two of the Fairchild cabin planes would fly to Nome today regardless of weather or visibility, they did not get off. A few minor adjustments for the ships were needed before the four men could leave here.

All three planes are ready but it was not planned for them to go to Nome together. Matt Nieminen, who flew from Nome to Fairbanks to handle the controls of one of the Fairchilds, is planning on leaving on the return trip Thursday.

Reports that a 60-mile-an-hour gale was sweeping out of the north around Nome did not worry the Canadians here as they all insisted that their ships are capable of conquering the wind. Nieminen and meager radio reports from Nome said the field here was ready for landing.

Newspaper in Berlin Carries New Year's Message From Borah

BERLIN, Dec. 31 (AP)—A New Year's message to the German people from United States Senator William E. Borah was published in the National Zeitung today.

The message read:

"We are hopeful that the peace pact through human sincerity and courage in international matters will result in a permanent fixture and that disarmament which we are championing will be realized. We hope for greater confidence among the nations in the power of public opinion and less confidence in the power of might. We hope that worldly fortune may not only remain the privilege of the few but find a way to the poor of this world."

HOUSE MEMBERSHIP INCREASES IN IDAHO

Twin Falls County Delegation to Lower Chamber Rises One to Total Four

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—The house in the next Idaho legislature will consist of 70 members, an increase of 11 members over last session, a report compiled by the secretary of state today revealed. The apportionment is based on the vote cast at the general election.

Five of the new members will come from North Idaho counties, one each from Bonner, Idaho, Kootenai, Latah, and Nez Perce.

In southern Idaho, Ada county increases the allotment by two to a total of [illegible]; Bannock by one to a total of four; Canyon by one to total four; Twin Falls by one to total four, and Fremont one to a total of two.

72 Boys and Girls Perish in Scottish City Theatre Panic Following Shriek of "Fire"

Ominous, Unwarranted Shout Causes Bedlam in Showhouse as 750 Children Fight To Gain Exit and Small and Weak Fall

(By The Associated Press)

PAISLEY, Scotland, Dec. 31—Seventy-two small boys and girls of this Scottish mill town were killed and four score others were injured in a panic which followed a cry of "fire" in a moving picture theatre here late this afternoon. It was a black New Year's eve for this murky community.

The children came from working class families. They crowded into the 750-seat theatre singing and dancing and excited over the prospect of thus spending their "Hog-Ma-Nay," the traditional Scottish New Year's treat which outshines Christmas north of the Tweed.

But in a few minutes their gay laughter had given way to shrieks of terror and agony, a wisp of smoke had come out of the projection box of the theatre. Some one cried "fire!" and in an instant the hundreds of youngsters were scratching and scrambling over each other in an effort to get out of what proved to be a death trap.

The catastrophe quickly became a combined reproduction of the 1903 Iroquois theatre fire in Chicago and the panic at a miner's Christmas party in Calumet, Michigan, 10 years later. Like the Chicago affair, many of today's victims perished through inhalation of

POETRY AND MUSIC SEND SCULPTRESS TO REWARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Some poetry, a little music, a few friends gathered around, no preacher.

Friends of Tennessee Mitchell Anderson, the sculptress, remembered this wish and saw that it was carried out today while she lay in a simple gray casket in a small chapel.

Eunice Tietjens, poet, read Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," and Mathew Arnold's "Requiescat." Violins were played. Roses, lilies, peonies and blue larkspur covered the casket and a copy of Raphael's Madonna and Child hung over it.

Mrs. Anderson was alone when she died last week in her studio apartment. A sister, Mrs. Joseph Deck, Clifton, Arizona, said the body will be cremated. That too, was a wish of the artist.

BORAH AND HOOVER EXCHANGE LETTERS

Mystery Attends Communications and Challenges Washington's Curiosity

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The mystery attending an exchange of correspondence between President Hoover and Senator Borah over prohibition enforcement challenged Washington curiosity tonight in the lack of any more breaks anent rigid prosecution of Volstead violations.

Both the president and the Idaho senator refrained from discussing their letters. The last public announcement concerning them was had at the White House yesterday, with word that Borah had written to Hoover.

Reports that the president answered today could not be confirmed. The White House personnel declined to say whether such a letter had been written or not, and the Idaho senator took the same position.

Mr. Hoover initiated the letter writing. To date the views exchanged have been carefully guarded, with reports as to the contents widely varied. Borah has maintained that the "dry" laws never would be enforced by the present personnel "from top to bottom," and it has been assumed that his written expressions to Hoover dealt with that topic.

Iowa Reiterates Demand

Meanwhile Senator Brookhart, Iowa, another Republican "dry," reiterated his demand for the resignation of Secretary Mellon and announced he was going to have much to say when the senate met.

Members of the Hoover law enforcement commission began returning to the capital and the word went out that there still was work to be done on the preliminary report which has been promised. Word also was heard at the capitol that conflict exists within the commission over enforcement of prohibition. Another report said the com-

BROTHER OF CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT DIES

Charles P. Taft, 86, Cincinnati Publisher and Philanthropist, Succumbs

CINCINNATI, Dec. 31 (AP)—Charles P. Taft, 86, Cincinnati publisher and philanthropist, died at his home here tonight.

Mr. Taft, a half-brother of William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, had been unconscious the past three days, suffering from the infirmities of old age.

A year and a half ago he was stricken with pneumonia at his summer home at Murray Bay, Quebec, and never fully recovered from that illness.

Mr. Taft was internationally known for his philanthropies and contributions to art, education and the development of modern journalism.

Revered by All

His sickness was known only to intimate friends, and the Cincinnati public, which revered him, knew nothing of the anxious moments of the last three days when he hovered between life and death.

Born here in 1843, Mr. Taft gave a lifetime to the upbuilding of the city. In every corner of Cincinnati his influence was felt and the internationally known institutions of the city, such as the May festival, Cincinnati orchestra and zoological gardens were indebted largely to him for their existence and prosperity. There is hardly a major institution of the city in which he was not actively interested.

As publisher of the Cincinnati Times Star, he developed one of the most powerful Republican organs in the Ohio valley.

CRASH ON CROSSING IN TWIN FALLS ENDS TWO YOUTHS' LIVES

Cloyd Curry, 22, Meets Instant Death Under Pilot Wheels of Locomotive, and E. Wonenberg Succumbs

Two young men met death when a westbound Oregon Short Line passenger train struck a motor truck in which they were hauling beet pulp on the Locust street crossing at the southeast corner of Twin Falls at 11:42 A. M. yesterday.

Cloyd Curry, 22, was thrown under the pilot wheels and decapitated.

Emil Wonenberg, 10, was hurled clear of the wreckage and, suffering from severe cerebral concussion and fracture of the right thigh, was taken to the county general hospital here where he died at 4 P. M., without regaining consciousness.

Both young men were employed by W. E. Nicholson on his farm, three miles west and a half mile north of Filer.

Cloyd Curry, son of Clyde Curry, Hamilton, Montana, and a relative of Mrs. Nicholson, had made his home with the Nicholsons most of the time for about four years. Word received last evening was that his father would leave at once to arrive here probably next Thursday. Cloyd Curry was one of three children, the surviving children being a sister, Mrs. Walter Bothe, and a younger brother, Robert Curry, both of Hamilton.

Born In Canada

Emil Wonenberg was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wonenberg, 628 Fourth avenue north, residents of Twin Falls for six years past. He had been employed on the Nicholson farm during the summer and returned to work there last Friday. The family came here from Alberta, Canada, where Emil was born on September 1, 1910. Other children are David Wonenberg, 21, who had been [illegible] the Nicholson farm for some months, and two sisters, [illegible] Wonenberg and Irene Wonenberg, all of Twin Falls.

Engineer William Dean, veteran engineer who piloted the locomotive that struck the truck, there were last evening no eye-witnesses to the tragic accident.

Investigation in which Oregon Short Line officials at Pocatello will take the lead, will be held in Twin Falls, and opinion was expressed that the investigation would be held here sometime today.

It is improbable that a coroner's inquest will be held, Coroner F. F. Drake said last evening.

The coroner will be invited to attend and take part in the railroad's investigation, railroad men here said last evening.

There was general agreement among passengers on the train yesterday that the locomotive whistle had been sounded on approaching the crossing.

"I saw the truck coming toward the crossing," Engineer Dean said here yesterday. "I thought it would stop—but it didn't, and we struck it in spite of all we could do."

The train was brought to a halt near the crossing.

Passengers assisted in carrying the body of Curry into the baggage car. The head, severed from the body, was found on the locomotive tender, it was reported. The coroner met the train at the station here and took the body to a mortuary.

A passing motorist, accompanied by two of the passengers who left the train for that purpose, took Wonenberg to the hospital, where Dr. H. N. Leete, Oregon Short Line physician here, was called to attend him.

Identification Difficult

Difficulty was experienced in identifying the accident victims and there was some delay while ownership of the truck was traced to Nicholson by means of the license plates. The identification was not made positive until Mr. Nicholson arrived at the hospital at the end of a hurried drive from his home.

The truck, loaded with beet pulp, was traveling toward the north, and was struck on the right side, apparently just back of the front wheels, by the westbound train.

Curry, who is believed to have been driving the truck, apparently was thrown out of his seat and onto the rails in front of the locomotive.

Wonenberg was hurled to one side of the rails, and was unmarked, except for a scratch over the eye and bruise under the right ear.

The truck was turned around so that the wreckage of what had been the motor was turned to the south.

The bodies of the two young men rested last evening at the Drake funeral parlors here.

No arrangements had been made for funeral services.

COMMITTEE RATIFIES INCREASED ROAD AID

Passage of Bill Providing For $600,000 Additional Fund for Idaho Must Wait

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—The house roads committee has voted approval of additional federal aid for state highways in a sum that, if adopted, will mean adding more than $600,000 to Idaho's allotment, the department of public works was advised today.

The committee recommended passage of a bill providing an enlarged federal aid program which would expand the appropriation to $125,000,000 from its present level of $75,000,000. The appropriation would become effective during the next fiscal year.

The committee report made mention of the Colton bill which in addition would add considerably to the present appropriation for forest highways and benefit Idaho by several hundred thousand dollars.

In its report the committee said:

"The several state highway commissioners who appeared before the committee testified that the appropriations by the federal government are not in keeping with the appropriations by the several states, and that the road program is not keeping pace with the demand made by the increased users of the roads."

mission had some complaints that politics had intervened in the enforcement machinery.

Senator Jones, Washington, Republican "dry" chieftain, made known that he would have another statement shortly. He has been conferring with the commission and has urged the Drys to stand united behind the president.

There was a general belief at the capital that Senator Borah, in response to a written inquiry from the president, had submitted to the White House his proposals to remedy some of the evils of which he has complained.

At their conference last week, it was understood that Senator Borah urged the president to move against a number of district attorneys and had demanded their resignations as the first step in a cleanup. After that he issued a statement asserting there were "open saloons" running in city after city and that the alcohol permit system administration constituted a "scandal." The Idahoan has gone unchallenged by the Hoover "dry" forces on his latest charge.

With it becoming more and more apparent that prohibition is going to be a subject of discussion, if not of legislation, after congress reconvenes, Senator Jones suggested that the department of justice press for a decision by the supreme court of the question of culpability of purchasers of liquor.

Without expressing his opinion of the bill Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, to make buyers of liquor equally guilty with sellers, Senator Jones asked that the court pass on a section of the Volstead act which mentions purchasers of intoxicants.

Club Members Celebrate Arrival of New Year On Summit of Pike's Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Dec. 31 (AP)—Red, green and yellow flares which outlined the summit of Pike's peak in vivid hues, burst over the mountain tonight, giving assurance that members of the AdAmAn club had succeeded in making the hazardous climb.

At midnight the club will welcome the New Year with a pyrotechnical display. Fourteen members of the club who started from here Monday morning spent last night in a cabin seven miles from the summit.

public spirit of good men?"

Alludes to Contentions

He was alluding to the defense contention that the mining town had always been "wide open" and that the defendants thought the impoverished village treasury might as well derive some benefit from license fees. The defendants emphasized that none of them took personal graft but they licensed liquor and vice "for the good of the town," as taxes would not meet expenses.

Women who testified they were allowed to sell liquor in vicious resorts by payment of licenses were shown mercy by the court. Two of them were supporting families or invalid husbands. One had consumption. Judge Webster fined Mona McDonald and Agnes West $1 each and sentenced Bertha Strum to serve one day in jail, saying:

"I can readily [illegible] that you are ill. Jail is no place for [illegible]."

After sentences were imposed, seven defendants appeared again before the court, saying it was "hopeless" for them to appeal, and that they were ready to begin serving sentences. They included all the Mullan trustees, the chief of police and the policeman.

Judge Webster signed papers committing them to prison.

GILLIS DEMANDS SHERIFF'S IMMEDIATE RESIGNATION

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—Attorney General W. D. Gillis, Idaho, today demanded the resignation of Sheriff R. E. Weniger, Shoshone county, so-called "arch-conspirator" in the Mullen liquor case, and advised him through his attorneys that unless he resigned the state would immediately start removal proceedings against him.

The announcement followed sentencing of Weniger and officials of the city of Mullen in Coeur d'Alene today.

The attorney general stated also that if the city officials convicted did not resign similar actions would be started against them.

The summary proceedings involved in removal call for a decision on the removal action within 20 days of its inauguration in the court. If the officials are convicted of malfeasance or non-feasance in office they are arbitrarily removed from office and fined $500.

The state's removal action will be taken regardless of whether the convicted officials appeal the case, the attorney general stated, and his office is now preparing proceedings that will be filed against officials involved in the case.

The demand that Weniger promptly submit his resignation to the Shoshone county commissioners was telephoned to Coeur d'Alene this afternoon and Weniger's attorneys said a reply would be forthcoming when they conferred with their client.

Possibility that Governor H. C. Baldridge and Attorney General Gillis would meet the county officials on a projected visit to Lewiston next Sunday and Monday was seen here though neither announced this. Both will be in Lewiston Monday for a meeting of the state forestry board, and it was considered likely that unless they called a meeting the commissioners might ask a conference with them.

indorsing him for the post came this morning about the same time the report came from Washington. Prior to this the name of J. M. Thompson, public utilities commissioner, had been most prominently mentioned.

Justice Lee declined to comment on the announcement that he had been endorsed for the place.

Justice Lee has been practicing before the Idaho bar since he was admitted in 1908. He was elected to the state supreme court in 1922 and re-elected in 1928. During this time he has served more than two years as chief justice.

He is a graduate of the University of Idaho and studied law at the University of Washington and at the National university in Washington. During this time he served for a time as [illegible] to Representative Burton L. French and as clerk in the office of Senator Bacon, Georgia.

His home is in Moscow and he served a period as a member of the Republican state central committee, but he has held no public office besides the place on the supreme court.

1929 Brings Industries And Agriculture Closer

situation the trend of money rates is downward. There is plenty of credit available and we have reason to expect that the rates for new capital in building construction and expansion will be such as to facilitate the promotion and accomplishment of new undertakings. The government's finances are in sound condition which warrants the cut in taxes and the government, itself, is in a position to do its part in helping the country to meet and solve the problems which are ahead."

Lamont Optimistic

Secretary Lamont said the "nature of the economic development of the United States is such that one may confidently predict, for the long run, a continuance of prosperity and progress."

"American business in 1929 reached higher levels than ever before, notwithstanding recessions in some lines in later months," he added. "Measured by quantities, the output of our manufacturing industries broke all previous records. A new high level was established in mineral production. Employment in manufacturing industry and wage payments were both considerably greater in 1929 than in the preceding year. Exports of American manufactured goods reached the huge total of approximately $3,250,000,000. Broadly speaking, the business history of 1929 recorded the continuation of a movement which has been substantially unbroken for an exceptionally long period."

As to the farm future the agriculture department said the new year was beginning with no depressing surpluses of good products to be worked off, although 1929 crops had been worth $65,000,000 more than those of 1928, and livestock sales in the same period [illegible] than those of 1928.

The advance of the government toward association with vital economic national process was most marked in 1929 in the agricultural field, for the [illegible] federal [illegible] with $500,000,000 of federal funds overseeing the whole of national farm product marketing.

Aside from the direct grappling with farm problems, the government's contact with business undertaken in 1929 included also the partial shaping of a new tariff policy, still uncomplete and in bitter controversy as 1930 begins. Secretary Mellon's mention of tax reduction and credit matters referred indirectly, also, to the long and action filled period of the old year when the federal reserve system faced the increasing credit strain arising from ever mounting security speculation that culminated in October and November with stock exchange depression.

After the bursting of the speculative bubble came the significant step of the government into what was historically an unprecedented role. President Hoover, in the last months of 1929, summoned the leaders of finance, transportation, commerce, agriculture and labor from all parts of the country to Washington, and with their cooperation, laid down a program of expanding capital expenditure, of instituting construction activity and of taking a series of considered steps with the announced purpose of averting economic depression. The year closed with this demonstration of governmental participation in national economic life still in progress.

72 Boys and Girls Die In Scottish Show Panic

noxious fumes and like the Calumet panic, many others met death when the rush piled children six and eight deep on a stairway.

And as the New Year's bells of Chi[illegible] were stilled after its visitation and the night winds silently fluttered the streamers of crepe on 600 homes, so Paisley tonight gave over its customary rejoicings at the passing of another year. Always gloomy under its canopy of factory smoke, the place was wrapped in a black shroud of grief and shock.

Tragedy on Screen

There was a parallel too between the households visited by death and the scene which the children had just witnessed on the screen. The feature film of the special holiday matinee had portrayed the story of "One of the Crowd." It had worked up to a big scene which showed a working-class mother and father looking out of a window just in time to see their child struck down in the street by an automobile.

The childish exclamations of sympathy which this scene evoked were interrupted by the old, old, panic signal of "fire!"

Then came bedlam. The youngsters sprang from their seats and dashed toward one of the exits in blind terror. They scrambled over the chairs, fell in aisles. They shrieked "mama," or "daddy," or "sister." They scratched each other. They fought and the younger and weaker went down under the older ones.

Up in the projection box, the assistant operator had noticed smoke coming from the case containing the film which had just been rewound. He grabbed this case and tried to carry it out of the building without alarming the audience. But it was so hot that he could not get beyond the vestibule.

There he called for the manager and between the two of them the box was thrown out a side door. Both suffered severe burns on their hands.

Manager Pleads in Vain

The smell of fumes from the film case and the commotion caused by its being thrown through the side door were what really started the panic. The children rushed to the opposite side of the theatre away from the fumes but only trapped themselves. The manager pleaded with them to come back and go out the open exit, but they did not heed him.

Instead, the terror-stricken youngsters fought to get out a door that was already jammed. They piled themselves breast high while wave after wave of carbon monoxide swept over them, asphyxiating those who were not crushed to death in the first rush.

Another section of the panic-stricken audience started down the stairway from the balcony. One of them stumbled. Others fell with him and the conditions at the jammed exit were repeated at the foot of the steps.

Word of the tragedy went through the town like wildfire. Even before the fire department and constables had reached the scene, the doors of the theatre were besieged by frantic men and women. Others came in time to see heroic rescuers, protected only by wet handkerchiefs tied across their noses and mouths as makeshift gas masks, carrying out the broken and battered bodies of their loved ones.

The ambulance service of the city was inadequate for the emergency. Tram cars were commandeered to carry a steady stream of gasping and dying victims to the Royal Alexandria Infirmary. There even experienced nurses broke down and wept.

More Mothers each year treat COLDS without "DOSING"

When Vicks VapoRub was originated, mothers especially were quick to appreciate it because there is nothing to swallow and, of course, nothing to upset children's delicate stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do.

Just rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and Vicks is the standby for colds—adults as well as children's—in over 60 countries.

To keep step with this ever-increasing demand, the famous Vick slogan has again been changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly" in the United States alone.

PROBABLE LINEUP FOR PITT-TROJAN CLASSIC

PASADENA, Dec. 31 (AP)—The probable lineup for the game between Southern California and the Pittsburgh Panthers here tomorrow afternoon is as follows:

PITTSBURGH	POSITIONS	TROJANS
Tully	left tackle	Hoff
Daugherty	center	Dye
Di Meolo	right guard	Galloway
MacMurdo	right tackle	Anthony
Collins	right end	Arbelbide
Baker	quarterback	Saunders
Walinchus	right half	Pinckert
Parkinson	fullback	Shaver

Officials—Referee, William Crowell, Swarthmore; umpire, Arthur Badenoch, Chicago; head linesman, John Eagar, Duquesne; field judge, Herbert Dunn, Nebraska.

PASADENA, Dec. 31—Down where historic Rose bowl rears its unromantic structure from a dry creek behind this city, Pittsburgh's Panthers and Southern California's Trojans will match football strength tomorrow in an intersectional classic that brings together the outstanding team of the East with one of the best in the west.

RUSSELL J. NEWLAND

Undefeated and with nine victories written into its regular season's record, Pittsburgh comes to the Far West with one of the greatest grid machines in its history. In its lineup are four players who climaxed a brilliant year by winning all-American recognition. Joe Donchess, left end, and Toby Uansa, left halfback, were named for the 1929 Associated Press first team. Ray Montgomery, right guard, and "Pug" Parkinson, fullback, took places on the second squad.

Lack Impressive Record

The Trojans, lacking the impressive record of their rivals in that they lost two games, nevertheless won nine contests and exhibited considerably more power in a point scoring way. In nine games, Pitt rolled up 277 points and allowed 43. Southern California's eleven contests netted in 445 tallies to 61 for the opposition. If comparative scores indicate anything, Pittsburgh defeated Carnegie Tech 34 to 13, while Southern California crushed the same team, 45 to 13.

Two noted coaching systems will be tested on the green turfed field. Jock Sutherland, Pitt leader, features an attack fashioned along the lines of the Glenn Warner coached Stanford team. Sutherland was a star player under Warner when the latter held the reins at Pittsburgh. The Pitt coach has followed the teachings of his old mentor although he has modified his wing-back formations.

Coach Howard Jones' hard-driving plays function with the added stimulus of deception. His Trojan ball-toters juggernaut goalward behind three and four-man interference.

Elevens Fairly Even

Man for man, the two elevens stack up on fairly even terms. Based on individual performances of the past season, the Pitt line appears the stronger. In reserves, however, and especially in the backfield, Southern California is far more formidable. Coach Jones can call out several sets of ball carriers, all practically of equal ability. Pittsburgh has less than half a dozen extra backfield men to send into the fray.

Approximately 70,000 spectators, forming the first capacity crowd since the bowl was enlarged a few years ago, will watch for expected individual duels between two ends and two backfield luminaries. Donchess' performance will be compared to the maneuvering of Southern California's brilliant flank man, Francis Tappaan. Ball lugging activities will match the squad's Uansa against the pile-driving Trojan quarterback, Russ Saunders.

Purdue Is Basket Threat

Billy Jacobs and Richardson Clash

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—Billy Jacobs, Baltimore City college, and John Richardson, Dartmouth, will fight it out tomorrow for the national junior indoor tennis championship, while Bernard Friedman, West Philadelphia high school, and Marco Hecht, DeWitt Clinton high school, New York, will battle for the boys' crown.

Playing tennis of a quality beyond his years, Jacobs easily disposed of a fellow townsman, Aaron Miller of the Clifton club, Baltimore, in one semi-final by scores of 6-0, 6-3, after which Richardson upset Donald Frame, Harvard, in a long hard match, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Friedman downed Giles Verstraten of the McBurney School at 6-1, 6-2, and Hecht eliminated B. J. N. Anderson, New York, at 6-2, 6-1.

High School Girls Will Play Alumni

The high school regular basketball girls team will meet the alumae team today at 3:30 P. M. in the gymnasium of the Twin Falls high school. The following are members of the alumnae team: Mrs. Lloyd Gilkey, class '21; Hazel Jenkins, class '25; Edith Taylor, class '26; Regna Jenkins, class '27; Phyllis Evans, class '27; Alma Rowberry, class '27; LaVonne Guttery, class '29; Harriet Martin, class '29; Fern Wirth, class '29; Dorothy Weaver, class '29.

Grid Teams Await Signal at Denver

One of Largest Football Crowds in Annals of Colorado City Will Assemble

DENVER, Dec. 31 (AP)—One of Denver's largest football crowds will watch tomorrow's all-star game between picked teams from the Rocky Mountain and North Central conferences. Fair, moderately warm weather will favor the players.

As there are 11 North Dakota university players on the North Central squad, coaches have made an agreement whereby only five men from any one school can be in the game at one time.

The lineups were announced as follows:

NORTH CENTRAL — Felber and Hiltz, ends; Austin Smith and McGrath, tackles; Nash and Magdalen, guards; MacMillan, center; Kingsbury, quarter; Gidley and Morrill, halves, and Lonsbrough, full.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN — Jensen and Ketchum, ends; Simpkins and Brotzman, tackles; Olson and Buster, guards; Jonas, center; Davis, quarter; Defrate and Thorn, halves, and Wylie, full.

Both lines average 180 pounds. The North Central backfield averages 171 pounds to the Rocky Mountain's 160.

The contest is sponsored by the Denver lodge of Elks and proceeds will be used for charity work.

Teams in Dixieland Classic Finish Work

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 31 (AP)—Gridiron stars of the Southwest and Mid-West took their final workouts today in preparation for the second annual Dixie classic here tomorrow.

Both squads used Ownby stadium, scene of the battle, for their closing drills. Coach Ray Morrison's southwest group polished up its play for the last time and then turned the field over to Jimmy Phelan and his squad. The mid-west team previously had trained at Fair Park stadium.

Judging from the number of stars on each team and the very serious manner in which they have gone about their training, tomorrow's bout promises to eclipse any similar event.

Baseball Officials Plan to Reorganize Utah-Idaho Circuit

Representatives From Salt Lake City, Ogden, Boise, Pocatello and Twin Falls Will Assemble to Confer

(By The Associated Press)

OGDEN, Dec. 31—Representatives of Twin Falls, Salt Lake City, Ogden, Boise and Pocatello will meet here Saturday night to discuss plans for reorganization of the Utah-Idaho baseball league. Idaho Falls has also been invited to send delegates.

Fred M. Nye, president of the circuit before it went out of existence, said he would attend the meeting, but in an unofficial capacity. He said he would not again accept the presidency due to his present business activities.

Plans were tentatively outlined some time ago for a four-club loop, Salt Lake City, Ogden, Pocatello and Twin Falls entering teams, but this week Ray McKaig, former president of the Boise club, indicated his intentions of attempting to again place a team in the loop and baseball fans immediately turned their attentions toward finding another club. Idaho Falls and Nampa have been mentioned as the sixth entry in the proposed league.

Occidental's Coach Becomes Association President For 1930

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31 (AP)—Coach Edward Kienholz, Occidental college, was elected president of the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain Coaches' association at the annual meeting here today. Coach E. L. Romney of the Utah state agricultural college, was named vice president, and Coach A. J. Sturzenegger, assistant at the University of California at Los Angeles, was elected secretary-treasurer. Kienholz succeeds Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California. Informal discussions of football featured the meeting.

Loyola Wins From Montanans, 38-28

Team Take Twenty-Seventh Consecutive Victory and Hold 20-10 Lead at Half

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Loyola university scored its twenty-seventh consecutive basketball triumph tonight, defeating the powerful Montana State five, 38 to 28. The western invaders with a record of three defeats in the last two seasons, were unable to get started against the Ramblers, who established a 10-to-2 lead by the middle of the opening period.

Montana spurted at the start of the second period and cut Loyola's lead to four points, but wobbled and was distanced.

The lineup:

Sharkey Refuses to Fight Griffiths In Stadium in Florida

BOSTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey tonight served notice on the Madison Square Garden corporation that the Boston heavyweight would not meet Tuffy Griffiths in Miami on February 27.

"Sharkey does not regard Griffiths as a suitable opponent," Buckley said, "and I'm sure that the match would be a financial failure. As his contract with the Madison Square Garden corporation is on a percentage basis, he believes it would not be worth his while to engage Griffiths for a small sum."

"If Sharkey is forced to accept Griffiths," Buckley continued, "he will abandon all of his Miami plans and remain idle until next summer."

Buckley said Sharkey was willing to box Victorio Campolo, the Italian heavyweight, at Miami and was certain that such a bout would be a success.

Bag Limit on Ducks Drops to 15 Birds

Secretary Hyde Announces Changes in Federal Regulations Effective in 1930

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The bag limit for ducks next year will be 15 and after a man kills four geese he will be through for the day.

Secretary Hyde announced today that the changes in federal regulations would go into effect after the present hunting season and that the possession limit would be reduced to 30 ducks and eight geese. At present the bag limit under federal law for ducks is 25 and for geese eight.

An extensive investigation by the department of agriculture which vowed that water fowl were not holding their own was a factor in the decision to reduce the limit as were representations made by conservative agencies and sportsmen's organizations.

Blame for the decrease in the number of wild fowl was placed largely upon the elimination by reclamation of former breeding grounds in the Northwest states and Canada.

Coaches Name Men To Start in Annual East-West Contest

Two Football Teams Participate in Light Workouts in Final Preparations for Kezar Stadium Clash

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31—With starting lineups for both teams tentatively decided upon, football squads of East and West went through light workouts today in final preparation for the annual all star battle here tomorrow at Kezar stadium.

Coach Percy Locey sent his Western stars through their paces at St. Mary's college in the Moraga valley, while Andy Kerr's Easterners trotted through formations on one of Stanford university's practice fields. Both teams spent a quiet New Year's eve and will not invade San Francisco until just before game time.

Although the West has a slight edge in condition, practically every one of the 44 players comprising the two squads is in shape. Tomorrow's fray will be the fifth annual renewal of the benefit game for patients in the Shriners' hospital here for crippled children.

The lineup:

EAST		WEST
Twomey, Notre Dame	left tackle	Richards, Nebraska
Cannon, Notre Dame	left guard	Schwarz, California
Cox, Colgate	center	Riegels, California
Gordon, Illinois	right guard	Brombelow, Texas Christian

Chicago Gets Track And Field Contests

National Collegiate Association Council Meets to Approve Meet Dates

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—Clearing the ground for the fireworks that are expected to develop tomorrow, the National Collegiate Athletic association council today met, approved of 1930 dates and locations, disposed of routine business and adjourned.

Chicago was awarded the 1930 track and field meet, the date to be decided upon later; Harvard was named as the location for the swimming meet, March 28 and 29; while the wrestling tournament went to Penn State on the same dates.

Today's session of the council was merely preliminary to the twenty-fourth annual convention tomorrow, at which time Brigadier General Palmer E. Pierce, president, will step down from the presiding chair for the first time. Either Charles W. Kennedy, Princeton, or Dean S. V. Sanford, Georgia, for nine years president of the Southern conference, is expected to succeed Brigadier General Palmer.

Mountain Home's Hoop Teams Win Two Contests

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho, Dec. 31 (AP)—Local high school boys' and girls' basketball teams scored victories in a double-header contest here tonight with teams from Glenns Ferry high. The boys won, 36 to 16, and the girls, 52 to 26.

A YEAR IN REVIEW

Advent of the New Year, as usual, brings a retrospective glance over the year just closed, and there is in such a review a great deal of gratification and encouragement for friends of the Twin Falls country.

The record of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Nine is one of substantial progress in the Twin Falls country.

Standards by which progress is measured are changing more rapidly now, perhaps, than ever before.

Ownership and operation of motor vehicles is to be regarded as one of these newer standards, and the record will show that the Twin Falls country has not lagged behind in this respect.

Home ownership is one of the older standards for measurement of progress, and in this regard also the Twin Falls country has kept pace. New homes have been built, and homes previously built have been repaired and improved to an unprecedented extent.

Business conditions, on the whole, have been satisfactory throughout the Twin Falls country during the past year, and the Holidays have witnessed a degree of business activity that reflects accurately the financial security of this region.

Outstanding among the developments of the year in the Twin Falls country has been the situation with respect to marketing of crops. Harvests of all crops have been abundant, but the significant fact is that some of the major crops—notably beans and potatoes—have been marketed in lesser volume than usual. Great quantities of these crops remain in storage in control of the growers.

At the same time there has been no marked financial stringency in this region. Other crops, fruits and beets, have been marketed to advantage, supplying funds for maintenance of business as usual; while proof is afforded of continued advance in the movement which several years ago began to put Twin Falls country's farms on a basis where revenue from crops represents profits over and above living and operations costs that are met entirely in large part by proceeds of the dairy, or poultry, or fruit or vegetable growing.

There is in the picture, everything to justify implicit confidence in the continued forward march of the Twin Falls country.

THE PERSECUTED EDUCATOR

A good educator, when he is persecuted, attracts attention far beyond his own sphere. Thus many million Americans have been interested in the controversy raging around the head of William McAndrew, former superintendent of the Chicago public schools. There is general satisfaction now in his legal vindication.

The court finds that the superintendent was not insubordinate. The charge of being "disloyal and pro-British" was ruled out because Mr. McAndrew had never been given legal notice of it. It was hardly necessary, however, to determine that point. Nearly everybody concerned is glad to forget it.

"No doubt," observes the Chicago News, "Mr. McAndrew was bored by the celebrated case of which he was made the central figure by politicians who mistook their own stupidness for cleverness. No doubt he was too busy doing work of importance in the educational field to trouble with tedious and technical aspects of the case. But in point of fact he needed no vindication at the forum of public opinion, and his fellow educators from the first recognized that he was a victim of moronic politics. Everybody, indeed, knew at the time of his so-called trial that his real offense in the eyes of his prosecutors was his independence and his other commendable qualities.

All that his meddling politicians did was to hurt their schools and make their city ridiculous."

The truth is driven home by this case with special force, that the best procedure in education is to hire a good educator and let him alone.

RADIO PREFERENCES

A new radio questionnaire, conducted from a single city, but covering a large area, brings these conclusions:

"Mixed programs" are the most popular. Semi-classical music comes second, straight classical music third. Jazz and dramatics are tied for fourth place. Broadcast talks come fifth, and sports sixth.

This result will surprise many people. It is not so remarkable that jazz music should sink so low as it apparently does in public estimation—there have been many hints before that jazz was losing its appeal. But why should sports come last? Is there less interest in sports than the newspapers, for instance, take for granted? Or are the broadcasting stations not presenting the sport news well?

Another thing—two thirds of the voters in this questionnaire say "there is too much commercial broadcasting." Evidently the sponsors of radio programs are making their business appeals too obvious.

Here is a field where modesty and artistry are important. Radio advertising has to be done subtly, delicately, by suggestion or intimation rather than outright flaunting of trade names and commodity merits. The advertiser who tries to grab the other gets left. People tune out, and remember unpleasantly what was meant to be a pleasant memory.

PHILIPPINE COMPETITION

The question of Philippine independence comes up again, in peculiar circumstances. A Washington observer says the islands suddenly find themselves closer to independence than at any time in their history.

This situation grows out of the tariff fight. Senators and representatives from agricultural states specializing in beet sugar and dairy products find competition in cheap Philippine cane sugar and in coconut oil, used as a base for butter substitutes. These products now come in free. If the Philippines themselves were free, this country could keep them out with a protective tariff. So there is the prospect of an alliance between the law-making group referred to and the larger group which is always in favor of Philippine independence. Combined, they might make a majority and accomplish this coup.

Filipinos have been promised their freedom repeatedly by presidents, congressmen and party platforms. Fulfillment of the pledge has usually been conditioned on the political development of the natives. Up to this time, it has never occurred to anybody that they would be ready for self-government whenever they were able to compete seriously with American products. They will now compete harder than ever.

EVER NEW

CANAL COMPANY SHOWS GAIN IN COLLECTIONS

Out of $455,000 total of Twin Falls Canal company's 1929 assessment, only $40,000 remained unpaid on the last day of the year when the company instituted suit and recorded lis pendens against property on which the assessment had not been paid.

The unpaid total, Miss Emma L. Wick, assistant secretary, said, is virtually the same as at the close of 1928; but, she pointed out, the assessment for 1929 was 25 cents an acre higher than for the preceding year.

The 1930 assessment of $1.75 an acre—representing a reduction of 50 cents an acre under last year's levy—will be payable in one installment next January 15.

Pioneer Druggist Here Dies at Home in Burley

Charles A. Terhune, who was for a number of years identified with the drug business in Twin Falls, died early Tuesday morning in Burley, his home for about 15 years, following a long period of ill health. He was 55 years old.

Mr. Terhune came to Idaho from Savannah, Missouri, in 1911, to be associated for nearly two years with A. B. Colwell in the Majestic pharmacy here. Subsequently he was associated with A. N. Sprague, a pioneer Twin Falls druggist and former sheriff of this county, and then he established his own business in Burley, from which he retired about a year ago.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Katherine Terhune, teacher in Burley schools, and one son, Charles A. Terhune, jr., student at Northwestern University college of medicine, Chicago.

He was a member of Twin Falls commandery, Knights Templar, and of the Burley lodge of Elks.

Arrangements for funeral services had not been completed last evening.

Stamp Sales For Month At Boise Mount $1000

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—December stamp sales were $1000 greater this year than last at the Boise postoffice. Postmaster L. W. Thrailkill said this indexed the increase of Christmas mail over that of a year ago. An average of 50,000 letters a day was mailed on the four days ending December 23. The ordinary daily average is 22,000.

EDUCATOR DIES

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 31 (AP)—R. W. Motor Vehicle License Collections Here Slow

With at least 9100 motor vehicles to be licensed in Twin Falls county this year, licenses have been paid for only about 400 since the 1930 plates were placed on sale last December 15, S. Cloud Stewart, county assessor, said last evening.

It is his opinion that the number of 1930 licenses issued this far is considerably below the number of last year's licenses issued in this county last year [illegible].

Early payment of the license fee, Mr. Stewart said, will facilitate the work of the assessor's office, which within the next few days must send out field agents to the property assessment for the 1930 tax assessments.

Fumes From Gas Stove Kill Two Florida Men

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 31 (AP)—A. J. Jenkins, 76, and Joseph H. Stener, 60, Marysville, Ohio, were found dead from asphyxiation in their winter home here today. Both men apparently had gone to sleep last night in a tightly closed room with a gas stove burning and had been overcome by fumes when a lack of oxygen caused the stove to go out. The bodies were discovered by a visitor today.

Brookhart Acts to Ban Evil of Short Selling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Senator Brookhart, Iowa, Republican, member of the Banking committee, is preparing a bill to prohibit short selling on stock and grain exchanges.

The bill would class such sales under the general category of fraud, Brookhart said, and he believed that congress had the authority to forbid the practice by legislation.

Blast Under Street Car Injures Southern Woman

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31 (AP)—An aged woman was slightly hurt tonight when an explosion ripped up the front section of a street car in the upper section of the city. The explosion was similar to many that have marked the street strike here.

The explosion, heard for many blocks, occurred when the car rolled over a charge believed to have been dynamite placed on the track. Floor boards were torn up and a number of car windows were shattered.

The name of the injured woman was not learned.

Accept these gifts with our compliments

DO you think of your newspaper merely as a means of finding out what the famous people in the world are doing, saying, thinking? As an impersonal record of events which do not concern you at all? We have something more than that to offer you. For instance:

Please accept today with our compliments these things, which you'll find in our pages: New and better ways of performing old household tasks ... means of saving steps, time, effort ... labor-saving devices ... short-cuts to efficiency ... money-saving. "Why," you say, "you're probably talking about the advertisements!" Just so—we are:

Think of the advertisements—and read them—as news. News of the world of goods and things ... news of scientific achievement accomplished for your benefit ... news that concerns you far more directly than an account of boundary disputes in Baluchistan can ever concern you.

Read the advertisements regularly, and use them as millions of other people are doing—to save you time, effort, money, trouble, when it comes to buying the things that make life a little easier ... a little brighter. Reading the advertisements will keep you in step with the rapidly advancing standard of living in America today.

Every day there's something new in the advertisements as well as on the front page. Be informed on all sides!

WASHINGTON FOLKS LOOK FORWARD TO QUIET NEW YEAR'S

High Point On Program at Nation's Capital Appears In White House Reception Open to All Who Call

By MARGUERITE YOUNG
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31—While hailing the advent of 1930 with revelry, Washington looked forward tonight to a quiet but ceremonious New Year's day with its high point the traditional White House reception to all comers—the first by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

The scene in the capital will shift overnight from one of merry-making like that in every other city its size to one of official observances. Foreign government's representatives will participate in the court uniforms worn only in the presence of rulers, and thousands will gather for the homes which the highest officials will receive.

With the dawn of the new year, social activities for the younger officialdom and debutante parties give way for the rest of the winter before a number of state functions.

Spend Evening Quietly

At the White House, still brightened by 100 lighted Christmas trees, the President and Mrs. Hoover spent this evening quietly. Tomorrow morning they will receive members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps, greeting them in the blue room of the mansion as they pass in among crimson and gold braid and decorations.

This will begin at 11 A. M., after which the chief justice and other officials of the judiciary branch of the government will be received. Later in the morning will come senators and representatives to be followed by officials of the army and navy, officers down through the grade of lieutenant colonel and commander being expected to attend. Just before luncheon the President and Mrs. Hoover will receive representatives of patriotic societies.

In accordance with customs, thousands of private citizens will enter the White House through the north portico to call upon the president and his wife during the afternoon.

President Hoover, having decided not to follow a practice inaugurated by Calvin Coolidge in a welcome to the year sounded by a bugler, Washington tonight awaited the reception of his administration on the regular program. Those scheduled previously had been postponed because of the death of James W. Good, a member of his cabinet.

Weather Favorable

When the weather was good, from 4000 to 7000 persons have accepted the general invitation for the afternoon in the past. As many are expected tomorrow because the weather outlook has been forecast as favorable.

From the White House, the diplomats attending the reception will hasten home to change into formal morning clothes, for a breakfast at which Secretary Stimson will be host, in the Pan-American union building with its shrub filled patio. The ladies will add to the color of this event, wearing brilliant afternoon gowns.

Official Washington will spend most of the day attending at homes. Here also the gowns will be of the formal afternoon fashion, and men will wear cutaways.

TEXAS CIVIL ENGINEER IDENTIFIES MAN'S BODY

COLUMBUS, Texas, Dec. 31 (AP)—The body of a man killed in an automobile accident here last Saturday was identified today by G. D. McDonald, civil engineer, for the Southern Pacific lines, as that of John Winthrop Sargent.

McDonald knew Sargent intimately in Peru several years ago and said that a brother of the dead man, Roy Sargent, was in Caracas, Venezuela. The engineer described Sargent as a "chaser of rainbows." The glamorous theory that the victim was a noted scientist already had been dissipated by his diary which told a romantic story of a crowded life and a tumultuous career brought to end in an automobile collision on a road near here.

The first gasoline was put on sale in 1830 but no one would buy it.

Eager Crowd, Mostly Feminine, Storms Shop to See Lingerie For Princess

BRUSSELS, Dec. 31 (AP)—Eager crowds, mostly feminine, besieged a lingerie shop today to inspect the royal trousseau of Princess Marie Jose who is leaving Brussels on Friday for her wedding in Rome to Italian Crown Prince Humbert.

Details of the trousseau have hitherto been kept a dead secret despite the fact that 16 firms had been entrusted with its creation.

The delicate bits of clothing in all hues of the rainbow and made of the most delicate materials fascinated the spectators, many of whom stood for long periods of time scanning the various articles. Among the articles on display were morning, afternoon and evening gowns, coats of all descriptions, shoes, handkerchiefs and household linen.

All of the trousseau was made in Belgium except the white velvet wedding gown which was made in Rome.

The princess' wedding gown is made of white velvet and silk with a matching court coat and an 18-foot train of white velvet attached to the shoulder. A veil of Belgian lace, gift of the Belgian people, will complete the costume.

One of the most interesting gifts which the princess, who will be married January 8, will receive is a painting of shrimp fishing which will be given her by the fisher girls of Oostduinkerke. When the princess was a little girl she made friends with the children of Oostduinkerke and took the sacrament at the poor fisherfolks' church in the town. While there she saw and admired a painting of shrimp fishing and it was this picture which will find its way among the many costly gifts with which the princess is being showered.

Washington Police Raid Bar-Room in Alley House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—One of a series of raids with which Washington police ushered in the new year brought them into what was described as an elaborately well equipped bar room with brass rails, frosted mirrors and all the trimmings. The place was on the second floor of a garage in an alley, and police said they gained entrance by following a patron of the establishment who was supplied with a key. Eight men were seated about tables and standing at the bar, they said.

The raiders netted them eight gallons of assorted liquors and after arresting the alleged bartender, Francis Moore, 28, they permitted the customers to leave.

Another trip by the raiding squad carried them on a chase after an automobile which laid a smoke screen in its wake as the driver attempted to escape. They captured the machine and its driver after they had fired upon the automobile several times and it had overturned.

Mrs. Herman A. Giese entertained with a charmingly appointed party Monday evening at her country home complimentary to her nephew, Owen Buchanan, who is home from the University of Idaho for the holidays. The rooms were most attractive with Christmas decorations and the evening was spent with games and dancing. At a late hour delectable refreshments in keeping with the season were served by Mrs. Giese, assisted by Mrs. Owen Buchanan and Mrs. Marie Macauley. Those present in addition to the honored guest were Misses Nell Kinney, Helen Sweninger, Mary Alice Ditter, Bernice Ditter, and Mildred Tels, Messrs. Ray Assendrup, John Macauley, Charles Carr, Lester Ditter, and Andy Heintzelman.

The Elks' annual New Year's eve ball which has been held since the organization of the order in Twin Falls was the outstanding social event in the city. An exceptionally large crowd was present to enjoy the dancing, favors, punch and social good-time which always characterize the affair.

Many large dinner parties were held at the Park and Rogerson hotels, some of whom had an orchestra in attendance and danced between courses. Practically all attended the Elks' ball later in the evening.

Miss Phyllis and Miss Norma Mulliner entertained with a jolly party Monday evening for ten guests at their home on Tenth Avenue East. Cards were the diversion for the evening, favor for high score going to Miss Marian Wimpill and low to Miss Grace Matson. At twelve-thirty o'clock a buffet luncheon was served. Out of town guests were Misses Vernice Waldrum, Allie Dubose and Louise Smith, Jerome, Frieda McDonald, McNon Yost, and Faye Davis, Buhl.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Taylor on Eight Avenue North was the scene of a delightful social gathering Monday evening when their daughters, Miss Alice and Miss Helen Taylor, entertained with five tables of bridge. First and second prizes were won by Miss Helen Newman and Miss Marjorie Smith, respectively. The rooms were attractive with bouquets of red and white carnations and the refreshments featured the same colors.

Mrs. H. P. Harper and Mrs. Paul R. Taber entertained with a charming bridge supper Saturday evening in honor of their daughter and sister, Mrs. Keith Carlson, of Los Angeles, at the Taber home on Ninth Avenue North. Miniature Christmas trees centered the four tables at which the guests were seated and the place cards and menus featured the holiday colors. Favor for high score in the games was won by Mrs. Jane Maxwell, and Miss Alice Taylor captured second high.

WATCH PARTIES WAIT COMING OF NEW YEAR

Religious Services, Dances and Other Observances Mark Passage of 1929

The new year, 1930, slipped softly into possession this morning just the single of a second after midnight, and got down to business without the accompaniment of a blustering storm or howling blizzard, and immediately after taking charge was going right along as it used to the job.

There was little excitement over the event. A number of jolly watch parties waited to greet the newcomer. The Lutheran church had a special "Old Year's Service" at 8 P. M. to bid the retiring year adieu.

There was a watch-party and midnight musical service at the Baptist church, a New Year's social and watch-party was held at the Church of the Brethren, and a watch-party at the Church of the Nazarene. All these religious services were well attended. There was a dance at the Elks lodge and a whoopee party at the Idaho theatre. Other dances and parties were held at different places.

Today there will be services at the Ascension Episcopal church at 10 A. M., at the Immanuel Lutheran church at 11 A. M. and masses at St. Edward's Catholic church at 8 A. M. and 10:30 A. M. The Nazarene church will hold preaching service at 8 P. M.

EXCAVATORS FIND RUINS OF SODOM BY DEAD SEA

JERUSALEM, Dec. 31 (AP)—The ruins of what its discoverers believe to be the city of Sodom have been found approximately five miles north of the Dead sea, by excavators under the direction of the Pontifical Bible Institute of Jerusalem.

Sodom, with its twin community Gomorrah, in the vale of Siddim, was destroyed by fire and brimstone because of the great wickedness of its inhabitants. The Biblical account indicates that this catastrophe occurred in the time of Abraham and Lot, but pottery and other remains found by the Biblical Institute researchers show that the place was built early in the bronze age and was thus older than believed.

The ruins gave evidence, however, that the place was destroyed by a great fire in the dawn of history and that it has since been uninhabited. Relics prove that it was the seat of an advanced type of civilization.

FRIENDS PAY HOMAGE TO LATE V. H. ORMSBY

Tribute at Funeral Service Bears Evidence of Esteem For Outstanding Citizen

Twin Falls Elks lodge had charge of funeral services here yesterday afternoon for Virgil H. Ormsby, Twin Falls resident since 1909, and for many years one of Idaho's outstanding peace officers, whose death occurred suddenly following a second stroke of paralysis last Sunday.

In the solemn fraternal tribute, members of the order were joined by scores of persons who had known Mr. Ormsby as an official and as a friend, so that the capacity of the Gresman chapel was overtaxed to accommodate the assemblage. A profusion of floral offerings also evidenced the esteem in which he was widely held.

In a brief eulogy, Rev. Ernest R. Allman, rector of Ascension Episcopal church, serving as chaplain of the Elks lodge on this occasion, paid tribute to Mr. Ormsby as a "good husband, loving father and forward looking, loyal and unselfish citizen." He referred to Mr. Ormsby's part as a pioneer type in helping to make this region "a more attractive heritage," and spoke of his work as a public official, "fair and just with those he was called upon to oppose," and of honors conferred upon him by his fraternal associates.

Reward of Merit

"Plaudits such as are bestowed upon our brother today do not come to those who have not, through the years built into their lives the qualities that men respect and admire," the minister declared.

Ritualistic services of the order were conducted by R. E. Bobier, exalted ruler, and other officers of the lodge.

During the services a quartet composed of L. L. Patrick, A. D. Bellamy, Kenneth Henderson and R. H. Musser, sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "Rock of Ages," and "The Vacant Chair." Mrs. J. A. Dygert played the piano accompaniment.

The body was borne to its final resting place under an arbor vitae in the Elks plot in Twin Falls cemetery, by pall bearers chosen from among intimate friends. They were J. M. Maxwell, H. R. Grant, C. A. Bailes, Frank L. Stephan, John H. Gott and Craig Bracken.

Past exalted rulers of Twin Falls Elks lodge were honorary pall bearers.

74 APPEALS GO BEFORE STATE'S PARDON BOARD

BOISE, Dec. 31 (AP)—The state board of pardons will sit Thursday to hear 74 appeals for clemency from prisoners with sentences ranging all the way from a year to life.

Among those appealing is Alfred Henderson, sentenced to life for murder of a boy in Bannock county; Tom Bridges and Joe Sellers, ranch hands, sentenced to 2 to 10 years for manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of Claton Patrick and another rancher named Ludlow in the Three Creek section of southeast Owyhee county; Parley Clark, serving a term for embezzlement while city clerk of Burley, and the perennial "Commodore" Perry Sam, negro, sentenced to 10 to 25 years for robbery in Pocatello.

"Commodore" Sam has appealed 10 times before during his six years' incarceration, each time telling a story of how he was on his way home from a Washington penitentiary like a southbound "mammy singer," and was entwined in the law while passing through Pocatello.

LITIGATION INVOLVES LEADING FILM MAKERS

Plaintiff Charges Violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law by Competition

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—A suit charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws was started against the motion picture producers and distributors of America, Will H. Hays and 47 large motion picture producers and film boards of trades today in federal court by Irvin Abramson and the Graphic Film corporation.

Action also will be brought against the Paramount-Famous Lasky corporation; Loew, incorporated; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing corporation; Fox Film corporation; First National Pictures, incorporated; Universal Film Exchanges, incorporated; United Artists corporation; Pathe Exchange; Vitagraph, incorporated, and film boards of trade of all the large cities of the country.

Abramson asks $1,300,000 for damages alleged to have been sustained by him through activities of the defendants. The suits claim that "the leading producers of the country engaged the services of Hays for the purpose of eliminating the producers and distributors group and various film boards of trade for the unlawful purposes of destroying competition by the independent producers and of monopolizing for their own benefit the exhibition of motion pictures."

The papers served on Mr. Hays and the motion picture producers and distributors of America today contend that the "producers and distributors control not less than 95 per cent of all picture production in the United States and supply 22,000 theatres with pictures." They further set forth the charge that as the result of the activities of Mr. Hays and the association the number of independent producers has been reduced from 40 or 50 to 12.

Other defendants named in the complaint include: Educational Film Exchange, incorporated; Tiffany-Stahl Productions; Fox Theatre corporation; Adolph Zukor; Jesse L. Lasky; William Fox; Nicholas M. Schenck; the film boards of trade of the following cities: New York, Albany, Chicago, Buffalo, Dallas, Charlotte, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Memphis, Little Rock, Minneapolis, New Haven, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Portland, Oregon, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Washington and the Northwest film board of trade.

Spokane Banker Goes to Grain Corporation Helm

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Ward M. Buckles, Spokane, today was appointed comptroller of the Farmers National Grain corporation. Mr. Buckles for several years was manager of the Intermediate Credit bank of Spokane and is regarded as a leader in that field. He will assume his duties with the $20,000,000 grain co-operative corporation early in January.

FEDERAL AGENTS BREAK GIANT DRUG CONSPIRACY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31 (AP)—An alleged narcotic conspiracy by which a Chinatown group mailed a great quantity of opium pills to the Middlewest was revealed today by federal authorities with the arrest of three Chinese, another in Denver, and a white woman in Kansas City.

The arrests followed a raid on a Chinese herb store here and the seizure of opium pills valued at $3000.

Lee Ching Yuen, Wah Art and Lee Hing Par, also known as Roy Lee, are held here. Harry Chinn is under arrest in Denver and the woman in custody at Kansas City is Mabel Bowden, alias Thelma Evans. All are charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic act with sending opium through the mails and with conspiracy.

Harris V. Williamson, federal narcotic chief, said the pills were sent by mail to Denver and from there to Kansas City. Eventually, he said, they went to mid-Western gambling houses.

NEW YORK AIR CONTAINS VARIETY OF SUBSTANCES

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—In each cubic foot of New York air are found particles of: auto tires, asphalt, brick, excavation rock, leather, glass slivers, horsehair, cotton, a few living spores.

This table of contents is from a report to the American society of mechanical engineers by Dr. E. E. Free, New York, and comes from research officially inaugurated by the city.

Soot from burning coal forms 90 per cent of the particles in each cubic foot of New York air, and the other substances are in extremely minute quantities.

Dr. Free said the glass for long was a puzzle, at first mistaken for volcanic ash. Now it is attributed to minute flakes scaled from the glazed tile used on buildings.

FRENCH POLICE HOLD ENEMIES OF FASCISTS

Three Suspects of Conspiracy Involving Italians Rest in Jail at Paris

PARIS, Dec. 31 (AP)—Three Italians were arrested tonight on suspicion of plotting against Fascists and in the home of one of them police found a quantity of high explosives, a number of detonators and materials for making bombs.

The arrests and raid were made by agents of the surete general, the French Scotland yard, which lends its efforts particularly toward the protection of the state and of prominent personages.

The police alleged that those arrested had maintained relations with Camillo Berneri who was arrested about a week ago in Brussels, Belgium, and who confessed to a dual plot against the lives of the Belgian royal family as they journey to Italy for the wedding of Princess Marie Jose, on January 8.

The Havas News Agency described the prisoners as Italian newspaper men. Their names were given as Alberto Cianca, Giuseppe Sarbelli and Alberto Parchiani. It was at the home of Cianca that the explosives were found.

The Havas Agency indicated that the three were perhaps plotting against the Italian naval delegation which will pass through France en route to the London conference next month. The exact nature of the plot has not been disclosed.

Progress Attends Affairs During 1929 In Twin Falls and Vicinity

COMMERCE REACHES PEAK DURING YEAR IN SOUTHERN IDAHO

Usual Abundant Crops, Fine Weather, Extensive Building and Many Conventions Feature On Muse's List

WITH the passing of 1929 residents of Twin Falls and southern Idaho may look back on the year just past as notable in many ways.

During the last fall the total amount of business transacted reached the peak and never were exports from this section so heavy.

Fine weather characterized the entire harvest season so that the crops were brought safely to the trains or to warehouses.

The winter was one of the longest and was distinguished for having more roads closed on account of drifts than any in previous years, but the white blanket remained on the fields though not on uncultivated spots and the result was that the ground was in condition to bear bountiful harvests.

In the city itself there has been much building. Costly structures have been erected at various parts of the city and the residence section has been much improved. There have been great improvements in remodelling several churches. The new First Christian church, one of the most modern and costly in Idaho, was constructed.

On no previous year has there been so many large conventions held here.

Along with improvements fine crops and other blessings, are recorded the passing of many old settlers who labored for the benefit of the community.

JANUARY 1—R. E. Leighton, Twin Falls chief of police, asks for larger force which was later granted. The increase was from four men to seven.

JANUARY 4—Motor licenses for county show increase in 640 over licenses for January 1928. The increase was from 8481 to 9111.

JANUARY 8—Twin Falls Canal company elects W. R. Hatfield, T. M. Robertson, W. C. Brown, J. P. Cordes and N. V. Sharp directors.

JANUARY 9—Philip H. Crow, former Twin Falls county treasurer and former Idaho adjutant general of Idaho, dies in Los Angeles.

JANUARY 16—Twin Falls county Pomona Grange votes to continue to cooperate with Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and re-elects F. L. Atkins, Buhl member of directorate.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Percentage of Non-Fiction Makes Slight Gain; Books For Juveniles Have Many Readers Among Children

With a total circulation up to and including December 28 of 84,557 against a total of 47,423 for the entire year 1928, the Twin Falls public library shows a greater increase in juvenile than in adult circulation it is indicated by a report by Miss Jessie Fraser, librarian. In 1928 the circulation of books for adults numbered 50,619, while in 1929 this had grown to 52,003. In 1928 the juvenile circulation amounted to 26,810 volumes and in 1929 it stood at 32,547 volumes. The total number of volumes in the library is about 8069.

Eighty per cent of the volumes circulated are fiction and 20 per cent non-fiction. The circulation of juvenile books constitutes about 40 per cent of the whole. The percentage of non-fiction works circulated is slowly increasing and was 1 per cent greater in 1929 than in 1928.

In fiction the most popular works of the year have been "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Wren; "All Quiet On the Western Front," Remarque; "Beau Geste," Wren; "The Green Murder Case," Van Dine, and "Jalna," De la Roche. The most popular non-fiction works are "Mother India," Mayo; "Royal Road to Romance," Halliburton; "Strange Interlude," O'Neill; "Napoleon," Ludwig; "Safari," Johnson; "Trader Horn," Horn.

Expressions of readers generally are to the effect that the merit of best-sellers justify their preeminence though in some cases it is held that over advertising has given works undue celebrity.

Readers Abide by Rules

As a whole the librarian reports that readers generally return books promptly to the library instead of passing them around and paying the fine where overdue. So far as possible an effort is made to secure prompt return. Where there is a heavy demand for a book duplicate copies are purchased and one is put on the rental shelf. During the last year duplicate copies of the following books have been purchased: "Trader Horn," Horn; "Royal Road to Romance," Halliburton; "Mother India," Mayo; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Wilder, and "All Quiet on the Western Front," Remarque.

As a whole the radio does not seem to interfere with reading habits of the people, Miss Fraser said. After the novelty has worn off, owners seem to return in most cases to their former reading habits.

Book reviews over the radio seem in a few instances to have called attention to certain books and thus measure increased their circulation, but as a whole the effect has not tended to decrease the amount of reading on the part of radio owners or to have greatly diverted it into new channels.

With the growing interest of children in juvenile books the usefulness of the story hour, except for special days seems to have greatly decreased, Miss Fraser said. With a limited staff here, it has not been felt necessary to take the time necessary to make the story hour a regular fixed institution.

Gifts of books to the library are constant. During the year about 100 volumes have been donated. Two substantial gifts have been received, one from sale of peonies and the other from the girl scouts.

First Meeting in 1909

The first recorded meeting of the original library association in Twin Falls was held February 15, 1909 in the Irving R. Darrow office in the Twin Falls Bank and Trust building. The record contains nothing more than the statement that there was such meeting and that it was attended by Rev. G. W. Crater, Rev. Ray M. Beauchamp, Rev. John Gourley, Rev. H. W. Parker; Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Packard, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. W. H. Barnes, Mrs. J. B. Hall, Miss Mary Gourley and Miss Edith Young.

The record indicates that a committee consisting of Mrs. J. B. Hall, Rev. G. W. Crater, Bertha O. Morse, C. E. Bisbee, Mrs. W. W. Humphrey, Mrs. W. F. Pike, W. H. Prebbe, George F. Sprague, Burton [illegible], W. H. Eldridge, Natalia F. Ostrander, Jennie M. Robbins, Martha Spangler, Robert M. Spangler and E. J. Ostrander was working in behalf of the library. A constitution was adopted February 15, 1909. On February 26, 1909, formal organization took place with W. Zenas Smith, president; Mrs. W. F. Pike, first vice president; Mrs. J. B. Hall, second vice president; W. H. Barnes, secretary, and G. W. Crater, treasurer. These officers constituted the board of directors. The first library was in the building at 209, Main avenue east, now occupied by the jewelry store of W. R. Priebe. Many donated volumes. It is stated that in addition to the original committee, C. O. Meigs was active in securing support for the institution. The library was reorganized on its present basis under city control in 1911.

The present library board is composed of Mrs. E. M. Sweeley, president; Wilbur S. Hill, vice president; Mrs. John W. Graham, secretary; Stuart H. Taylor, and W. E. Nixon.

Maytag Manager Here Banquet Honor Guest

Because the Twin Falls territory made the greatest sales record during a sales contest that has just closed, of any company in the entire organization, Joseph E. White, local manager, was tendered a banquet at the banquet hall of the Latter Day Saints church, Saturday evening, which was attended by 40 persons, including the following from Salt Lake City: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gazelle, Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Don M. Shaw, O. L. Johnson, manager of the Maytag house organ; and H. H. Kimball, assistant credit manager. Mr. Gazelle, who is general sales manager of the company, was toastmaster. There were a number of addresses, and musical numbers and readings by the Delgys orchestra.

Body Goes to Repose in Illinois Burial Plot

The bodies of Mrs. Lizzie Fritz, Kimberly, for whom funeral services were held here yesterday, and of her husband, the late Conrad Fritz whose death occurred on January 31, 1926, were taken from here last evening to be laid in their final resting place in the Bellevue, Illinois, cemetery. The bodies were accompanied by Miss Emma Decker, Kimberly, sister of Mrs. Fritz. Another sister, Mrs. Tillie Palm, Long Beach, California, and a brother, P. H. Decker, Kimberly, attended the funeral services here yesterday.

The services were held in the White chapel and were conducted by Rev. J. Elliott Slimp of the Kimberly Christian church, assisted by Rev. Charles D. Fletcher, Buhl, former pastor of the Kimberly Methodist church. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. Freida Swearingen, Kimberly; Mrs. Grace Slimp, Twin Falls; Fred Trimble and Bruce Requa, Kimberly.

400 PERSONS PAY TRIBUTE TO PIONEER

Many Persons Attend Rites for George A. Lincoln, Early Settler and Builder

Impressive tribute to the memory of a pioneer of Idaho and of the Twin Falls community was paid at funeral services for the late George A. Lincoln, held in the Latter Day Saints chapel here yesterday afternoon.

Nearly 400 persons attended the services and a profusion of floral offerings bore further testimony of sorrow and of sympathy.

In this testimonial J. W. Richins, member of the Twin Falls Latter Day Saints stake presidency and a friend of the family for many years, found evidence of the reward of Mr. Lincoln's faith. "The best evidence of love for God is love for humanity, and man is not loved by his fellows except as they are loved by him," the speaker declared.

Sketches Life

A brief sketch of Mr. Lincoln's life read by Herman G. Lind, of Twin Falls Latter Day Saints ward bishopric, told of his birth in Bountiful, Utah, 68 years ago; his life as a young man engaged in livestock and mercantile business at Gray's Lake, Idaho, and the part he had played in the development of the Twin Falls canal system and then in improvement of one of the first farms in this region.

Mr. Lind pronounced the benediction at services in the chapel and also dedicated the grave at the cemetery.

Invocation was offered by George W. Hammond, former bishop of Twin Falls Latter Day Saints ward.

Tribute in Song

A quartet composed of Mrs. E. E. Bjorling, Mrs. Flossie Kirkman, George Ward and Harold Howell sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "My Heavenly Father Knows," and Mrs. Kirkman and Mr. Ward sang as a duet, "Rock of Ages." Mrs. Wilda Carlson played the accompaniment.

Six of Mr. Lincoln's grandsons were pall bearers. They were Floyd Lincoln, Delvin Lincoln, Ray Lincoln, Albert Lincoln, Frank Stratton and Earl Corum.

Of the nine surviving children, all except Mrs. George C. Knapp, Honolulu, Hawaii, attended the funeral services. The others were: Ivan G. Lincoln, Twin Falls; William A. Lincoln, Filer; Richard D. Lincoln, Filer; George A. Lincoln, Jr., Kimberly; Mrs. Glen Corum, Pocatello; Mrs. Andrew Towey, Klamath Falls, Oregon; Mrs. J. Leo Roberts, Malad; Mrs. J. L. Berry, Jerseyville, Illinois.

MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION GETS GYMNASIUM FUND

Twin Falls American Legion Memorial association funds have been augmented to the extent of approximately $1100 under judgment signed by Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here directing J. G. Bradley and Clarence E. Beatty, trustees, to turn over to the association a fund collected here in 1913 to construct a building of gymnasium type to provide facilities for basketball and other athletic contests and exercises. The fund was known commonly as the "Y. M. C. A." fund, although it is asserted the Young Men's Christian association had no part in the collection and had been given no claim to the fund.

The court's order was issued on application of T. M. Robertson and E. M. Sweeley, contributors to the fund, who instituted suit "on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated" against the trustees and the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, depository, to require delivery of the fund to the Memorial association, "for use in construction and, or furnishing a memorial building in Twin Falls." The contributors in this action were represented by R. P. Parry, attorney.

In answer to the complaint in this action, Harry Benoit, attorney for the trustees, asserted that they were "ready, willing and able to pay over the fund if the court finds the association is entitled to receive it and enters judgment to that effect."

Frances Alda, Operatic Star, Answers Lure of Radioland

ARTIST QUITS STAGE AFTER 22 YEARS IN METROPOLITAN ROLE

Title Part From Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" Brings Finale of Noted Singer

Famous Vocalist's Request For Unostentatious Good-bye Goes By Unheeded

By RICHARD MASSOCK
(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—Madame Frances Alda Saturday sang farewell to the audiences of the Metropolitan opera houses, and she has no regret whatever.

For she is going to devote herself to a much larger audience in a field where the emoluments are even greater than they are in the music temple of New York society, where she has sung for 22 years.

Madame Alda's last appearance on the stage of the Metropolitan was in the title role of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" this afternoon. She will keep her voice for radio chain presentations of operatic airs, in which she pioneered a half-decade ago.

In moving over to the radio ranks, Madame Alda said she wanted no gala good-bye—no floral tributes either—in baskets or in speeches.

She thinks with her friends that her voice is better than ever, and she wants to leave her accustomed audiences in good voice. Furthermore, she is doing that now so that people will never, in her own words, be able to say:

"Mimi?" Why, she looks like Mimi's great grandmother!"

For she is best known, perhaps, as Mimi, in "La Boheme." Not that she is partial to "Mimi"; she has no "favorite role." She is only 45 years old, and she has sung in 42 different operas.

Frances Alda made her operatic debut in the Paris Opera Comique in 1904. Her first role was that in which she bids adieu to the glamorous stage, Manon—but the Manon of Massenet, who himself taught her the part.

Born in Christ Church, New Zealand, she had studied music in Paris.

In 1908, she came to the Metropolitan, singing Gilda in Verdi's "Rigoletto" the first year. Two years later she was married to the opera company's general manager, Giulio Gatti-Casazza. In the fall of 1928, their Mexican divorce was announced.

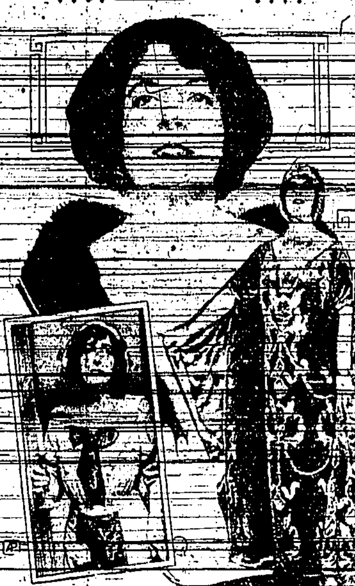
Perfectly Amicable

"But we are perfectly amicable," she said in the French living room of her Park avenue apartment. "We just could not get along together. Now everything is quiet and peaceable. Gatti was here for tea just a few days ago."

As for Madame Alda's art, she practices 45 minutes every morning. And the exercises are the same today as they were 25 years ago.

A year ago, when she first sought to retire from the Metropolitan—Gatti-Casazza and Otto Kahn induced her to remain another season—she announced that she intended to adopt a boy and a girl "to make life worth while." She has not yet adopted them, but she still has that intention.

Her memoirs she now is writing for a book, to be called "Coming of Age at the Metropolitan."



Madame Frances Alda has no regrets that she is leaving the operatic stage for the radio. At left she is shown as Mimi in "La Boheme," her most famous role. At the right is her characterization as Ginevra in "The Jest."

Mrs. R. E. Morehouse and daughters, Twin Falls, spent the week-end at the J. E. Pohlman home.

Miss Nellie Marie Caldwell accompanied her sister, Mrs. Roscoe Walker to Filer Christmas day, and returned to her home Sunday.

Work Resumes On Burley Airport Lighting System

BURLEY, Dec. 31 (Special to The News)—Two tractors with ditching machinery resumed work again Monday at the local airport, completing ditches along the two 2500-feet runways for the laying of cables which will furnish electricity for the border lights. Work had been temporarily abandoned on account of the snow and frost in the ground.

Concrete foundation posts for the border lights will be made and installed at once, provided mild weather prevails. It is announced that the beacon tower will be removed from its present location as soon as possible, to a point about midway along the west boundary of the airport. Enough border lights, danger lights and cable equipment are now on hand here to fully install the two runways, which will be made longer, however, during the coming summer.

RUPERT BUSINESS WOMEN MEET AT TURKEY DINNER

RUPERT, Dec. 31 (Special to The News)—At the last meeting of 1930, Rupert Business and Professional Women's club, in regular session Monday evening with an attendance of over 30 members, enjoyed a turkey dinner at the Chocolate shop followed by a Christmas tree with gifts.

Preceding dinner, prayer was offered by Mrs. Ida E. Sullivan; a symposium on the co-operative work of the organization was presented by [illegible] Clements, local president; pep songs were led by Miss Lela Nelson; and "Christmas Parable" was read by Miss Ileen Sullivan.

Club guests of the evening were Mrs. Knox Martin, Hermiston, Oregon; Mrs. A. W. Tyrer, Idaho Falls; and Mrs. J. Myron Scholer, Rupert.

The first "movie," a couple executing a waltz, was shown in Philadelphia, February 5, 1870.

Rupert Couple Joins In Ceremony of Marriage

RUPERT, Dec. 31 (Special to The News)—Miss Ruth Guyer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guyer, and Emery E. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Collins, were united in marriage at the home of the bride Sunday afternoon, December 29. Rev. W. F. R. Hartley performed the ceremony in the presence of members of the two families. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served by the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Collins plan to make their home in California. They expect to leave for Oakland within the next few weeks.

New Type Airplane Tire to Eliminate Jolts in Landing

A new airplane "air wheel," almost half as thick as it is high and operating at low pressure, is designed to eliminate the necessity of shock absorber struts.

AKRON, Ohio, Dec. 31 (AP)—A tire carrying seven or eight pounds pressure might seem unthinkable to the motorist who knows how low tires squash on turns, but such a one has been developed for the airplane.

The tire, appearing like a huge doughnut, is virtually what its name indicates, an "air wheel." It is designed to eliminate the necessity of airplane shock absorber struts.

The cross section of the tire is almost half as thick as the tire is high. It is mounted directly on a hub, eliminating wheel, spokes and rim.

The tire is designed to dissipate the shocks which ordinarily would be taken by the shock absorbing gear of the airplane with the usual high pressure tires.

In addition, it is claimed the tire has more traction on soft earth, mud or sand and offers less resistance to the wind than the ordinary tire and wheel.

The hub of the wheel may be equipped with internal expanding brakes.

STOCKMEN OF IDAHO PLAN JOINT MEETING

Sheep and Cattle Growers to Attend Annual Convention of State Association

BURLEY, Dec. 31 (Special to The News)—Sheep men and cattle men, with the hatchet of traditional differences seemingly buried for keeps, will meet for the fifth time in joint convention at the Idaho Wool Growers' association annual meeting at Idaho Falls, January 9 to 11.

According to Secretary Claar, of the wool men's association offices here, among a number of prominent speakers who will address the gathering are Frank J. Hagenbarth, Spencer, president of the national association, F. R. Marshall, Salt Lake City, national secretary, and W. D. Vincent, Idaho commissioner of education. The latter will have as his subject, "Educational Movements." The Idaho wool men will elect a president and vice president of their association, who will appoint a board of directors and select a secretary.

Claar says that both sheep men and cattle men come together at these meetings by reason of inter-related problems confronting the handling of both classes of live stock. Grazing and forest reserve topics are discussed, together with transportation, tariff on meats, tax matters and legislation, predatory animals, and a host of subject of joint interest.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—The bull party was revived for the final scene of the stock market year today, a year in which speculators for the advance met with the most drastic reverses of modern financial history, and in which much of the new economic theory springing from a five-year bull market was completely discredited.

The year's final market session saw a swift upswing of prices, but trading was at a low ebb, only 2,678,070 shares changing hands. More than 50 shares closed from 4 to nearly 20 points as a result of shifting of positions for tax purposes.

Today it was the shorts' turn. They were able to cover with commitments without taking profits taxable in their 1929 income, as today's transaction will not be cleared until January 2. Tax selling by longs had to be for cash in order to appear in 1929 statements, and the extent of last minute liquidation of this character was surprising. Veterans in Wall street could not remember when the ticker printed so many cash sales.

Credit Conditions Improve

Call money held at 6 percent, despite further moderate calling of loans. Undoubtedly the reduction of approximately $4,500,000,000 in brokers' loans during the last three months has vastly improved credit conditions both here and abroad.

Many bankers hold, however, that there are further adjustments which should be made in the domestic credit situation.

Business and industrial reports of the day were in keeping with the recent trends. The weekly steel trade reviews indicated that requirements for railway and structural materials is holding up well, and that automotive demand is slowly gaining.

At the close of the year, the Standard Statistics company-Associated Press composite index of 90 leading stocks at 170.3, compared to 180.5 on December 7, the peak of the rally from the minimum level of 140.3 on November 13, the bottom of the crash. The high record of 253.5 was reached September 7. The year's final level of 170.30 compares with 103.40 at the close of 1928, which was the peak of that year, and approximates the levels of early October, 1928.

Utilities Prominent

Utilities and leading industrials were prominent in today's rally. Shares selling up about 4 to 10 points included such issues as American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, American Can, American Tobacco B, American Water Works, A. M. Byers, J. I. Case, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Macy, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Republic Steel, Simmons, Southern Railway, Standard Gas, Underwood-Elliott, United States Steel, and Westinghouse Electric. High fliers were International Business machines, up 12, Western Union, up 23½, and Midland Steel preferred, up 29½.

The commodity markets were steady to firm. Wheat futures gained about 1c a bushel, reflecting firm foreign markets and good export demand. Corn futures were firm on unfavorable weather reports and smaller receipts at markets.

Foreign exchanges reflected pre-holiday dullness.

OPTIMISM FOR 1930 GRAIN PRICES GAINS

Wheat Closes Unsettled at 5-8 to 1 3-8 Cents Per Bushel Up at Windy City

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
(Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, Dec. 31—Optimism regarding the 1930 outlook for higher prices dominated the wheat market today. United States wheat at the Gulf of Mexico ready for shipment overseas was reported as commanding the best basis yet this season, equalizing the price of May delivery. Besides, a leading Chicago authority announced that for the first time since July, 1926, commercial wheat stocks of the world now show a smaller total than for the corresponding stage of the preceding year.

After scoring advances throughout the day, wheat closed unsettled, ⅝c to 1⅜c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at 1⅛c net decline to ⅛c gain, oats 1c off to ⅜c up, and provisions unaltered to a setback of 10c.

Stocks Pass Maximum

Generally accepted statements current here today said world's commercial wheat stocks reached a maximum in November, 1929, after a steady accumulation for four consecutive years, but that the trend is now changed, and is definitely downward. Meanwhile today from another source figures were at hand indicating that world shipments of wheat so far this season are 100,000,000 bushels less than was the case a year ago.

Considerable nervousness in the corn, oats and rye markets attended completion of trading in December delivery. Holders proved to be willing sellers though to traders who were short of grain to fill December contracts, and the month expired with nothing in the nature of fireworks. Better demand for corn was evident on the part of industries and shippers.

In the provision market, the effect of downturns of hog values was fairly well counterbalanced by grain strength.

"LOVE SHY"

by Barbara Webb

The Pussycat Inn

There was a tender possessiveness about Jimmy's manner as he guided Janet down the brief flight of stairs. Janet was aware of it, and it seemed to clear away her bewilderment, the bewilderment that had beset her ever since waking, had prevented her from protesting about the garnets Mildred insisted on her wearing, for one thing. Janet knew that garnets were valuable, but she was hypnotized by their rich glitter and Mildred's nonchalant attitude about them into having them fastened about her throat and about each slender wrist. Jimmy had noticed them too, and had flashed Mildred a quick look of appreciation. They had belonged to his mother, and it pleased him to have Janet wearing them.

But all this confusion seemed dissolved by Jimmy's touch on her arm; she seemed to belong to him and to Mildred and to this new life that had opened before her. She felt gay and light-hearted; her feet seemed to trip down the steps with unusual lightness. She greeted Adelaide and Butch and squeezed in beside her friend with the feeling that a child has over her first party.

Adelaide was wearing a new dress and wrap and she fairly reeked of some strong, heady perfume. Butch's handsome red face showed in contrast to Jimmy's slender pale one. Janet felt a sudden sense of pride in Jimmy; he was tall and good-looking and he wore his evening clothes with the air of one accustomed to them. Butch never seemed quite at ease in his, although Janet knew he wore them constantly when he went out with Adelaide in the evening. The ride to the Pussycat Inn was short. It seemed only a few minutes until, wraps left in the dressing room, Janet stood with Adelaide on the edge of the dancing space.

Butch and Jimmy joined them and Butch held his hand up to beckon the head waiter.

"This way, Mr. Krause, nice evening, sir," the waiter said obsequiously, shouldering a path for them through a crowd of dancers. To Janet's delight they had a table in the center, directly on the dancing space. There was a scraping of chairs, a little general bustle, and Janet was sitting for the first time in one of New York's most famous night rendezvous. She leaned her face on her two locked hands and looked around her with lively interest.

"Look, Jimmy, isn't that a beautiful woman?"

His glance followed hers and then he grinned at her. "That's Prudence Bliss, don't you ever look at the papers, you little simpleton?"

Prudence Bliss was one of the most notorious professional beauties in the city and Janet gasped, "But she—why she's much prettier than her pictures, she looks so—well, so sort of innocent."

Adelaide laughed. "Innocent! My eye, she's about as innocent as barbed wire, isn't she, Butch? Butch knows her."

"I'd Rather Have Ginger Ale"

"Sure I know her—what'll we drink first? Ask for what you want, we can get the whole works here, you know."

"I want some gin," Adelaide said plaintively, "I always cry after I have a lot of gin, but I cry because I'm so happy, don't I, Butch?" and she leaned across the table to rub her cheek against his.

"Gin for you then, baby," Butch agreed, kissing her. "How about you Cleopatra?" he asked Janet.

Janet hesitated. "Honestly," she confessed, "I don't know what I do want. Anything strong to drink makes me sleepy and cross and I do want to see and enjoy everything here tonight—I'd rather just have ginger ale."

Butch and Adelaide shouted with laughter. "They'd throw you out, Janet," Adelaide told her. "Everybody drinks giggle water here and nobody cares what anybody does."

But Jimmy saved her. "Oh, this is a free country, I guess," he said lightly, "she's got as much right not to drink as the rest of us have to lap it up. Now you get some sloe gin and a beaker of orange juice and some good old vermouth and some cracked ice and a shaker and I'll make us some cocktails that'll make supper taste good—I'm hungry and I want a big chafing dish full of lobster newburgh and toast with it—not those flabby little points of toast, but some [illegible] crisp little triangles, just dripping with butter. Can you get that out of your friend, Francois, Butch?"

Butch grinned. "I'll skin him alive if I don't," he boasted, and presently Janet heard him repeating Jimmy's order to a very respectful Francois. "And make it snappy," Butch finished, "or I'll polish the floor with you."

"Yes, sair, very quick, sair," said Francois respectfully, reflecting that this was the first intelligible order he had received this evening.

Jimmy patted Janet's hand. "You don't have to drink a drop of anything but water if you don't want to, honey, I'll see to that. Let's dance now, shall we? We've never danced together before."

Janet smiled gratefully at him. They joined the crowded dance floor and by keeping Janet out of the center Jimmy managed a very creditable dance with her, keeping her carefully protected from the shoving and pushing of other dancers. Butch and Adelaide, pressed close to each other, were in the thick of it, cheek against cheek, hardly able to move, but apparently very happy. Janet and Jimmy went back to their table first, Adelaide and Butch waiting for the encore.

"It's terribly crowded, isn't it," Janet asked, looking around her while Jimmy busied himself with the orange juice and bitters Francois had placed on the table.

"Crowded and hot and dull, if you ask me," Jimmy said absently, "I never could see this sort of thing for dust. When I was in—" he caught himself, "when I was younger I used to play around with some fellows that thought this sort of thing was the purple pup of a good time—but I got tired of it even then—"

"You sound like an old hand at it," Janet observed with interest.

"Do I? Well, put that down to my egotism, this is the first time I've been here, anyway. Do you like it?"

"I think it's awfully interesting," Janet confessed, "but I don't think I'd like to come to a place like this every night in the week the way Adelaide does—why has the music stopped?"

A Toast

"Time for the revue to come on I suppose," Jimmy answered.

Butch and Adelaide extricated themselves from the crowd that was milling back to the tables and Butch caught up a cocktail shaker from Jimmy's hand and shook it high over his head. "Here's to crime, folks," he cried, and at tables all around him they took up the toast. "Here's to crime!" The enthusiasm was infectious and Janet's color rose and her eyes sparkled; she raised her glass of ginger ale to join in the toast and Butch, seeing her roared with laughter, "Here's to crime in ginger ale," he shouted, boisterously, joggling her glass and spilling the liquid on the table.

The long suffering Francois wiped it up with a big napkin and Janet felt her cheeks burn as inquiring eyes turned in their direction. Adelaide and Jimmy joined in the laughter at her expense and Janet tried not to mind. She tried not to mind a great many things before that evening was over; she was a little shocked at seeing the girls in the revue so scantily dressed—they wore as much as any chorus girls do in stage revues, but they were so close, they lacked the illusion that the stage lends to their seminudity. She tried not to notice the open lovemaking that went on all about her, increasing in boldness as the evening wore on; she tried to believe that the loud voices and coarse jests were really funny, but it was not until a man, going back to his table from the dance floor leaned over and kissed her bare shoulder that Janet was really offended.

"Steady now," she heard Jimmy say, as she flushed and started to rise. The man had passed on with a loud laugh. "He's drunk," Jimmy added contemptuously, "and doesn't know what he's doing, not worth bothering about."

Butch and Adelaide were batting a balloon back and forth across the table, giggling whenever it bounded to the floor and Butch had to retrieve it. Suddenly the balloon burst with a loud plop and Adelaide began to cry.

"I want my balloon," she sobbed.

"Never mind, Baby, I'll buy you another one, big solid gold balloon for my baby."

But Adelaide buried her head on his shoulder, "I want that one, that pretty red one, and it's all gone—" she wailed.

Jimmy smiled at Janet. Butch was busy comforting Adelaide. "Let's go," said Jimmy. "They'll never miss us and this—" he gestured toward the room, "this is getting pretty rough for you—"

Missing!

The night air felt cool and grateful to Janet's flushed cheeks. She had sipped one glass of champagne and as usual the drink made her feel dizzy.

JEROME ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN WOMEN

Men of Organization Hosts to Wives at Seventh Anniversary Celebration

JEROME, Dec. 31 (Special to The News)—The Rotary club was host to the Rotary-Annes at a delightful affair Friday night. A banquet, with places laid for 84 persons was served at the North Side Inn by the Presbyterian Ladies Aid. ... gave the toast to the women and Mrs. W. A. Peters gave a return toast. Mrs. M. L. Zug gave a reading ... Men. A selection was given by a quartet, composed of Mrs. S. O. Davis, Mrs. W. A. Peters, H. Mae Sloan, and A. L. Thoreson. A huge birthday cake holding seven lighted candles in honor of the seventh anniversary of the Rotary was a feature of the evening. After dinner the guests adjourned to the Civic club rooms where dancing was enjoyed with music furnished by the Night Hawk orchestra. The rooms were decorated with evergreen trees. Unique favors were given to the guests.

"The Cock Eyed World" Comes to Idaho Theatre

One of the hilarious episodes in the all-talking Fox movietone production "The Cock Eyed World," directed by Raoul Walsh of "What Price Glory" fame, deals with a little red book, given "Top Sergeant Flagg," played by Victor McLaglen to his pal and arch enemy "Sergeant Quirt," played by Edmund Lowe, when the latter decides to leave the service.

LILY DAMITA in "The Cock Eyed World," Fox Movietone all-talking picture.

The little red book contains names, addresses and descriptions of Quirt's various former flames, a goodly number, to say the least.

When the transport carrying the marines docks in New York, Flagg hurries to the nearest telephone booth and calls the lassies listed in this little red book. He only locates "Fanny," played by beautiful Jean Bary. She is dated for a rollicking trip to Coney Island.

All goes well until they meet the last person in the world they expected to find, Quirt, and then trouble begins. Quirt makes a sly effort to get the girl.

"The Cock Eyed World" comes next Sunday to the Idaho theatre for a run of two days only. It is from the story by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson. Billy K. Wells wrote the dialog and lovely Lily Damita is also featured.

"Paris," Talking Film, Now at Orpheum Theatre

Successful stage plays, with music and dancing, can now be brought to millions who would not see them otherwise, through the medium of the talking screen.

One of the first to be transported from the footlights to the silver sheet is "Paris," the musical play which starred Irene Bordoni on the stage last season.

It has been made into a First National and Vitaphone picture, with Miss Bordoni starred, and it marks the first appearance of this popular stage favorite in motion pictures. "Paris" starts at the Orpheum theatre today.

Playing opposite the star in this gay, lilting comedy of the French capital is Jack Buchanan, English stage star who has been featured in New York and London musical shows, and especially in the famous Charlot's Revue, which has played successfully on both sides of the water.

Others in the notable cast are Louise Closser Hale, who played in the stage version of "Paris"; Jason Robards, stage and screen favorite ... of the original "Lightnin'" company; Zasu Pitts and Margaret Fielding.

Miss Bordoni and Mr. Buchanan both sing and dance in the picture, and special songs were written for the screen to augment those of the stage version.

This is The Season of Greetings. Throughout the year we have striven for the opportunity to serve. If our efforts have pleased our reward is complete. May your New Year be prosperous and when another year has rolled around may it still find us friends.

Radio Market Announcer Receives Neckties, Eggs and Pies for Effort

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 31—... week when Ray Gutting doesn't get a new necktie, several dozen fresh eggs, ... his broadcasting efforts.

Such are the tokens of gratitude that flood his mail as a result of his popularizing "play by play" account of grain market conditions from KMOX.

Directly from the ... Merchants' exchange Gutting announces market changes to an audience of farmers, millers and housewives throughout the ... He has more than 30,000 letters, fan mail of three years accumulation, as proof that radio has forged a link of vital information between the grain market and the farm.

For 65 minutes a day, nine periods of a few minutes each, Gutting translates world market conditions into language that every farmer can understand. From 10 years experience in the grain exchange, he interprets price fluctuations.

... audience could be more appreciative than his rural listeners. Everything from cough syrup to pork sausage, pocket knives and dressed chickens comes to his desk from farmers who like his programs.

"I don't think I'll have to buy a necktie for the next ten years," Gutting says.

Three years of broadcasting market reports have not lessened Gutting's enthusiasm for his work. One of his many visitors inquired how he managed to get a thrill after so long a time. Gutting handed him this telegram:

"Markets coming in fine. How about a chicken dinner with us next Sunday?"

Rockefeller, Morgan, Giannini and Baker Continue As Financial Stars

By WILLIAM R. KUHNS
Financial Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Rockefeller, Morgan, Baker, Giannini and a growing list of powerful names have become the fixed stars of a financial world where the order of the day is unceasing change.

Executives of the country's greatest banks may change with each new merger. The big names in the background do not change.

Certain family names, synonymous with money but not necessarily the nation's wealthiest, go on forever. Like coats of arms they furnish convenient labels for various dominant groups.

More than 100 bank mergers were reported in the United States during the first quarter of this year. Big industrial units require wide and adequate banking facilities. For that reason bankers are predicting that the consolidation of banks will continue as long as industries continue to grow in size and ...

The three largest banks in the country at this time are the National City, the Guaranty Trust and the Chase National, all of New York. Each is the result of a merger this year. Their combined resources are approximately $5,300,000,000, a twelfth of all banking resources in the United States.

In Chicago the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, a merger of the Continental National and Illinois Merchants Trust is fourth in size with resources of approximately a billion.

Other super-banks included in the big-10 are the Equitable Trust, First National, Bankers Trust, Central Hanover, Irving Trust, Corn Exchange and Bank of America.

Some of the executives of these banks, such as Charles E. Mitchell, Gordon S. Rentschler, James S. Alexander, William C. Potter, Charles S. McCain and Albert H. Wiggin, wield enormous power separately and collectively.

They are recognized as the dominant personalities in banking, yet for various reasons Wall street often finds it simpler to use the designation Morgan banks, Rockefeller banks, Giannini banks, or Independents. That means something.

39 STUDENTS ATTAIN JEROME HONOR ROLL

Achievement List For Second Term Scholastic Period Includes 10 Seniors

JEROME, Dec. 31—The honor roll of the Jerome high school for the second grading period contains the names of the following students: Seniors, Mildred Kim, Irene Oldham, Sarah Freeman, Ruth Blessing, Madeleine Williamson, Grace Oldham, Peter C. Mr. and Mrs. George Bloom have recently donated a number of books to the high school library, including the works of Sir Walter Scott and Charles Dickens. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Walker also have given books, which will be of interest to boys who are looking toward an engineering future. Quite a number of new books have been added to the library; among them are fiction, biography, history and travel.

Mrs. George Petrie entertained eight boys at a marshmallow toast party at her home Friday night. The boys present were Oswald Thoreson, Twin Falls; Robert McCutcheon, Emery Carr, Harold Robert and Albert Prentice; Billy and Norman Halbert; Stanley Fitzler, and ... Scott Petrie, sons of the hostess.

The Ninavan Campfire girls met Saturday afternoon at the home of Thela Nelson. At the business meeting, plans were made for a hike on Saturday, January 4. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

The Jerome grange met at the Odd Fellows hall Friday night. After a short business meeting the members danced and played cards. An unusually enjoyable evening was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon R. Hill are the parents of a daughter, born December 27, at St. Valentine's hospital. A daughter was born December 26 to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray.
