

SPORTS WRITER SELECTS LUCAS AS BEST HURLER

Olinthus Ake Marks Wonder
In Record; Bush, Barnshaw
and Grimes Also Well

By Gracie Kinsey
United Press Sports Writer
The five leading candidates for the mythical honor of the year's best major league pitcher are Lefty Grove, Gene Barnshaw of the Philadelphia Athletics, Guy Bush of the Chicago Cubs, Tom Lucas of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Red Faber of the Cincinnati Reds.

Lefty Grove injured his thumb on July 15, and only had been the most valuable pitcher to the Boston Red Sox since the Pirates could never have figured in the peasant race.

Gene Barnshaw of the Athletics' staff, for the most part, has carried on through a season of games without a hitch. He would not have wobbled the Athletics as Grimes' injury did the Pirates.

There is a pitcher in one quarter that has been the best of the best since the start of the season.

Tom Lucas, the tall, dark Mississippian, has been the best of the best since the start of the season. He has been the best of the best since the start of the season.

Yet I think the honor of being the year's best pitcher should go to Tom Lucas, a bright star who has been the best of the best since the start of the season.

Through the game of August 22, Lucas had won 17 games and lost 7 for a percentage of .706.

Any pitcher who can do that behind the back of his head and keep his arm in action this season, would be a great pitcher.

As for a game won and lost, the league pitchers who have better records than Lucas are:

Lefty Grove, Grimes, Barnshaw, Bush and any other major league pitcher has anything on the Cincinnati right-hander.

Including games of August 22, Lucas had pitched 21 complete games, three more than any other major league pitcher.

In Lucas' three previous years with the Athletics, he had pitched 21 complete games, three more than any other major league pitcher.

As an infielder and outfielder.

Jones' Defeat Falls To Dim Popularity

SANTA RITA, Sept. 9 (AP)—The name of Bobby Jones, former national amateur golf champion, has been dimmed by his recent defeat.

That was the disappointment here yesterday when a gallery of 500 persons became so enthusiastic as to applaud him vociferously at the closing moments in an exhibition tournament in which he shut an excellent 75 one which he put for the first time in a match which he lost.

He continued his losing streak, however, when playing Miss Marion Hurlin, former-but-not-current women's golf champion. The pair were defeated by Carl J. H. Toller and Miss Stella Gillett, present titleholder for women, six and two in a five-hole match.

The Buhl boys did some heavy hitting, getting 12 safeties during the full nine innings. The Buhl boys had a walk hit time at the plate.

Homeing did some good work, with a home run and a double in five attempts. Orchard of Twin Falls got two-out of three. Ma Hurlin, the only hitting, being in a tussle with the local run.

Where is thy far-famed lover,
To greet Aphrodite this morn'?

Symbols of thine has she taken,
The crescent horns of the chase,

TESTING AUTO LIGHTS

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that the state is prepared to test headlights of motor cars in this part of the state should be the best news for car owners and any others who use the highways that has been given in a long time.

The presence of state traffic officers over the state to watch and help regulate traffic has been of real value to the motoring public. The testing of lights is not of equal importance, but its benefits are likely to be far reaching.

During periods when traffic is particularly heavy, samples of which have been afforded to the throngs using the highway in going to and from the fair, the lack of uniformity in headlights is striking. Some lights are directed where they belong, to illuminate the highway directly in front of the machine. Others take on the direction of a searchlight and penetrate upward or outward.

Poorly regulated lights fail to give the necessary service to which he is entitled, and they are doubtless a nuisance to other motorists who must submit to their blinding glare in driving. Poor lights, or incorrectly directed lights, are a menace to all concerned. If it takes a little time and causes some inconvenience to have the test made, the benefits will still be sufficient to compensate for the trouble.

Motoring is subject to enough hazards even if every precaution is taken, and the adjustment of headlights is of sufficient importance that the state has taken a hand in seeing that the adjustments and tests are made. Motorists should profit by the service rendered.

SAFEGUARDING THE PRESS

ACCORDING TO THE UNITED PRESS, a Senator Vandenberg of Michigan is working on legislation that will have for its purpose the protection of both the judiciary system and the public press by changing the laws governing contempt proceedings.

The proposed legislation is not complete, but for one thing the new law would provide that in case of indirect contempt, a judge other than the one claiming contempt would be required to conduct the case. It will be an ultra-conservative indeed who will be able to find anything radically wrong with such a provision. Let the finely drawn legal distinctions be what they may, a court that both prosecutes and passes on guilt is assuming a variety of activities that calls for an assumption of fairness that the public will find it difficult to believe possible.

Not so long ago a magistrate in California who had a reputation for his leniency by the letter of the law in his sentences of violators of traffic laws, particularly those found guilty of driving while intoxicated, had as a defendant a woman who was young, pretty, wealthy and influential. The case against her on a charge of driving while intoxicated was about as clear as any intoxication case could be expected to find. She had liquor in her car, the officers found, she hit two other machines within a few minutes, and there were other damaging facts brought out. She received a very light fine, and payment was not required, the fine being suspended.

An editor wanted to know just why a woman should be favored should receive different treatment than that accorded others. He traced the old festish that has been thrown around courts and judges and published his inquiries in the form of some pointed editorials. The judge sued him. The editor stuck by his guns and won his case. In effect he found that he could question such a court finding with impunity.

It is to the credit of the courts that in a vast majority of cases their fairness has been so unquestioned as to cause little private criticism, but when any irregularities do occur sufficiently flagrant to rouse the public's sense of right and justice, published criticism, honestly and accurately made, should not be prohibited.

After all, courts are just as humanly constituted as newspapers or other human institutions.

FAIRNESS IS GOOD BUSINESS

Some little time ago the famous Rocky Mountain Fuel company sought to insure industrial peace in its coal mines by introducing more liberal wage scales, working rules and methods of dealing with its employees. A recent report from the president of the concern indicates that the effort has been highly successful.

After citing increased sales tonnage and production under the new regime, his report says:

"The men employed in and around the mines of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Co. received an average wage of $7.95 per day during the first quarter of 1926. While the wage contract increased the earnings of the men, as we desired it should, it has not resulted in increased production costs because of the co-operation and increased efficiency which have characterized the new relationship.

"The effective working of the contract is further shown by the fact that the pit-committees and mine superintendents are satisfactorily settling complaints. Only two cases in 11 months have been appealed from the decisions of the pit-committees and superintendents."

This is extremely gratifying news. It is becoming increasingly evident that a humanitarian policy is, after all, only good business.

IDAHO'S DWINDLING FORESTS

A study of a recent publication issued by the cooperative board of forestry reveals many facts of interest to the people of Idaho and the nation in particular.

Nearly two-thirds of the "land area" of Idaho, or 14,000,000 acres, is agricultural, grazing and barren areas within the forest belt are classed as forest land.

The sawmill industry is the chief manufacturer of products of the state.

The average yearly cut of lumber in Idaho is nearly one billion board feet.

The annual payroll for forest and other wood manufacturing plants is estimated to be worth $110,000,000.

Eighty per cent of the present-day lumber production, or nearly $22,000,000, remains in Idaho to the benefit of every line of community business.

Over 100,000 persons are given employment by the manufacturers and distributors of lumber, and the progressive industries within the state.

The annual payroll for these 1,000,000 employees is $22,000,000.

The lumber and allied industries pay taxes of $10,000,000 for the support of city, county and state governments, amounting in some counties to 75 per cent of all taxes raised.

The Idaho timber industry makes a possible $100,000,000 in the shipment of its products, an annual freight revenue of nearly $1,000,000 to the rail carriers in the country.

Idaho's present loss from one-fourth of its lumber cut, the other three-fourths being shipped out, largely to eastern states, bringing into the state many millions of dollars.

The timber land area, exclusive of agricultural, grazing and barren areas within the timber belt, contains 14,000,000 acres, which is owned as follows:

State government, 15,135,000 acres
Private owners, 2,865,000 acres
Total, 18,000,000 acres

At this date the standing timber is divided as follows: Federal government, 4,045,000,000 board feet; private lands, 21,670,000 board feet; Idaho in 1923: From government land 129,250,000 board feet; from private lands, 626,550,000 board feet; from state land, 58,120,000 board feet.

Private owners have but 20 per cent of the timber cut they furnish 75 per cent of the money and the majority of the lumber sold last about 30 years, although the industry will be on the wane in some localities in less time.

The timber in the region tributary to Spokane will go first, and there the loss will be felt keenly for many years. The timber in the Clearwater region.

It is the opinion of practical foresters here that with proper management of our timber resources, the present annual yield could be increased, even an increase of lumber output. The Clearwater timber company is leading the way in Idaho in the reforestation of its land and its system will insure perpetuation of the great stands of timber which feed the saws at the Lewiston mill.

FEWER LABOR DISPUTES

INDEX OF INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES ... BY ALLARD SMITH, Vice President, The Union Trust Company, Cleveland ... A New split in industry is indicated by the fact that the number of labor disputes in 1928 was the lowest in almost 15 years. The records of them have been kept. The total number of industrial disputes reported last year throughout the entire country was 822, and involved 2,814 employees. In 1916 the reported number of strikes and other disputes was 1,876. In 1917, the year of the United States' entrance into the war, the number increased to 1,700. Since then there has been a gradual and unbroken diminution of industrial disputes, until the figure for 1928 became only 17 per cent of that for 1916. Nearly 75 per cent of the strikes occurred in seven states—New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Illinois, Ohio and California. New York City led all other cities in the number of strikes, and nearly one-third occurred in that city. New York, Philadelphia, Fall River, Lynn, Chicago, Cleveland and Paterson.
