IDAHO CHAIN STORE BILL GETS HEARING

BOISE, Jan. 30 (AP)—A bill placing a tax of $5 to $300 on chain stores operating in Idaho will have its first public hearing Wednesday before the house committee on revenue and taxation, Chairman Rudd, Democrat, Fremont, announced today.

The act provides a tax increasing as the number of stores in the chain increases to a maximum of $500 per store for chains of 20 stores.

HORSE AND MULE PRICES HOLD TO POST-WAR PEAK

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Horse Association of America today issued a report stating that, compared with costs of other farm produce, horse and mule prices are the highest since the World war and supplies the lowest in two decades.

Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the association, said demand is so great that Western ranchmen are rounding up wild horses and shipping them by carloads to markets in the Middle West, South and Canada.

MYRTLE R. DAVIS' MOTHER SUCCUMBS

BOISE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Mrs. L. J. Porter, formerly of Blackfoot, Idaho, and mother of Mrs. Myrtle R. Davis, Twin Falls, state superintendent of public instruction, was near death at St. Alphonsus' hospital here tonight.

She has been critically ill for several weeks.

TRAINMEN GET HEARING ON MEASURE AT BOISE

BOISE, Jan. 30 (AP)—A mass of conflicting testimony was presented by railroad employes and executives here tonight at a hearing held by the state affairs committee of the legislature on the "full crew" bill requiring an extra brakemen on all trains of 50 cars or more.

Safety was stressed as the main issue, railway men, assisted by Mayor T. C. Coffin, representative-elect from Idaho, declaring safety for the public and for workmen on the trains demanded an extra brakeman.

"We have no more help now with trains of 50 to 150 cars length than we did 40 years ago with 24 car trains," E. J. Grady, Pocatello, chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors, testified.

Replying, C. W. Manson, general superintendent of the Oregon Short Line, said 100-car trains are "just up-to-date railroading." To a question as to whether the safety of workmen on the public would be increased by an extra brakeman, he said:

"None, absolutely none."

"All that a third brakeman would do is to cook," he added, "and I can hire cooks for less than $150 to $250 a month."

RICKS COLLEGE BOY FIGURES IN WRECK

REXBURG, Jan. 30 (AP)—Leonard Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jensen, Hibbard, and a well known athlete at Ricks college, was in critical condition at a local hospital today as a result of a head-on collision between a car in which he was riding and a sleigh, early Sunday morning south of here. Jensen suffered various deep injuries when the tongue of the sleigh crashed the windshield and struck him. Two splinters were taken from his brain during the emergency operation performed shortly after the accident.

Jensen was riding in a car with four other students from here. All having been in Pocatello Saturday night where they played a basket ball game. The car was driven by Joseph M. Parkinson and was reported to have been traveling slowly. It crashed into a sleigh driven by Dale Allen, Sunnydell, reported by officers as being on the wrong side of the road.

WILL ROGERS' WIFE SUBMITS TO SURGERY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30 (AP)—While her husband waited anxiously in a corridor, Mrs. Will Rogers, wife of the humorist and screen actor, underwent an operation for appendicitis today in the Cedars of Lebanon hospital. The appendicitis, it was said Dr. E. C. Moore, who was hurriedly summoned by the humorist, was a "complete success."

Mrs. Rogers was taken to the hospital last night from the Rogers ranch near Santa Monica. She had been ill for several weeks.

Senator Reynolds, Fairfield, Announces Line-up Behind Move to Reduce Number Of Statehouse Positions

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, Jan. 30—Lines were drawn tonight for a renewal of the seven-year-old battle in the legislature over abolishing the office of commissioner of education or state superintendent of public instruction, first executive office under the state board of education.

The action came on a day when business of the senate pushed it into its first afternoon session.

Senator Fred O. Reynolds, Fairfield, Democrat, Camas, announced he would call tomorrow for a report of the education committee on his bill to abolish the office of commissioner of education. The bill has been held in committee since it was introduced more than 10 days ago.

Meanwhile a measure is being considered by the house education committee providing for abolition of the superintendent and election of the board of education on a non-partisan ballot. At present the board is appointive.

Takes 23 Votes

"I have 21 members signed for my bill and two more have assured me they will vote with us," Reynolds said. It takes 23 votes to obtain his demand for a report from the committee and to pass the measure through the senate. The test probably will come Wednesday or Thursday as the committee has until then to report on his call.

The senate passed two forestry measures, one to reduce the state's share of the salary of the state forester from $3000 to $2000 and another modifying the regulations governing disposal of slashings. The forester has been paid $3500 a year until January 1 when federal funds of $500 a year were withdrawn.

Urging his bill, Senator Reed said the present law "is to benefit the large operators and freeze out the small ones." His bill provides that operators may burn their slash under supervision of a warden as at present, or may fasten it out and leave it. Under the present law the district forester determines how the slash will be disposed of.

Opposes Both Bills

Senator Chase Clark, Democrat, Bonneville, opposed both measures, dwelling particularly on the slashings measure as "providing too little protection for the state's timber resources." The vote was 23 to 20.

Representative Stacy, Democrat, Custer, later asked reconsideration of the slashings bill and it will be brought up tomorrow with its opponents predicting its defeat.

Another bill was introduced in the house setting up a new taxation system for timber. It provided for an 8 per cent "severance tax" to be collected after the timber is cut. The bill values $1 an acre all "forest lands" for general tax purposes, the severance tax to be additional.

The bill was described in its text as "to provide a fair and stable tax revenue from forest lands and forest crops; to encourage an orderly har-

SENATE COMMITTEE PASSES BEER BILL

Chance Appears for Passage Of Measure During Present Congressional Session

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Speedy action such as the senate seldom sees tonight had given the Collier-Blaine bill to legalize 3.05 per cent beer and wine a chance—just a chance—of passage at this session.

The speed was put on in the finance committee, which trimmed over the announced intentions of its chairman, Reed Smoot, Utah, to hold extended hearings on the bill; general merits, the committee blocked all that, voted favorably on the revenue-producing feature of the bill, and reported it back to the senate.

There it was tonight, on the calendar, but back of the pending relief measure.

Senate leaders announced that the Eighteenth amendment repeaser sponsored by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, would be given precedence over the beer bill, but they held out some hope that both would be voted on at this session of congress.

Announces Intentions

Senator Blaine announced he would move to take up his repeal resolution as soon as the senate has disposed of the pending treasury-postoffice appropriation bill. Senator Harrison, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, agreed that the repeaser be given precedence over the beer bill and agreed that repeal should be next on the senate program. Other appropriation bills, relief measures, and so forth, may, however, delay action.

The finance committee this morning heard Secretary Mills in executive session.

PACKERS DISCLOSE CAMPAIGN AGAINST FARM RELIEF BILL

South Dakota Publisher, However, Differs with Manufacturers Regarding Domestic Allotment Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—After it was attacked by the biggest packers before the senate agriculture committee today, the domestic allotment farm relief bill found a ready champion in W. R. Ronald, South Dakota newspaper-man and one of the leaders in the development of this plan of aid for agriculture.

The hearing disclosed that the Institute of American Meat Packers issued from [illegible],000 to 200,000 pamphlets to hog producers and commission men asserting the bill would be harmful and asking them, if they agreed, to protest to members of congress.

While the hearings on the big price-boosting bill continued, another senate group, the banking committee, went to work on two measures aimed at refinancing the

DETROIT WORKERS CONTINUE STRIKE

6000 Employes Involved in Ford Factory Shut-Down Decline to Resume Tasks

DETROIT, Jan. 30 (AP)—Practically all of the 6000 men who walked out last week ignored the deadline set for their return.

Ten persons, three of them women, were under arrest and two men were treated in hospitals following clashes between pickets and men who, police said, attempted to enter the employment gates of the company's plants. An expected rush of unemployed at noon, when the company said they would open their offices to applicants, failed to materialize.

Await Word From Ford

Meanwhile, automotive circles awaited word from Henry Ford, whose factories throughout the country were closed because, his officials said, their supply of auto bodies from the Briggs plant was cut off. Ford officials have indicated they would, if necessary, go into production with bodies in his own plants.

A Ford spokesman said tonight that the company would wait a few days before taking whatever steps may be necessary to resume production.

The Briggs company's statement early today that several hundred men returned to work was followed with a statement from the strike committee that "only a few" had passed the line of leering pickets to enter the employment offices. State police guarding the company's plants said a few had gone into the plants, "one or two at a time." The company declined to state the number of men who returned.

March in Circles

Pickets who marched in circles about the plants set upon two men who they declared attempted to enter the gates to seek employment. Arthur Noblet was beaten about the head. Stephen Lawrence was cut about the face when pickets threw a brick through the window of his car as he drove near the employment gates. A force of state police led the pickets back, and took both men to hospitals for treatment.

SEARCHERS FIND BODY OF NEVADA MINING MAN

ELKO, Nev., Jan. 30 (AP)—Frozen body of Guy Davis, well-known Nevada mining man, was found in the snow near Carlin by searchers yesterday, it was learned here today.

Davis and a companion named Mitchell left their camp in the Lynn district Friday to walk to Carlin and became lost in a blizzard. Mitchell finally reached safety at an isolated ranch house. Davis' only known relative is his mother in Illinois.

ARIZONA SOLONS DEFEAT WOMAN'S JURY MEASURE

PHOENIX, Jan. 30 (AP)—Arizona's male lawmakers thumbs down on woman jurors today.

A bill sponsored by Mrs. J. E. Berry, representative from Cochise county—one of the five women in Arizona's legislature—which would strike from the statute books the word "male" as a qualification for jury duty in this state, was indefinitely postponed by the upper legislative branch.

Under normal procedure, indefinite postponement kills a bill. The measure had been adopted by the house lower house with a comfortable margin of votes in its favor.

Bulldog Goes East By Plane To Next Chief Magistrate

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30 (AP)—The new canine guardian of the White House, "General Grant," snow-white $2000 prize-winning English bulldog, will leave Los Angeles Wednesday morning to take up his new duties as idle companion to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"General Grant" is a gift from Saul Alinder, Beverly Hills, California, breeder of dogs.

Mr. Roosevelt has asked that the dog be delivered to the Roosevelt town house in New York and said he would be there to extend a welcome.

"General Grant" will go first-class on the quick trip, being crated for passage in a warm passenger cabin, and accompanied by a flying stewardess who will supervise the feeding of a special diet. "Warming up" exercises will be taken by the thoroughbred during stops in Oakland, Salt Lake City, Chicago and Cleveland.

The dog comes from pedigreed stock of 10 generations and weighs 48 pounds.

LINDBERGH HOAX AUTHOR WANTS PARDON AT BOISE

POCATELLO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Ignace Blaustein, who caused a sensation here last March when he said he was driver of a car in which the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, has applied for a pardon from the state penitentiary at Boise, it was made known today. The petition will be heard at the board meeting in April. Blaustein is serving a term for burglary of a fraternity house at the southern branch of the University of Idaho.

Blaustein told such a plausible story concerning the Lindbergh kidnaping that he was held here until the arrival of two New Jersey state policemen who investigated the case. He later admitted the story was a hoax.

CLERIC FACES COURT FOR ATTACKING GIRL

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 30 (AP)—Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, pastor of the Madison Street Holiness Tabernacle church here, was indicted by the Delaware county grand jury today on charges of attempting to attack an 18-year-old high school girl and also of striking his choir master.

The minister, who is married and has five grown children, surrendered to Sheriff Fred W. Puckett. Bond was fixed at $3000 on the charge of assault and battery with intent to commit a criminal offense, and $500 was set on a charge of assault and battery.

The Rev. Mr. Conway will face a church trial soon for alleged improper conduct unbecoming a minister.

The minister denied the charges, asserting enemies within his church were responsible for the accusations.

DALADIER BECOMES PREMIER IN LATEST PARISIAN CABINET

First Serious Attempt to Form Semi-Socialist Government Since War Fails When Leaders Disagree

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, (Tuesday Morning) Jan. 31—Veteran Minister Edouard Daladier announced shortly after midnight that he had formed a new French cabinet with himself as premier and minister of war.

The first serious attempt to form a semi-Socialist government since the war failed previously when Daladier and Socialist leaders could not agree on a financial program.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, whose government was overthrown Saturday, was designated minister of foreign affairs. George Bonnet, president of the radical federation of the Seine and member of previous cabinets, will hold the important post of minister of finance; Lucien Lamoureaux, one-time minister of public instruction, was named minister of the budget, and Camille Chautemps, who unsuccessfully tried to form a cabinet after Edouard Herriot quit

TALK OF CABINET INCLUDES FARLEY, WALSH AND GLASS

Miss Frances Perkins Appears Also as Certain To Receive High Office In New Administration

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 30—Organization of the new Democratic government took shape rapidly here today as President-elect Roosevelt went into conference with his closest political advisers.

Tonight the following appeared to be certain cabinet members:

Senator Glass, Virginia, secretary of the treasury.

Senator Walsh, Montana, attorney general.

James A. Farley, New York, postmaster general.

Miss Frances Perkins, New York, secretary of labor.

There was reason to believe also that pressure will be brought to bear on Owen D. Young, New York financier and economic authority, to become secretary of state.

Still In Picture

That he had written a letter asking not to be considered went unheeded here, but those in "the know" were inclined to keep Young's name still in the picture.

With less than five weeks to go before taking office, Mr. Roosevelt got down to business on the vexing job of making more than a thousand new appointments of men to assist him in the direction of the government.

HITLER'S SUCCESS HOLDS SPOTLIGHT

Comments in World Capitals Range from Jubilation To Gloomy Predictions

(By The Associated Press)

Accession to power of Adolf Hitler in Germany brought comments in world capitals varying from jubilation to gloomy predictions of impending trouble.

PARIS.—Although official circles were not alarmed, there was a repercussion on the bourse, where Young plan bonds lost four francs in the day. Earlier the loss had ranged up to 18 francs. Official quarters kept a careful watch on the allegation and expressed interest especially in the new chancellor's attitude concerning the League of Nations and disarmament.

WASHINGTON — Little apprehension was voiced concerning the effect the appointment might have on international relations. It was believed the responsibility imposed upon the new chancellor would result in a more conservative policy than he has heretofore pursued.

LONDON — Talk of the appointment stirred into the background discussion of the forthcoming debts negotiations with America. The effect of the German Nazi victory on France became a matter of great moment to political circles.

BUDAPEST—Semi-official Pester Lloyd said: "As we see it, it is a matter of peaceful evolution. The only certain thing is that difficult times are ahead for Germany and a serious shock which may affect the destiny of all Europe can hardly be avoided."

BELGRADE — The pro-government Pravda heralded "the rise of the Nazis" as "the rebirth of the old imperialistic warlike Germany, thirsting for revenge."

VIENNA—The Allgemeine Zeitung described the situation as Germany's loss of "the second battle of the Marne," and added: "This appoint-

POLICE ARREST WEARER OF SUSPICIOUS CLOTHING

SEATTLE, Jan. 30 (AP)—It's no crime if your clothes don't fit, but they arrested Howard Ordrup anyway.

Three detectives, booking him today, said they noticed a wide gap between his vest and his trousers, and an unusual tightness of his coat. Intrigued, they followed him to a pawnshop where he pawned some other men, examining $300 worth of alleged loot stolen recently, including a suit of small size, lost by a doctor.

MIX AWAITS DECISION IN $342,000 LAWSUIT

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 30 (AP)—A $342,000 damage suit brought by Zack T. Miller, rancher and showman of Oklahoma, against Tom Mix, 53-year-old film cowboy, rested with the jury tonight.

Miller charged that Mix, after agreeing to join his 101 Ranch show in 1929 as a salary of $10,000 a week, broke the contract and joined another circus.

The trial lasted more than two weeks. In this time Mix's rise from a $35-a-month cow-puncher to star-dom in the movies was pictured to the jury and his earning power as a circus attraction was long debated. Judge U. P. Rossiter, in his instructions, told the jury it had one, or two questions to decide:

1. Was there a contract?

2. If so, what damages is Miller entitled to?

Two years ago the same case was tried. A jury awarded Miller 400,000 damages but an appeal was taken and a new trial granted.

Von Hindenburg Obtains Assurance of Constitutional Governmental Policies Before Elevating Nazi Chief

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, (Tuesday Morning) Jan. 31 — Pistol shots and knife thrusts, whereby one person was killed and several persons were wounded, were the exposition's answer this morning to the naming of Adolf Hitler's cabinet before the dawn of the second day of its existence.

At 1 A. M. a policeman, a member of a detail executing one hundred Nazis home after a demonstration in Wilhelmstrasse, was slain by shots from a darkened house.

Scores of smaller fights occurred throughout the capital.

At Kreuzberg, Nazis and Socialists and Communists engaged in a fight after the Communists' newspapers had been banned.

Police intervened. In Mannheim was marred by a fight with knives. One victim was believed to be dying.

Police in Berlin were forced to use clubs to disperse Nazis in the workers' districts which were flooded with Communist handbills, urging that a general strike begin at 7 A. M. today.

Nationalists Jubilant

Adolf Hitler achieved his long-sought goal—the chancellorship of the republic's cabinet, and Nationalist Germany was thrown into a paroxysm of joy at the union of President von Hindenburg and the Nazi leader in a common effort to pull the Fatherland out of the mire.

Hitler, having at last attained the coveted goal, must now show whether the Messiah-like hopes of 13,000,000 Germans in his statesmanship are justified.

The efforts of the Hitlerites as well as of the Nationalist followers of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, at last triumphed in bringing the three great movements of the right—the Nazis, the Nationalists, and the members of the Steel Helmet War Veterans' association—together after many ups and downs since they met for common effort at Harzburg in October, 1931.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg placed the highest political office of the reich in the hands of the former Austrian corporal and at the same time appointed Dr. Wilhelm Frick and Hermann Goering (Hitler lieutenants), Nationalist Leader Hugenberg and Steel-Helmet Leader Franz Seldte to the cabinet.

Unanimous Backing

Presiding over the first session of his cabinet of "national concentration," Chancellor Hitler tonight put through unanimous motions against all policies of suppression, economic adventures or financial experimentation.

He adjured his fellow cabinet members "under no circumstances to disappoint the manifestation of faith and trust which today found spontaneous expression among the rank and file of the German people."

Later in a press conference the chancellor through Dr. Frick, the new interior minister, assured German and foreign correspondents that "the new government seeks to live in peace and friendship with all the world."

Dr. Frick further asserted that the Hitler cabinet intends to govern strictly constitutionally, adding that it does not even intend to govern with the aid of Article 48 of the constitution, which grants the administration drastic powers in times of emergency.

Thousands of brown-shirted Nazi storm troopers and members of the Steel Helmet War Veterans' association, wearing their field gray uniforms, participated in a public demonstration of the new political unity.

Accept Salutes

President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler, standing in separate wings of the chancellery, accepted the combined salutes and hopes of several thousands of their demonstrators massed in Wilhelmplatz and the Wilhelmstrasse.

The storm troopers and the Steel Helmet veterans marched for almost six hours past the president's office. The octogenarian chief of the state looked out at them through a corner window from which Bismarck often bowed to admiring multitudes.

Meanwhile thousands of Nazis had congregated in the square near the Kaiserhof hotel, where Hitler has his quarters. Spontaneously they sang "Deutschland Uber Alles" and their party song.

Not until late yesterday was Hitler persuaded to accept the chancellorship under the limitations imposed by the president. He was von Hindenburg ready to hand the highest office to the Nazi dictator.

Two men managed to bridge the chasm between the field marshal and the former corporal. Former Chancellor Franz von Papen, who pressed upon von Hindenburg to accept Hitler, and Goering won out over Joseph Goebbels, another Hitler lieutenant, in insisting that the Nazi leader must no longer decline to put his shoulder to the wheel.

Praises Chief

The president's limitation consisted in associating with the new chancellor men having his personal confidence, such as Lieutenant Colonel von Papen, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, General Werner von Blomberg, and Count Lutz Schwerin von Krosigk. Also the president provided

Miss Aurora Anne Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hall and Claude Ellis Milligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Milligan, Kimberly, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at ten o'clock Sunday morning. There were fifty guests.

Bishop J. E. Allred performed the ceremony. "Lohengrin's Wedding March" was played by Miss Dorothy Kirkman, as the bride descended the stairs. She was met at the foot by her father.

The couple stood in front of the fireplace, which was banked with green foliage, ferns, yellow daffodils and white cyclamen, all the decorations being carried out in pale yellow and white. Mrs. Claude Brown and D. E. Harris sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Dorothy Kirkman. Miss Fern Hall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Don Chapin, Kimberly, was best man. The maid of honor wore a powder-blue dress trimmed in coral pink, made with a low yoke and bearing a corsage of pink sweet peas.

The bride was gowned in white flat crepe in the long mode, with tiny ruffles almost to the waist, and ruffles around the low-cut neck. She also wore a white flats-crepe turban with a veil, and carried a bouquet of pale yellow rose buds.

A buffet breakfast was served after the ceremony. The decorations in the dining room carried out the pale yellow and white color scheme, the table being covered with a beautiful cut work, white linen cloth with yellow underneath and centered with a huge wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom. Yellow tapers in crystal candlesticks were also used. Vernis Richards entertained the guest with saxaphone numbers later in the day.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Milligan will be at home in Kimberly.

Do You Know —

That the mortician is a vital factor in helping to preserve the health of the community.

Plagues and epidemics, so frequent in years gone by have been almost entirely wiped out due to the advance in medical science plus the unselfish devotion of the mortician in co-operation with the medical profession.

Scientific embalming does more than preserve; it effectively destroys the germs of contagious disease, and thus prevents the spread of epidemics. The TWIN FALLS MORTUARY fills a very important niche in this county, and the guarding of the community's health is but one of the many duties it performs, quietly and unobtrusively.

and rocks from the face of the 100-foot cliff flanking the quarry.

Warden Court Smith was immediately notified upon the accident and went into the quarry to take personal charge. He found rescue work difficult because some of the granite boulders that crashed onto the quarry floor were as large as half of a bungalow, and weighed more than 200 tons.

500 Men in Crew

The quarry crew at the time of the accident totaled 500 men. All were sent back to their cells and a select rescue crew of 50 convicts, including trusties, rushed to the scene from the prison farm, and set to work with air drills, picks, shovels and the quarry derrick.

It was at first though five or six men had been caught by the slide but a double check of all convicts in the prison, one on the line as it passed into the building and another after the convicts were locked in their cells for the night showed three missing and one in the hospital.

Rescued First

Van Sickle was rescued first. Then the workers found the bodies of Hughley and Mitchell and later discovered Jackson's body pinned beneath a granite boulder estimated to weigh at least 150 tons. He was identified by a strip of shirt showing his convict number and later checks showed him to be one of the missing men.

Members of the rescue crew were set to work drilling the boulder over Jackson's body. A charge of dynamite split it and at last his crushed form was freed.

The warden said Guard R. B. Todhunter had passed on the safety of the precipitous earth wall before the men were sent into the quarry today but that the recent rains undoubtedly had loosened the face, causing it to slip without warning.

ment opens up disastrous prospects for Germany at home and abroad." The National Socialist "Kampruf," however, announced Hitler's victory with an extra edition which contained demands for an immediate dissolution of the Austrian parliament and new elections.

ROME—Newspapers acclaimed the appointment and described it as a vindication of a Fascism and an indication that the movement was spreading.

WARSAW — The consensus in Polish political circles appeared to be that the Germans would have so much internal trouble with the advent of a Hitler cabinet that the question of changing the Eastern frontiers would be relegated to the background.

BUCHAREST — The Hitler government in Germany did not provoke any excitement in Rumanian government circles. The belief was expressed generally that the presence in the cabinet of former Chancellor von Papen, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg and other non-Nazis would dilute the Nazi program and forestall any danger of upsetting Europe.

PRAGUE — Czecho-Slovakia was thrown into excitement by the coming into power of Adolf Hitler. Crowds on the streets of Prague agitatedly discussed it. Official quarters said to wait and see what Hitler has to say. The rightist press was alarmed.

COUNCIL WIELDS AXE ON SALARIES

Second Reduction In Year Promises Saving of $2100 to $2500 to City

Twin Falls city council in regular session last evening promptly, and without discussion, adopted a 10 per cent salary-reduction ordinance that had been discussed at last week's meeting, and which is expected to effect a saving of from $2100 to $2500 in municipal expenses, if continued throughout the year.

Salary reductions which this measure makes effective are the second reduction in pay of Twin Falls municipal employes since the current fiscal year opened last May. Salaries of city officials, except councilmen, were reduced approximately 10 per cent in a retrenchment move last June, and the wage scale was reduced from 50 to 45 cents an hour.

In connection with this second salary cut, member of the council announced their purpose to turn back into the city treasury 10 per cent of the salaries which the "commission form" law prescribes for mayor and councilmen. Under this plan, the mayor will receive $45 instead of $50 per month, and each of the four other members of the council will receive $33.50 instead of $37.50 per month.

The new, reduced salaries, in comparison with salaries paid since last June's reduction, are as follows:

	Former	New

on the war debt issue, becomes minister of the interior.

Announcement of other appointees was expected later.

As soon as Socialist participation in the cabinet was declared impossible, M. Daladier, who regained leadership of the Radical Socialist party after the downfall of Herriot, set to work rapidly. A few hours after the announcement that Socialist leaders could not agree with M. Daladier on a financial program, the premier-designate announced formation of the cabinet.

It had been expected that the composition of his government would be similar to that of his predecessor, M. Herriot and M. Paul-Boncour.

Like the two previous cabinets, which had to contend with war debts and budget problems, the new cabinet will be at the mercy of the Socialists, but it is considered unlikely that the latter will be hostile at least in the first few days.

Friends of the Family

LOOK at the packages on your pantry and bathroom shelves, and see what a multitude of brand names you recognize. Some of them have been familiar for years. You may have made the acquaintance of others only a few weeks ago. But even these are not suspected strangers. You have bought them confidently because they were advertised. And it is the same with your sheets and towels, your shoes and clothes, your electric appliances, the car in your garage—nearly everything you use.

Advertised products have a standing that commands respect. They are not nameless, but vouched for by responsible firms. The fact that they are advertised is in itself an indication that their standards of quality are strictly maintained, that they represent honest value.

As science and discovery go on, newly developed products are constantly being advertised—ready to help you save money and improve your standard of living. Every advertisement of such a product you read in your daily paper is a letter of introduction to a new and possibly useful friend.

It will pay you to read the advertisements in this paper every day. By so doing you will meet many choice products—worthy to become friends of the family.

EARLY PIONEER OF BUHL HEARS CALL

James Albert Milner, City's First Justice of Peace, Dies In West End

BUHL, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—James Albert Milner, 71, an early settler on the Twin Falls tract, who was present at the opening of the townsite of Buhl, died at his home here yesterday.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 P. M. at the local Presbyterian church, of which he was a member, Rev. O. W. Halsey will be in charge.

Mr. Milner was born in Grant county, Wisconsin, April 27, 1861. When he was eight years of age, he moved with his parents to Charles City, Iowa, where he lived until soon after his marriage to Miss Neenah Wood, Duluth, Minnesota, where he was engaged in the mercantile business and a mining office.

In 1900, he responded to an invitation of Stanley Milner, who was promoting the Twin Falls tract, to come to Idaho. He was present at the opening of the Buhl townsite, and had the third drawing, which specified the lot on which the Buhl state bank now stands. The brick for the bank building was supplied from a brick yard in which Mr. Milner had an interest.

Mr. Milner was in the real estate business for a number of years. He planted one of the first orchards on the tract, and up until last fall, had managed a large crew of apple workers for two months each year. He was the first justice of peace in Buhl, and was nominated for the first mayor, but declined the nomination.

Following his marriage, five children were born. Two girls died in childhood and the oldest son died during the World war.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Neenah Milner, and a son and a daughter: Robert L. Milner, Buhl; and Mrs. Ruth DeGolia, Pasadena, California. Three sisters, Mrs. Laura McAdams, Salem, Oregon; Mrs. Florence Case, Charles City, Iowa; and Mrs. A. M. Burghdoff, Madison, Wisconsin, also survive.

RESIDENTS OF BUHL GATHER AT SOCIALS

BUHL, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Several Buhl groups have enjoyed social events in the past week.

Her guests, besides the honor guest, were teachers of the Lincoln building and Mrs. Eleanor Van Houten, of the junior high school. When Mrs. Coult returned to her home she had another surprise, a party comprising Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hopkins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bishop and son, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brock and son, who had come after church with a potluck dinner.

Rebekah Kensington which was scheduled to meet Wednesday, February 1, at the William Vogel home, has been changed owing to road conditions and will meet at the regular time in the Odd Fellows hall for a covered-dish luncheon.

Buhl Firemen's plans are under way for their twenty-sixth annual ball to be given February 14 at the Legion hall. The music will be supplied by Bus Vaughn and his Navigators.

ALBION MAN FILES FOR ADMINISTRATIVE POST

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—C. E. Simonsen, Albion, has filed petition for letters of administration on the estate of Clarence E. Boocock, late president of the Albion normal school, who lost his life in an automobile accident near Pocatello.

The petition recites that near-surviving relatives are the widow, Lillian Boocock, and son Orem L. Boocock, residing in Albion but temporarily in Colorado. The estate is alleged to approximate $22,388 in value, and includes a farm in Cassia county, one in Canyon county, one in Illinois and one in South Dakota, together with warrants, bonds, stocks and mortgages and other personal property. There is said to be a large life insurance and accident policy in force, not included in the inventory.

Elephant Gets Mixed Reception

REPRESENTATIVE FRED BRITTEN, Illinois Republican, brought a baby elephant up the steps to congress to forecast a return of his party from the state in which the last election left it. Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democratic floor leader, proceeded to shove it off as Britten with peanuts "tempted it to stay. "Watch it grow," he chortled. "Let it grow outside," said Rainey, "but not around here."—(AP) Photo.

REPAYMENTS OF LOANS PLEASE SEED OFFICIAL

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Of $81,378 borrowed by Cassia county farmers under the provisions of the crop production loan authorization of the United States department of agriculture, $51,268 was reported collected by January 15, it is disclosed in a letter to committee members from Clarence Hart, collection manager, Salt Lake City seed loan office.

Hart commends what he terms a fine showing, complimentary to the lending committee and to the integrity and ability of the borrowers. Further collections are expected from crops in storage, he observes, the present payments being 63 per cent of the total borrowed. The showing indicated productiveness and stability of the county, the letter concludes.

BURLEY TESTS COWS

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special to The News) — Individual cow testing, as especially recommended for members of the Burley-Declo Holstein Buhl association, is to be made available to any dairy farmer desiring in Cassia county. Details are now being worked out by W. W. Palmer, county agent.

Dairymen are to weigh morning and afternoon milk from each cow once a month, and a sample is to be taken and sent, boxed to the cream station serving the patron. Free testing is offered their patrons by the Mini-Cassia Dairymen's Association. Outside testing will be done at the Mini-Cassia receiving station for 3 cents a sample.

BURLEY STUDIES PLANS TO LIMIT POTATO CROP

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Arrangements will be made in the near future for a meeting in Burley to take action on a proposal to limit potato acreage the coming season. Such meetings have been held in the upper Snake river valley, says P. J. Kerstiaink, manager of the Cassia Potato Marketing association, and it is asserted that leading growers in the districts where such conferences have been held are unanimously in favor of limiting plantings.

L. R. Hart, Pocatello, sales manager for the National fruit and vegetable exchange, avers that there is not a bright spot on the horizon in the marketing of the 1933 crop yet to be produced. There is really no hope for potato growers unless an organization can be effected that will be a factor in encouraging producers to reduce their acreage, grow and ship the very best quality, control the price, and regulate movement to market, he maintains.

"Whoa, Engine! what's got into you?"

Here's gas to excite motors. It makes them quick on the trigger . . . fast on the move. Choking is hardly required for a quick, snappy start and a take-off like a quail on the wing.

Even old motors . . . wheezy, snorting, complaining motors . . . cut capers you just can't believe. If you doubt it, just try it. It's like rich, racing blood injected into old veins.

This gasoline is so new . . . so "different" . . . so quick, fast, powerful, and economical, it's hard to give it a name. Perhaps YOU can. When you FEEL your motor's response, it may come to you like a flash.

Ask at any Conoco station for the new bronze-colored, high-test gasoline—and an entry blank. Help name it and describe it. You may win a part of $10,000.00. You are SURE to win a grand, new thrill, and that is worth a heap. Make the test TODAY.

NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES

PRUDDEN, KING AND PRUDDEN, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle.

COMMON SENSE ON WAR DEBTS

When the British war debt conference in Washington was mentioned the other day in the Senate, one of the irreconcilables shouted that Congress had "closed the door" against further reduction of the debts, and demanded that the outgoing and incoming presidents conduct themselves accordingly. Then arose another senator and silenced him with the accusation of "playing cheap politics."

It was a timely rebuke. There have been far too many United States senators and representatives playing cheap and shallow politics with this question during the last year and a half. There was both demagogy and ignorance in the loudly-voiced demand, from both sides of the House and Senate, that no further moratorium or revision should ever be granted, and that the United States government should proceed with the impossible task of collecting those foreign debts to the last dollar.

Fortunately, under the leadership of both parties, Congress is beginning at last to face facts, and is looking forward to such national revision as may at the same time ease the plight of the debtors and promote the interests of the creditors, instead of losing everything by demanding everything.

"The debt question," remarks Newton D. Baker, former war secretary, "can be settled in a manner which will open a way for the restoration of international trade, provided the problem is viewed from the standpoint of curing the patient and not obtaining a diplomatic advantage for one country or the other.

"For years this subject has been bedevilled with national pride and fantastic suggestions. At last the question is to be approached in a frank study in which it is to be hoped national pride will play no part, but the sufferings of mankind will be considered. The problem is not one of emotional cancellation on the one side or emotionally rigid collection on the other. What both sides should seek is the thing wise to do, to rehabilitate a stricken world and start again an international trade which has been stopped dead in its tracks.

"The most important thing at the moment is to have America think its way through this problem in such a fashion as to make a helpful atmosphere for the conference, so that a speedy result can be made and accepted."

BIG BRAINS COMMITTEE

There is now a plan, credited to Professor Albert Einstein, for "an international committee of the 25 greatest minds of the world to function in the best interests of mankind." The idea is that such a committee would go into a huddle and emerge with a master-plan whenever there was a world crisis. It would also speak out against flagrant injustice.

What has become of our own "best minds"? We thought, not long ago, that we had plenty of them, not only to solve our American problems but to plan for all mankind. And what is the matter with the other nations' best minds, supposed to be functioning at Geneva for economic action and international justice?

The big difficulty now is that so many master-minds have been discredited and deflated. Six are supposed to be chosen from the United States for the world committee. Can we furnish that many? "Invitations are to be issued," we are told, "only to intellectuals of the highest order." And are there to be no men of action?

Well, the line of candidates will form on the right. Or rather, on the left. "The members," says the spokesman, "must be powerful personalities of international renown, and they must be known for their liberal views." Dr. Einstein presumably will be in it. He can do the figuring. The sooner the outfit gets on the job, the better.

TECHNOCRACY OUT

Columbia University, which sponsored the Technocracy movement, casts it out. Or rather, it casts out a man and a name. Howard Scott, chief Technocrat and spokesman, is eliminated. The term Technocracy is dropped. The group of researchers is retained and the work continues.

The group will pursue its "energy survey," studying the natural resources of this continent and our industrial processes and changes.

Scott has been a great showman, whatever his technical qualifications may be. The term "Technocracy" has been magical in its appeal and challenge. Both together have forced upon national attention two mightily important things—the machine-made idleness and the "debt power" now gripping the country.

The Forum

Articles on topics of current interest not exceeding three hundred words in length will be published under this heading. Publication of author's name at option of the Editor. No attention will be paid to unsigned communications.

The News would compliment the writers of the two letters which follow upon the brevity of each. Each presents his views with an economy of words which renders the subject matter clear and easily read, and in all likelihood each will be more widely and carefully read than are longer articles of similar character.

This by way of emphasis of the fact that newspapers welcome short communications and are very often quite loathe to find space for those occupying a column or more of space.—The Editor.

WOULD ELIMINATE WEED MAN

Editor, Twin Falls News:

Dear Sir:

I wish to add a few words in favor of retaining the county agent, because if the allotment bill goes through, as I hope it will, the government will need the county agent, and so will we.

I would suggest that the weed man be eliminated for a year or two, and let the county agent see or look after the weed killing business as much as he may have time.

The noxious weeds will not hurt us not nearly so much as an unbalanced budget. I am thinking, again as I understand it, the county agent is the only direct representative of the agricultural department in the county seat.

And yet I might say that the county agent has not benefited me five cents worth directly, but neither has the sheriff or the county surveyor or the noxious weed man. If I should find any noxious weeds on my place, I sure won't wait for the weed man to come along, I go after that myself, I even step on a bull thistle once in a while.

Yours Respectfully,
D. E. BURKEY.

INFLATION NOT TO BLAME

Editor, Twin Falls News.

Dear Sir:

As people in all stations of life have more or less expressed their opinion as to the cause and cure of our present depression, one more may do no harm. So as a farmer (which by some in considered a lowly station) I would express an opinion in part at least, through the columns of the News, trusting it will be of some interest to your readers.

To my mind, the primary and direct cause of the depression was brought about by inflation of credit, that is to say, when credit exceeded, virtually, the cash value of the wealth of the nation.

Now, by virtue of that inflation this country went through one of the greatest periods of prosperity in the history of this nation; hence its greatest fall.

The above, in my opinion, is not the only cause of our depressions. Mass production by improved machinery, throwing labor out of employment, thereby lessening purchasing power, hence throwing production and consumption out of balance.

It is my opinion one of the world's greatest troubles has been and is, Labor, and that includes machines, is not properly directed and utilized.

Briefly stated, I think the above is apparent to all thinking minds, therefore the remedy to me is quite apparent; cut out credit. A medium of exchange sufficient to meet the business of the nation; the nation to adopt a scheme of national insurance adequate to take up the slack in labor, thereby lessening the labors in the field of production of goods, and the result, a strengthening of consumption.

Should I express my opinion further, this nation or government is making a grave mistake in its policy in trying to speed up production. Running our farms, factories and mills at full blast is not a cure.

If I have made any mistakes in the foregoing, I will be pleased if some one will kindly point them out, as no one knows it all.

(Signed) W. W. CANTLON.

BURLEY MAN ADVISES CLOSE TUBER GRADING

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Frank J. Kershisnik, managing the Cassia county potato marketing pool, has received a letter from L. R. Hart, Pocatello, sales manager for the national fruit and vegetable exchange, advising that only prime potatoes should be shipped on the present market.

The trade is discriminating against potatoes not up to the highest standard, he declares. They must be smooth, bright, clean, medium or large and free from decay to meet the market demand.

"Pop" Warner Expects To Lead Temple To Grid Laurels

Within Two Years Coach Anticipates Favorable Results

After Receiving Silver, Full-Sized Football from Varsity Men, Mentor Speaks Of School's Next Season

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner sees big things for Temple university in the football years of the next few years.

The "Old Fox," new coach at Temple, made his first visit to the university today since he announced last fall he would become tutor for the Owls.

Speaking for himself, "Pop" said he was glad to come to Temple from Stanford, as he was when he went to Pitt from Carlisle.

"It's the college of opportunity for me," he declared.

"Conditions are favorable," he said, in a general review of prospects, "for developing Temple into a prominent contender for national football prestige. We should be able to tackle the biggest teams in the East within a couple of years."

Starts Lot of Rumors

"Pop" started a lot of rumors in local football circles as his possible board of strategy when he takes over the gridiron reins at the North Philadelphia institution — but he side-stepped neatly all attempts to pin him to naming his two assistants.

The grizzled gridiron veteran said he felt somewhat tired because of the rushing around he had done since his arrival yesterday. He has recovered from a cold, however, and he talked freely about the game.

Receives Gift

After receiving a silver-plated, full-sized football from a group of 1932 varsity men, as a welcoming gift, "Pop" spoke of Temple's coming season.

"I'm going to supervise all spring practices of the Temple squad," he said. "We begin training about March 1. I'll drill the players for about six weeks with the help of my two assistants, whom I will bring to Philadelphia."

Football, he declared, is one thing in which the East and West meet on common ground. There is no difference between the West coast and the Eastern brand of the game, according to "Pop"—and he ought to know.

tive session for about an hour and then voted, 12 to 5, to report the bill back to the senate.

Will Air Views

Smoot had announced that hearings would be held, and several prohibition leaders were waiting outside the committee room to testify when the vote was taken. Dismissed unheard, the "drys" decided to air their views at a public hearing here next Friday.

Mills told the committee what he had already testified to a house committee that the bill would produce from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 in revenue. He said he was unable to estimate what, if any, additional revenue might be realized by the inclusion of 3.05 per cent wine as well as beer.

The bill's provision for a $5 a barrel tax on brew was endorsed by the treasury head as likely to raise more revenue than any other levy.

An amendment designed to increase the revenue was voted down by the committee without a record vote—a proposal by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, to levy an excess profits tax ranging from 10 to 30 per cent to brewers.

The final vote found six Republicans and six Democrats, voting for the measure, while two Republicans — and three Democrats opposed it. Here is the line up:

For: Republicans; Watson, Indiana; Reed, Pennsylvania; Shortridge, California; Bingham, Connecticut; La-Follette, Wisconsin; Hastings, Delaware. Democrats; Harrison, Mississippi; King, Utah; George, Georgia; Walsh, Massachusetts; Barkley, Kentucky, and Hull, Tennessee.

Against: Republicans, Smoot, Utah; Keyes, New Hampshire. Democrats, Connally, Texas; Gore, Oklahoma; and Costigan, Colorado.

secretary; the two men who were in the high command in the campaign, talked over the patronage situation. The president-elect gave no hint the slightest bit of his cabinet choices or whether these had been discussed.

Chic's Birthday Cake

Late in the day, after cutting his birthday cake before the children at the hotel here, Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen in the presence of Democratic leaders with him: "I regard the cabinet as peculiarly my own official family, to be named only by me."

This statement was regarded as final and it was said later that the cabinet posts had not come up at the Roosevelt meeting today. It was concluded, however, that patronage questions had come up.

But the gathering of Democratic leaders here stirred plenty of speculation. It ran the gamut of cabinet offices and appointments to the diplomatic corps and lesser offices.

Frank Walker, national party treasurer; Edward J. Flynn, New York party leader; and Robert Cross, Chicago, were others of the Democratic chieftains arriving here.

The speculation on diplomatic posts turned on Newton D. Baker, Ohio, for London; Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, for Paris; Robert Dunham, Chicago, for Berlin, and Clark Howell, Atlanta publisher, for Tokyo or Rome.

Responsive Chord

News received meanwhile that the New York Life Insurance company had suspended mortgage foreclosures in Iowa struck a responsive chord among farm belt members of congress.

Senator Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, expressed the hope that it would "encourage other companies to do likewise." Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, remarked, however, that the company had "just bowed to the rebellion against foreclosures that is all over Iowa and other states."

Late in the day, the house passed a bill to make extensive changes in the bankruptcy laws and to spend money (which it would go far in helping to solve the farmer's debt problem).

G. F. Swift, Chicago, president of Swift and company, and chairman of the committee on public relations of the Institute of American Meat Packers, told the committee that enactment of the bill would raise the price of pork, ham and bacon 100 per cent and make a large part of the production of hogs unsalable.

F. S. Snyder, Boston, also representing the Institute, predicted the bill would "lead to disaster." He added that in the East pork would become "25 per cent higher—than beef with disastrous effect upon the sale of pork in that region."

Paid For By Group

A copy of the pamphlet issued by the Institute was produced by Chairman McNary, Republican, Oregon, who said it had been called to his attention by Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota. Swift readily testified that it had been paid for by his group and circulated "quite widely."

Taking the stand in support of the bill, Ronald, editor of the Evening Republican, Mitchell, South Dakota, outlined changes he thought might be made advantageously in the measure as passed by the house.

Answering the arguments of the packers, he said their contentions as to the results were justified unless control of production were established in advance of levying the tax and paying the adjustment charge. He then outlined a method of providing for such advance control.

Under the bill the packer and other processors of wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs, rice, peanuts and dairy products would be taxed to provide a bounty to the farmer to bring his price up to the pre-war level. In return the farmer must cut production 20 per cent.

Ronald hit out, particularly at the contention which has been advanced that the bill constitutes a "sales tax" on necessities to benefit the farmer at the expense of another class.

North Carolina has improved approximately 5000 miles of highways in the past 18 months.

ADOLF HITLER'S RISE TO REICH LEADERSHIP STARTS BERLIN RIOTS

a check by putting in the new administration men of different political persuasions from Hitler, such as Dr. Hugenberg and Seldte. At the same time he acceded to Hitler's taking into the cabinet two of his trusted lieutenants, Goering and Frick.

Moreover, Hitler, in the presence of President von Hindenburg, toasted with a handshake to von Papen and Seldte that he would not endeavor to rid himself of the non-Nazi members of the cabinet nor would he try to oust tried and trusted government functionaries from office to make room for Nazis.

The parties supporting the new regime are assured of 247 votes in the reichstag, while the majority needed consists of 248. The new regime hopes that the centrists will at least tolerate a Hitler cabinet, thereby preventing adoption of a non-confidence vote by the reichstag.

The centrists at present are, assuming a reserved attitude but they frankly state they are skeptical about the new government. To prevent Germany's gliding into a reign of unconstitutionality, however, they seemed inclined tonight to exercise benevolent neutrality. Their final attitude will be fixed, however, only after their leader, Dr. Ludwig Kaas, has conferred tomorrow with the chancellor.

That the reichstag, which is scheduled to convene not later than February 7, will not sit long, seems to be a foregone conclusion. The new government expects the reichstag to pass an enabling act giving the cabinet a free hand to govern without reichstag interference for six months. If such an enabling act is refused dissolution seems certain.

sustained yield of forest products, and to provide protection to the watersheds of Idaho."

Introduces Bill

A bill introduced by Representative Gossett, Democrat, Canyon, and signed by 19 other representatives prohibited any legislator accepting a public office with an income greater than his actual expenses. If enacted it was considered likely to affect at least three members of the present legislature who have been mentioned for appointments. Senator Nate Smith, Democrat, Idaho, (for United States marshal); Representative Robert Coulter, Democrat, Valley, for state land commissioner, and Representative King, Democrat, Canyon, for state prison farm superintendent.

Continuation of federal aid allotments by which Idaho received $1,500,000 yearly instead of the proposed reduction which trims Idaho's allotment to $245,000 as in the present bill before congress was asked in a memorial passed by the house.

A bill introduced by Senators Moore, Democrat, Bingham, Pettibone, Democrat, Idaho, and Swanstrom, Democrat, Fremont, reduced widows' and soldiers' exemptions by specifying that the $1000 property exemption will be granted only to those with $2500 or less of property and other than those with those with $5000 in property, as at present.

Eastman Prepares To Race With Carr

"Shuffling' Ben," Famous on Coast, Wants Another Chance at Eastern Ace

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Jan. 30 (AP)—Swinging through the grove of eucalyptus trees, a small but rugged roadster comes to a rattling halt before old Stanford oval.

Six feet of youth unlimbes itself from the cramped interior of the car.

A few minutes later the son of a wealthy California family has exchanged old cords and sweater for track garb and is racing round the turn. The "great comeback" is under way.

"Shuffling' Ben," the string-bean boy who made the name "Eastman" famous on the cinderpaths, is getting ready to do a lot of running this spring. It is disclosing no secret to say his long legs are itching to match strides again with Bill Carr.

The Pennsylvania "flier" was the only one last year who could show his heels to Eastman, a feat accomplished three times to the extreme amazement of a Western tandom whose collective mind had been made up "Big Ben" was invincible at 400 meters and 440 yards.

Beaten convincingly by his rival in the Inter-collegiate American Amateur Athletic association championship, the American team trials and then the Olympic games, all during California's greatest athletic carnival, "Big Ben" is still willing to tackle "Little Bill" at any time or time, tomorrow or next week. He hopes the chance will come in the next national inter-collegiates.

The be-spectacled Stanford blond has no illusions as to his chance of squaring accounts with Carr. His attitude as to the outcome of another race, if one takes place, is non-committal.

This is where Eastman's coach, Robert Lyman (Dink) Templeton comes in. Fighter from the word go, Templeton is just rounding into form after a battle with serious illness that laid him low for a year and a half.

Templeton is equally irreconcilable in the matter of competition between his protege and Carr. Despite Carr's victories, the Stanford coach believes Eastman will win if they meet in the inter-collegiates this year.

Fight Promoters Visit Windy City

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP) — Jack Dempsey and Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, arrived today with a strong hint that the Schmeling-Max Baer bout scheduled for June be decided in Soldier field, early in June.

Dempsey and Jacobs planned a series of conferences with officials of the "Century of Progress" and the next few days probably will see the foundations laid for the big heavyweight bout on Chicago's lake front, where Promoter Dempsey himself battled Gene Tunney in 1927 in boxing's greatest spectacle.

In 1932 the federal government appropriated more than $25,000,000 including some expenditures in Alaska, for citizens of Indian blood.

Belgium has a law which will bring under strict control all machines and electrical devices which cause interference with radio reception.

GRANGERS ARRANGE FOR GATHERING AT HANSEN

HANSEN, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—All officers of the Twin Falls county Pomona Grange are to attend the regular meeting of Hansen Grange at the local Community hall February 4, at 8 P. M., along with four of the state officers, and Mrs. C. D. Prentice, Buhl, state lecturer; C. O. Peebler, Buhl, treasurer of the Grange benefit fund; E. L. Adkins, Buhl, chairman of the state Grange executive committee; and David Roehk, Twin Falls, state deputy, who are to address the Grangers.

Jones won the title with a short but dynamic right cross to Slaughter's face.

As the seventh round opened Slaughter crossed his right to Jones' jaw. Jones sent a left into the ear, and then missed a right to the head. They traded right crosses. Then the Akron fighter fired another right cross which sent Slaughter down for the count.

Both fighters were wary in the opening rounds but began to open up in the third. Jones held a slight advantage in the fourth and began cutting loose with his right cross in the fifth. Slaughter stirred the crowd with a series of sharp rights and lefts to Jones' jaw.

ACEQUIA YOUTHS ENJOY BOXING AND WRESTLING

ACEQUIA, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Each Tuesday night, budding boxers, and ambitious grapplers gather at Acequia high school for fistic and muscular competition.

Unless Otto Reisch, Philadelphia, drops his final match, Hall will finish at the bottom of the list. If Reisch loses, they will be tied for the lowest position.

Americans Win Doubles Title

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 30 (AP)—Touring United States tennis team today climaxed its Australian invasion by winning the Australian doubles championship but failed in its quest for the singles title, retained by Jack Crawford.

Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American doubles champions, won the doubles title in straight sets from Crawford and E. F. Moon, 6-4, 10-8, 6-2, but Gledhill was no match for the brilliant Australian international, in the singles final and fell, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2. It was Crawford's third straight championship, a record for the event.

Thus the American team, although winning three team catches and lying out, did not win either of the major singles titles for which its members competed. Crawford defeating Vines in the finals of the Victorian championships. Vines and Gledhill won the Victorian doubles title, defeating Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, their teammates, in the finals.

By JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Stocks were quietly firm today in the dullest trading since last Friday.

The market, obviously awaiting dividend announcements scheduled for later this week, was sustained in its vigil by another moderate rise among rail stocks.

Also, the hope that spring eternal probably caused traders to look for a reduction rather than complete omission of the United States Steel preferred disbursement at tomorrow afternoon's meeting; Wall street learned last week that some change was coming, though its extent was left a matter of conjecture.

Markets were unperturbed by the fall of two European cabinets. Hitler's accession to the Reich chancellorship was accompanied by reactions in German bonds and an easy mark. But there was no other perceptible repercussions to an event which a year or more ago was anticipated with uneasiness by the financial community. Europe's internal politics, even though it may appear at times to overlap international boundaries has ceased to exert much influence here.

Creditable Showing

Railroad stocks made a creditable showing, with New York Central, Pennsylvania, Atlanta Pa. Union Pacific, Lackawanna, and Delaware and Hudson up from minor fractions to 3 points. Canadian Pacific also picked up a point. Carriers have been giving the market most of its support over the past week, and traders who look to that group for cues as to probable trends are getting crumbs of encouragement from such firmness. December earnings proved better than expected; also the national transportation committee's report expected in a fortnight is being counted on for consecutive recommendations.

United States Steel closed steady. The preferred, after a small early setback, was up half a point net while the common finished unchanged. Bethlehem sagged slightly, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Harvester, Case, American Telephone, National Dairy and several others bettered themselves slightly. General Motors, whose dividend meeting comes Wednesday, closed with a smal gain. Borden was steady. Standard Oil of New Jersey drifted off for a time but hardened; Wall street is wondering whether the usual extra payment will be voted this week. Tobacco firmed toward the close. Sales totaled 476,855 shares.

—Irregular Course —

Foreign exchanges took an irregular course. Strength of sterling and firmness in some Far Eastern, which rallied with a fresh spurt in silver metal, contrasted with a heavy Canadian dollar and a weak Danish currency. The latter reflected suspension of exchange business at Copenhagen.

The budget news budget was limited to routine reports. Steel production, it seems, has made its fourth consecutive weekly increase, representing a recovery of about 20 per cent from the holiday low. Woolworth's 1932 earnings, equivalent to 4.27 a share of capital stock, compared unfavorably with a year ago, but the comparison was influenced by deductions for foreign exchange losses.

—Approval of extension of the Glass-Steagall bill, maintaining for another year an expanded currency base, and of the federal gasoline tax, by the house of representatives, were hardly in the nature of surprises. Wall street's interest in the bankruptcy bill is lively, but the outcome of the debate on this measure by the house was not known during business hours.

(Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—Stimulated by reports of an upward leap of wheat prices further along in the season was predicted by British government advisers, breadstuffs here advanced today.

British trade authorities were represented as having come to a conclusion that during the present year the world stock of wheat would be greatly reduced, and that supply and demand would approximate more nearly the economic adjustment that had been the case for a long time. Another strengthening influence was that Washington official advices indicated European wheat consumption had not been curtailed to any large extent because of high import duties of various countries.

Wheat closed firm, ¼c to ⅝c above Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to ¼c lower; oats ⅛c down, and provisions unchanged to 5c decline.

Carry-Over Small

Contributing to an upward trend of wheat values, after some hesitancy at the start were assertions that the Canadian wheat carry-over this season promised to be only 43,000,000 bushels, and that United States supplies in the crop year 1933-34 would be little if any beyond home needs. It was also current talk that a short spring wheat crop in this country would engender an extremely critical situation.

A decrease of 1,781,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total today reduced the aggregate stock to 153,649,000 bushels, compared with 204,298,000 a year ago.

If the absence of aggressive buying, such as was evident Saturday, and May corn sold within 1 cent of the season's bottom level. United States corn was about in line for export, but the seaboard failed to confirm any overseas business.

Provisions were responsive to hog market downturns.

BEET MEN DISCUSS AFFAIRS WITH POPE

Value of Industry, Tariff, Philippine Independence And Freight Claim Thought

BOISE, Jan. 30 (Special to The News)—Benefits of the beet industry to Idaho, tariff protection, recommendations for Philippine independence, and protests on freight rates were subjects of a discussion here Saturday between George Cobby, Blackfoot, K. C. Barlow and W. E. Willis, Rupert, Idaho beet growers' association officials, and Senator-elect James P. Pope, Boise.

Figures were presented showing the benefits of this industry to the state of Idaho. It was pointed out that approximately $6,000,000 were paid for beets delivered, labor and supplies for the year 1932. The labor figure does not include the by-products and other benefits which in round numbers will amount to one-third of the above sum, Mr. Barlow stated.

7700 Growers

"An idea of the importance of this industry may be had when it is pointed out that there are 7700 beet growers in the state of Idaho, and 77,000 beet growers in the United States," he said.

"If the American beet growers were given a larger share of the American sugar market, it would be of inestimable value in restoring the economic equilibrium we are endeavoring to right," the vice president stated.

The senator-elect was urged to give the beet grower proper protection through the maintenance of an adequate tariff. He said this condition is is felt we should at least have the present tariff, if not an increased one," said Mr. Barlow.

The bill recently before congress asking for the independence of the Philippine Islands within a period of 10 years was felt to be unsatisfactory in that it "does not grant independence soon enough." The senator-elect was urged to support a bill that would give, if not immediate independence, independence within a five-year period.

Poorest Freight Rates

"At present, the Western beet grower is at a disadvantage in the matter of freight rates when compared with foreign imports," Mr. Barlow said. It was pointed out that we should have such freight adjustments as would "do away with this discrimination." He was urged to lend his influence in behalf of a cheaper rate to Missouri river common points, which the railroads are willing to grant, but which due to high present time has not been granted by the public utilities commission.

The senator-elect said he had an open mind as to the questions involved and would be guided by what would be to the best interests of all.

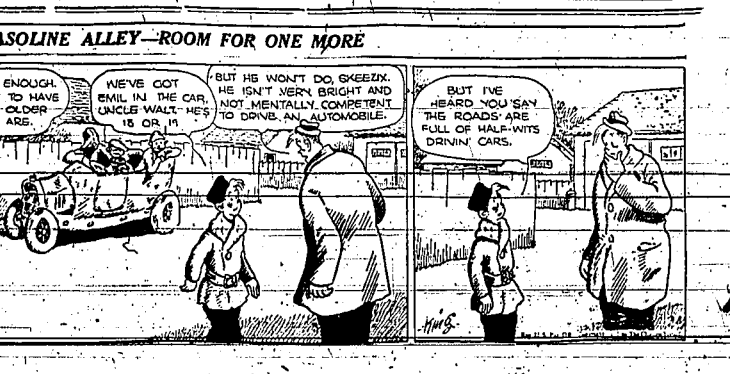
GASOLINE ALLEY—ROOM FOR ONE MORE



$Buying Barbara

by Julia Clark-Addams • Author of "THE CAT'S MAKE"

SYNOPSIS: Lelia Cane learns that Mark Lodely, whom she has loved secretly for years, is cured of his lameness. Barbara Quentin has broken her engagement to Mark; Farrell Armitage, who has devoted much money and time to curing Mark and launching him as an artist, hopes in the end to win Barbara's love. Mark, still in the hospital, is his old arrogant self.

Chapter 43

MARK AS PATIENT

The house in which Mark Lodely lay strapped immovably into a plaster cast was as little like a hospital as one could expect. Its facade was cheerful and inside it was reasonably quiet.

Mark's room was on the ground floor so that then the weather and his mood permitted he could be wheeled on to a covered porch at the back. Mrs. Lodely visited him daily, Armitage dropped in as seemed necessary, and Kenneth Poole came when he was sent for.

"The sight of me gives him a bad night," Poole had explained solemnly to Armitage. "Fact. One of his nurses told me so. It's far better I should keep away and give the dear fellow every chance of recovery."

"Nevertheless, you must be there this afternoon at half-past four. I've asked Lelia Cane, too. See she's punctual, will you?"

"Right you are, Guy!"

Armitage entered the building on this foggy day at four o'clock precisely and stood for a moment in the outer hall, taking off his overcoat. The house-doctor, passing on the other side of the glass swing-doors, pulled them open and called a cheery greeting. At his request Armitage followed him into his office.

"How's the patient?" he asked.

"The patient, Mr. Armitage, has reduced two nurses to tears, given me more up your I've blood from anyone in my life, and thrown a water-jug at his mother. But I understand that's more or less his usual frame of mind."

Armitage grinned.

"He has always had a vicious temper. I'm not an admirer of his talent."

"The nurses always report him more cheerful after he has 'made someone thoroughly wretched,' the doctor added. "It's the young people whose heart he can't break that depress him so."

Armitage thought it wiser not to reveal that one of these heart-hearted callers was expected punctually at four. He listened attentively while the doctor became lyrical in Sir Robert Philtray's praise, agreed for the twentieth time that the cure was well-nigh miraculous, and made his way to Mark's room and Mark's inevitable impatience.

"As he entered Mark's room he heard Mark's voice, thin and dry with temper.

"How can you possibly write my letters for me when you misspell every other word? And how do you know I have any to write unless you've been reading my correspondence?"

"That's a downright wicked thing to say, Mark! You know I'd never do such a thing. I have my faults but 'spyin' and ferretin' is not amongst them. Hullo, here's Farrell! Do you—" Mrs. Lodely looked doubtfully from the visitor to the patient—"do you feel like seein' Farrell?"

Mark's head turned on its one flat pillow.

"My dear Judy, if it weren't for Armitage's bounty I shouldn't be here at all." He smiled, the smile that slightly showed his teeth and narrowed his eyes. "The question of whether I want to see you or not, Armitage, doesn't really arise. Does it?"

"Mark! You know, Farrell, he's had a bad night, that's all it is. He doesn't mean half he says."

Armitage sat down by the wheeled couch. His aversion was for the moment more from the mother than from the son. How unpleasing she was in appearance, so slovenly and down at heel! She wore an ill-made grey suit, a brown blouse under it and a tie that matched neither. Her hat looked as though it were too small for her.

"As you see, my mother brings a breath of dear old Kings Mallard into all this luxurious monotony," murmured Mark and for the first time Armitage uncomfortably contemplated the fact that his thoughts had been read.

"The monotony we can none of us lighten, I'm afraid, Lodely. You must just count the days. Look on them as an investment."

"That's what I'm always tellin' him," burst in Mrs. Lodely. "I don't believe he realizes yet what you've done for him, Farrell. I don't really. After all, it takes a bit of thinkin' about, when you've been a cripple all your life, to imagine yourself walkin' easily. Like explainin' sight to a blind man; it can't be done."

Mark had shut his eyes when this torrent began and did not open them as he addressed Armitage.

"I think I should be able to express my gratitude better if I could get some idea of your motive. Not personal liking; I am sure I may still take it that your motive is not personal liking. And not the desire to be a patron-saint. No. It is the old puzzle. I suppose it will never be solved."

"I'm ready to solve it now, as it happens."

Mrs. Lodely gaped from one man to the other in a vague alarm. Mark's eyes flew open. Yes, there was fear in them. Poor devil.

"Some other time?" he suggested, waving a hand. "Unless you feel you absolutely cannot wait for that gratitude of mine any longer."

"Now, Mark, you're just rillin Farrell for no reason whatever. You—"

"It's all right, Mrs. Lodely. I take a lot of rilling. And your son is perfectly right in requiring some kind of statement from me. He has earned it often enough, and it's only fair that at least he should have it."

"I don't like statements," Mark's voice rose irritably. "Why, Armitage, I dont feel up to this poisoned court atmosphere. Let us say that you deserve my most abject devotion for everything you have done for me, for whatever reason, and let us leave it at that." He scowled, a sick child hugging its grievances. Armitage looked at him with forbearance.

"I'm sorry, but I'm going to make myself clear whether you like it or not. If you genuinely don't wish to listen, you'd better put your fingers in your ears." But Armitage did not turn to Mrs. Lodely, now fidgeting nervously. He went on talking to Mark. "My first confession is no news to your mother and, I suspect, no news to you. I fell in love with Barbara at sight and on the first available occasion I asked her to marry me."

Mark's color came back. Armitage's old suspicion became certainty. Mary had guessed his love for Barbara long ago.

"You tried to take my girl behind my back? How typical! Would you have done that, I wonder, if I had not had a crutch to drag about with me?"

"You can wonder that, if you like," said Armitage equably. "The point is, of course, that—if I'd thought she genuinely cared for you and you could have given her some kind of happiness, I should have got out without a word. But I didn't think life with you would be anything but hell for her."

Mark's smile grew. Mrs. Lodely, apparently from embarrassment, laughed loud and long.

"Barbara seemed to admit that it would be hell," went on Armitage when she was quiet again, "but she insisted that her feeling for you was, if not love, something as great and as lasting as eternal."

"Well, I must say, you young folks talk things out pretty freely!" Mrs. Lodely got up, knocked a vase of flowers over and sat down again. "I spose it does no harm in a way, but I don't know I'm sure, it quite takes me aback."

"Go on, Armitage."

"My challenge to Barbara was that if she could see you well, successful, popular, financially secure, she would perhaps no longer feel bound to you in the particular way in which she did feel bound."

"Your challenge, did you say?"

"My challenge, yes. I said that I would make you all those things if she in return would promise not to marry you for a year."

"But—Babs never—but dear old Babs would never—"

"Shut up, Judy can't you?"

"The problem of your gratitude need therefore never arise, Lodely. You owe me nothing because what I have done has been done for my own purpose. If I fail, you will still owe me nothing. If I win—"

"Shut up, Judy!"

COUNTY TAXPAYERS ORGANIZE TO STUDY TAXATION MATTERS

40 Men Attend Meeting and Sign Membership Roll Of League with 3000 Members as Immediate Goal

Twin Falls County Taxpayers' League, organized by a group of 40 citizens at a meeting here yesterday afternoon, has named committees to make an intensive study of several tax-supported county activities, with view to effecting a reduction in the county tax bill.

These committees were named at a meeting of the league's directors after a committee named by the general meeting carried word to the county commissioners of the formation of the new organization, and brought back the commissioner's request that the organization make a thorough study of operations and expenses of all county offices and activities.

The league's directors also mapped out a line of investigation of school districts, highway districts and other taxing units, looking to possible tax reductions, and it was indicated that action on the part of the state legislature also will come within the new organization's purview.

Forty Sign Roll

Forty men in attendance at yesterday's meeting signed the membership roll and paid a membership fee of 25 cents each. One of the directors predicted that, within a few days the league will have 3000 members.

H. O. Reinke, Twin Falls, was elected chairman, and E. Bordewick, Buhl, secretary and treasurer of the new organization. These officers also were included in the personnel of the board of directors, other members of the board being elected as follows: A. R. Scott, Hansen; John W. Hardin, Kimberly; W. S. Parish, Twin Falls; Ray L. Shearer, Filer and Thomas Cannon, Buhl.

Committees named to study county activities' operations and expenses included these:

Hatfield, Buhl, and Fred L. Parish, Buhl; county general hospital, J. E. Cordes, Twin Falls, and N. V. Sharp, Filer.

The meeting assembled early in the afternoon in the Herron building, Shoshone street east. Its first recorded action following election of chairman and secretary, after Fred T. Parish called the meeting to order, was the appointment of a two-man delegation consisting of Fred T. Parish and R. L. Shearer, to order, was the appointment of a stoners.

A number of speakers, including T. C. Bacon, Twin Falls; J. E. Cordes, Twin Falls; W. F. Alworth, Curry, and John W. Hardin, Kimberly, emphasized necessity for relief of the taxpayers.

The membership list as given out following the meeting was as follows:

STAGES OPERATE AGAIN OVER OLD OREGON TRAIL

Motor stage service over the Old Oregon Trail highway was resumed after a 48-hour interval when a westbound Oregon Short Line stage passed through Twin Falls about 9 o'clock last night. Wind, and a six-inch snowfall at Gooding, blocked the highway Sunday, and reports were that considerable difficulty was again being experienced in keeping the road open in the vicinity of American Falls.

A Twin Falls-Wells motor stage was expected to start this morning on a trip to Twin Falls from Wells, but it had been held for three days since last Friday during which time texas over that route was blocked by drifted snow on the last some 16 miles north of Wells. A rotary plow sent out from Wells by the Nevada highway commission last Sunday had almost completed breaking the way through the seven-mile drift when it struck a concrete culvert and was broken. The work was resumed after the plow was repaired yesterday.

The road to Ely, Nev., had been re-opened as far as Shoshone yesterday.

WORLD WAR VETERAN REVIEWS EXPERIENCES

With interesting observations drawn from personal experience upon the conduct of engineer troops under battle conditions, Lieutenant Colonel James C. Long, Three Hundred Twelfth Engineers, in an address before County P. Of One Hundred Sixteenth Engineers, Twin Falls unit of the Idaho national guard and a group of reserve officers and World war veterans at the Legion memorial building last evening, reviewed the British army engineers' preparations for the great attack on the Messines Ridge in 1917.

Colonel Long illustrated his subject, "Engineer Reconnaissance During an Attack and Engineer Intelligence in the Attack," with maps which were a part of the complete file of all the orders, plans and maps issued for the attack, and one of only 20 of these files that were issued.

In reference to these maps, Colonel Long showed infinite detail of the preparations for the attack. Maps illustrated sources of drinking water, as well as trenches, roads and railroads built expressly for the Messines Ridge attack. One railroad was shown to have been built by army engineers under fire within 200 yards of the front line trenches.

Captain R. E. Leighton, E company commander, announced the next regular assembly of the unit for drill on Thursday, February 16, and reminded the guardsmen and their friends of a banquet and military ball which E company will give on its birthday anniversary in the Legion Memorial building next Monday evening.

FRIENDS PLAN FUNERAL FOR FORMER RESIDENT

Funeral services will be held in Twin Falls for Miss Mary Catherine Gates, former Twin Falls resident who died at San Bernardino, California, recently, and interment will be beside the graves of her parents in the Twin Falls cemetery, it was announced here yesterday. The body will be accompanied by Claude M. Gates, Allendale, a brother, who was summoned to California by word of Miss Gates' critical illness, and who is remaining there for a few days on business in connection with her estate. Word of the plans for the funeral and burial in Twin Falls came to E. H. Gates, a brother, who was called back from a business trip to Portland by word of Miss Gates' death.

HANSEN BABY'S BODY GOES TO LAST REST

An expression of sorrow and sympathy marked funeral services at the Evans and Johnson funeral home in Twin Falls yesterday afternoon for Thair Roscoe Willis, three-year-old son and only child of Roscoe and Nora Dumroese Willis, Hansen, who died here last Friday following a brief illness. Services, in charge of Elder F. A. Babbel of the Latter Day Saints, included an address by Jesse W. Richins, president of the Twin Falls ward, and three vocal numbers, "Sometime, Somewhere," "Your Little Rosebud Has Left You," and "I Need Thee Every Hour, by Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. Earl W. Henderson. Woodruff Miller offered the invocation, and Elder Babbel pronounced the benediction and dedicated the grave in the Twin Falls cemetery. The child was the grandson of Mrs. Ed Dumroese, Twin Falls.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION ELECTS

Floyd Norman and R. M. Williams Remain on Organization Directorate

Mutual Building and Loan association, Twin Falls, which last January 1 announced its thirty-first semi-annual dividend, re-elected two directors, Floyd Norman and R. M. Williams, at an annual meeting attended by nearly 50 shareholders in the Elks club, Twin Falls, yesterday, and increased its official staff by electing Alvin Casey, Twin Falls, as director to succeed H. R. Grant, general manager, who declined nomination for re-election as a member of the board.

Floyd Norman was elected president of the association, succeeding Mr. Grant, at a meeting of the directors following the shareholders' meeting. Mr. Grant was re-elected general manager and other officers were elected as follows: Alvin Casey, vice president; E. A. Landon, secretary; R. M. Williams, treasurer; R. P. Parry, attorney; Leo Anderson, assistant secretary.

E. A. Moon, Floyd Norman, Stuart H. Taylor and H. R. Grant were named as members of the loan board, and Alvin Casey, Stuart H. Taylor and E. A. Landon were appointed as members of an auditing committee.

The meeting received the annual report of Mr. Grant as general manager, showing a considerable reduction in the association's operating expenses and a building up of reserves. The January semi-annual dividend brought the dividend rate for the year up to 5% per cent and provided for distribution of $36,461.81 among some 1500 shareholders.

Edwin A. Wilson, Twin Falls public accountant, also reported to the meeting on his lately completed audit of the association's books and records for the past year, and submitted a financial statement as of the day of the meeting.

Hold-over members of the association's directorate are R. P. Parry, Stuart H. Taylor, E. A. Moon, E. A. Landon, T. J. Lloyd, Twin Falls, and Harry W. Batry, Buhl.

On grounds of alleged cruelty, Mrs. Gladys M. Smith, mother of six children, 6 to 16 years old, started suit in the district court here yesterday for divorce from Edmond R. Smith to whom she was married at Hansen on Christmas day 17 years ago. She alleges in her complaint that she has been required to make her home with Smith's father during their wedded life, and that for a long time she has been subjected to humiliation and abuse at the hands of her husband and his father. She is represented in this action by O. C. Hall, Twin Falls, attorney.

ATTORNEY ADDRESSES PARENT-TEACHER UNIT

About 200 members of Twin Falls high school Parent-Teacher association heard an address by W. Orr Chapman, Twin Falls attorney, last night, on the subject of "Thrift and Character Building."

Mr. Chapman did not give the usual sort of "thrift talk," but showed that thrift—is "more than earning and saving large quantities of money." He explained that money should be spent so as to build character and bring happiness, rather than for material things.

The program after the business meeting, in which reports of the secretary and treasurer were given, consisted of a xylophone solo by Miss Helen Warner, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Chapman's address; two selections by the high school glee club, under direction of Miss Clarice Saunders, high school music instructor, and a one-act Biblical drama, by the Baptist Young People's Union, under direction of Mrs. George Warberg.

Characters in the play follow: "Peter Steele," Victor Goertzen; his wife, "Prudence," Dorothy Aulbach; his uncle, Ray Bush; a tramp, Milo Sawyer.

During the business meeting, a committee to nominate new officers was selected: Charles W. Ronk, chairman; Mrs. Harrison Griffith, Mrs. Charles Krengel, Mrs. Harry Eaton, and Mrs. Katherine Kirkman.

Mrs. John E. Hayes, president of the Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers, read an article by the president of the National Education association on the subject, "The Value of the Parent-Teacher Associations in a Time of Stress."

MUSGRAVE PLANS CLEVER PROGRAM

Filer Man Tells of Elaborate Stage Settings and Lighting Effects for Event

Elaborate stage settings and lighting effects will give to the audience that is expected to fill Twin Falls high school gymnasium's 2500 seating capacity, a measure of advantage over the audience to which the radio will bring the prosperity and good will program which Harry Musgrave, Filer, and a company of 37 versatile and talented artists, in cooperation with Twin Falls high school and Twin Falls chapter, Future Farmers of America, have arranged for presentation in the school gymnasium here next Wednesday evening.

This "Death to Depression" program is in many respects the most extensive entertainment event yet to be held in Twin Falls, and Mr. Musgrave asserts, there will be plenty of fun and entertainment for both audiences. And it is all to be absolutely free—presented in an earnest effort to drive troubles and worry away for the evening.

In this program, Mr. Musgrave not only has enlisted a great range of talent, but he has secured cooperation of a number of Twin Falls business houses which are contributing financially, or providing stage settings or other materials making for the success of the event.

The program entertainment is to precede a college-style basketball game between McElwain's Friendly Five, Twin Falls squad, and Musgrave Brothers, Filer, team. Between halves of the game, there are to be other entertainment features.

Artists taking part in the entertainment include Miss Isabelle Billson and Frank Sabala, Twin Falls, presenting the Spanish fandango in native costume with accordion accompaniment by Leon Echevarria; Austin Durfee, Zeke, song and guitar; Edna Strickler, soloist and harmony; Elam King, harp, jewsharp and song; Lola McGuire and Marcelia McGuire, Buhl, harmony duet; Fred Munyon, Uncle Josh the dancer; George Hillman, whistling and song effects; Virginia Lathe, song and dance; Mary Ellen Davis, song and dance; Billy Brown and Junior Munyon, tap dancing pair; Leon Echevarria, Spanish accordionist.

Jack Sullivan, Johnny Nye and Elmer Hagler, Gordon Creek Hawaiian serenaders; Rhoda Barbent, phone and stenographer; Emily Bates, accompanist; Mary Ann Meyer, soprano and wooden shoe clog; Mary Frances Bates, tip-toe tap dancer; Rhoda Phillips, aerobatic dancer; Norman Bates, black face Parson Brown; Big Bill Bush as "Miss Bushia Nation"; Mr. Frank Bitchie as the city boy; Rose Haines and Eddie Musgrave, floor managers; Harry E. Musgrave, master of ceremonies.

BEAN MEN PONDER OVER PRICE TREND

An advance of a half-cent a pound in the price of beans would give the Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association some money to distribute among its members for their 1930 and 1931 crops, in addition to advances already paid, J. H. Glandon, president of the association, said last evening.

Statement by Frank L. Stephan, attorney for the association, at the association's annual meeting in Twin Falls last Saturday was that under existing market conditions growers could hardly expect to receive anything more than the advance payments on their crops for those years. The Tri-State Tri Growers' association and the Trinidad Bean and Elevator company, with which the Southern Idaho association was associated during those years, has taken judgments against the Southern Idaho association's counter-claims would even that account, the intermediate credit bank, from which the association borrowed money for operating expenses and to make advance payments to growers in 1930 and 1931, claims $70,000 from the association, said a holding that carloads of association members crops for those years.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the kind assistance and many beautiful floral tributes following the death of our beloved son and grandson, Thair Roscoe Willis.

MAYOR OF TWIN FALLS REVEALS POWER IDEAS

R. E. Bobler, Twin Falls mayor, told members of the city council at regular meeting last evening that he was in favor of joining forces with Coeur d'Alene in an effort to secure an amendment to the state constitution that would permit municipalities to contract, without an election, for installation of power plants to be paid for out of earnings. He did not ask for an expression by the council, though one member said he would be willing to give his "moral support."

The mayor said request had come from Coeur d'Alene for Twin Falls cooperation in this project, and that he would favor sending a Twin Falls delegation to Boise to interview members of the legislature in its behalf. A law adopted two years ago to confer this power upon municipalities, he said, had been declared unconstitutional, so that an amendment to the constitution would be necessary.

A doe with six-pointed antlers was killed by Winship Nunnally of Atlanta at Sea Island, Georgia.

SISTER TESTIFIES AGAINST BROTHER

First-Degree Burglary Case Goes on Trial in District Court in Twin Falls

A sister was called upon to testify against her crime-charged brother at trial in the district court here yesterday, when Mrs. Cortine Early, Buhl, on the witness stand gave damaging evidence against her brother, Everett Crites, Buhl, who is accused of first-degree burglary in connection with a burglary of furs, clothing and other articles from the home of Thurlo Hall farm residence west of Buhl the night of Nov. 7, last.

Mrs. Early is the mother of 18-year-old Allen Early, alleged accomplice in the burglary, who has pleaded guilty, and has been admitted to parole under sentence of 1 to 15 year term in the state prison.

Mrs. Early testified her son was induced to use his car in commission of the alleged burglary and that the loot was brought in her home in Buhl.

Friends Mother

The son, Allen Early, preceded his mother on the witness stand, and related details of the burglary plot.

Other witnesses were Frank M. Galbreid; his daughter, Mrs. Edith Rasbrick, at whose residence he has made his home since his wife's death, and A. C. Parker, Buhl chief of police.

Crites was arrested and brought back from Nampa early last December. A third man alleged to have been involved in the burglary has been located in Nebraska, officers said.

State's witnesses were questioned closely by W. L. Dunn, Twin Falls attorney, appointed by the court to represent the accused man in this action. It was indicated that the state would rest its case early today.

Members of the jury not included in the panel for trial in this case were excused by Judge W. A. Babcock until next Monday. The jury list was further reduced by drawing from the box of three names, L. W. Madden, Wilbur S. Hill and M. M. Cannon, who were excused by the court from further service at the current term of court.

The jury so finally selected for the burglary trial is composed of Homer Hudleson, Dillard Requa, Cloyd W. Roubinek, J. C. Baker, H. A. Swab, Harry Dietrich, L. O. Evans, H. C. Ericson, J. S. Feldhusen, Lee

FINGERPRINT EVIDENCE DEFEATS PROSECUTION

Fingerprint evidence failed in the prosecution of William Jones in connection with alleged burglary at the Buhl Feed and Ice company office the night of last September 5. Prosecuting Attorney O. W. Witham said in district court here yesterday in asking for dismissal of the charge against Jones on grounds of insufficiency of the evidence to secure a conviction or warrant the state in going to trial. The trial had been set for yesterday.

District Judge W. A. Babcock granted the motion for dismissal, and Jones, who had been held a prisoner in the county jail since November 17 for lack of bail, was released.

The prosecutor's affidavit in support of the motion for dismissal said the evidence was purely circumstantial in so far as entry into the building was concerned. Jones, he said, was bound over to trial in the district court on the strength of a fingerprint record on an envelope from a drawer in the safe from which $600 was taken. This fingerprint, the prosecutor said, was identified at the preliminary hearing as being that of Jones' fingers, but, he said, since that time an enlargement had been made of the fingerprint record and the expert witness now said it would be impossible to say positively that it was Jones' fingerprint.

What Is it about CHESTERFIELDS?

Well, I can't tell you much of anything about what is in Chesterfields

BUT I smoke a good deal, and I noticed that they said that Chesterfield Cigarettes were milder and tasted better; so I smoked a package or two and found it to be true.

I also noticed that the cigarettes were well filled, seemed to be the right length and the right circumference, and burned uniformly—not up one side and down the other.

I liked the aroma—very pleasing. I liked the appearance of the cigarette—the paper, dead white. The package rather appealed to me.

I don't know exactly what it is, but I just like 'em. It's about the only luxury that I enjoy; so I think it's all right for me to have a good cigarette, and I believe Chesterfield is just about the best.
