Women of West

Know How to Get Along Well Now.

Hoop Skirts Are Gone, Is Belief of Veteran Guide;

Pioneer Woman Learned to Live In Her Own Way.

"They used to say woman had her sphere, but after she got the 'hook-skirt' off she began thinking more about the world outside," she said. "She invited the entire hemisphere with her liberty, to do whatever she darn pleased," according to Mrs. Anna E. Johnson, 75, who has just returned from Glendale, California, where she has been in soliloquizing on his herculean efforts of western feminization this summer.

"It all right with me, though," he stated in an interview. "Don't put me down as thinking oblique to the progress of the fair sex; because I'm for it. I mean every part of it. Women have been the backbone of Mt. Fiji. Lady's strides even way out here in the Rockies." He then began to talk in his mountainous, drawling tones, following story was forthcoming:

Tells of One

"Up in the shadow of Summit Mountain, the last miles from the continental Divide, near the head of the Wolf, Montana, on the border of Glacier National Park, lives Sadie White, locally known as the "Queen of the Rockies."

Sadie was an actress. She arrived in Great Falls, Montana, some 20 years ago and while there she became one of the big names in the town. She married a man named John, purchased a ranch, and carried her in the saddle to his mountain cabin. Sadie fell into the ways of the cowboy, and the cowboy preferred the life of a horse-trader, rounds up and brands the herd of cayuses that ranged on the mountain sides.

In the fall, when the horses were turned loose, the cowboy ran and range the wilds deep in bear law snow, shing to his feet, wrapped himself in lumber-jack's cloth, with a masked face, and, through the snow took to the trail of wolves and coyotes. She followed her trap line, and did as well as any woman could do.

"In the winter, however, husband got caught in a blinding blizzard and perished. Sadie, who still had her horse, to look after, settled down in the little frontier town world would reach him. Sadie plucked up a horse by force, and rode him to the doctor.

On his way to the doctor, Sadie's grub sack is pulled out, and she strips her back on her back, and her snow-covered body, to get the last morsel of food. She travels the two miles to the railroad, and if she is lucky a freight train comes along, and she boards it, and hangs on to the train-draw for her to hop on; otherwise she hops eight miles, mostly to the store.

When she reached the store, she asked the boy, "Aren't you afraid of playing out and freezing to death on some of these long, blinding blizzards?" She does not mind the cold, but what, come off the train, but west storms are hell because you can't see where you're going."

Mike Shannon, guide, had told his story:

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (UPI)—

Wall Street was jubilant today because President Hoover, with the aid of the Federal Reserve Board, had said fundamental business of the country was on a sound basis with protection and distribution well-maintained.

That was the word of expression traders had been waiting for for weeks. They had seen the market move to new highs on September 25, but had been held back by freezing rules sweeping Michigan's frozen lake in Lake Superior to day while ships held off from the port.

It was punctuated by the crash that brought out nearly

$13,000,000 shares on the stock market and nearly $7,000,000 in other exchanges throughout the country. Selling was so severe that only "millionaire bankers" could stay in.

The president's speech was made after the market had ruled that the government should fill the vacany.

Guns. The drop sheet would probably give Twin Falls a shade of the advantage, since they made the first move. The Indians, however, made some long runs and at times seemed to completely baffle the Indians' team. Farago, captain of the Indians' team, was equally as astute.

The first quarter belonged to Twin Falls. The team kept the ball in the Indians' territory, but this resulted in fumble. Gave Nampa the ball in the second quarter. And for the third Nampa had the ball in the Indians' territory, but fumbled it at the 20-yard line.

At the end of the half Nampa had the ball in the Indians' territory, but fumbled it at the 20-yard line. Lost some what exhausted. Twin Falls had plenty of ambition and determination.

The third quarter was all Nampa's and it was during this quarter that Nampa carried the ball with such skill that it was in striking distance of the goal. Then the big, beefy Twin Falls Highbrow held the play. He had the ball in his hands for the majority and in the forward of the last quarter.

Lost on downs.

With the ball in the Indians' field, Nampa lost the ball on downs. Twin Falls opened up with a pass, which was stopped in the middle of the field.

After passing three times, Nampa's 4-yard line. Here the Indians' team gave a nice demonstration of teamwork and held the Indians for three downs.

Generally speaking, the Twin Falls team played circled around the Indians' team.

The Indians' team was very good, but, however, demonstrated superiority with its efficient play.

Smith, Twin Falls' bushy back, had the ball in his hands for the Indians' team.

He also fumbled two of the passes.

The Indians' team was commanded by the Indians' coach, Baker.

In the last quarter Jerome qualified for the Indians' team, but fumbled. The rest of the game was Flier's merriment and scores.

GRANDVIEW, IDAHO

The Queen of Alfalfa Valleys

11 IRRICATED FARMS

SALE WILL BE HELD ON THE STEPS OF THE GRAND VIEW STATE BANK

The Grand View Valley, in which these farms are located, consists of about 12,000 acres of low lying bench land along the Snake River, being on both sides of the river, partly in Ada County, and partly in Owyhee County, Idaho. These farms are irrigated in part by a private canal, taking water from the Bruneau River and supplemented by pumping plant out of the Snake River. There is also some artesian water. Grand View lies at an elevation of about 2500 feet above sea level. The weather bureau reports show that this is the warmest and driest area in the State of Idaho. Lying as the area does in a sheltered nook along Snake River, the locality is especially adapted to live stock feeding. Hence sheep and cattle in large numbers that during the summer graze upon the adjacent higher lands and mountain areas, are brought here for their winter feeding, thus affording a ready market for alfalfa at a price of $2.50 to $3.00 a ton more than prevailing prices. Land in Grand View Valley has produced as high as 9 tons per acre of finest alfalfa; barley, 98 bu.; oats, 90 bu.; wheat, 60 bu. Beans, corn, fruit all grow profusely here.

PARCEL No. 1. FAMOUS SHOO-FLY 645 ACRE FARM

This ranch is located about 3 miles east of the town of Grand View in Owyhee County, Idaho. At present there is about 150 acres under cultivation; the soil is a mixture of sand and lava ash, being an alluvial deposit about 40 feet thick, entirely free from rock; level land with a gentle slope towards Snake River on the north. The 450 acres were originally seeded to alfalfa; during the past 5 years a system of rotation of crops has been observed, different sections of the ranch being in alfalfa, corn, beans, wheat, oats and barley; at present the 450 acres are in alfalfa and about 830 acres are in new seeding. Improvements consist of house, bunk house, cabins, barn, blacksmithy sheds, etc., built at an estimated cost of $5000. There are 4 artesian wells on the property drilled to a depth of about 600 feet; this water is piped into the house and to corrals. The ranch is entirely fenced and cross-fenced; over one-half is-meshed wire fencing.

IRRIGATION: This ranch has its own independent water supply, unlimited in quantity, from Snake River by means of a pumping irrigating system consisting of pump house, machinery, pipe line, canal and laterals. The pump house is equipped with two 250 h. p. motors and two 15-inch centrifugal pumps, each with a capacity of 700 miner's inches of water. One of these pumps and motors is a spare unit "standing by" for emergency use; initial cost of pumps and motors installed was $5000. The appurtenant water right, for the Shoo-Fly ranch embraces the pump house, all machinery, pipe lines and ditches comprising the irrigation work; on account of the gentle slope of the land, the irrigation requires a minimum of labor. Two men can irrigate the entire ranch and for considerable periods of each season, during the past few years only one irrigator has been necessary.

FEED CORRALS AND LAMMING SHEDS: At the upper end of the ranch, located on a 40-acre tract, leased from the state of Idaho; feeding corrals have been built sufficient to accommodate 1300 head of cattle and about one-fourth of a mile away from the cattle corrals, lambing sheds have been built sufficient for the accommodation of about 5000 ewes. These corrals and sheds were built to accommodate cattle and sheep, men who purchase hay at the ranch being glad to pay $1.00 per ton more than the prevailing prices in the vicinity. In these corrals are situated two of the artesian wells above mentioned with water piped to 4 concrete tanks. This warm artesian water and the dry, warm, sandy soil with excellent drainage, make this site perhaps the best winter feeding quarters in the state of Idaho. At periods when most feed lots are knee-deep in mud, these corrals are dry and clean. The artesian water is also piped over to the lambing sheds. These improvements, sheds, feed racks, water tanks, fences, etc., represent an outlay of several thousand dollars and go to the lucky purchaser of the Shoo-Fly ranch.

Actual crop sales were $24,000 in 1928.

This ranch is capable of yielding over 8000 tons of finest alfalfa hay annually at minimum cost of production.
