I. D. CLUB TAKES THE LEAD IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE THROUGH VICTORY OVER THE BANKERS

Second Win in Two Days Turns Trick—Oliver Sidewheels Department Store Team Into First Position—Phil Fix Victim.

Team Standing	W.	L.	Pct.
I. D. Club	2	0	1.000
Legion	2	1	.667
Banks	2	2	.500
Elks	2	2	.500
Moose	1	2	.333
Electrics	1	3	.250

The argument over whether bankers are better than Fix was decided last evening by the Idaho Department Store ball team which proved that both looked alike. After beating the Elks Tuesday morning the I. D. club came back last night and won the league leadership by dropping the Bankers into third place with a 6 to 4 victory.

The I. D. boys got just one punch at Phil Fix, the crack Banker pitcher but they made that one a knockout. It was in the first round when they bunched three of their hits with one walk and error and some alert Ruff on the sacks making a total of 4 runs. In the next inning they made another on a walk and a hit. That was the last chance of a hit or a run they were allowed by Fix but it was enough considering the way Lefty Oliver was behaving. Lefty fielded eight hits to the Bankers but he was tight in the clinches, striking out twelve batters during the seven innings.

The I. D. team started after Fix right off the red in the opening round. F. Kleffner whiffed, but Hughes dropped a hit over second. Kennedy walked and Sgt. Kleffner was given a life when Gwinn fielded his grounder to third in a fruitless effort to get Hughes. Selck's single over third scored Hughes and Kennedy. Boone singled, scoring Kleffner. Reiter went out but Dunn, fielded a fly to left center which Stewart dropped. Thomets fought off but neither Selck and Boone counted on the play. Husted ended the inning with an out.

In the second frame Kleffner scored again on his own walk and Selck's second single over third base. After that it was one, two three for the department store.

In the third the Bankers got to Oliver for three runs. This was the only time they could group their hits. Gwinn, Lindville and Thomets spiked the pan. Lindville's tally in the fifth told the story for the Bankers who were kept sedulously away from the plate thereafter and all of other times by Lefty and his mates.

The game was one of the fastest played of the season, being over in an hour and twenty minutes. It was pulled off in snappy fashion with very few errors and no sloppy baseball.

As the result of last night's victory, their second in two days, the I. D. team's stock has risen quickly. Next Thursday this team will clash with the Legion in a game which is being centered on present. This should furnish one of the most hair-lifting encounters the fans have yet watched, since the league leadership will probably be involved.

Tomorrow night's bill in the Twilight League will be put on by the Legion and the Moose.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's hero—"Big" Jim Vaughn. He held the Cardinals safely and helped the Cubs win, 5 to 3, with a home run in the seventh.

Red Faber was knocked off after winning six straight games, the Indians beating the White Sox, 3 to 2.

Joe Judge sizzled and tied the score in the ninth inning and drove the winning run over in the 11th with a double, the Senators beating the Athletics, 6 to 4.

The Tigers came out of their losing streak and beat the Browns, 7 to 5.

The Braves again beat the Giants—9 to 5.

The Yanks split even with the Red Sox, winning the first, 8 to 2 and losing the second, 5 to 1.

Brooklyn beat the Phillies, 8 to 7. Three hits and an error in the 12th gave the Pirates a 5 to 2 win over the Reds.

DEMPSEY LIVES TO FIGHT, SAID

Fighting Instinct Is the Greatest Asset of Champion, McAuliffe Thinks.

By JACK McAULIFFE,
Undefeated Lightweight Champion.
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, June 23—Jack Dempsey's fighting instinct is his greatest asset. Fighting is his natural hobby. He never knows when he is beaten. The world's champion is a great two handed fighter. His left hand is his best weapon, especially against a trail opponent who cannot stand body punching. He has a swinging hook, a double hook and a wicked chop with his left hand. He is really fight that way bring down any man in the ring. He doesn't hesitate when punching and lets any kind of a blow go with all his strength. With the right he has in his blows he rocks an opponent off balance and avoids the danger of a counter.

He has wonderful foot work. He covers more ground with less effort than any heavyweight since the days of Sullivan. He is not flashy. He is always on his feet set for a punch or to go back with one. He is a serious in-fighter. He loves to fight an opponent that will come in to him. He can fight also at a distance but his force is at close quarters.

He never holds and clinches very little. He never backs out always forcing his opponent to give ground which gives him a tremendous advantage in getting his opponent off guard.

Best of all he is dead game. He has confidence and is absolutely cool under fire. His eyes never leave his opponent. Dempsey's cleverness and brain are being under estimated. He has the best of all ring smartness. He goes into a fight with one purpose—to win and never forgets his mission.

He is the greatest on the offensive. He has a whirlwind attack and gives his opponent no chance to use brains or counter. Either the opponent must sit in still like a run and he has speed enough to keep up with any man in the ring.

"Who'll Win?"

By the United Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Howard Howdy, Wilcox, auto race driver: "Dempsey will win easily. I don't believe there is a possibility of the fight lasting more than five rounds or four more. Dempsey is the strong and rugged and hits too hard for the Frenchman."

NO NERVES IN EITHER CAMP

Dempsey Cool and Cheerful; Carpentier Unworried Over Coming Battle.

NEW YORK, June 23—As far as nerves are concerned, neither Jack Dempsey nor Georges Carpentier seem to be aware that "it" is only nine days away.

Stories coming from Atlantic City about the bad humor the champion is getting into are wrong. He is just as amiable and congenial as he ever has been.

It is much easier to study Dempsey than Carpentier because the champion makes himself more accessible. It does not take a minute to observe, however, that he is in good spirits and is not worried or nervous.

Carpentier, who believes that he is being given a bad deal by the newspapers permits reporters around his training camp only because Tex Rickard asks him to be nice to them and they pay for the bills.

Carpentier daily tolerates the "experts" because some of them have been forced to tell the truth to keep up their reputations.

When ever one of the short staying of the Frenchman and he has lost them, he is not nervous or worried over the outcome of the fight.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 23—Georges Carpentier loved to pose today for the last time before the championship battle.

From now on his program will be as follows:

Friday, easy road work, complete rest in the afternoon; Saturday, slight workout with all sparring partners, practicing foot work and defensive tactics; Sunday, rest; Monday, light work morning and afternoon; Tuesday, rest; Wednesday and Thursday, gymnasium work and easy boxing, amount regulated by his condition and weight; Friday, morning, rest and ride to Jersey City.

Descamps is well satisfied with his man's condition but states he was not quite so close to fighting weight at this time last year.

Georges has pep enough to spare off ten pounds without feeling the strain, but unfortunately has only about a pound to spare.

In private Carpentier keeps up the same smiling, carefree attitude he displays in public.

Georges said today he was tired of all he is dead game. He has confidence and is absolutely cool under fire. His eyes never leave his opponent. Dempsey's cleverness and brain are being under estimated. He has the best of all ring smartness. He goes into a fight with one purpose—to win and never forgets his mission.

He is the greatest on the offensive. He has a whirlwind attack and gives his opponent no chance to use brains or counter. Either the opponent must sit in still like a run and he has speed enough to keep up with any man in the ring.

When it comes time for somebody to go over to Ireland and open up parliament everybody in England seemed willing to let George do it.

George No. 5 is having about as much luck as George No. 2 as a public speaker. At least he got the same kind of a laugh out of the Irish that the other George got out of George Washington and the boys back east. That was a horse laugh.

New York authorities have seized $50,000,000 worth of liquor and intend to dump it in the ocean. Aside from the matter of tidal waves and other severe disturbances such a jolt is likely to give the sober old Atlantic, what about the crime against the dry farmer?

Movement of the Hailey land office to Paul where it would have the advantage of proximity to the Minidoka and other irrigation projects appears the logical thing. Strange that nobody has suggested before to establish the office near the land.

Illuminating figures for the farmer are contained in the report to the Buhl Chamber of Commerce that the cost of bean growing dropped about $30 per acre since last year. That helps a lot. Now if the cost of shipping will come down in proportion, the bean growers will have something to shout about.

King George, in Belfast, has appealed to all Irishmen to forgite and forget and live in peace. Trouble is he spoke in a home rule dialect which they don't understand down in Dublin and Cork. Anyway Ireland would rather live in pieces than in peace, it appears, so far as his majesty is concerned.

It is interesting to observe that the program for the Twin Falls county fair reveals a bigger and better fair this year than ever. This is the dauntless spirit of progress, that refuses to recognize obstacles. The fair management deserves encouragement and support in its campaign to keep Twin Falls county in the front rank of intermountain communities, where it has already gained fame and prestige.

SHOULD DIVORCE SCANDAL BE PRINTED

The above question is very often propounded to the newspaper publisher whether he be at the head of a metropolitan sheet or just a country weekly. We find that some of our great journalists have the same question propounded to them and here is a fellow who had the temerity to ask William Allen White of Emporia, Kansas, this same vexing question. We presume that the people living on the Twin Falls tract and in this section of Idaho who read our paper have often asked this same question.

Somebody wrote the Emporia Gazette the other day to ask why it had committed mention of two big divorce suits. "Are you shielding them because they are big bugs?" the letter writer asks. "Does the fact that a man has money keep his name out of the paper when he runs around with other women and when a poor devil gets drunk you slap his name in the paper?" Whom unto, Editor W. A. White responds thusly:

"That is a fair question. The answer is this: For 26 years the Gazette has made an invariable rule to keep divorce scandals out of the local news. Also, we have had an invariable rule to print the actual news of divorces, the names of the parties, the causes briefly stated, and the disposition of the children, if any. The community has a right to this news. But the harrowing details that mark the wreck of any home are not news; they are often salacious sometimes debasing, and always abnormal. We have felt that the wreck of a home is bad enough, but to pry amongst the wreckage is ghoulish. So readers of the Gazette who want Emporia divorce scandals elaborated should subscribe for some other paper.

"Now about the drunk. The man who fills up with whisky and goes about making a fool of himself becomes a public nuisance. If permitted to continue it he becomes a public charge. The public has an interest in him. Publicity is one of the things that keeps him straight. His first offense is ignored in the Gazette, but his second offense is recorded when he is arrested, and no matter how high or how low he is his name goes in. We have printed this warning to drinkers time and again; so when they come around asking us to think of their wives and children, or their sick mothers or poor old fathers, we always tell them to remember that they had fair warning, and if their fathers and mothers and wives and children are nothing to them before taking they are nothing to us after taking.

"The man and the divorce are treated always from the standpoint of the community interest."

The days of hand when Carp and Jack will hang in their pride; and oh, the large and gorgeous stack of money they'll all divide, when each has slugged the other's dome for six or seven rounds—and Milton sold his greatest poem for something like ten pounds. I'm glad that in those later days true genius gets its due; I mail Great Men do not go their days in rags of dingy hue. Poor Robbie Burns was always broke, which made his soul respine, and Keats—he was forced to walk his chats when he could afford not. But in long of gifted men who always lacked the price, who did tall things with harp or pen, and still were handed ice. Ben Homer begged from town to town, and stole the house-dogs' bone, though later, in his high renown, each citizen bid him for its own. Old Grub-street echoed to the walls of many a gifted sink, and Boswell's book is full of tales of genius on the blink. But now our great men get their due when they have made a hit, and when the coming scrap is through a fortune will be split. It was hard luck that Burns and Poe and Homer and that crew were born so many years ago, ere greatness got its due.

NAN PLANS A TRIP

Chapter 105

I had contracted for the decorating of another large house this time a new one. It was an extremely remunerative job. I had at first refused it, and because of lack of time but, because of my depressed condition, my unhappiness in the discovery of Dick's infatuation for Juanita. But when they entreated me to do the work, naming my own price, I consented.

I should make enough to finish our own house and if Dick would consent, put into effect a little plan of which I had been thinking. After I finished this work he and I would go to Los Angeles, Sacramento and then take a trip to San Francisco. His book would be in the publisher's hands then and the rest and change would do us both good. It would also separate him from Juanita in a perfectly natural way, I reasoned.

When I told Dick I had decided to take the house after all, he only remarked:

"Don't try to do too much, Nan. It was what he always said.

"I won't," I replied as usual.

Perhaps Dick's seeming indifference to my work, even when it really had annoyed to something, had hurt me almost as much as anything he could have done except chasing to love me. At Lanaha he had been so interested, asked so many questions, been so solicitous, that his attempted quellms, his cold indifference now hurt doubly in comparison.

I attributed all of this to Juanita's influence. He was so interested in her—that he had no interest in me or anything I did, I thought with bitterness.

The book was finished that week. All those days Juanita was closeted with him from morning until night, while I attended to my work most of which had to be done away from home. I was always there at meal time, however, and invariably was obliged to edit them to their needs, even after the maid we now kept, (and could afford) had announced they were ready.

"They never know whether I shall be in the house or not," I said to myself after Dick had made some remarks which showed an utter failure to remember I had told him I was doing Mr. Baker's new house. And Juanita seemed to forget my very existence, save occasionally when at lunch she would remember I was alive and say "You must excuse us, Nan, but we are so interested in our book we can think of nothing else."

How that "we" and "we" and "our" hurt me. But I comforted myself with the thought—the book is almost finished she will have no excuse to be here then. So I smiled and told them not to mind me while inwardly I knew that I longed to be minded very much indeed.

But that afternoon they went to the postoffice together and sent the manuscript to a prominent New York publisher. I knew then as I was going home from a hard afternoon's work. They were laughing and chatting unceasingly until I joined them. They had not seen me until I was almost abreast of them.

Immediately they became quiet, at least—Dick did.

"I heard you laughing," I said. "I expect you both feel immensely relieved now that the manuscript is out of the way."

"It may come right back," Dick crushed.

"Don't even think that after all your work. We won't take it back," I said lightly.

"Will you come in?" Dick asked Juanita as we neared the house.

"No, I think not." If she was waiting for me to say something she surely must have been disappointed. I would death at once to hold myself aloof.

"Then, I'll walk home with you. The walk will do me good. I'll be back by the time dinner is ready, Nan."

I went into the house perfectly discouraged. I had hoped for so much when the book was finished. It was finished. But it looked as if there was to be no change in the customary—I had fostered to such a dangerous degree.

I would sound Dick as to my plan when he returned. I waited until we were drinking our coffee before I unfolded it to him.

"You see, Dick, you have been working terribly hard on your book. This job will give us enough money and we both need a change. Then as he did not answer I added: "And just think how pleased Junior would be to see us."

"I don't know about going away then, Nan. If Bowman takes my book I may want to take a trip I have been thinking of for some time. Somers—a man whom we knew your mighty but a great friend of Juanita's—has asked me to go on a yachting trip with him. I haven't given him any answer yet but—well, I'll think about it. There's no hurry—you can't go for a month yet anyway I believe you said."

"No, it will take a month longer for me to finish up with the masters." I spoke coldly. I had been puzzled, then hurt by the mentioning of which Dick had received—a suggestion for a vacation together. He was calm way in which he mentioned it, neither did we talk of anything of interest to us both. We were together, yet far apart as our voices.

CLUB GIRLS DEMONSTRATE COLD PACKING

Thousands of Bushels of Fruit Will Be Saved in This County by Process

Twelve hundred bushels of fruit canning club demonstration of cold pack canning at the Crystal Springs ranch, yesterday, which was an absolute success, quite the big outside vote of Tyler brothers for the purpose. Hereafter any canning club or any canning club girl by making application through County Club Leader A. L. O'Reilly can get the privilege of canning at the vats and can get special prices on fruit for personal use at the ranch named, picking their own fruit.

Made Short Work

The Kimberly girls began work at 8:00 and inside of three hours actual canning had over 250 quarts put up. Tuesday the Marsh club will put up cherries.

Will Handle Peaches

In the fall the club girls will go to the orchard and put up peaches that are so ripe that they cannot be moved before they are spoiled. Here before there has always been a great loss to the very best of the crop in most orchards from this source, for the finest fruit takes the best care and stuff.

How It Is Worked

The cans are filled with fresh, raw fruit and placed in vats of boiling water under which a fire is kept. The lids are put on loosely, and they are left there until the fruit boils 15 minutes in the cans for jars, the steam escaping under the loose lids. Each of the two vats at the Tyler brothers ranch contains 100 cans or jars, and a thousand jars a day can be preserved. The owners donate the use of the vats to club girls only.

Want T. F. at the Wool Pool Meeting in Boise Monday

Twin Falls has asked to send a delegation to Boise June 27 in a letter sent out by C. B. Ross, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, to the Bureau by H. E. Powers, county agricultural agent, the purpose being to discuss the wool pool, with C. J. Fawcett of the American Farm Bureau wool pool.

What Ross Says

The letter follows:

Mr. H. E. Powers,
County Agricultural Agent,
Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Mr. Powers:

We are in receipt of a wire from the American Farm Bureau Federation stating that Mr. C. J. Fawcett, the American Farm Bureau Wool Pool representative, is to be in Boise to discuss the pooling of Idaho wool.

This will be an unusual opportunity to get in direct connection with the American Farm Bureau program of pooling and selling wool.

Inasmuch as Mr. Fawcett can make but one stop, in Idaho, according to our information, Mr. W. H. Mitchell, wool pool leader of the State Farm Bureau, has called a state meeting of those interested in wool pooling here in Boise on June 27, at 10 a. m.

Mr. Mitchell would like very much to have each county agent interested in wool pooling present at this conference and suggests that each agent bring one or more wool men with him to the conference. I would be pleased to know what action, if any, you will be able to take in connection with this matter.

Yours very truly,
C. B. ROSS, Secretary.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Here from Shoshone—Mrs. John W. Davies returned to her home in Shoshone Monday after visiting for a couple of weeks with relatives.

Back from University—Charles S. Perrine, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Perrine, returned Monday from the University of Washington, at Seattle, where he has been attending school. He will return in the fall.

Here on Business—Leslie J. Awe, attorney and accountant is here from Boise on business accompanied by his wife. He is a special income tax adviser and was formerly connected with the United States revenue service.

Salmon Tract Looks Fine—There are big crops on the Salmon tract according to reports received from there by Times representatives. There are great stands of alfalfa and wheat all of which is look'n fine. What is especially pleasing in the situation is the fact that it is evident that there will be water enough left over for next year. Haying is now in full swing on the tract.

Coal May Be Chry. who is representing the Utah Fuel company in this district, was here yesterday calling on the local coal dealers regarding their supply of coal for this next winter. Mr. McCurdy stated that with the present mine output there is almost sure to be a shortage in the coal supply for the coming winter. He states that the officers are only working about two days each week and that this is a very low production of coal and that some mines is likely to be short. He is urging coal dealers everywhere regardless of what kind of coal they handle, to lay in a supply now while same can be had.

WRIGHT CASE COMES BEFORE DIST. COURT

Suit for $10,000 for Women Killed on Pseudo Armistice Day Comes On.

The case of Amos Wright and children against the city of Twin Falls for $10,000, alleged damages for death of Mrs. Wright as result of accident on Armistice day, came up for the court for trial, this afternoon.

On November 7, 1921, when a false report of signing of an armistice received the city, the people here in common with the people of the rest of the nation were wild with excitement and crowds thronged the streets. It was finally decided to fence off several blocks on Main avenue—and Shoshone street from auto traffic. Just as the ropes across the Idaho Power building on Main avenue were being finally tightened and completed an auto drove down the street in a fast manner and into the rope breaking it. The broken rope struck Mrs. Wright who was standing near an auto, and throwing her against the machine, inflicted fatal injuries.

Plaintiff claims gross negligence. Defendants contend that while flags were not up they would have been in a few minutes, that all due care was taken to protect the people; that some of the people in the auto were drunk and that efforts were made by officers to make them stop before they struck the rope.

BOYS HURT AT HAGERMAN ARE MUCH BETTER

Reports Prove Exaggerations; Grand Time at Opening of a Magnificent Bridge

What Secretary Sewell S. Wight of the Twin Falls Commercial club pronounced the longest auto procession he had ever seen, a procession in which it is said there were 1000 autos, wound its way to the Hagerman picnic grove yesterday, in celebrating the bridge opening. Only one unfortunate circumstance marred the occasion. A horse participating in one of the races broke off the track and rushed into the crowd, knocking Harry Weaver, son of D. C. Weaver of Buhl, down and rendering him unconscious and inflicting similar injuries on a young man named Palmer from near Bliss. Weaver, who is 15 years old, is reported better today and similar reports have come from Bliss indirectly.

The program from beginning to end at Hagerman was pronounced a great success by the thousands present and the magnificent bridge received the praise of all. Governor D. W. Davis was speaker of the day. There were all sorts of games and amusements and a big old-fashioned basket dinner.

CIDER JAG IS CAUSE OF WILD WEST ANTICS

Mexican Anticipates Fourth With Artillery Display; Apple Juice Is Taken in

When Francisco Martinez with his trusty gun took a wild and woolly notion that he was a fighting Villalata late last night and began punturing the blue sky with eight various and sundry bullets, he "served notice on officialdom thereby that the cider in the cellars of several spots in the city had grown lusty with lingering age. Francisco was rounded up by the police and given 25 days by Police Judge Paul H. Taber this morning, while the office of the sheriff started out with search warrants for the decomrade actions of the late King Alcohol.

Take in Much Cider

As a result five Castillans and seven barrels of cider were in custody in a short time.

Juan Anakala, Frank Juellen, Gonzalas Kubio and Joe Molinos were taken in at the house of Joe Martinez at 364 South Main; Manuel Bellia and Joe Manupl at the pool hall of the latter at the corner of Main avenue and Third alre south, and John Anacava at the Eureka boarding house on Second avenue south. The old Spanish rooming house on Second avenue south was visited but nothing found. Seven barrels of cider were taken as containing too much alcohol in the official opinion. There was more cider in the places which had not strained the illegal strength and the Mexicans claim that they did not know that the test, which is alleged to be too strong, was really so.

They were arraigned before Probate Judge Duvall this afternoon and all but one gave the $100 bond to appear Saturday morning.

Had Things Tested

The officers have been suspicious lately that the places rounded were letting the cider get ripe. Samples were secured yesterday which are said to have tested four per cent and the raid would have been made today even if Martinez had not determined to wake up the neighborhood.

CLAIMS EXTREME CRUELTY

Ida Threkeld sued Daniel Threkeld today for divorce, alleging extreme cruelty.

ASSISTANT TO HARDING?

WASHINGTON.—Proposals to create a virtual assistantship to the president of the United States are under serious consideration by the joint committee on reconstruction, it is learned today. This office probably would be called an executive secretary.

It would make thousands of decisions of lesser importance which now overburden the president, leaving the chief executive free to devote himself to the big affairs of the government.

K. C. MAN KILLED

KANSAS CITY.—Mrs. Sallie McPherson, 41, wife of Jack McPherson, who was mysteriously shot and killed in his home, Washington home.

Mrs. McPherson told police her husband was shot by an unknown assailant who fired through the window.

Detectives stated that they have started for the woman's second husband, Thomas Parker, who mysteriously disappeared after the murder and had started in New Orleans, several years ago.

HELPING OUT MISS RICHARDS.

SAYS WAS COST OF TESTING.

That what he paid for in the matter of milk testing was cost of testing milk and cream which he had bought from others and which he was glad to have test as the statement of Walter Denton with reference to alleged light milk litigation. He says that he did not know that the cream was light when he bought it and was pleased to have the inspector demonstrate it so that he would know.

At the Theaters

Over $300,000 was spent in the production of "The Sporting Duchess," which will be shown at the Orpheum theatre today. The cast supporting Alice Joyce is one of the largest and most talented that has been gathered around the star in recent years.

The company includes Percy Marmont, G. W. Beyfertitz and Capt Lionel Pape, a noted English player, who served with distinction in the Royal Flying Corps during the war. Several well known jockeys appear in the racing scenes mounted on famous horses.

The picture was taken in part at Stanford, Conn. Later the company moved to locations nearer New York and the big racing scenes were taken at the fair grounds in New Orleans during the racing season in that city.

Every effort has been made to give the production the English atmosphere and to make the race a typical Derby. Every detail has been worked out by experts until it has all the reality of an actual Derby performance. The American scenery and architecture lend themselves well to the English atmosphere, many old estate holding replicas of some European manse.

George Terwilliger, director, made some unusual scenes of the race, in which Cliftstone, owned by the sporting duchess, wins instead of the customary personnel flash of the horses taken at different points along the track, the race scene is continuous. The audience has a view of the racers, although from a slight angle, coming directly at them. The entire race is shown.

When comfort and coolness come to mean the same thing, the one thing a man wants above all others is a tropical suit. Some tropical suits take as much from a man's appearance as they add to his comfort.

Other tropical—the right kind—keep a man's temperature down and his appearance up. They are the only tropical suits for which our Men's Clothing Store has any use. The reason why they fit so well and look so well and "feel" so well on a man are chiefly two—the fabrics and the way they are made.

The fabrics in the Big White Store's tropical suits are the best of their kind.

NEMESIS HITS BLOW AT JOYCE

Charlotte Johnson, a Cast-off, Comes to Aid of Peggy in Alimony Suit.

CHICAGO—Charlotte Johnson, actress playwright, arrived here today from Reno to aid of the beautiful Peggy today.

Miss Johnson said she had come here "to show Stanley up" and that she would testify against him in the case in which Peggy is asking for $10,000 a month alimony from her third millionaire husband.

"I believe in the law of compensation," said Miss Johnson today. "Stanley wrecked my life, now he'll hear from me."

"He will find that I am not the soft-eyed baby he thinks I am. This is my day."

"It was months after I was separated from Stanley that Peggy came into his life. I do not hold any grudge against her.

"Nothing that Peggy has done to Stanley could compare to his treatment of me. He escaped without a penalty in my case but Peggy is more sophisticated in such matters and intends to make him pay.

"When he ceased to care for him, Stanley threw me away like a rag doll. The piper must be paid."

Charlotte, who is now Mrs. Frank Gordon of Grand Rapids, Mich., is here with her husband, who is sticking by her.

It is expected that Miss Johnson and Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, Peggy's attorney, will have a conference today.

REARRANGE ADMIRALS.

WASHINGTON—Admiral Hilary P. Jones has been made commander of the Atlantic fleet to succeed Armiral H. H. Wilson, who has been transferred to the command of the naval academy at Annapolis, Secretary Denby announced.

Rear Admiral E. W. Eberle has been made commander of the Pacific fleet to succeed Admiral Hugh Rodman.

Admiral Rodman will take command of the naval operating base at Hampton Roads.

Rear Admiral W. R. Shoemaker, commandant of the Fourteenth naval district, was promoted to vice admiral, second in command of the Pacific fleet.

Rear Admiral J. J. Meigs, commandant of the New York navy yard, was made vice admiral and second in command of the Atlantic fleet. There will also be a redistribution of ships among the two fleets, it was announced.

GIRLS STARTING EARLIER

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Girls are growing younger than they did.

Miss Miss Van Winkle, washington, D. C., president of the International Association of Policewomen, said she was one of the problems confronting policewomen meetings here today in connection with the National Conference of Social Workers.

"Girls of today become offenders as early as 12," Mrs. Van Winkle said. "Delinquent girls are not confined to any class or section. They are recruited in the rich as well as the poor.

"We need a back in the home movement," Mrs. Van Winkle, who is a lieutenant of the metropolitan police of Washington, said.

"Mothers have lost control over their children. Fathers are too busy making money. There is altogether too much dependence placed on the state and the school to bring up children.

"Girls are more difficult to deal with than boys. Boys are, simply naughty. Girls are bad."

The Cheerful Workers of the Baptist church will hold a lemonade sale and dancing parties in the park tonight.

ACCUSE SCULPTOR OF RUINING GIRLS

Wholesale Debauchery Is Laid at the Door of German; Victims Appear

BERLIN, June 23—Facing twenty beautiful young women whom the government charges he attempted to ruin, George Ahrens, wealthy sculptor, declared today he was a benefactor, not a monster.

The shapely girls who took to his studio and to bacchanalian parties in his Westerland villa were being encouraged in the development of their talents, Ahrens declared.

Friends of the Ahrens' projects, according to the government, was the founding of the International Artists society. It was charged that the sculptor used the organization to bring before him more beautiful girls to act as models to whom he later made advances.

The government's case against the magnetic sculptor is divided into three counts:

The first was that he hired young girls to procure white slaves for him.

The second charged him specifically with the reduction of a girl under the age of 16.

The third charged that he was guilty of immorality with his own illegitimate daughter.

His society of "International Artists" was founded in part to provide medical treatment for many models, he said.

BERLIN, June 23—The alleged amours of George Ahrens, sculptor, were revealed in court here today by twenty girls who declared he attempted to ruin their lives.

Rich, athletic and handsome, Ahrens sneeringly listened to the statements of the pretty girls who told their stories tearfully or boldly, as the judges asked for description of bacchanalian parties in Ahrens's studio at Westerland villa.

There were poor girls in shabby dresses and cotton stockings and poor girls in silk, cut to the latest fashions. But all of them were pretty and all of them shapely, chosen by a famous sculptor with a sure eye for graceful limbs and figures.

Ahrens is a man of about 50. His alleged offenses occurred two years ago, since when he has been held in "examination" imprisonment" awaiting his hearing.

Ahrens revealed nothing of his defense today as the evidence piled up against him.

Meanwhile many of the girls named in the charges against the sculptor have become ballet dancers, movie actresses, and models, only a few falling to make use of their blonde or brunette beauty to earn a living.

According to their stories, they were employed at different times as models in Ahrens's studio, he accepted them. It was said, only after the most personal examination. If the girl pleased him he made the customary approaches with the offer of money, with dinners and wines.

Once they had yielded in part, they said, he attacked them. However, of the twenty girls in the hearing, they said Ahrens had accomplished his full purpose in only a few cases.

The little beauties, who yielded completely, they said, were taken to Ahrens's sumptuous Westerland villa in Carls.

One of the witnesses claimed that one of Ahrens's victims was his own illegitimate daughter. Some of the girls who nervously awaited the hearing were accompanied by shabby mothers, obviously bowed by grief and shame. Two of them were accompanied by brothers who belligerently warded off all questioners and doubled their fists significantly when the thick necked defendant was mentioned.

The girls personally showed little resentment against Ahrens.

One blonde, whose brown eyes looked squarely at her questioner, smiled as she said:

"Well, he didn't drive us to the street. We all have jobs and we're getting along."

The trial will be continued tomorrow. Meantime twenty of the prettiest girls in Berlin are waiting, twisting their handkerchiefs in the ante room as they nervously speculate on the hour when they will be called in to court to face the hand some man charged with their ruin.

JOBLESS MEN LEAVING CITY FOR THE FARM

Lack of Funds Hampers Work of Connecting the Men With Jobs.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Jobless young America is going back to the farm.

The fighting Yank who left the plow to go to war and then remained in the big cities after he had returned, has found starvation wages and rainy nights on park benches too much.

Miss Monica Harry Walsh, director of the American land service, said two hundred men hearted trains leaving New York today to go back to the country. Seven hundred and forty-eight went last week. Eleven hundred and thirty went the week before—and still there are "468,000 men out of work in New York.

"If we just had the money to handle these boys we could clear the park benches in a few months," Miss Walsh told the United Press. "Right here is the solution of America's industrial problem. All the ex-service men, out of jobs, seem to have come to the city, and they are clamoring to get back. With our small staff we don't dare advertise for men. We did that one day and they nearly tore down the place trying to get in.

"Farmers won't pay fares for these men and we haven't any money. Last week we started a gang out hiking across country hoping to get them places without railroad fares, but the plan failed.

"The harvest season is coming on and we are as broke as the men, but even without assistance we can get back about 20,000 by that time. With sufficient funds we could clear the greater part of these 468,000 jobless in New York."

TRAGEDY ON THE PIER.

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 23—After waiting two hours for his wife to appear at their place of employment on the Pier here today, Henry Miller fired three shots into the woman's body and killed her instantly.

Miller then attempted to turn the gun on himself, but was prevented from suicide by Frank O'Connor, a passerby. The gun exploded, a bullet grazing Miller's face.

WIDOW IS ACCUSED

PORTLAND, Ore.—Mrs. Harry Jason widow of Harry Ayer, who was found with his throat cut in his home here last Saturday, was indicted for first degree murder by the grand jury here.

The grand jury aided by the police and the office of the district attorney, has been carrying on a relentless investigation of the killing for the past seven days.

MORE FLOOD DAMAGE

SISTERVILLE, W. Va.—A score of homes were washed away and property damage estimated at $3,000,000 was caused by cloudbursts in three nearby West Virginia counties Sunday, according to reports here today.

The total rainfall was estimated at six inches.

Predicts Harvey Will Be Recalled for Talk

CLEVELAND, June 23—"Ambassador Harvey's May 19 speech broke the stock market. If it isn't soon checked you may expect resignation of President Harding of Harvey and Harvey's recall."

This was the statement made today by Roger Babson, noted statistician. Babson was here to address the International Kiwanis club convention.

"American financiers had been lulled in hope that the Harding administration would support some sort of league of nations," Babson continued. "This hope had a strengthening effect on the market. And when Harvey, on May 19, in London cut the ropes, the effect was immediate.

"That Harding knew what Harvey was going to say is assumed, and I believe, correctly so. Certainly an ambassador to England in his maiden speech would say nothing that was not known to his superior."

Present Coal Freight Rates to Stand, Read What a Prominent Railroad Man Says—

"I will say that the Oregon Short Line Railroad does not contemplate any reduction in freight rates on coal, and it is very desirable that dealers use the opportunity during the summer months, while there is plenty of equipment, to store as much coal as possible for next fall's and winter's use.

J. A. BEEVER, Gen'l Fuel Agt.,
O. S. L. R'd, Salt Lake City.

We know that freight is too high, but we can do nothing to remedy it. We are storing all the coal we possibly can to protect you next winter, but it is utterly impossible for us to store enough to supply everybody if we wait until the last minute to fill their bins.

There is nothing to be gained by waiting. Buy your winter's coal now.

SPECIAL BARGAINS IN USED CARS

In buying a used car first select a dealer who is known to give you a dependable service. Who considers your good will worth more than any immediate profit on a single sale. Nagel Brothers are best known for these qualifications. We offer for your consideration the following good used car values, and cordially invite you to call and let us show you. Nash Roadster—Completely rebuilt, new tires, new paint. A car that you will take real pride in possessing, and one that will give you lasting satisfaction—and a maximum of motoring pleasure.

We have a good Hudson, 7-passenger. It has been completely overhauled and rebuilt—at our price, for it is priced to sell this week.

Willys-Knight—It looks, good, is good and will appeal to you as being worth the money.

Oakland—A 5-passenger car for small outlay. If you wish a light model car for general service, see this for $350.

Reo—5-passenger in first class condition and priced for quick sale at $375.

NAGEL BROTHERS

A USED FORD IS A GOOD INVESTMENT

The reason a used Ford car is such a good investment is because of the slight depreciation. Many of our customers have used their Ford an entire season and then sold it at a profit. This week (Used Car Week) we offer the following special bargains.

2 Ford touring models.
2 coupes.
1 bus.
2 trucks.

Call and see these cars. Ask for Jack Jensen.

WESTERN AUTO CO.

FOR SALE—Buick Four, thoroughly overhauled and painted, tires all good, part cash and good terms on balance. Address Buick, care Times.

The recent substantial reductions in Buick and Dodge Brothers cars brought a flood of sales for new cars. Some have traded in larger models and bought smaller ones; still others smaller cars for larger ones. The result is we have a fine selection of splendid used cars from which to pick the car you like. We shall be pleased to have you call and look them over. Our offer during Used Car Week.

Buicks—2 model D-45, Buicks newly painted and in good running order. If in the market for a used Buick—see these.

Ford touring car for only $150. This car is well worth the money.

1921 Ford Coupe—In splendid shape and many extras, including six tires and rims and shock absorbers. We firmly believe this is the best Ford buy we've had this season.

1920 Dodge Sedan—Newly painted and run only 8000 miles—used Dodge cars have always been in big demand—and this is your opportunity to buy and save money.

1918 Buick Touring—5-passenger. Let us take you for a demonstration. You'll do the rest after that.

We have other equally good values in used cars. When you buy a used car from Lind's you are buying from an organization you can depend on for service.

LIND AUTOMOBILE CO.
Largest, Finest and Best Equipped Garage in the West.

Market News

GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Grain prices declined generally on the Chicago board of trade today, the result of free and heavy selling which weakened the market. Showers in the southwest brought fear of delayed harvest. Wheat advanced slightly under the question.

Provisions were irregular.

July wheat advanced 1¼c for an hour, but later sagged to a point 1½c below the opening figure, and additional 1c at the close. September wheat was up 1¼c at the opening at $1.24, and remained unchanged at the close.

July corn opened up ⅛c at 65⅝c, and declined ⅜c later. September corn off ⅛c for an opening of 64½c, declined ⅛c at the close.

July oats opened off ⅛c at 34⅞c and dropped an additional ⅜c at the close. September oats, opening unchanged at 36⅞c, declined ⅛c at the close.

DISCOURAGING START

DENVER, June 23.—Frank O'Brien's summer started off with a cost of $150 and—

Police caught Frank in his home with two colored women and—door had made himself.

"That wasn't hooch," Frank explained. "It was just Pluto water. I was drinking it with ordinary city water so the prohibition law wouldn't be violated."

"One fiver and costs," said the judge. "Looks like a long day' summer," responded Frank as he paid.

PROTEST EXPORT TAX

WASHINGTON—A delegation of American oil producers, with walks in Mex'co, today protested to the state department against the 25 per cent export tax recently replaced on oil by the Mexican government.

The oil men declared that the tax amounted to confiscation of property and asked that representation be made by this government.

DAWES DIRECTS BUDGET

WASHINGTON, June 23.—President Harding today selected Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker, to put the government's financial affairs on a business basis.

Dawes, it was announced, will head the new budget system which goes into effect July and which the president hopes will save the government millions of dollars by correlating the government expending and appropriating agencies.

COMMISSION DENIES RATE CUT ON BEANS

Appeal Will Be Made for Hearing in Twin Falls Without Delay.

Suspension of bean rates has been denied by the interstate commerce commission, which, while so stating specifically, seems to outlook the contention of the railroads that the bean rate was really granted last year and that through errors in understanding of their own rights, bad accounting and lack of a handy ready reckoner, the highway managers failed to raise the rates as much as they were permitted to do.

At the same time it is pointed out that the right exists to file a complaint and ask a hearing and this the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Idaho Bean Growers and the Farm Bureau will do at once. Donald McLean of the Bean Growers' association writes today to ask a hearing, and that it be held here.

What Way Says

The interstate commerce public utilities commission conveying the information is brief and reads:

Washington, June 21st, 1921.

Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Twin Falls, Idaho.
St. Anthony, Idaho.
Rexburg, Idaho.
Pocatello, Idaho.
Twin Falls, Idaho.
Mr. C. E. Munson,
Mr. D. McLean,
Twin Falls, Idaho.

Gentlemen: The Interstate Commerce Commission declined to suspend the advances in rates on dried beans. A copy of their letter is attached.

Yours truly,
LEONARD WAY,
Chief, Transportation Dept.

What the Commission Says

The information from Washington telling of the decision of the interstate commerce commission and outlining the means of getting a hearing reads:

June 11, 1921.

Mr. Leonard Way,
Chief, Transportation Dept.,
Public Utilities Commission of the State of Idaho, Boise, Idaho.

Dear Sir:

With further reference to your protest against and request for the suspension of increased rates on dried beans and dried peas, carloads, from St. Anthony, Idaho, and Boise, Idaho, and Huntington, Oregon, to Memphis, Tenn., as published in Oregon Short Line Tariff I. C. C. No. 2312, effective June 15, 1921:

You are advised that it is the view of the Commission, upon consideration of the matter before it, that it should not exercise its authority to suspend the rates named. The Commission by this action does not suspend any of the schedules contained in the protested tariff, all such schedules being subject to formal complaint, investigation and correction for any conflict with any of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Respectfully,
G. H. McINTY,
Secretary.

Investigate Case of Man Slain in Mystery

LOS ANGELES.—Officials have launched an investigation into weird circumstances surrounding the death of Robert McLennon, 31, of Winslow, Ariz.

McLennon died Wednesday at the Santa Fe hospital here. The mysterious events preceding his death, however, came to light last night for the first time with the voluntary testimony of R. G. Futch, a friend of McLennon.

McLennon died from a spinal meningitis, induced by three bullet wounds.

"The wounds were from dum-dum bullets," Futch told the police last night. "McLennon never knew who shot them. It happened back at his home in Winslow on May 1.

"I heard my telephone ringing and a weak voice that I recognized as McLennon's called over the wire for help.

"I rushed to his home. He was on the floor in his bedroom, one arm wrapped around a bed post.

"'My God, Mac, who did it?' I asked.

"'Don't know, I don't know. They shot from the other side of the bed.' They winded my intern, but they didn't get him. I fired back at them, too, but they got away.' Then McLennon fainted.

"When he recovered a bit he wouldn't talk. A few days later, when he was strong enough, he went to Los Angeles.
