Favors Thorough Discussion of Freedom of Seas Problem at London

DAWES FAMILIAR WITH
VIEW OF PRESIDENT
MacDonald Ready to Support
Any Feasible Plan for Discussion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (UPI)—President Hoover is seeking some broadening of the London naval conference to include discussion on freedom of the seas, it was learned today.

New of this development in the naval conference preparations affected diplomatic circles today following an hour's conference at the white house between the chief executive and Secretary of State, Salmon P. Chase.

Chase, in a statement,

Ambassador Dawes, who sailed tonight from New York to return to his post in London, has been recalled with the president's views on the entire question of the war-time law of the sea. The two men will meet again when Dawes will present the United States' view to the British government informally. If a formula can be found, he said, the two governments on a general understanding on the subject may be given to the secretary of state for presentation to the League of Nations for the consideration of the law of blockade, search and seizure and the rights of neutrals.

President Hoover expressed every phase of the problem in his conversations with Prime Minister MacDonald, who was in London last month. Although no formula for presenting the problem at the London conference could be found, he said, the two governments have agreed to submit their views of laws of war to the Conference for the next year.

Allen Walker Alleged to Have Slain Mexican and Throw the Bodies in Rio Grande

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 8 (UPI)—The federal patronage investigator, Frank S. Stoen, has learned of the killing of a man and the bodies left yesterday in the Rio Grande. Nov. 8 (UPI)—Schoolmates cheered and applauded him when James William Davison, 29, was freed of a murder charge last night. He had killed his father to protect his mother from her family quarrel. Judge Thomas Ambrose said that, in his opinion, no jury would convict the whole region.

If this is not sound reasoning why not? Since it is time to act why should we not get going?

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8 (UPI)—Schoolmates cheered and applauded him when James William Davison, 29, was freed of a murder charge last night. He had killed his father to protect his mother from her family quarrel. Judge Thomas Ambrose said that, in his opinion, no jury would convict the whole region.

The indictment charged Walker with the slaying of his father, a man with a secret vice—sporadic hers, bimonthly to them in the Rio Grande. It followed the shooting into the body of a lone horse that night with the intent of killing U. S. Deputy Marshal Allen Walker on charges of being a member of the gang of Lolo Blanco and Aurelio Martinez.

In the trial, Walker was found guilty of killing his father, but he was found not guilty of the charge of being a member of the gang.

The last of the beans were harvested in the outlying districts of Twin Falls this week, it was estimated, some few straggling car loads coming in from the hills. Warehouses in Twin Falls are busy reclassifying the beans they have taken in for storage. The quality of the beans is poor and considerable handpicking is being done, women being employed for this purpose in most of the places where wild beans have not been picked. Are not wild picking now, states Alvin Harboe, apple dealer. In many cases, however, the beans are packed in packing houses or storage houses; in some cases they have been piled up and covered with a heavy layer of sand as protection against the cold weather.

WHY NOT NOW?

AN EDITORIAL

THE INCONVENIENCE, inconvenience and expense worked upon the people of this territory through lack of a western connection with the Union Pacific main line will be corrected, sooner or later.

It is not believable that traffic in or out of Buhl to or from the west by rail will always have to make the present 122-mile detour. Nor is it conceivable to believe that Twin Falls traffic to or from the west will forever be subject to the 118-mile detour now required. The people of the Boise country will not be permanently denied the advantage of a 23-mile saving in distance to California that will be possible by using a direct line through Twin Falls and Wm. H. Davis.

The line is to be extended. To claim otherwise is to say that a small construction cost means more to the railroad company than does the advancement and prosperity of a great territory that produces more tonnage than any other section on the E. P. system and which territory has been passed by the head of the United States bureau of reclamation as the largest and most important irrigation region in the west. To take the negative on this line extension subject is not good sense. It would be the same as saying that the Union Pacific will not meet its obligations as a railway to the west and that the transportation act of 1920 is a farce.

Since the line extension is inevitable why not build it now? How can anyone gain by delay? Why not get the work done so that the present population of this territory and of southern Idaho can get the road out of it? The present generation of farmers, merchants, business property owners and home owners have interests at stake and their rights should be considered. They are building a new community and it should not be subjected to a needless handicap during the formative period. Let the country grow according to its natural abilities and the railroad will reap its reward in the form of increased tonnage. New business for the carrier will not be from the extension territory alone but from the whole region.

This is not sound reasoning why not? Since it is time to act why should we not get going?

S. Department of Agriculture. Seasonal declines in the farm prices of meat animals and lower prices for cotton, corn, barley, wheat, wool, horses, and chickens were partially offset by seasonal advances in the farm prices of dairy and poultry products and higher prices of oats, rye, hay, fruits and vegetables, cottonseed and flax seed. On October 5, the prices paid to the producers for flax seed were the highest since July, 1920.

Changes in the indices of prices of farm products, by groups of commodities, in the period from September 5 to October 15 were: Meat animals, cotton and cottonseed down 5 points; grains down 3 points; poultry and poultry products up 16 points; fruits and vegetables up 8 points; and dairy products up 2 points.

Grain prices on October 15 were 12 points higher than on the same date in 1928; fruits and vegetables were up 54 points; and poultry and poultry products were 13 points higher. Meat animal prices were 8 points lower than on October 15, 1928, dairy products were down 2 points, and cotton and cottonseed down 6 points.

At the range of prices established by the pool sale of the Idaho Turkey Growers association at Boise Monday, the lordly bird should be popular with great numbers of families this winter.

FROM THE PUBLIC

SLAUGHTERED DEER

Editor Evening Times:
The letter published in yesterday evening's paper, under heading of "Hunting Season Proves Benefit," trying to justify the recent slaughter of deer in Twin Falls county, certainly very illuminating.

According to the letter there were plenty of deer left after slaughtering 1200 in a few days, but you couldn't see them because of the tall trees.

However, according to the article, they could be seen in droves of hundreds, leaving trails from Nevada.

As much as we hate to see these deer leave our beloved Idaho, yet we can surely blame them—any decent self-respecting deer would naturally want to leave a state whose game department would countenance such slaughter of hundreds of fawns and does.

The deer that were hiding in the tall brush and trees were no doubt doing so from the sense of shame.

A. M. TINGWALL.

FREIGHT COSTS

Editor Evening Times:
In regard to railroad rates in Idaho, the following is an exact excerpt taken from the Caribou Daily Times, all Alaskan Review for 1926—in article "Sheep Raising in Southwestern Alaska."

"Wool from the Abutian Islands can be marketed in Boston $1.00 per hundred cheaper than from the state of Idaho."

Trusting the above information might be of some benefit, I remain,

Yours truly,
R. R. LOVE,

BROOKHART'S BOOZE EXPOSURE

Baker Democrat-Herald:
Brookhart is an interesting fellow, whether one approves of him or not. His exposure of the "Wall Street dinner," at which a number of senators, including himself, were invited to "help themselves" to a liquor-supply and apparently all but three did furnish the citizens on the outside with what is probably a pretty accurate picture of what actually goes on behind the scenes at Washington. People who wonder why the big interests in the east have such an inside track at Washington can read Brookhart's speech with profit.

The law senator's revelations bear every evidence of truth. He emphatically repudiated Senator Smoot of "helping himself," and said Smoot was as disgusted with the thing as he, Brookhart, was. He also mentioned that Senator Gooling of Idaho as "one of those who did not imbibe." The dinner conversation turned quickly to economic issues with the hosts trying to show some of their insurgent guests that they were "all wet" on certain questions in which the hosts were interested. Brookhart was seated between representatives of two of the big New York banking firms, Kuhn, Loeb and Morgan.

The ethics of a senator regarding what happened at a private dinner party are questionable. So far as the big money interests inviting senators to private dinners where the law is in the broken with a view to breaking down their respect for themselves and their offices, and thereby undermining their convictions, Brookhart's revelation, while it may be in poor taste, at least serves a public interest, while the acts of his erstwhile hosts are in direct contradiction to public interest.

Only the other day Senator Gillette of Massachusetts spoke of certain senators passing on public questions while under the influence of intoxicants. He mentioned no names. It was not necessary. The point is the personal conduct of some of the senators, being the subject of rumor, but about which no direct facts have been learned, is coming out into the open.

The time has actually come when it will be no risk for a senator to take a drink as far as "wall street" is concerned.

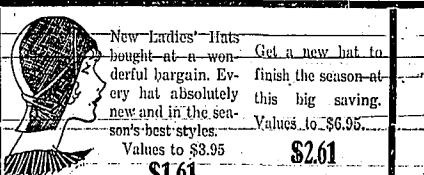

If or when this happens there will be more respect for law and better enforcement of it.

FARM PRICE INDEX HIGHER
A 140 per cent of the pre-war level
On October 15, the index of the general level of farm prices was 1 point lower than on September 5 and 9 points higher than a year ago, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U.
