HOUSE SHIFTS TAX BURDEN TO MANUFACTURER FROM BUYER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Federal taxes were reduced still lower by action of the republican members of the house ways and means committee today.

The present tax on express rates, charge on oil and gas pipe lines, was suspended; also the 5 per cent.

The committee, having previously eliminated the passenger, Pullman and freight taxes, this makes a complete repeal, effective Jan. 1, 1922, of all the transportation taxes. Under the existing law the express tax is 5 cent, for each 20 cent charge.

The committee transferred the present so-called luxury taxes on eight classes of high priced articles from the consumer to the manufacturer.

The tax on cereal beverages, including mainly near beer was reduced from 15 cents a gallon, as fixed by the committee, a few days ago, to 12 cents.

The new tax imposed was a $10 flat license tax on all vendors of fountain soft drinks.

The present rate on the consumer is 10 per cent on the amount above 50 cents charged for a ticket or charge. The rate from the manufacturer is 5 per cent.

The 5 per cent on manufacturers applies on the following articles sold wholesale above the prices named:

Carpets and rugs including floor, except linoleum, and American rugs made principally of wool, $3.50 per yard.

Trunks $3 each.

Purses, pocketbooks, shopping and handbags, 14 each.

Vanity boxes, lighting fixtures, including lamps of all kinds and lamp shades, $10 each.

Umbrellas, parasols and sun shades $2.50 each.

Fans $1 each.

House or smoking coats or jackets and bath or lounging robes $3 each.

FOURTH GAME COMES SUNDAY AT BUHL PARK

Rumor That Big Leaguer Will Pitch for West End Stirs Up Especial Interest.

Pointed by the report that Dave Davenport, former major league twirler, will be put in the box by Buhl Sunday in a determined effort to defeat Twin Falls and even up the inter-city series, interest of local fans is unusually stirred over the coming fourth battle of the five game series. This will be played at Buhl pomorrow afternoon and prospects are that Twin Falls fandom will be there en masse.

If Davenport is to pitch for Buhl, the outlook is accordingly dark for the All Stars to shine. Davenport was recently ruled out of the Northern Utah league, which plays exceedingly fast, high ball, because he was pitching the Ogden club to make a runaway of the pennant race. If he not classes the Utah league he will undoubtedly loom large in local circles. Consequently the Buhl corp will probably draw a response from Twin Falls in the shape of a determined fighting front on the part of both team and fans. The locals need one game to win, the series while Buhl needs to take both of the two remaining. The Davenport story indicates that they intend to do it.

WANT ARMY REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A move to force reduction in the army and navy in advance of the disarmament conference was made today.

Representative Cable, Ohio, introduced a bill making drastic cuts in the number of enlistments at Annapolis and cadets at West Point.

His bill would reduce the cadets from 1281 to 750 and the midshipmen from 2278 to 690, but would not affect the present classes.

Cable said his bill would restore the military and naval academies to their peace time basis.

JAPS PLOT IN HAWAII

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—An alleged plot to give Japanese control of the agricultural situation in Hawaii was disclosed today, at the hearings before the senate immigration committee on proposed amendments to the immigration laws of the territory to relieve a serious labor shortage.

Walter Dillingham, president of a committee appointed by the governor of Hawaii, testified Japanese laborers have entered into a conspiracy to quit work, create a labor shortage, and force the transfer of farming interests to Japanese. Dillingham said that Japanese, who constitute 43 per cent of the population of the Islands and are increasing in numbers each year, furnish three-fourths of the field labor.

"The prosperity of the territory," Dillingham declared, "depends upon the prosperity of the agricultural interests."

DR. A. R. BRAND LEAVES MONDAY

Dr. A. R. Brand, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, will delivery his farewell sermon tomorrow and leave for his new charge in San Antonio, Tex., at 6 o'clock Monday morning traveling overland with his family.

Dr. Brand has been here nearly four years and has made friends among all sorts of people in his own and other churches and among those without church affiliation. He goes with expressions of good will from all. He states that his new church, the Madison street church, is the big Texas city's largest there and thoroughly modern in every way, having Sunday school building separate from the church and other up-to-date features. Dr. Brand was called to several other pastorates when it was learned that he was contemplating going for a lower altitude and selected San Antonio as the most satisfactory on account of his bronchial effusts and other advantages.

CAPTURE RUM RUNNERS

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—With the arrest of four alleged smugglers landing a load of Canadian booze from a speed motor boat at Ecorse this afternoon, federal, state and local officials launched an intensive war against the gangs which have been running rum across the border in speed boats, especially built for the two days. These were the first men captured since a Windsor, Ont., court ruled Wednesday exportation of liquor to this country is legal. Daring smugglers in open defiance of a few dry officials in the vicinity last night, flooded suburban points along the Detroit river.

WINS NAMES FOR BABIES

DENVER, Aug. 13.—Denied the legal right to her sweetheart's name, Miss Nellie Phillips, "soul mate" of George Stoffer, won his name for the two children she bore for Mr. Stoffer whose wife admitted she knew of his "soul mate" and had often entertained her, readily consented to pay $10 a month for the support of Miss Phillips and the children.

Miss Phillips said she and Stoffer had lived as man and wife within these walls of Stoffer's home. Both women professed love for Stoffer yet felt no enmity toward each other, they said.

The strange triangle was revealed when Miss Phillips, fearing Stoffer was preparing to leave Denver with his legal wife and his "love babies" appealed to the juvenile court.

Probe Second Murder Theory

BURCH THEATENED LIFE OF KENNEDY, IS CLAIMED

Girl Refutes Statement of Suspect Held

Says She Never Saw Dolly Mason, Who Is Believed to be Mythical Charleter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—Blazing in the cliffs of Salada Beach for the murder of a man posed confederate of the murderer of Father Patrick Heslin, kidnaped coin operat. was unmasked soon after daylight today.

Constable S. A. Landini of Colma, who had due for the murder through most of the night, returned to Salada beach after two hours rest, and declared he felt sure he knew where he would unearth a second body.

The theory of the authorities was that two men murdered and kidnaped Father Heslin and then one killed the other.

An alternate theory was that a murder had been committed and then the kidnapers called the priest to receive a confession after which they shot and killed the priest.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13—Doris Shirley, one of the two missing women in the investigation of the murder of the Rev. Father Patrick Heslin, walked into the police station today and introduced herself to the authorities.

She was accompanied by a man giving the name of Lee Putnam of Fresno. He said he intended to marry Miss Shirley.

Miss Shirley was rushed into a secret conference with Chief of Police O'Brien and detectives.

After talking with Miss Shirley police announced she had told them that details of William Hightower's story were incorrect. Hightower, held as a suspect, was the man who led police to Salada beach, grave.

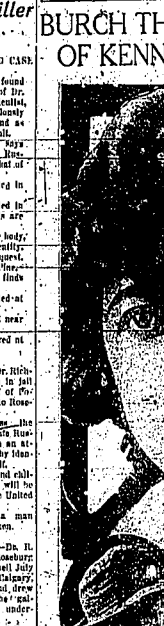
She denied his purported statement that he had taked her riding in an automobile to Salada beach, and that she had stopped with him at the roadside while repairs were made to the car, police said.

She told the authorities, according to the announcement, that she never knew any woman named Dolly Mason, Hightower's alleged sweetheart. Hightower's alleged statement that he had introduced Miss Shirley to Dolly Mason in front of a San Francisco cafe several days ago.

Police said they were practically convinced that Dolly Mason is a mythical character.

Probe Second Murder Theory

Mrs. Madalynne Connor Oberchain (above) and Arthur C. Burch (below) are held by Los Angeles police in connection with the murder of J. R. Kennedy, shot from ambush at his bungalow in Beverly Hills, near Los Angeles. Mrs. Oberchain was with him when he was shot. Burch, a former classmate of Mrs. Oberchain at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., replied an auto at Los Angeles the night Kennedy was killed. Police say auto tracks with similar tread were found near Kennedy's bungalow. Below, also, is shown Mrs. Burch, now living apart from her husband.



Lawyer Husband, Speeding to Side of Accused Divorcee, May Defend Her Against Charges of Murdering John Belton Kennedy.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13—The district attorney's office has produced a witness to testify that Arthur C. Burch threatened the life of John Belton Kennedy previous to the time Kennedy was murdered, it developed here today.

The witness is Mrs. James C. Warren, wife of a Santa Barbara, Calif. banker.

Mrs. Warren became acquainted with Burch on a Los Angeles-bound transcontinental train.

"I felt sorry for him," she said. "I felt that there was a certain party treating him right. If he doesn't I'm going to get him."

This is the statement Mrs. Warren is said to have informed the district attorney's office that Burch confided in her during the trip.

The district attorney's office refused to enlarge upon the evidence Mrs. Warren is known to have laid before the officials. Authorities were expected that the substance of her testimony leaked out.

Mrs. Warren also was sworn to secrecy. She declined to talk to newspaper men.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13—Ralph Oberchain, divorced husband of the "beautiful Madalynne today" jumped forward as the central figure in the Kennedy murder mystery.

Whether Madalynne Oberchain, now under indictment for the murder will make a statement which she says will free her and clear the mystery, depends upon the advice of her former husband who is to arrive here from Chicago tomorrow.

Word from the Santa Fe train on which Oberchain is coming here was that the course he would advise his wife to follow depended on the conversation he had with her on his arrival. Oberchain is an attorney and it is probably he will be associated in the defense of his former wife.

While Oberchain was being A. W. Burch of Evanston, Ill., father of Arthur Courtney Burch, also under indictment for the murder. Word reached here shows his faith in his son's innocence still holds.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13—"Aim central, Keep strength."

This was the simple message of promise and encouragement received by Madalynne Oberchain early today from her former husband, Ralph H. Oberchain, now speeding westward on a transcontinental limited.

Madalynne visibly recovered her spirits and poise on receipt of this telegram, the first definite assurance that the man whom she deserted for love of another man was still steadfast.

Burch, on the other hand, appeared shaken and more worried today, by strand after strand in the net of circumstantial evidence was being woven about him.

He still refuses absolutely to make any response, though it is apparent that he no longer regards the affair in the semi-jocular attitude he first adopted. He was morose today, with the lines in his face deepened.

NEW GOLD FIND STIRS JARBIDGE

MORE TAXES LIKELY FOR TWIN FALLS

Assessor Stewart Says Raise Is Probable; Railroad Tax Distribution Unfair.

"We got little satisfaction from the county commissioners upon the statement that there would be a raise in irrigated lands," said S. Claude Stewart, county assessor, today, in speaking of his experience in Boise. "However, from what I could gather, I think the raise will be from 25 to 50 per cent."

Other half the counties have a raise on this account. Some are raised less than Twin Falls and in some instances I believe that the raise will be as much as 50 per cent. I opposed the raise and also fought for a different distribution of money secured from railroad assessments. In the case of farm lands, the board had the drop on it. It had sent John D. Robertson, an expert around a couple of years ago to collect figures. He took tickets and the same number of figures and by noting the revenue stamps obtained approximately the amount of value involved. Then he checked up against the assessments and claimed that this county had assessed its irrigated lands only one-fifth of its value, while the law says it should be assessed at full value. It was insisted that owners of farm lands would not sell them now for twice the assessed value.

Wrong Method of Distribution

"The method of distributing railroad taxes is wrong. The attorneys for the companies contended that the method that should be used is to get the total mileage of the road in the state and then pro rate taxes in accordance with the total mileage in each county through which the road and its branches exist. The board therefore apportioned more per mile to counties through which the main line runs. According to the law the money from the railroad taxes should get as much per mile in the county for both the Buhl and the Hagerman branches as the counties on the main line. Last year by reason of the method in use by the board Elmore county got $20,000 more than it would otherwise receive while proportionate raises, I told the board of equalizers that we would insist on our rights in this matter.

"Roads Raise Rear

"The railroads and other utilities were between the board as the matter of taxes when I left. They seem to have the board somewhat shaken since they claimed that they had been treated big by the state board and that unless their assessments were lowered or farm lands raised in proportion, they would appeal to the courts. They seem to have won several suits on this issue. The Idaho Power company, which claims to have an investment of $23,000,000 was said to be assessed on the basis of $8,000,000 on the ground that it is earning only that sum only. Should its earnings decrease for any reason, it will be forced to make a reduction on that basis next year. That would not be so bad if farm lands were treated in the same manner. Of course, the assessment on farm lands in the state is largely shifted to the consumers. Small allowance is usually made for the increased rates where the increase is as large as this.

—Return Starts Next Week.

The return of Assessor Stewart crystallized the vague spirit of protest in this community against the proposed raise and steps were once taken to compile figures tending to refuting the conclusions of the state board and a committee was called up with them. It is proposed to gather data from the records of Twin Falls, Hailey, Ketchum and Sun Valley, which are said to show that the sales from which Robertson conducted his data were forced sales, that they were few and did not really represent actual values. City values and livestock were overlooked or underpriced, he said.

"It would be ridiculous to make a difference in the tax rates were raised the assessments are raised," said Commissioner W. W. Parish today, "but they are not. Here we have levies already made for the coming year for the school district based on last year's valuation. To raise valuation now means not only taxes in the future but the present."

The highway board met this afternoon and allowed bills and matters were discussed but no decisions were made.

MRS. STARR DID NOT USE DRUG IS TESTIMONY

Letters Left by Woman Read at Inquest; Bullet Is Cause of Death.

That Mrs. Estella Starr took no chloroform and used no other method than shooting to end her life was established by the evidence of Dr. J. F. Coughlin before the coroner's jury last evening. Although there was a four ounce bottle of chloroform in the refrigerator when the body was found, the chloroform was untouched but an ounce, admitted to be missing, the testimony of the doctor was conclusive on the point. The empty bottle, marked "poison" and nearly contained hours of the drug.

—Little New Evidence.

There was little new evidence in the inquest. The letters found in the bar, addressed to C. E. Wright, her employer and to Mrs. W. T. Seal, her neighbor were read. The latter she thanked her employer for courtesies shown. In the last she suggested tidying up the rooms for her husband and son Ralph.

Home Life Happy.

The testimony of W. T. Seal a neighbor fully corroborated the evidence of the husband that the home life had always been happy and that from the point of view she had always been contented, Mr. Wright testified that he had spoken to him of her great grief over the accidental death of her son Dale two and a half years ago, but he had thought that she was recovering somewhat from her worry. This was also the substance of her husband's testimony. The twin boys were born in 1908, he said. The girl died two years ago from a sudden attack of pneumonia.

The jury found that Mrs. Starr died from a gunshot wound self-inflicted and was sane at the time of her death. H. H. Taylor, Roy Wheelwright, M. B. Corsoran, P. E. Down, C. L. Lowder, A. P. Metz, H. F. Sheehan, C. H. Stinson and H. H. Green.

Funeral Next Week.

Date of the funeral of Mrs. Starr depends on the arrival of Mrs. Starr's sister, Mrs. Chinn, who is coming from Salt Lake and will arrive this afternoon or tomorrow. It will likely be held Monday or Tuesday.

"Purs Like a Well" Pleased Cat"

So says W. J. DeSpain of this city, respecting the action of the motor of his car, after applying it with the new gasoline, atomizing and vaporization device known as the Carbur-Aid.

In a test run on a measured quart of gasoline, two months ago, when the Carbur-aid was installed, the car ran 2.61 miles. Additional to this he backed 35 feet to get out on to the roadway and to turn around in order to finish the course. This is approximately 40 MILES TO THE GALLON OF GASOLINE and eclipses what is claimed to be the world's record of 37.4 miles held by the manufacturer of a well-known carburetion system retailing at nearly four times the price of the Carbur-aid.

"Some time ago," says Mr. DeSpain, "I drove the car over into the Wood River country, going by way of Shoshone Falls and returning by way of Blue Lakes. I carried two passengers, and in climbing the stiff grades, it was most pleasurable to sense the extraordinary energy and power displayed by the motor. On moderately upgrade stretches where formerly I had run with the throttle wide open, the speed was so great that I dared not run with the throttle more than half a two-inch open. Ignition trouble due to liquid gasoline passing into the combustion chambers is a thing of the past. The explosions of the motor are so wonderfully smooth and snappy—instead of being half-dead and muffled, and shaking the car because of being uneven—as to be likened unto the purr of a well pleased cat."

The Carbur-aid equipment for Sixes, Four-Cylinder Cars and Fords may be obtained at Jay Bee Clark's, the Central Garage and Gloystein Brothers. Other dealers will handle the device when they have assured themselves of its merits.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, sourness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidney or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad salts is inexpensive, and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

FORDSON TRACTOR

Georgs Lesley of the Western Auto Company has received the following testimonial from C. O. Branch of Auburn, Colorado:

"I find that with the Fordson I can do three times the work that I did with four horses.

Eight thousand, five hundred feet above sea level on Kinkee Heights, Montrose, Colorado, C. E. Bennett's farm is located. And of course he owns a Fordson. His letter says, in part: "I use a sixteen-inch single bottom plow and have plenty of power to pull it with in a good depth of land which I have just plowed of oak brush. In fact, where the brush is thin, I plow right through. I, am planting the ground to oats and barley and expect to raise a good crop by rainfall. The Fordson has been a great help to me because it is very difficult to accomplish anything with horses in this altitude."

A GOOD PRODUCT COMMANDS RESPECT

"It is my belief that as many automobiles are sold indirectly through the service department as through the sales department," says Ed Gutteger, superintendent of service for Johnson Auto Sales Company, "and it is one of the duties of the service superintendent to see that the good will so carefully built up for the dealer and his product by his sales force is not destroyed by the service department.

"This is a policy easy to maintain provided the product handled is of a character which will commend itself to the skilled mechanics. Such a product is the HIGH MAXWELL. In this car we find a combination of durability, reliability, performance and fine workmanship which enables the mechanic to obtain effective results with such work as comes to him. Results which are satisfactory to both customer and the conscientious mechanic, go far towards building the reputation which does, if it is necessary, for the resultant sale of any product, particularly automobiles.

First in Retail Delivery

DEPARTMENT store service is the laboratory of retail delivery. Not only is it the most searching test to which a delivery truck can be put, it is also the most sensitive recorder of results.

Department stores must have the best delivery equipment. Competition compels it. For years they have been testing out all grades and makes in search of the most efficient truck. The weeding-out process is still on. But steadily and surely White Trucks are being adopted as the standard in the largest and most important retail fleets. In metropolitan centers they are the very backbone of department store service.

In New York, eighteen Department Stores operate 431 White Trucks; in Pittsburgh, ten stores operate 291; in Cleveland, eight stores operate 120. In all, 224 Dry Goods and Department Stores operate 1639 White Trucks.

Many stores report mileage records for their White Trucks of 100,000, 200,000 and 300,000 miles. Gimbel Brothers says: "Our White Trucks (25) purchased in 1911 and 1912 have run over 100,000 miles each and are still in service." Gimbel Brothers now own 78 Whites. In the White fleet owned by The Higbee Company, Cleveland, one truck has covered 265,000 miles, another 225,000 and another 100,000 miles.

White Truck performance in department store service is so widely and favorably known that it has become the standard for the whole retail delivery field. Comparative records everywhere show that White Trucks do the most work for the least money.

MOOSE HANDLE ELECTRICS IN CLOSE ONE, 6-5

Dingle and Krengel Fail to Help Kimberly Recruits on Flathorn Tribe

The Moose team came in from behind last evening and finally succeeded into the win column. Dave failed to bring a bunch of the Kimberly boys over the plate on occasion, but he won and Billy left the loser and finished on the same stanza as the third man of the season for the losing members.

The game was played in a mixture of mud, and bathing suits would have been more appropriate than uniforms. The section around the pitchers box was so sloppy that the clubmen had difficulty in standing up.

A good crowd was in the sight, and it was a shame too, as the game was a good one, and there was lots of excitement.

The Moose started out with Kagle in the box, but in the eighth he gave way to Jimmie Thompson, the second Jimmie threw nice ball for the two heaves of the Kimberly club, and remaining innings.

Dingle was the main point for the wiremen, and like Kagle, gave way to another, Dingle pitched nice ball, allowing but three hits, but his support waben't of the highest order. Krengel, who took his place with two on the bags to charged with the defeat. Thompson, the first man to face him drove in the tying and winning run with a smash to left center.

The Moosers started out in the first inning to put the game away, and scored two runners across. Kingston drew a pass to the initial station, and moved to second when Riley was nacked in the wake. Riley then stole them along with an error, and both scored on Garfield out to Whitney and Thompson.

They counted again in the fifth. Kagle opened the inning by walking. He then pilfered second, and went to third on Joe Cline's swat to right. Clish then stole second, Emerson was passed, and Riley's infield tap forced Kagle at the plate. Whitney singled to left, scoring Clish and Emerson. At this stage Krengel took the mound. Fall Thompson greeted him with a wicked single to center, scored Riley and Whitney.

The Electrics made their first markers in the fourth. Rigney was treated a free pass, filched bag, and got grounder. Jarvis singled, and then Rigney made a clean steal of third, from which he scored on a moment later on-B. Miller's infield out. Webster singled to left, scoring Jarvis.

Their last three runs came in the fifth. After Dingle flew to Menton, Guy capped the apple for a base smacker, Rigney walked for his second, Rigney singled to center, scoring Guy, and tied up at the mid-day 5-5 when Whitney fumbled his grounder. He proceeded to the three-spot Clark when Helvey tried to throw the ball over the centerfield fence. Krenkel, starting in second, Miller then kicked the pill for a single, scoring Rigney and Krengel.

That ended the scoring, as Thompson has lots of speed, and fanned four of the six batters that faced him in the next two innings.

NOTES OF THE GAME

(By Blanchette.)

Hello, the Moose finally won a game.

They had five players from Kimberly, which was legitimate, as they are all members of the lodge.

Permission was granted, the Moose team to use these men at Friday's meeting.

With the team they had on the field last night they will make life miserable for the rest of the league.

"Pat" Thompson was the whole show. The chunky pitcher making two hits and driving in the tying and winning runs. When he went in the box, in the sixth, he proved that a man doesn't have to be "skinny" to be a good chucker. The Electrics didn't have a chance after he got in his place on the rubber.

Dingle started in for the Electrics and was entitled to win. He pitched nice ball.

Krengel, who relieved him, finally found his right place in the field. He showed much better in the box than in any position he has played this season. He has some nice curves, and fair control. Why not let him pitch some more games?

Haley was at his old trick of yanking the wide ones over the plate, and waiting for the crowd to "rave" the umpire.

GIRL WRITE CHECKS

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 13.—Georgia Galloway, 15, of this city, is held in detention on a charge of forgery and uttering. It is claimed she signed the names of Mrs. Dick Wheeler and Mrs. Roger Gissell, of this city, to checks of large figures. Her arrest followed an attempt to cash a $1200 check in payment of a hotel bill.

Bleacher Bleats

Carlos Lindville is the next on the list as a peach fielder on Carl's good material because he really admits that he isn't the best catcher in the world, and you show me a fellow that is willing to be taught, and I will show you a fellow that CAN be taught.

Lindville has shown more improvement than any other player in the league regardless of their position. He has worked hard to become a catcher and has succeeded. As I have said before, a catcher is the main cog of a ball team, and a catcher must be a good hard-hitter and good judgment is to want, the pitcher should throw, and have a good arm. Lindville, with a little coaching could overcome the few errors of commission that he makes in each game. I told him how to give the ball to the pitcher, and I noticed last Wednesday's game he took up the idea.

Carl is a good hitter, he's above the average catcher, and mark what I say; Carlos Lindville will get higher, and when the rough stuff is smoothed out he will be playing ball right on the Mississippi river.

Ask me and we have our Friend "Murph" Morley. Why he is born in this league, I don't know. He is a finished ball player, knows the game from A to Z. At present he is pitching, on account of his terrific speed, but my opinion is that he is an outfielder, pure and simple. Lots of fans went agreed with me, but Murley and me if I am not right. In the first place, a pitcher leaves fast Thompson first. He uses up his strength in half the time that it takes the average fielder. Take Babe Ruth, for instance, although in the prime of his pitching career, he changed himself to an outfielder. Yes, perhaps it was for his hitting, but it was also because the off "south paw" couldn't find forgery. My advice to Morley is to please his idea of being a pitcher, train himself to being an outfielder, as I have noticed that every time Murph stays out of the box he knocks the ball to all corners of the lot. A man that can hit .561 don't have to go to and pitch his hard-off to get by. Very few fly balls get past him and he very accurate, with his throwing. After the big series, take a bunch from the old team, Murph, get out in the center field where you belong, and when the time comes next season for the league-to sing, I hope to hear the cry of "Murph Morley, a great outfielder." A try-out is all he needs providing the stars in the odd field. Here's good luck and good wishes, Murph, and I know that all lovers of good clean sport join me.

Quick, "WATSON." The Needle!

Once upon a time there was a "POSSEM" that went to see a "KING" named "HANAK" and not being fitted, received a "PATTON" the head.

"POSSEM" beat it, and made a "RUSH" for the Dr. to see if he could "FIX" it.

Doc wanted to know if "POSSEM" had been "LARKEN," which of course made "POSSEM" "RILEY," and to put even, he said "GEE" Doc, what ails you ever do?

"Well, by "DINGLEY," answered Doc, "I've made "BONWELL" and I've been a "HOONE" to your head haven't it But I guess that you expect me to make a "NEUMAN" out of you."

"You made "PETZOLDT," retorted "POSSEM," "and your talk "RILES" me, but I guess I'll get "HUGHES" you, and just then the "BAILEY" came in and caught "POSSEM" square on the eye, knocking him to the "WALL," making "POSSEM" see a "HAY" of "BROWN," and the next morning his optic had a beautiful shade of purple, commonly called "LAVENDER."

Men Caught by Twin Falls Men Get Sentences

BOISE, Aug. 12—S. Harold and Henry Bryant of Owyhee county, arrested by the sheriffs force of Twin Falls county recently, entered pleas of guilty in district court to the possession of intoxicating liquor, and were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and fined $50.

The men were accompanied to Boise by Sheriff Perkins and Wright Starr, prosecuting attorney. Following the plea of guilty, Mr. Starr addressed the court urging leniency. He stated the men had never before given any trouble, their records were clean in the past and he felt the minimum sentence of 30 days in jail and a fine of $50 would be sufficient.

Harold was highly pleased with the judgment of the court and immediately following his sentence shook hands with the prosecuting attorney and sheriff and thanked them warmly.

The SANDMAN STORY

OLD FOX'S REVENGE

WHEN all the nuts were filed to suit Grandpa, he put them away and brought out some very new, big radishes, which he carefully scooped out later cutting them in half.

These he also filled with red pepper and placed together, touching the cut place with a bit of paint to cover the marks.

When he had a good pile of them fixed, he placed them on a tray and carried them in a pan to the pantry window, where it was idle and cool, so they would not wilter.

The next morning he was up long before the sun peeped through the woods, which is not very, he had been awake nearly all night so he might be the very first one up in the woods.

Grandpa took his bucket of nuts and poured them on the ground near his house back of a bush, as if he had hidden them there.

The radishes he put in mistaken and placed it similar a tree and dropped the red beside it, so it would look as if he had just been in the garden working.

Then he sat down in the house by the window with a stick in his hand and waited.

He did not long to wait long for the Squirrel brothers were always on bright and early and called for long rule Bobby to come out and find some nuts.

They came running along the path that led past the house where Grandpa Fox lived, when Billy Squirrel saw the red pepper he stopped short and said to the other, "Look! Look! Look! Grandpa's nuts!"

The first the nuts and had he was called in a flash and told the news to the others.

Tommie Rabbit did not care very much for the nuts but he was with Billy and his brother, and he spied the basket of radishes.

Looking around all three at, then made sure that Grandpa was not in sight, and then they took all the nuts and radishes they could carry, and ran to the Sandman Grandpa pointed out with the big stick and shouted "Drop those, you little rascals; drop them."

Grandpa Fox knew that was all that was needed to make them carry all the nuts and radishes, as he peeked and called until they were out of sight.

"Stolen sweets are always the sweetest," he said. "That may be true in some cases, but I'll wager my pipe those youngsters will find out that is not a time on the always."

And they did, for Billy Squirrel did not bother Grandpa Fox any more. Such stealing was never heard in the woods before, even the chicken with the whooping cough did not shriek any harder, though they all found their heads and tails were safe when it was over.

Their mouths and throats were burned, too, and so for many days they suffered for their badness and one old Grandpa Fox can sit all day in the sun and no one bothers him.

QUEER LOVE TANGLE IS UNCOVERED IN DENVER

DENVER, Aug. 13.—Two children born to a man and woman, his legal wife, was the charge made today by Miss Nellie Phillips, 25, against George Stoffel, automobile dealer here, colleges. Miss Phillips says that she is the "other woman" of Stoffel and that the latter's legal wife took the two children because she had none of her own.

The case brings to light Denver's first instance of a husband dividing his time between his wife and his love, only by mutual consent of the women, police said.

Neither Miss Phillips nor Stoffel would give her children up, she said.

Recently Mrs. Stoffel appeared before the juvenile court and told the case before court officials. They decided her to get a divorce so Stoffel could marry Miss Phillips and legitimate the birth of the two children. Stoffel said to day this it was signed by one of her lawyers, Mrs. Stoffel.

"The juvenile court probably will attempt to straighten out the tangle."

For a long time three factories working night and day have been unable to keep up with the demand for Kelly-Springfield Tires.

Of course, they could have made more tires by skimping the quality or slighting the workmanship, but the company would not consent to this. They said

Kelly-Springfield quality must be maintained

Now they have a big, new factory—one of the biggest and most modernly equipped tire plants in the world. It is capable of producing over 10,000 tires a day—and every tire up to the Kelly standard of quality.

It is a pleasure to sell a tire whose makers place so much emphasis on quality. We know that every Kelly-Springfield we sell will give the utmost service and satisfaction.

We don't know why they're doing it, but we see it done. From New York to Cuxey, from Hollister to the coast. They're all doing it. We don't know why they're doing it. Maybe because the young doughboys brought the habit back from France and the old doughboys contracted it. Of course it isn't good etiquette—but who cares for etiquette nowadays?

To be compared in pathos almost with the actual need of the population itself, is the story of color hunger coming out of Armenia. American women, accustomed to the frills and furbelows of the modern vanity shop or department emporium, will scarcely be able to realize the meaning of a bit of color to those who have barely eked out a precarious existence for years, their rags all drab and colorless as their existence. By all means add a "bit of color" to your bundle.

The only surprising thing about the argument for rotation of crops is that it should be necessary to make it. Granting the temptation to plunge and keep repeating on some particularly profitable crop might be hard to resist, hard sense would forbid such a system of squeezing "the goose that lays golden eggs." Manufacturing crops is just the same as any other manufacturing proposition. What you take out of [illegible] depends upon what you put into it. And judicious fertilization is one of the chief ingredients. Systematic rotation [illegible] the idea a little farther.

Can it be true that the boys and girls of Twin Falls are failing in their high school work because of jazz and music? It's the case in Cleveland, according to Edward T. Downer, the registrar of Western Reserve University, who says that out of 1500 graduates of Cleveland high schools who applied for admission to colleges only 600, or 40 per cent, have been accepted. And he blames music and motors, jazz and joyriding. Also, he thinks Cleveland conditions are typical of those throughout the nation. He may be right, but, viewing the records of Twin Falls high school alumni at higher institutions of learning, it looks as though there is at least one exception.

SINK THEM!

Chairman Lasker of the U.S. Shipping Board has asked congress to authorize him to get rid of the wooden ships built during and since the war, by sinking them. He says that congress should share the responsibility with him, but that if it refuses he may sink them on his own responsibility.

At first blush, the Lasker proposal may seem extremely radical. But the more one analyzes the modern ship situation, the more horse sense there seems to be in the proposal.

Those ships cost the American taxpayers between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000.

Their construction was one of the great mistakes of the war.

It was undertaken at a time when everybody was more or less panic-stricken because it looked as though German submarines were going to win the war.

"Ships; more ships and yet more ships!" was the watchword of America and her allies.

Contracts for hundreds of them were let at outrageous prices. For the most part they were never put into commission. The few that were, were a failure from every standpoint, so far as helping to win the war was concerned.

Now the shipping board has these hundreds of ships on its hands, and there is absolutely no use for them. Many of them are unseaworthy because they were built of green timber. The best of them cannot compete with the lowest type of steel ship. And the steel ship market is glutted to the extent of millions of tons.

It is costing about a million dollars a year for watchmen and caretakers to look after these wooden ships.

If they were sunk this would be saved.

Private business doesn't hesitate to sink obsolete machinery. It would go bankrupt if it did.

Why should the government hesitate to do the same thing?

Chicago and Its Mayor—Balzac Would Have Been Interested in Them

By W. L. GEORGE, in "Hall Columbia"

In London the policeman of the languid hand is obeyed; in New York the policeman of the white-gloved hand is often obeyed. In Chicago he needs a whistle to control a people who will not obey. No peace in a crowded city in which the stranger tells himself, "If I weaken I shan't last long."

There is no peace in Chicago. No peace in the city of noise, traffic, and headlines.

It is with reluctance that I part from Chicago and its mayor. They go together; Balzac would have been interested in them.

In minor European towns the favorite diversion is sleep; I believe the average American would prefer nightmare.

Virtue is everybody's business. A woman's club, which had applied for a lecture date, refused to engage me because my photograph exhibited me in a dressing gown which exposed my neck.

Though not every young American woman is pretty, she nearly always knows how to seem it. When the fashion in dress tends toward indifferencing, she is rather excessive. This may be due to the hot summers. The American girl goes out with the moon and returns with the sun.

I like everybody in America except the barbers and the waiters.

PRICKLY PORKY PICKS PORCH-CLIMBING—CAUGHT

Yesterday morning when Harry W. Farrar, 337 Second avenue north, stepped out on his back porch he thought that since he had not been up to date until the moonshine he must have been reading sleepy time stories and that he was still in slumberland and dreaming—for there stood a monster porcupine with the finest set of quills imaginable.

The animal at once assumed a warlike attitude and Harry beat a retreat. Then he indulged in a reconnoiter and finally decided that he would battle up yo enemy. He closed the back door and left Mr. Porky there all day. In the evening he went out again and when the porcupine curled up he worked a box over him and brought him to the Diamond hardware store, in the window of which he is on display today. The presence of the animal has caused a lot of people to again express the wish that the city would start a small zoo in one of the parks similar to that in Boise. It is said that the capture of the present captive was not without precedent as the independent animal sometimes does that sort of thing. There was a crowd around the window of the Diamond all day today looking at the animal.

Italy, Spain, possibly Portugal, now claim Christopher Columbus as their own. An increasing number of historians and scholars in Galicia believe that he was a Galician. The article of the ship in which he sailed was called La Galicia (the Galician) and sailed from Pontevedra.

Canadian Pacific Railway Lands Are Best to Buy

In dealing with the ordinary land selling corporation, or land and water company, such organization usually has only one thing in mind, that of selling the land and collecting the money. They are here today and gone tomorrow. Not so with the C. P. R. They are here today with their 19,662 miles of railroad tract and are gaining in mileage and service each year. In buying land from them you are dealing with one of the greatest organizations known and they are here permanently. They do not expect to reap a rich harvest out of the sale of lands, but are looking for more tonnage. That is the reason they can sell you good land at minimum prices and on very easy terms.

In Southern Alberta the Canadian Pacific has over 4200 miles of irrigation ditches, with an irrigated area of 743,520 acres. This is the largest irrigation project now in operation on the North American continent.

The Dominion Government owns and controls all water in Canada and will not permit water to be used on land unfit for irrigation. No work can be constructed without Government sanction, based on thorough engineering investigation as to feasibility and soundness of the projects and their approval of construction details. So in buying land from the Canadian Pacific you not only have this wonderful organization behind you, but the Dominion Government as well.

The wheat and grass lands of Central Alberta as speedily coming to the front on account of the good crops produced and the very low cost of the land. FIGHT IDAHO POWER TWIN FALLS PLANS

Rupert and Burley Would Prevent Company from Getting Hold of Site

Developments this week point to a hearing to be held in Rupert the week of September 11, on the protest recently made against the government granting of the Idaho Power Co. permit to develop the power site at the Twin falls, says the Minidoka County News. Although Burley has also extended an invitation to the district engineer in charge it is felt that Rupert is more entitled to the honor, due to the fact that the protest started from this city, and that most of the data compiled here. Paul chamber of commerce, through its president, E. H. Richard, has requested the department that the meeting be held in Rupert and it is thought that Burley will withdraw in favor of this city.

A meeting of representatives from Paul, Burley and Rupert will be held at the reclamation office here Friday night at 8 o'clock. Plans will be formulated and arrangements made for preparing additional data to show that the Twin falls site is necessary for power purposes for this project.

GRANGE SENDS CRY FOR HELP TO PRESIDENT

Hopewell Organization Says Projects Are Being Destroyed by High Freight Rates

RUPERT, Aug. 13.—It has come to light here that the Hopewell Grange has appealed directly to President Harding for relief from high freight rates. The following is the telegram sent:

Rupert, Idaho, Aug. 10, 1921.

Hon. Warren G. Harding,
President of the United States:

The west and south appeal to you for 50 per cent reduction in freight rates both in and out. If we are to exist, or if government projects as well as private one are not to be entirely destroyed. Will you give us relief? We have appealed to the U. S. senate and interstate commerce commission in vain.

HOPEWELL GRANGE

Discussing the situation in its current issue the Minidoka County News says:

In order to show just what the present freight rates are doing to every farmer on the Minidoka project, the News herewith publishes a table showing the comparative freight rates of 1914 and 1921 as directly affecting the products raised on the Bob Sutter farm, one mile north-west of town. The table is based on 10 acres of ground, 35 acres of alfalfa, nine acres potatoes, 15 acres beets and five acres barley. The fact that the beets show a comparatively small increase makes this crop an average example for the majority of farms on the project.

The 35 acres of alfalfa will make 7 tons per acre, or a total of 175 tons. Increased freight rates over 1914 to Kansas City, less war tax, $6.60 per ton, increase $1,155.

Nine acres of potatoes will make 200 sacks per acre, or 2700 sacks, or 135,000 pounds. Increased freight rate on 297,000 pounds over 1914, 46c per hundred, or $1,366.20.

Five acres of barley will average 100 bushels per acre, or 500 bushels, or 30,000 pounds. 30,000 pounds at 24c per hundred. Increase equals $72.00.

Fifteen acres of beets at 20 tons per acre, equals 300 tons. Rate to Dalton in 1914, 16c. Rate to Paul, four miles nearer, now 25c; increase $1,70.

Total increase on the 64 acres, $2,815.90.

Increase per acre, $43.70.

Note—Freight rate on alfalfa alone is more than doubled.

IN MURDER CASE.—This photograph of Miss Olivia B. Stone was taken in Brooklyn, police court when she was arraigned on a charge of killing Ellis P. Kinkead, formerly a prominent attorney in Ohio. Kinkead was shot as he was about to enter his New York home where he lived with his wife of a year. Miss Stone became acquainted with Kinkead when she nursed him at Cincinnati general hospital.

Immense Apple Crop With High Prices Is Fortune to Gem State

BOISE, Aug. 12.—Idaho's apple crop is 80 per cent normal and will be little less than the 1920 crop, according to a special report issued Wednesday afternoon by Julius Jacobson, government statistician. His report deals with the Idaho crop and the crop in 12 other states with comparisons to the year previous. It is as follows:

"Prospect for the United States apple crop on Aug. 1 were much better than July 1, due mainly to improvement in the Washington, Oregon, Idaho crops. Conditions in Eastern states, however, have shown little improvement and early estimates of a very short crop still hold good. The Aug. 1 the nation's commercial apple crop was estimated at 21,872,000 barrels, which is 3,627,000 barrels greater than the July estimate, but 9,245,000 barrels less than the 1920 commercial production which totaled 30,272,000 barrels. The year's crop amounts to only 56 per cent of the five year average crop, 1915 to 1919.

In face of this situation Idaho is getting back with a crop of 2,565,000 bushels which is only a little less than the 3,611,000 bushel crop of last year. This means that the earlier movement will approximate 2,200,000 barrels. The condition of the crop on the first of the month was 80 per cent of normal, having improved 2 points since July 1.

Wheat Growers Meet; May Export Much As They Did Last Year

The Wheat growers's association in meeting this afternoon at the Farm Service and J. Allen, warehouse man of the American Falls association, is in attendance. Mr. Allen says that he "expects to be able to announce arrangements for handling the wheat in a very short time. "We have not fixed up things completely yet," he said, "but expect to do so very soon. We shall exported a good deal of wheat last year, but also handled a good deal locally for the domestic market. We shall probably export a good deal this year again." He said that he would be unable to make any statement with reference to the action of the growers here until after the meeting today.

BIBLE CONFERENCE GETS INTEREST OF COMMUNITY

Rev. Pike of the Los Angeles bible Institute, is in charge. A great bible student, and forceful speaker, Rev. Pike is making a success of the conference. Much enjoyment is received from the singing of Mr. Mills.

Services are announced for Saturday, at 8:15 p. m., and Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. A special service for young people will be held Sunday at 3 p. m.

Fine Country, Unappreciated

The most singular plateau in the world is in the island of Papua. The plateau is elevated 6,000 feet above the sea, and there are summits towering 6,000 feet higher, but the close proximity of the equator has covered the great plain with luxuriant vegetation. The climate is a perpetual May, birds sing in every bush and the only sounds are a few unnamed, shy, secret ground kangaroos and opossums. Yet this lovely region is literally deserted. Six million Papuans live to the awestring, coldly insipid, and only occasionally dreary to the splashy.

Water—When and How Much

Hundreds of batteries die of thirst every year.

Not because their owners didn't know water was necessary.

Not because they didn't know the neglect was shortening battery life and costing them money.

But simply because they overlooked it—hadn't the distilled water handy or didn't know just how much to put in.

We can't do your remembering, but we can take all the rest of the job off your hands. Drive around anytime and ask us to see if your battery needs water.

DIVORCED LONG-DEAD WIFE

Chinese Merchant's Action Due to Belief That Her Spirit Caused New Husband's Illness.

How a Chinese merchant divorced his wife after she had been dead for several years is the plea of a suit which appeared in the Chinese press recently.

A Soochow ten merchant, the narrative says, by the name of Lyuh, had taken a second wife some time after the death of his first. As a result of the second union a daughter was born. Several days after giving birth the young mother was taken ill and grew worse and worse as time went by.

All sorts of healing methods were tried without avail and it was feared that the young wife would die at last. A woman was called in and cast, (her opinion) that the spirit of the man's former wife was causing the illness. Prayers were then offered to the dead wife, but still there were no signs of the living wife's recovery. The woman then suggested that the husband draw up a deed divorcing the dead wife just as if she were alive. This the husband for a time refused to do, but was later prevailed upon to do so in order to save his second wife's life. The deed was then taken to a temple and burned on the altar.

Immediately afterward the living wife showed signs of recovery and was soon her normal self again.

DEMAND IS FOR SPECIALISTS

Versatile Man Has Little Chance of Shining in Really Commanding Position in the World.

The versatile man has always been a source both of envy and of pity, says a writer in the London Daily Express. We wish at times we had his talents, but then we recollect the ancient proverb, "Jack-of-all-trades," and we wisely are content to be ourselves.

Versatility is a very enviable luxury—but it remains a luxury. It is of little market value in this world. Each generation becomes more and more a generation of "specialists"—one man plays the lute, the other brews the beer.

So it is in every path of life, and so must be. Progress does not come of discussing delicately "cabbages and kings" in any lofty, drawing room. Progress comes from grinding our teeth and mastering one thing at a time.

Once we have struck our roots, then, certainly, the wider our interests are, the more we appreciate life. But the merely versatile man has never struck his roots. His talents may be varied, but he fails to seize life in its finest sense because he has never learned the meaning of the finest sense.

Do one thing with all your might and happiness is yours. Do two things with half your might and your labors are vain. Make up your mind what you want to do or be. Then refuse to be led away by side issues.

Dice Used by the Ancients.

Dice, in some form or other, have existed in every period of history and in every nation. They are depicted on the early Egyptian monuments, and those excavated at Thebes are very similar to the dice made today. Their use is attested by lava regulating the games played with them in ancient Greece and Rome, as well as in most European countries.

The invention of dice is attributed to Palamedes, about 1244 B. C. But the use of cubes with numbered sides for gambling purposes is probably much earlier.

The Latin word for dice, tesserae, is derived from the Greek tessares. Tesserae, tesser, because it is an even side square. Frequent passages in the works of ancient writers and numerous representations in marble and paintings show how popular dice playing was among them.

"Shape" of the Sky.

What is the apparent form of the vault of the sky? There is probably no one to whose eyes it seems a true hemisphere with its zenith appearing as distant as the horizon. At sea, or in a flat country, the seeming greater distance of the horizon is best shown. One authority, in discussing this question, reaches the conclusion that the form of the vault, in vertical section, is that of the segment of a circle, the arc of which subtends at the center an angle of the order of 40 degrees. If the reader will draw such a segment, he may be surprised by the amount of flattening, which is thus ascribed to the sky. From this optical illusion many curious effects arise, such as the seeming increased magnitude of the sun and moon when near the horizon, and the apparently oval form of hills and cornices seen at low altitudes.

Criminal's Fatal Slip.

A curious case of lime in the crime line is reported from Germany. A murder had been committed and had kept the evidence of one murder intact for 12 months. The murderer after killing his victim, a woman, placed the body in a deep pit and covered it with chloride of lime. He thought the lime would destroy the identity of the body, whereas it did exactly the opposite. The body was in such a good state of preservation a year after that the medical experts had no difficulty in establishing through it the vital clue in the crime and the criminal. If the man only had added some water with the lime he might have escaped detection.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Traffic Association on Snake Valley For Lower Rate Battles

First steps in the organization of a traffic service bureau in five southwestern Idaho counties and Malheur county, Ore., will be taken at a meeting to be held in Caldwell next Saturday under the auspices of the farm bureaus of Canyon and Ada counties. The calling of this meeting is the result of conferences which have been held by H. A. Mathieson, county agent of Ada county and County Agent McCall of Canyon county. Invitations will be extended to all farmers and business men of Ada, Canyon, Gem, Washington and Payette counties, Idaho, and Malheur county, Ore., to attend the meeting. The chambers of commerce of all cities will also be invited to be represented.

The purpose of the association or bureau will be to provide the best possible market for the products of the counties in the association, making a survey of the various products, their shipments and the car supply situation. Another purpose of the bureau will be to fight the present freight rates in effect in southwestern Idaho for the purpose of securing the establishment of more equitable charges, in taking care of the car situation it is felt that the bureau could do great good in protecting against any shortage of box cars.

As an illustration of the necessity for such an organization the condition of the alfalfa mills in this section is cited. The 10 mills in this section cannot now move a wheel on account of the differential the Colorado mills have over them. The lower rate from Colorado to the east, it is stated, makes the differential such that not a pound of meal can be shipped out of Idaho, if, the differential was brought to a more favorable basis, say $3 a ton, it is said, there would be a guaranteed market for at least 100,000 tons of alfalfa in southwestern Idaho.

How Spider Spans Space.

By trailing a thread behind him a spider is able to drop from any height to the ground, or any solid substance, and retrace his steps with a certainty to a particular site. Having once retraced his steps, he can drop to another direction, returning along the thread again on the second trip. This will continue indefinitely, during which time he may have spun a continuously spanning a space with his web.

THE BIG BITE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska, sought today support for his plan to make the American dollar the international language of the financial world. His plan is to make the dollar an international coin.

"Money talks," declared Hitchcock, "and I want to see the American dollar made the financial language of the world."

To do this Hitchcock has introduced today a bill in the senate to create a banking institution in New York which would issue international dollars.

SALMON CASE AGAIN IS UP IN RE SANDERSON

Arguments for Writ of Error Be- fore Chief Justice Rice on Tuesday.

Hearing on the petition for writ of error in the case of Thomas Sanderson against the Salmon River Canal company will be held Tuesday by Chief Justice Rice of the supreme court, in Boise, according to notice received by attorneys for both sides here yesterday. Only the chief justice sits in hearings of this sort when the petition is for a writ of error to carry to the supreme court.

May Seek Other Federal Aid

The company will ask the Caldwell case in the much complicated Salmon tract litigation may ask that the Sanderson action be transferred to the federal district court, before Judge Dietrich as having to do with the final settlement of the case on the ground that federal issues are involved and that the Sanderson claims are necessarily connected with the settlement of the Caldwell case, was indicated yesterday by Judge James R. Bothwell, attorney for the plaintiff.

Cases Somewhat Mixed

It will be noted that both Judge Bothwell and Attorney Turner K. Hackman, who represent the company in the Sanderson case, represent the plaintiff in the case of A. R. Caldwell et al against the Salmon company. Bothwell is attorney for the original plaintiffs and Hackman for intervenors. It so happens, however, that these employing these lawyers in that case favor the adjustment growing out of the segregation of a district on the Salmon tract, to which Sanderson is opposed.

Caldwell Case Status

Caldwell claimed that he was entitled under his contract to a certain definite amount of water. The company claimed that he was entitled to a fixed share of whatever amount of water might be available, he said.

Judge Dietrich ruled that he was entitled to 2 2-4 acre feet of water for irrigating; however, that under another construction he would be entitled to 2-100 cubic foot per second per acre up to the amount of his requirements for crops. Dietrich rejected this last as the proper construction of the two theories. The federal circuit court took exactly the opposite view and adopted the last named theory, sending the case back for rehearing. The question of use of water then came into the case and on rehearing Judge Dietrich held that this would mean two and a third acre feet. In the meantime, another issue became involved. If it cost $20,000 to fix the check basin and the company charged this to the settlers, it appealed to the federal court. The circuit court sustained the company. Judge Bothwell asked and got a rehearing and the circuit court reversed itself and held that the company should pay for the work. The company asked a second rehearing which the circuit court denied this week, so the company must pay unless it shall appeal to the supreme court. It has been intimated, though not authoritatively, that it will not do so on this issue.

Caldwell Again Back

In the meantime, on the main issue, involving the duty of water, the circuit court sent the case back to the district court on the ground that all the parties in interest had not been made parties to the case, and there it now rests awaiting developments. In fact, there has been the trouble with the litigation in the federal courts on this subject; at no time have all the parties at interest been summoned into court, so that the court have never had jurisdiction to settle finally all the issues involved. The company, being defendant, has naturally not taken steps to bring in parties at its own expense, and the cost involved has been so large that the settlers have heretofore been unable to do so.

The Segregation Plan

Plans of settlement were plenty and were in all degrees of futility. Governor Alexander, after suggesting several plans for adjustment, which were rejected by one side or the other, finally began backing the segregation plan, which would involve a survey to determine how much land could be irrigated sufficiently and procuring a settlement with those out but. The interior department under the Wilson-Lane administration took this up and the result was the noted Whitlin report upon a segregation of approximately 25,000 acres. So far as the outlines of this plan has met with general favor. The main issue at the begining, where there began issue, is whether any person who does not consider specific terms offered to be sufficient is virtually compelled to settle, by being deprived of water by order of the interior department and the state board of reclamation, provided that these believe the segregation plan right, the segregated district satisfactory and the terms of settlement satisfactory.

Sanderson's Stand

Sanderson holds that he bought conditions specific in the case at hand, that he is entitled to a certain amount of water and cannot be deprived of it without his consent by any ruling to which he is a party, without having his day in court. He holds that the order of the interior department and the state reclamation service to which he did not consent does not deprive him of his right. He has been unanimously sustained by the judges of the Idaho supreme court. But the defendant holds that federal questions are involved, and that a different rule apparently has been the decision on appeal. Incidentally, the plaintiffs in the case of Caldwell et al, against the company, hold that, if they can do the description of the Sanderson case up with those of the Caldwell case in the federal courts and get all parties at interest in, the whole issue will be settled eventually by the supreme court at Washington.

But Sanderson denies that federal issues are involved and his attorneys, Wells, Martin & Wells, say that they are confident that the federal courts will not hear the case but will refuse a peremptory writ of error on the ground that they are without jurisdiction.

Both is in brief an outline of some of the main features of the present tangle. That there are also lesser and modifying circumstances which will make it somewhat unsatisfactory to a complete statement there is no doubt.

Who If Sanderson Wins

What if Sanderson wins and others who have not been parties to the terms entered upon and not refuse to accept a satisfactory settlement? This question has been raised on the street, certainly does not set this court. Attorney E. J. Hornbrook who has hand on the Salmon and who by reason of his has studied the situation for years, has stated that he is of the opinion that the law of Idaho has not reached to that extension. He believes that others are developing in such way that sooner or later it will be held that the law of Idaho on domain will apply to water for public use and that it may be considered whenever the case in which such a would not be for the benefit of the department to hold a similar effect or for the settlers to stand out and refuse to let themselves of any compromise but the courts so in the case of a decree would determine the rights of the water.

Original Issue Recently Told

In a recent issue of the Times the approximate incorrect estimates of the water problem were set in the end to the amount of water available, and the acreage of lands on this basis which underlies the whole trouble was described at length.

Just Catching Up.

"I am sorry to tell you, Mr. Johnson," said the school-teacher, "that your little boy, Reginald, appears to be utterly incorrigible."

"Yours, to be utterly—plus—which?" enthusiastically returned Gap Johnson of Hiawatha, Idaho.

"Incorrigible, beyond refuge. He quarrels and fights all the time. I cannot imagine what is the matter with him."

"Aw, I reckon it's this way, mum. The little cuss was pumping around for a couple of weeks and had to stay out of school, and he got time his fists himself 'way behind with his fighting."—Minneapolis Journal.

Have You Heard This?

A Sheboygan school-teacher, trying to explain the parable of the tares.

"Can you tell me any person who is like the evil one who sowed the tares?" she asked.

A hand instantly shot up from the foot of the class.

"Well, Dutch," she asked, "what person are you going to say?"

"Please, ma'am," replied Dutch, "my brother."

"Why?" asked the teacher in astonishment.

"Because," answered he, eyeing his patched clothes, "he sows tares."—Rosefand.

Guessed Maybe Enough.

I have college variety of flowers, which seem to grow in profusion, and occasionally give a few sprays to library, my neighbor's daughter, who seems to enjoy the gifts. At such times I make a point of calling upon her the names of the flowers. The other day I gave her some forget-me-nots, telling her what they were. Her mother was out on the lawn, and, running up to her, three months' time, took my little name.—Exchange.

OUR RESPONSIBLE FOR STYLE

French Beauty Received Credit for Innovation, but the Idea Really Was Not Hers.

Only a few years ago the beautiful Countess Castiglione died in her apartments adjoining the street in Paris which bears her name. For years she had never left this apartment, nor had anybody seen her except by the light that she allowed in her drawing room after nightfall.

In the days of the second empire her fame as a beauty was only second to that of Eugenie, and it was within her power to invent a mode. So she invented the little thinkes but which the pictures of ladies of that day so often show. It was not alone La Castiglione who invented this fashion. She also had the aid of a dog that happened to be in St. Cloud on the same day she went there to a picnic. She wore a broad-brimmed leghorn straw, but, surrounded by a garland of roses, and inadvertently put it down on a bench, then the dog lay on his work and did it so effectively that when the time came for her to go home there was only the dog crown of the hat and the wreath of roses left on what she had worn in the party. The dog had chewed off the brood brim. She determined to wear it home, however, and driving back to the Place Vendome wearing the little hat she was seen by many who supposed that it was a new style.—Exchange.

COULDN'T BLAME LITTLE JOE

Small Daryl Had a Perfect Defense Against Teacher's Intimation of Disobedience.

At a social gathering of some darkies in a Georgia town two members fell to disputing which had the smarter children. Tom Ley was proclaimed the victor when he came to the front with the following:

"De other day my little boy Joe went to school with his little dawg. De teacher gits mad with mah boy and tells him to go back home an' git quick as he can and take de dawg an' never bring him back no mo'. Little Joe do jes' like de teacher tell him. Bluinky little Joe goes back to de schoolhouse and jest as soon as he gets himself down a little dawg comes in an' goes right up to' where Joe is at. Den de teacher gits mad again and says: 'Joe, why do you bring back dat dawg when I tell you not to?'

"Den little Joe he stand up and say, 'Teacher, de skin de same dawg; he's boulder one. I got two hf dim.'"

What's the Difference?

"We have filmed your book, professor," said the motion picture director, "and a check for $5,000 is waiting for you."

"But I hardly feel that I should take it," replied the college professor. "I saw the photoplay and I doesn't resemble the book at all. You see there has been a mistake—"

"Oh, don't let that trouble you. Our scenario writer can turn anything into a photoplay no matter what it is. By the way, what was the name of your novel?"

"That's what I want to explain," answered the professor. "I made a mistake; instead of sending you my novel I sent you my textbook on algebra."—Cartoons Magazine.

For Old-Time's Sake.

In the office of the prison warden at Canon City, Colo., a clever and unfortunate swindler was being divested of the contents of his pockets. As each article was removed it was carefully scrutinized, listed, and then placed temporarily in a nearby desk. Among the articles was a badly tarnished silver dollar, barely distinguishable as money.

At the conclusion of the search the prisoner pointed to the dull-looking coin and in a simpleton tone asked the warden:

"Would you mind letting me keep that with me?"

"Why?" asked the warden.

"Oh, just a little sentiment, I suppose," the prisoner explained. "You know, it's the first dollar I ever stole."

Scene—Police court. Sharp-tongued, red-faced lawyer, cross-examining a witness as to his sobriety.

Lawyer—You were seen entering the Spread Eagle directly the doors were opened, or soon after, was it?

Witness—Yes; but not to drink.

Lawyer—What object had you in view, then?

Witness—The only object I had in view in going in, sir, was yourself coming out.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

What Happens to Them.

An observant Boston matron was speaking in condemnation of the flirt to a young girl of her acquaintance.

"The flirt," said she, "has a good time of the present—a spurt of good time, according to her view—but what about the future, my dear? Many a girl is on the shelf today because she kept men on the rack yesterday."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FAITHFUL TEDDY BEAR.

"A Teddy Bear," said Daddy, "was sitting in a grocery beside a little girl who was fast asleep. Her mother was shopping in a big grocery shop nearby, and the grocery was out in front of the shop on the street.

"The Teddy Bear's brown eyes were wide open and the little girl's eyes were tight shut so he couldn't see what color they were, and no one knew of course, unless they knew the little girl when she was awake.

"But if anyone should have asked the Teddy Bear their question he would have been his answer for this was the answer he gave to one of the Sun fairies who asked him what he was doing.

"The Sun fairy couldn't be seen by the people because the Sun fairy wore such a dazzling bright dress no one could have looked at her any more than one could look at the Sun. No one, you know, can look straight at the Sun to see what is happening in his home.

"You see, Sun Fairy, said the Teddy Bear, 'this little girl is fast asleep. And I am on guard.'

"What? asked the Sun Fairy.

"'I am seeing that no harm comes to her,' said the Teddy Bear. 'You see I am beside her, watching over her, and that is what being on guard means. I'm guarding her or watching over her, whichever you want to say.

"'I will not close my eyes. Fairy folks would say that I couldn't close my eyes even if I wanted to. But I wouldn't close them even if I could.' No, indeed, for I want to watch out and guard over this little girl. I want to help but do this, because she and I are great friends, and one always wants to do things for one's friends.' Even a little Teddy Bear feels that way.

"When she is awake she plays with me and hugs me and kisses me. She calls me her own adorable Teddy Bear.

"Now that is a great thing! Just think of being called an adorable Teddy Bear by the nicest little girl in all the world. Perhaps many, would not agree with me that she was the nicest little girl in all the world. There are some who would say, "No, my little girl is the nicest."

"Or, perhaps another would say, "My little sister is the nicest." But I think that this little girl is the nicest in the whole world and I love her better than any other.

"While she is sleeping I shall watch over her, just as she loves me when she is awake.

"You see how I have one paw on her shoulder? That is to let people know that I am holding her as fast as I can.

"And I will watch over her until her mother comes out of the shop and I get another paw on her lap. I will watch over her all the time, my time.

"Yes, when she is awake she loves me so devotedly. She pets me and says such pleasant things to me. When she goes to bed she takes me with her. And we have such a pleasant sleep and wake up all rested. I cuddle near her when she is asleep and puts her one on it on the bed summer days. I, the Teddy Bear, sit upon a small chair near the table and make believe I am having some lemonade too.

"And she pets me and talks to me and asks me if I think they're pretty. Then she answers for me which makes it very nice and easy for me.

"Ah, yes, Sun Fairy, I will guard over my little sister while she takes a nap and I will not leave her for she is the dearest little girl in all the world—her own Teddy Bear thinks so, and surely a Teddy Bear who knows her all the time ought to know. I, you ought to know, and he does!"

"So It Seems."

In the course of a play during a football match, the cover of the ball was knocked off. Holding the ball in his hands, the referee told the players of the accident.

"So it seems" (very its seems), replied one boy.

"Another, not to be outdone, said: "Oh, you've just discovered (discovered) it."
