SITUATION IN IRELAND NOW TENSE

DARNSLEY, England, Aug. 27.—"If ireland insists upon separation, I fear all hope of settlement must be given up," declared Lloyd George in a speech here today.

"We trust that commonsense will prevail," Lloyd George declared. "We cannot countenance the separation of Ireland, tearing up the United Kingdom any more than the United States could suffer the tearing up of the Union."

"Severance would lead, in Ireland itself, to civil war.

"If Ireland has the right to separation, so has Scotland. So has Wales. I believe when the Irish people realize that the real freedom has been offered them they will appreciate that their destiny is far greater as a free people inside a free federation of principles."

DUBLIN, Aug. 27.—Behind closely guarded doors, the Dail Eireann met in secret session today to consider the reply of the British government to President De Valera's letter. The decision that must now be taken will be the one between peace and war, it was felt here as the members entered the Mansion house.

The issue is clear cut. Ireland has asked for a new basis for further discussion—Sinn Fein is willing to negotiate, but only on its own terms. Britain has replied through her premier that the only basis for discussion is the offer contained in Lloyd George's original proposals upon which the present truce was based. Insistence upon its point by Sinn Fein will now mean war, it was said.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"England has reached the limit of concessions and almost the limit of endurance. The Irish truce is in danger."

This was the tenor of the British press today, discussing the Irish situation in the light of Lloyd George's reply to De Valera's letter regarding British terms.

The Sinn Fein president asked for a continuance of negotiations upon a basis of self-determination. The British government had reiterated, emphatically its adherence to its original terms.

The dispute has reached a deadlock. The government today had the unanimous support of the press for its attitude.

Youth Dreams Fire and Finds It True

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 27.—The dream of Harry Shewell, 18 years of age, here that he was trapped in flames saved the lives of three people and a big fire loss here early this morning. Shewell experienced the same dream three times and was at a loss to understand it. The last time it was so vivid that he dressed and went into the street. He found the home of J. J. Broughall wrapped in flames.

He turned an alarm and assisted the firemen in rescuing Broughall, who is 70 years old, from an upper story where he had been trapped by the flames. Painters had left ladders and buckets in the hall way, where the old man had fainted in attempting to make his way in the outside. Mrs. Broughall and her daughter Katherine were aroused and made their escape. The origin of the fire could not be discovered.

NO BEER ACTION

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today announced that regulations allowing the sale of medicinal beer will not be issued until congress has taken definite action on the anti-beer bill.

Mellon's statement usually ends the hope that the prescription of beer as medicine will ever be allowed. It is regarded as certain that the anti-beer bill can be passed through congress within two months and Mellon's statement was taken to mean he proposes to hold up the regulations until that time.

CITY TAKES TAXI

SAN FRANCISCO.—People who sat saw a ray of hope today.

The cooks, waiters and musicians employed in San Francisco cafes accepted pay reductions ranging from 7½ to 31½ per cent.

SHIPMENT OF N. E. RELIEF TO SEATTLE

The Red Cross yesterday shipped 42 sacks of clothing, weighing 2,100 pounds to Seattle for Near East relief. The European quota is not yet met. There is a good deal of clothing on hand for this but as it has not yet been sorted and weighed it is impossible to say whether enough has been received or not. It is stated, today by Mrs. M. W. Edwards, who has charge of the work here.

Age Vanishes at Beck of Cupid in New Guise

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Father Time and Cupid ran a race today at the convention of widows and widowers.

Two hundred men and women, ranging from 40 to 75 years of age, were young once more.

The gathering, which was held in Washington park, was the result of the hard work of Miss Marceline Bickes, social worker, and object—matrimony.

Miss Bickes imposed but one condition on those who joined the Widows and Widowers club—they had to affirm that they fulfilled their marriage vows and lived with their chosen mate until "death did them part."

Members of the club joined because they were weary of spending their last days unloved and lonesome.

"Yes," said Miss Bickes, "the club has been a success. Eight marriages have resulted from our little gatherings and many more are in the offing."

The founder has asked social agencies in other cities to establish similar clubs.

"We try to have our meetings once every week," she said, "usually Sunday afternoon. And how they look forward to them. Many have regular dates for the park. Lover's quarrels and petty jealousies are not at all unusual.

"Love is the same at 16 or 60 whether it be engendered in the heart of a 16 or 60-year-old."

"And a love Pirate is just as lovely to an old man as a handsome boulder. Miss Bickes has found one.

She tells this scandal of the club:

"One old boy, nearly 70, was a regular attendant at our meetings. He was the favorite with all the women and broke up many a happy little affair.

"All went well until an irate little woman appeared on the scene and shouted:

"Here you are, Ezra, posing as a widower when you are my husband."

PROBE RUMORS OF WEAKNESS ZR-2 MAKE-UP

British Inquiry Will Go Into Stories That Dirigible Was Known to Be Wrong.

HULL, England, Aug. 27.—"The accident to the ZR-2 was due to structural weakness. I intended this to be my last flight."

Lieut. Wann, commander of the ZR-2, lying in the hospital here suffering from injuries received in the disaster to the giant dirigible today sent for the police inspector and gave him the above signed statement.

By CHARLES McCANN,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

HOWDEN, England, Aug. 27—The British air service inquiry into the disaster of the ZR-2 was opened at Howden aerodrome here today. Vice Air Marshal Salmond presided. America was represented by Lieut. Dyer, U. S. N.

The proceedings were private.

The inquiry, starting today will show, if the facts are published that some British airmen were convinced the ZR-2 never would have crossed the Atlantic except under "impossibly favorable" weather conditions, I am informed.

I have learned that many British "lighter than air" authorities, as well as officers who were killed in the terrible disaster Wednesday, believed the ZR-2 to be structurally defective.

In a measure they died heroes, because they felt the giant, dirigible to be unfeasible and they wished to prove it before an American crew should be lost trying to cross the Atlantic.

Opinions as to the weakness of the ZR-2 only began to be freely expressed after she left Howden on the fatal trip Tuesday.

Summarized, they were that the ZR-2 was too long, that she was too weak; the possibilities of a disaster were realized and fears that the first strain would prove fatal were freely expressed.

I have been written reports, conveying these fears to the proper authorities.

Also I have listened while the ZR-2 was making her trial flight Tuesday, to veterans of the British air service and of the R-34's successful flight, say that they wouldn't cross in the ZR-2 as they were convinced that she would never reach America. Incidentally, some of the British officers lacked confidence in the Americans' ability to navigate the ship.

SEA DISASTER STILL MYSTERY

Canadian Ship and Life Boat Have Not Been Found by Searchers.

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 27.—The mystery of the Canadian vessel Cardiganshire, importer, reported drifting helplessly 500 miles southwest of the Columbia river lightship with Capt. Blasell and 22 men on board, remained as much of a mystery today as it did in the early morning hours of Aug. 2, when it was reported that the freighter was sinking.

The American steamer Manukai reported to Northhead wireless station shortly after midnight that she had abandoned the search late into the night and was resuming her course for Honolulu.

Shrouded in equal mystery is the fate of nine men and two officers from the importer, who pulled away from the distressed vessel in the dark watches of Aug. 2, and have not been seen since. The little craft with a picked crew was dispatched for assistance when the importer's wireless went out of commission.

TAKE AUTO THIEVES

WEISER, Aug. 27—Jack Malone and John Bickoe were captured by local authorities yesterday after a running fight in which seven shots were fired, none finding their mark. The men were in a car which they are accused of having stolen from George Reinhardt at Nampa. A negro who accompanied the two men escaped.

Guasman denies the charge.

MINERS START HOME-CLASH NOT SERIOUS

Officers Remain Alert to Protect Homes—Case Is Investigated

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 27—Miners who had marched from Marmet, a mining camp, toward Mingo county coal fields, began arriving here today.

A group of more than 2,000 came on a special train from Madison, accompanied by Urey E. Kenney, district president. Several other groups of special trains would bring back men from territory adjacent to Madison during the day.

Rivers reported reports of engagement of miners and armed deputies near Blair, Logan county, was of small importance. He said only a few shots were exchanged and that there were no casualties.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27—President Harding is giving careful consideration to the request of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, for a conference of mine operators and workers in coal the industrial situation and threatened war in Mingo and Logan counties, West Virginia, it was stated at the White House today.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Aug. 27—Sheriff Don Chafin of Logan county reported to military headquarters here early today that 1200 miners who crossed into Logan county near Sharples, Friday night, attacked the special train sent to convey them back to their homes.

The train was run to the terminal of the Guyan river branch near Blair in Logan county and the men started in the direction of Logan.

Chafin said they were soon in contact with his deputies and firing had been in progress through the night.

He could give no estimate of casualties, because all the fighting had been done in darkness.

He renewed his appeal for help from Mingo county and a force of 125 regulars from Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and deputy sheriffs left here at daylight in automobiles.

Midnight county war reported sending 300 deputy sheriffs by automobiles.

Logan county is quiet today, according to a bulletin issued by the sheriff's office this morning. No trouble is anticipated.

Reports reaching Logan stating that fighting operations between miners and officers on George's creek at midnight and has been in progress since that time, were denied.

Information to the effect that Randolph Dial and Allan Moonis, both special deputies, had been killed in the fighting, were also denied.

WRECK OF ZR-2 SHAPES FUTURE AIRCRAFT PLAN

Naval Officials Are Anxious to Proceed with Dirigibles but Meet Dubiety.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The future of American naval aviation may be determined in part by the explosion that wrecked the ZR-2.

Many officials are planning to ask congress for funds to replace the destroyed aircraft as soon as they have made a thorough investigation into the causes of accident over Hull, England, yesterday. They also say they will go ahead with construction of the ZR-3, similar to the ZR-2, which is being built near Lakehurst, N. J.

Members of the house and senate naval affairs committees, however, said they believed no further funds for dirigible construction should be granted until the work on the ZR-3 should be held up if not dropped altogether.

Naval officials today declared this country can now make airships, as well as the best of them, that the American product will be infinitely safer because helium instead of hydrogen, will be used as the lifting agent.

Although they were without specific reports, naval officers believe the ZR-2 broke up because the helium, the broken air ship would have had time on their part, officers said.

Already appropriations totaling $3,000,000 have been made for the ZR-1 but contracts calling for expenditures of only $1,200,000 have been signed. The huge hangar at Lakehurst for the two ships has been completed at a cost of about $3,000,000.

SAYING WASHINGTON LIE.—Tree surgeons are again at work, imploring the life of the famous Washington Elm in front of the capitol. Washington is said to have frequently eaten his lunch under the tree during the construction of the capitol. It has shown signs of decay for many years and only frequent "operations" prolonging its life. Neither tree men are at work.

Sells Floto Here Today

"Whale of a Show" Says the Kid Circus Big and Clean, He Notifies

"Folks, I'm sore. The Sells Floto circus fellers put it all over me and my kid pal last night. The result is that we missed a couple of hours of the slumber act by heatin' it to Hobgoby about 3 o'clock this morning to board the circus train and come back to the Falls. Say—there was nuthin' but three big streaks of, while and the durned trains pulled right through the middlin' town without stopping and we had to do a walkin' specialty back home. Talk about hiking, say, those trains breezed by us faster than the circus fellers could talk which was some mouthfin' and more so because my old Man laid the slipper on a certain pair of his carcass for trylin' to hold a side. Oh well the circus is so blamed big that I reckon I can stand a lickin' or two and the circus folks didn't had folks after you get to know 'em. Just between you and me, I put in some a couple of years with them, I reckon. The only kick is that they are married and they transport their husbands right with 'em and the way they treated me and the pal was something terrible. Yah would think that they had a few kids of their own the way they knew just how to treat a regular feller even if he is a punk, if I did. In fact, they was all swell ladies and there are more than two hundred of 'em and not a bad looker in the bunch. They were sure made comfortable and when I grow up I'm going to marry a circus lady for a wife and I sure will have it all over the local birds.

And say, I hit the dining tents of the circus this morning for a few and found that there were 216 folks sittin' down to a mighty fine feed of the morning feed and they all say yah. A feller by the name of Ingalls has all the horses and stable chambermaids under his thumb and he showed me 311 head of pinky dapple gray Percherons that was the cream. Besides the hangar horses he has 186 riding horses, mules, and ponies that makes my old man's plugs look like condemned meat for the sausage Bavarian.

MULL SECURES CONTRACT FOR ADDISON ROAD

Shows That He Will Put It in Lower Than the District; Other Business.

Letting finally to C. H. Mull, the part of contract held in abeyance on Addison avenue, on a showing that the work would cost the district less than the estimate of its own engineer, the Twin Falls district highway board today also let the contract for a complete audit of the district books to John Wolfenden, heard petitioners for an extension of the Washington street road for a mile and a half, voted to buy certain needed supplies in the way of nails, etc., and allowed the weekly bills.

"Details of Estimate"

The estimate of Mull's bid was furnished the district for the Addison street contract was $23,272.00 without overhead. The Mull estimate was $23,509.27, including $235 overhead. Deducting overhead the Mull bid was $23,174.27. In other words, deducting overhead from the Mull bid, it was $202.73 better than the engineering estimate.

The Wolfenden Agreement

The agreement of the district with John Wolfenden is that there shall be a complete audit of the books of the district from the time of the organization until May 14, 1921, for which the sum of $800 shall be paid. May 14, is the date on which the present board took charge.

The Washington Extension.

The residents along the route of the Washington street extension propose to pay $1.50 for every acre benefitted by the graveling. They say that they are not anxious about the exact sort of road put in provided that it is a good one. There are approximately 800 acres benefited directly which would mean $1200 for graveling. The petitioners stated that they took this method of helping along, owing to differences in views when land owners and farmers would be busy. It didn't be better all around. President Asher H. Wilson heartily concurred with this idea and said that it was often difficult to get a meeting of minds among those who expected to good faith to co-operate, so as to get the best results. This trouble made the plan for a direct payment much more effective.

He also stated that it would be impossible at this time to say what the board could do next year, have to put in a lighter road than they would like and build it up as circumstances and finances might permit. Nothing definite can be picked up until after the budget was gotten up. The impression was that something would be done, petitioners said.

The board turned down an appeal for increased sum over that alleged to be agreed on, asked by Mrs. John Rippe for injuries sustained, by district truck last winter. It is said that the board had it figured up that it could reasonably pay her $500 and is adhering to this. Mrs. Rippe appeals for help have been made by public institutions and reinforcements were today sent to the

FRANCE URGES SOVIET TRADE

Declares Diplomatic Relations Should Be Resumed by U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The United States should establish diplomatic relations with soviet Russia, Alexander Senator Gustave Hervé, French editor and declared today upon his return from a several weeks' visit in that country.

Returning with France on the liner Rotterdam was Mrs. Margaret E. Harrison, a correspondent of the Baltimore Evening Sun, who was imprisoned in Russia for 10 months and was the first of the released Americans to reach home after the United States government had effected their freedom.

"I left America three months ago to decide for myself if it would be wise in resuming trade with Russia," France said. "I return convinced that it would be wise, further, I believe that we should open diplomatic relations with her. I can see no reason why we should be afraid of a relationship which obviously holds no terrors for Great Britain and Germany, both of which are doing finely in the Russian market. Russia is a soviet Russia.

"There is little communism in Russia. Extremists, anarchists, have been driven out, unsuccessful and the constructive parties at the head, by which Lenin stands, were forced to compromise enough to force abandonment of Marxian theories and restoration of certain sound capitalistic policies, which are now in effect in Russia."

"I am delighted that the famine relief work by America is getting in force, says, further, that the great relief program, as planned, this will be followed by an American trade delegation to Russia, which is now in under government auspices."

WORLD'S DIRT TRACK CHAMPION TO RACE AT LAGOON LABOR DAY

A. C. Christensen Will Bring Ira Vail to Lagoon Labor Day to Meet Challenger for $10,000 Purse.

The eyes of the entire racing world will be centered on Lagoon, Utah, on Labor Day when Ira Vail, acknowledged dirt track champion of the world, will risk his title in a special series of match races with Chief Spearman, the Salt Lake boy wonder, who has recently cleaned up all intermountain courses and has won the right to try at the crown.

Manager A. C. Christensen of Lagoon Racer has made the announcement that he has signed a contract with Ira Vail, dirt track champion, and with William H. Swanson, president of the Swanson Theatre Circuit, and well known racing pilot, arranges only have been completed for a three heat match race in which Vail will protect his title against the challenger. Christensen has agreed to put a purse of twenty thousand dollars to enable the famous dirt track champion to race at Lagoon for the Labor Day event and has deposited a certified check for one thousand dollars with Ira Vail, secretary of the Utah State Automobile Association, who is the representative of the Vail-Spearman test heats. This money is considered forfeit to bind Vail to place his world crown at stake and insure that the track will be in the condition required by the A. A. A. for a foreign title championship meet.

Labor Day was selected as the date for the big event and Manager Christensen hopes to make the meet a thrilling one to close the racing season at that resort.

The world's championship contest which will be the main feature of all attractive racing card, will be the first sanctioned and officially run meet in Utah. It will be conducted under the auspices of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, and any records made on that date will be recognized and stood up after. Every pilot and mechanic in the game will be a contender for honors, including the intermountain Sensation, Spearman, who has recently jumped into the professional ranks to challenge. The famous mile oval at Lagoon will be put in perfect shape for the occasion. The surface is extremely hard and a couple of weeks ago when the track was wet, perfect smoothness, according to Christensen. In compliance with racing rule of the A. A. A. the inside fence rails will be removed and the course will be entirely treated with a solution of calcium chloride and will be a dustless dirt course in one of the most complete of equipped racing plants of the country.

Spearman's new mount, a car of his own design and conception has proved the mechanical phenomenon of the season. It has attained a speed of nearly 100 miles an hour on the fast dirt track and is especially adapted to a mile course.

The World's dirt track speed king will bring to Salt Lake his famous Packard Special, a racing machine built for dirt track racing and powered by one of the famous Duesenberg engines. This car is a marvel of speed and has been clocked at 125 miles an hour and said to have cost nearly $25,000.

The Fort Vail has never driven on the Lagoon track and that moved of 1920 speed marks have been made on Lagoon's oval, is expected to bring a formidable challenger to Utah. The latter is a product of the Sioux "plant" and has been the sensation of the intermountain circuit, defeating the pioneer, so a racing driver has never yet defeated throughout the intermountain region. Spearman is a veteran of race driving and will make the supreme effort to win from the model champion on the Lagoon course, and if he does he will be in the enviable position of being the proud owner of the world's dirt track championship.

In the race meet held last Saturday at Middletown, N. Y., Vail won three victories out of four dirt track events. The championship contest practically all old dirt track records set by Oldfield, Hornsby, Bishrow and others of the dare-devil school of a few years ago. He was officially awarded the world's dirt track championship after his victory in an international open event in California last year.

It is expected that a tremendous attendance will greet the intrepid demons at Lagoon, Labor Day and Manager Christensen is preparing for an attendance of fifteen to twenty thousand racing fans.

Bell Buoys Used Inland Waterways

The bell buoy, the solemn tolling of which has been the subject of many a melancholy story in verse, has been much improved upon. It now has been the well-known mark of modern efficiency—the electric light.

These buoys are used in some of the inland waterways, according to George O. Wallace of the local Exide service station, to guide barges and low-boats over the dangerous portions of the channels.

The New York state department of public works, has worked out a complete system of buoy lighting in the barge canal through Seneca and Cayuga lakes. Seneca lake is deep enough for barges over its entire surface, but there is a shallow area at the north end of Cayuga lake.

The electric light buoys are used to mark points of safe passage over the shallow areas. Each buoy is equipped with lamps and mechanism for automatic lighting and extinguishing the lights, and an Exide battery to supply the current. The Exides are recharged every two weeks.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure anyone. Make a fine effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

I never have to use an oil can, on my valves because they are automatically oiled.

With the Alemite oiler in place of the old style grease cups, I can "oil up" in my Sunday clothes.

Because the parts are so accessible and the Reo instruction book is so clear, I can do most anything a man has to do, who uses his car like he's ... any other piece of machinery.

I can drive two hundred and fifty miles a day for a week, and have done it without tiring. No sway, no bobbing around, no fighting the wheel and no "back seat" driving. My wife says she did half the driving with me and she "knows" what she is talking about.

When my motor is warm, I can turn my car—leave it in high—pull the throttle down—get out and place one my hands on two spokes in the front wheel give it a little twist and the car will walk away on its own power.

Because I can do some stunts my friends can't

JIMMIE THOMPSON'S STRONG RIGHT ARM GIVES MOOSE WIN OVER BANKS

Big Kimberly Twirler Gives Second Airtight Exhibition of the Week—Holds Greenbacks to Three Hits and Goose-Egg Score; Two Top Positions Settled.

Team Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Legion	7	2	.777
D. Sons	7	2	.777
Banks	7	7	.500
Elks	4	6	.400
Electrics	4	8	.333
Moose	2	10	.167

The battle for second place in the Legion long race has clinched the Twilight flag—took another lucky turn for the Idaho Department store last evening. The Elks, B. S. luck conquered of the Legion, 6 to 3, while the Bankers club, instead of themselves, went down against the steel shouldered young man from Kimberly, pitching for the Moose team, who signs the payroll with the name of James Thompson.

It was Thompson's second appearance in the battle for second but he was even better last night than when gave the airtight exhibition of Wednesday, also not only socked the Bankers for a spot but did it with such clean hits and cold that the score could only find three hits and carry a score on the credit side of the Bank ledger. The Moose won 1 to 0.

As a result the L. D. S. can get no worse than a tie for second place, if the Banks wins its one remaining game and the L. D. loses both that are left on its schedule.

One of the Legion teams is with the league-leading Legion team. According to the dope the Legion should win it. This would leave the other game to decide possession of second place. It comes between the L. D. S. and the Banks, the two contenders. Accordingly a tonight be an exceedingly merry affair if the L. D. S. wins, it keeps the place. If the Banks win there will be a tie.

But to get back to the Thompson triumph of last night.

Jimmie slept the Bankers onto for a special reason, it seems. Jimmie, still smarting from Wednesday's defeat at the hands of pitching a three-hit game, decided to show the fans that he could pitch a three hit game and win it.

The game itself was some game, running but one hour, and was full of brilliant fielding.

The Moose club, placed one of its best games, and although two Bank runners did get as far as third home they never did have a chance of scoring.

The Bank's was the first runner to get to the Moose, and the third of the season. The bankers were victims of two of them and the Moose the other.

Davis came to life yesterday, knocking out a homer, a triple and a double in three trips to the plate, and they were at clean his tool.

The Moose decided to help Jimmie Thompson in the first inning when they scored a two-bagger. Davis hard smash over the right field fence.

In the second they smuggled two more over. Emerson tripled to center and scored on Cagle's single to right. Hybarger singled to right, sending Cagle to third, from where he scored on Johnson's infield out.

NOTES OF THE GAME—(By Bleacherite)

Who said that the Moose didn't have a ball club?

They made but two errors, and those were excusable.

A big improvement in their batting last night.

They play their last game of the season next Wednesday.

"Pat" Thompson proved himself the iron man of this section, and the more he works the better he gets.

"Eleven men were victims of his speed, and that's going some for a seven-inning game.

Navy's man did Jimmie pass in first.

Fly pitched nice ball, too, fanning six but the Moose boys had a habit of bunching their hits, which always means runs.

Stewart in center field, played a beautiful game, making two fine catches and two dandy throws.

Hybarger at second cobbled up everything that came his way.

Davis' hitting was easily the feature of the game outside of Thompson's heaving. Davis poked out a homer, a triple and a double in three trips to the plate.

"Slim" Cooper played left field for the Bankers and didn't make an error—himself—last score.

Monday we have the Legion and the Electrics, and perhaps the Elks. Lets wait and see what the Moose did. Who knows?

HUNT MISSING MEN

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 26.—The revenue cutter Snohomish has set out in search of the lone lifeboat containing two officers and nine men from the disabled freighter Canadian Importer, according to a radio dispatch from Neah Bay, this morning. The little craft is supposed to be making for either Eureka, Calif., or Marshfield, Ore.

The importer still is afloat with Captain Hisset and 22 members of crew on board, but a distress message from the Manukai, which is standing by the waterlogged steamer, says the vessel is settling.

Molla's Hubby Her Greatest Admirer

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's husband is a good sport.

He isn't jealous because his wife, queen of America's tennis courts, usurps all the family limelight.

Instead, he's the proudest man in New York.

Following her sweeping victory over Mary K. Browne at Forest Hills, which again crowned her as the national champion, he was the first to rush across the courts to grasp her hand and congratulate her.

Mr. Mallory is just as anxious as his wife that she should meet Suzanne Lenglen again.

Disappointed

"I was more disappointed than Molla, herself, if that was possible, when Suzanne defaulted," he says.

During the matches at Forest Hills he sat in a box and led the cheering for his wife.

Mr. Mallory is a broker in New York, but Sidetracks business when his wife is in action on the courts.

There is just one flaw in Molla's inheritance of victories, according to the Mallorys.

It was the empty triumph over Suzanne.

Entirely

When asked if she wished to meet Suzanne again, Molla's eyes lit up like storm-clouds as she flashed her reply:

"Do I?"

And when asked if she thought she would beat the French marvel:

"Of course she will!"

Hilton to annex the world tennis

If Suzanne accomplishes her ambitions she'll have to conquer both the Mallorys—Molla with the power of a giantess, in her racket-wrista, and the husband who'll be lending his moral support, 100 per cent, to his wife in her greatest contest.

The hippopotamus is now rivaled by an amphibious tank that travels equally well on land or in water.

HAGEN REGAINS TITLE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—After five years, Walter Hagen of Detroit, is again the western open golf champion today.

The man who has twice been national title holder won the honor at Oakwood club yesterday when he completed the 72 holes with a score of 277, five strokes better than Jock Hutchinson, the British open champion and last year's western open champion.

WATCHING THE SCORE BOARD

For struggles for the pennant in the league leading Pirates.

"Shufflin' Phil" Douglas thinked back the difficulties for the second time this season, when Hamilton held New York to five hits, but triple by Frisch scoring Bancroft, made them worth more than Phil bunch's two!

The Boston Braves' chances of jumping were rendered practically nil by the Cardinals fourth straight victory at Beantown, 6 to 3.

Eddie Roush, star outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, is probably lost for the rest of the season. He tore a ligament sliding into second at Philadelphia yesterday. The Reds won, 7 to 2.

Urban Shocker won his seventh straight victory when he turned back the Athletics, 7 to 2.

Babe Ruth was held hitless at Detroit, after hitting safely in 27 consecutive games—but the Yanks won, 10 to 2.

The Cubs made 17 hits, beating Brooklyn, 12 to 3.

The Red Sox corralled the White Sox in a free hitting affair, 5 to 4.

Cleveland kept its narrow lead on the Yanks by trouncing three Senator pitchers, 6 to 3.

Bleacher Bleats

Tomorrow we have the big game with Jerome and let's hope that we will be able to wipe out that defeat of a week ago Thursday. At that time, the boys from Jerome beat us by the score of 12 to 11. It's a pretty safe to judge from the talk that one hears on the street, the largest crowd that ever followed a ball team will make the trip to the Precinct these things by seeing that city across the canyon.

The game today ended as though said, after looking over what the Twin Falls team has to offer, Manager Lefler of the Twin Falls team or Patton behind the bat, and Steele isn't a doubt in my mind as to what team latter the "mighty points for the victory.

This will be the last game the Stars play before going to Boise.

Reports of the Stars were out to practice last night and had a hard workout. Manager Lefler is perfectly satisfied with the team, and feels confident that the Twin Falls team will make the trip to Boise. As I have just mentioned, Lefler and Patton are a battery that will be hard to beat, and Steele isn't a doubt in my mind as to what team latter the "mighty points for the victory.

Hawk's heard any more about the tournament begins the game to go to Boise. But there isn't a doubt in my mind but that they will do it.

The ball players were asked to help the Boy Scouts, they weren't found wanting, when the Fourth of July doings were held, the boys again came through in excellent style, and received nothing for their services. They have played ball for nothing all summer, so that Twin Falls could have a ball club, and they worked and never said a word, they wanted to know if to see a fast ball game the boys that were working out of town had off a half day so as to be able to be here and play. They had half day's wages, and now the commercial organization, and citizens of the city can show that they appreciate these things by seeing that the boys go to Boise. Very few places can boast of a wheat crop which will go 40 to 60 bushels to the acre. But this is what many of the farmers on the Twin Falls tract are actually threshing these days.

Everybody and his uncle are in town today to attend the big picnic. A lot of wholesome fun is going to make the rounds of the city and the rest of the circus to a community and we hope that everyone will enjoy the same to the limit and that no accidents or injuries will be heard of as an aftermath.

The fruit grower who pulled up his apple trees a few years ago has good reason for going out behind the barn and kicking himself this year. The growers on the Twin Falls tract are getting splendid prices for their apples and for many this will be their consolation.

Many rumors came into Twin Falls daily concerning the new railroad but the majority of these are without foundation and are not worthy of space in any newspaper. We wish to assure our readers that when any real news on this subject breaks we will publish the same in record time just as we have published the other items of news in this community.

The electric lights on the Rock creek bridge have been broken by vandals. We are not sure whether this is the work of a bunch of boys or men but whoever the guilty party may be it is a piece of work for which proper punishment should be meted out. These lights were placed there at some expense to the taxpayers and the public is entitled to such aids for evening driving. Such vandalism should be hunted down and the severest penal ies given to the perpetrators of such crime.

Some very good fathers of Twin Falls are likely to make a great mistake in trying to cover the crimes of their sons and try to keep these petty crimes from getting to the public. We are just as anxious as anyone to keep the names of these juvenile offenders from the press but the fathers should be very careful in their efforts to not really spread criminals of their kin by helping them to cover up. Sometimes the impression seems to prevail that just so long as the sun does not get exactly his nets are outer rather than criminal. This is the dangerous point in the argument and should be guarded with all care.

In order to save workmen from ill health resulting from insanitary or unhealthy conditions and to save manufacturers from claims for damages it is necessary for the public health service to examine physically both the workmen and the plant in which they work. Some manufacturers and many workmen fear examination, believing that it will be used to make trouble for them, and not realizing that undiscovered defects in either plant or man will surely lead to serious results. To such the public health service says that it is strictly neutral and that it will not "tell tales." Its object is to improve the health of the men and to enable the factory to save money by making its employes healthy by giving them healthy working conditions.

The city officials are to be congratulated for starting a campaign against the weeds on the vacant lots, parkings and other places about the city of Twin Falls. The weeds along our side walks are very obnoxious in many places and are a great detriment to people wishing to use the walks. The double tracks about this whole affair comes when the weeds go to seed and propagate their kind for next year. The fight against noxious weeds throughout the state of Idaho must be carried on continuously and vigorously if the people of this state wish to accomplish anything in the line of keeping the farms and city lots from growing up to these pests.

WE HAVE BEEN WONDERING

Within the month there have been two or three people committed from this county to the asylum at Blackfoot for inspection of the mind's condition. Now there is no reason to assume that because a person has an affle tion of the mind that it is not as amenable to cure as if it should be any other part of the body. And what more humane way is there than into practice a corps of competent doctors that job and will attend to the cure of these patients? Or is it just a case of a receiving hospital where these afflicted are sent that they shall not be a nuisance to society and to prevent injury to themselves and neighbors? Is the state following modern, efficient methods that will eventuate in a return to friends those who suffer from mental affliction? It does not follow in our mental hospital the same be efficient hap hazard plans as are adopted in any penal institution?

There is a point of importance in these things.

CHAPTER VI.

But when at the end of the long day they reached the valley, and when her father came innocently into the parlor and stood starting uneasily at her, for a moment she felt shy and the day of Alix's return had been kept a secret—her first act was to burst into tears. She clung to the fatherly shoulders as if she were a strange beaten kind safely home again, and although she immediately laughed at herself and told the sympathetically watching Peter and Alix that she didn't know what was the matter with her, it was only to interrupt the words with fresh tears.

Years of joy, she told them, laughing at the mistake in her father's telegram. She had a special picnic made for Hong; she laughed and teased and questioned Anne, when Anne and Justin came back from an afternoon concert in the city, with an injured and enthusiastic zest—gratifying to both.

After dinner she had her old place on the arm of her father's porch chair; Alix, Mrs. Rudy's smooth head in her lap, sat on the porch step beside her, and the three intimates from the darkness of the hammock under the shadow of the rose vine. It was happy talk in the sweet evening cool and everybody seemed tremendously kind and sympathetic tonight.

"Bedtime!" said her father presently, and she laughed in sheer pleasure. "Children must go to their cribs!"

"Can you do back tugged and pull little girl," he told her. "You're to stay in bed in the morning."

"Oh, I'll be down," she assured him, but she did not come in the morning. Then she came late. She was tired to self and lazy and glad to let fresh soft her again, glad to rest and sleep in the happily peace and quiet of the old home.

Late in the afternoon, rested, fresh and her old jaunty self in the white taffeta, she came down to join them. They had settled themselves quite comfortably on the porch when Peter, who was watching for her, called to her that he was ready to take her for a motor ride. Anne and Justin, Peter and Alix and Bill, the dog, all jumped up to greet her. Cherry very quietly subsided into a wicker chair. Seated rather than talked, moved her lazily eyes affectionately from one to another.

Peter hardly moved his eyes from her, although he did not often address her directly; Justin was quite obviously overcome by the unexpected beauty of Anne's coming; Anne herself, with an unidentified song, embroidered in her soul that Cherry was prettier than ever; and even Alix was affected. With the lovely background of the forest, the single of her thin side hat lightly shadowing her face, with the dew of her long sleep and recent bath enhancing the childish purity of her skin, and with her blue eyes full of content, Cherry was a picture of exquisite youth and grace and charm.

The evening was cooler, with sudden wind and a promise of storm. They crowded themselves about a fire in the old way; Anne and Justin sitting close together on the settle, as Justin and Cherry had done a year ago. Cherry sat on her father's knee, with the dear old head hidden in his; neither had moved for a long, long time. Alix, sitting on the floor, with her jean cheeks tinted by the fire, played with the dog and talked Peter about some late affair, the details of which made him laugh vexatiously in spite of himself. Cherry watched them, a little puzzled at the facility of Peter's mood. Alix was not the girl to bring herself remained by so long and strange a backsliding.

"Be that as it may, my dear," said Alix, "the fact remains that you brought this Perkins woman to drive your car, didn't you? And you told her that she was the best woman driver you ever knew, a better driver even than Miss Strickland; didn't you?"

"I did not," Peter said, immediately sounding and watching the fire.

"Why, Peter, you did! She said you did!"

"Well, then, she said what is not true!"

"She distinctly told me," Alix remarked, "that dear Mr. Joyce had said that she was the best woman driver he ever saw."

"Well," Peter may have said something like that," he conceded, thoughtfully. Alix laughed exultingly. "I tell you I loathe her!" he added.

"Thanks—we have a lovely home," Cherry said softly, her eyes moving from the shabby books and the shabby rugs to Alix's piano shining in the glossy of the far corner. "It was all beautiful and pleasant and somehow the atmosphere was rowdy inspiring. Hong, your pot-roast and your apple dumpling, the old Cupid, conniving about book-ends and sconces and soldiers and science. Nice—well, not brilliant, perhaps, but worth while. She was beginning to think Peter extremely clever and only Alix's quick tongue to watch for him, and to feel that her father knew every book and had seen every worthwhile play in the world.

IN THE WOODS.

"I love the woods," said the Wood Fairy, "and I see that you do, too, Pink Toadstool."

"Oh, yes," said the Pink Toadstool, "I wouldn't care about living anywhere else. Some of my family might, but I would rather be here. I, too, love the woods so much."

"Very Wise."

"Ah," said the Wood Fairy, "I don't think anything else is so wonderful as the woods. Just think! I have for my rather, aunt, wonderful one made of pine needles. They live so brown and so cosy looking and so very soft.

"Then the great dark trunks of the trees seem to protect me and look after me. And the shadows come in and dance between."

"In the winter there are more spaces between the great trees because they the leaves on the bushes and shrubs have gone to rest and the leaves of the trees have gone to sleep under the snow.

"Along the edge of these woods are wild asters, and they are like a beautiful border to the woods. Later there will be many changes. The trees will all change to color.

"There will be reds and scarlets and trees of orange shade. There will be some that will not turn red, and golden so soon.

"And the deep woods, with their dark green trees, will look so lovely back of all these trees of the different colors.

"The path of these woods leads up a hill which they call 'slippery' hill. And it is very slippery because of the carpet of pine needles.

"Before the carpet of pine needles begins there is the bright green carpet of the field down below.

"In the winter time there is more room in the woods, it seems, but it is nice to have one's winter home a little different from one's summer home and yet still in the same place."

"Now, people have stoves and radiators in the winter time in their homes, but we have snow houses instead."

"Oh, the beautiful snow! I do love so much to see it."

"Of course you are there all the time, but you never tire, Pink Toadstool, to choose the woods for your home while the weather is so nice and you have to be out in the fields it is so hot."

"You see, we have the Spirit Queen of the woods making everything so cool and comfortable no matter how hot the day may be."

"The birds come here and talk to us and tell us what goes on about.

"A number of birds told me yesterday they had had breakfast with some real people."

"Birds had had breakfast with real people?" asked Pink Toadstool.

"Yes," said the Wood Fairy, "the birds had been giving a morning concert in a garden near a big house. The people were eating their breakfast on the back porch of that house.

"And when they saw the birds they said: 'Oh, we will give you some breakfast for your lovely concert.'

"And then they spread nice breadcrumbs about, and other good things to eat. The birds are quite often invited to meals like that.

"Not long ago they had a cooky banquet. Some children were having lemonade and cookies on a hot afternoon and they gave the birds some of the cookies and then filled a little pan with cool water for them to drink.

"Yes, here in the woods the birds come to talk to us. Many of the birds live here almost all of the time. There are little toads and frogs and live here, you lovely Pink Toadstool have chosen it for your summer home and the Wood Fairies dwelling here.

"The woods are better than anything else in the world."

The Wood Fairy waved her wand and sang while the Pink Toadstool smiled a Toadstool smile:

"I love the woods above everything,
They make me happy, they make me sing."

Discoverer of America.

"Who discovered America?" asked the teacher in the Americanization class.

There was a paired silence for a few moments, and then a Greek spoke up.

"Ohio," he said.

"Ohio," echoed the teacher. "Why, it was a man named Columbus."

"Sure that was his first name," replied the perplexed Greek. "Columbus Ohio."

The Funeral Service

This picture was taken during the funeral service for Carusso in the Church of San Francesco di Paola, a last tribute to a noted son. The coffin on which the coffin rested was covered with black and gold, and was surrounded by many candles. There were hundreds of wreaths sent by friends in all parts of the world.

SELLS FLOTIO HERE TODAY

Had a Large Parade

Everybody in the Mountain county was on duty this morning to hear the parade, which is the longest, flashiest and best street procession ever seen in this town of the woods and some of the local sports tried to tamp some of the circus ladies, and received the cold stare in return for the circus lames and that was at all these great heralds handed me a laugh and a pain at the same time. Sure, they had elephants, twelve of them and camels, lions, tigers, the biggest monkey cage in the world, a pompadoura and every other mob dressed outlandish in the world. There was good lookin' men, and hands? Say there were eight different kinds of melody blowers and three calliope and him one end of a brass horn and music came out the other end. It was great stuff.

A Whole of a Program.

Sels Floto has a real program that knocked the folks a twister and when they said they had three rings and a stage they told a whopper. There are three rings and two stages and there was someth'n' doin' every minute. 'My ma dislocated her bloomers trock every'n' to follow the whole performance and is now remastin' the lady home-sitter. Of course Pop was there and then some, but every other second he would let out a hoot "Ah-ha!" of some startlin' sort and then allowed that his off-spring knew what he was-talkin' about when he said "The Sells Floto ladies is darlin." It is known that the Old Gent has an eagle eye also. The program was a humdinger and the cleanest show ever seen here. There were no sex, tripers, iron-jaw, column-rings, short-on, leaping, tumbling, Jay Kes-tyles with a dozen wives, monkeys and of late a menagerie of all male species, all mixed up with women. Circus fans did see real elephants, camels, horses, ponies, monkeys, seals which balanced big balls on the end of their beaks, etc. There were seven rings, which stopped the big circus seven times and which was led by "Prodigy" Hannaford, and Cody is the most wonderful kind "backfield" of horses ever seen in the blooming world. "Prodigy" could sit on the top, on her side, neck, and even rode herself on a calliope's horse that was a-playin'.

Talk'n' Sels Floto circus as a whole is no wonder, the horse from the little Bing'ng Kids of Island Alta said that it was "the largest straight circus in the world." It sure is and it is fitting to a degree. Folks run to it fast and with the U. R. and see somethin' worth lookin' at.

HIGH SCHOOL TRAFFIC MEET HEARS TALKS

Graham and Robinson Explain Issues; Pres. Asher B. Wilson Occupies the Chair

The attendance at the Twin Falls high school last evening for the Southern Idaho Traffic Association was small but those present were thoroughly convinced that such an organization was the only solution of our rate problem. Several farmers from various localities in and about this city together with a number of business men were present.

Chairman Asher B. Wilson of the chamber of commerce presided and introduced the various speakers. The speakers of the evening were John Graham and C. A. Robinson. Both speakers emphasized the fact that something must be done to correct these evils and discriminations again the settlers along the branch lines and especially in the Twin Falls tract.

Mr. Graham stated that on the 16,000 acres of potatoes which were grown on this tract we pay a penalty of over $450,000. Unless we organize thoroughly in this state we cannot overcome this unjust discrimination.

Mr. Robinson explained the method of raising the quota for this traffic association and urged those present to get behind the movement as the best solution of our difficulties.

FIRST RELIEF TRAIN STARTS

Coach of Relief Workers and Box Cars With Peasants Runs

RIGA, Aug. 27.—The first train bearing American relief administration workers to the famine-stricken regions of Russia, was speeding on its way today, while other expeditions to follow were being rapidly organized here.

It would be impossible to duplicate the sight as hundreds of peasants Latvian and Russian, clad in picturesque, native costumes, crowded about the platform to bid the American relief workers godspeed.

Suddenly there was a commotion. The crowd parted, and the bridegroom-business-like figure of Carroll, of the A.R.A., hustled down the platform.

Six other members of the relief administration's first detachment, including Harry Fisher of New York and Vance Elston Turner, who were added at the last moment, appeared and the time for departure arrived.

While the little wood furnace which engine was pulling about the yards, making up the train, the Americans climbed into their pointed wooden car, reminiscent of the car's "dairy coach."

The most touching picture of the scene was furnished by the twelve box cars behind.

Here were huddled 500 emigrants, conjuring up a picture of cattle on their way to the stockyards of Chicago. They were Russians going home. Here was the real story of Russia's sorrow. The smoky lantern lighting the freight cars, revealed the emaciated faces of hundreds of little children, pinched with hunger. There was stolid grief in bright eyes which lifted to meet mine.

Further along another group of peasants gazed quietly at two shiny new and expensive automobiles, mounted on a flat car, "labelled" American Relief Administration.

MORE TROUBLE

MASON CITY, Iowa.—Speaking before two thousand people at a park here last night—the fifth Council Bluffs, New York socialist campaigner, was yanked from her speaking platform in the middle of a speech on Russia. Mrs. Hanfiatt told the United Press today.

Members of the kidnapping party were said to have declared that they "preferred to be known as the Ku Klux Klan." Rumors of the formation of an Iowa branch of the southern organization have been persistent in Iowa this summer.

PROSPECT IMPROVES

DENVER.—Improvement in labor and business conditions throughout northern Colorado and western Nebraska was predicted today as the result of the harvest of sugar beets which begins September 15. Upwards of $15,000,000 will be paid farmers of these sections for sugar beets. Work will be provided for several thousand men.
