LODGE PLEADS FOR ADOPTION OF TREATY

Senate Must Choose Between Four-Power Pacific Treaty and Unlimited Competition and War—Acceptance of This Treaty Is Only Means of Ending War and Limit Armament—Lodge Denies Any Serious Obligation—Arms Conference Is Experiment—Fight May Be Made on Treaty.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Senator Lodge today declared the senate must choose between the four-power Pacific treaty, with naval limitation and peace, or a renewal of the old Japanese alliance, unlimited naval competition and war.

In a speech urging ratification of the four-power Pacific treaty, Lodge said, its acceptance is the only means of ending the Anglo-Japanese alliance, of making possible the naval holiday provided for in the 5-5-3 treaty. Defeat of the treaty, Lodge said, would mean failure of the arms conference.

He left the inference that the United States could not ratify the naval limitation treaty if the four-power pact, or wars, not approved, because the Anglo-Japanese alliance then would confront a reduced American navy.

The treaty, Lodge said, substitutes the assurance of peace for the arrangements and calculations of war. At the same time it keeps the United States "clear of all alliances of any sort, which are in their very nature alliances, breeders of war and which always have hidden behind them penalties and force."

Lodge Denies Any Obligation

Lodge denied that the pact imposes on the United States any obligation except to meet with the other signatories, and consult in case of any controversy arising or in case of aggression by some outside power, not a signatory.

"Let me first say," began Lodge, "that the American delegation was united in the desire to secure results from the conference which would, if possible, give to the world relief in some measure the burdens of taxation imposed by the existence of armies and fleets, and the possibilities in armaments of protect the future peace and safety of the United States."

Three Objectives Sought.

The three objectives sought, he stated, he said, were abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, naval limitation and relief for China.

"The present treaty," he said, "ends the alliance which was the most dangerous element in our relations with the Far East. The alliance created a growing feeling of suspicion not only in the United States but in Canada. On the other side it tended to create the belief that it was a threat which encouraged the war spirit in immobilized England, and prevented efforts of her influence in the cause of peace.

"Removal of the alliance created the situation in which it was possible to bring about an agreement for reduction of naval armament.

"While that alliance existed reduction of naval armament was difficult; it not impossible. Its dangers should bear in mind that the defeat of the four-power treaty would endanger the treaty for the limitation of naval armament and the failure of the naval treaty would shock and startle the world and literally paralyze the disarmament movement. The failure of the four-power treaty would mean the failure of the conference. Let there be no illusion on that point."

Arms Conference Is Experiment

The work of the arms conference is only an experiment, Lodge said. "But I have faith," he said, "that the sense of the better instincts of mankind are all with us in the effort." If we continue to preach peace, he said, the nations will come to realize that we desire to deal with them and believe they are all actuated by the purest of motives, nothing can ever do us any harm."

"The United States has never permitted failure or defeat to be written in its history." She will not permit it now."

Politics did not enter into the deliberations of the American delegation, he said.

Wilson and Borah Plan Fight.

Democratic circles buzzed today with gossip concerning reports which were "permitted" to leak out that former President Wilson, wishing the treaty defeated, is cooperating with Senator Borah instead of with democratic senators. Democrats insisted they had no word from Wilson, if anything, is for the treaty. Joseph P. Tumulty, Wilson's former secretary, and Bernard M. Baruch have been co-workers "keeping Borah informed on Wilson's attitude and furnishing the Idaho senator material for opposing the treaty."

CHICAGO CASHIER ARRESTED IN DENVER

COMMITTEE IS SANGUINE OVER LARGE DISTRICT

Propulsion Meets With Favor Where Undertaked—Facts Will Be Presented at Meetings—Vital Matter Overlooked by Many

That the proposition for a big irrigation district is growing in favor is the opinion of the canal board and the committee on the subject which is meeting today at the headquarters of the Twin Falls Canal company, and it was said that the movement is in favor would be practically unanimous if the facts now made known as it is hoped to make them known at the meetings which it is planned to start next week to get the report.

The meeting today was presided over by Ivan G. Lincoln, chairman, who is also president of the canal board.

Among the points emphasized at the recent meeting here by the visiting delegation the following is said to have been overlooked:

Construction of the reservoir will forever banish the short water year and provide insurance against futures, thus placing these farmers on a continuing profit basis, and, in addition, supply water for an excess of a half million acres of arid land which is now largely unirrigated.

This storage water will also serve, in addition, a considerable area of dry farm land being operated with intermittent success. Loss of crops thereon in years of drouth, and consequent reduction of crops, renders it extremely difficult to operate them at a profit. Unless water is provided it is feared abandonment of much of this property may be forced.

The American Falls reservoir site occupies a strategic position in the water shed, and when the reservoir is completed will afford complete control of the entire Snake river flow, making it possible to utilize to the best advantage the entire stream.

"If the American Falls project should be completed now, government revenue contribution might be undertaken, tending to make the American Falls measure even a stronger in the future." The distribution of water in other directions would add to the improbability of construction over being proceeded with."

"Should the work at American Falls be suspended now, it would produce a disastrous effect upon all lines of industry, and set back agriculture in the Snake river valley for many years."

"There is more land in Southern Idaho than there is water to irrigate it, and also a great demand for water for power purposes. It goes without saying that Snake river water is not sufficient to irrigate all the land available for irrigation. The present plan is designed to make sure a full water supply to land now under cultivation, and that provide for new lands. If the present scheme is to be abandoned, no projects will be able to get priority for 1922 water rights."

100 BARRELS OF BONDED WHISKEY IS STOLEN

CITIZENS TALK STREETS WITH GUNS AND REVOLVERS ACCOUNT OF NIGHT RIDERS

PELLOWS, Calif., March 8.—Citizens walked the streets here today with revolvers and firearms openly displayed, and with holsters swung in convenient positions.

The terror of the "night riders" swept the town, upon receipt of further warnings from the mysterious raiders that certain places must be closed up and numerous citizens and officials leave the district.

EXPEDITION WILL TRY TO CAPTURE GREAT PLESIOSSAURUS

BUENOS AIRES, March 8.—An expedition, under direction of Clement O'Neill, director of the Buenos Aires museum of natural history, sailed Saturday for the Patagonian wilderness to capture dead or alive the prehistoric plesiosaurus reported existing there.

The hunters will be equipped with harpoons and firearms and will be ready to do battle if need be. O'Neill has asked for scientific volunteers. Dr. O'Neill said today there had been reports of plesiosaurus being seen in the region where Martin Blatt and his Englishman, claims to have discovered one.

"This remote region, miles from a railroad, is known as the graveyard of the prehistoric period, in which the plesiosaurus lived. It abounds in skeletons and other relics of the age of giant monsters, such as the lothsaurus and other sea dinosaurs," Dr. O'Neill believes it possible that one or more plesiosaurus may still be living. It is that lost world among the lofty tablelands of his contemporaries a methuselah and antediluvian days.

"The expedition upon arriving at Lake Cardiel, about 700 miles south of Buenos Aires, will make its headquarters in the giant reptile is supposed to be lurking, will construct a boat and search the water for the mysterious creature. If we find it, photographs can be taken after the plan is to carry it back to Buenos Aires for the zoo. Otherwise it will be embalmed; equipment for this will be carried by the hunters.

"If a plesiosaurus is found it will be a great step for science, organizers of the expedition said. Scientists will be able to learn about the functioning of the pineal gland, whether the third frontal eye functions, whether the nerves of the Japanese brain, the brain and spinal medulla or has independent activating ganglion.

"If Sheffield really has seen one of the monsters alive it will be of great importance to science," said Dr. O'Neill. "It will likely be about 18 or 20 feet long with a body like a whale, with a long neck."

Dr. O'Neill does not believe this plesiosaurus actually lived in prehistoric times. He thinks it linked to modern ages by many generations and that he-own years are probably not more than 50.

He added he had received reports of traces of other species of prehistoric beasts in Patagonia. One was the Neomylodon, about the size of a hippopotamus. He said he had found bones with fresh gristle attached were found in a cave.

Sheffield's letter to O'Neill followed receiving your letter of Jan. 5 in which you in the center of the lake an animal with a large swan-like head, its movement in the water suggests the body of a crocodile."

POWER PERMIT FOR CONTACT LINE GRANTED

Idaho Power Company Granted Permits to Construct Power Line From Shoshone Falls to Contact—San Francisco and Oklahoma Capital Invested—Will Cost $150,000.

Permits for construction of an electric power line from Great Shoshone Falls to Contact has "been issued by the Idaho Power company, it is a corporation composed of San Francisco and Oklahoma capitalists, as a result of agreements drafted in Salt Lake City Monday and payment to the company of the initial sum required. On completion of the deal a line will be constructed at a cost of $150,000 from which it is expected to furnish power and light to Contact for a period of 10 years, if the end of 10 years, according to the agreement which has been drafted, but not yet signed by all concerned, the Idaho Power company will repurchase the system.

Money Put Up

The money from the San Francisco partners is already up and the Oklahoma capitalist wired to draw on him for the sum of $70,000 necessary to complete the deal, but the San Francisco men deemed it better that he should wait, as no certain details regarding activities now in the pipe-line have been made. All those identified with the new corporation have mining interests in Contact and have taken the step with assurance that the Idaho Central railroad will be built in every short time. They will use the power and light in their own mines and sell to others.

The work of construction will be done by the Idaho Power company, which has the facilities for rapid construction ready to go to work when spring comes.

It is expected to secure a franchise for the town of Contact, it is said.

The corporation has a similar system at Jerbidoe.

RUSSIA WILL ASK FOR LOAN OF $500,000,000

Europe Will Be Asked to Aid Russia in Reconstruction by Supplying Raw Materials for Foreign Credits—Russia Will Oppose League of Nations—Damage Will be Claimed for Certain Campaigns During War on Her Soil and She Will Try to Pay Debts.

(Copyright, 1922, United Press)

MOSCOW, March 8.—Soviet Russia will send a delegation to the Genoa economic conference with the following proposals and demands:

1. An international loan to Russia of $500,000,000.

2. European reconstruction to be accomplished by Russia supplying raw materials in exchange for foreign credits.

3. Germany must be permitted to cooperate directly with Russia.

4. The league of nations must not be forced upon Russia or the central empires.

A fifth Russian demand, namely for payment for damages caused by the campaigns of Kolchak and Denikin, will be incorporated in a soviet promise to pay the debts of former Russian governments.

It is with a business program of this sort that bolshevik envoys will appear at the council table at Genoa April 10. Proposals of the delegates will be magnificent—but not communistic. The "internationale" idea will be left in Moscow.

A chief critics of the soviet demands which may, when presented, at the conference table, surprise allied statesmen, was given the United Press by a high authority.

International Loan.

The Kremlin intends that the reconstruction conference shall arrange a big international loan to Russia. This is desired to facilitate reconstruction, but more to give the present government a firm foothold.

Raw Materials for Credits.

The Russian delegation will have "in pocket" a thorough working out plan for European reconstruction. Russia will supply materials in exchange for foreign credits. The soviets have included in their demands, participation, with the use of Germany's industrial machinery, both for the needs of Russia and the betterment of Europe.

Russo-German Cooperation.

The Kremlin is in communication with the Wilhemstrasse. The extent of Russo-German cooperation at the Genoa will be determined by the outcome of these secret negotiations. It is certainly be Russo-German opportunism, that is, that will help the German cause as long as it will further her own.

The League of Nations.

The "soviet" will oppose the league of nations. Tchitcherin, soviet foreign minister, and probable head of the delegation, does not believe in such association of nations.

RED CROSS SPENT OVER NINE MILLION FOR DISABLED DEBT

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Dr. James John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, in made public a report to the central committee showing that during the calendar year 1921 the Red Cross spent $9,782,000 in assistance to disabled veterans of the World War. Of this sum $3,000,000 was disbursed by the Red Cross chapters and the balance by the national organization.

The expenditures by the national organization, amounting to $2,782,000, included $1,100,000 for direct service through officials of the national organization to disabled ex-service men, virtually all of which was for those disabled in the World War. $1,682,000 expended for the Red Cross Institute for the Blind. There was expended in promoting and establishing chapter work for disabled veterans $956,000.

By far the greater part of Red Cross service to the disabled, all of which is supplementary to the relief provided by the government, is accomplished by the chapters, the local organization of neighbors coming more frequently into contact with these men and their families. Of 3,648 chapters more than 2,500 were, on October 31, 1921, still maintaining service to veterans.

The principal forms of service are as follows:

The Red Cross Chapter aids in putting the disabled man in effective relation with the government that he may obtain his full rights. This in itself is often a technical and difficult job, involving the filling out of numerous detailed forms and procuring necessary evidence and affidavits.

The chapter helps the disabled man and his family in time of trouble, such as sickness of any of the family, (or legal difficulties), discouragement, Forestalling payment by the government of claims by chapter also stands ready to aid the disabled, financially, when necessary, including all forms of assistance, the report shows that the chapter rendered services in more than 20,000 instances during each month of 1921.

Chapters with jurisdiction containing hospitals, district offices of training centers of the Veterans' Bureau provide service to many disabled men transitorily in their territory. Such assistance frequently requires large expenditures with the result that some chapters require assistance from national headquarters to finance this service.

Many chapters provide recreation and various personal comforts for veterans at training centers and in government hospitals, either individually or in cooperation with the American Legion, Knights of Columbus and other patriotic organizations. Chapters also provide funds for information concerning conditions at home when such information is necessary to the comfort or physical welfare of those in hospitals.

The national organization maintains medical, social service in hospitals and district offices of the Veterans Bureau, functions of national home for disabled volunteer soldiers, institutes for December, 1921, is typical of the work, shows a Red Cross staff in full-time attendance during service to 40,000 men. Chapter volunteers also help in this work, which includes instruction in bedside medical histories and maintaining conditions with the families.

Through Gene Gerrard, the famous movie star, the Red Cross has brought cheer to disabled men in the hospitals.

"Playing with light as a means of emotional expression is a new fine art," Mrs. Mary Hallock-Greenewalt, of Philadelphia, stated yesterday. Mrs. Greenewalt is the inventor of the color organ now being successfully used in New York City. This remarkable instrument depicts emotion by means of varying lights. Art critics have stated that the instrument has the capacity, in some fundamental way, of playing on the human soul.

"It was necessary, to invent a 'light score' in order to play the color organ," Mrs. Greenewalt explained. "This score is based on darkness and brightness. The rise and fall of the emotion in music is enhanced by light and this organ plays with light as a musician does with the keyboard. There are only seven colors, violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red. My organ uses shades of these colors to produce an infinite variety of light feeling. Though there are only seven basic colors, there may be as many as 207 different shades of red produced.

"I call this expression of the meaning of color, the sixth fine art.

"The 'light player' is a small instrument similar to a spinet. Seated in front of it, the player works a set of pedals which direct the travels of a rheostat across the point of contact with groups of colored light. Through these lovely shades of light, emotions are expressed."

Mrs. Greenewalt has given the Arabic name of Nouther to her invention. The word means "essence" or "empress of light."

Following are some of the "good things" performed by different boys:

Good Turns Performed

During the tournament I helped the coach of Hurley rub down two of his men before the game.

Pulled a calf's head out of a fence when it couldn't pull it out.

Cranked a Ford for a lady.

Put some hot water in a car for a man that stops at our place.

Lit a fire in the furnace of the Baptist church for a woman.

Went into the country and got a book for my mother.

Gave a woman a seat.

I helped a drayman load two trunks at the depot and then helped him carry them into the house, which he would otherwise had to do alone.

I put out a fire on the frosting board. The landlady had carelessly put her hot iron on an iron plate with a hole in the center. The cloth on the frosting board had caught fire.

I kept a boy at my room all night because he wanted to stay for the tournament and did not have enough money to stay at a hotel.

I watched the popcorn stand while the owner went to his warehouse for some supplies.

A guy at school put a thumb jack in a brother-scouts seat, and I took it out as obeying the scout laws.

I saw a man slip on a banana peeling on Shoshone street, and he did not throw it away. I picked it up and threw it into the gutter.

I walked out into the Cotter Buick Million and Hazel's a lady's fire for her so she could stay at our place for supper.

Took a piece of chocolate that was in a girl's seat. A scout put it in too.

I took some ice cream and something else to a sick friend.

I had the car and I saw a boy walking home who lived out in the country, so I picked him up and took him home.

I rolled a fellow who was crossing the street with his head down. A car was coming toward him and as I rolled, he looked up and saw the car and was able to keep from walking into it.

Carried a crippled girl up stairs at The Twin Falls High School.

Gave a man who was sick a ride in a car. I was going in the opposite direction and was in a hurry, but I knew he was sick so I turned around and took him to the doctor's office.

Found a boy mutilating a sign board and made him quit.

There was a piece of barbwire in the road, and I moved it, so it couldn't do any harm.

A large log was lying across the sidewalk, and I moved it so no one would fall over it.

BLANK CARTRIDGES WOUNDED

Duel Scene in "Under the Lash" Has Most Unexpected Finale

Russell Simpson and Ashton Hamilton, playing character lead and leading man respectively in Gloria Swanson's second Paramount starring vehicle "Under the Lash," which comes to the Idaho theatre today, had a blank cartridge gun duel in pitch darkness for a scene in that picture, which proved realistic for Mr. Simpson. The wax wadding from Mr. Hamilton's cartridge struck Mr. Simpson just above the eye which swelled so much and proved so painful that work had to be suspended for the evening. Had the wadding struck a little lower, the actor's eye might have been put out, or he might, been temporarily blind for some time. The scenes of the picture are laid in South Africa and are said to be intensely thrilling.

"THE MAN OF THE FOREST" COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

All of the elements which have made the previous Zane Grey-Benjamin Hampton Productions so popular are embodied in the newest Hodkins production, "The Man of the Forest," which will be shown at this theater next week. There is romance, action, adventure, humor, drama and suspense. And the entire production is mounted with the infinite attention to detail which Benjamin Hampton knows so well how to achieve. The exact, to, is an added factor in favor of this photoplay for it is made up of some of the most popular players of the present day.

Claire Adams, Robert McKim, Carl Gantvoort, Jean Hersholt, Eugenia Gilbert—the tried and true—play the principal parts in "The Man of the Forest"—the newest Henry B. Hampton production which comes to this theater next week. "The Man of the Forest—a Hodkinson release—is the screen version of Zane Grey's novel of the same name.

MOVIE PRODUCERS CLAIM THAT REPRODUCTION OF CLASSIC LITERATURE STIMULATES READING

The screen production of famous novels and plays is greatly stimulating the reading of good literature, according to Maurice Tourneur, who is making a film version of "Lorna Doone," and has produced in the past such stories as "Treasure Island," "The Last of The Mohicans," "The Blue Bird" and others.

A survey of libraries, booksellers and publishing houses made by Mr. Tourneur indicates that immediately following the film appearance of a famous book, the demand for that book and for others by the same author has greatly increased. A revival of interest in the works of several noted authors has resulted during the past year from the screen production of one of more of their novels.

A live man should not have a widow.

Yesterday is gone, today is yours, tomorrow you may not be here. Get busy!

A Buhl spinster says a lot of blonds are dyeing for their future husbands now.

A newspaper is the only circulating medium that is always worth more than par.

When a man is dissatisfied with his home it is more than likely that half the fault is his.

A Twin Falls movie man says the chief problem in most social condition plays is the box office receipts.

A traveling salesman says a lot of cigars here should be called spark plugs on account of the poor ignition.

A Kimberly youth asked his girl to kiss and make up. She said that if he was careful she would not have to.

Time goes the most rapidly when you have a note to pay—and the slowest when you have one coming due to you.

Heaven would be robbed of all its pleasures should it turn out to be a place where we would learn of all the times we have been deceived and of all the lies and fibs that have been told us by those we trusted.

ONE EVERY SECOND

Boston and its Ponzi, Chicago, not to be outdone by a little city of that sort, has several of them at once, and is now engaged in making an inventory of the wreckage, the worst of which appears to be among the Lithuanians who live "back of the yards," and who begged Bischoff, a twenty-five year old promoter, and several others to take their money and who asked nothing in return except a promise of large gains. To Judge Landis, this youthful Ponzi said, "I owe $1,500,000 and I have less than $1000 in cash." There is some interest in the fact that these foreign-speaking people had so much money to invest, for that sort of thing would not have been true in the days before prohibition, even of the kind Chicago knows, came into being. But there is more interest in the new revelation of the fact that a sucker is born every second and that there is no difficulty in catching such folk with a glittering bait. Most of them do not read the newspapers carefully; many of them cannot read at all; and consequently they learn, not from other people's experience, but from their own. The danger is that, when the break comes, habits of thrift and industry will be sadly broken down. The country is full of swindlers, and for every such there are a hundred "easy marks." Sometimes the swindlers sell stock; sometimes they are after graft in connection with new church buildings and equipment; ministers are said to be easy prey for such kind. Once again the warning is raised. He who does not heed has only himself to blame. Greed for quick returns destroys the eyesight of many good men. But they require hindsight.

OUR SCHOOL LEVY REDUCED

Before offering criticism of the action of the school board in eliminating from the curriculum of the high school those branches which you especially wished to see retained, canvass the situation as carefully as the members of the board have done.

Keep in mind that a reduction of school levy amounting to $25,000 or $30,000 has been demanded by the taxpayers.

Certain charges against the district—sinking fund, interest, insurance—remain fixed charges and are not to be avoided or diminished at will.

Instructional service, transportation and janitor service present practically the only avenues along which retrenchment in the amount demanded is possible.

Members of the school board felt the utmost reluctance to take a seeming backward step along the line of complete and effective education for the young people.

The board is fully aware of the high reputation which the Twin Falls schools have always borne. In large measure that high reputation has been established on the principle of "hang the cost."

The district is now paying interest charges on a bond issue of $60,000 voted to cover an expense account which accumulated in establishing that high standard and excellent reputation to which we point with pride.

There is always more or less personal humiliation to be endured through assuming a contracted basis of expenditures after an era of regardless expenditure.

Such expenditure we have had. Such careful spending we must now practice if we would save ourselves from bankruptcy.

The courage and the good sense necessary to face the world frankly and say, "We can't afford to do these things until we have paid our debts," is ours.

No one pretends that it is pleasant; it is merely necessary. The bright spot in the horizon is found in the unquestioned fact that we are still giving our children an excellent opportunity for education. They will prepare for college, for business, for teaching as before.

If they bring to school the spirit for getting knowledge and training the things we cannot afford will never be missed. If not, they are useless anyway.

KIMBERLY

Reports from Mrs. Swearingen who accompanied her husband (Noah) to Rochester last week are that he was standing the trip well.

The families of Ben Potter and Bruce Hequa who have been "flu" sufferers, are reported better. Also Mrs. Charley Bugle, who seemed threatened with pneumonia.

Some unscrupulous person visited the stock pen of Allen Whitney two miles southeast of Kimberly last Friday night and butchered a fine brood sow belonging to Jim Shumaker, which was in Mr. Whitney's keeping, hiding the entrails in a straw stack.

Albert Brown, Joe Hale, Jim Hobson and others represented the Kimberly Lodge of Odd Fellows at the Buhl contest last Saturday night.

Mr. Curtis, a brother of Harry Curtis, Kimberly's popular transfer man, arrived in Kimberly last Saturday from Grand Rapids, Iowa, expecting to make Kimberly his future home. Trouble he will make as good a citizen as Berry, we extend to him a hearty welcome.

The Kimberly school children received a royal treat Monday morning in the way of a trip to the agricultural fields of California, thru the Gem theater moving picture machine. A representative of the Sun Maid Raisin Association gave the faculty an invitation and the entire school was dismissed between the hours of ten and eleven and the pictures were both interesting and educational.

Rev. Joy Hanford of the Methodist church of Kimberly announces that on Friday evening, March 10, a Neighborhood Fellowship social will be given.

Program begins 7:30 sharp. Games, speeches. Refreshments later. All interested in the church and its program for the community are welcome. There is no admission charge.

WOOL POOL FORMING UP IN IDAHO FALLS

The Times, Twin Falls, Ida.

Gentlemen:

There is a wool pool forming, at Idaho Falls and those people are willing to co-operate with us, if we can get a carload of wool or more together. I have some wool myself which I'd like to sell, and there might be a lot of small sheep owners who would like to use this opportunity to sell their wool at a decent price. Would you like to do the community a favor by running a little notice in your paper, advising the people of this chance? Whoever wants to pledge his wool for the Idaho Falls pool ought to let me know at once what amount he has on hand.

Jesse H. Nielsen, of Idaho Falls, who is the secretary for the pool, says that bids will be opened March 15, so there will not be much waiting for the returns.

Thanking you in advance for your kindness, I remain, yours very truly,

EMIL MARTENS.

Kimberly, Ida., A. 2.

Association THREW Recommendations Made on Insufficient Facts—Forty Attend the Banquet Preceding Its Sale Today

Petitions to the county commissioners protesting against the proposal to abolish the Twin Falls county fair were drafted at the meeting and banquet of the Duroc association at the Perrine last night at which time it was voted to join the state association. There were about 40 present at the gathering and all were unanimous regarding the future of the Duroc in southern Idaho. The meeting was held on the eve of the big sale at the McMaster barn today.

The meeting was in charge of Secretary Harrison McKnight of Idaho Falls.

The speakers said that they thought that recommendations regarding the county fair at the recent taxation hearings here had been made without sufficient understanding of the facts in the case and on suggestion of an insufficient number of recommendations. It was contended that Twin Falls has received a national reputation because of its livestock fair exhibit.

Text of Resolutions

The resolutions, in the form of petitions follow:

"We, the members of the Twin Falls County Duroc-Swine Breeders' association, respectfully call your attention to the development made in the quality and numbers of Duroc swine exhibited since the establishment of the Twin Falls county fair.

"Our attention has been called to a movement on the part of a certain organization to cripple or entirely do away with our Twin Falls county fair that has gained the enviable reputation of being the greatest county exhibit of pure bred live stock in the entire northwest. It is a well known fact that the future development of Twin Falls county is more dependent on the live stock industry than any other single industry in the county. The promotion and development of higher class live stock has been brought about in the United States by the exhibition, comparison and study of superior animals of all kinds and will continue to be developed along this line in every section of the United States.

"Inasmuch as Twin Falls county already stands as the foremost county by reason of its development and organization insofar as it is concerned, our Twin Falls county fair, we most respectfully ask your support and influence in the further development and construction of this institution which means so much to the future of farmers, business men and everyone in Twin Falls county.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITENS HANDS

Press the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter-pint of harmless and delightful lemon-bleach lotion to soften and whiten your rough or chapped hands. This lemon-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerin and rose water to smooth the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesn't irritate. —Adv.

Of the number of cases arrested, 91 ex-service men are now taking vocational training.

EARLY DECISION ON RATES LIKELY THINKS GEO. ERB

President of Public Utilities Commission Hopeful in Regard to Favorable Action by Interstate Commerce Commission Shortly

BOISE, March 8.—On his return here from Washington yesterday President George Erb of the public utilities commission gave out an interview in which he sustained the position of Leonard Way of Twin Falls relative to the probability of early and favorable decision in regard to railroad rates as a consequence of the hearing just closing before the interstate commerce commission.

Speaking of the testimony of other witnesses at the hearing, Mr. Erb said:

"The hearings were not yet concluded when I left Washington, but were expected to be completed today. Two days of oral argument were to be allowed thereafter, and no briefs were to be filed. Perhaps no decision will be handed down until the fall or later, but it would not be surprising if partial decisions on certain commodities were prepared right away and made effective, pending final adjustment of the whole.

"Based on the careful and comprehensive showing and exhibits submitted for the intermountain states under the direction of H. W. Prickett of Salt Lake these states may well hope for favorable results on the basic commodities in which they are interested were treated in the testimony presented. Ample time was given to showing the effects of present rates on the movement of livestock, potatoes, hay and grain, fruits, lumber, ores and other products.

Manufacturers Appear

"On the other hand, the country's big manufacturing interests were at the hearings with armies of witnesses and a wealth of statistical data, making a concerted effort for reductions in rates on manufactured products to correspond with those already allowed on hay and grain before any further adjustments are considered. There was also a hard fight made by railroad executives and shippers for horizontal reductions instead of the proportionate value and distance deductions needed so badly by the intermountain territory.

"The day before I left, Washington a decision had been prepared and sent to the printer on the Murphy-Wylder through-billing case, which may be expected within ten days. The nature of the decision was not stated. This case was instituted in April, 1920, and has long been pending under a recommendation by an examiner for the interstate commerce commission. It was brought by the state of Idaho through the public utilities commission against the Oregon Short Line Railroad company, seeking to have through rates established from main line point to point on the Caldwell-Wilder and Nampa-Murphy branches.

"The supreme court decision of Feb. 23 establishing the authority of the interstate commerce commission over intrastate rates will probably lead to an early decision adverse to Idaho in the matter of the American Express company's petition for 25 per cent increase in rates on intrastate traffic, appealed to the interstate commerce commission from the Idaho decision denying the increase.

"However, the Feb. 23 decision is quite likely to hasten new legislation defining the respective jurisdictions of the state and federal commissions. It was handed down at just the right time in hearings held by the congressional committee on interstate and foreign commerce on two bills introduced for this purpose to have a quickening effect."

Mitchell Statement Regarding Salaries

In a statement explaining the action of the board reducing salaries and its significance Tuesday, Superintendent M. C. Mitchell said, in part:—

"The new schedule adopted for next year is as follows:

High School

Salaries of $1200 are lowered to $1150; salaries of $1500 are lowered to $1700; salaries of $1740 are lowered to $1600; salaries of $1500 are lowered to $1400; salaries of $1400 remain at $1400.

The new minimum for beginning teachers are $1200, for those applicants who meet the scholarship and training requirements and have had at least one year of successful teaching experience, or $1200 in case they have had no teaching experience.

Intermediate and Elementary

Salaries of $1600 are lowered to $1500; salaries of $1500 are lowered to $1400; salaries of $1400 are lowered to $1300; salaries of $1300 are lowered to $1200; salaries of $1200 remain at $1200.

The new minimums for beginning teachers are $1100 for those applicants who meet the scholarship and training requirements and have had at least one year of successful teaching experience, or $1000 in case they have had no teaching experience.

It is apparent upon examination that the reductions range from seven per cent to less than 10 per cent affecting the higher salaries to the greatest degree and not affecting the lower salaries. This variation is based upon the fact that those teachers who now receive the higher salaries are the ones who were affected by the one hundred dollar increase to each teacher in November, 1919, and by the very appreciable increases at the time the salary schedule was adopted in the spring of 1920.

"Lawrence Hubbard, Orrell Tucker and Wesley Meitch, composing the affirmative team, expounded the qualities and virtues of the dish rag while Owen Fletcher, Owen Gaskill and Morris Moore, on the negative, championed the cause of the broom. The judges, Warren E. Crabtree, Harold W. Merritt, and A. I. O'Reilly, decided two in favor of the dish rag and one voted for the broom. Other features of the meeting were a demonstration on the growing and marketing of head lettuce, by County Leader A. I. O'Reilly; a talk "Why Boys Agriculture Students Should Obtain a Good Education," by H. W. Merritt; and a discussion on the value of the agriculture club, by Robert Nicholson.

The boys decided to go on record unanimously in favor of staging a big "blow-out" at the next club meeting, to be held the first Monday in April, to which each club member will bring "his one best girl." The entertainment will probably be a big ice cream feed.

Work and earn. 2. Make a budget of Record expenditures. 4. Have a bank account. 5. Carry a life insurance policy. 6. Make a will. 7. Own your own home. 8. Pay your bills promptly. 9. Invest in reliable securities. 10. Share with others.

Buhl Firemen Are Prompt in Putting Out Serious Fire

That the Buhl fire company acted with rare ability and promptness, using good judgment at all times in extinguishing the fire that destroyed the contents of the Masonic hall and ruined much of the drug stock of Dayley & Dietrich in the Citizens bank building yesterday afternoon, was the story told today by W. D. Lawrence who was in the western metropolis when the fire broke out. It is thought that the blaze was caused by defective wiring in the hall, it is said.

The flames also burned the floor and destroying the contents of the hall, also ruined the furniture. The fire company came out at once when the alarm was given. Water was the cause of the loss in the drug company. The rest of the building was uninjured.

Mr. Lawrence was in Buhl on business for the auctioneering firm of E. A. Wilson at the time. Estimates of loss were not available when he left, he stated.

If you want to sell home or business property, state the facts clearly and concisely in the want ads.

RIVERSIDE MINE COMPANY BUYING MUCH MACHINERY

Shipment from Salt Lake City Takes Place Friday—Manager Says Road from Rogerson to Wells Assured Beyond Any Doubt

"We have purchased a lot of machinery for our mines," said W. T. McArdle of the Riverside Mining company of Conjuer, who returned last evening from Salt Lake City, "and the shipment will be made from that point to Rogerson Friday. We expect to haul the machinery out at once and begin installation without delay. We will haul from Rogerson, because the road from Wells will not be open for some months.

"There is not the slightest doubt about the construction of the Idaho Central railroad from Rogerson to Wells. Men who are on the ground have positive assurances on that point and I am convinced that they are correct."

Sugar Beets As Part Of Diversified Farming

"It seems to be conceded by all that diversified farming must be resorted to if we are able to survive at all and maintain the value of our land. Sugar beets should have a permanent place in the rotation if best results are to be obtained.

Suppose we start in this year on a plan like this, on an 80-acre farm: Say you have fifteen acres in alfalfa, ten acres to potatoes, twenty acres to sugar beets, four acres to beans, five acres to silos, five acres to red clover, two acres to orchard, farmstead and truck, four acres to oats and fifteen acres to wheat. Keep a few cows to help market the hay, eat up best oats and potatoes, a few hogs to clean up refuse after harvest and use up skim milk, a nice bunch of chickens. Commence by building a suitable chicken house for them, a comfortable pen for hogs and a place to keep milk cows comfortable. How about a comfortable place for best stock? Should we not have at least as comfortable a place for them as we have for our hogs? The Sugar company can get the help on time if the farmers are prepared to take care of them. In the past, this has not been the case. It is not possible to get the best results from beet workers or to secure the best workers unless the farmer provides comfortable quarters for them to live in. Should these workers stick part of your permanent population, then the labor question will solve itself, as the labor you have this year will want to return next year. The question of poor seed can also be solved if instead of planting seed deep enough to reach moisture, beet seed should never be planted more than one and one-half inches deep and moisture applied if necessary. Seed planted three or four inches deep will always be disappointing as the plants have not vitality enough to push through that much earth.
