JOHNSON MEN PREDICT G. O. P. DEFEAT IN 1924

Harding Affront Recalls Deadly Parallel of 1916 Hughes-Johnson Episode Which Lost the Election For the Republican Party. Some of Johnson's Friends Are Very Angry.

(Copyright 1923, by U. P.)

PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2—The deadly parallel was being drawn today between the 1923 episode of the Harding foreign relations speech and the 1916 incident of the Hughes affront to Senator Hiram Johnson of California.

Members of the president's official party who have been concerned somewhat about the possibilities inherent in Johnson's political popularity in California and elsewhere were strikingly reminded today of the consequences of the 1916 affair as the storm aroused by publication as a statement of Mr. Harding's foreign stationery speech to have been delivered here, continued to blow without abatement.

Some of Johnson's friends were so angry about this that they did not hesitate to predict that the incident though totally unlike the Hughes-Johnson troubles as to circumstances might bring about a similar result with respect to California in the 1924 presidential election. The speech was a challenge to Johnson on the third count, Russia and the four power Pacific treaty, under circumstances which make it impossible for Johnson to criticize the president's utterances in California, where Johnson's friends are legion and his enemies are least numerous. Nothing since the Hughes incident has caused such a stir.

Hughes, touring the country as a republican presidential candidate, put himself in the hands of an anti-Johnson faction of the state republican party. He toured the state without meeting Johnson, though they were at one time only a few miles apart in Long Beach and there is evidence to show that Hughes knew Johnson was under the same roof.

Harding Is Anti-Johnson

Ever since President Harding put Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto, Calif., into the cabinet, Johnson's friends and Johnson himself have been persuaded that the administration was as much anti-Johnson as Johnson was anti-administration. But in recent months, Johnson had appeared to be making peace overtures. It was marked by many that he seemed much more "regular" as a republican in his votes and attitude in the senate. This was construed variously, the most common interpretation being that the California senator wanted to be in good standing with the national republican administration in case they should make it possible for him to seek the 1924 nomination and that it would make him the logical choice in 1928 should Mr. Harding run in 1924.

Johnson was unable to continue this attitude when Mr. Harding asked the senate to approve American membership in the world court. Johnson, with isolationist senators saw in this move more than Hoover's influence. Johnson again became active in the opposition to the Harding Administration. Given Hard Blow

With farmers of the west and middle west dissatisfied and political dissatisfaction and unrest evident on every hand, Johnson's friends here declared that Hoover or his friends—whom they charge with responsibility for the speech episode—did the administration and the party at best a doubtful service by antagonizing Johnson's friends here. This, they say, is particularly true, they say, in view of the fact that Johnson is stronger today in California than he has been for some time. Even anti-Johnson leaders admit this to be the case. And unless Johnson himself passes the word to his friends and political supporters to "laugh it off" the 1923 incident is likely to make political history. The 1916 one did so for as this one state is concerned, they asert. They freely speculate on what this may mean should the 1924 presidential fight be close as was the case in 1916.

RUHR DISPUTE UNSETTLED BY NEW BRITISH ALLIED NOTE

LONDON, Aug. 2—Premier Stanley Baldwin told the house of commons today that French and Belgian replies to the British reparations note offer no prospect for a joint allied communication to Germany.

Not does there appear to be any chance of early settlement of the dispute over occupation of the Ruhr, the premier said.

Therefore, he continued, the government has decided, when consent of the allies is received, to present the recent correspondence to parliament.

It is hoped, Baldwin says, that the publication of this correspondence will convince the world of the necessity for prompt united action.

The prime minister urged that the allies open discussion that will lead to a general financial conference on Europe's ills.

Marquis Curzon, foreign minister, delivered an identical statement in the house of lords. He told the peers that Italy had expressed verbal agreement with the British note. In commons, Baldwin gave for the first time an outline of the contents of the British proposal for a joint allied reply to Germany—the proposal to which France and Belgium failed to agree. According to the premier, the note:

1—Pointed out that guarantees Germany offered must depend largely upon factors not mentioned in the latest Cuno memorandum, such as stabilization of the mark and balancing the German budget.

2—Declared no guarantee could be considered effective unless provision was made for some sort of international control.

3—Advised Germany to withdraw immediately ordinances fomenting passive resistance in the Ruhr and to disavow violence and sabotage.

4—With permission of the allies, Baldwin proposed to tell commons of the recent interchange of notes on reparations. But he made no threat of separate action. "We are still hopeful of securing allied unity," the prime minister declared, to the crowded house that had expected to hear a rupture of the entente, cheered.

Europe Is Sinking Rapidly

While Baldwin was urging that discussion which would lead to a financial conference be started at once, Curzon was warning the lords that Europe is sinking rapidly towards ruin and that there might not be time to wait while statesmen argued.

There is no prospect of the joint reply at present, however, one of an early settlement of the Ruhr dispute, Baldwin said, intimating refusal of France and Belgium on this point had been definite.

Curzon remarked in the house of lords that the continental allies had even neglected to refer to the draft of a proposed joint note to Germany sent them last week.

Britain Will Not Reply

Considerable astonishment, especially in French circles was expressed over the fact that neither Baldwin nor Curzon intimated Britain would reply separately to Germany. Rather the British plan seems to be to enforce her views through publicity and bring France and Belgium into line through force of world opinion.

Replying to questions in the house after he had made his statement, the premier said Britain will reply to the French and Belgium communications and will "leave no stone unturned to bring together and keep together the allied forces and to secure just payment from Germany."

Baldwin promised that should a crisis arise in allied relations, he would not hesitate to convoke parliament which appears today an earnest appeal for preservation of allied unity was the closing note of the prime minister's appearance before commons.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH TO HEAL BY FAITH

DENVER, Aug. 2—A faith healing school, the first of its kind known to have ever been held in any of the large churches in the United States will be held by the Protestant Episcopal denomination in Denver August 10 to 26.

Healing meetings, to which afflicted of all denominations and ailments are invited, will be held at St. Marks Episcopal church in the evening. Prominent clergy and laymen of the church from the United States and Canada will have charge of the school.

Since the remarkable results attributed to faith meetings of Aimee Zoompie McPherson of Los Angeles, and others who have treated supposedly incurable diseases and have claimed complete success in their spiritual antidotes, great interest has been manifested by all denominations and creeds in the healing processes. Never before, however, has a church of international renown disseminated the principles of faith healing publicly.

LLOYD GEORGE TO TOUR U. S. AND CANADA

Purpose of Visit Is to Thank Canadians for Service During the World War And to Get Acquainted With the People of United States. Will Come West.

(Copyright 1923 by U. P.)

LONDON, Aug. 2—David Lloyd George will sail for New York late in September on a tour which will take him into many of the cities of the United States and Canada.

His purpose, as he expressed it in making his plans known to the United Press, is to thank Canada for its "magnificent services" to the empire during the war and to become personally acquainted with the United States, its cities, its people and its political system.

Britain's war time premier, outstanding figure in Europe during the world conflict, will make several speeches during the trip and will visit America's national shrines. His first address will be delivered in Montreal, Quebec. He will go immediately after his arrival in New York.

He will travel by motor as well as by train, as he wants to get close to the people in the cities and towns through which he passes and, to use his own words, he desires to visit several of the smaller "main street" communities.

Lloyd George was busy today, sifting thousands of invitations from practically every state in the United States and the provinces of Canada, arranging his itinerary.

This itinerary is, tentatively, as follows: subject to extension or curtailment, depending on the time at his disposal, which is still uncertain.

He will start for New York late in September and will leave New York for Montreal the night of the day of his arrival.

Will Visit Montreal First

In Montreal the first speech of his tour will be made. Thence Lloyd George will go to Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago; Springfield, Ills., Indianapolis, possibly St. Louis and Cleveland and then to Pittsburgh, Washington and Richmond, Va.

From Richmond he will go on a motor trip over the Virginia battlefields and then to Philadelphia, Gettysburg, New York, where he will make a side trip to Scranton, Penn., before his departure for home.

The former premier, discussing his tour, said to the United Press:

"I desire to make clear that I have only one mission in America, namely to express my appreciation, as prime minister during the war, for Canada's magnificent services and sacrifices in behalf of the empire. My only other purpose is reciprocal education with regard to America.

"I am particularly eager to get personally acquainted with your great middle west. I would like to learn something at first hand of your political system and machinery. I want to meet not only your national leaders, but some of the representative men who dominate politics in the states and counties.

"I desire to visit enroute two or three of the smaller 'main street' towns. I hope to have an opportunity to motor, say, from Springfield, Illinois, to which I am attracted because of its associations with Lincoln, to Indianapolis for the purpose of viewing a typical farm region.

To Visit Kansas City

"I am most desirous of visiting Kansas City from which I have received cordial invitations from mayor and others and I hope to include it if possible, because I consider Kansas City the real heart of America. Also Scranton because I understand it has the largest proportional population in America.

"I have always been a student in civil war and hence desire to see the battlefields over which Stonewall Jackson and other brave men fought.

Wants to See Pacific States

"I would like to extend the tour further west, even to the Pacific coast. It is doubtful if it will be possible to do this on account of the limited time.

"Naturally, I hope to see the president in Washington. I am watching the course of his illness now with exceeding anxiety."

Lloyd George will be accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Megan Lloyd George and his private secretary, A. J. Sylvester. He will travel from New York through Canada on a Canadian Pacific Private car and through the United States on a private car subscribed for by American Welshmen. Those invitations were extended personally by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Only two set speeches on international topics are planned, for the United States, one in Chicago and one in New York. At Springfield, Ills., he will speak on Lincoln and the address at Gettysburg and Scranton will be especially designed to interest Welshmen. Brief informal talks will be made at luncheons and other functions at various points.

WOOL BUYING SHOWS BIG GAIN IN PRICE IN EAST

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 2—Business is rather spasmodic but it is reported that a good business in fine Australian wools was done at $1.75 for about 2,000 bales, the wool going to mills in New England. Prices are fairly stable, owing to the encouraging sales at the opening of the American Woolen company's women's lines. British aggressiveness, however, was checked somewhat by an estimate of the United States department of agriculture placing the wool clip at 228,961,000 pounds compared with 229,155,000 pounds in 1922.

OLDEST MEMBER OF ELKS LODGE DIES

Uncle Billy Hildreth Passes Away After Living 100 Years. He was a Civil War Veteran.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Aug. 2—J. H. "Uncle Billy" Hildreth, 100 years of age, the oldest member of the B. P. O. Elks lodge in the world, is dead in a hospital at Ouray, Colo., following an illness of the most peaceful pioneer careers of the west.

Only last year "Uncle Billy" attended the national G. A. R. meeting at Des Moines, and despite the century behind him looked as healthy and was as spry as any. On his hundredth birthday, March 31, special services were held by the Grand Junction chapter of Elks and messages were received from fellow Elks from every state in the union.

Running many "life and death" battles with Indians, "Uncle Billy" ventured unarmed into the Rocky mountains in 1859. He rode from St. Louis, then the western outpost of civilization, west into Utah, south to New Mexico and returned in time to serve in the union army through the civil war. He guided the first "tourists" into the Yellowstone park and was within two miles of Custer massacre on the Little Big Horn.

Hildreth last year sacrificed his long life, and the fact that he had never but once been seriously ill, to his regular supply of whiskey. He smoked half a dozen strong cigars daily up to his last sickness, which occurred only a few days before his death.

IMPERIAL WIZARD OF KU KLUX SUED FOR $100,000.00

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 2—H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan today was made defendant in a suit for $100,000 damages brought by George R. Kimbro, Jr., who alleged the klan official had intended to bring him into "public scandal, infamy and disgrace."

The suit resulted from an interview with Evans published in the Houston Press. Evans was quoted as saying:

"Kimbro is a hot air merchant. He is not a Klansman but a man who profited by organization of the klan, both personally and financially and now won't pay his debts. We believe he has humbugged us out of a large sum of money to us."

In his petition asking damages, Kimbro stated that as a result of the interview he has lost friends and some believe him guilty of embezzlement.

Following the recent declaration of martial law in Okmulgee county, the governor announced that he would place every county in the state under control of troops if necessary to stamp out mob law and violence.

OHIO CONVICTS MAY BE OUSTED BY CANADIANS

Governor of Ohio Has Taken Two Convict Trustees Across Border on His Vacation Trip. Federal Immigration Department Are Making An Investigation. Convicts May Be Deported.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2—Officials of the federal immigration department today started an investigation into the alleged violation of the immigration laws in connection with two convicted murderers who were brought across the Canadian border the by Governor Hunsley of Ohio as servants of a fishing party.

Department heads said that orders had been issued to deny entrance to the two convicts "under the Ohio penitentiary who are acting as chauffeur and cook for the party.

The investigation that has been partly completed disclosed some statements from the Canadian officials on the border line at Niagara Falls that the orders to prevent the convicts from passing over the line had been received after the party had been admitted to Canada.

The immigration department will send a representative to the governor's fishing camp today to question the Ohio executive and the members of his party.

Government officials were unwilling to discuss the case at length or to forecast what action would be taken. It was said, however, that the law had been violated when the convicts were allowed to cross the border even if they were part of the official party and directly responsible to the governor.

It was intimated, however, that as long as the convicts succeeded in getting into Canada that they might be allowed to stay there at the risk that they might escape and become public charges.

PRESIDENT IS REFRESHED

ed that they were extremely satisfied with the substantial progress their patient is making.

The president slept later than usual. There was little activity about his chamber after he fell asleep early in the night. He took his first of warmed milk, two soft boiled eggs and toast was taken to him about 7:15. He ate with enjoyment. The president's morning was spent as usual, being shaved and prepared for the day, eating his breakfast and reading the morning papers.

No Visitors Allowed Today

It is probable that the president will receive no visitors today due to the exhausted condition in which he is. Cabinet officers who visited the suite this morning reported that their chief's progress was highly satisfactory to them. There is much speculation as to when the president will be able to take solid food. This probably will not be for some time yet. His attending physicians withhold predictions as to the signal as to the improvement in Mr. Harding's condition for the simple reason that they are unable to tell when he will be able to be moved, they do not know.

There was continued quiet in the presidential corridors this morning and forenoon.

Much "Watchful Waiting"

The anxiety which attended every bulletin issued from the sick chamber during the early days of this week has given place to "watchful waiting" on the part of the president's immediate party and others connected with the chief executive. Cabinet officers seem to be giving more attention to affairs other than keeping a close watch upon the president, indicating confidence in his recovery.

Mrs. Harding breakfasted early and was reported as being at the bedside of the president during the forenoon. She continued today to take hearty interest in food brought to the tiny suite dining room and to take care of such personal correspondence as her time away from the president's bedside will permit.

She has been urged to leave the hotel and refresh herself with an automobile ride. So far she has refused to do this despite urgent invitations from friends here. That she may decide to do this in a day or two is a matter of conjecture.

State Farm Men Visit County on Investigating Trip

Removal of fruit damaged by hail or by insect pests, was advised last evening by M. L. Dean, director of the state bureau of animal industry, who, with Commissioner M. A. Means of the Idaho department of agriculture, who arrived Wednesday afternoon to visit dairy producers buyers, with a view of elucidating the new law governing their purchases and business, and, also, with a view to looking over the fruit situation in the county. They buy annually and need diversification of crops and more attention to dairy products.

Mr. Dean advocated thinning out fruit in the orchards hurt by the hail in the narrow strips through which it carried, allowing the trees to concentrate energies in the development of undamaged fruits. He advocated the same course regarding worm-spotted apples. Spraying for codling moth, time and sulphur spraying for bitter rotte and sprinkling with slacked lime or wood ashes, or lead dust, or spraying with arsenical preparations for peat slug on cherry and pear trees, was advocated.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Woman Who Relyy upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me.

I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 95 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 55 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published, testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

Many times they state in their letters their willingness in answer women who write them. It is an offer dictated by gratitude and a desire to help others.

QUESTION AND ANSWER BOX

(Conducted by Auntie Sue.)

Q—Dear Auntie Sue: I am a girl 15 years old and I live on a farm. I would like to have boy friends as well as girl friends, and I want the right kind. Auntie Sue, how am I going to find the right kind? It is so hard. Boys I meet are not always the kind mother would care to have me know. I am not "boy crazy" and am never going to be, but I don't want to be called a stick-at-home. I think I know how to treat the right kind of a boy, and would appreciate your advice on how to find him, and any other advice you feel that you should give a girl who really wants to be nice and not a flapper.

I have a nice home, Auntie Sue, where I can entertain nice boys. I am not always home, for I attend a boarding school in the winter. Thanking you with all my heart, I am—Brownie.

A—Richy you are, Brownie, it is puzzling to know just where to find the young man of ideals. Wealth, genius, and even family rank are not safe guides; so where are we to turn? I grow thoughtful, probably look as though I might be going to propound something abstruse—then turn and ask someone else!

But Honey, all of life is a voyage of discovery, and opportunity knocks on you will. And so we go forth, Brownie, to meet the good, the bad and the mediocre. Then to us comes the paradox of the process of elimination, which is in itself an education. The wishes who acquires the art of graceful elimination among her associates is indeed charming.

So, dear girl, just know that it is yours to learn to meet the various types and kinds, and yours to eliminate, for they are found in your set, and in all sets. There are young men whose ideals are high, whose calms and ambitions in life are worthy and if a girl keeps herself lovely, and fine, by refusing to mingle too promiscuously, she cannot fail to meet them. And when the time comes the particular girl does not fail to recognize the man of her own standards. They are the kindred spirits and as water seeks its own level, so does he find his way to her side.

Q—Dear Auntie Sue: Will you please let me have the address of Charles de Roche, playing in pictures?—A. B. C.

Boy Pursues Man He Says Owes Him for Work in Beet Field

"No, thanks, I don't want anyone to give me money. I'll have lots when I can find that feller that owes me—that is, if I can make him dig," answered Louis Code, 12-year-old lad who reached Twin Falls yesterday from Burley on his quest for the man who had, he alleged, hired a group of boys to thin beets and after collecting the contract price, had decamped without settlement with the boys.

"I'n follers worked for him quite a lot, and when we went for our pay he said he was takin' 'nother contract an' we could work it with him and he would pay us all after that was finished. An' we went to look at the job as he said, an' when we got back he was gone on the train to Twin Falls.

"He had some stuff there, an' I guess that we could a had the police 'r some one sell it an' git our money fr us but he had a wife an' a little baby an' us fellows didn't like to take any stuff off'n them. Y'know.

"But, gee, that feller owes me eight dollars an' a quarter an' I gotta have that money. Besides it was box as the dickens when us fellers worked in the beet fields fr it. I heard he'd come on to Buhl fr'm here, so I gotta have that money. I'll work here 'f I can git me a job. But I gotta find him 'fore school begins, cause I'm going to need that money."

This is the tale told by the little lad who spent last evening at the police station and this forenoon making investigations concerning the whereabouts of the man who had, he declared, tried to defraud him, and whose name he gives as Bill Sutton.

Mothers Welcome It

YOUR garments can leave the charmingly dressed if you will starch their wash clothes with Linit, the remarkable starch discovery.

New Starch Discovery

After Linit is thoroughly dissolved and is ready for use, you will notice it is THIN and FREE-RUNNING LIKE WATER—with a "milky" appearance.

Be sure to use Linit according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linit gelled or jelly-like. This is why Linit goes much further than the other starches and starches easier to iron with.

Linit penetrates the fabric, helps prevent wear, and protects the texture of the material.

Linit is sold by all grocers, 10c

Perfection in starching is guaranteed or your money refunded.

WALKER SWIMS 33 MILES IN 21 HOURS

LORAIN, O., Aug. 2.—Carbis Walker, the first man to swim across Lake Erie ate a hearty breakfast and went to bed after dragging himself ashore at 5:30 a. m. here today.

The heroic swimmer worked off 20 pounds, weighing 176 when he plunged into the lake and 156 when he came ashore here.

He was accompanied by four row boats and the gasoline launch Argus. The latter became lost in a fog and did not finish the trip until several hours later.

Lumps of sugar thrown over the sides of the rowboats were Walker's only nourishment. Meat broth and milk provisions on board the boats spoiled before the swim was half finished.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2—Carbis Walker, long distance swimmer, completed his swim across Lake Erie, from Point Pelee, Ontario, to Lorain, Ohio, a distance of 33 miles in 21 hours and 15 minutes.

He started at 9:15 Wednesday morning, reaching Lorain at 5:30 a. m. Thursday.

When Walker dragged himself on shore it was learned the gasoline launch Argus, which was to have followed him in his perilous undertaking has been mysteriously missing since 2:30 p. m. yesterday. The craft, 30 feet long, was experiencing engine trouble before it left Put-in-Bay at that hour, after repairing on Walker's start from Point Pelee, Ontario.

It carried six men: Commodore C. B. Selders of Cleveland, M. F. Ranney and G. Deitbick, Dr. Laumers, J. Gray and two others.

WILLS NEEDS A NEW MANAGER SAY FIGHT FANS

If Harry Wills Had An Up-to-Date Manager He Would Have Had a Chance at Jack Dempsey Long Ago Is Claim of Fight Fans; But Wills Sticks to Old Paddy Mullins Who Helped Him Get Started.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—Several years back when he was brake flat, when he was out of a job and when an addition to the family necessitated some money, Harry Wills found a friend in need in "Old Paddy Mullins."

Without asking for collateral Mullins advanced several loans to get him over the tight places and he told the big colored fighter who is now challenging Jack Dempsey, that he could pay it back when he got it and he need not be in a hurry to get it.

For that reason, Harry Wills is sticking to Paddy Mullins and insisting that Paddy set to the managers out of the bunch that he may get for fighting the champion.

Now the wolves of Broadway are tumbling over each other trying to take Wills away from his friend. They point out that Paddy is a man of the old school who considers his word as good as a bond and considers the words of others as the same. They argue that Paddy is, too easy, and that if Wills had an aggressive manager he would have had a shot at the title before this and would have been "better off" by about a quarter of a million.

To all of whom Wills replies:

"Paddy and I are goin' right along together. He suits me."

Wills has never told the story of why he is going to stick to Paddy and "Old Paddy" never talks, but a friend of the big colored stevedore says that Wills will never cut away from the man who put a hand out to him when he needed money more than he ever will again.

Wills is just as ardent as his manager. He feels that he ought to be considered before Luis Firpo as the next opponent for Dempsey in a heavyweight championship fight, but instead of raising a fuss about it he has assumed the position, "If the commission says so, I'll wait."

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Babe Ruth got his twenty-fifth homer in the ninth with one on, but the Yanks got a beating from the Indians 5 to 3.

Yesterday's accident—Grover Alexander hit his first homer in two years and helped the Cubs win from the Braves 8 to 2.

The Athletics increased their losing streak to ten games when the Browns took a double header from them at 2-0 and 8-2.

Doing the act of the "scorned woman," Johnny Rawlings, former Giant, started the rally that gave the Pirates a 2 to 1 victory over the champions.

The Dodgers of Brooklyn failed to do their stuff and they stepped in the way of two socks from the Cards, losing 11-10 and 7-6.

Working overtime again to lose, the Red Sox dropped the first game to the White Sox 4-2 in eleven innings but won the second 7-3.

Getting out of the rough twice in the last two holes, the Reds were saved by fine work on the greens, and they beat the Phils 5 to 3.

FARM STOCK

Fattening Dairy Steers Is Profitable Business

The dairyman who has a number of bull calves on hand that cannot be disposed of for breeding purposes often wonders what to do with them when they have reached one year of age. Can they be castrated, dehorned and fattened for the market at that age by the breeders themselves, or can they be sold to men who are in the feeding business? To answer the question the Ohio experiment station conducted a feeding test with six Holstein bull calves, 11.5 months of age, when they weighed an average of 620 pounds per head.

The bull calves were dehorned and castrated in December, 1921, and on January 17, 1922, at the weight mentioned, were put on feed, a ration of ground corn, oil meal, mixed hay and corn stover being fed. During a period of 154 days they consumed an average of 14 pounds ground corn, 2.6 pounds oil meal, 4 pounds mixed hay and 4 pounds corn stover. On this they made a daily gain of 2.57 pounds per head, at a cost of $10.10 per 100 pounds gain.

During the same period a lot of Angus calves averaging 622 pounds per head were fed the same feeds. They consumed about two pounds corn meal, two pounds hay and one pound stover less per head than the dairy steers and gained .36 of a pound less per head per day. The dairy steers, in other words, proved to be the heaviest eaters and also made a slightly larger gain per pound of feed consumed.

The dairy steers produced 100 pounds of gain at a cost of $10.16 and the Angus steers at a cost of $10.34.

The dairy steers were put in the feed lot at a valuation of $4.25 per 100 pounds and the beef steers at a value of $7 per hundred. The former sold on the market for $8.50 and the latter for $9.75 a hundred. The profit on the dairy steers was $10.83 per head and on the beef steers $9.02.

This test, so far as one test of this sort can prove anything, showed conclusively that dairy steers can be fed out at a good profit by the feeder when he buys them at the right price and, also, that they make excellent use of their feed.

The first record of a motor-propelled road vehicle dates back 1769, when a steam operated car was invented by Captain Nicholas J. Cugnot, a Frenchman. In 1845 and 1847 a pneumatic tire was patented by R. W. Thompson, in England. Gasoline was discovered in 1860.

THE POWER OF THE COUNTRY PRESS

Let no one regard lightly or slightly the influence of the so-called country press in the United States. The "home" newspaper is looked to in many a community as the mentor and guide when the time comes to make an important decision. The editor of the county paper, usually unassumingly, is a leader in shaping the decisions of his townspeople in those progressive undertakings which affect the common welfare. No matter if the people of the rural sections are coming more and more to look to the city papers for their news of world happenings—they still depend for friendly counsel and advice upon the judgment of someone within their own community circle, who has proved himself dependable and wise.

So it is a matter of no little importance, considering the magnitude of the subject, that the country press of the United States has enlisted whole-heartedly to fight the battle of temperance and law enforcement. The issue will be interesting, if not spectacular. Allied with the destructive liquor interests are many of the larger daily and weekly papers published in the cities. For some reason which the editors and owners of these papers of larger circulation have not publicly disclosed, they have persisted in their effort to discourage a complete enforcement of the prohibition law. Many of them have allotted generous space to news detailing the manner in which the law is violated, and not a few have, by editorial comment, sought to popularize the campaign of nullification.

Now comes the country editor and his thousands of clear-thinking and unprejudiced brethren throughout the length and breath of the land, ready to defend and uphold the law which it has been sought to destroy. They have no selfish motive in thus enlisting on the side of the right. They are committed to the cause by their realization that the best interests of themselves and of the people and industries which they seek to protect demand that the constitution and the laws be unhesitatingly obeyed. The tainted money of the bootlegger and the brewer has not influenced them to betray the people whose confidence they have gained and desire to keep. They feel a personal responsibility. They are not tempted to sell, at any price, the friendships of a lifetime.

The inclination is to believe that no evil influence is powerful enough to sway the sentiment of the great mass of voters in the United States against so powerful an ally of national righteousness. It was the strength of the moral forces in the agricultural states that made possible the early enactment of the law which the enemies of society are now seeking to nullify. This same courageous electorate will see to it that no backward step is taken. No editor of a country paper need apologize to his patrons and friends for his stand in support of the law. They are with him, just as the loyal and progressive people everywhere are steadfast in support of good government and civic decency.—Monitor.

WOMAN, BUSINESS AND MARRIAGE

We have read "This Freedom," Hutchinson's book which purports to show the inequality of man and woman in the marriage state—read it with an open mind, with criticisms and discussions of it so far removed that we've forgotten whether it is universally liked or condemned. That the style of the telling of it irritated almost beyond endurance is purely personal and, perhaps, should have no mention. We mention it with a vague recollection that style did, however, play some part, perhaps minor part, in the furore that was raised about it at publication.

Hutchinson makes of Oceleve the same sort of sublimated ass that he did of Mark Sabre in "If Winter Comes." After the tiresome background he gave Rosalie, tiresome because somehow one cannot escape knowing that it was written for background only and there was too much of it as such, Hutchinson's case weakens by the selection of such a woman for the experiment he makes—absolute freedom and equality, material and otherwise, for man and woman who have married.

Rosalie, we contend, is not typical of the woman who would undertake a life based on equality with her husband—right unquestioned to go to business, right to go away from home for a year on business, if necessary, right to leave children, house and servants in prosecution of business and all of the ramifications of business including such social duties as would devolve upon woman in business. Such a woman as Rosalie, as one follows her through the meticulous incidents and situations Hutchinson gives us from the cradle to the time of her "going on her own," could not help but make a mess of things. Her viewpoint, shaped from the cradle, was too deep rooted to be smashed even by the blinding illumination of love, and then reshaped into a normal course. Rosalie could not be responsive—the very word she found to characterize her children as differing from the children of other parents—in arranging the demands on woman in the home with the demands of woman in business.

"This Freedom" as our way of thinking, is not convincing in its conclusion that for woman business and the home cannot mix. Not that we thus, by negation, contend that they do. Only that we feel Hutchinson has failed to make a convincing case and his style has all but ruined what otherwise might be an interesting brief in his contention.

THE GRUB STAKE

"The Grub-Stake" is Nell Shipman's latest picture. It is another story of the great outdoors. This action this time transpires in Alaska and the northern wilderness. In it are animals galore. What is the literal meaning of "grub-stake?" The dictionary gives the word as American slang, meaning: "to supply a prospector with an outfit on condition of sharing his finding." There are many rich men who made fortunes by grub-staking some prospector and it is a grub-stake that Faith Diress, Nell Shipman's heroine, seeks when she is down and out in Seattle. How she gets it and what happens when she does—this is the story of Miss Shipman's "The Grub Stake," at the Orpheum.

The largest of the several bears which play with Nell Shipman in "The Grub Stake" is "Brownie" and, says the star, she is as nearly human as it is possible for an animal to be. Brownie loves Nell to distraction and the bear and the actress have a language all their own, though their favorite topic is their love for each other. When Brownie is hungry she licks her paw and grumbles, and if her feelings are hurt she makes a sound mighty like swearing, relates the star. At the Orpheum.

Mr. Woolworth may have made his money selling articles at 5 and 10 cents, but he certainly has a palatial office in the far-famed building in New York bearing his name.

A replica of this handsome interior was built at the Paramount west coast studio for Herbert Brenon's production, "The Woman with Four Faces," featuring Betty Compson and Richard Dix, which is being presented at the Idaho theatre this week.

Photographs afforded the necessary data and the office set is one of the most beautiful ever seen in any picture. It is hard to identify its particular style. The trimmings are ornate with gold; the furnishings are likewise elaborate. In the center of the rear wall panels is a massive circular door mammoth safe which figures in the story.

The office is supposed to be that of Judson Osgood, the part played by Joseph Kilkour, noted stage and screen actor.

GREAT VAUDEVILLE SHOW AND FAVORITE PICTURES AT ORPHEUM WEDNESDAY

For graceful acrobatic antics and clean presentation two of the numbers presented in the vaudeville program at the Orpheum last night deserved the highest and most unstinted praise. Franlin and Lee, mixed dancers were marvels in the presentation of symmetrical motion; the woman dainttily and modestly costumed, won much admiration through ease and grace of movement, while the man continually astonished the audience by new attitudes, which never bordered on the grotesque.

Victoria and Frank from Pantages circuit were worthy of the best in the novelty line presented by these eminent masters of vaudeville management. Johnnie Burns, impersonator, got his tongue around the dialect of many races in a very satisfactory way, and Mahoney and Tabert gave several amusing numbers.

"The Great Adventure," starring Florence Vidor, was an excellent motion picture and several interesting minor features were of a high class.—The Times Critic.

RHEUMATISM

Cannot Exist in the Human Body if You Will Use Trunk's Prescription.

It is preposterous; in fact, it is a shame to suffer with inflammatory, muscular, sciatic or any form of rheumatism.

This prescription does not ruin the stomach, it does not depress the heart. Eat all the meat and good food you wish while taking Trunk's Prescription. Contains no mercury, methylene salts, oil wintergreen or narcotics, but positively overcomes any kind of rheumatism or gout on earth. What more do you want? There is nothing just as good, and it is impossible to get something better. The greatest uric acid solvent known and also a superior liver medicine.

Trunk's Prescription sells for $1.75 or 3 for only $5.00 at drug stores, such as Schramm-Johnson Drug stores.

Clowns in Circus Different From Those on Stage

The day of the "fill-in" clown—the property man who whitens his face to swell the ranks of the funmakers—is over at least with the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, the largest wild animal show in the universe, which comes to Twin Falls for two exhibitions, afternoon and night, and grand free street parade 10 the morning on Friday, August 10.

Every clown with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus must be an experienced funster and a clown of recognized ability. The big circus cannot take time to break in amateurs, who must secure their early training with the smaller shows and circuses, if they are ambitious or desire to achieve success in the jolting profession.

There are fifty "boys" with the Hagenbeck show—fifty Merry Andrews well known in the clown alleys of the big tops. They are well known because they have learned to put over their antics and their pantomime under the big top. And there is the rub. The cleverest stage clowns are apt to fall down in the great tent for working the huge circus oval is entirely different from the business of garnering laughs in the theatre. One of the greatest stage clowns of the decade proved a failure with the white tops.

Among the noted funsters with the Hagenbeck show are Joe Coyle, Bill Hart, Kid Kennard, Louie Plamondon, Danny Ryan and the Three Hardtrys. The circus claims to have the biggest and best brigade of clowns in its history.

Don't forget pie and cake sale by ladies of the Church of the Brethren in Wright's old store, Saturday, Aug. 11th. Next to Salladay's Hardware.

Mrs. Murphy Gives Convincing Evidence

Another link is added to the long chain of evidence regarding both the immediate and lasting good that is being accomplished by Tanlac.

Mrs. Catherine Murphy, wife of David Murphy, well known poultry raiser, residing at 1520 Portland Ave., Walla Walla, Wash., says:

"Two years ago Tanlac relieved me of a case of indigestion that had kept me miserable for months and months. I would bloat so badly I could hardly get my breath. Everything I would eat affected me the same way and I lost my appetite entirely.

"My energy and strength about all left me, I was too nervous to sleep, and got up mornings feeling even worse than when I retired at night. My husband was so benefited by Tanlac that I began taking it too, and before I had finished the first bottle I had a good appetite and could eat without my stomach bothering me any more. So took two more bottles and then I felt fine in every way. I have also recommended Tanlac to my friends and have never known a one who did not have a good word for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

MARKETS

GRAIN MARKET DULL.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—An extremely dull market caused grain prices to slump at the close on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat experienced one of the dullest days in several months. Practically nothing was done through out the entire session. Outside support was lacking and only what business was done between locals created a market. Export demand was also absent.

Corn lacked support and with wheat eased off late. Cooler weather and showers over the western grain belt have relieved fears of crop damage from firing and drought.

Reports from Iowa indicated beneficial rains fell most of the day.

Oats eased off with other grains and a lack of demand. Cash prices also went down reflecting the movement in other spot markets.

Provisions were lower.

BIG ADDITION TO THE MILNER CANAL DIST.

Lowlift Irrigation District of Milner to Build Power Plant After Adding 3000 Acres to Its Area; Buyers for Bonds Found.

Petitions for the addition of 3000 acres to the Milner Lowlift Irrigation district are being circulated and will be filed within a day or two. Buyers for the bonds for the addition have already been secured. When the legal formalities have been completed and the bonds sold, a power plant, large enough to furnish power for the irrigation of the entire district will be installed.

The power plant will be paid for out of the proceeds arising from the addition and will cost nothing to those who are settled on the old district, it was stated by D. H. Moorman, of the directors, today.

MERCHANTS SEE PROSPERITY ON RETURN HOME

Heads of the Wright and Booth Companies Find Building Active and Buyers Thick with Everybody Optimistic Over Outlook for the Coming Year.

That things in the east are apparently prosperous and that there are many buyers in the arrangements on which—C. E. Wright of the W. H. Wright & Co. establishment and C. E. Booth of the Booth Mercantile company, fully agree. There is much construction in the east in spite of high wages which seem to retard operations in some degree and the manufacturers are all hopeful.

"I was in New York and Chicago," said Mr. Wright, "purchasing goods, and was informed that there were as many buyers as ever before, by manufacturers. This indicates that there is a general feeling all over the country that there is a good business anticipated everywhere. We are looking forward to an unusually good business here this fall, the best we have ever had. Labor is employed in the east, and there is a great deal of building though it is said that high wages are preventing the construction of some large structures that would otherwise be built. Silks and woolens are slightly higher than last season, while there is a slight downward tendency in cottons."

"Things seem 'high, wide' and handsome' in New York," said Mr. Booth. "Manufacturers are expressing confidence in the future, and there is a great deal of building going on. Everybody seems to think that prosperous conditions are going to continue. Of course, one who goes there cannot judge that for himself, since he does not always know what undercurrents are in operation; only those on the inside know that and they do not always know it. But things look prosperous now. Relatively high wages place workers in the cities on a different plane from the farmers. The farmer works more hours in three days than some of the city workers do in a week. They get very high wages in the building trades and in manufacturing lines. It is hard to break down a wage scale, so there has got to be a readjustment; not a revolution but an evolution, that will bring up the recompense of the worker on the farm to equality with producers in other lines."

Spend Vacation—Miss Blanch Geigley, cashier and bookkeeper for the Big White Store, leaves tomorrow for her vacation. It is understood that she will visit Bailey and other Idaho towns before returning.

Has Bruised Leg—P. Watkins is at home suffering from a bruised leg, resulting from being knocked down by the W. H. Weaver car last evening near the Sunflower. Miss Weaver was driving the car and did not see Mr. Watkins because of another car until too late to turn aside.

Scouts Visit Pilar Falls—Eight scouts of troop No. 8, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Leslie Foy, took bed and board out to Pilar Falls last evening, hiking all the way. They had fishing in the evening after which they cooked the catch for supper. At night they built a big bon-fire and swam around an hour. This morning they caught some more fish, cooked and ate them and then hiked back to town.

Bond Question Up—The question whether the Salmon River Canal company by putting up a bond can proceed to distribute water in accordance with the plan outlined by the company for handling storage water, or whether the injunction of Judge T. Bailey Lee holds regardless of the appeal has taken up the entire day before Judge George Edlington of Idaho Falls. Judge J. H. Rothwell represents the company and John W. Graham represents R. Glavin, who contends that the injunction holds regardless of the appeal and that bond cannot be given.

Bible Thought for Today

SELF-MASTERY.—Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sin; let them not have dominion over me; then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression. Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:13, 14.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:13, 14.

Childhood is like a mirror which reflects in after life the images first presented to it.—Samuel Smiles.
