SHARP CLASH OCCURS OVER DOME AFFAIR

Senate Is Torn by Bitter Factional Strife As Further Details of Big Oil Scandal Are Revealed; McAdoo in Denunciation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Bitter factional hatred gripped the senate in the oil scandal dispute today as the committee of inquiry delved further in its investigation. There were signs of an impending split of democratic ranks on the Robinson resolution calling for resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby.

To such proportions has the breach widened that one or two weeks may result in victory or defeat for those trying to oust the navy secretary.

Encouraged by this turn of affairs, republicans were rallying a strong defense of Denby's action in signing the leases. Meanwhile the public lands committee re-opened hearings to take up the reports that five officials "cleaned up" in stock speculations in connection with the leases.

Break in democratic ranks discernable as sympathetic rally to defense of Denby when Robinson resolution asks for his resignation.

Public lands committee re-opens hearings.

William G. McAdoo, candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, denounces "institutions" that he was connected with the oil leases and demands the right to appear immediately before the committee.

Senator Walsh, chief investigator, pleads for reinstatement of Denby, on the senate floor as Robinson and La Follette prepare to follow him with fiery speeches.

The Walsh resolution goes to the White House for action as Alice Roosevelt and Silas Strawn counsel, prepare to file injunction to restrain further drilling in the reserve.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Wm. G. McAdoo will appear before the public lands committee investigating the oil leases beginning tomorrow, the committee decided today. The ex-secretary of the treasury, Chairman Lenroot read McAdoo's letter in which McADOO denied any connection with the Teapot Dome leases and asked to be permitted to appear before the committee immediately.

On motion of Senator Adams, democrat, Colorado, it was decided to hear him tomorrow morning.

ARGENTINE IMMIGRATION.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 8.—According to the statistics published by the national immigration authorities, 211,494 immigrants entered the Argentine during the past year, which shows an increase over 1922 of 43,743. Italian and Spanish immigration has greatly increased; there having entered 91,200 Italians and 59,650 Spaniards.

NOVELIST KILLS HERSELF

WHITLE-YDAY, Eng., Feb. 8.—The celebrated English novelist, Quennie Scott Hooper, committed suicide here today, slashing her throat with a razor, because she was unable "to think up any new ideas for stories."

'Donts' for Mothers From Noted Doctor

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—In the realm of childhood many roads seem to lead to the clinic of Dr. Chevalier Jackson, famous for his skill in extracting foreign objects from the throats and lungs of the rising generation.

Almost as surely as they learn their A B C's and begin to take prominent roles in swift and brief childish arguments, they find their way to the white, fresh smelling room in Jefferson Hospital.

They come from far and wide and all return home free from the button, pin, thimble, needle or what not that threatened to put an untimely end to the young career.

"Safety pins have killed more children than firearms," Dr. Jackson warns the mothers of young Americans. He issued a list of "Don'ts" for careless parents:

"Don't give children under two years peanuts or any kind of nut candies.

"Don't set a bad example to a baby by holding a straight pin in your mouth.

"Don't bend over a baby without making sure no pins, needles, buttons or jewelry to hand, walk can get into the baby mouth.

"Don't allow a child crying or jump with anything, even food, in its mouth.

"Don't put tables or the floor to amuse children until the floor is cleared of all small objects, or allow the babies to play with coin coffee, berries, seeds, marbles, jacks or small toys.

"Don't fail to inspect toys for small loose parts such as eyes, ears, buttons and fragments of metal and wood.

"To back up his 'Dont's,' Dr. Jackson now has a collection of 1216 in his foreign body exhibition. Every specimen has been removed from the throat or lung of a child.

There is a row one, mounted on a white card. It is a tack removed from the lung of Cletus Moore, 8-month-old son of a St. Louis laborer. The tack had been in the infants' lung four months and Dr. Jackson removed it. There is a rusty shaft, also removed from the esophagus of a little girl; a metal goat taken from the pipe of Anna Melisle, of Ashland, Pa., and everything else imaginable in the collection.

"Children come into the world with their minds blank," Dr. Jackson said. "They must learn. Hard things are hard and soft, rough or smooth, hot or cold, sweet or sour, edible or inedible. Little children must learn to acquire this knowledge to put into their mouths everything in reach.

"There are only three things they can do at a certain age, swallow the thing whole, spit them out or aspirate them into the lungs."

The surgeon listed the aspirations with a bronchoscope, an instrument of his own invention. It is an electrically lighted tube which illuminates the lung cavity, and enables the operator to locate the foreign objects. Forceps which are within the tube are used to remove the object. It has never been necessary to use an anesthetic.

Dallas Bank Secures Necessary Cash to Sister Institution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Federal reserve board funds were today voted will pride—how—the Dallas reserve bank early this week rushed $500,000 in currency by airplane to Sweetwater, Texas, 200 miles away, to meet a "run" on the bank.

A hurry call was received by the Dallas bank for funds with which to stave off a run. Investigation showed the money made by the bank which disclosed that the suffering bank was in good condition. An airplane was immediately commandeered, $500,000 in cash moved in the cockpit and a swift flight over desert and prairie to the suffering bank ensued. The plane arrived in time to prevent the bank closing its doors.

ENGLISH 'EARL' INCARCERATED

DENVER, Feb. 8.—The "Earl of Devon"—Sir George A. Campbell, son of Sir George Campbell of London, has called off his wedding in Denver to Miss Rosie Clevenger.

The love feast the "Earl" procured on the Golden Road, near Denver must now, no bexxing. When police lodged Sir George in the county jail for passing worthless checks on the Denver Auto Supply house, he said:

"I'm through. Glad it all happened. Cobbly saved me."

"This is an outrage," the Earl said upon being arrested. "I am an Oxford graduate, and Earl of Devon."

The "Earl" is a remarkably versatile chap. Although only in the United States three months, he speaks with a perfect Chinese brogue. It freely admits having dropped his English accent and manners when he had a quarrel with his father—and ran away from home at 17.

In the "Earl's" suitcase was a marriage license bearing the name of Eleonore Campbell and a girl in Elmo, Kansas, showing they had been married.

That's early in April, Sir George told police. "Lots of Campbells in this country I find. I met a George Campbell. When he left the hotel he forgot his suit case. I took care of it for him.

"How come it you are Sir George when your father is living?" asked a policeman.

"Sure that's easy to explain," the Earl cried aghast. "You see, my uncle died and left me his title.

"Who said I was a nurse," he asked upon being questioned as to his profession. Miss Lewis, Consumptive hospital. "I'm a doctor. I got my M. D. from Oxford. Haven't got my degree with me but I'll get it."

Those who read the elaborately designed wedding invitations written in gold ink are doomed to disappointment.

Candler, of Atlanta, Ga., for a half million dollars love balm and lost, are to be sold at auction February 14, St. Valentine's day, it was learned here today.

DENVER POST OWNER TELLS OF OIL LEASE

Colorado Publisher Gives Startling Details in Connection With Probe Into Sinclair's Business; Contract Exists.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 8.—Fred G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Post, today in the senate oil inquiry investigating the oil scandal today that he has a secret Teapot Dome contract with Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of the naval reserve. But that already has cost him $250,000 for the contract, he declares.

"Some time after the Teapot Dome lease was signed an acquaintance of mine, Leo Stack, showed me a contract he had," Bonfils said. "He claimed it was a prior contract and that the Sinclair lease had been granted over his head.

"I had my attorney—look over Stack's contract and thought it legal. So I signed a contract with Stack under which we were to give him the first $50,000 and we would divide the remainder between my partner and my attorney.

"I heard a good many rumors so I concluded to send a man to New Mexico to investigate. I sent Mr. Blackelback (a reporter) and he came back with an astounding story. He was cautioned especially not to disclose his identity or to quote those from whom he obtained the story.

"The managing editor, Mr. Shepard, and I talked it over with Mr. Hottoms, my counsel. We decided the articles should not be printed because they were libelous.

"We then ran a long article attacking the Sinclair lease instead. Mr. Hottoms, my counsel, telephoned Sinclair's attorney, Mr. Severy (Sinclair's attorney) came out to see us and invited us to New York. We met Mr. Sinclair. It was about July 4, 1922, when we went to New York. Sinclair and Mr. Severy said as bruquedly, 'I don't know why you came here as we went back to Colorado.

"In the meeting we had brought suit against the Midwest Oil company and other companies to carry out our contract with Stack. Later we got 160 acres in Oklahoma City and made a contract by which he was to pay us $250,000 and give us 160 acres of oil land in the Teapot Dome. This was because of our holdings through the Stack contract. He didn't want us to operate this acreage.

"He didn't want anyone else leasing himself drilling there. We refused to sign the contract.

"So finally we decided to let him have it months, to decide whether he wanted to pay one million dollars or to go for our claim.

"He paid us the original $250,000 of which $50,000 went to Stack. I got $12,000 and my partner got $13,000. Our attorney, Mr. Schwartz, got about $15,000. Then Stack got $15,000 more for his pro-rain share."

Bonfils' statement accounted for $194,000. He did not say where the remainder of the $250,000 went.

"The 18 months will expire on March 15 this year," he continued. "Sinclair's contract with Edward L. Doheny, by which Stack claimed priority, was void. Then the contract with the Pioneer Oil company releasing Doheny from the first contract was void. Under its provisions the Pioneer Oil company failed to exercise its option, or option privileges, to drill offset wells.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 8.—A Denver birth control league was organized last night. Organization of the league was promised last fall by Judge Ben B. Judge Lindsey intimated in the fall that soon after the first of the year he would start a birth control office. This has not yet been done, but is expected to follow closely upon the heels of the local organization.

NEGRO CONVICTS PAY WITH LIVES

Wholesale Execution Carried On at Texas Prison at Huntsville.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 8.—Death played a carnival within the saunt grey walls of the state prison here today shortly after midnight. Five condemned negro murderers went to their death in the electric chair as the state of Texas inaugurated electrocution as the means of legal execution instead of hanging.

Charles Reynolds, 27, of Red River county, opened the orgy of death. Shortly after 12 o'clock he was led from his cell in "death row" and marched down the long steel corridor to the chamber from which he was never to return alive. In quick succession three other negroes were marched down the steel avenue of death and were shocked into eternity.

Ewell Moore, of Victoria, was second. It took the 2,000 volts current only two minutes to still his heart. Then came George Washington, a giant black from Newton county. For four minutes the motor continued to whir and then he was pronounced dead. Mack Matthews, aged negro preacher of Newton came next.

For four and a half minutes the current was in his body. Applause then said life was extinct. Some forty persons who witnessed the electrocution sickened at the odor of burning flesh that filled the room, were given a brief respite before Melvin Johnson 19 years old liberty county youth was killed. For an hour Warden Miller held up the execution in the hope a reprieve would be granted. Finally a message arrived from Attorney General Davidson. He said he could not intervene.

As soon as the boy was led to death, the negroes began walking to the brink of death. Each as he stepped into the chair made a brief speech. All had gotten religion and were ready to die.

Sinclair Concludes Large Oil Deal with German Financier

COLOGNE, Feb. 8.—Harry F. Sinclair today sold oil to Hugo Stinnes, money master of Germany. The American promoter, lessee of Teapot Dome naval reserve, concluded arrangements for delivery of oil to the German industrialist begun when the latter's son visited Sinclair in America.

Source close to Stinnes said there was no question of a Stinnes-Sinclair oil or mining combination. The German industrialist is interested only in purchases, it was said. Friends of Sinclair pointed out that his conference with Stinnes today proved he actually had had business in Europe and was not merely dodging the senate.

RECOGNITION IS GRANTED RUSSIA BY THE ITALIANS

MOSCOW, Feb. 8.—Italy has granted full diplomatic recognition to Russia. The Italian diplomatic representative here this afternoon informed the foreign office that his government recognizes fully the present soviet government of Russia and is prepared to appoint an ambassador.

Simultaneously, the foreign office announced that Premier Mussolini of the Italian government handed the Russian diplomatic representative at Rome an identical document.

PUBLIC OBJECTS TO INNOCULATION

Storm of Protest Launched Against Wholesale Vaccination.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 8.—Public protest against innoculation of Boston school children with "toxin antitoxin" came today. With 50 children ill in towns near Boston, from administration of the anti-diphtheria treatment—parents of more than 2000 students notified school authorities they would not allow their children to undergo innoculation.

Simultaneously Dr. Henry Zunk, city medical board, made public a letter protesting against the policy of the state department of health to make school children the subjects of innoculations. The department justified the program by asserting that the children made ill were affected by a serum which had been frozen was administered to them. The department said all the sick youngsters were nicely better today and soon will be able to return to classes.

The board of health expected to administer the serum to 2000 children in east Boston schools, but only 1000 appeared for the injection.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 8.—The murder of a young girl, whose charred body was found in the ruins of a church here recently, became an unsolved mystery today. Alfred Whitsett, negro, held on the charge, was acquitted by a jury here last night and authorities admitted their long investigation was at an end. The jury deliberated but a short time.

HEARING SIDETRACKED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The hearing of the house naval affairs committee on the Canada canal bill was sidetracked today by a demand of Representative O'Connor, Louisiana, for southern naval bases.

PASSING OF GEE JON IS PAINLESS

Chinaman Dies in a Short Time After Admittance to Small Room.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 8.—Gee Jon, Chinese, today died by lethal gas. He passed on he—said—in the new "kindly, sleeping death."

At 9:17 a. m. three guards marched with him from the condemned cell to the state prison forty yards across the prison yard to the lethal chamber.

He walked quietly, with practically no sign of nervousness. The door was closed behind him and he was bound hand and foot, in a lonely minute.

The process, all of which had been thoroughly rehearsed, required but a moment.

Immediately the death chamber was locked, three guards spun the wheels which turned the valves. Then a hiss of the poison gas rushing under pressure through the conduits and into the cell.

Watchers at the death house window saw only a slight tremor of the body and then the man's head fell suddenly to the right side and the doctors declared that he was dead.

Three minutes elapsed between the time the gas was introduced into the death chamber and the time the physicians made their peculiarly annoyed—pronouncement of death. It is believed that death came even more quickly than that.

Thirty persons, mostly newspaper men, watched the execution through the little window in the death chamber.

Immediately after Gee's death a current of fresh air was forced through the chamber to allow the doctors to enter and bring out the body.

Witnesses agreed that the chief sign of the approaching death was a slight twitching of the body. There was little indication of pain. Doctors estimated that just ten seconds elapsed between the time the valves were turned and the time Gee Jon was entirely unconscious.

They said they believed he was dead six minutes later. It requires from ten to seventeen minutes to bring death by hanging.

Dead President's Daughter Is Sick After Hurried Trip

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Wm. G. McAdoo, daughter of the late President Wilson, was under the care of Dr. Grayson today as the result of the strain she suffered during a race with death from the Pacific coast to Washington. Grayson said she is suffering now from the reaction.

The Wilson home in Bethlehem chapel of Washington Cathedral was open today to the public, while three soldiers stood watch. Hundreds filed past the crypt yesterday where the former president lies.

FORD COMES TO FRONT AS POSSIBILITY

M'Adoo's Enemies Insist on Counting Him Out of Presidential Race, But Friends Declare He Intends to Make Attempt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The Ford for President movement showed signs of stirring today as the smell of oil grew heavier on the political air. There was talk among Ford's friends here of drafting him to run as the result of his announcement in favor of President Coolidge.

This was but one manifestation of unrest, said the only rock from Teapot Dome, of the squirmings of politicians who are greatly concerned with the public's reaction to the evidence which has connected men of both parties in some degree either with the oil scandals themselves or with the men who are principals in the scandals.

As for McAdoo, his opponents were inclined to write him off as a possibility while he and his friends vigorously refused to be written off. McAdoo will go before the public prosecutor Dome committee tomorrow to make an effort on which his political future probably depends.

The McAdoo clan is not indignant at the dressing of McAdoo's name into the oil scandal, through it is behaving indignant. That McAdoo will go before the committee is the assertion of his lawyers. The clan is not indignant—it is filled with murderous fury, at what it terms a stab in the dark.

President Coolidge and his managers are eager for the earliest possible court action on the oil leases, and criminal prosecution, if there is to be any such.

That is why Pomerene and Strawn, the presidential counsel, were urged to get to work without waiting for senate confirmation, though there is danger of a fight on both of them.

The Denby question is bothering the Coolidge managers. It is known there is no way to fight back. The demands for Denby's resignation for years to come will be heard. A leading member of the Coolidge organization said today the president will not fire Denby without a beneficial effect, though cost him the presidency.

Mrs. Searles, who is the wife of a local chauffeur, was 14 years old when she was married. Her daughter married at the same age.

Suggests Government Control of American Interests in Future

LINCOLN, Neb., 8.—Charging existence of an "octopus," Governor Chas. W. Bryan in a message to President Coolidge today demanded the government take over control of the oil industry in the future.

Bryan's action followed the president's order to the department of justice to investigate increased prices in South Dakota, on complaint of Governor W. H. Malistor.

"Federal action is required, that the government has the power and it behoves it to exercise it. Congress, by bill, industry and product, has ample and legislative purpose. Congress has the power to control the industry.

Cost of Home

The value of the house and lot purchased for a home by the typical American family, lies between one and two-thirds and two and a half times the family's annual income at the time of purchase, realtors throughout the National Association of Real Estate Boards and their clients, the army of home buyers nationally, will learn with equal interest. The kind of home any given family expects to own will be found to have a value just about double the amount of the family's income for a year. Statement of vital investigation finds to be the prevailing proportion of home purchase price to annual family income for the United States is given by the division of building and housing of the United States Department of Commerce in a recent pamphlet entitled "How to Own Your Home," in the compilation of which the National Association of Real Estate Boards assisted.

"If a certain family pays a sixth of its income for rent, it may be able to devote one-fourth or more to buying and maintaining a house, for the amount thus used may include both rent and savings," the government housing authorities advise the would-be home buyer. "Rent or payments on a home may require anywhere from one-eighth to one-third of the family income, depending on the special circumstances in each case."

My Little Town

My Little Town in summer
Does a soft, leaf-shadowed air,
And every street grows blossom-sweet,
And every garden fair.

And all the little houses
Their windows open wide,
Are talking to their neighbors
Of the loveliness outside.

My Little Town in winter
Wears a plain, unbending mien,
And aunt and here its houses start,
With drifted lawns between.

But when the winter evenings
In cold gray settle down,
And home-bound feet in every street
Pass through My Little Town,

Then from each lighted window
The little homes begin
To whisper to their neighbors
Of the warmth and joy within.

"Outdated history is mainly unreadable—Robertson, and Hume, for instance. Motley and Prescott survive, because, so far as I am concerned, they are not outdated. Macaulay is good reading still, so Carlyle, so Micheletl, though you need not believe a word they say. MRS. MALLORY TO PLAY WITH NORWAY TEAM

Famous Tennis Star Decides to Enter Olympics as Member of Norway's Aggregation, Although Eligible to Compete for United States

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—Mrs. Molla Mallory, regarded by the International Olympic committee for a time, as an American woman citizen, has now decided to play in the Paris games for Norway. The American champion barred from the American team because she competed in the 1912 games with Norway, was made eligible to compete for her native land by a ruling of the committee that an athlete need not be a citizen of the nation for which he competes.

The American team will sail either on June 5 or June 7. The tennis association has not decided definitely on the number of players to be sent as a team and has done nothing toward selection of the team.

It is considered almost certain here that Miss Helen Wills, the national champion, will be permitted to make the trip and she will be the leader of the women's team which is to play the British women for the Wightman cup.

Mrs. George Wightman, wife of the president of the association, and Miss Lillian Scharman, Brooklyn girl star also are considered dangerous.

Bill Johnston, California star, stated that he could not act away from business in attend, and Vines, champion, said he felt he should not go unless the committee thought his services essential to the success of the team. It is probable that Tilden will be prevailed upon to go as the captain of the team and that Vinnie Richards and Dick Williams will be two members of the team.

BOXING

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Tonight the four Paul teams will shoot in Water.

After a week's hard practice the Meteors are ready for all comers, though there is still room for improvement.

The visitors are reported uniformly strong in shooting ability. We do not know that they are weak in floor work, either, but we were tipped off that they are just masters in dropping the ball through the metal ring. And that's what counts.

The Meteors are devoting more time to teamwork and less to individual play these days. Holmes, according to eye witnesses of the Jerome game, was strong in both departments but particularly so when operating as a machine.

Filer's defeat of Kimberly, after the latter's victory over Twin Falls, promised to be something of an upset, though the Filer boys have always been known as fighters and they lived up to their reputation at Kimberly. Stowe was a marked man in that game but did as well as most players would when being worked under such a handicap.

The basketball race is in a tangle at the present time as the teams stand. If the Twin Falls team should defeat Twin Falls in the former game and lose here, while Twin Falls would defeat Filer, the Wildcats would be tied with Kimberly. Somewhat confused, eh?

The Meteors are sure to have some brilliant men for next year. Clyde Hoss is only a sophomore and Garfield, a junior, but Hamilton only two of this year's squad. The prospects for 1925 are bright, indeed.

Dan Scott in my opinion, it would be a wise idea to present Jerome with an even number of points, say 23 or 30 at the beginning of the game. Thus, I think the players would feel the fighting chance and it is easy to add to a bank account once it is started.

TWO DROWNED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 8—Two were drowned and three others narrowly escaped the same fate when an automobile plunged off an embankment into the city lake near here. Bodies of Paul Powers, 16, and Miss Jane Beatty, 15, were recovered by firemen after, they can went down in forty feet of water. Three others, Mr. Wallport, Miss Pitch and a fifty-foot through the icy water to the shore after freeing themselves from the closed car.

MADDOCK NAMED

EUGENE, Ore., Feb. 8—Joseph H. Maddock, Michigan undergraduate, of Harvey Up Yost, will coach the University of Oregon grid stars the coming season. Late last night the executive council elected him for one year. Maddock was a star Michigan lineman in 1918-19-20. Last year he was coaching at University of Utah to return to Michigan in 1924 and 1925 to coach under his old mentor.

Gore, who as a former senator has the privilege of the senate floor, had conferred with attorneys for Mr. Doheny in New York within the past few days.

TIMES LOSES TO SUGAR FACTORY

The Troy laundry retained its lead and the Sugar factory went into a tie with the Idaho Theatre squad for third place as a result of last evening's bowling match, the defeat of the Times team in two of the three games.

The Sugar Factory team won the first game by a narrow margin, but the team reaching the 600 mark. The Times also lost the second contest, barely failing to hit 800 points, 797 being their exact total.

In the concluding game the winners of the preceding two fell down a bit and the Times crew picked up enough to move out by six points.

Barnes was high man, for the Times with 546. He was not closely pressed. Only one man on the Sugar factory quintet bowled 500, this being Seiler with 507.

Last evening's bowling was hardly up to the standard set by the competing teams in previous matches. This is proven by the fact that only two men bowled 500, a figure which several ordinarily reach.

Body of Pretty Flim Actress Found Tied and Gagged at Home

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—Bound and gagged and found murdered with the evidence of criminal assault, the body of pretty little Louise Lawson, film actress, was found in her luxurious apartment by a colored maid today.

The actress lived alone with a police dog. Neighbors heard voices outside her apartment this morning which they took at the time to be the actress conversing with her maid. Miss Lawson admit two men. Later, when the maid entered the apartment, Miss Lawson's body scantily clad, lay sprawled across the bed. Tape and towels had been bound across her mouth and her hands from her police dog, partly bound her.

The police are investigating the possibility that robbery was the motive for the murder.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

"There is a fellow with pitching potential in the Big Leagues, speed, curves and a change of pace. When you start hitting him he always has something in reserve—remember different to stop your batting rally. He is one of the greatest stylists I have ever battled against. I have found certain pitchers more difficult for me to hit, but Jones shapes up as a pitcher who looks the part all over. I mean the Detroit Tiger. The Detroit club was sitting on the bench discussing pitchers and watching Sam Jones warm up. He was scheduled to go against the Tigers that afternoon. It was a nice compliment that Cobb paid him.

A few weeks later Jones certainly made good the praise that Cobb had heaped upon him by pitching a no hit game against the Athletics. In the world series between the Giants and the Yankees last year, Jones stopped the Yankee team, despite the fact that he suffered a 1 to 0 defeat. Casey Stengel's homer into the right field bleachers decided the issue.

Jones is the piece in the greatest asset a pitcher can possibly have in the game of the lively ball and the slashing batter. Control, speed and a change of pace cover a multitude of pitching sins.

Only last summer Walter Johnson remarked to me that the one real mistake he made in his pitching career was that fatal 1924 season when slow ball about ten years sooner than he mastered it." Johnson, during the early years of his career, depended entirely on his terrific speed. Not until he found his fast one losing some of its "zip" did he go in for a slow ball. No lesser champion of what a good slow ball means to a pitcher could be offered than Eddie Hummel of the Athletics. A knuckle ball and a change of pace have made him a master pitcher.

Dazzy Vance, BROOKLYN star of the National League, is another who handicap a pitcher, works under, who is minus a good slow ball. Vance has a fast ball, speed and a big curving pitcher, but he would be far greater with a slow ball in his bag. Dazzy Vance and Yankee Sidney Ross are the National League's strikeouts, but also in consecutive wins, which is a big record. Ross scored 11 pitching victories in succession last year. Vance, if he had a slow ball, would have been closer to 25 had he been the possessor of a good change of pace.

Walter Ruth, Yankee pitcher, is a pitcher with terrific speed like Vance, but never something different to offer the opposition. Harry Hillings has speed. At such a time a slow ball is the very best weapon. Look at it alone keeps Vance from the day's heights of pitching stardom.

FARM STOCK MARKETS

Tuberculin Test Should Be Applied to All Stock

Since tuberculosis continues to be probably the most important disease affecting man and the lower animals, causing in man about one-tenth of the deaths from all causes and occasioning an economic loss in the United States of over $200,000,000 annually, a few facts relative to the present status of this disease may be opportune.

1. The disease is caused by a specific germ so small that a magnification of nearly 1,000 diameters is necessary in order to see it distinctly.

2. It is possible to isolate the germ from sputum of tuberculous patients with tuberculosis and to grow same on artificial media.

3. The germ of tuberculosis is quite resistant to many of the natural influences that affect bacteria and if embedded in sputum will withstand the direct rays of the sun for 24 hours or longer. In dark recesses at low temperatures, germs may live for many months and even a 5 per cent strength of carbolic acid requires 24 hours to effect destruction of these organisms.

4. In addition to man, practically all domestic animals are subject.

5. Among the lower animals the disease is most frequently seen in cattle and hogs—Horses and sheep are rarely affected.

6. In man the disease may involve the lungs, (pulmonary tuberculosis; consumption), the intestines; be confined to the lymph glands, or the skin or it may be localized in the bones and joints.

7. It is a very common disease of chickens, although turkeys and pigeons are frequently suffer from it—Ducks and geese do not appear to be susceptible.

8. Fowls apparently do not contract the disease from diseased cattle, although swine may do so.

9. Heredity plays but a very minor part in the transmission or communication of this disease.

10. Tuberculosis may be contracted by inhaling air contaminated with the germs, by the germs entering the entrance into the digestive tract with various articles of food, particularly milk.

11. Cattle are frequently affected with both the intestinal and lung forms. The udder of cattle is not an uncommon location for the disease.

12. A large share of the cases in cattle are showing the intestinal form of the disease. Milk from the tubercle germ of bovine origin being transmitted through milk from diseased animals.

13. Animals may be fairly "rotten" with the disease without any symptoms being manifest.

14. Tuberculosis in cattle, swine and fowls can be diagnosed with a high degree of accuracy by means of the tuberculin test. The swine showing a positive reaction should be disposed of at once.

15. Tuberculosis is a preventable disease and will continue to be in evidence with the development of sanitation, personal hygiene, supervision of the production and distribution of milk by health officers; veterinary inspection of all meat products destined for food; and the universal application of the tuberculin test to all cattle, but particularly those supplying milk for human consumption.—William H. Feldman, Pathology Section, Colorado Experiment Station.

Careful Management Big Need in Building Herd

It takes good feeding, careful management and considerable patience to build up a herd. Good food alone cannot do much—if feed—and care are neglected. When handling registered cattle, it takes the same care as when breeding and marketing so that the purchasers may be certainly certified. It means considerable loss to sell a pure bred to a grade because it is not in identity, or the breeding is not known.

Calling is highly important. A prospective buyer is afraid to sell inferior animals for best. Quite apparent that it is better to sell a good grade than to be bitten. Weeding out is a necessary part of the breeding business. A scrub purebred is a bad advertisement for the seller, as well as an injury to the buyer. A satisfied customer is likely to be a permanent customer, while a buyer who feels he has been fooled up with unsatisfactory stock can spoil a good deal of business for the breeder. Attractive prospects go to the buyer who has a well-selected herd of purebred cattle with meritorial reputation and a number of satisfied buyers to advertise for him. Such a herd is assured of good income. He will have the additional satisfaction of knowing that he has a real part in the building of one of the state's great industries.

Powder Recommended to Kill Vermin in Winter

When animals are troubled with vermin dip them in a bath of commercial coal-tar dip made and used according to directions given by the manufacturer. In winter dust infested pens of sheep with powdered pyrethrum flowers of pulpit and tobacco. Powdered sabadilla is effective for lice on cattle but is poisonous if licked off. Make a paste of sulphur and tobacco powder. Use fourth of sodium on poultry.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 8—Tex Rickard, promoter, has offered to stake any challenger, successfully defended his title against Frank Saxon, Canadian champion, here last night after having his nose, nearly ripped off by the big lone cracker from Montreal for a headlock. They won the first fall in 7 minutes with a toe hold. Saxon took the second with a headlock in 11 minutes. The second fall Saxon had a slim chance in four minutes.

QUEBEC, Feb. 8—Breaking a natural ice bridge and sending seven far away down the raging St. Lawrence of nine persons, proved upon investigation today to have resulted in no casualties. All three skiers were trapped under the ice but managed by a terrific tour managed to scramble ashore later on the south side of the river, but did not report their safety. Ferries searched for them throughout the night.

Every person of full age ought to be interested in the international situation on which attention has been suddenly focused by the Bok prize award and the death of former President Wilson, and everyone interested ought to listen at the Lyceum chapel tomorrow night to the discussion on "Uncle Sam and the World Relations," by Albert Bushnell Hart, who is one of the most eminent living authorities on history and international law. He may be mistaken in his views, whatever they are, and you may not agree with him; but his views will be worth considering.

The state highway department seems at least to be getting ready to do something to the impassable gap beyond the Filer highway. Wednesday afternoon, as stated in the Times, Commissioner W. J. Hall assured Secretary Charles Dwight of the chamber of commerce that steps would be taken toward fixing it up, and engineers sent at once to the scene. Last evening, an order was received from Boise closing the strip of road, 1.84 miles in length to vehicles having a gross weight of 5000 pounds. This inhibition is not intended as a sort of joke; though it is represented that there would be no possibility of getting a 5000-pound vehicle across the hole in question. Nevertheless the action shows a real interest in the situation, which if followed by more effective action, will get results.

WILSON AVOIDED MISAPPREHENSION

In his reply to Lloyd-George with reference to the alleged pact between Wilson and Clemenceau, the latter says: Wilson was the only one who could not have signed a secret treaty. He was dependent on congress. He repeatedly reminded us of that during the negotiations.

Without the slightest desire to arouse animosities, may it not be pointed out that among the numerous charges brought against the great president when the treaty fight was on, was one that he had deceived the representatives of foreign governments by assuming that he had the right to act independently of congress and that he could secure ratification of a treaty without the endorsement of that body? A great many people received very erroneous ideas on this. It now appears that Wilson repeatedly emphasized the facts.

Yet if he had not done so, he would have been guilty of a bad faith. The supreme court of the United States has held specifically that foreign nations are presumed to understand the constitutional limitations of the government of the United States in the making and enforcing of treaties. As a matter of fact, they do know these limitations, as the limitations of every great government in regard to foreign affairs, is studied and understood by every other foreign office and every legal department of other nations.

The fact that Wilson insisted in reminding the others of this point was evidently with a view of preventing them from dropping even for a moment into error, by confusing our system with others, while carrying on negotiations.

RADIO—ITS TREMENDOUS POPULARITY

(By HENRY H. GRAHAM.)

Advancing steadily, but surely, captivating the young and old alike, the strong and the weak, the radio has grown to a point where it threatens to occupy the center of the amusement stage. Every night millions of people "listen in." Antenna and condenser are now common words, understood by everyone, both the illiterate and the scholarly. Magazines, noted for their generality, devote entire sections to its advancement. Thousands look first of all for radio news in the daily press. The stories of world importance are often cast in minor roles.

Nor is the novelty of radio its only feature. What appeals particularly to the fans is the marvelous association with people in distant sections, the aerial contact with far-off voices that sing and talk, affording entertainment and instruction to those who tune in.

There is a strange, yet none-the-less real, companionship or shall we say friendship, existing between the owners of radio sets and those announcers and entertainers who speak nightly from the different broadcasting stations. Who does not know and love "Uncle John" Doggett, the genial, kind-hearted skipper at KHJ, The Times, Los Angeles? Kindness, happiness, joy—the words for which the letters stand, fairly radiate from this powerful station, located in the fairyland of America. "Uncle John" is a friend of all, but like many other announcers, he is an especial friend of the kiddies.

A week after one owns a radio set he comes to know by voice and character the men who stand at the helm of the studios at Los Angeles, Portland, Salt Lake, Hastings, Pittsburgh, Kansas City and a host of other metropolises. Each man possesses characteristics peculiar to himself, but a delightful personality just the same.

Radio has proved the connecting link between the north and south, the east and west. It has broken down the barrier that once seemed insurmountable. It has taught folks the value of friendship. It has shown conclusively that the people of Phoenix, Ariz., are not so different from those in Bangor, Me., after all. Trappers in the far north enjoy the diversion in the same measure as the dark-skinned races of South America.

Radio is yet somewhat imperfect. It is in its infancy, to use a hackneyed phrase. A few years should work wonders in developing it to a plane that might shock the conservative sons of today. That new and undreamed of improvements are to come seem undeniable. Already the door of discovery is opening wider. What will the future bring forth?

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 10

THE FAILURE AT KADESH.

LESSON TEXT—Num. 14:1-7a.

GOLDEN TEXT—"The Lord is with us: fear them not—Num. 14:9.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Israel Failed at Kadesh.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Crisis at Kadesh.

1. The Spies Sent Out (Num. 13: 17-20).

Less than two years had passed since the Israelites were delivered from their Egyptian bondage. They were now at Kadesh-barnea, within sight of the promised land. Moses urged them to go in and take immediate possession (Deut. 1:21), but they refused for little unbelief—(Heb. 3:19).—The record in Deuteronomy 1:19-35 shows that God did not take the initiative in sending out the spies but that request was made by the people. Representative men, a ruler from each tribe, were selected. There was a threefold purpose in sending out the spies:

1. To see whether the land was as God had told them (v. 18).

2. To see whether the people who dwelt there were strong or weak, few or many (v. 19).

3. To see whether the cities were made up of stronghold or tents (v. 19).

II. The Commission Executed (Num. 13:21-25).

They entered the land from the south and traversed it to its northern limit. They spent 40 days in this investigating exploration. On their return from the north, they gathered some specimens of the fruit of the land. Two of them, perhaps Caleb and Joshua, bore a cluster of grapes upon a staff between them as a witness that God had spoken the truth about the land.

III. The Spies Rendered a Report (Num. 13:26-33).

On their return this committee of explorers rendered a report to the whole congregation. It was not unanimous.

1. The Majority Report (vv. 26-29). (1) A land flowing with milk and honey. (2) "Nevertheless a people dwelt therein, and the cities were fenced and very great." (3) "The people dwelt in the valley, and the Amalekites dwelt in the south, and the Hittites, Jebusites and the Amorites dwelt in the mountains, and the Canaanites dwelt by the sea, that is, we have no ability to take them."

2. The Minority Report (vv. 30-33). Caleb gave a report agreeing with the first. It does not ignore the difficulties, nor dispute the facts. It doubted the conclusions of the majority. They had faith in God and in the promises, but asserted that with God's help they were well able to take possession of the land, and urged immediate action. "Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are able to overcome it" (v. 30).

IV. The Rebellion of the People (Num. 14:1-10).

This rebellion began by crying which shows that they were cowards. Having left God out of the question, they now weep and howl.

1. Murmuring (vv. 1-3). This weeping and howling was turned into murmuring against Moses and Aaron. Though too weak and cowardly to take their enemies in the power of God, they could assail their leaders. They even wished that they had died in Egypt.

2. Proposition to Organize to Return to Egypt (vv. 3, 4). They proposed to select a captain as their leader. God took them at their word and sent them back to wander in the wilderness for 38 years, during which time they all died except Joshua and Caleb.

3. Moses and Aaron Protrate Themselves (v. 5).

4. Joshua and Caleb Protested (vv. 6-9). They rent their clothes. They insisted that the land was good and that if God delighted in them, He would bring them into the land.

5. The People Were Filled With Murderous Hate and Proposed Stoning Joshua and Caleb (v. 10).

6. God's Interposition (v. 10). He manifested His glory before all the children of Israel in vindication of the loyalty of Joshua and Caleb. God then proposed punishment for Israel.

Sympathy.

Often the best act of sympathy you can extend to a friend in a great sorrow is to go to him and be with him, saying little or nothing; for there are sorrows that are beyond words.—Presbyterian Record.

God's Remedy.

There are wrongs in this world to be righted, but no moral philosophy will right them. God alone can meet such a situation with an adequate remedy.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Our Helper Is Omnipotent.

It is impossible for that man to despair who remembers that his Helper is omnipotent.—Jeremy Taylor.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific antiseptics admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood—Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 537 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S.S.S." I am now absolutely cured, and it was S.S.S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

CHAPTER XXIV

The Ending

At crack of dawn Kenneth rode out of his stable yard on Brandy Boy, and went cantering away, followed on foot by the excited Zachariah, bound to the parade ground where the "soldiers" were to concentrate.

The rider turned in his saddle to wave farewell to the little group huddled at Rathole's gate—three tall women who waved back to him, handing the hard, he sent a swift glance over his shoulder. There was but one figure at the gate now; she blew a kiss to him.

Nearly three hundred horsemen moved out of Lafayette that forenoon, amidst the greatest excitement and enthusiasm. Most of them swam their horses across the river, too eager to wait for the small-time ferry to transport them to the opposite bank. They were fearfully and wonderfully armed and equipped for the expedition. Guns of all descriptions and sizes; pistols, axes, halves and diligently scoured swords; pots and pans and bedding, blankets, knapsacks and parcels of varying sizes; in all a strange and motley assortment that would have caused a troop of regulars to die of laughter. But the valiant spirit was there. Even the provident and far-sighted gentlemen who strapped commissions and in some cases voluptuous umbrellas (because of their extraneous contents) across their backs alongside the guns, were no more ludicrous than their swashbuckling neighbors, who scorned the idea of carrying or even scoffed at the bloodthirsty radicals. Four beaverly laden wagons brought up the rear.

Kenneth, Engage Jones, Jack, the ubiquitous Judge Billings, who cheerfully and persuasively sought to "swap" horses with him when not otherwise employed in discoursing upon the vast inefficiency of certain specifically named officers who rode in all their plump glory at or near the head of the column. He was particularly out of sympathy with a loud-mouthed lieutenant.

"Why," said he, "if the captain was to say 'halt' suddenly that fellow's loss his mind, yith' to think what to do. No more head on him than a grasshopper. And look at these girls! Orders to a lot of bright fellers like you an' me an' the rest of us! By gosh, I'd like to be kidin' around where I could see the look on the Indian's face that scalps him. The minute he got through scrapin' a little hide an' half off of the top o' that fellow's head he'd be able to see clear down to the back of his Adam's apple."

Historians have recorded the experiences and achievements of this gallant troop of horse. It is not the intention of the present chronicler to describe Nine or ten days after the rode out from Lafayette the majority of the company rode back again and were received with acclaim. [illegible]

As a result of the "fiasco" Kenneth was at odds for near the Indians' border. His operations were confined to northwestern Illinois.

Kenneth did not ride back to Lafayette with the main body of troops. He rode with Captain McGeorge and his undaunted little band of adventurers.

He would have been amazed, even shocked, could he have known all that transpired in Lafayette on the day following his departure. He was not to know for many a day, as it was nearly three weeks after the return of the main body of troops that McGeorge and his little band rode wearily down through the Grand Prairie and entered Lafayette from the opposite side, having slipped in a scout sent on in advance.

Kenneth searched eagerly among the crowd on the river bank, seeking the face that had banished him throughout all his waking and sleeping nights; he looked for the beloved one to whom his thoughts had sped each night for communion at the feet of the kneeling Madonna in the cathedral in the woods. He was bitterly disappointed.

Minister Thankful

"I had stomach trouble for nearly 20 years, and constipation which filled me up, sour, with wind, gas and fever. I could not do my work, and while I was down sick, a lady friend gave me a sample bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy which proved truly wonderful. I believe it's the best medicine on earth." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation, which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince you. Sold by Kelly-Hart & Co., drug stores.

Christ for Us

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE, Interior Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—For Christ is not entered into the holy place made with hands, which is the type of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us.—Heb. 9:24.

"For Lovely Man" is to occupy our thoughts again today. In our last sermon of this series we considered His entrance "into the holiest, as the High Priest" of our confession. Today we are to see how intimately concerned we are with His presence there. "Wherefore, holy brethren, fellows of the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus." The supreme mission of the Holy Spirit is to testify of Christ and make Him known, and here He announces us to behold Him in His priestly office, because "for us" He is there—on our behalf—representing us in all the acceptableness of His own Person before God. Ah, He cannot forget those for whom He died and whom His grace has made His own forever. The love that led Him to the cross for us is a love that cannot change and it will never abandon those upon whom it has once been bestowed, but will bear them unceasingly in the presence of God and thus maintain, in all its integrity, the relationship in which by death and resurrection He has established them.

His presence there within the veil is the believer's security, and upon this spirit of God leans our strong consolation, saying in chapter 6:18: "That we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us: which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the veil; whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, made an High Priest forever."

"Fled for refuge." The phrase is a plain allusion to the manslayer in Israel, for whom the six cities of refuge were appointed, scattered throughout the land. . . When unwittingly, without lying in wait, one might kill a fellowman, he was to flee to the nearest of these cities of refuge and remain within its walls free from the avenger of blood, during "the life of the high priest that should be in those days." When the high priest died, and another succeeded to the priesthood, the manslayer returned to his home unmolested.

How these cities of refuge preached to Israel! How prophetic still of a coming day when that nation, guilty of a great fratricide, shall flee from the avenger and find refuge. "Unwittingly" they did it, as the object of their wrath, in a prayer that must avail, declared: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

No one is believer in Jesus—The Spirit of God is likening Jesus to the manslayer, not in his manslaughter, but in his security. You are shut up in the city of refuge and your safety there depends upon the High Priest.

of our profession, who said: "Because I live, ye shall live also," and of whom it is written in Romans 5:10: "For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of His Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by His life."

But those priests of Aaron's line died. When will our High Priest die? Since in death for sin, He is not of it forever. "Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over Him" (Rom. 6:9). And we turn again to our epistle of the sanctuary and read: "And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death; but this man, because he ever lives, has an unchangeable priesthood. Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever lives to make intercession for them."

"Upon resolution-holiness! Based upon no merit of ours or attainments but upon the attainments and merit of our Lord Jesus Christ.

But stronger still is the consolation for of this hope which we have laid hold upon, it is likened: "We have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast." The figure recalls the old-fashioned seamanship, when the ship's anchor was carried up on the bark and left there. He who has gone into heaven for us has anchored our souls there within the veil.

And now, to make our consolation complete, and to free us from all uncertainty, as to our being in heaven at last, one word is added: "Whither the forerunner is for us entered." If any complain of the mixing of metaphors, let him remember that it is the Spirit of God who employs them. Surely He knows how to use them to set the Savior forth. "Now to appear in the presence of God for us." As our forerunner He has gone into heaven, there to make public proclamation of our coming, pronouncing the name of every forgiven sinner and thus heralding his arrival into the place which He has gone to prepare.

SCILLEY IN TALK LAUDS SUGAR BEET

District Manager of the Amalgamated Describes Success Achieved in Handling Crop Near City by Use of Boys and Girls; Program Draws to Close.

The value of boys and girls in the beet fields was extolled this morning by District Manager James Scilley of the Amalgamated Sugar company in his address today before the University Farm Life Institute at the Parish hall, and he pointed out that all beets within three miles of the city limits could be taken care of by children on vacation. Though the continued rain prevented the coming of the largest crowd, there were many present.

Mr. Scilley, in discussing the labor question with reference to beets and the objection that some have to "temporary importation of Mexican laborers, said that it was necessary to do this to some extent in order to handle the crop. There are not enough Americans to do it. One man would take care of ten acres, however, last summer he asked for volunteers in the city from among children in the higher scholastic classes who wanted to earn some money and whose parents were willing to let them go. The success was pronounced. Many wealthy parents allowed their boys and girls to go out and warmly thanked him, because of the innovation, as it taught them the value of labor and gave them some money. Many others who needed money joined these and all were believed better off for it. He believed that 160 acres could be taken care of around town in this way with benefit to both parties. The farmers by putting a large number of big boys and girls into the field could clean them in a very few days instead of the work drag-along as it has to whenever hoeing, but one man to 10 acres and it was done in uniform manner. Some beets handled last year by boys and girls yielded more than 10 tons an acre.

Mr. Scilley went into details regarding diversification, steady industry, good profits and other matters pertaining to sugar beets and late the problems connected with their raising.

Big Sugar Here.

Manager Scilley made an argument in favor of buying home sugar here instead of shipping in sugar from other states in the hope that without difference in the price this would mean two cents more profit, which in turn could be expended in increased price for beets.

Dean B. J. Iddings of the university this afternoon urged the raising of enough hogs to supply the market west of the rockies and in turn the large increase of the number of dairy cattle. He gave an illustrated talk on pests. Duets were sung by Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hall with Mrs. D. L. Alexander playing accompaniment.

Guthrie said that the member of the girl had permitted one of their trips and had retained presents made, and that the man had always taken care to protect the honor of the girl.

Community Building

Says Good Home-Making Involves the High Arts

Chicago, in keeping with the rest of the United States, is turning its attention to the national movement for better homes. Various women's clubs and other social agencies, in programs and other forms of service, are teaching the lessons of "better homes, better citizens."

Attractive homes that add to the comfort of adults and provide interesting surroundings for adolescent and juvenile members of the household are fundamental requisites for happy families, according to the originators of the movement.

Hendrik Van Loon in his history of mankind, after reviewing all the phases of statecraft, industry and religion that have influenced the making of our race and civilization what it is today, and after recording the influence of various leaders in military, scientific and literary achievements, says: Remember, homes and home life are prophetic and leaders of the race.

"A good home, and the happiness in like a nursery without laughter." In other words, art in its various forms has been the liberator of the race. No civilization can exist without art. But of all the arts, home-making and the proper setting and its contents and surroundings is most difficult to achieve, yet most vital to a happy life and a satisfactory community or nation.

A beautiful home has the power to attract attention, improve conduct, counsel temper, inspire ambitions, friends together, form communities, found states and create nations. Men and women reared in and among beautiful homes acquire good taste from them and develop a desire for the lovely thing. Good home-making involves all the high arts and produces the most happiness for us all.

The small homes are just as important, or more important than the mansions from a moral, economic and patriotic point of view. The building of homes is a matter of most vital concern to the welfare of a nation. Homeless citizens are families, whether rich or poor, are not potentially the best citizens.

A citizen with a rent receipt and a foreigner with a passport have similar uninterested and irresponsible mental attitudes toward the community, town or state.

USING HER NEW WORD

Mrs. R. S. of Seattle writes: "Little Barbara, having heard a visitor remark that her new baby brother was blond, inquired—what blond meant. 'It means light, dear,' answered her mother.

"A little later, Barbara, on glancing out of the window at the moonlit fields, exclaimed, 'Oh, mamma, how blond it is outside'."—Boston Transcript.

"Sur, sorr, don't you hear thim mocking you? You never pass thim but they fall 'quack, quack, quack!'"

Tanlac Met Every Test, She Declares

"The Tanlac treatment made me stout, healthy and strong and, of course, I think it is just wonderful," is the appreciative statement of Mrs. C. E. Heversten, 610 South 21st., Billings, Mont.

"During the spring I was badly run down from what I thought was spring fever. My liver was all out of order and was suffering a great deal from biliousness and awful headache. My back gave me a lot of trouble, too, and I simply felt so miserable that my housework was a burden. In fact, I was nervous and restless and run down in every way.

"My father had taken Tanlac with such fine results that he advised me to try it, too, and it made me feel just the way I had been wanting to feel. Four or five bottles of Tanlac relieved my troubles and built me up to splendid health and it has my highest praise."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

JEWS IN ANCIENT MOROCCO

According to Tradition Children of Israel Were There in Days of Solomon's Days.

The settlement of the Jews in Morocco is of very ancient origin. How ancient it is nobody has as yet been able to establish with any degree of certainty. Indefinite and fabulous are the records of the earliest Jewish colony in Morocco, some going even so far as to assign it to the time of King Solomon when "merchants—merchants—were supposed to have gone there in search of trade, says the Detroit News.

But it seems to be an established fact that already at the time of the Roman domination of the world there was quite a number of Jews in Morocco.

At the time of the Spanish occupation of the country Jews seem to have filled important positions of state as negotiators, treasurers, councilors and administrators.
