BUSINESS MEN TOLD U.S. MUST HAVE NEW DEAL

Speaker Before Hardware Manufacturers Says Representative Government Is Functioning Badly in the United States and, Unless There Is a Change, Disaster Must Follow.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 8.—Calling to the attention of the business men of the United States "your desperate need of new men and new policies to replace the bullfeathers shilly-shallying and indecision, curtailing which has settled down like a plague on the government of this country," Pierrepont B. Noyes of Dansville, N. Y., addressed business men today.

Noyes is a former president of the American Hardware Manufacturers' association and also was United States Rhineland commissioner. He was addressing the joint convention of the American Hardware Manufacturers' association and the Southern Hardware Jobbers' association.

It was stated that the address was written and delivered after consultations between Noyes and a number of prominent businessmen of the United States.

Noyes began his address by stating that he had something on his mind that was in the minds of millions of people of the United States, and he believed the time had come to discuss it. He continued:

"Stated briefly and frankly representative government is functioning very badly in the United States. It is unquestionably at the lowest point within the memory of this generation. We may as well acknowledge this. It is too evident to every thinking American who is not hopelessly committed to some personal or party success. Everywhere I go I find a growing disgust with cliques, ineffectiveness and pettiness and cowardice of current politics, so much so with its uncleanness.

Mortified and Alarmed.

"Good citizens are mortified and alarmed, but they should not be surprised. Whenever the responsible leaders of a people adopt a policy of dodging or postponing all serious problems, the vacuum in statesmanship thus created is automatically filled with the noisy struggles of little men for little ends and of corrupt men for corrupt ends. Public opinion becomes confused and loses its ability to register. The ordinary citizen relapses into a state of helpless disgust.

"This is exactly what has happened to our national politics during the past two years. Leaders of politicians, governed by fear for their political lives, have consistently shied at every great national problem, until they have turned Washington into an arena where only the pettiest and most personal struggles are staged. Statesmanship has atrophied. In its place unstable, little men are fighting other ambitious little men for personal or party ends. Public life has become infected with timidity and hysteria.

"On the other hand, our politicians are deceiving themselves if they think the people of the United States will permanently endure this hectic atmosphere which shifts from the front pages of the newspapers with a spasmodic hitch-potch of political scandals and the meaningless acrobatics of self-advertising legislators. We are all tired of the haggling and bargainings which make of great issues like taxation and the soldiers' bonus footballs in a game for partisan advantage. We are sickened by the tales of corruption in high places, and the scarcely less degrading sales to wealthy corporations of the "influence" of men the nation has been proud to honor. We have lost interest in baby presidential booms nursed exclusively on destructive criticism. But more than all, we resent the feverish political activity which, day after day, has crowded out discussion and action on matters of real national interest, and the cloud of secrecy and self-interest which has for months obscured those burning problems, national and international, upon which our future prosperity depends.

People Demand New Deal.

"Traveling through different states during the last few months I have noted a growing demand for a brand new deal in politics. The unpolitical citizen has a feeling of helplessness. He does not yet know quite where to begin, but the rising tide of his anger at the pettiness and corruption of our national politicians may soon upset all political calculations.

"As far as I am concerned the time has already come for heroic remedies.

"I do not believe that our political disease can be cured without a major operation—a clean sweep and a complete new deal. Furthermore, I believe that a large majority of the citizens of the United States in their hearts agree with me. They are ready to demand new

RAILROAD COMMITTEE MAKES STATEMENT

Full explanation of the present situation which has resulted in the drive for the raising of $15,000, which will start tomorrow, is contained in a statement issued today and signed by the twin railroad committee, following the understanding arrived at late yesterday with E. E. Gray of Contact. The story begins with negotiations which started a year and a half ago. It tells about the visit of Carl Gray in March, 1923, of the telegram of May 10, 1923, wherein President Gray defined the conditions which were accepted by the committee and incorporated into petition for a certificate of convenience and necessity presented to the interstate commerce commission, and on which the writ was granted. The later negotiations are outlined. Further details will be given at the meeting tonight in the high school auditorium where all are invited to congregate at 8 o'clock.

The committee statement:

"Because of the complaint which has to be stated immediately for the purpose of raising funds to obtain the right of way for the Hagerman-Wells road and in order that the public may know why the raising of this money is necessary, the committee which has had the negotiations with the railroad company in charge makes this statement.

"Conference looking to the building of the road began a year and a half ago. At that time the Representative of the Oregon Short Line asked what this community would do toward encouraging the building of the line. In reply, the committee made a written statement and, among other things, said that a free right of way for the road would be procured by the public.

"Nothing definite developed until March, 1923, at which time President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific System with other officials of the road visited Twin Falls. Mr. Gray then stated to the committee that the road would be built if we could comply with certain conditions named by him. The principal one was that we get control of the capital stock of the Idaho Central Railroad Co., so that the outstanding certificate of convenience and necessity then held by that company and which gave it the right to build a road through the territory under consideration, could be retired and a like certificate obtained by the Oregon Short Line. This was accomplished by the payment of $25,000 which was raised by popular subscription.

"Later on May 10th, 1923, President Gray sent to the Twin Falls chamber of commerce his telegram handing specifically the terms upon which the road would be built. The telegram was as follows:

"'If the committee will acquire all of the capital stock of the Idaho Central railroad company, and thereupon accomplish the cancellation of the existing certificate of public convenience and necessity issued to that company by the Interstate Commerce Commission and, in addition, will provide free of cost to the Oregon Short Line the necessary right of way, including the grounds for terminals at Wells, Nevada, the said Oregon Short Line will confidentially apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to be issued and when granted will promptly begin the construction of the line from Hagerman to Wells, prosecuting the same with proper and reasonable diligence to completion. Signed, 'C. R. Gray.'

"No objection to the proposition of President Gray was made by the Twin Falls chamber of commerce. As soon as the outstanding certificate referred to was under our control, the

Some Facts About New Attorney General Stone

HARLAN FISKE STONE.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Harlan Fiske Stone, new attorney general, is a leading lawyer, inspiring educator, apt fisherman, chummy father, devoted husband—but best of all—"the finest son-in-law in all the world."

So says Mrs. E. E. Harvey, his mother-in-law, who has lived with him for 18 years.

"In all that time," she says, "I never have heard him utter a cross word or seen anything but a smile.

"Some may joke about the mother-in-law but Harlan jokes with her."

Mrs. Harvey has known Stone since he was four months old. His family and hers were neighbors in Chesterfield, N. H. Both were farming folks.

"Quite naturally, Harlan, and my daughter, Agnes, a few years his junior, grew up together," the beaming mother-in-law went on.

"They became sweethearts and I guess still are."

Wife's Poor Health

All these years he never let his work interfere with his family relations. He was the pal of his two sons, Marshall, now 21, and Lauson, 19. And his greatest thrill always comes with their achievements.

For Dean Stone, as he's still called around Columbia, is primarily a scholar. He does not like golf, motoring or other diversions of the usual professional man.

"When they don't spend summers traveling abroad, they spend them in Vermont," Mrs. Harvey said. Mr. Coolidge probably will have to stay in Washington, for the job before him will be the hardest he ever tackled.

"It will require all his skill as scholar, litigator and fisherman.

Mrs. Stone may not be able to help her husband with his momentous task. She has been in ill health the past few weeks.

MINERS HUNT FOR SLAYER OF YOUNG GIRL

Mammoth Mine Is Closed While Miners Hunt for Slayer of Ferreman's 15-Year-Old Daughter.

REDDING, Cal., April 8. — The Mammoth mine, up in the mountains beyond Kennett, was silent today while every available man ransacked the hills hunting for the murderer of Olga Hamlin, 15, daughter of Fred Hamlin, a mine foreman.

The girl was fatally treated and then murdered Saturday on the road between Kennett and the Mammoth mine.

A blood stained stilleto found near the body was identified as the property of a young miner who had been one of the girl's sweethearts and it is he whom the authorities and miners are seeking as the slayer. The info discovered Saturday of about the time the murder was committed.

Reward of $1500 has been offered for his capture, $1000 by the Mammoth Mine company and $500 by the miners themselves.

It appeared almost certain today that if the miners come upon the man they seek before officers of the law can find him he will be lynched. The whole mining country has been stirred and upon friendly or swift justice have been heard.

KLAN MEMBERS FACE MURDER

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 8.—Judge John E. Evans of Cambria county tomorrow will hold a hearing preliminary for 26 alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan, charged with riot and murder as a result of a clash between citizens of Lilly and the klan Saturday.

Two more names were added to the list of alleged klansmen to face criminal prosecution when Herman Koontz and Wilmer Sisler were arrested here.

Condition of Patrick Bradley and Frank Misaco, both of Lilly, was reported critical at the Altoona hospital. Both were shot through the abdomen. Other victims of the riot are recovering in hospitals.

Harding's Widow May Run in Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding for governor of Ohio.

This proposal was made today by R. M. Mack, Gallipolis politician, who declared the widow of the late president could carry Ohio overwhelmingly in the fall election if she were nominated on the republican ticket.

Labor Leader to Defeat Government

LONDON, April 8.—Unless upset by last night's defeat, Premier MacDonald today reiterated his determination to carry on until the government is beaten on a substantial issue, a matter of principle or a direct vote of confidence.

The labor cabinet met to attempt to devise a method to handle the situation. Both in another form, it was on this measure that the government met defeat by nine votes. Parliamentary order prohibits reintroduction of a defeated bill in the same session.

The British generally uphold MacDonald in not resigning. The premier spent the morning about his foreign office duties. He showed the strain of last night's harrowing experience when he sat with folded arms and deathly white face, in a maelstrom of jibes from the tory opposition, refusing to resign.

HOOSIER WRITER ENTER RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 8.—Indiana's primary race took on a literary aspect today with the entrance of Meredith Nicholson, Hoosier writer, into the race for the democratic nomination for state senator from Marion county.

NEW CASES OF FOOT-MOUTH DISEASE SHOW

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Three new infections of hoof and mouth disease in California during the last 24 hours gave proof today that the epidemic has not yet been controlled.

One of these cases was in the San Francisco stockyards district and caused clamping down of quarantine restrictions on the area where the infection occurred.

NEW TAX BILL FOLLOWS MELLON PLAN CLOSELY

Senate Finance Committee Will Report Bill to Floor of Senate Where a Bitter Fight Is Expected.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The new tax bill with the Mellon rates written in was ordered favorably reported by the senate finance committee today after nearly a month of discussion.

The committee's action puts the bill on the floor of the senate where it faces a bitter fight and apparently inevitable and complete revision in the form in which the house passed it. It will be taken up for discussion probably next Monday.

The bill is a complete revision of the measure passed by the house a month ago. Republican members of the senate committee led a fight for reciprocity of democratic votes permitted to restore the rates first proposed by Mellon, which were rejected by the house.

Democrats are confident they can change it to meet their own views when it reaches the floor. Its important features include:

A 3 per cent normal tax on incomes of less than $4,000.

A 6 per cent normal tax on incomes of more than $4,000.

A maximum surtax of 25 per cent on incomes of more than $100,000.

A tax of 25 per cent on inheritances of more than $100,000.

A 10 per cent tax on all jewelry costing more than $25.

Slightly more exemptions on the taxes upon automobiles.

A flat corporation tax of 14 per cent instead of 12½ per cent.

A tax of ten per cent on admissions to amusements costing over 50 cents.

A tax of ten per cent on radio parts and sets of Mah Jongg sets.

Taxes upon telegraph and telephone messages and telegrams will remain the same instead of being reduced as in the bill passed by the house, provided.

The following taxes will be wiped out:

Beverages, candy, corporation capital stock, capital loss provisions, straight levy on amusements, knives, liveries, hunting, shooting and fishing gunsmiths, yachts and motorboat sales, carpets, rugs, trunks and purses.

CHICAGO RUM RING EXCUSED BY DAUGHERTY

Federal Prohibition Agent Receives Order to Stop Prosecution of Western Brewery Company.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Further details of alleged "protection" afforded a Chicago rum ring by federal and state officials were given today by Colo. Armstrong, Chicago dry agent before the senate Daugherty investigating committee today.

Armstrong said that W. O. Potter, United States district attorney at East St. Louis, was proposed a case of prohibition violation against the Western Brewery company at Belleville, Ill. Later, he said that he learned that $5,000 had been paid by the company to some government department "in lieu" of prosecution.

After seizing a truckload of beer from the brewery, Armstrong said he recommended prosecution and injunction proceedings.

"I went to see Mr. Potter to give some additional evidence," he said. "Potter said, 'I don't need any more evidence because I have given orders the department of justice to nolle prosse this case.'"

"Was it nolle prossed?"

"Yes."

Armstrong said his divisional chief, a Mr. Kelly, was ordered to destroy evidence at certain saloons.

The witness said he had reported from 1,000 to 1,500 violations of the prohibition law in Chicago in three years, but had been called to testify but eight times in criminal proceedings.

Armstrong said that "graft collections" are going on every day in Chicago.

"I know that W. W. Flowers gave a negro politician named McGowan $1,500 to have an indictment against him squashed," he said. Flowers was convicted and he squealed."

Woman Charged With Arranging Duel; Two Killed

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 8.—A woman was accused today of arranging a spectacular revolver duel in a downtown shoe store here in which the two principals were killed.

Mrs. Myrtle Dixon Hooks was charged with assault to murder following the gun battle between Dr. Ira E. Holcombe and H. C. Green.

The two men each died down at close range. Mrs. Hooks, officials charged lured Green to the drug store where the duel was staged.

Both men emptied their revolvers before they fell to the floor. Holcombe died instantly, Green, with five bullet wounds, lived several hours.

Before dying, Green said Holcombe had accused him of having improper relations with Mrs. Holcombe. He said Mrs. Hooks called him to the drug store "to settle this trouble."

COOLIDGE TAKES BIG LEAD IN MICHIGAN

Johnson Lost in Michigan Primary to Coolidge Who Has More Than Double the Californian's Vote; Coolidge Headquarters Feel That Western Senator Is Out of the Running; Coolidge's Majority Is About 100,000.

DETROIT, Mich., April 8.—President Coolidge's majority over Senator Hiram Johnson was near the 100,000 mark with more than two thirds of the state's precincts reported in the republican presidential primary.

The vote in 1963 out of 2894 precincts was:

Coolidge, 162,299; Johnson, 73,203.

Coolidge's plurality, 89,026.

Henry Ford, involuntary candidate in the democratic primary was holding his own with about 2000 majority over United States Senator W. N. Ferris.

The vote in 1937 precincts was: Ford, 28,817; Ferris, 26,079. Ford's majority was 2738.

DETROIT, Mich., April 8.—President Coolidge's majority over Senator Johnson steadily continued to climb as further returns maintained the two to one ratio against the Californian in the republican presidential primary yesterday.

Coolidge's plurality was 74,086.

Henry Ford still kept a small lead over Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris, returns from 1764 precincts giving Ford 22,976, and Ferris 22,222. Ford's majority was 2754.

(Copyright 1924 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, April 8.—President Coolidge's big lead in returns from Michigan's presidential primary gave the president and his campaign managers unbounded satisfaction today, but only because it seemed to sound the final knell of Hiram Johnson's candidacy as a serious factor but also because it seemed to show that the oil scandal as reflected in the Denby case, had less hurt Mr. Coolidge's home commonwealth.

Michigan was regarded by the Johnson group as their territory and they expected to win the state's endorsement. Furthermore, the third party, for independent move has invaded the state. And there was naturally some doubt about how Denby's home folks were going to feel toward the administration which accepted Denby's resignation.

Denby may have contributed something to the result by his telegram yesterday urging wholehearted support of the president. But the message was very too late to be of very great assistance. The fact is that the Coolidge forces, organized to a perfection which is just becoming apparent, had entered the state to complete.

The lack of enthusiasm for Johnson in that state was regarded here as just about putting the finishing touches on his campaign, and rumors were heard today that his might withdraw, though there were given little credence. Johnson says the fight is just beginning, and it is known that there are influences which would prefer him stalking until his last chance was gone.

Another feature of the Michigan voting which "leaves out reports brought back by observers sent out from various camps is that the midwest is generally apathetic concerning the presidential contest. The Michigan vote was comparatively light. It is the opinion of that sort of apathy that a well greased organization functions most effectively and that is the sort of organization that is making it clearer daily that Coolidge has no serious opposition for the republican nomination.

Undertakers Are Accused of Graft With War Dead

Investigation Shows That Victims of World War Buried for $11 Per Head in Potters' Field and Government Paid $75 Each.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A grave charge that undertakers employed by the Old Hickory Powder company, near Nashville, Tenn., to bury its war "flu" victims for $75 actually turned out dead bodies for $11 and pocketed the $64 difference was made before the senate Daugherty investigating committee today by George W. Storck, a department of justice accountant.

Storck said the bodies were made in potters' field and the government paid the Hickory Powder company charged.

Storck made his charge in testimony concerning the department of justice activities in prosecuting those held to be due the government from the Old Hickory company.

GERMANY MUST PAY A BILLION MARKS YEARLY

Reparations Commission Has Leveled Heavy Burden on Germany and Unless They Obtain a Big Loan Will Not Be Able to Pay.

PARIS, April 8.—Details of the experts' reports are leaking out as they pass through more and more hands in translation, printing and proof reading.

French sources today handed out what purported to be an authoritative resume of the Dawes committee's report. It conforms to the outline carried in United Press dispatches yesterday, namely, that gold backed of annuities will be established, an "international loan granted Germany and control of the railroads assumed and adds hitherto "unpublished details.

"Without interfering with military occupation of the Ruhr," the authoritative French version says, "the economic unity of Germany must be restored.

"The Ruhr customs and railways must be returned to Germany, but allied representatives will act as overseers in order to safeguard the security of the troops.

"Germany's reparations payments will amount to one billion gold marks the first year by means of a foreign loan of 800,000,000 plus 200,000,000 from a transport tax.

"Twelve hundred millions will be paid the second and third years, 2,500,000,000 the four year, 2,500,000,000 the fifth and in a rising ratio, thereafter, according to Germany's national prosperity.

"The entire German railway system is to be conceded for fifty years to a company with a capital of twenty-six billion gold marks, of which two billion marks in preferred stock will be sold."

The French version also includes a levy on German industries which profited by annihilation of the mark.

Governor of Indiana Explains Dealings

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 8.—Defense attorneys in the trial of Governor Warren T. McCray today continued introduction of evidence shedding light on the deals by which the governor obtained $155,000 of funds of the state board of agriculture, he is accused of stealing.

They were attempting to discredit the story of I. Nekt Brown, secretary-treasurer of the board, at the time of the McCray deal that the money was intended for deposit in McCray's bank at Kentland and proves that the money was given to the governor as a loan.

HUSBAND WRENCHES HIMSELF FROM BRIDE AND IS CRUSHED

TONAWANDA, N. Y., April 8.—Wrenching himself free from the grasp of his bride of six months and in full view of a score of men and women, George Peridy, 25, formerly of Detroit, Mich., threw himself in front of a Lehigh Valley freight train today and was ground to pieces.

A witness said he said to have preceded the suicide.

...AT THE... THEATRES

ORPHEUM VAUDEVILLE

What promises to be one of the most popular vaudeville bills of the season will be seen at the Orpheum theatre tomorrow.

The feature attraction will be Moss & Manning Sisters in "Dancing Snapshots," a novelty dance revue presenting a series of dances executed in a thoroughly enjoyable manner by a talented young man and two cute winsome little maids who are past masters in the art of terpsichore. He has marked ability as a funster and his offering is one of the cleverest bits of entertainment seen in many a day. Another sterling attraction is Frank & Hunt in "Stringing Comedy & Song." Miss Hunt is known as the miniature nightingale and Frank as the pantomimic fool musician featuring his $15,000 baby grand cello in music, comedy and song. Achilles and Vesina present a posing and painting act out of the ordinary. This offering is a beautiful surprise introducing poses and reproductions of world famous paintings done in oil.

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON WILL NOT BE AT BIG OLYMPIC MEET

U. S. Will Be Weakened by Loss of These Two Tennis Stars; Both Prefer to Conserve Resources for Davis Cup.

(By HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK, April 7.—Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston, two young men as capable mentally as they are perfect in the mechanics of tennis, say they prefer to save their resources for the defense of the Davis cup rather than attempting to win the Olympic tennis championship for the United States.

To some professional flag-waivers this savors of bolshevism and a more conservative viewpoint might find in it the symptoms of an unpatriotic spirit.

Tilden is in the clear, however. He is barred from the Olympic team by the rule passed which prohibits any athlete from writing for publication while he is a member of the team. He is not barred from the American Davis cup team, because the same kind of a rule passed by the tennis association against player-writers does not become effective until next year.

Bill Johnston, however, is in the tight place. He says he cannot consider an appointment to a place on the Olympic team because he cannot get away from his business long enough to play in Paris and in the Davis cup matches and he prefers to pass up the Olympics.

With Vinnie Richards barred, also, from the Olympic team because of his literary leanings, the United States will have to depend upon Dick Williams, Watty Washburn, and, perhaps, a few college players. Hunter, Anderson, the Kinsers, and several others are also writers.

Under the circumstances it is quite possible that the United States might finish no higher than second in the Olympic tennis matches, and in that event Johnston will have to answer the question: "Why did you leave your country flat when you could have won first place for her?"

Johnston already has given the answer. He feels the Davis cup contest is more important.

BUSINESS MEN TOLD U. S. MUST

men and a new spirit in politics. They are ready to insist that at the coming election they be given a chance to vote for a candidate who will clean up and regulate our national life; who will not simply drag Washington out of the mud, but will courageously open up the great issues which have been pigeon-holed or sand-bagged, and who will bring a constructive statesmanship to bear on their solution.

"In so far as all investigations are sincere attempts to reinstate honesty and honor in public life we are interested. But investigations and prosecutions are at best negative, while the nation needs a dose of the positive. We need not simply a housecleaning at Washington but a wholesale hiring and firing.

"In behalf of you and a hundred million other unpolitical men and women, I want to place an order today for a candidate—a real leader, a new man. I care not whether he be a republican or a democrat, but I want a man of sufficient intellectual and moral stature to guarantee positive leadership and positive honesty."

FISHERMEN ARE FINED.

POCATELLO, Idaho, April 8.—According to word reaching here from Mackay, three prominent Pocatello fishermen were taken into custody several days ago in that city on the charge of catching more than the limit of Lost River rainbows and were assessed fines of $25 each by Justice of the Peace Kilgore. The men gave their names as "John Doe," "Richard Roe" and "William Williams." While reports have been current recently that fishing is poor in the Lost River country, the arrest of the three men for having over the limit is ample proof that such a rumor is not correct.

CLINIC DATES FIXED.

BOISE, Idaho, April 8.—Dr. W. F. Almond, director of the state child hygiene clinics, this morning announced the dates for the spring clinics in southern Idaho. The dates have been revised on account of the prevalence of measles and other contagious diseases in different sections. Paymaster Feigns Insanity, Is Claim

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Officers from headquarters of the twelfth naval district here today formally identified the man found in a deranged condition in a park here last night as Lieutenant Ervine R. Brown, who absconded from the destroyer Somers early in March with $120,000 of government funds.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Lieutenant Ervine R. Brown, United States navy pay officer whose accounts were found to be $120,000 short, was lying on a cot in the emergency hospital here today either violently insane or feigning insanity.

He was found lying on a driving way in Golden Gate park last night, apparently demented.

Early today navy officers came with records to the hospital and announced the identification was positive.

"Am I absolutely identified there?" Brown asked, seeping to recover from his delirium.

"Yes," said a detective.

"Then what's the use of talking to you," replied Brown and he lapsed backed in his demented state.

TWIN FALLS TO SEND TEAM TO STATE SHOOT

Practice Has Started for the State Tournament to be Held in Lewiston on the Last of April; Twin Falls Bag and Gun Club Will Enter Meet.

Twin Falls gun men have been practicing every Sunday for the biennial tournament of the Idaho Gun Club, which will be held this year in Lewiston on April 27-29. It will be remembered that the tournament was held here last year and considerable interest was manifest throughout the southern half of country by various sportsmen of the pigeon tribe.

Some of those who are working with the expectation of entering this meet are C. A. Bailey, Everett Sweeley, "Pop" Fisher, L. T. Wright, Edgar Patrick and Sherwood White. John DeMoss of Filer will also enter. Roy Coates of Jerome will undoubtedly be there and will do his share in making it a record shoot.

Bailey states that in the very near future some practice shoots will be pulled off which will be interesting to watch. Practice will also be held during the middle of the week starting with next week. Many spectators will be there these Sunday tryouts.

The regular weekly luncheon of the Filer Kiwanis club was held at noon today in the basement of the Methodist church and it was pronounced by the visitors from Twin Falls and one of the livest meetings that has been held by this new club. Their singing was snappy and their program was up to the minute.

One of the high school boys gave a very fine dramatic reading and Miss Gilliland was taken in as an honorary member. One of the high school professors was appointed as song leader.

Those who attended from Twin Falls are Lieutenant Governor C. E. Wright, Leonard Smith, M. G. Bailey, R. K. Logan and Alvin Harbour.

Foster Brother of Twin Falls Man Is Training Big Horse

A fine picture of the noted French racer Epinard, with his trainer, Gene Leigh, was run in the Salt Lake Tribune Monday. This famous horse is soon to be brought to this country by his owner, Pierre Wertheimer, with Mr. Leigh, his trainer, and Jockey Haynes.

The event has local interest since Mr. Leigh is a foster brother of S. S. Arn of Twin Falls. He has been in France a quarter of a century. Six years ago he made a visit to America and he and Mr. Arn met in Hot Springs, Arkansas after they had been apart for 40 years. They hope to meet again on this occasion. Mr. Leigh was himself a large owner of fine horses when the war broke out and found his fortunes much reduced by their virtual confiscation by the French government. The horse which won the $60,000 Paris derby was taken over for a cavalry horse at $300.

RUN-DOWN WEAK, NERVOUS

Lancaster, Pa.—"After I was married I became terribly run-down and was weak and nervous. My sister-in-law told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband got me a bottle at once, and it did me so much good that I kept on taking it. I began to feel well and strong again and was able to do my housework up to the time my baby was born—a nice fat little girl in the best of health. I surely am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends when they have trouble like mine, and I am perfectly willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. Frank H. Grimm, 238 Locust Street, Lancaster, Pa.

Women should heed such symptoms as pains, backache, nervousness (a run-down condition and irregularity, as they indicate some form of female trouble.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles. For sale by druggists everywhere.

MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 8.—Wheat closed unchanged to higher. Other grain lower on the board of trade today.

A last minute rally scared by wheat fractional gains. Up to this time sellers predominated and there was heavy offerings of long grain on the market. No export business was reported.

A liberal cash demand and shading of premiums in that market, a larger movement and indications of further increases and less urgent inquiry affected the corn market.

Oats slumped with corn, and reports of general seeding. Urgent demand prevailed yesterday, seems to have been temporarily satisfied.

The railroad committees which have been appointed to solicit the business men and the other district of Twin Falls should bear down heavy on those who did not contribute on the previous drives for this cause. We understand that there are a number of big property owners who have not contributed at all to this Rogerson-Wells railroad fund and there can be no excuse because their property is enhanced more than the average business man's retail trade who is hit at every turn of the road just because they are easy access and are catering to the public.

The egg association organizers are not inclined to crow or to count their chickens before they are hatched, but they are hopeful that with another week's intensive and organized drive they can find enough hens laying around the state who will come up to the scratch and make their mark plucking their hen fruit for the new year to put the society on the high roost of success. The society lacks less than 20 per cent of the number of hens required and it is expected that they can get them signed up very shortly after the drive has started.

The Twin Falls Dairymen's association which was legally launched yesterday is destined to sail long and well unless wrecked by some act of bad piloting, which has proven the cause of misfortune to more than one study co-operative craft. There are some lines of business in which there is much more success in co-operation than in others, and dairying is one of them. It is not necessary to go to Denmark to find an example of this. In many parts of the United States co-operative dairying has been carried on successfully. The experience of the men who are at the head of the new concern in Twin Falls county should inspire confidence, and doubtless will. The meeting acted wisely as well as loyally in striking out the provision to purchase from non-members. They would, had they entered the competitive field, not merely lost the advantage given them under the state law, but they would find themselves competing with the big concerns for the business of non-members, under circumstances which might in some instances endanger their own membership.

DENY WISDOM OF ANTI-JAPANESE BILL

The wisdom of the method of dealing with the Japanese question which is proposed by the house immigration committee is challenged by former Attorney General George W. Wickersham, chairman of the national committee on American-Japanese relations, and Dr. Sydney L. Gulick, its secretary, the latter a well-known oriental missionary.

They declare the proposal, even as amended, is not good policy, that it will be keenly resented by the entire Japanese nation and is quite needless as practically the same results can be secured in ways that are courteous and in conformance with established principles in international relations. They suggest that if the matter is regarded as needing special congressional action the correct procedure would be for congress to denounce the treaty or to notify Japan that the gentlemen's agreement is not working satisfactorily and to seek a new treaty or agreement.

Probably the best way, they say, would be to follow the suggestion of Secretary of State Hughes, to bring the regulation of Japanese immigration under the general law. The number that could then come from Japan, under any quota that might be adopted, they point out, would be practically negligible.

SYNOPSIS.

Up to the time Margaret Verity was twenty years old she was a robust outdoor child. She had her wishes, but never knew poor, for they lived comfortably in a fine village in Essex by the sea. Mrs. Verity's husband was a sailor who died in the late autumn of 1914.

Just before Margaret's twelfth birthday Mrs. Verity's uncle, Tom Lloyd, sent the child a check for five pounds as a birthday gift. Margaret decided she and her mother would spend the money on a trip to London. Very nearly made the trip, and the journey broke them into a first class acquaintance which was already arranged by Charles Mount, on his way to Switzerland. Fortunately ill from sea, Margaret's chaperon entered him and he asked her to write to him. He weeks later she died, leaving his fortune to Margaret, free of her or her mother's control. Margaret, a very robust girl, grew lonely, sickly, weak or so depressed and without any friendship. He was very anxious for her mother to marry Charles Mount, a distinct bad bit from money, having shared with Charles the sizable Mount fortune in the death of her father.

Margaret, now thirteen years old, is a brunette, blue, and extremely young woman. She hasn't an idea in her head but of the heroine of a romance. Her mother, thirteen years of age, is as advanced as a pre-war flapper, cocktail shaking, cigarette smoking, all night dancing, neither anything modern of the young British type. Almost her mother's twin in fact. Mrs. Verity, Cynthia, is the young lover's closest friend. Margaret gives a dinner at the Ritz for her Uncle Tom, who returns to London since the death of many years, and she sees Archie Mount, a jewel in the Oxford, Margaret becomes ill. On her necessity she goes to the south-of-France. Archie Mount's yacht is lying in the harbor at Nice and Margaret is infatuated on board for an. All the crew's but Mount unceremoniously leave the boat, and the yacht sets sail with the settled young lovers aboard. She is furious when she discovers the trick that has been played upon her, even violently seasick, and loses all idea of the time she's aboard: has a vague recollection of a storm and a wreck, after which she finds herself apparently on an island with Archie Mount as her sole companion.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

CONTRAST!

Margaret's head buzzed with unspoken questions.

"What is this country called? Who put these extraordinary clothes on me? This old tweed skirt; whose on earth is this? And how did I get into Violet's stockings? Are we in the tropics? Where's everybody? Where's your beauty yacht? Did she go down to the bottom of the sea? How about everybody on board? Where's my uncle? Surely he was in that boat? Surely he wasn't drowned? He spoke to me, didn't he, when we landed? Then where did he go? How long were we at sea, anyhow, before the wreck? Is this a South Sea island? It looks just like it, but how long did we take to get here? What happened to Wallace? What's the time? What's the day of the week? Are we still in December, and who carried me up to the cave last night?"

The first thing she said was: "O, that man's coat that they put over me—I left it in the cave."

"That will be all right," said Mr. Mount exactly as if she had spoken of some wrap left behind in the Hôtel-Royal.

Extraordinary, the extraordinary that Margaret, opening her lips, scarcely knew which comment first to choose. And until any questions are asked, how can the questioned one tell which answers to supply? Tense silence fell for some seconds between man and girl on that solitary beach.

Mount found himself comfortably at a loss. The girl's face twinkled by no flicker the tenth. Just his thoughts, could they have been printed on the unruffled brow under the far from unruffled hair, would have read: "What has happened to this girl since I left her? Why is he looking me over? Also the young man's white being yearned for a pipe after his meal—and he hadn't got a pipe. Pipeless, expressionless, there he sat, inwardly seething with annoyance, but outwardly politely attentive to what Margaret was going to say next.

Absurdly young she looked, he thought. "Is that because I've never seen her before with a clean face?" Unpowdered, unrouged, uncurlined, unshadowed by blue on the eyelids, and with lashes from which the mascara had been washed away by storm—with hair, a wild tangle of brown, her face must have been more like that of the little girl who had cheered poor Charles Mount's last journey, than Charles Mount's brother had ever dared to. The rest of her was a caricature at which the sunshine, spread upon her pearl, string, laughed as it flung her shadow upon the sands at her oddly shod feet. Sharp as cut metal upon those glittering sands, his shadow protested them. There they sat, he and she, composing an illustration to one of the three oldest stories in the world; girl and man alone on a desert island. Between the castaways their primitive wood fire flickered and glowed. Floating them, the blue sea murmured and moved. Behind them rose cliff and unexplored hinterland. The breeze roused down a waft of scent. Quite called in the silence. For another second the silence held.

They the girl, pushing back her hair, fastened big eyes upon the man and asked him, with agitation: "Mr. Mount, are we the only two people on this island?"

Variety is the salt of life; variety and contrast were to remake existence for Margaret, thus whisked from casino to cave! There leave her, for the moment. Go back to the luxurious bedroom which was the last in which the ailing Violetta had slept—the largest room on the first floor of the Hôtel Soleil. The air of it was stuffy, steam heated, the hitless. And how deadly imperson al is the feel of any hotel bedroom! Completely, its dazzling white enamel and pretty Jun pink upholstery neutralized the atmosphere of any visitors whose hair may have been reflected in its tilted mirrors, whose toilet bottles have glittered on its glass shelves, whose wraps have dangled on its wardrobe hangers.

Here, on the morning that first saw Margaret on her island cleaning out fish—O contrast! Here Margaret's mother and I were putting away Margaret's chinos. What a chaos litered strewed, and piled bed, chairs, carpet of the bedroom shelves, chairs, while tiled floor of the adjoining bathroom. A dust of face powder lay thick over all. There was also an odd flotsam of cosmetics mingled with drugs. Boxes of iron tablets—of indigestion preparations in laxatives, and other nostrums that had been said would forever remain unknown to Margaret's mother, rolled here and there out of garments I took up. The body is more than raiment, what wonderful frocks the child had left. Trunks disgorged petticoats, frilles, and boudoir trifleries. Stockings, her foundations were swept together. Without guidance of taste, for the helpless evidently brought things as they were offered to her, a tidal wave of speeding had swamped her room with sahjiks from vanity cases, manicure tools, hat designers, perfumers, creators of lingerie de luxe bearing the maker's signature upon the hem. The name Margaret was scrawled in violet enamel across every backed brushes, hand mirrors, powder boxes, manicure tools by the hazaar full. Yet nothing spoke of an individual Margaret, except the silver framed portrait of Jack Verity in uniform, his last gift to his little girl. This was half hidden by a quaint lacquer photograph stand "Verity" showing two attenuated youths in evening dress, arm in arm, attitudinizing with opera hats, monocles, and canes.

"Claude and Cynthia," sighed Margaret's mother as I glanced at this.

"Cynthia?"

"She went to a dance dressed as Claude to see how many of their friends would take her for her brother," explained Violet Verity, sorting into pairs the frail, fine colored cobwebs, her child's stockings. "They will be here directly."

"Something occurred to put them off, and I was so glad, but now, here they are! They rang up this morning from their hotel the moment they arrived. Said they would come immediately they had had a bath and got dressed!"

"Did you tell them that she was—"

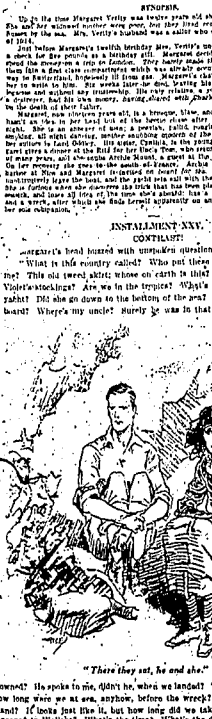
"No. Over the telephone! How could I? But now I shall have to explain to them, or rather not to explain to them. O dear, how complicated life is. Why did I let dear Uncle Tom persuade me to agree to it?"

The fact was her Uncle Tom had practically hypnotized her into agreeing to it; at least into as much of it as he chose to divulge. Gradually, deliberately, systematically, thoroughly the old sailor had act about frightening Margaret's mother on the subject of her only child.

There had been many other discussions, both in Hill street and at Nice, about the way Margaret was heading; about how her life in France was only London over again, only farther down the map of Europe. Margaret's mother had harped upon the spring of Jack's finances compared with that of possible Oldley grandchildren.

Not such a gentle task wearing Violet down. Finally his ultimatum had gone forth. And when he had said: "If you agree, I'll bring back to you instead of this neurotic human debris a wholesome, jolly girl. May take weeks; may take months. Can't say which yet. Only I promise you one thing, Violet. You'll never regret handing her over to me. Will you do that?"

Greatly during but tremulous Violet Verity had promised, "Very well, Uncle. I will."



"There they sat, he and she."

A WISE THOUGHT.—Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord.—Lam. 3:40.

Filer Production of Daddy Long Legs Is Good Show

On Friday and Saturday nights of last week, the Filer Rural high school staged "Daddy Long-Legs" at the Gem theatre in Filer. On both nights, the theatre was crowded to capacity and many were turned away on Saturday night without an opportunity of seeing this play. The play cast was trained by Mrs. E. H. Hyrne of the high school faculty and was without question the most successful home-grown play of the local high school. Leading parts were taken by Magdalene Schaefer as "Judy" the charming and accomplished orphan, and by Doris Robertson as "Diddy Long-Legs." The work of Miss Schaefer was particularly commendable and excited much favorable comment from the audiences.

How Appendicitis Very Often Starts

Chronic stomach or bowel trouble often causes an inflammation which spreads to the appendix, causing appendicitis. Ordinary bowel inflammation can often be relieved with simple glycerine, buckthorn, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes all poisons. Helps any case gas on stomach in TEN minutes. Fisher Drug Company.

TREE PESTS TO BE PESTERED BY MUNICIPAL SPRAY

Owners Have Until April 25 to Act; Otherwise the City Will Do the Job; Sprinkling Intentional Ordinance Is Passed; Signs for Autos Growing Dim and Will Be Brightened Up.

War on the Elm tree pest and all other tree pests was declared last evening by the city council, which passed an ordinance making it obligatory to spray trees before April 25, or allow the city to do it and charge it up to the property. The fact that a high pressure sprayer would cost $900 and the fact that there is no appropriation made for its purchase, if deemed otherwise advisible left, the city up in the air and the matter of arranging for service was left to Park Commissioner Charles P. Dwight and Street Commissioner S. S. Alt. It had been hoped that it would be possible to rent the use of the high power sprayer owned by Joseph H. Seaver, but the latter reported that in addition to his own he had a large orchard of his father in law, P. H. Smith, to spray, so it would be impossible to get around to it.

Sprinkling Ordinance Also Same

The council passed the intentional sprinkling ordinance, and allowed bills aggregating $710. Sprinkling costs will be about $500 which is the same as last year, approximately. Some minor changes were made. Water may now be used on the lawns, although charges for same do not go into effect until May 1.

May Paint Streets

Fines for the month amounted to $52.75. It was pointed out that there was considerable complaint that the parking signs in some places were dim. With the result that people were taken into custody for failure to park right. Mayor Shad L. Hodgin said about an incident where his son started to drive in wrong while he (the mayor) was in the auto and was just stopped in time by Mr. Hodgin. Complaints All was instructed to see that the markings were freshened up.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

A Good Reason

BY BLOSSER

TWIN FALLS TO BE GREAT DAIRY CENTER IN FUTURE

Chicago Director of Holstein-Friesian Association Says That Overproduction Here Will Be Impossibility! Breed Improvement Is Urged.

That the Twin Falls tract presents unbounded opportunities for the extension of dairy business was the statement today of Fred A. Koenig of Chicago, director of the extension service of the Holstein-Friesian association of America at the end of a two day survey of the tract. He declared that there was no chance of overproduction here, even when contending with bad freight rate conditions, owing to the advantages of ability to raise unlimited quantities of good feed, improved breeding and improved conditions in handling would make this a great dairy tract, he asserted.

Mr. Koenig was accompanied by William Myer, northwestern manager of the association who in a few days terview gave a similar opinion of the opening in this line here.

RAILROAD COMMITTEE

Oregon Short Line applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a final certificate which would give authority to build the road. In its application the Short Line set out the fact that the right of way was to be furnished by the public and the certificate which was issued authorizing the construction of the line contained the following statement:

"The Chamber of Commerce of Twin Falls, Idaho, with the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce of Wells, Nevada, has undertaken to provide free of cost to the applicant the right of way for this extension, also grounds for terminals at Wells, Nevada. The Chamber of Commerce of Twin Falls, Idaho has also undertaken to secure without cost to petitioner the cancellation of the certificate of public convenience and necessity heretofore issued to the Idaho Central Railroad company by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Finance Docket No. 12.

"Estimated value of right of way donated $80,000.00"

It would not only be a breach of our agreement with the railroad company to refuse to meet the conditions imposed and which we accepted, but it would also be a breach of faith on the part of the railroad company in its dealings with the Interstate Commerce Commission which could not be condoned. It can well be said that the railroad company could afford to pay for the right of way and relieve the public of its obligation in that regard, but it could not do this; and maintain its standing with the Interstate Commerce Commission with which it has constant dealings relative to rates, service, extension of lines and other matters of great importance.

The committee feels that the understandings that have been arrived at recently in regard to the amount to be paid for the right of way and by whom the burden is to be borne are very reasonable and are such as can be readily met.

In response to a recent inquiry President Gray of the Union Pacific under date of April first sent us the following message:

"Telegram received. The only matter which is holding up commencement of construction is provision of right of way." As soon as this is secured we are ready to commence construction and it will be carried through to conclusion."

Where are some matters connected with the procuring of the right of way not entirely adjusted but they are of minor importance and we have reason to believe that they will be settled very soon. In any event the money to be raised will not be paid over until the entire right of way is secured and the road is under active construction with every assurance that it will be pushed through to completion.

Soliciting committees will begin their work Wednesday morning. We ask for them a prompt and generous response in order that the needed fund be quickly raised and life construction of the long desired road be brought about without further delay.

Transact Routine Business—Routine business including the payment of a few small bills occupied the time of the directors of the American Falls district today in a short session. The directors are pleased with the congressional situation with reference to appropriations and are awaiting the decision of the supreme court regarding the question of reclamation district delinquencies which it is believed will be handed down soon.

Lazy Husband Test—A test of a new phase of the so-called lazy husband law may be had as a result of issuance of warrant by the municipal court for the arrest of C. A. Fisher of Shoshone. It is alleged that Fisher and his first wife were divorced and both remarried, but that he has refused to comply with the court order relative to support of children. It will be necessary for the state to not only prove the charge but also, to show that the new law applies in cases of this sort.

Will Help Applicants—Any normal, healthy, young man between the ages 17 and 21, who wishes to have a summer vacation free for the period of June 15 to July 11, 1924, should make his application for Citizen's Military Training School, to the local recruiting office, 117 Main street south. Sergeants Lee Alter and Walter Fletcher will be glad to assist in filling out such application, which can be procured at the recruiting office. It was announced today.

The sum requested has been tentatively placed at $5.00. The young ladies say that they will make a success. It is stated and hope to add materially to the funds derived from the direct drive to put the cap sent on collections.

RAILROAD MASS MEETING CALLED FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Arrangements Made Last Evening With United Which Results in a Complete Understanding—Drive Is to Start Soon; That With Compliance With Conditions Road Can Be Forced to Build Is Legal Opinion.

PLEDGE TO BE SIGNED TOMORROW BY CITIZENS DONATING TO R. R. FUND

We, the undersigned, donate the sums of money set opposite our names for the purpose of purchasing the lands necessary for a railroad right-of-way for the Oregon Short line railroad company between Gooding, Hagerman, Idaho, and the Nevada state line, and to assist in the purchase of a right-of-way through the lands of the Utah Construction Company in Nevada with the understanding that no moneys shall be paid to the Union Pacific Construction Company or anyone else for said right-of-way until work shall be well under way and until authentic advices are received from and assurances given by qualified officials of the Union Pacific System that said work will be prosecuted to completion without interruption.

Twin Falls is entering today in preliminary form for the railroad mass meeting tonight at the high school auditorium, following the understanding reached last evening with G. F. Gray of Contact, whereby Nevada agrees to reimburse Idaho or Twin Falls of the original drive fund, and give $5000 cash to help buy the right of way through the Utah Construction company lands and to take care of all other right of way adjustments in the state to the south. This is felt to be the best understanding possible. It is agreed that no money is to be paid over until the construction work is well under way and until assurance of its continued construction is given by Union Pacific officials.

Assurances Are Given

It is felt here that in view of the statement in the interview received a week ago from Carl R. Gray, and his previous telegram of May 19, 1923, wherein he first shamed the purchase of a right of way as one of the conditions of the application for the issuance of the certificate, already complied with, the people of Twin Falls will be in a delicate where they could force action in the courts, should the road change its avowed policy for any reason. The further assurance that no money will be paid until construction work is well under way, is to be offered as a final pledge of the absolute safety of the community.

Meeting Called Late

Are made the meeting which was held at the chamber of commerce was called late yesterday. The gathering was held at 5 o'clock which is the hour set by the committee for all of recent deliberations. The meeting was open to all comers who were interested in securing a road to the south.

Text of Agreement

At a conference held in the office of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce April 7, 1924, it was agreed that the people of Nevada will secure the right of way over lands in private ownership under the jurisdiction of the Utah Construction company, and also exclusive of lands necessary for the right of way in the state of Idaho, and inclusive of lands required for terminals at Wells, Nevada, either by direct purchase or condemnation, by and through the railroad attorneys, and will relinquish similar to C. F. Gray in transfer of funds collected in Nevada for the purchase of the certificate of necessity held by the Idaho Central railroad, which funds are now in bank in Twin Falls, Idaho, and that C. F. Gray will deposit $5000 in the bank all of which will be applied to the purchase of the Utah Construction company lands for right of way purposes, said deposit of $5000 contributed, however, that C. F. Gray shall receive any amounts of money which Twin Falls committees may collect in Contact, Nevada, as trust deposit to him on said $5000."

This offer is contingent upon Twin Falls raising in cash the remainder of the $25,000 required for the purchase of the Utah Construction company lands for right of way and the deed to said lands has been passed upon and approved by George H. Smith, chief attorney for the Oregon Short Line Railway company, and securing title to lands for right of way within the state of Idaho.

It is also understood that no money shall be paid to the Utah Construction company for said right of way until work shall be well under way and until authentic advices are received from and assurances given by qualified officials of the Union Pacific system that said work will be carried to a conclusion without undue delay.

The above proposition is hereby accepted and agreed to.

Investigation of the release of three horses brought here in the John Birch car from Bear Springs, California will be signaled by the heads of the Wool Growers' association here, it was learned today. The matter will be presented by the representatives of the Twin Falls office at a stockholders' meeting in Boise. The horses were shipped from San Bernardino under a permit before that county was under the quarantine, which was pronounced "scabs" some later, though it was stated that the disease did not break out near where the horses came from, on arrival here they were held up at the depot for a day and examined by Dr. H. E. Groome, deputy state veterinarian, before being released.

It is said that there is no information that the examination was not thorough, but that the incident will be used in urge that there be a wider margin of time between the release of animals brought in from places where the disease may develop while animals are in transit.
