Major Martin and Mechanician Safe

FLYERS ARE ORDERED TO GO EAST AT ONCE

Pair Will Rejoin Round-the-World Aviators in Europe or Asia and Will Finish Flight with Others; Chief Patrick Says Confidence in Men Has Not Been Shaken.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—Major General Patrick, chief of the air service, today ordered Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the American round-the-world flyers and his sergeant mechanic, Alva Harvey, to return to Washington immediately.

Both will rejoin the army round-the-world flyers somewhere in Europe or Asia, depending on where they can reach them, traveling eastward from the United States. They will be sent with planes to some point to be determined later from which they will complete the flight with the other flyers.

"We rejoice and thank God that you are both safe and well. Confidence in you unabated. You have proved yourself. Still want you to command flight. Can't arrange for you to overtake others by going on west. You and Sergeant Harvey will report to me without delay. Plan to send you to rejoin flight at furthest convenient point at which you can finish the journey with the rest of your command."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 12.—A present from Attorney H. C. Brown of Los Angeles may have saved the life of Major Frederick L. Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey, round-the-world aviators.

Just before Martin left Santa Monica on his flight, Brown gave him two one-quart bottles of a food paste which he had had prepared as an emergency ration.

One teaspoonful of the paste is said to be as high in nourishment as an entire ordinary meal.

Brown said today he believed that this was the "concentrated food" Martin referred to in his messages.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—"Here's the flax log" of the Seattle flagship of the army round-the-world flight—commanded by Major Frederick Martin.

March 17—Day of start from Clover field, California; slight mechanical defect forced Martin to land within two hours of his hop-off; no damage to plane.

April 5—Unable to get his plane off the water in an attempted start at Seattle, Wash., because of too heavy a load, causing delay of one day.

April 6—Damaged his plane landing in a storm at Prince Rupert, B. C., causing delay of three days.

April 14—Forced down by broken crank case at Portage bay, Alaska, while en route from Seward to Chignik and was lost for 24 hours.

April 16—Leaving Portage bay for Chignik. Harbor to relief expedition flyers was forced down by a snowstorm at Chignik.

April 20—Crashed into a mountain west of Port Moller while en route from Chignik to Dutch Harbor wrecking his plane. Was lost for 11 days, finally reaching civilization after a week of walking over ice and snow.

WINS PRIZE

NEW YORK, May 12—A news story on the eclipse of the sun, written by Magnus White of the San Diego (Cal.) Sun, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, won the 1924 Joseph L. Pulitzer prize for the best example of reporter's work in the last year. Harry Brundige, of the St. Louis Star, was a close second with his exposal of fake doctors.

NEW YORK, May 12—The Harry Wills-Bartley Madden heavyweight contest scheduled for tonight at the Queensboro stadium was postponed until Friday night today by the promoters. Dodge, Bingham, chairman of the state boxing commission, gave the club permission to change the date on account of bad weather.

POINCARE IS BADLY BEATEN IN ELECTIONS

National Bloc, Governing Body of France, Whipped by Avalanche of Votes; Socialists Appear Strong in Coming Parliament.

PARIS, May 12.—Premier Poincare and the national bloc which has governed France for five years met surprising defeat in Sunday's national elections.

An avalanche of votes swept into office a majority of the left, the radical socialists appearing the strongest party in the forthcoming parliament.

The group which will control the chamber of deputies favors moderation towards Germany.

Many of Poincare's foreign policies are certain to be replaced by others of a conciliatory nature.

The premier may resign at once and it is possible that President Millerand, who created the national bloc which has met its first defeat may resign as well.

Returns shortly after noon showed the parties of the left, including the communists, secured 222 seats against 152 for the national bloc with 202 results yet to be announced.

Over 80 per cent of the voters, an unusually high number for France, went to the polls yesterday. Weather conditions were perfect.

Victory for the left was achieved by overwhelming majorities in the provinces. Paris, gave M. Poincare a majority, and those who retired early last night believed him to be winning.

L'Oeuvre, a workers' newspaper, claims that the left is assured control of the chamber of deputies and says that the victory exceeded its highest hopes.

In many departments, communists and socialists combined forces, sweeping many communists into office.

Leaders of the left claim the result is an overwhelming repudiation of Poincare's high policy, including occupation of the Ruhr and insistance upon reservations to the experts report.

The premier's supporters, however, claim the overthrow was due to dissatisfaction with the cost of living, recent raising of the tax rate and other domestic matters.

The new chamber, despite what Poincare's followers say, will effect modification of France's foreign policies and lean towards conciliation in relations with Great Britain, Germany and possibly with Russia.

Jacques Doriot, a communist, who is at present in jail, was elected by a heavy vote. Ex-Minister Maffy, who until recently was banished from France, also won a seat. The royalist leader, Daudet, was defeated badly.

There will be almost an entirely new chamber when parliament convenes in June.

FLOOD WATER RUSHES DOWN SHENANDOAH

Greatest Flood Since the Year 1870 Plunging Down Valley of the Shenandoah River Today; Farms Turned Into Lake.

HARRISONBURG, Va., May 12.—The greatest flood since 1870—the year of the big flood—was plunging down the Shenandoah valley from the gateway at Harper's Ferry today.

A 30-hour rain within the upper valley regions around the headwaters of the Shenandoah river has sent a deluge of water into the two branches of the river.

Between Harrisonburg and Staunton farms have been converted into a lake, River bottom lands up and down the valley have been washed clean. Harrisonburg's $150,000 municipal hydro-power plant on the Shenandoah river was engulfed.

Norfolk and Western bridges are reported out and trains are being detoured at Riverton to the tracks of the Southern railway.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 12.—Cumberland was menaced by another serious flood today. The heart of the city was under 18 inches of water and the flood from little creek was increasing. A man's body was found in the Potomac at Sir John's Run, near here.

The Fort Cumberland hotel, which suffered heavy loss in the last flood, was surrounded by water.

People in the low section of the city abutting on the Potomac river and in Hitzley, West Virginia, are moving out.

PREPARE TO SPEED WORK OF CONGRESS

Many Important Tasks Face Legislature as Day of Adjournment Approaches; All Opposed to An Extra Session Later On.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—With adjournment of congress scheduled for four weeks from today, capitol leaders are grouping for a way out of their legislative dilemma in the hope of avoiding an extra session of congress.

Talk of coming back after the convention, has again been revived, but party leaders still hold hope of cleaning the legislative slate. This week will decide.

If President Coolidge vetoes the bonus, bonification or tax bills which are not to his liking an extra session is considered inevitable.

Here are how the prospects shape up now:

Tax Reduction

House and senate bills go to conference today with prospects that the bill finally decided upon cannot be altered before the president for two weeks.

Farm Relief

The McNary-Haugen and Simelair-Norris price stabilization bills to be taken up by both the senate and house this week with a lengthy fight in prospect.

Railroads

Senate interstate commerce committee is preparing to report out the Smith resolution declaring agriculture a basic industry and instructing the government rate-making commission to lower freight rates on farm products.

World Court

Recess looked between the legislative jam in the foreign relations committee. Democratic leaders, however, are planning to bring it arbitrarily to the floor and some kind of a vote on the issue will be forced before adjournment.

Immigration

Conferees report will be passed on by both houses this week and the bill sent to the president.

Bonus

Leaders making arrangements to adopt the bill speedily if Mr. Coolidge vetoes it today or tomorrow.

TICKETS REQUESTED

CLEVELAND, May 12.—Thousands of requests for tickets to the republican national convention here next month poured into the office of James L. R. Japp, secretary of the local convention committee, he announced today. Convention arrangements were accelerated with opening today of official convention headquarters in the Federal Reserve building by David Mulvane, Kansas, head of the committee on arrangements. Mulvane's first act was to procure a steel safe for the admission tickets.

"EVANGELIST ILL

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 12.—Billy Sunday, evangelist, was under care of physicians at his hotel here today following an attack of food poisoning. Doctors hoped to have him in physical condition to resume his preaching here tomorrow. Sunday was unable to deliver two scheduled sermons yesterday. He has been in a highly nervous state since Mrs. Sunday was injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

CHICAGO—"Who's there?" Herman Kroll asked when he and his wife came home from the movies. "Brother Tom" came the answer from the man they had heard in the house. Brother Tom's calling card was a revolver. He was the companion of the trip Mrs. Kroll's necklace.

BOTH MEN GET TO PORT MOLLER; HEALTH GOOD

Men Walk to Port Moller; Revenue Cutter Algonquin Leaves for Purpose of Bringing Aviators In; World Relieved by News; Many Hardships Endured by Flyers.

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, May 12.—Major Frederick L. Martin and Sergeant Alva Harvey, his mechanician, missing since April 30, arrived afoot at Port Moller on the Behring sea coast of the Alaskan peninsula at 4:16 p. m. Saturday night, a brief radiogram from Port Moller to Dutch Harbor reported.

It declared their physical condition was good despite their hardships, of which few details were given.

They had added to their emergency rations in the journey to Port Moller by killing game, the message said.

The revenue cutter Algonquin left Dutch Harbor yesterday, immediately on receiving confirmation of the safety of Martin and Harvey for Port Moller to bring them here.

Martin and Harvey underwent great hardships, they reported in a brief radio sent over their lines in "concentrated food and nerve."

The Seattle, in which they took off from Chignik in a vain attempt to catch up with the other three ships of the flight, was completely wrecked.

Word that the missing men had been found was received with tremendous relief in army circles here as hope for them practically had been given up. Martin and Harvey reached a trapper's cabin the morning of May 7 worn, exhausted and suffering greatly from the cold. They were ill equipped for a journey on foot in the bitter storms which came raging down out of Behring sea and which were the cause of their disaster.

The mishaps stayed at the trapper's cabin, at the port of Moller day, three days, rested and then started walking the length while they waited for expected aid to arrive.

The airmen reached Port Moller at 6 p. m. Saturday, with a thrilling story of hardships in the Arctic wilds.

MRS. WORK IS LAID TO REST

Burial Takes Place in Arlington Cemetery This Afternoon.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Funeral services for Mrs. Hubert Work, wife of the secretary of the interior, were held today at the White House and were attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge and other high officials.

Burial was in Arlington National cemetery. Rev. Wallace Radcliffe of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church conducted the services.

Holding of funeral services at the White House for persons other than members of the family is unusual, but there are some precedents. Mrs. Work is being buried in Arlington because Secretary Work was an officer in the army medical corps during the war.

BOISE POLOISTS SHOW UP WELL

Camp Lewis Team Wins, Tieing With Boise for Leadership.

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 12.—Camp Lewis' polo team today is wearing its hard earned laurels as northwest champions.

In a close spectacular contest with the Seventh infantry of Vancouver barracks, the former came out victorious Sunday afternoon by the close score of 8 to 7.

Outcome of the match was in doubt until the last minute of the crashing play. Coming up from behind in the last chukker, Sergeant Bill Cravens of the Vancouver team, managed to tie the score. Within a half minute of the close of match, however, Captain W. C. Green of Camp Lewis smashed over the winning tally.

Boise and Vancouver will play Tuesday.

Seattle and the Oregon Agricultural teams play today.

Mrs. Martin Rejoices Over News That Her Son Is Safe and Well

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., May 12.—Mrs. Nancy Martin today celebrated her sixty-third birthday anniversary in rejoicing over news that her son, Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the American round-the-world flight, was safe at Port Moller on the Alaskan peninsula.

"This is the happiest day of my life," she said when word of her son's safety ended the strain of the twelve days' vigil.

Though confident at first that her son was safe, she had practically given up hope of ever seeing him again as the days passed without any encouraging word.

THAT WAS JUST TOO MUCH.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 12.—Indignant farmers broke up a dance at Trentwood, Wash., when an orchestra played "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More." A committee of the farmers permitted the dance to continue after the orchestra agreed to withdraw the number from its repertoire. Farmers believed the music influenced the unusual dryness here.

FRENCH PREMIER TO RESIGN POST

Defeat of National Bloc Gives Poincare Cue to Quit Job.

PARIS, May 12.—Premier Poincare has decided that he must resign as result of the defeat of the national bloc in the parliamentary elections, the United Press learned tonight.

He probably will retain office until the new chamber of deputies which will have a majority of members of the left meets in June.

The premier returned hurriedly to Paris this afternoon from a weekend in the county and consulted with some of his ministers, at which time his decision to resign was reached.

FACES DEFICIT

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The federal government will be faced with a deficit of nearly half a billion dollars if the tax bill, engrossed by the senate and appropriation measure now under consideration, become law, President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon were warned today by Senator Smoot, Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee.

SALESMAN DIES IN AUTO MISHAP

Reno, Nevada, Woman, Too, Is Injured; Train Strikes Machine.

RENO, Nevada, May 12.—F. E. Anderson of Denver, Colo., was killed and Mrs. M. Rogers of Reno seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding in a Southern Pacific train collided at a grade crossing, seven miles west of Reno late yesterday.

Anderson was a salesman for the United States Finance corporation of Washington, D. C., with headquarters in Denver. He had been here on the same time during the last year in Reno.

Two other persons in the car were not seriously hurt.

DEMOSTRATION TAKES TEN LIVES

Communists Pay Dearly for Act; Police Disperse Mob.

HALLE, Germany, May 12.—Ten dead, several score injured and more than 500 arrested, was the toll of Sunday's mighty unemployed demonstration in which 70,000 goose-stepped in parade past General Ludendorff and the ex-kaiser's son, Oscar.

It was communists, attempting to interfere with the demonstration who paid with their lives for the attempt. Police from behind barriers poured a volley into the red mob which marched on the outskirts of the city.

Foolish speakers, advocating a return of the monarchy in such phrases as "We never will rest until we again have a king," were greeted with cheering throngs at the Halle race track.

The occasion was the unveiling of a statue of General Von Moltke, to replace one destroyed by communists.

BURNED TO DEATH

BANGOR, Me., May 12.—Five persons were burned to death and three others seriously injured when fire destroyed the home of John Brogan at Millinocket today.

Those burned to death were Mrs. Mary Brogan and her four children. Brogan and two sons were injured when they leaped from a second story window to escape the flames.

REFUSES TO TALK

VIENNA, May 12.—Count Ludwig Salm, husband of Millicent Rogers, sulked here today and refused to talk about his separation from his heiress bride. "I've been talking to reporters ever since we arrived in Europe," the count shouted angrily as he alighted from the Orient Express and was met by an overflow delegation of newspapermen who wanted to hear what he had to say about the action of Colonel H. H. Rogers of Millinocket, home on the liner, France, Saturday.

HOB POSTOFFICE

ALTON, Ill., May 12.—Thirty thousand dollars in one and two cent stamps and $18 in cash was obtained today by bandits who broke into the postoffice, burned two doors with an acetylene torch and blew open the safe. The robbery was discovered when the postoffice was opened.

CONCENTRATION ON SENATORIAL AND CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS IS URGED BY PARTY CHIEFTAINS

WASHINGTON, May 12—Word has gone out from party chieftains here to concentrate on congressional and senatorial elections.

The situation brought about by division of congress into three groups has upset so disastrously to party programs that both republican and democratic organizations are going to make this year a most strenuous effort to bring back the old lineup of a clear cut majority and a minority.

But they are faced with an equal determination by the progressives, who in this congress have so exercised a balance of power as to nullify the republican majority and make possible passage of bills which the administration finds unacceptable.

While the presidential election will of course hold popular attention, the fight for control of congress will be waged with greater intensity than for many years.

Republicans, organized more thoroughly than for a long time so far as Mr. Coolidge's candidacy goes are determined to fight in every congressional district for a congress standing solidly with the administration.

Democrats, uncertain as yet who their nominee will be are organizing control of the house and make inroads on the G. O. P. in the senate.

Progressives of the La Follette group, seeing this as a year of wonderful opportunity, hope to increase their strength in both houses, having proved by actual that they can do more in congress than they could if possibly there were able to capture the presidency.

Certainly the third party, if it should by the turn of political fortune, elect a president this year, would be well nigh helpless unless it also elected a powerful group in congress, capable of dictating legislation.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

A man or woman weak in the kidneys is like a hoard with a hoof in it. With any severe strain away goes the whole fabric; it becomes broken and useless.

Vitality of the kidneys must be maintained. They are very useful organs must be watched with the most jealous care. It is their work to carry off the greater part of the waste fluids of the body. Much solid waste matter, too, in the form of very small particles, is eliminated in the fluid ejected by the kidneys.

Now the kidneys may be given proper hardiness combined with muscular flexibility, just as easily as may the biceps. Note that I may proper hardiness. The kidneys are delicate organs that need strengthening. Yet how many, even among athletes in training, have given a thought to this seventh of these organs? The kidneys are there, and they appear to be doing their work properly. Is that all the thought that need be given them until they complain through the medium of disease? Not! Most emphatically not. The kidneys need care no matter how healthy they are, and by proper care they can be strengthened. But how?

First, in the way of gentle exercise by massage. Hand erect, with the hands resting just back of the hips and over the kidneys. Massage slowly upward and downward, applying the heel of each hand over one of the kidneys. Continue this for one or two full minutes every time that you exercise.

Follow this up by kneading over the kidneys for about the same length of time. Clench the hands and grip the knuckles of the fingers over the region of the kidneys. Start with fists close to the spine and knead forward over the organs, stopping only when you have reached the sides of the trunk just under the lowest ribs. Then lifted backward again, and repeat this movement several times.

Then follow up the kneading by striking over the same surface with the tips of the fingers, continuing this percussion, in the forward movement, with a light touch and stiffness. Then go backward and forward again.

AT THE THEATRES

WOMAN MASQUERADES AS MAN—"Ponjola" from H. Rider Haggard's First National picturization of Cynthia Stockley's masterpiece of South African life, will be the feature at the Orpheum theatre today.

A vivid photoplay drama of a story which can scarcely in the Cosmopolitan magazine and "laid" was for months one of the "best sellers." "Ponjola" is a stirring story of action and romance staged in the Rhodesian gold fields.

The play centers about an English, noblewoman, an innocent victim of scandal who goes into the gold fields to lose her identity. She masquerades as a man, and as such lives for months with the hardened characters of the wilds, fighting the curse of ponjola and fighting for the redemption of the man who had unfortunately saved her from self-destruction.

The plot moves quickly, passing from one thrilling incident to another. Involved in intrigue and in murder, the girl is willing to sacrifice herself for the man she loves—even to standing trial for a killing. Its theme is entirely different from anything ever shown on the screen before.

IDAHO SHOWING BIG SPECIAL—For the first time in his career as a motion picture actor Ramon Novarro, the hero of romantic roles, has played a character of his own nationality. This happens in Fred Niblo's production for Metro, "Thy Name is Woman," which is showing at the Idaho theatre tonight and tomorrow. Novarro is of Spanish descent. His parents came from Spain to Mexico a short time before his birth, and he was brought up in the old traditions. He has had a variety of roles and; after he had almost given up hope of getting a chance to portray one of his own countrymen, Mr. Niblo summoned him to play the leading part in his newest production, which is laid in the Pyrenees district and concerns the love and hates among a smuggling band.

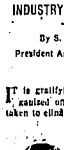
AVOIDABLE WASTE IN U. S. INDUSTRY $10,000,000,000

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift



S. W. STRAUS

It is gratifying to note that certain official action is being taken to eliminate what is perhaps the greatest source of waste in American life; namely, lack of simplified practice in industry. This waste is officially computed at $10,000,000,000 annually, or enough to pay all federal, state and municipal taxes, with a large margin left over. The figure mentioned was arrived at after conferences of national and international radio experts sent six months in making surveys. They found a 43 per cent waste in American industry.

The basis of this waste lies largely with the individual consumer, who, thoughtlessly, in most cases, creates a demand for endless varieties, styles and grades.

The industries in which there is an average 49 per cent waste, according to Mr. William A. Durgin, chief of the division of simplified practice in the Department of Commerce, are metal trades, boots and shoes, textiles, printing, building and men's clothing. Perhaps three other industries where the percentage of waste is just as great, but the ones mentioned have been particularly surveyed.

As an example of what can be done toward eliminating waste in industry, it is pointed out that a large producer of men's shoes recently eliminated 93.7 per cent of his former line. A manufacturer of food products has, through simplified practice, decreased the variety of his output 52 per cent, with a decrease of 73 per cent in cost of sales force, a 78 per cent saving in advertising and an 80 per cent saving in overhead, with an increased sales volume of 500 per cent.

An almost endless list of instances of this kind may be found in the records of the division of simplified practice.

It is a splendid phase of thrift work in which each individual can force of global co-operation. It also emphasizes the fact that there are perhaps few businesses that cannot, by intensive study of this phase of their activities, introduce methods that will very greatly contribute to their more profitable operation.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

RUPERT VICTORIOUS IN BIG TRACK MEET

CALDWELL, Idaho, May 12—Rupert high school won the southern Idaho interscholastic track and field meet here Saturday afternoon on Cleaver field. The standing and points of the different schools follow:

Rupert, 27 Boise 21; Burley 17; Twin Falls 15; Parma 14; Nampa 11; Caldwell 10; Payette 8; Wendell 7; Jerome 5.

Rupert and Boise were so evenly matched at the last that Rupert's victory in the relay settled the issue. Long beating out McCormick, of Boise, by a scant six inches.

Mitchell Takes Hurdles

Mitchell, Parma flier, ran away from the field in the high hurdles, while Wolfe and Rupert and Quinlan of Boise put up a thrilling battle for second place. Wolfe finally nosing out.

The mile run, won by Cleaver of Caldwell, who lowered his own state mark of 4 minutes, 44.4 seconds to 4 minutes 37.3 seconds, forbidden a sensation for the stands. Cleaver was never headed and several starters failed to finish under the punishing wind in a half mile.

Phil Kinz of Twin Falls, who is on the way to Eugene, Ore., to try out in the Pacific coast Olympic trials, ran the mile under a 50-yard handicap for practice. King did 4:40 on a dirt track at Twin Falls last week and won the mile at the state interscholastic meet in 1921. He failed to make up the handicap, however, Saturday, admitting that the sprints too much for him as he has been running in cooler weather.

Sets Javelin Record

Smith of Jerome along the javelin 167 feet 5 inches in his first trial Saturday, but, although he had several other attempts the best he could do after that was about 157 feet. His mark, however, stands as a state record and no competitor Saturday came within many feet of it. In practice Jerome men said, Smith had thrown more than 168 feet but could not seem to get going in his most consistent form Saturday.

For a while it seemed as if a new mark had been set in the 50 yard dash as some of the judges checked Timm of Twin Falls, the winner, in 5.2 seconds. It turned out, however, that the man at the starter's gun and a number of the judges, in the excitement he could not give the signal to recall them. The time as officially announced in the event was 5.6. Ord of Nampa pushed Long, Rupert sprinter, hard in this event, but was forced to take third place.

Thompson of Wendell drew the pole in the half mile run, but on the first turn Hockaday, Rupert entry, took it away from him, with Brown of Payette second. They finished the race in this order, although Brown crawled up appreciably on the back stretch the second time around. His sprint though powerful, was delayed and the Rupert man broke the tape six inches to the good.

In winning the century Long of Rupert led his nearest competitor by five feet.

Tie in Pole Vault

Chaney of Caldwell and Pacoza of Boise gave the spectators hope that the state pole vault record which has stood at 11 feet 3.2 inches for 11 years would be broken when they each topped 11 feet, 6 inches. Both failed to do better than this and the first and second points were split at 4 each.

A serious mixup occurred in the 220 yard dash when the judges were put out when starter's gun sounded. As a consequence no time was given on this event but the race counted in the standing. By agreement the coaches it was decided not to run it over. Long, Timm and McCormick came in one, two, three.

Campbell of Boise and Mitchell of Parma fought it out for first honors in the high jump, each topping the bar at 5 feet 7 inches. First and second points were divided equally.

Mitchell of Parma was the individual star of the meet, capturing 14 points for his school, including two firsts and a tied first. He was awarded a beautiful silver loving cup. The Rupert team received a huge cup trophy and the relay team a smaller cup. These were provided by the Caldwell commercial club.

THEY BROKE WORLD'S RECORD

Boston college relay team, which proved sensation of the Pennsylvania relay games, by setting a new world record for the two-mile relay —7 minutes, 47.8-5 seconds. Left to right the men are: McKillop, Mahoney, Welch and Cavanaugh. Inset shows finish of event.

RUPERT MAN IS WINNER OVER REED

RUPERT, May 11—Clarence Bush, Rupert's harmless-looking wrestler, won two out of three falls from Jack Reed, well-known Ogden grappler, here Saturday night. Bush took the first and third falls. In the second fall, which Reed won, the latter obtained a hold which Bush was apparently unable to break. The purse was $100, winner being entitled to the gate receipts as well. Thus, the Rupert flash had a profitable evening.

Both men entered the fray with blood in their eyes and the match was extremely tight all the way, though Bush always gave the impression of having something in reserve for use when need needed. An average sized crowd saw the bout.

Bush had repeatedly expressed a desire to meet the Ogden champion and the match was specially arranged for Lincoln hall Saturday night. The local man felt he had an excellent chance of winning as the following statement attributed to him previous to the bout proves:

"When I get him on the mat this time there will be no question as to who is the best man," says Bush, who did not like the tone of the challenge. "I threw Reed the last time that we wrestled and I'll do it again Saturday night or know the reason why. I'm willing to put money up or buy a ticket out of town, for he's not going to get any money in Rupert.

Bush has also challenged Yokel, for a return match. Word received yesterday is that Yokel had been injured and would be unable to wrestle.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Three errors by Jackson kept Grant in a scoreless tie in the Clinton-Grant second game of the western trip, the Cards winning 3 to 2.

The Athletics lost their eleventh straight game, the Indians cupping it 5 to 5.

Carlson was better in the pinches than Luque and the Phils beat the Reds 2 to 0.

Dutch Reuther was given a good pounding and the Cubs beat the Robins 6 to 4.

Isn't it a Fact?

Great men do not often recognize each other's greatness. Shakespeare never wrote a word of praise of any contemporary.

Joe and Jim Conspire

Coach Joe Wright and Jim Clifton, his assistant, may surprise some of the rivals they meet on the University of Pennsylvania against this year. Wright has a novel scheme for improving his crewmen. Each Saturday he has pictures taken of the sessions in action. Then he places the pictures on the bulletin board in the clubhouse and points out errors and how to correct them.

DISADVANTAGES OF LIGHTER GOLF BALL

Hagen Says Aspect of Game Would Be Changed.

Any change made in the present standard weight of the golf ball to make it lighter and larger will eventually mean the further expenditure of millions in the changing of golf courses, units and the general layout of links, and would play havoc with the form of most golfers, in the opinion of Walter Hagen, famous golfer.

Hagen maintains that the entire aspect of the game would be changed if the proposed plan now said to be considered by the United States Golf association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Association of Scotland is carried out.

"For the golfer able to make a drive of from 175 to 200 yards from the tee, the change to a lighter and larger ball will shorten his night to such an extent that his shot would fall of the first hazard, failing to clear it, while under present conditions the drive would clear the obstacle.

"The game's greatest thrill would be taken away with the adoption of a lighter and larger ball," went on Hagen. "Every ordinary golfer gets a tremendous kick out of driving the ball twelve 175 or more yards from the tee and he is never looking forward to be able to do just that thing."

Hagen went on to say that with the standardization of a new ball, every course in the country would eventually be affected by the ruling. He said his plans for the establishment of his new golfdale course would have to be changed if the "master minds" in control of the game would have out the ball now in present use.

"Golf will be less sportive with a larger and lighter ball thrown into the game," declared the famous star. "and I do not believe that the real devotees wish a change at this time."

Trying for Olympics

Ralph Hills, junior at Princeton university, stands out as a logical candidate for the shotput squad of the Olympic team this summer. A big boy, he is the type of American champion who will carry Uncle Sam's colors with honors this year.

Diamond Notes

There were 824 stolen bases in the National league last year to 741 in the American league.

Willie Keeler's record for hitting safely in 44 consecutive games (in the season of 1897) still stands.

Jess Winters, pitcher, has been sold by the Phillies to the Portland team of the Pacific Coast league.

James Sullivan, pitcher, has been returned by the Cleveland Indians to the Decatur club of the Three-I league.

Carson-Newman college, Tennessee, has one basketball player of exceptionally high standing—seven feet two in his stocking feet.

The Cincinnati Reds were the first professional team. They made their famous record in 1869, when they played 60 games without a defeat.

Deacon Scott is hopping around the two-year-old this gay young spring. He is starting pitchers by all directions and batting better than ever before.

The Reds seem to take kindly to their new manager, Jack Hendricks. All the athletes are pulling for him, a condition that never yet hurt the standing of a club in the league averages.

Despite the fact that Clarence Rowland is doing very well at the umpiring game, it is said he still yearns for a managerial berth. Rowland likes the spotlight, and the umpire gets very little of it.

Policemen Control Play on Golf Links

An innovation in golf will be introduced on the Cleveland municipal links this season if plans of John J. Tyla, recreation commissioner, materialize. Mr. Tyla proposes to station traffic policemen at points of congestion.

Acting as patrol judges, the officers will blow whistles to signal players to shoot after the course has been cleared. This, it is hoped, will remedy the practice of playing through without regard to the customary signal to pass from players in front.

Expect Fur to Fly When Red Sox Tackle Browns

There will be no love feast this same time when the Boston Red Sox meet the St. Louis Browns.

Lee Fohl, former manager of the Browns, will lead the Red Sox this season. No doubt Fohl will get more pleasure out of beating his former club than any other aggregation in the league.

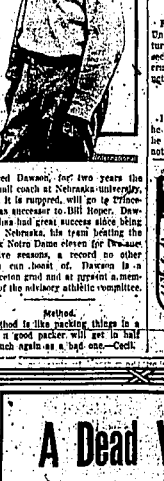
The Red Sox players will soon get the angle of their manager, and faithfully will go the limit to triumph over the Browns.

Last season when Davy Danforth was put out of a game in Philadelphia because Umpire Moriarity was satisfied that he doctored the ball, Manager Fohl refused to champion the cause of Danforth. This caused a number of players to turn against Fohl.

With his reputation for honesty at stake, Fohl, having the courage of his convictions, refused to take up sides with Danforth. The inference, of course, is that Fohl believed him at fault.

Expect the fur to fly when the Red Sox clash with the Browns.

Dawson at Princeton



Fred Dawson, for two years the football coach at Nebraska university, win, it is rumored, will go to Princeton as successor to Bill Roper. Dawson has had great success since being with Nebraska, his team winning the crack Notre Dame eleven for five successive seasons, a record no other team can boast of. Dawson is a Princeton grad and at present a member of the athletic committee.

BERNARR MACFADDEN

Healt Hin by the Father Physic Cultur

Primitive nations can disp with physical training-schools the creatures of the wilderness pense with houses and clothes city-dwellers need a substitute the lost opportunities of outdo exercise. Mental culture and sy nasties should be as inseparable body and soul. "It is impossible to repress luxury by legislation says Solon in Lucian's "Dialogue of Anacharsis," but its influence may be counteracted by athletic games, which invigorate the body and give a martial character to the amusement of our young men."

And that remedial use of nastics requires the supervision an expert teacher. It is not enough to provide an assortment of fine-school apparatus and let visitors to use it to good advantage. We might as well expect a free public drug-store and patients to come in and dose themselves. A wise seer, sitting on the Lei Atene plan tried a city park, and remember, it sits in the case of novices not discouraged the first time disturbing accidents, and of those contracted dyspepsia by eating directly after dinner.

A well-developed system of steel culture offers remedies almost every disorder of the man organism, and for all but most hopeless malformations.

As a preliminary, gymnastic pupils should be advised to postpone the principal meal of the day (call it supper or dinner) to a late afternoon, and at least an hour after the conclusion of their exercises.

Violent muscular efforts exhaust the vital vigor of the system to a degree which—for a time—may take away the appetite and make it advisable to deplete for a little while. Indeed, a direct rush from the gymnasium to the dining room would be hygienically preferable to the popular mistake. After dinner rest is recommended. After being nursed, a fretful child is not asleep, the physiological reason can be found in the fact that exercise interferes with digestion, delays the stomach to the accumulation of impetus. There is a risk of their undergoing a process of fermentation, becoming a positive danger to the system.

CASTLEFORD TO BE CONGRATULATED

The citizens of Castleford are to be congratulated upon the passage of the resolution appearing elsewhere in our columns and the strong stand they have taken to fight the illicit liquor traffic. The citizens of Buhl could do very well by copying this resolution and sister town and enforcing it. We have heard how bad conditions in this respect have been in Castleford community but they cannot be bad if not worse in the Buhl community. Officers are powerless to enforce the law when the majority of the citizens give no aid in helping to enforce the law and a large number of them openly violating the prohibition act.—Buhl Republican.

The Castleford resolution follows:

"Whereas, for some time past in the community of Castleford, Idaho, certain individuals in violation of decency, morality and national law have continued to traffic in intoxicating liquors, whereas, it is recognized that such traffic has a demoralizing effect upon the citizenship of the community;

"Now, therefore, we, the undersigned citizens of this community, of our honor, pledge ourselves that we will report to civil officers any and all such violations of law that may come to our attention and aid in the prosecution of the same, that we will give our moral and material support and do all in our power to rid this evil from our midst."

That sort of a stand is a credit to any community. Let every man and woman who loves our common country stand out upon, unmasked and unashamed, support the constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Idaho, and see that conditions warranting arrest of law-breakers be reported to proper authorities for prosecution under the law.

THE TIMES REPUBLICANS BEATEN TODAY

The American Economist, organ of the American Protective League and in some ways the most influential republican paper in the country, in its issue of April 11 ran an editorial under the caption, "Today Republicans Are Beaten," in which it declared that the democratic attacks on the republican tariff bill had lowered the morale of many republicans to such an extent that they were willing to modify the tariff somewhat. The Economist holds that unless the republicans backed the tariff bill as enacted, it would be an issue and would have none worth fighting for. To the mind of the Economist its editorial still further frightened many republicans who more strenuously than ever insisted that the thing to do was to yield something on the tariff. In its issue of May 2, however, and severely censures one of these, N. O. Messenger, a writer, who in the Washington Star of April 30 lined the low republicans and criticized the Economist articles as follows: "What is the extreme high protection point of view. It is not held by the progressive republicans, who think that the tariff is high already and who advocate lower rates.

"Of course, it is absolutely rejected by the democrats, who are going to make demand for lower tariff one of the principal issues of the campaign. A current statement from the democratic national committee has this to say upon the subject:

"Demands for reduction of the tariff are coming these days from quarters from which the authors of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act probably least expected them when the law was being put through in 1922. Agricultural publications and thousands of individual farmers in the west have joined the cry for a revision upward as the only sure and permanent relief that can be given agriculture.

"In many instances the insistence on a reduction of the present republican tariff is founded on the arguments which democratic leaders and representatives urged against its passage. The Nebraska Union Farmer, official publication of an important agricultural group, is making plain to the farmers of that state that the republican tariff is one of the principal causes of their present distress.

"Speaking of the McNary-Haugen bill now pending in congress, the Nebraska Union Farmer says: 'Instead of concocting bootstrap-lifting schemes to put the price of farm products in line with the world level, why not reduce the excessive tariff on manufactured goods and bring them down to the world level? Lower tariff duties would permit the people of Europe to sell goods to us, and thereby enable them to buy more of our products. Thus our foreign market would be improved. The markets both at home and abroad would certainly increase for farm products.'"

Margaret decided she had her mother would spend the summer in a little cottage. They barely made the train, and the guest passed then into a first class compartment occupied by a fashion Monsieur, who he was in Switzerland, hopelessly ill from war. Margaret's chatter amused him and he asked her to write to him. He write later to Ewart, leaving his fortune to the child. He only lived a young bachelor, Archie, away on a shooting, had his own manor, hunting shares with Charles the atomic Mount fortune on the death of his father.

Margaret now 18, is a beauty, blase, and neither young nor happy. She hasn't an idea in her head but of the latest dance, amusement from morning till night. She is an amateur of music, a French polish teacher, vocalist, elocutionist, elegant, stylish dancer, mother snubbing modern of the most unfitting type. Among her suitors is Lord Ridley, his sister, Cynthia, is her young friend, friend. On her recovery she goes in the month of France. Archie Mount's yacht is lying in the harbor at Nice and Margaret is invited on board for tea. All the guests but Margaret unobtrusively leave the boat and the yachtmate sail with the spoiled young heiress aboard. She is furious when she discovers the trick, grows violently seasick and loses all idea of the time she's aboard has a vague recollection of a storm and a wreck, after which she finds herself apparently on an island with Archie Mount as her sole companion.

Tom Ewart has persuaded Archie to use the adventure through with him, but he disappears, leaving years of Mount to look after Margaret. After several weeks on the island Margaret shows great improvement, physically and in disposition, and finds herself content above a great interest in Archie. He wanders out of sounds one day, and comes upon a high cliff. He returns to the beach and quarrels with Mount over the trick that has been played upon her. As they are about to leave the island where they have lived for so many weeks Mount takes Margaret in his arms and tells her he loves her.

INSTALMENT LIII.

ERIC IS UTTERLY POLITE AND.

"You're going to have me? 'Going to marry me, aren't you? The first place we go to? The first instant we can?"

He only answered with an intent and wide eyed look.

"You will! You've got to. Margaret? You will?"

Margaret knew that, if she did not answer Mount he must still hug, and that was what she wailed. Yet her voice disobeyed her will involuntarily she answered, "You said you were afraid?"

"What's that?"

"Last night you said you were afraid of—that?"

"Shall I, yes I said that. Hah! No wonder. Yes. I must have always been madly afraid I might not find you. My darling. I've found you, now, I'm sure. Yes, I'm afraid."

She made herself keep utterly still. Storm of delight rioted within this girl who had been afraid of storms. Once wild, music, brilliance, and gayety of a thousand colors had left her cold, had left her dormant. Now, wide awake in rapture, she stood under his hands; in this one moment, [illegible] all that mortals seek, for in music, color, wine, in perfume, brilliance and excitement. Often they seek it vainly. For, since money is to be made out of humanity's hunger for delight, sham delights are feverishly provided. Shams fill our cities! Elaborate mechanisms seek to supply the urge, the upruah, the bubbling over of pleasure.

Pearl, greedy, despairing and fatigued, as Margaret had been, youth clutches at the shams; and, since there is no thrill in shams, youth believes, as Margaret had believed, that there is no more thrill in life.

Thrilled now by life's primitive happiness, Margaret stood answering with every fiber to the touch of the beloved's fingers, to the profound caress of his look, to the vibration of his voice, that found only the tritest words as of a fourteen year old in love.

"Speak to me, can't you? Say it before we go. I say, we've got to go directly. Infernal shame, 'Directly. But you've loved being here, haven't you? I have. And now you'll never leave me, will you? Swear you'll never leave me again, after this?" Shifting his grasp from her arms, he slipped his own arms about her, he enlaced her, drawing her up, drawing her close to his breast, as she had been, but how differently, last night. He repeated into her ear as he had spoken, with what a difference, in that cave. "It's no use. Can't fight this! My sweetheart, I meant not to say a word until you were with your people. Sorry, I can't help it. Just can't."

From her parted lips there escaped then a small sigh of, "Oh! Do I want you to? I can't help it, either."

"Say you care then. Say if you do."

"I won't."

This admission he drank—so thirstily—from her soft mouth. His kissed with smooth, flushed cheeks, lips fresh as the salty breeze—for, she thought came to him of how he had once slowly said to me, "It won't happen. You read serials! Won't happen in real life. Sorry to crush your romance."

He muttered love names into kisses as passionately as though fear had never been, nor any question of keeping life placid.

Lifting her chin, he kissed the soft underneath of it. He fastened warmer kisses upon the proud young throat above that rough jersey with the red stripes, "Sweetheart! Its rising and falling as a buoy falls and rises on the foam white wave. "Ah, my Pearl."

Here his Pearl made her first gesture of denial, putting back her head. But this was only to draw out of the way again that pearl string whose lips and pressed into the milky flesh of her throat. She whispered rapt, "Don't waste them upon those."

Then stopped. Gasped.

For she had caught sight over her lover's shoulder of something that made her spring away from him, drag at his arm, cry out, "Mr. Mount! Look!"

Mr. Mount looked round—to meet the amazed gaze of Eric. Yes, it was the red haired Eric of whom Mount had once said, "Charming boy, the very man for Miss Verity." Eric who, of all people, had found his way to this scene of Miss Verity's secretial had not come as this seaman of Margaret's uncle, but had been brought here by more flagrant coincidence. Coincidence that a "free out a long arm in friendly gesture to bring adventure to the adventu. A

"Eric. It is Eric, isn't it?"

"Yes. It is Eric. But" with a bewildered gaze. "Sorry. I do know your voice. But I am so afraid I don't quite place your——" Here he recognized that flushed, perfect face above scarcely rises.

"Peggy! Jupiter Amon! Peggy here? In Corsica of all places on earth?"

All that Margaret could utter was a feeble—

"Is this Corsica?"

"Didn't you know? Where did you think it was?" Eric's tired but unpunctuated questions waited for no reply. "But Margaret you knew it was Corsica. Didn't you anyhow why aren't you in Ilio and where's the merry Ali Cachi? why aren't you on her and my dear you've cut your hair? And haven't you put on weight by Jove? Have you Peggy put on nearly a stone quite good I think jolly fit you look how long have you been here?"

Margaret's questions fused with his.

"How long have I been here? How long do you suppose I've been here? It January or June, Eric?"

"What can you mean, child, how long do I suppose——?"

"Well, nobody will tell me anything hasn't been time really of course——"

"But Margaret, my dear, tell me where you are putting up?"

"Putting up? Here."

"How do you mean here?"

"Well, how do you mean, Eric?"

"I mean, where did you sleep last night?"

Pause, for breath perhaps.

In that pause the huge, bearded, fellow, whom Eric had taken for a Corsican—bandit, strode forward, caught Eric's sleeve.

"Eric—I don't know your surname. But I say, one moment—I must explain."

"What are you?" demanded Eric, not unnaturally. "Have I met——"

"Mount. We met at Miss Verity's party."

"By Jove, so we did. So sorry I did not know you just for a moment," responded Eric, with the engaging politeness of the modern young, it taken aback. "Been growing a moustache, haven't you?"

'RAILROAD' TALK EXCITES BURLEY

BURLEY, Idaho, May 12.—A small crowd gathered at the station here Saturday morning to review the wreckage as it passed through. Rumor had it that a wreck had occurred near Kimberly last night, the seriousness of which was somewhat exaggerated. With the exception of the wrecker itself and a dead engine, nothing unusual was in evidence.

As the engine came to a halt at the water tank, the tired and grease beamered engineer was promptly bombarded with a volley of questions. Among his questioners was a citizen obviously well advanced in years. The flight of time had left its marks upon a leathery wrinkled countenance. An iron grey beard flowed majestically from his chin. With the experience of many years experience in exaggeration upon a nearby lump of coal, and in a voice like a fog horn demanded detailed information.

"Not much of a wreck, 'grandpa,' said the hoghead, patiently. "Trucks on the tanks derailed was all."

The elderly citizen nodded knowingly. "I need a wreck back in '93," he began reminiscently, "that was——"

"Sure," interrupted the hoghead, his eyes twinkling merrily. "That was on the old-TM & LW, wasn't it?"

"TM & LW?" spoke up a youthful, but well versed listener. "There ain't no such road."

The engineer started in astonishment. "Used to be the biggest road in the west, didn't it, grandpa?"

Grandpa nodded confirmation. "Sure, and I remember the time—"

"I betcha you you're wrong, built it you spoke up the youth. "There never was no TM & LW."

"All right, ain't it a bet," said the hogger reaching for the throttle. "Get me right son, and get wise. TM & LW—Two Mules and a Lumber Wagon."

The whiskers of the elderly citizen quivered spasmodically. The youth tried valiantly to swallow his prominent Adam's apple. The engineer's tired face lit up, with a broad grin. The engine screeched mockingly and the belated local left town.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves a low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells—S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold as all good drugs sources two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Choynski Sees Hitch in Queensberry Rules

Joe Choynski, veteran heavyweight pugilist, points out that the Queensberry rules were designed for bouts in rings at the four level.

There, it a man were knocked out of the ring the count should start at once. But in the elevated ring, usually erected for outdoor contests, the conditions are changed and the commissions should recognize the right of the boxer to have plenty of time to get back into the squared circle.

MARKETS

CHICAGO, May 12.—Grains closed generally lower on the board of trade today.

May wheat showed exceptional strength. A brisk cash demand by shorts and milling interests strengthened that delivery.

Reports from the seaboard were that the small parcels of Manitoban stock were sold for overseas shipment.

Corn displayed pronounced weakness. Fine weather and crop conditions and heavy sales to store were factors that dampened sentiment.

Oats, while dull, held relatively steady at a slight reduction. Lower visible supply figures were responsible.

Little trading was done in provisions.

MOTHER'S DAY OBSERVED BY T.F. CHURCHES

Churches of Twin Falls Observed Mothers' Day in Fitting Fashion Yesterday; Large Attendance and Special Programs Were the Features.

The churches of Twin Falls featured "Mother Day" yesterday at the various houses of worship. The Baptist church presented a program with several of the members participating. Special music in keeping with this event was the feature of the day. The carnation was worn by many, the color indicating whether their mother was still on earth or had passed to the great beyond.

Baptist Church Program

The morning hour was taken up with a special Mothers' Day program presented by several members of the church instead of the regular sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Kanarr. Miss Georgia Murray sang a vocal solo at the morning service, and the finest speaker for the church service was Mrs. Lyons, who recited a beautiful poem written in honor of Mother. Miss Emily Hausman traced the history of Mother's Day and stated that the first we heard of the idea came from Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. She introduced the idea into the churches and the movement has spread rapidly since that time until 1914 congress passed a bill which was signed by President Woodrow Wilson designating the second Sunday of May as the logical date on which to celebrate Mother's Day. Miss Hausman gave the opinion of John Quincy Adams, Abraham Lincoln, Napoleon and other prominent men on this subject.

Donald McGaffin spoke on the carnation as the emblem of Motherhood. He stated that this flower was used because it was "the only perfect flower. It stands, he said, for purity of character and purity of womanhood.

Mrs. Frank Boughton spoke of the reverence for Mother and this day. We honor our mothers on this day, what we not honor them every day. We should honor our parents and we can do this best by teaching our children to do the right. She closed by reciting a beautiful Mother's Day poem.

Senator Joe I. Schaer spoke of the typical New England village where his mother dwelt in that beautiful old Vermont state and stated perhaps his presence would make her usual pilgrimage to the little cemetery about three miles from their old home this morning. Some debts cannot be paid in the coin of earth—he in the thought that I think of my mother's memory. "God bless her." Not all sacrifice is made on the battlefield but instead the sufferings of our mothers far surpasses the sacrifice which is usual on the field of battle. Senator Sawyer described the last trip he made to the battlefield of Gettysburg and told of the monument erected to the brothers of the men who fell on this field by a New York regiment. He closed by reading a beautiful poem suitable for such an occasion.

Christian Church

The Sunday school opened yesterday morning at the Christian church with C. L. Allen presiding. An appropriate Mother's Day program was carried out. The opening song was "America," and this was followed by a violin solo by Francis George; recitation, "Howard Patrick' vocal solo, Richard Duvall; recitation, Eleanor Taye, song, Helen Slack. There were 312 in attendance at Sunday school.

At the hour of worship Rev. O. D. Harris spoke on Mother's Day and Mrs. Harris sang. The church was crowded and three new members were taken in, making a total of twelve since the new pastor came into the field.

The evening service was in charge of the Women's Missionary society, and a playlet was presented by Mrs. J. D. Tucker, Mrs. A. F. Brown, Alfene Seal and C. L. Allen. Rev. Harris spoke on the Golden Jubilee of the Women's Missionary society. This society was started fifty years ago with a subscription of $150 and in 1923 this society raised $16,351. The total offering of the United Christian Missionary societies is nearly four million. This organization plans to raise $1,000,000 this year and secure 50,000 new members.

St. Edward's Catholic

Taking for his text the commandment, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother," the pastor of St. Edward's Catholic church delivered a sermon on "Mother's Day" and the respect that should be shown her memory, recalling incidents of childhood, the sufferings and maternal care displayed, and teaching of prayer and religious duties and the labors for the welfare of the child.

It was announced that on account of the fact that the parochial school program, to which all are invited, would be held in the Lawrence Friday night, May devotions this week would be on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evening instead of on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Church of the Brethren.

Sunday being "Mothers' day" the Sunday school prepared a special program which called to our mind, or(es the benefits we received from our mothers. The "Gleaners" Sunday school class presented the oldest mother present at Sunday school with a large bouquet and the "Willing Workers" gave each of their mothers a carnation. Following the sermon; Rev. Fahrney, preached an appropriate sermon, his text being 2 Timothy, 1:5.

In the evening on regular "Christian Workers" meetings were dispensed with and our company communion services were observed.

Precipitation at Jackson Lake Is Somewhat Better

Slight relative improvement in conditions at Moran, Wyo., at the outlet of Jackson lake reservoir, is noted in the weekly report for May 3. For the same week last year there was no precipitation, while this year the precipitation was 1-100 inch. The precipitation for period from September 1, however, is still far below last year, the total this season being 10.77 inches against 15.31 last year. The storage on May 2 this year was 322,230 acre feet, while last year it was 429,020 acre feet.

MINIDOKA WATER USERS DEMAND FULL CANALS

Canals Running Full Capacity—Will Go on a Rotary Basis at Once

Demand for irrigation water is now the highest ever known on the Minidoka project at this time of the year. The canals are carrying every inch of water available and almost every farmer is asking for a full head.

In order to care for the demand the rotation system is now being employed, with a possible shortage ahead, it will doubtless be followed during the whole irrigation season. Officials say that if they can get by the first of July without drawing upon the reserve supply at Jackson lake, the season can be gone through without a damaging shortage. But to draw on that supply before July first means a real shortage and one that will result in damage.

A soaking rain would relieve the situation immediately, but apparently the rain-maker has come on a strike, so far as this section is concerned—Rupert Pioneer Record.

RUPERT NEWS

RUPERT, May 12.—One party who has examined into the grass hopper situation states that of the number of nests dug up, only about one in four are alive. Another says that on his place it is one to three. At other rate the number of eggs is a most indicative that there will be trouble stirred up by these pests the coming season. It is said that where hoboing places have been destroyed there is little or no evidence of live hoppers.

BABY ALUMNI ENTHUSIASTIC IN VOCALISM

Splendid Gathering of Children on Hospital Open House Day; Dr. Paaser Lectures on Clinics to Parents This Afternoon.

The enthusiastic vociferousness of the baby alumni which is concentrated at the Twin Falls County General hospital this afternoon makes the rallies of the seniors and juniors sound like Quaker conventicles, but the youngsters are having a plumb good time, and if they are not taking in the same observations of Dr. W. F. Paaser at the baby clinic, their parents are. The best recommendation of the Twin Falls hospital is declared by visitors to be the fine lot of children that have been born there, as evidenced by the ratherlou today.

Visitors began coming in in response to the open house invitation of the institution, as soon as the doors were thrown open to the public at 11:30. Decorations consisting largely of lilacs contributed by Mrs. C. H. Lind in abundance, were pleasing features. Refreshments were served in the dining room of the nurses hall. Many were coming steadily from the time of opening until press time. The open house period continues until 5:30.

The State Nurses' association meets tomorrow evening.

The men deny guilt and claim that the company owes them over $125,000 based on their construction of the contract. J. W. Taylor and Frank L. Stephan represent the state and Roy L. Black and H. C. Mills, the defense.
