Taft Resents Attempt by Wets to Link his Brother With Anti-Prohibitionists

WASHINGTON, March 19—(UP)—The late Chief Justice William Howard Taft was converted to prohibition after its adoption, his brother Horace D. Taft, who looks very much like him, only thinner and taller, told the house judiciary committee in the prohibition hearing today. The brother's white moustache, exactly like that of the former chief justice, trickled with indignation at the recent efforts of the wets to establish William Howard Taft as an anti-prohibitionist.

He read a letter from his brother written to Irving Fisher, Yale professor, Nov. 21, 1926.

Previously Taft had been regarded as dubious of prohibition because of a newspaper article which, on being the 18th amendment was adopted. The late chief justice's letter said:

"My dear Irving:

"Think you for sending me your book. I shall read it with a great deal of pleasure.

"On the late campaign I found myself in a very awkward position. I could not issue any publication during it, because of my being on the bench, and yet the New York World published my anti-prohibition letters written to Lincoln (a dry of New Haven) before the adoption of the amendment, and then nobody seemed to take the trouble to publish my answer at Yale given after the amendment was adopted. But the result is, religious and politics the only ways we have to work out the problem presented.

"The solution requires a great deal of time and practice. The making of an important section of an amended part of the country cannot be changed over night or in years. The reform and the adoption of society to that which the amendment aims must be gradual. The temptation of corruption will drag it out. While looking ahead at the amendment I despaired of any success, I really think that it is possible. If we keep at it, to achieve a satisfactory result."

Taft's letter was written on the stationery of the Supreme Court of the United States.

CENSORSHIP OF FOREIGN BOOKS MADE CERTAIN

Senate Rewrites and Accepts Smoot Amendment to Tariff; House Reconnects the Present Law; Magazines Scored

WASHINGTON, March 19, (UP)—Continued censorship of books and pictures imported from abroad was assured today.

But perhaps a federal judge instead of a customs clerk will be the censor.

The senate made the first certain and the second likely when it rewrote and adopted the Smoot tariff amendment, which if agreed to by the house will make the prohibition more drastic than now. The house merely re-enacted the present law, while the Senate amendment extends it beyond obscene matter to include any writing "advocating or urging treason, or insurrection against the United States or containing any threat to take the life of or inflict bodily harm upon any person in the United States." Importation ban on birth control devices and lottery tickets is continued.

Collapse of the hitherto successful campaign led by Senator Cutting, repu., N. M., against censorship, preceded adoption last night of the censorship plan without a record vote. The entire day was devoted to debate, with alleged obscenity of the classics and the futility of censorship advanced by Cutting as the chief argument.

The amendment was rewritten to provide that collectors of customs shall report the findings of a majority obscene or seditious book by a customs clerk to the U. S. district attorney who would be required to bring a forfeiture suit. The district judge then would be made the censor.

No penalties provided for the importer of forbidden books, but such books must be destroyed.

BEAN GROWERS SENT $125,000

Association Sends Out Checks Today to Members In Payment of Half Cent on Crop

Checks totaling about $125,000 are now mailed out to bean growers today by the Southern Idaho Bean Growers association in payment of one-half cent on beans handled through the association this year. Some of the checks were put in the mail this morning by C. R. Detwiler, manager, and the balance was to be mailed out this afternoon.

The payment of one-half cent per pound made today brought the total paid so far for the season up to three and one-half cents and a total paid to growers of $375,000. The checks went to the full 700 membership in the association, said Mr. Detwiler.

Farmers Are Busy Tilling the Soil

The season of spring planting operations has opened with a vengeance in this part of Idaho, and farmers are hard at work preparing the soil for spring planting.

A great deal of plowing is now being done both by horses and tractor drawn plows, and land is being harrowed, and leveled. Some seeding of early crops is being done, but the greater part of present farm operations is confined to preparing the soil to receive seed.

No difficulty has been faced this season by farmers in securing plenty of help, according to records at the federal employment bureau at the chamber of commerce office. There is a surplus of farm help, and many men are seeking work without being able to find it.

MILITARY STRIFE LOOMS IN CHINA, TROOPS MOBILIZE

Heavy Recruiting Progresses And War Seems Inevitable; Experts Estimate Large Number of Men Under Arms

PEIPING, China, March 19, (UP)—Intensified recruiting throughout north China by Gen. Yen Hsi Shan's armies today added to the increasing uneasiness. Indications that war with the national government at Nanking was inevitable appeared more certain.

Foreign military experts in Peking estimated there are 500,000 more men under arms in China today than a year ago. Various factional leaders, including General Yen, governor of the "model province" of Shansi and former commander of the Peiping-Tientsin area under Nanking, have been openly enlisting all men and boy they could poach.

The city was virtually cut off from the new capital at Nanking today. General Yen having taken over the railways and other communications.

Reports reached here, however that General Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the national government, was ready to move north. The central government, it is understood, has been recruiting also in the district around Nanking, and in Shantung Honan, and the Hankow area.

The situation has become complicated by the fact military lead ers nominally subject to Nanking have actually independent armies made substantial additions to their forces. These include General Chang Hsueh-Liang in Manchuria

IDAHO TOWN FEELS RAVAGES OF HUNGER

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho, March 19—(UP)—Famous at one time as a rich mining camp, and revived in the interest of modern mining, recently as the starting point for a 50-day race against death, a large section of Elk City has been destroyed by fire, according to reports reaching here.

This letter was written on the stationery of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Great Maurice to Scale Buildings Here

He's A Daredevil

The Great Maurice is busy today working plans for his spectacular stunting on the side walls of Twin Falls' buildings next Saturday afternoon. Having doubled for many movie stars in the line of thrills and daredevil taunting, he is going about his preliminary work with calmness and fortitude.

The Great Maurice will scale the front of the Orpheum theatre building and a number of the Montgomery Ward building Saturday afternoon, at a time to be announced by him this week in the Idaho Evening Times. The human fly is also contemplating a trip up the corner of the Rogerson Hotel building but this trip is not definitely settled, depending upon permission of the hotel proprietors.

Merchants of Twin Falls are furnishing cooperation with the circus who does headstands from tops of the tallest buildings while his wife looks on uncomfortably from the crowd which always gather on the streets far below.

At Logan, Ohio, on February 14, Jack Maurice, scheduled a performance on a public building only to find the day cold and blustery, and the building shooting with ice. He refused requests that he postpone his stunts and proceeded to go through with the plan as first agreed, taking the added risks of the weather blankets as a matter of course.

His wife is always present when Maurice does his stuff, and although she is always interested she has never yet shown fear because of her confidence in Jack. Say, husband is usually pretty sure he is going to meet with success before he starts on his climb," she said today. "It always seems to sense an accident impended."

Mrs. Maurice was in an audience at Amarillo, Texas, when he attempted to climb on a cable only to find the cable had loosened and threatened to precipitate him to the sidewalk, and certain death. Maurice, with a powerful jump, sprang to the top of the building and pulled himself to safety. Mrs. Maurice fainted.

And here is Maurice the Great just as he has completed scaling the side of a high building and plans to go over the cornice, the most difficult part of the ascent. He will perform here next Saturday.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT AS EXPRESS HITS MAIL TRAIN

Engineer Scalded to Death When Locomotive Explodes; None of Passengers Seriously Injured, It Is Thought

CHICAGO, March 19.—(UP)—An engineer was killed and a score of passengers and trainmen were injured when a Chicago and Northwestern suburban train struck wreckage of a mail train that had crashed into a sewer pipe being lowered across the right-of-way last night.

A caterpillar tractor was dragging the 4,000 pound concrete pipe sections across the tracks when the Minnesota-Chicago mail train plowed into one of them. A workman attempted futilely to flag the train with a red bandanna handkerchief. The locomotive of the express train plowed on, scattering wreckage across the adjoining track. Both engineer and fireman had jumped.

"A few minutes later a suburban train struck the wreckage. Its locomotive overturned, scalding Engineer Carl Kummer to death. About 40 passengers on the suburban train were hurt, none seriously it was believed.

When the suburban train plowed into the wreckage of the express, which was strung diagonally across the double tracks, the combination baggage-smoker car rode over the locomotive and reared on end, projecting 60 feet into the air. Two more steel coaches broke away and piled up around the locomotive and baggage car.

An instant later one of the locomotives, exploded, hurling fragments of steel and wood over the passengers of both trains who were squirming to safety through shattered windows.

He is said to have desired the death of Mrs. Shepard, the former Senana McCloskey of Los Angeles, so he could marry a young woman with whom he had become infatuated.

The young woman is said to be Grace Brandon, 20, a stenographer at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas. Investigators said she was innocent of any wrongdoing.

Idaho Roads Being Rapidly Opened Up

BOISE, March 19. (UP)—Snow fighting equipment of the state highway bureau is now at work on the highway between Ashton and Yellowstone Park. It is estimated that the route will be cleared by April 10. The road equipment will clear the entire route although cost of clearing the road from the Idaho line to West Yellowstone will be paid by Montana.

Recent rain and light snow left some of the Idaho roads rather soft but all are easily passable. Mud remained on the Old Oregon Trail between Kemmerer and Cokeville, Wyo., impassable. Last week end according to word received here today, the Wyoming highway bureau

Socialist Party Casts Few Votes

BOISE March 19 (UP)—The socialist party in Idaho this year is a new political organization so far state election laws are concerned. Under the Idaho law a political party must poll at least 10 per cent of the vote at the last election in order to retain its place on the ticket, the secretary of state pointed out.

Approximately 150,000 votes were cast at the last election, of which 1700 were cast by socialist. Under election laws, a party may petition for a place on the ballot such a petition to carry names of 5 per cent of the total number of persons voting at the last election.

Steinberg Freed On Spud Charges

A verdict of acquittal of Otto Steinberg, Kimberly produce dealer charged with shipping potatoes in carload lots at less than carload weight in violation of the interstate commerce act, was rendered by a jury in federal district court at Pocatello. The jury deliberated but 30 minutes, before freeing Steinberg of the charges.

The complaint against Steinberg alleged that on ten counts he had shipped potatoes in various amounts from Hansen and Kimberly. The complaint alleged the misrepresentation in weight had been made to gain in freight rates but the defense showed during the trial that the full freight rates had been paid in all cases.

Steinberg was represented by Peterson and Hodgin of Twin Falls, while the case was prosecuted by District Attorney Ray assisted by G. I. W. Scott of the interstate commerce commission.

NIPPONESE TURN DOWN PROPOSAL OFFERED BY U. S.

Italy Stands Pat for Parity With France and Nations May Have to Be Satisfied With 4 or 3 Power Treaty

TOKIO, March 19 (UP)—Japan was believed today to be prepared to consider withdrawal of the nation's delegates from the London naval arms conference or to at least emphatically refuse to further consider proposals before the conference by the American delegation.

It was reported today that the supreme military council of Japan may be summoned to consider the last American proposals at London which are reported hopelessly opposed by the Japanese admiralty.

The council's superconstitutional body composed of admirals and generals was expected to meet with Emperor Hirohito today, this council convenes only at times of national crisis.

LONDON, March 19.—(UP)—Italy's only reply to the pressure brought upon her naval delegation to recede from her demand for parity with France is reported to retreat, even at the cost of preventing a five-power agreement on armament.

It is believed here, that Aristide Briand and other parties to the Washington conference of 1922 accorded them equality at that time they were no reason for reasoning that ratio.

Accordingly it appeared today, the deadlock which has occupied the conference since early February is no nearer solution than before.

There are two possible solutions, in the opinion of observers, first, a four-power treaty, excluding and "isolating" Italy which be achieved. Second, a three-power agreement, omitting both Italy and France until they find some basis for entry to the part, might be reached.

BUHL MEN FREED BY JURY TUESDAY

E. M. Mitchell and C. E. Shangle Declared Not Guilty of Grand Larceny After Trial

After about three hours deliberation by a jury in district court here Tuesday evening E. M. Mitchell and C. E. Shangle of Buhl were acquitted of charges of grand larceny. The two men had been charged with the theft of two bay mares from Fremy Farnworth of Buhl on February 1. The trial required two days and was the only criminal trial in this term of court. Mitchell and Shangle were represented by J. W. Taylor of Twin Falls.

The state had contended that Mitchell and Shangle had been seen driving away the two animals from a haystack and that the horses had later been found with rosettes and manes and tails at the Mitchell place in Buhl following the delivery of them made by Mr. Farnworth. The defendants testified that they had traded for the team, claimed by Mr. Farnworth, that the animals they had driven to the haystack was not the Farnworth team, and that the light following the delivery of a team to Farnworth had been a mistake as they didn't drive over the town willingly.

A difference in opinion as to the value the team was brought out, Farnworth stating that the worth of the two horses were worth about $150. Buhl defendants stated the horses were worth only $125, and that the latter sum as good had been paid to fish hatcheries for feed.

MODERN CITY OF BUTTE DISGUSTS OLD PROSPECTOR UPON HIS RETURN

BUTTE, Mont. March 19 (UP)—Butte, the world's largest mining camp, has deteriorated into a comfortable suburban community of dilettantes, according to one grizzled, dirty bearded rock prospector who didn't seem inner long enough to reveal his identity.

Hungry for the bright lights and thirsty for a drink, this prospector came to Butte, and, without pausing to secure lodgings or to shave, made a beeline for a certain bar on a certain second floor behind a certain "look-see" window.

With the odds taken off his thirst, the old miner began looking around the room's emporium in one corner of the room four men were playing cards.

Doubtedly, he reasoned, it's the great American game of poker and I'm the sucker that's made for me. Five's better than four, and what might ye be playin'?" he asked.

"Contract bridge," answered the dandy.

The prospector's face was a study of amazement and contempt as he turned away. A few minutes later the bartender stopped around from behind the bar, pointing to a suspended sign. "Ladies requested not to spit on floor."

"Now I've seen everything," the prospector muttered. "That's the straw that broke the Camel's back. Um, on my way back to the claim and away from civilization, I'll stop at Idaho Falls and get me a job in the potato fields."

ENGLISH RACING DRIVER SEEKS TO SHATTER RECORD

Kaye Don Not Discouraged by Failure to Go Faster Than 168 Miles an Hour; Break Occurs in Gas Supply Line

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 19 (UP)—Kaye Don, British racing driver, who has encountered many difficulties in his attempt to set a new speed record for automobiles, was not discouraged today.

He planned to go out late this afternoon and make another effort to drive faster than 231.36 miles per hour, which he will have to to do if he sets a record better than that of Major H. O. Segrave a year ago.

Yesterday he set out in quest of a record but was unable to do better than 168 miles per hour as an average for his first round trip of the course. When he attempted a second circuit the gas supply line on his 4,000 horsepower car broke and he was brought to a halt with a sputtering motor at the second mile of the nine-mile course. He insisted that the line be repaired and that he be permitted to go on but the mechanics were unable to make the necessary changes in time.

Don believes that if he does not make a record today he can do nothing before Friday or Saturday on account of the condition of the tides. He realizes that the sooner he can get it over with the less chance he is taking and for that reason he plans to take advantage of the low tide.

Some of the pseudo-experts are beginning to question the ability of the car to carry the speed and weight developed by its great motors. Don, however, is still confident.

REAL COLOR IN FALL GRID GAME

By FRANK GETTY

If you like the snap and color that goes with military presentations you would do well to consider attending the football game that is to be played at West Point on Thanksgiving Day.

The Army "freshman team" will meet the football team of the Cuban Cadet School. While the game will come under the heading of freshman events, it is certain that the folks up at West Point will exert every effort to give the visiting Cubans a reception in the grand manner.

The scheduled game has one angle which is almost amusing. This is that to play the game, the Cubans must get themselves a football team. They do not have one at the moment. It has a happy angle, too, for the "cordial relationship" side of the encounter will be stressed heavily.

Our friends from Morro Castle will travel from Key West in a special train. It is certain that there will be many a friendly hand-shake exchanged enroute north, and that the proper statements from the proper persons will be issued. Besides, things like dress parades and that sort will be served up in the best Army manner.

West Point's picturesque stadium will be enlarged so that 20,000 spectators may be seated.

MISSION PLAYERS BEAT PITTSBURGH

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 19, (UP) Three home runs, two of them by Burns, Mission first baseman, brought the San Francisco Missions an 8 to 5 verdict over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. Petty and Meine for the Pirates yielded eleven hits while the Mission hurlers were nicked for twelve.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19, (UP)—Encouraged by yesterday's 7 to 5 victory over the New York Yankees, Manager Bill McKechnie planned to send the Boston Braves through two long drills today for tomorrow's tilt with the Detroit Tigers.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 19, (UP)—In an effort to make up for the four days' practice lost because of rain, Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins has scheduled a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns today. Both teams will use rookies in the first game.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 19, (UP)—Manager Bill Killefer has only five infielders working with his St. Louis Browns squad and has arranged to borrow several recruits from the Brooklyn Robins for today's doubleheader.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 19, (UP). Pitcher Ed. Wells is expected to make his first start of the year in today's game with the Cards. Waite Hoyt worked four innings yesterday and showed excellent form.

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., March 19, (UP)—The Chicago Cubs prepared today for their final workout on Catalina Island this season. They are scheduled to sail for the mainland tonight to complete training in Los Angeles, where they will be joined by their second team which yesterday defeated Hollywood at San Diego, 7 to 0.

Membership Drive Brings 800 Into Fish Association

The membership of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association has reached about 800 member mark as result of a campaign closing Monday night. Directors met here Monday and set 1000 members as the goal the drive to be continued by the association directors with a check on the number of old members who have re-enlisted.

Jack Redden of Twin Falls took first prize of a $15 fishing rod donated by Glenn L. Evans of Caldwell, to the man getting the most memberships. Dale Bowman of Kimberly was second. Bill Thomas of Twin Falls was third, Dr. D. R. Johnson of Twin Falls was fourth and R. E. Aspey of Twin Falls was fifth.

A. Holbrook, George Rice and E. B. Hartman, all of Twin Falls were tied for third place.

Volunteers will be asked to visit the hatchery again Sunday to do some work in putting in new concrete water heads and make other repairs on the old dirt rearing ponds. Plans are also being made for the construction of two rooms of a bungalow for the use of O. H. Dahlquist, the caretaker. The bungalow will probably be completed in 1931, it was stated.

'Red Biddy' Is New Drink in Scotland

LONDON, March 19 (UP)—"Red Biddy," a new drink invented in Scotland, is obtaining the serious consideration of members of parliament—academically speaking.

The advantage of "Red Biddy" is that it affords the toper two sprees for the price of one. Having been tight on it the night before, he has only to drink a glass of water the next day to be tight all over again.

Its disadvantages, according to declarations in the house, are that it corrodes the lining of the stomach.

GERMAN CLAIMS WAR MARKED A PERIOD OF STRIFE

Colored Races Getting Strong Enough to Threaten Whites, According to Oswald Spengler, the Noted Philosopher

HAMBURGH, (UP)—It is false, according to Oswald Spengler, the German philosopher, to term the recent clash of arms in Europe as "the" World War. It should be considered instead, he declared in an address here, as marking the beginning of an era of world wars.

Spengler is the author of several historical and philosophical works, among them "The Decline of the West," in which he reasons that the present civilization, one of Occidental or White supremacy, is on the downgrade and will soon die out, as have others, to make room for still a newer and different civilization.

In his speech here he declared that pacifism was weakening the fighting qualities of the white race, while at the same time the colored peoples, untouched by pacifistic philosophies, were growing relatively stronger in this respect.

Another factor he advanced was that of the consistently decreasing birth rate among the whites as evidence that the present predominant peoples would at an early date lose their grip on world affairs. He asserted that while the whites today comprise one-third the earth's population, in another 50 years the white race would make up only one-sixth its population.

NOTORIOUS GANG LEADER VANISHES

Al Capone Escapes from Prying Eyes and His Present Whereabouts Are Unknown

PHILADELPHIA, March 19 (UP)—Al Capone, aid by perfect co-operation from his former enemies, the police, disappeared more mysteriously today than at any of the many times that authorities of the law have searched the continent for him.

So far as is known, he has not been seen by officialdom since he slipped out of Greaterford prison shortly before sundown Monday, climbed in a Packard sedan and drove away. Officials at the prison were not sufficiently interested to notice which way he went.

There were two theories—both aparently incorrect—concerning the whereabouts of the gang leader who completed his term for carrying a pistol, and was secretly removed from eastern penitentiary to Greaterford yesterday. One was that he was on board the Broadway limited bound for Chicago. A search of the train at Pittsburgh proved that one was evidently wrong. The other was that Capone and Frankie Cline, his bodyguard who was released with him, had flown away in a tri-motored plane that landed at Camden across the river yesterday. Today the plane was still in its hangar.

The United Press was advised that Capone might be planning to go south, where he has a villa in Florida.

Germany No Longer Fears the Kaiser

BERLIN, March 19 (UP)—After more than 11 years as a republic, Germany has lost her fear of a Hohenzollern coup d'etat. The Reichstag passed the new defense of the republic law Tuesday by a vote of 265 to 150. By not mentioning the former dynasty, the law allows its members, including the ex-kaiser, the freedom of average citizens.

The new law does, however, place a definite check on the activities of both communists and fascists. It provides heavy penalties for "abuse of republican form of government, slander of high officials and insulting the flag." Even heavier penalties are imposed on those who would actively seek to overthrow the existing regime. Ample excuses for such drastic provisions are cited by the government in connection with attempts to establish dictatorship specifically it is aimed at communists and hitlerites.

CONVICT WRITES SUCCESSFUL PLAY

Mother of Robert Blake, Who Was Executed, Will Obtain Large Sum for Son's Work

NEW YORK, March 19 (UP)—A playlet, depicting the horrors of a convict riot and an execution, which Robert Blake wrote in his death house cell shortly before his electrocution last April in the Texas state penitentiary, is the legacy he unknowingly willed to his white-haired mother.

And because Robert put his last observations on earth in words, Mrs. Ella Blake, for the first time in her life, during which she has reared nine children, will be enabled to stop work and perhaps give up entirely her boarding house in Amarillo, Texas.

Mrs. Blake, when she returns to Texas, will carry with her a contract, signed between her and John Wexley author of "The Last Mile," a play which was suggested by Robert's prison playlet. The agreement provides, accruing not only from the stage production, but from movie, radio and television rights.

Wexley frankly admitted that nearly all of the first act of his play was made up of dialogue from Robert Blake's writings.

MALTED MILKS MAY BE RICHER

SALT LAKE CITY, March 19 (UP)—Utah's drugstore cowboys and cow girls may find more fattening qualities in "choc malteds double thick," if the state board of agriculture adopts a recommendation for standardizing malt drinks.

Edward Southwick, dairy and food inspector for the board, has discovered that a substitute for ice cream is being widely used in the mixing of malt drinks. The preparation, which is nothing but frozen milk, contains only 1 to 5 per cent butterfat, whereas ice cream contains 14 per cent.

Southwick has suggested that a standard of fat be specified for all malt drinks.

WOOL GROWERS MAKE MOST OF SELLING WORK

National Wool Marketing Corporation Stands Good Chance of Realizing Aim of 100 Million Pound Sale This Year

BOSTON, (Special)—Wool growers are determined to make the most of the present opportunity to assume greater control in the selling end of their business, reports J. B. Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, formed under the guidance of the Federal Farm Board to develop cooperative marketing on a nation-wide basis in the wool industry. If the present rate of response to the National Wool Marketing Corporation continues for another month the new wool selling plan will stand a good chance to realize its aim of 100,000,000 pounds of wool this year, he believes.

Start Work in West

The private wool trade has launched its western campaign in earnest and is doing everything possible to prevent the cooperative program from obtaining the hundred million pounds of wool it wants to be a strong factor on the domestic market. However, Mr. Wilson reports a widespread and generally favorable attitude among the wool growers toward the new movement.

"Wool Growers have not forgotten the many times they have asked, through resolutions and other pronouncements at their annual conventions, for adjustments in wool marketing practices that would give them greater control of selling machinery and eliminate speculation," says Mr. Wilson. "This is the first attempt to develop a nation-wide grower-controlled cooperative for wool and it is drawing greater support than many realized it would, even its fondest backers."

Many Joining

Most of the existing wool cooperatives already have joined the new organization and Mr. Wilson believes the remaining ones will affiliate soon. Most of the new state units, formed in regions not served by wool cooperatives in existence when the new nation-wide program came into operation, have been organized or are in process of organization. Within a comparatively short time the main organization work will have been completed and effort then will be directed toward building up the largest possible membership for each of the units.

Cooperative marketing associations of North Dakota, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Minnesota, and the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers, a northwest cooperative operating in several states, all of which have operated for several years, have become affiliated with the National corporation. New units have been organized in New Mexico, Arizona, and California, and organization work is under way in Idaho and Washington.

HEAVY BROODSOW FEEDING URGED BY EXPERT

MANHATTAN, Kan., (UP)—Heavy feeding of the brood sow to secure rapid growth of a litter of pigs is a risk, according to F. W. Bell of the Department of Animal Husbandry, at the Kansas State Agricultural College. The production of more milk than the pigs need will result in digestive disturbances. Also, overfeeding and too little exercise is likely to result in scours, thumps, and other ailments.

The Daily Poem

EVER-BURNING

Nothing at all can quench the steadfast heart
That rests on mightier power than its own,
Of which it is eternally a part;
Not a device of darkness ever known
Shall shake this house, well-founded on a rock,
This edifice, this lighted tower that stands
Unwavering, despite the tempest-shock,
And beacons mariners past dangerous sands.
This lamp is trimmed; this keeper is on duty,
Safe guide of more than he can be aware;
This golden shaft of light, this candle-beauty,
Star of the coast, lit with unerring care,
In every twilight, this white candlepower,
This quenchless heart dispels the darkened hour.
—ISABEL FISKE CONANT

UP TO DATE

THIS DISTRICT of Idaho, specifically the district south of the Snake river, is seeking to have its railroad transportation system brought up to date. The task is a big one and undoubtedly will require all of the support that can be accorded it, but the necessity for the change is so vital to the welfare of the territory involved that the revision is bound to be made. Whether soon or late will depend in large degree on the energy displayed by the people of the district in pushing the fight.

A joint committee representing the chambers of commerce of Buhl and Twin Falls has been working quietly away on the proposal to secure extension of the Minidoka-Buhl branch line west to the main line for several months. The committee has the support of the main shipping points involved on the branch line from Burley to Buhl, and the Grange has displayed an active interest in the proposal to get the cutoff. Boise is also interested in seeing the extension of the branch line and has gone on record favoring it.

Other shipping points west of us are only looking to their own interests as well as extending us co-operation when they lend aid toward securing the cutoff. We buy products that are shipped from the west. Those products must go east all the way to Minidoka and thence back west again to find their destination. Such roundabout transportation is out of date in this day and age.

When we want to go from Twin Falls to Shoshone by highway we take the direct route. We go north, cross a toll bridge that was too costly for us to build with our own funds but one which was built because of our insistence on a need of it, thence to Jerome and on to Shoshone. The bridge across the canyon of the Snake and the highway cost money, no doubt of that, but the money is found when so vital a necessity as transportation must be provided. According to railroad philosophy it is really foolish to have a bridge across the canyon, and probably we don't need half of our highways.

Just because we have been going east to Minidoka for 25 years by rail before turning back west on the main line, we should make our plans to continue the practice indefinitely, seems to be the reasoning of the Union Pacific. We don't drive over highways by any such circuitous route, and in view of the heavy traffic we ship and receive, some of us are beginning to find this reasoning just a wee mite stale and silly as applied to our railroad.

We should like to be 100 miles nearer tidewater on the Pacific. We should also like to see the Boise valley in a position to use the Rogerson-Wells cutoff for its California shipments. There is no way this shorter haul can become availale for such a slight amount of construction than building of the cutoff from Buhl to the main line.

In a word, we should like our railroad transportation system brought up to date. We have been paying for the roundabout haul for many years. Now we want the direct haul.

DRINK AT YOUR OWN RISK

THE OKLAHOMA episode in which poison liquor made 300 people ill illustrates one of the queer, illogical problems that the bootlegger has brought on the land.

There are government inspectors to prevent us from impurities in our food and drink, and they do a good job. The average man can buy something to eat or drink with perfect confidence even though he does not know the seller, because federal laws compel manufacturers to market healthful products.

In one realm, however, this does not apply. The man who drinks alcoholic liquors does so strictly at his own risk. There are no government inspectors to keep that commodity pure—because the traffic is outlawed.

ALARMING THE SUPER-PATRIOT

THE things that can set some of our super-patriots aquiver with alarm are a bit peculiar, to say the least.

Not long ago G. B. Oxman, president of DePauw University, addressed the prisoners at the Indiana state reformatory. He urged the prisoners that "America first" be interpreted "in terms of world service and not first in theft of Mexican oil lands."

A remark like that would seem to be sensible and enlightened enough for anyone. But various Indiana super patriots are besieging Attorney General James M. Ogden demanding that he put on a state-wide "red hunt"—and setting up President Oxman's speech as an example of the subversive propaganda that is going around!

If a statement like President Oxman's is a peril to our country we must be in a more desperate condition than we have ever suspected.

Single cow dairies will have to be up to snuff in their handling of milk just the same as the larger dairies if the new proposed ordinance is adopted. That is only fair.

Best Editorial of the Day

GERMANY UNDER THE YOUNG PLAN

PORTLAND OREGONIAN

Signature of the bills approving the Young reparation plan by President Hindenburg is the last act of fulfillment by Germany of the obligations imposed by the treaty of Versailles. France must reciprocate by withdrawing her troops from the Rhineland before June 30, 1930. Then the world war will have been liquidated and peace conditions will have been restored. Foreign control of any part of German territory and of German finance will have ceased.

There is deep meaning in the fact that the man who as president of the republic made the Young plan effective is the same man who in the last phase of the war commanded the armies of the kaiser. Still an advocate of monarchy, Hindenburg resists the importunities of the irreconcilables who would refuse to fulfill the treaty and perform an act which will aid greatly in perpetuating the republic to which in principle he is opposed. Realizing that the reparation debt cannot be escaped and that the German people are willing to assume it, he acts the part of a patriotic German by making an end of the reparation controversy. Germany regains full control of her territory five years earlier than the treaty provided, fully establishes her credit in the world money market and is placed in a position to reconstruct her industries and foreign commerce.

Although Germany is not required to pay the impossible sum of 132,000,000,000 gold marks demanded by the allies on May 1, 1921, she will including the sums already paid, be required to pay much more than the sums named by those who set out to minimize her capacity to pay. Estimates by Germany and the allies of the total sum paid down to May, 1921, vary widely, but Professor S. B. Fay in Current History says that impartial American experts calculated the amount at something more than 20,000,000,000 marks. At most, 1,500,000,000 marks were paid between that date and January 1, 1923, when the reparation commission declared Germany in default, and 7,970,000,000 marks have been paid under the Dawes plan. The total before the Young plan becomes effective is thus 29,470,000,000 marks or something over $7,000,000,000. The present value of annuities under the Young plan is estimated at $9,000,000,000 making total reparations over $16,000,000,000, or considerably more than double the $7,500,000,000 which Keynes estimated as the utmost Germany could pay.

In calculating Germany's capacity to pay, such writers as Fay and Keynes do not take sufficient account of the long-time economic progress of a nation. German payments are to extend over fifty-eight years. The marvelous progress of Germany in industry, foreign shipping, foreign investment was made in the forty-four years between 1870 and 1914. Why should not this progress be resumed and continued, perhaps at a slower pace but with cumulative results? The economic progress that may be made in half a century, even by an old country, may be judged by the experience of Britain. The modern industrial system of the machine age got its full gait after Waterloo ended the war with France, and had made its greatest success by 1870. It so swelled the national wealth and income that the debt caused by the war with Napoleon seemed trifling half a century later when compared with the debts incurred for later wars. The airplane, the automobile, the radio, the long-distance telephone have vastly increased productive power, therefore wealth, by economy of time. Invention will not stop; it will continue to accomplish things that will swell the volume of German income.

Hereafter Germany will be a greater power in world affairs, and she will be a power for peace. Being disarmed she will constantly demand that other nations disarm as they in substance promised in the Versailles treaty. Having to rely on pacific means to settle disputes, she will insist that other nations do likewise, then discard the arms thus made superfluous. A result of the world war surpassing all other may be that it has made Germany, the greatest military nation, the most ardent advocate of peace.

This trend to

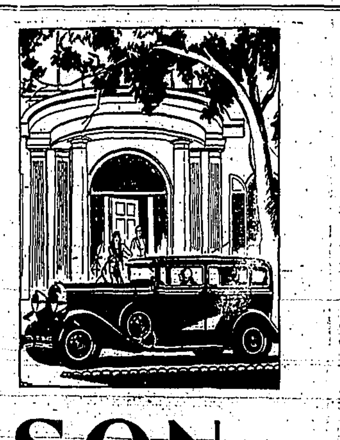
HUDSON



The wide, new interest in 8-cylinder cars is another tribute to Hudson leadership. For it sweeps aside the barrier of high premium on eight-cylinder quality. It establishes in this field a new scale of low ownership costs—in price, in operation and in maintenance. It is ruggedly built for long-lasting reliability.

That is why you find thousands of former "Six" owners enjoying its distinction and brilliant performance with better economy than they ever knew. It is why long-time eight-cylinder buyers are turning in great number to the advantages of Hudson's exclusive new type.

It is why this trend, which you see, toward "Eights", is really the public acclaim of Hudson's Great 8.

This car stands at the pinnacle of Hudson's record of value-giving. Any comparison you choose to make must emphasize that impression. Its advantages of fine appearance, quality and distinction were never so apparent.

Come see, and ride in the most modern and advanced of Eights. From whatever viewpoint you regard car ownership — whether rich appearance, distinguished performance or pride of possession — it questions the wisdom of ever paying more for any car.

Turning the light of Truth on false and misleading statements in recent cigarette advertising

WHAT ANOTHER MANUFACTURER of cigarettes chooses to say about his product is not our affair. Even when he sees fit to misrepresent his product and leave false impressions concerning it, that still is his business—not ours.

But—when, in his advertising, he goes beyond his own product and makes false statements or leaves misleading impressions about other cigarettes—then it is time that the truth be told.

Some time ago a manufacturer of cigarettes used the following statements in his advertising:

> "The extra secret heating process removes from (————) harmful irritants, corrosive acrids, which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way, and which cause throat irritation and coughing."
> "No matter how much or how little you pay for cigarettes you have a choice of only two general classes, and not more than two. In one class you have the billions of cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way and in the other class you have (————), the toasted cigarette, a product of modern science, a cigarette from which harmful irritants have been removed by that extra secret process described by the phrase 'It's Toasted'."

WHEN THESE STATEMENTS were first made, we assumed that they were a casual phase of that manufacturer's advertising and did not represent a deliberate and calculated policy. After making a few such statements, he abandoned this particular form of advertising. However, other statements used in his advertising came to the attention of the Federal Trade Commission on a question of their truthfulness.

As a result of the action of the Federal Trade Commission he was ordered to stop his admitted practice of using in his advertising false testimonials of non-smokers to the effect that they kept slender by smoking his brand of cigarettes, and was further ordered to stop using other fake testimonials and the specious argument that all can keep slender by smoking that brand of cigarettes. He then began to use again the form of statement quoted above or variations of it.

IF ANY MANUFACTURER chooses to say that the tobaccos he uses contain "harmful irritants, corrosive acrids, that are injurious to the throat," and then to claim that these things are removed by the heat-treating process, that is his own affair. But when he tries to create the impression that it is general practice to use in cigarettes such rank tobaccos as he describes, we object to the attempted reflection on the industry.

We have never used in our blend those rank tobaccos which can be properly described as containing "harmful irritants, corrosive acrids," nor do we believe that they are used by some of the other manufacturers.

If that manufacturer wishes to advertise heat treatment, calling it toasting or what-not, that is his right. But when, in so doing, he tries to create the impression that he is the only maker of cigarettes who treats tobaccos with heat, the truth again needs to be told.

The publication of a fake testimonial is no greater perversion of the truth than to imply that the heat treatment of tobaccos is an exclusive process with any single manufacturer.

THE FACT is that the use of heat treatment in the manufacture of tobacco is about the most commonplace and universally practiced method in the industry. It has long been standard practice.

We use heat treatment in its most modern and scientific application, both in the preparation and in the manufacture of those mild, fragrant, ripe tobaccos that carry their natural goodness into CAMELS.

The first CAMEL Cigarette we ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of CAMELS produced since has been manufactured under heat treatment. We rely upon heat to the limits of its possibilities to make our good tobaccos better. It cannot make inferior tobaccos good

WHETHER OR NOT a manufacturer, to have something to talk to the public about, attaches a contrivance to his heat-treating machines to catch, condense and bottle the vapors that come from them can have no more effect toward improving the tobacco than your catching and bottling the vapors that come from your teapot would have toward improving the tea in the pot.

Our own brand, CAMEL, continues to grow, but we are, nevertheless, unwilling to let these far-reaching false statements or impressions regarding the cigarette industry go uncorrected.

Music Department Triumphs in Club Program on Russia

"When I think of Russia, I think that the Flower of Hope must flourish there; else how could she rise from her down-trodden misery and go on?" commented Mrs. D. L. Alexander, introducing the excellent program which unfolded, through song and word, the story of Russia and Russian music, for the members of the Twentieth Century club and their guests, meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist bungalow.

"Russia has a great world mission and a magnificently rich empire in which to fulfill it. A country so rich in resources and with a climate so rigorous, must make the race that develops it, rank among the most industrious and progressive, when they are given an opportunity for wholesome growth."

Mrs. C. H. Krengel, speaking on Russia, gave a most comprehensive discussion of the country, her talk reflecting the new attitude toward the Land of the Soviets. She sketched Russian history, told of the present government, religion and economic conditions, and quoted predictions of Russia's future. She told of its vast undeveloped resources, stating that they are valueless unless developed by intelligent leadership. "The problem of all the czars has been to find a means of keeping the people contented. Autocracy still exists in Russia, though the czars are gone. Russia's youth and women as well as the men uphold the soviet. Russia looks to America to aid her in development of science and agriculture and new methods of developing her natural resources. Russia has banished religion completely. She needs our understanding and sympathy," were facts enumerated by Mrs. Krengel in her vivid sketching of present-day Russia.

Musical Program

Tchaikovsky's passionate melody, reinforced by inspired passages from Rimsky-Korsakov, and by the tuneful strains of Rubenstein were interpreted by members of the music department of the Twentieth Century club, of which Mrs. Alexander is chairman, in presentation of a program on Russian music that enthralled their listeners. Mrs. Alexander discussed the outstanding characteristics of Russian music, the deeply despondent strains, alternating with fierce outbursts of unrestrained hilarity, clothed in garish barbaric orchestral colors, blending with a rich fusion of folk songs. She also commented on the greatest Russian composers.

Especially pleasing were the solos given by Mrs. J. C. Chamberlin, a native of Russia, educated in the Russian capitol, who sang with passionate beauty in the Russian language, "Romance" by Rubenstein, and an encore number. The musical program included "The Volga Boatmen," and "Song of India," Rimsky-Korsakov, and "Orientale", Cesar Cui, by the club chorus, composed of Mrs. J. H. Barnes, Mrs. O. P. Duvall, Miss LeNelle Breckenridge, Mrs. George Wiley, Mrs. W. H. Dwight, Mrs. D. L. Alexander, Mrs. H. D. Maguire and Mrs. H. N. Nunemaker, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Carter. Solo numbers included a piano selection, "Prelude", Rachmaninoff, Mrs C. A. North; Mrs. Chamberlin's numbers; "Silent Night," Rimsky-Korsakov, Mrs. O. P. DuVall; "Farewell Ye Hills," Tchaikovsky, Mrs. W. H. Dwight.

Following the program, spiced Russian tea was served from a real Russian samovar. Mrs. D. L. Alexander and Mrs. C. R. Scott presided at the service table. A silver candelabra, holding red tapers, centered the service table. Guest day being observed, a large number were present, among whom were included former members now residing in other cities. Mrs. C. P. Cosgriff and her committee decorated for the occasion with Russian pictures, laces and curios.

Officers Nominated

During the business session, presided over by Mrs. C. R. Scott, the nominating committee, Mrs. W. H. Clouchek, chairman; and Mrs. B. L. Price, gave the report on the following tickets: for president, Mrs. Robert Huljer; first vice-president, Mrs. Herman Schurger and Mrs. R. H. Musser; second vice president, Mrs. Edwin Wells and Mrs. George Wald; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Casey and Mrs. J. H. Barnes; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lester M. Powell and Mrs. J. E. Langenwalter; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Roberts and Mrs. J. W. Newman; auditor, Mrs. M. B. Hoover and Mrs. H. A. Severin; board members, Mrs. P. J. Costello, Mrs. B. L. Price and Mrs. W. L. Dunn or Mrs. C. R. Scott, Mrs. W. B. Smith, Mrs. W. Orr Chapman; real estate, Mrs. B. N. Rendahl, and Mrs. E. B. Williams.

The Time, the Place and the Appropriate Hat

By FRANCES PAGET,
Copyright, 1930, by Style Sources

NEW YORK, (UP)—The hat for the occasion is as vital a factor in being well turned out as the costume. There is definitely a place and a time for hats as well as for dresses and the tailored suit which leads the spring field has often two hats, one of which repeats the fabric of the suit. This is a point on which Paris has been somewhat insistent this season.

Many materials can be used in this way. The tweed is accompanied by the tweed hat, the linen, shantung, crepe, taffeta and flat the group of novelty materials that are finding their way into the mode.

In straws, much importance is given porte bonheur by some of the exclusive makers. The straw is substantial, has the look of milan, much luster, is light in weight and can be cleverly handled.

The point is made that its semi-rough appearance, that is, the beaded appearance of milan, makes it especially adaptable for the suit hat as contrasted with other straws that have a more dressy appearance and which are so often combined with lace straws. Porte bonheur is always used in a simple way that is not in combination, although the hats are made to preserve the soft feminine outlines and feminine bows and loops that are the order of the season.

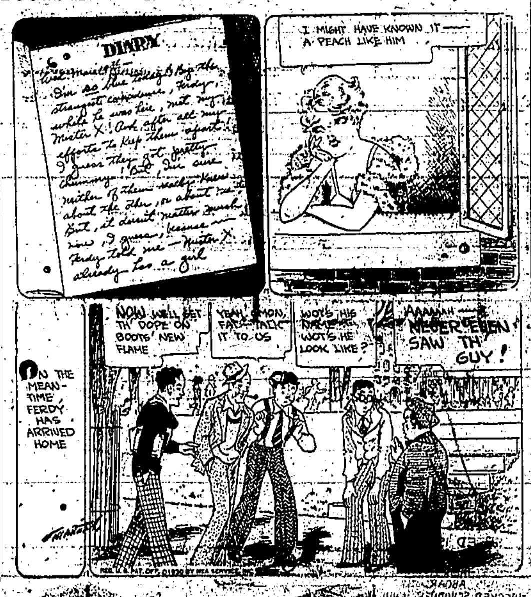
Milan has been employed by some of the Paris milliners and those returning from Paris have expressed themselves as confident that this straw will have some play. The price will be high because of the scarcity of the fine or baby milan, but this does not militate against it. Instead of sewing it in the old way to show the beading more clearly and to develop the rough surface, it is box stitched so that the hat is light in weight and can be manipulated, a thing which is not possible when the straw is sewn in the old way. Bakou will do the service work as the suit hat.

More Collection For Three Month Period Reported

Collection of taxes on city property, based on an assessed valuation of $5,175,933, has been one-half per cent greater for the three months of December January and February than for the same three months in the two previous years, according to a report of G. M. Hall, city clerk, to the city commissioners Monday evening. There was 58 per cent collected this year and 57½ per cent for the same periods in the other two years.

In 1927 there was an assessed valuation of $5,075,827. There was a 31 mill levy assessed and collections for the three months of December, January and February were $29,147.98 on the general fund and $45,899.50 on the bond interest and sinking fund. In 1928 there was an assessed valuation of $5,011,632 ad a levy of 30 mills, yielding collections of $28,780.96 on the general fund and $43,544.43 on the bond interest and sinking fund. The levy on the valuation this year was 30 mills all collections for the three months were $29,896.59 on the general fund and $45,306.02 on the bond interest and sinking fund.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES By Martin



CHILD RESCUES CONDEMNED DOG

SANTA ROSAN, Calif., March 19 (UP)—A small child took the law into his own hands Tuesday and Tim, condemned police dog, has been delivered from death.

It occurred while Poundmaster Melvin George was busy elsewhere—the most sensational jail delivery in the history of Santa Rosa, or so it must have loomed in the pounding heart of its small perpetrator.

For a very small boy or girl it was who turned the trick.

Tim was removed, after his collar had been slipped off, through a hole made by removing too thin boards in the rear of the garage where he was kept. And the hole was much too small to allow the passage of even a small adult.

The delivery was made just in time. A last appeal from Tim's sentence to die for sheep-killing was to have been placed Tuesday before Justice Marvin Vaughan—and he had intimated that he must refuse.

The authorities are talking half-heartedly about "organizing a posse" and "scouring the country."

But there are those who know their small boys and who are offering impressive odds that Tim will never be seen in Santa Rosa again, and that the police can question every "Elite scorpion" in town from now until Christmas, 1932, without finding out anything.

JANITOR WRITES SONGS AT WORK

MARION, O., (UP)—A budding song writer is Earl H. Coffey.

As janitor of the Elite Apartments here he spent several years in a more colorless calling.

The name of Coffey has appeared on several popular songs published recently, the last of which was "There's a Broken Chord Somewhere in Love's Old Sweet Song."

His song offerings are created both in and out of work hours. During leisure moments, he improvises the words.

The lyrics he hums while plying a mop or performing other prosaic duties. Then during leisure time he writes the score.

He says he never has taken a music lesson, but that hasn't deterred him from giving lessons on the mandolin or learning the technique of the piano and most of the stringed instruments. As an instructor he claims a system all his own.

Coffey is 58, and the father of three children. To write a hit that will rival one of Irving Berlin's is his dream.

Mother of Melvin Payette, Murderer, Hates News Men

SALT LAKE CITY, March 19 (UP)—Vigorously refusing to be interviewed by reporters or anybody else, the mother of Melvin Payette, confessed murderer of Mrs. Christina Wilson, of Butte, Mont., has retired to the seclusion of a small hotel room here and appointed a feminine friend to guard her against intrusion.

The friend is even more emphatic than Mrs. Payette, or Mrs. Nolan, as she is known in the hotel where she acts as a chambermaid. She gives reporters the opportunity to walk down the stairs before assisting them with a broom. Her answers to questions are not considered of good taste in the best circles. She refuses to admit that Mrs. Nolan is there or that she ever heard of the woman, much less agreeing to tell her name.

All efforts to storm the retreat of the confessed killer's mother have been repulsed.

Police have made no attempt to interview her. She was located by newspaper men after local police reported that they did not know where she could be found.

GOVERNOR DERN ON A TRIP EAST

SALT LAKE CITY, March 19 (UP)—Gov. George H. Milton H. Welling, secretary of state, will serve as acting governor during Dern's absence.

PUBLIC TO HEAR MOCK AIR WAR IN CALIFORNIA

Radio-Telephonic Apparatus Is Rigged Up to Report Maneuvers

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Millions of persons will be given the opportunity of listening in on the Army Air Corp's annual mock war when the planes roar and the flare bombs burst in the vicinity of San Francisco next month. The exercises are from April 1 to 20.

Army technicians have adapted radio-telephonic apparatus to communication between flying war craft in addition to communication between planes and the ground. Owners of average radios are expected by the Army to be able to pick-up orders issued to planes in the air and to hear the reports of pilots on the progress of hostilities.

On an occasion to be determined later the National and Columbia broadcasting companies will transmit the "Air Defense of San Francisco" over a country-wide chain of stations. Bombs weighing 1,000, 2,000 and 4,000 will be represented by flares of 300,000 candle power. Smoke screens, smoke curtains and phosphor bombs will add realism to the scenes of mock battle.

When army photographers fly into the night to photograph distant enemy positions they will carry with them flashlight which burst with a glare of 5,000,000 candle power, and for a moment, banish darkness.

The progress made in aircraft since the war proved the value of planes is illustrated in all types of craft to be assembled at Mather Field for the annual exercises. World War bombing planes managed 80 miles an hour and carried bombs so small that the average weight of those dropped during the war was only 100 pounds. The War Department says only 16 bombs of 1,000 pounds were used against the enemy. The Air Corps now use single bombs as large as 4,000 pounds dropped from planes capable of 125 miles an hour. The Army's fastest plane is the Pursuit-Boeing which makes 180 miles an hour compared to 130 during the war. Curtiss attack planes mount six machine guns and 10 small bombs but attain 140 miles an hour. Douglas observation can fly at 150 miles.

Dutch Object to Vessel Landing

LONDON, March 19 (UP)—The Italian steamer Confidenza with a cargo of Russian grain bound for Rotterdam was docked at Amsterdam today because of a Dutch protest against the import of Russian produce which members of the Netherlands agricultural board said had been seized from Russian farmers by the Soviet government.

The central committee of the board, according to an Exchange Telegraph report from Amsterdam, issued the protest and the steamer went to Amsterdam instead.

Worth Weight In Gold

BAILDON, Yorkshire, England, (UP)—Actually worth more than his weight in gold, Yorkshire's champion canary, winner of the national challenge trophy cup, registers one and a half ounces on the scales and is valued at $500.

PRICE OF WHEAT ABOUT THE SAME

CHICAGO, March 19 (UP)—Heavy commission house selling of September wheat forced all months down in the last hour of trading on the board of trade today and the market was only practionally higher at the close. The recovery from the low point of last week has been extensive and appears to have largely corrected the oversold position of the market. Corn too, ran into heavy realizing sales and larger offers from the country on the advance and lost most of the gains for the day. Oats was affected by the other grains.

At the close wheat was ⅜ to ⅝c higher, corn was ⅜ to ½c higher and oats was ⅛ to ⅜c higher. Provisions were steady.

"The Green Goddess," starring George Arliss, is a Warner Bros. Vitaphone picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Major Anthony Crespin, his estranged wife, Lucilla, and Dr. Basil Traherne, the Major's friend who is in love with Lucilla, find themselves prisoners in the palace of the Raja of Rukh following a forced airplane landing due to a Himalayan fog and the lack of petrol. They learn that the Raja, educated at Oxford, intends to sacrifice them to the green goddess to satisfy his desire for vengeance if his three half-brothers are executed in India for murder. He learns by wireless that their execution is set for the next day. He offers to allow Lucilla to escape if she will enter his household.

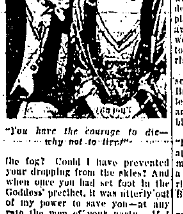
"Oh, pray spare me a few moments. I want to speak to you seriously."

Mrs. Crespin sat down listlessly. "Well—" she said wearily, "I am listening."

"You are very curt," Mrs. Crespin," Rukh said pleadingly, seating himself at the writing-table. "I'm afraid you bear me malice—you hold me responsible for the doubtless trying situation in which you find yourself."

"Who else is responsible?" she demanded; her voice curt and cold.

"Who? Why chance, fate, the gods, Providence — whoever, or whatever, pulls the strings of this unaccountable puppet-show. Did I bring you here? Did I conjure up



"You have the courage to die—why not to live?"

the fog? Could I have prevented your dropping from the skies? And when once you had set foot in the Goddess' precinct, it was utterly out of my power to save you—at any rate the men of your party. If I raised a finger to thwart the Goddess, it would be the end of my rule—perhaps of my life."

"You know that is not true," the woman flashed her contempt. "You could easily smuggle us away, and then face the people out. What about your troops?"

"A handful, dear lady—a toy army. It amuses me to play at soldiers. They could do nothing against priests and people, even if they were to be depended upon. And, they, too, worship the Goddess."

"What you really mean, Raja," she said, bitterly, "is that you dare not risk it—you haven't the courage."

"You take a mean advantage, Madam. You abuse the privilege of your sex in order to taunt me with cowardice."

"Let us say, then, that you haven't the will to save us."

"Reflect one moment, Madam. Why should I have the will, at the risk of all I possess, to save Major Crespin and Dr. Traherne? Major Crespin is your husband—does that recommend him to me? Forgive me if I venture to guess that it doesn't greatly recommend him to you. He is only too typical a specimen of a breed I detest: pigheaded, bullnecked, blustering, overbearing. Dr. Traherne is an agreeable man enough—I dare say a man of genius."

"If you kill him," Lucilla interrupted quickly, a faint color tinging her cheeks. "If you cut short his work—you'll kill millions of your own race, whom he would have saved."

The Raja smiled at her new eagerness, though it stung him. "I don't know that I care very much about the millions you speak of. Life is a weed that grows again as fast as death mows it down. At all events, he is an Englishman, a Feringhi—and, may I add, without indiscretion, that the interest you take in him—oh, the merest friendly interest, I am sure—does not endear him to me. One is, after all, a man, and the favor shown to another man by a beautiful woman—"

But the Raja rose swiftly, and faced her, standing between her and it.

"Please, please, Mrs. Crespin," he said entreatingly, "bear with me if I transgress your Western conventions. Can I help being an Oriental? Believe me, I mean no harm; I wanted to talk to you about— You spoke last night— your children—"

She turned away swiftly, her face [illegible]

control wavering at last. The bad blow had crumpled her.

"I think you said—a boy and a girl," the despot pushed his advantage home.

It was too much. Lucilla Crespin threw herself down on the couch with a desperate cry. "My babies, my babies!"

Rukh winced. He was hurt for her grief, but it did not budge him from his purpose.

The billiard balls still clicked.

CHAPTER XXVI

HE let her weeping wear itself out. When the woman's sobs were but panted breath, he went a step nearer, and said earnestly, "I feel for you, Mrs. Crespin, I do indeed. I would do anything—"

Though her smarting eyes were half blind from the tears they had shed, she saw the sincerity in his eyes, as she had heard it in his voice. "Raja, if I write them a letter of farewell, will you give me your word of honor that it shall reach them?"

"Ah, there, Madam," he said crisply, "you must pardon me! I have already said that the last thing I desire is to attract the attention of the Government of India."

"I will say nothing to show where I am, or what has happened to me. You shall read it yourself."

"An ingenious idea!" He said it a little mockingly. "You would have it come fluttering down out of the blue upon your children's heads, like a message from a Mahatma. But the strength of my position, you see, is that no one will ever know what has become of you. You will simply disappear in the uncharted sea of the Himalayas, as a ship sinks with all hands in the ocean. If I permitted any word from you to reach India, the detective instinct, so deeply implanted in your race, would be awakened, and the Himalayas would be combed out with a fine-tooth comb. No, Madam, I cannot risk it."

"Cannot?" Lucilla said with cold scorn. "Cannot? You dare not! But you can and dare kill defenceless men and women. Raja, you are a pitiful coward!" Her cold, blue eyes scanned him tauntingly.

But Rukh laughed unruffled. "Forgive me," he said, "if I smile at your tactics. You want to goad me to chivalry. If every man were a coward who took life without risking his own, where would your British sportsmen be?"

"I beg your pardon," the woman retorted with a sort of superb insolence; "a savage is not necessarily a coward." The Raja just flushed at that. "And now," she ended, rising again, "let me go to my husband."

"Not yet, Mrs. Crespin. One more word. You are a brave woman, and I sincerely admire you."

"Please—please—" she interrupted, hotly angered by the very sincerity that she could not doubt.

"Listen to me," Rukh persisted firmly. "It will be worth your while. I could not undertake to send a letter to your children—but it would be very easy for me to have them carried off and brought to you here."

She sprang round to him, half stifling a cry, and faced him, her own face frankly quivering.

"What do you mean?" she gasped.

"I mean that, in less than a month, you may have your children in your arms, uninjured, unsuspecting, happy—if—"

"If?" she whispered, twisting the end of her long silk scarf in trembling fingers.

"If—" Rukh answered gently—"oh, in your own time, of your own free will—you will accept the homage it would be my privilege to offer you."

"That!"

It would have been answer enough for most men, but Rukh went smoothly on, beating his terrible arguments in slowly and courteously. "You have the courage to die, dear lady—why not have the courage to live?"

She shuddered. That was her answer.

He waited a moment quietly. "You believe that tomorrow, when the ordeal is over, you will awaken in a new life, and that your children will rejoin you. Suppose it were so; suppose that in forty—fifty—sixty years, they passed over to you: would they be your children? Can God himself give you back their childhood? What I offer you is a new life not problematical, but assured; a new life, without parting, through the shadow of death; a future utterly cut off from the past, except that your children will be with you, not as vague shades, but living and loving. They must be quite young; they would soon forget all that had gone before. They would grow to manhood and womanhood under your eyes; and ultimately, perhaps, when the whole story was forgotten, you might [illegible]

Congress Transacts Wide Range of Business in Day

CENSORSHIP IS CAUSE OF ROW IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 19 (UP)—A wide range of subjects occupied the attention of congress Tuesday discussions on unemployment, book censorship, federal patronage, lobby and "gag" rules replacing the more familiar topics of prohibition and the tariff.

On the senate floor, Senator Cutting, repn., N. M., opened his fight against literary censorship by customs officials charging that Senator Smooth, repn., Utah who has been leading the movement for censorship, has through his opposition given such publicity to one of the alleged obscene books that it is now being distributed widely.

The book in question, "Lady Chatteroy's Lover," has been mentioned frequently by Smoot in his effort to defeat Cutting's tariff bill amendment which would prevent censorship by customs agents.

Before the senate began its arguments over whether "King Lear," and other classics were obscene the commerce committee began its investigation of the unemployment situation.

Senator Wagner dem., N. Y., author of several bills to alleviate the situation testified at the hearing, as did Prof. Benjamin M. Squires of the University of Chicago, who presented a picture of distressing conditions and warned senators not to ignore it. Squires endorsed Wagner's $254,000,000 unemployment relief program.

While the committee heard the witnesses, a delegation of about 60 unemployed, headed by James Eads How, "Millionaire Hobo," lounged on the capital lawn outside. They were not permitted to appear today, but will testify later.

The senate lobby committee resumed today its questioning of Claudius Huston, chairman of the republican national committee.

Federal patronage came up on the senate floor when Senator McKellar, dem., Tenn., called upon President Hoover for the immediate dismissal of District Attorney John Harman and Collector of Customs Roy A. Campbell of Texas.

In the house, Rep. Howard, dem., Nebr., assailed imposition of the "gag" rule and said he and his colleagues are as "helpless as children" in the hands of their leaders, Speaker Longworth, Floor Leader Tilson and Chairman Snell of the rules committee.

Disturber Shocked

HARLESDEN, England, (UP)—A nun disturbed at her early morning prayers at the Harlesden convent called the police, who arrested an intruder who declared that he "must have been terribly drunk to break into such a place."

DOG MINDS BOTH WHO CLAIM HIM

BUTTE, Mont., (UP)—The only gentleman who could settle the burning question either couldn't or wouldn't. He is a gigantic police dog, ownership of which both Mrs. Angela Sarta and Fred Burgman vigorously claimed.

"Lie down Laddie," ordered Burgman.

Laddie obediently reclined.

A few minutes later: "Lie down Ritin," commanded Mrs. Sarta.

And Ritin immediately sprawled on the floor.

Ritin and Laddie were one and the same and the question remained unsettled.

OFFICERS MOVE TO GET DOPE SUPPLY

Tip from French Government Throws Authorities on the Track of Big Narcotic Ring

NEW YORK, March 19 (UP)—War-time regulations, with all their former secrecy and precaution, were recalled on New York's waterfront Monday as agents attempted to stop a reported $3,000,000 shipment of morphine believed to be hidden on the Liner France by a huge narcotic smuggling ring.

Throngs of steamship officials and visitors were barred from the vessel while secret service agents and many employees of the treasury and customs departments boarded the liner in an intensive search for the valuable contraband shipment. All passengers leaving the vessel, which docked last night, also were subjected to a most careful search. Operatives worked all night aboard the big French liner.

The tip which started the search came from the French government which is co-operating with the United States officials in combatting the operations of the international smuggling ring. American officials were notified that a shipment of 2,000 pounds of morphine had passed through the French naval port of Toulon a few days before the France sailed, and it was thought to have been placed aboard the liner.

HE BOUGHT TOO MUCH ALCOHOL

KINGMAN, Ariz., March 19 (UP)—Jose Altamarino, who neither trains baseball players nor manages prizefighters, bought rubbing alcohol in such quantities that authorities became suspicious.

They investigated and today Altamarino is in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of selling denatured alcohol to Indians.

TIME TO SPRAY SAYS INSPECTOR

E. V. Gipson Advises Owners of Small Family Orchards to Join in Clean-up Drive

Owners of small family orchards, of fruit trees and shrubs are urged to join the clean up campaign being undertaken by the commercial fruit growers of the tract, to eliminate several of the destructive pests from the orchards of the Twin Falls south and north side tracts, says E. V. Gipson, district horticultural inspector.

"I would urge that the first step in this campaign would be to properly thin out the tops of the trees so that a 1000 per cent. job of spraying can be done, cutting out cross-limbs, water sprouts and broken branches or dead limbs and in case the trees are too high to be easily sprayed, they should be topped back, cutting to a good sized sidelimb but never leaving stubs from 3 to 12 inches long, as has been observed in some orchards this spring.

"Two different kinds of dormant spray material may be used for the pests and the grower may control several pests with one spray, if used rightly.

"For leaf-roller egg masses, oil emulsion at the rate of 8 gallons to 100, or 16 to 200 gallon tank should be used and this spray will also kill scale, and the eggs of aphis or spider mites which may be on the trees. Where no leaf-rollers are in evidence, the amount of emulsion may be cut down to 10 gallons to a 200 gallon tank.

"Where scale is present either alone or with blister mite, many growers prefer to use lime-sulphur, either in the dry or liquid form, both of which may be obtained on the tract this year. However where either blister mite or twig-borer occur separately or with scale, lime-sulphur must be used if control is obtained. Maximum recommendations of strength of material, made by manufacturer is urged, which is 60 pounds of dry or 24 gallons of liquid to the 200 gallon tank. Lime-sulphur must also be used to control California peach blight."

These spray formulas are the ones recommended by Claude Wakeland, entomologist, and Mr. Hungerford, Pathologist of the State Agriculture College, and have proved worth in actual orchard tests.

It must be remembered that the above strength of sprays must be applied while the trees are still dormant or damage may occur.

Orchardists are again warned about accepting any untried remedies, as several on this tract were badly fleeced by a smooth talking individual who claimed to have a cure-all for applying to the roots of the trees, thereby killing all the pests which might get on the trees or in the fruit.

"Right application of these to the trees is of fundamental importance, if they are to give returns for the money and time invested. Growers, who are using old worn-out outfits, will find that the cheapest investment they can make will be to replace them with up-to-date outfits. Practically all the orchards have outgrown the outfits originally bought to take care of them. No spray machine of the usual type should be considered which has less than a working pressure of 300 pounds and 350 to 400 pounds would be much better, with each spray gun delivering not less than 5 gallons per minute. The growers on the tract who have no pest control problems are the ones who have adopted them by those efficient methods contrasted with those who pay a toll of from 20 to 50 percent to the bugs, as some did last year, using invariably worn out outfits," said Mr. Gipson.

The amount of dilute spray material to use on each tree will depend on several factors, the size of the tree and the stillness of the weather. Windy days waste material and yet there are so few still days that many growers find it necessary to spray anyway, sometimes spraying only the windy side and finishing the other side later. In any event a tree should never be called sprayed until it is completely wet from the end of the highest twig to the bottom of the trunk. The best way to accomplish this is to divide the tree into several parts spraying each part from several sides. The average well grown tree will take from six to eight gallons of material which even at the larger figure will be money well spent.

Growers of shade trees, shrubs and roses of various kinds are urged to protect them before they are ruined by the pests. Nearly all elm trees on the tract are infested with elm scale and leaf roller oil strength is advised for them. Aphis on snowballs must be controlled by dormant oil spraying, or scale on rose bushes likewise.

The horticulture inspector will be glad to furnish any information along this line, and orchard men are urged to report any infested or neglected tracts so that the owners may be notified, or those which are not cleaned up destroyed.

ERRORGRAMS

Today's Scramblegram

No use trying this.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you hit.

Smelt Running in River of Oregon

TROUTDALE, Ore., March 19 (UP)—Two hundred thousand persons prepared today to make up the world's biggest fishing party—the smelt are in the Sandy river.

The horde made its annual entry into the river, which empties into the Columbia 12 miles above Portland, during the night and reports this morning were that the run is heavy.

By tomorrow thousands of persons, men, women and children, will line the banks of the stream for a space of a mile and a half. Their "lure" will consist of nets running all the way from "boughten" ones, to bird cages, popcorn poppers, gunnysacks, lace curtains, mounted on the end of sticks.

The fish will be dipped up by the bucketful. From the appearance of the run there will be plenty for everyone, and millions will be taken during the next two weeks.

FARM WIFE

She never climbed a mountain,
She never saw the sea,
But always watched a winding road
That wandered aimlessly
Among unshaded meadows—
A farm, a pasture rife
With black-eyed Susans, level fields
Comprised her little life.

She never longed to travel,
She felt no urge to search,
Her longest journey the five miles
On Sundays to the church;
Yet, to her quiet dwelling,
In singing, sighing flow,
Come love and parting, birth and death
And all that women know.

Bank Bandits Are Back in Colorado

DENVER, Colo., March 19 (UP)—The three Manter bank bandits were brought to Denver and safely locked in the county jail today while the state of Colorado prepared to demand their lives on the charge they murdered Deputy Sheriff Carl Hickman at Eads.

The trio, Clyde Rhea, 21, and John Walker, 41, both of Joplin, Mo., and Andrew G. Halliday, 22, of Webb City, Mo., were locked in separate cells and given a chance to sleep after their long ride from Johnson, Kansas.

On the trip the prisoners were securely handcuffed to guard against the possibility of an attempt at escape.
