Fate of Four Youths Marooned in Sea Remains Hidden

TIDE COMES IN AND ENCIRCLES BOYS ON ROCK

Coast Guardsman Makes Attempt at Rescue But the Young Men Refuse to Risk Going Ashore Using a Rope

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21—(UP)—A sea mist today veiled the fate of four youths who have been marooned on the small peak of Mussel Rock, four miles south of here, for twenty-four hours.

To those watching on shore, knowledge of whether last night's high tide swept the terrified quartet from their precarious perch, or whether they succeeded in clinging to their slippery perch, depended upon the vagaries of the sun.

The four boys, George Krukolph, Mario Johnson, Charles Maloney, Stanley Garri, all of Daley City, waded out to Mussel Rock, a hundred feet from shore at low tide yesterday morning. The shore in this region is very jagged.

They enjoyed their picnic and failed to notice that with the passing of the afternoon, the tide was slowly but surely coming in and cutting off their path to shore.

Two of the party whose names were not learned, [illegible] to search for a boat, but when they were unable to find one they reported the plight of their companions to the Golden Gate coast guard station.

Efforts to reach the marooned youths with a line failed, so Jan Jalink, a coast guardsman, tied a line about his waist and plunged into the surf. He swam through the tumbling waters and after a struggle succeeded in reaching the quartet on the rock.

His perilous trip was futile, however, for the boys refused to trust themselves to make the trip shorewards, even with the aid of the line. Jalink then returned.

CHICAGO WHITES BATTLE NEGROES

Nearly 1000 Persons Engage in Fight Following High School Basketball Contest

CHICAGO, March 21—(UP)—Nearly 1,000 persons, approximately half negroes and half whites, rioted for nearly an hour near the University of Chicago campus last night over the result of a basketball game at the University gymnasium in which a team from a white school defeated one from a negro institution.

Police squads from four stations numbering 100 men, battled with the rioters until they were subdued. A score of heads were battered and even street cars had been commandeered by the crowd before police arrived.

Head of Repeal Move In Idaho Turns Down Advice of Baldridge

WALLACE, Idaho, March 21—(UP)—The former dry state senator who is leading a movement for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment has expressed the opinion that he does not need "the paternal advice of Governor Baldridge."

Donald A. Callahan, head of the organization aiming to spread its movement through all of Idaho, Oregon and Washington, took issue with the Governor's statement that he was acting outside the constitutional duties of his office in launching such a movement.

"We are acting legally and conforming with the best traditions of the country," Callahan said, "and we don't need the paternal advice of the Governor.

"When the eighteenth amendment has been removed, the people of the United States will be able to enact some logical legislation to solve the present problems; legislation that will not be the cause of wholesale disrespect for law, disregard for personal liberty, ruthless killings, and graft among federal officers.

"The governor's duty is to look after the enforcement of laws in all parts of the state. He is not charged with responsibility for pointing out to law-abiding citizens the course they should follow in exercising their constitutional rights."

SPRING DESCENDS IN MIDDLE WEST WITH BLIZZARDS

Sun Returns to Northern Hemisphere After Absence of Six Months But Weather Is Not Balmy in Most Places

NEW YORK, March 21 (UP)—Spring is here but its a question of whether one believes the sun or the weather man.

Officially, however, the sun returned to the northern hemisphere at exactly 3:30 A. M. today after an absence of six months. Crossing the equator directly over the Indian ocean 500 miles east of the African coast, and extending its beams further on, it announced the opening of that annual influx of straw hats and asparagus.

It was a bit cool here but that shortcoming was overshadowed by a wealth of contrary evidence.

Circus press agents and robins chirped together. Greenwich Village was awakened by a wealth of hurdy-gurdys; wild geese were seen flying north by someone who could see above the skyscrapers; park benches became sleeping quarters; and 30 boy scouts entered the "wilds" of mid-town Central park in search of further evidence.

CHICAGO, March 21, (UP)—Assorted blizzards, snow flurries, chill gales and brisk breezes ushered spring into the midwest.

The northern fringe of the central and near western states were snow clad and temperatures ranging to 10 degrees below zero were reported in Minnesota and levels almost as low in the Dakotas.

The sun was bright in the Chicago area but the air was bracingly cool. Springlike weather was promised for tomorrow.

PARKER IS NEW COURT JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, March 21—(UP)—Federal Judge John Johnston Parker of North Carolina was appointed by President Hoover late today as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Texas Beauty to Represent U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., March 21—(UP)—"America's Sweetheart," Miss Janet Eastman, 20 year old Fort Worth, Texas, blonde, will officially represent the United States in the Rio De Janeiro international beauty sweepstakes, it was announced here today.

The announcement apparently patched up previously reported difficulties between Miss Eastman and Gaston Andreade, Latin-American director of the recent beauty pageant here, who announced yesterday he had selected Miss Beatrice Lee, "Miss Utah," to represent the United States.

Farmer Kills Self Because of Grief

LEWISTOWN, Mont., March 21, (UP)—Sorrow which finally became unendurable impelled Henry [illegible], well-known farmer of Denton, to commit suicide Thursday on the same spot his 18-year-old daughter took her life two years before. The farmer killed himself with a revolver. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

DECLARE WAR ON NOXIOUS WEEDS

Rigid enforcement of the state noxious weed laws and the expenditure of $60,000 in this county during 1930 in noxious weed work were favored by Twin Falls county farmers at a meeting in the Grange hall at the Filer fairground Friday afternoon. The farmers favored emphatically a complete campaign this year against noxious weeds.

The meeting was called to review the work done in past seasons and to consider the plans for this year. Those in attendance included the county commissioners; M. E. Brady, director of the county noxious weed control bureau; Harvey S. Hale, new county agent; and J. W. Barber of Burley, district leader of county agents. Mr. Brady was the chief speaker and outlined the contemplated program as allowed for in the budget made by the county commissioners. Out of the $67,600 spent in the work last year the farmers reimbursed the county for the work done on their own lands, with the exception of $2400 spent on overhead expenses.

The resolution favoring rigid enforcement of the law against noxious weeds was presented by W. H. Harvey, of Buhl, and was adopted unanimously. Those present also approved a suggestion that circular letters be sent to land owners advising against too early plowing of lands treated for noxious weeds last year. These treated lands should remain undisturbed this season, it was announced.

AL CAPONE BACK IN CHICAGO FOR A SHORT VISIT

Gang Leader Drives to Windy City from Philadelphia With Friend; Announces His Intenions of Going to Florida

CHICAGO, March 21, (UP)—"Scarface Al" Capone unexpectedly walked into the office of chief of detectives John Stege at 1:50 this afternoon.

The gangster had arrived in Chicago Wednesday from Philadelphia where he was released recently from prison. He had driven here with his cell mate, Frankie Rio, and the two had been stopping at the home of 'a friend' in Chicago. Capone revealed that he intended to leave soon for Florida despite the announcement of Gov. Doyle Carlton that he would be arrested on sight.

MIAMI, Fla., March 21, (UP)—Sheriffs, police chiefs, and scores of reporters tried to run to ground today countless rumors of the whereabouts of Alphonse (Scarface) Capone, elusive beer baron of Chicago.

About the most tangible news on Capone was that he was believed to be in hiding somewhere in southeast Florida.

There was a major development in the manhunt, however, as several of his satellites were at liberty under bond on various charges ranging from suspicion of vagrancy to possession of liquor, contraband or otherwise.

Sheriff M. P. "Pop" Lehman of Dade county led 20 aides and several Miami Beach policemen in a spectacular raid upon Capone's winter residence here late yesterday. Everyone in sight was arrested. Frank Wharton, city manager of Miami, characterized the procedure "A grandstand play", and refused cooperation of Miami police.

The raid, following receipt of an apparently well authenticated information that Scarface had eluded every sheriff in Florida and had reached Malbor, on the southeast coast, was carried out under warrants issued by Criminal Judge E. C. Collins, based on affidavits that liquor had been seen in the Capone residence.

Eight sacks of liquor—three smashed—were confiscated. Then the raiding party took into custody men who gave the names of Albert Capone, John Capone, Frank Newman, James Vincent, Louis Cowen, L. J. Bragnun. None had guns. No resistance was offered. It all went somewhat like clockwork despite Miami's official refusal to participate.

FACTS IN DEATH WILL BE GIVEN GRAND JURY

FORT RILEY, Kan., March 21. (UP)—Facts in connection with the death of Mrs. Zenana Shepard, 37-year-old wife of Major Charles A. Shepard, U. S. Army surgeon, will be presented before a federal grand jury in Topeka next month, it was learned here today. Major Shepard is under arrest in Denver charged with poisoning his wife.

The Great Maurice Sets Times for Performances

The Great Maurice has set the times for his performances on top of three Twin Falls buildings Saturday afternoon. "I will climb the side of the Rogerson Hotel building at 1:30 p. m. Saturday," he said today. "At 3 p. m. on the same afternoon I will perform from the edge of the roof of the Montgomery Ward building and at 6:30 will do death-defying stunts from the top of the Orpheum theater building."

Mr. Maurice planned the hours for his performances with care, allowing himself some time to relax between acts. He has now completed his plans and arrangements for several personal appearances in Twin Falls, both before and after balancing precariously on the edges of the buildings.

The performances will be absolutely free and the usual Saturday afternoon crowds will be able to not only obtain many thrills but to also see in person the man who doubled for Harold Lloyd in the filming of "Safety Last" and for Milton Sills in the "Sea Hawk."

Self confidence has marked every action of the daredevil during his stay in this city. At no time has he shown hesitation regarding the many dangerous and hair-raising stunts he contemplates. He was for many years a trouper on the ordinary stage. Later he took to the air and now he chooses for his stage the cornices and edges of buildings—the higher up the better. He has stunted for many years and has many times narrowly missed death when handholds on the sides of buildings have weakened beneath the strain of his weight.

"Remember the hours—1:30 p. m. at the Rogerson Hotel building, 3 p. m. at the Montgomery Ward building and 6:30 p. m. at the Orpheum theater," he says.

Permission of the city of Twin Falls has been obtained for the the Twin Falls police force will be present in the crowd of onlookers to keep order and care for the traffic.

Where Storm Hit Buildings in Southland

Here's a scene from the territory around Los Angeles where a sudden freak wind uprooted several buildings and caused other damage late Saturday.

FACTIONS AGREE ON DIVISION OF BOULDER POWER

Only Minor Details Hold Up the Contracts; California Is Granted 64 Per Cent and Arizona Eighteen Per Cent

LOS ANGELES, March 21, (UP)—Only minor details of management today held up contracts between Southern California factions and the government on allocation of the state's share of Boulder Dam power.

After an all-day session, representatives of interested California parties last night reached a complete agreement on division of that portion of the power allocated to the state last October by Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Of the 64 per cent granted California, the metropolitan area agreed to take 36 per cent of the total firm power, all of the firm power allocated to but unused by Arizona and Nevada, and all the secondary power.

Firm power is the power generated by the minimum flow of the river. Secondary power is that which may be generated when the river flow is higher.

The city of Los Angeles and other municipalities are to receive 19 per cent of the total firm power, plus one half of all firm power or secondary power unused by the metropolitan water district for pumping water to Los Angeles.

Southern California Edison company agreed to take nine per cent of the total firm power plus one half of all firm power or secondary power unused by the metropolitan district.

Pioneer Dentist Passes at Rupert

RUPERT, March 21—(Special)—Dr. William J. Huggins, a prominent citizen of Rupert and a pioneer dentist in this county, died at his home here shortly after midnight Wednesday. Mrs. Huggins and their three sons, Charles, Edward, and Billy, were with him when death called. He had suffered for a long time from cancer of the intestines and had closed his office last December to go to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minnesota. The clinic could afford him no relief and he returned to Rupert about six weeks ago.

The funeral services will be private at the Goodman chapel Sunday and the remains will be taken to Ogden for interment. His father and mother and other relatives are buried at Ogden.

Dr. Huggins came to Idaho about 25 years ago, shortly after his graduation from the Kansas City Dental college in 1904, and took up a homestead near Rupert while opening a dentist office at the same time. He is survived by his widow and three sons, by two brothers and two sisters. His brothers Mark and George, reside at Monrovia, California. One sister, Mrs. Emma Kenney, lives at Ogden and another sister, Mrs. Clara Rock, lives at Salt Lake City.

Wheat Decline Has Little Effect on Farmers of the Grain Belt, Survey Shows

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 21—(UP)—There has been no "Wheat Crash" for the average farmer of this great grain belt, according to unofficial figures gathered in a survey by the United Press today. A majority of wheat growers reaped one of their richest harvests in the big wheat country from the Platte River of Nebraska to the Panhandle of Texas and got a currently fair return of gold, according to reliable estimates based upon reports of unsold grain.

These estimates disclosed fully four fifths of last year's bumper crop had been sold by farmers before the recent wheat market slump.

The farmer figuratively has been laughing up his sleeve at the antics of the wheat market so far as the farmer is concerned, if these figures are a true indication.

A marked example is revealed in government figures from Texas. Farmers of that tremendous grain country lost little or nothing in the wheat price decline. Ninety-four per cent of their crop was marketed from June to August last year. Only six per cent of the 1929 Texas wheat crop is held by its growers and this is being used for feeding.

OFFICIALS PROBE RAILROAD WRECK

String of Freight Cars Gets Loose and Crashes Down a Grade, Causing Big Smashup

WALLACE, Idaho, Mar. 21, (UP)—Railroad officials today were conducting an investigation of the railroad accident which occurred at Four Acres, Mont., when a string of freight cars broke loose from a westbound train and rolled four miles down a grade until they smashed into the rear end of an eastbound freight at Four Acres.

Two unidentified men, believed to be tramps "bumming" a ride, were killed and 13 cars were destroyed by fire which started when stoves in the cabooses overturned.

The westbound freight had been broken at Haugen to permit insertion of an extra locomotive to pull it over the grade. The air brakes were disconnected, and when the string of cars started moving a brakeman was unable to stop them with hand brakes. He jumped when he saw he could not halt the cars.

Remoteness of the location prevented news of the accident from reaching here until yesterday. The runaway train started its wild dash about midnight Wednesday.

TO MAKE TOWING TRIP

WASHINGTON, March 21, (UP)—Captain Frank M. Hawks, present holder of the non-stop transcontinental flight record, has been granted special authorization by the commerce department, it was learned here today, to make a glider towing trip. Hawks plans to be towed by plane from California to New York next month.

Chinese Boy Not Given License to Wed White Girl

LEWISTON, Idaho, March 20 (UP)—Refused a marriage license in Washington and California, a Chinese youth and his white sweetheart tried Idaho, only to be repulsed again. They will continue going from state to state until they are granted a license.

Loraine Owens, 21 came here from Coeur D'Alene. Her fiance, Frank Sun, is from Pullman, Wash., where he manages a restaurant.

When they were refused a license here, they said they would go to New York if necessary to secure legal permission to wed.

Curve on Idaho Highway to Be Eliminated Soon

BOISE March 21 (UP)—Elimination of two dangerous curves in the Old Oregon Trail west of American Falls will be accomplished when a road project for which bids have been called by the state highway bureau has been completed. The project involves straightening the road to eliminate the Neeley corners, the scene of a number of fatal accidents and the grading and draining and surfacing of several miles of highway. Contract will be let April 1 and the work must be completed July 4.

BANK DEPOSITS MAY BE LESS

BOISE, March 21 (UP)—State bank deposits may not be as large this spring as in previous years, the state department of finance predicts due partly to a tendency to place considerable portion of checking accounts and other deposits into savings funds at higher interest rates and partly to withdrawals to finance operations. Farmers particularly are tending to withdraw deposits to finance spring plantings rather than to borrow funds for this purpose.

The department feels that conditions at present are sound and that the decrease in deposits is natural under existing conditions.

TO TRY SEA FLIGHT

MEXICO CITY, March 21 (UP)—Colonel Gustavo Leon, noted Mexican aviator, will attempt in May to follow the Lindbergh air trail across the Atlantic, if efforts to finance the venture are successful.

DELEGATES OF JAPAN U. S. AND BRITAIN MEET

LONDON, March 21—(UP)—An important discussion of tion was held today by Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald with the chief delegates of the United States and Japan.

MacDonald was received by King George at Buckingham Palace immediately after his discussions at No. 10 Downing street, where the Premier had the Americn and Japanese delegates separately.

Some quarters believed the developments forshadowed important three power negotiations. If such is the case, it would be the first King George has ever taken an active part in the conference except for presiding at the formal opening—and later when he received the conference delegates formally.

The discussions, viewed in the light of many reports that a three power accord would be sought if the five power conference fails, were emphasized by revelation of futile last-minute efforts to prevent the departure of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand for Paris.

Briand's decision to leave London yesterday at a moment when the conference was in a serious deadlock, came after a previously undisclosed visit to the high British official. The British official was understood to have submitted to the French foreign minister suggestions for altering the French tonnage figures and thus opening the way for reconciliation of the French and Italian views.

Meanwhile, the headquarters of the American Delegation was the scene of much excited speculation about when the conference would end. Most conversation centered on the possibility that the delegation would depart about April 14. Typewriters and equipment are being checked and officials have asked stenographers how much time they desire on the continent.

TYRON, Okla., March 21, (UP) Eighty students of Pleasant Valley school, a single story frame building which was swept by fire, today awaited word from the parents of three of their classmates lost in the flames, regarding funeral services which they plan to attend en masse.

The fire swept the little school house late yesterday, leaving it a smouldering mass 30 minutes after flames bolted from the stove into which kerosene had been poured.

Mrs. Dehnert Dies Thursday of Burns

Conclusion of the courageous fight for life which Mrs. Marie Dehnert, 21, wife of K. M. Dehnert, Buhl, came Thursday afternoon when she died at the Twin Falls county general hospital where she had been since last Saturday morning when kerosene with which she was rekindling the kitchen fire, exploded, the flames burning three-fourths of her body. From the first, attending physicians had held no hope for her recovery, but her condition showed improvement from time to time during the week.

With her will be buried the infant daughter to which she gave birth Sunday evening following the accident. Interment will be in the Buhl cemetery.

She is survived by her husband and two small children, two and four years old.

Final tribute will be paid Mrs. Dehnert Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Buhl Baptist church. Rev. A. C. Lathrop, pastor, assisted by Rev. C. W. Buell, Filer Baptist minister, will conduct the services.

The body rests at the Drake funeral parlors.

Estimates of the age of the earth range from the Scriptural, of less than 6000 years, to 1,710,000 years, a guess of Barrell, based on radio-activity.

Prefers Hunger To Begging Food

Prefering to go hungry rather than beg for food, Hugh M. Weaver, 30, is in the county hospital today, suffering from the pangs of starvation. He was found late Thursday night on the roadside near a tourist park, writhing from cramps caused by lack of food since last Monday. His condition was reported little changed at the hospital today.

Two calls notified the police of the young man's trouble and he was taken to the police station where two physicians were called. They recommended that the man be taken to the hospital. Weaver said he left Lebanon, Ohio, last February 22 to hitch-hike his way to the home of an uncle, W. O. Weaver, in Boise. His finances were figured to just cover the distance but bad roads held him up and his money ran out in Wyoming. He refused to ask for food, preferring to go without.

The Daily Poem

LINES SENT WITH PINK SPRING FLOWERS

Frost is a strange sort of mole
That wakes from hibernation
And burrows the whole earth
In three days;

Then slices his burrow up to rain,
To sap,
And is translated in that sap,
Up a tree's hole,
Through a swamp's maze,
Feeding a thriving stalk;

And lo, buds burst
Into petals diddled on the wind's lap;
And petals spread
To catch color the sun lays
Upon the mouths of all blossoms.

MARTHA WEBSTER MERRIEHEW

GOOD OLD 1929

THE REPORT of the chamber of commerce on carload shipments of farm products from shipping points in Twin Falls county for the year 1929 gives further proof of the richness of our lands and the skill of our farmers and leaves a satisfactory taste in the mouths of all of us.

During 1929, according to the report, carload shipments from the county had a value of a little more than 17 and a half million dollars. That was a gain of more than two and a third million dollars over the year of 1928 which in its turn had established a new high record.

We have a right to be happy over that record and to take pride in it. Shipments in such volume tell a story of wonderful achievement. It is well for us to remember that the story told by the figures in this report does not profess to be the full story. The report is of number of carloads of various products SHIPPED. The big volume consumed by our own people does not get into this total. If a report of gross production for the county were to be written, the total undoubtedly would exceed the record values by several million dollars.

An instance is furnished in the case of wool production. Many flocks owned by Twin Falls county operators are shorn in camps outside the boundaries of the county, and shipment of both wool and lambs is very often made outside the county. Such production does not get into our record shipments, even though a share of the wealth returns to banks in the county.

Our consumption of foodstuffs for the sustenance of our own population is also a material factor to be considered. Fruit, vegetables, potatoes, flour, sugar, meat—a part of all these products remains at home to be eaten from our thousands of tables.

It is a wonderful performance these lands and the farmers who man them make. We have been accustomed to such performance for many years and take it for granted, but it is worth our while to pause a little to renew our appreciation of what our soil does.

AS TAFT THOUGHT

EFFORTS OF wet forces to claim the influence of the late William Howard Taft in their behalf because he was doubtful of the wisdom of the 18th amendment before its adoption were put in a new light by the famous American's brother, Horace D. Taft, before the house judiciary committee the other day, according to United Press.

William Howard Taft was converted to prohibition after its adoption his brother told the committee. One paragraph of a personal letter to Irving Fisher of Yale, noted economist, written by the chief justice in November, 1928, which follows, gave Taft's ideas on the subject:

"The solution (of the liquor problem) requires a great deal of time and practice," Taft wrote. "The habits of an important section of a congested part of the country can not be changed overnight or in years. The reform and the adaption of society to that at which the amendment aims must be gradual. The temptation of corruption will drag it out. While looking ahead at the amendment I despaired of any success, I really think that it is possible, if we keep at it, to achieve a satisfactory result."

Taft brought to bear in his consideration of the problem a degree of vision and patience that is to be commended and which could with profit be emulated by nervous wets today who have a vision of being able to superimpose liquor on our gasoline civilization.

NOT IN THE LEAST SURPRISING

IT IS comforting, although not in the least surprising, to read that the United States circuit court of appeals has acquitted Mary Ware Dennett of the charge of sending an obscene book through the mails.

Mrs. Dennett, you doubtless remember, wrote a pamphlet on sex instruction for her children some 15 years ago. After doctors, ministers and church organizations had praised it, she had it printed and distributed it broadcast.

She was arrested and a New York judge fined her $300 and gave her a year in jail.

The idiocy of the whole proceeding was almost too obvious to need comment. To have upheld her conviction and sentence would have been to confirm a grotesque and startling miscarriage of justice. Her final exoneration is nothing but simple justice. The only trouble is that there does not seem to be any way of reaching the busybody who first started proceedings against her.

The report that a girl gained 40 pounds in a few months spent in Alaska makes it plain why the north*land has always been considered* a man's domain.

PROS AND CONS OF THE GOVERNORSHIP RACE

LEWISTON TRIBUNE

A thoughtful analysis of the situation in the Idaho governorship race, as reflected in newspapers from all sections and by expressed opinions of party leaders, tends to the belief that the personalities of the respective candidates rather than defined issues will dominate the pre-convention campaign.

Each party has at this time three outstanding candidates for governor. The democratic aspirants are Mayor Ben Ross of Pocatello, Mayor James Pope of Boise and Colonel James Harris of Weiser.

The republican list, in the order of their respective pre-convention strength, includes State Senator John McMurray of Oakley, Attorney General W. D. Gillis of Filer and State Treasurer Byron Defenbach of Lewiston. Each has his individual advantage, and each has one or more obstacles to overcome.

In January, a meeting of eighteen republican leaders was held in a hotel room in Pocatello, intended to be a secret meeting but later becoming generally advertised. According to informed persons, three features of the discussions at this con*clave have had a tremendous influence* in creating the situation which now exists, to-wit:

1. Most of the eighteen sought to dissuade McMurray from becoming a candidate, frankly urging that he could not be elected.
2. A majority determined to advance Gillis, and immediately began a campaign in his behalf, with his approval and acceptance.
3. Defenbach, though he was an announced candidate and was in Pocatello at the time, was not present at any of the deliberations.

* * * * *

McMurray's advantage lies in the support of a majority of the republican organization and machine politicians.

McMurray has through long service and able leadership in the state senate achieved popularity with the party chiefs. His greatest handicap lies in the opinion expressed by his own friends at the Pocatello meeting-of-eighteen, and shared by many students of Idaho politics, that he cannot be elected if nominated. His weakness is that, outside of politicians, he has only a limited acquaintance and popularity among the people of the state.

* * * * *

Attorney General Gillis has the advantage of being a comparatively young man who may expect to draw largely to his support the younger element of the party, especially the ex-service group. He has not lived long enough in Idaho to have incurred the enmities from which the other two suffer. He has made a good record in the public positions he has held, is a pleasant, friendly gentleman, and makes a good impression in public.

Gillis' great misfortune is his relation to the machine. The organization has thrown him overboard, yet he is estopped from attacking it. Some assert that he permitted the Pocatello meeting-of-eighteen to use him as an implement with which to hold the organization together until some more acceptable candidate might be found. If true, it was an abandonment typical of the ruthless and cruel transactions which have occurred in the history of politics in Idaho.

* * * * *

Byron Defenbach's greatest advantage lies in the reputation of being the choice of the people. Many men and papers, of every shade of opinion, have expressed the thought, are continuing to say, that Defenbach could not be defeated in a direct primary campaign. This is equivalent to saying that he has more popular support than the others.

The delegation in congress is said to be friendly to all of the candidates, and apparently they harbor no opposition to Defenbach. He has a record of unswerving loyalty to Senator Borah, even at times when such devotion was not so popular as it now is, and it is apparent that his success in this race could not in any way militate against ambitions for the future cherished by Senator John Thomas.

Defenbach suffers from two serious obstacles, the first of which is his geographical location. His home is in Lewiston, and against him is the precedent of nearly forty years of failure on the part of northern Idaho to name a governor.

His second serious disadvantage is the opposition of the present republican machine, including sev*eral prominent members of the state* administration.

The Puno Indians Who Were Married 100 Years.

All the Puno Indians of Bolivia are remarkable for longevity. The record is held by the couple I depicted. Their marriage was celebrated five years before the Battle of Waterloo. The wife is 120 years old, and her husband is "going on 131." They have a great-great-great grandchild who is now four years old. Lake Titicaca is situated in the Andes, 12,645 feet above the sea, and its climate is supposed to be remark*ably healthful.*

HOUSE WANTS A CHANCE TO VOTE ON AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP) - The possibility that another long, drawn-out battle confronts the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill after its enactment by the senate, was seen Thursday in the action of Democratic Floor Leader Garner of the House, who demanded that the House be given an opportunity to vote on each Senate amendment to the measure.

Garner proposed that debate be limited to one hour on each of the bill's 45 schedules.

The Senate voted a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver Wednesday night, reversing its previous refusal to take silver from the free list. The vote was 55 to 12, and several senators who had changed their stand in favor of the duty explained they did so because of the dumping of India silver on the world markets.

Claudius Huston, chairman of the republican national committee, was before the senate lobby committee for the sixth time Thursday, undergoing further questioning concerning his handling of funds of the Tennessee River Improvement association, a lobbying organization which he formerly headed.

Huston told the senate committee that the $36,100 which he received from the Union Carbide company was in payment for property of the Tennesse association.

The situation caused reports that Huston might resign as chairman of the republican committee. It was believed, however, no developments would come at least until the close of the present investigation.

The House judiciary committee continued its hearings of prominent drys in defense of the prohibition law.

Yale Paper Issues Liquor Statistics

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 21 (UP) Further tabulation of results in the Yale Daily News drinking poll showed today that 64.5 per cent of the 1,874 students who admitted drinking in college came from homes where drinking is permitted.

A total of 255 non-drinking students—one third of that classification—comes from homes where drinking occurs. Of the drinkers, 1206 said their elders at home drank and 668 said they did not.

METEOR IN ROAD'S PATH PROVES TO BE NUISANCE

SEATTLE, (UP)—Meteors, flashing through space to the enjoyment of park bench lovers may be things of beauty, but on earth, in the middle of a proposed highway site, engineers decided they were nothing less than a nuisance.

Work on the new Tacoma highway progressed rapidly until crews came upon a huge boulder. They tried to dig it up, but at a depth of 14 feet with no end in sight, decided that it would be impossible. Dynamite would not jar the huge rock. The best drills would not dent it.

So the road was built to curve around the rock.

Highway engineers and geologists said they believed the rock was a meteor.

She's Wife, Mother and Co-Ed, Too

Mrs. Park Weed Willis Jr., you might say, has combined home and a scholastic career to the nth degree. Having graduated from the University of California, she wasn't satisfied with merely running a home, rearing a baby boy, with whom she is shown above, and helping her young husband learn to be a doctor. So she took a master of arts degree in her spare time. And now she's working for a Ph. D at the University of Pennsylvania, where her husband also is enrolled.

Buhl Girl Reserves Have Irish Program

BUHL, March 21 (Special) The Girl Reserves held a meeting Wednesday at the high school and were entertained by some of the student members. Mary Lacy gave an Irish reading and Audie Hunt, accompanied by Margaret Reynolds, sang "My Wild Irish Rose" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." The meeting closed with "Follow the Gleam."

The last entertainment this season of the Junior dance club was held here Tuesday evening. The dance was in honor of St. Patrick's day, those present were given green caps to carry out the idea and they also carried balloons. George Ahlquist was re-elected chairman of the club and Mrs. John Peirce was elected chairman of refreshment committee. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall won a five pound box of candy in a contest of prize waltzes.

The Rebekah kensington was held in Melloa Valley at the home of Mrs. Buckendorf Wednesday afternoon. A short business meeting was held and refreshments were served.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN GIVEN GRILLING

WASHINGTON, March 21 (UP) Claudius Huston, chairman of the republican national committee, before the senate lobby committee for the sixth day, was questioned Thursday about his connection with funds of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, some of which Huston has testified were deposited with Blythe and Bonner, New York brokers.

Senator Walsh, dem., Mont., who conducted the questioning, was interrupted quickly by Senator Robinson, repn., who said the questions were not pertinent to the committee's investigation of Muscle Shoals lobbying. Robinson is the only "regular" republican on the lobby committee.

Walsh immediately withdrew his questions, although Huston said he was willing to answer them. Huston previously admitted that W. E. Moore, his personal agent, deposited funds given the republican chairman by the Union Carbide company, with Blythe and Bonner to maintain a marginal stock. The Union Carbide funds were given to Huston for the Tennessee River Improvement association, of which he was formerly president and treasurer.

Genuineness of Great Art Work Proved by X-Ray

A group of art critics had gathered in a museum to look at a painting supposedly the work of a famous master. As they studied the work of art they were divided in their belief. Some thought it to be a fake; others tried to point out marks of genuineness. What was to be done? The museum did not wish to give space to a picture painted by an unknown even though it be well done.

An x-ray machine was brought in to solve the puzzle. And when the test was made some of the believers among the critics said, "I told you so." The x-ray had revealed that the painting had been done on wood panel, strips of which showed up under the searching eye of the machine. It is a well-known fact that the old masters like Raphael and Rembrandt used wood panel on which to make their pictures.

On another occasion a rich collector of art treasures had about decided to pay $5,000 for a painting which struck his fancy. It was supposedly the work of one of the immortal masters and he wanted it for his drawing room. Several critics had assured him it was genuine.

Not wishing to invest so much money unless he felt certain he was getting value received, the collector summoned an x-ray operator. The x-ray exposed the fake to be a fairly modern painting, good but without any historic value. So clever an imitation of an old master's work was it, however, that all of the critical experts were deceived.

Nowadays anyone contemplating the purchase of a painting employs the services of an x-ray, thus eliminating all doubt as to the genuiness of the article. This machine, so useful in medical work, furnishes positive evidence that is irrefutable whenever doubt about a painting is expressed. In most cases the previously-given opinion of experts has been upheld. The x-ray is proving very valuable in this field of art.

Elderly Couples Are Honorees At L. D. S. Society

Fifty-six men and women 65 years of age and over, were the special guests of the Twin Falls ward Relief Society Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, at the celebration in honor of the founding of the Relief Society. The event took place in the Relief Society rooms of the L. D. S. chapel. Following the program, the honorees were served an elaborate three-course banquet.

Mrs. Flossie Kirkman presided and conducted the community singing with which the program opened. Mrs. Edna Stokes and Mrs. Virgie Bjorling, accompanied by Mrs. Edith Matthews, sang "Lord, Thou Wilt Hear Me." Mrs. Kate Kirkman, in her message of greeting to the honorees, spoke of the beauty of growing old gracefully, and commented on the reverance that should be accorded age. Mrs. Kirkman gave an account of the founding of the Relief Society March 17, 1842, by Joseph Smith in Nauvoo, Illinois. Beginning with 18 members the organization now includes 62,000, she stated. She also told of the changes and advantages that have come to women in the last hundred years.

A pantomime, arranged and directed by Mrs. Cora Ritchey, entitled "The Seven Ages of Man" was much enjoyed.

The program concluded with prayer by Mrs. Alice J. Richins.

The banquet table was beautifully appointed with Saint Patrick's decorations, shamrocks, and lighted green tapers being featured.

Primo Carnera Scores Another Knockout in First Round

ITALIAN DEFEATS NEWARK FIGHTER IN EASY FASHION

Frank Zavita Starts Battle as the Aggressor But Opponent Swings Into Action and Licks Smaller Man

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 21, (UP)—The knockout which made it an even dozen for Primo Carnera since he began his much-ballyhooed American tour, stood out today as the most palpable set-up in as many patent victories.

The Italian giant last night stepped on Frank Zavita, of Newark, N. J., in one minute, 51 seconds of the first round.

The most outstanding feature of the fight was the obvious fact that Zavita had learned little but courage in his few home-town fights which comprise his pugilistic career.

The twelfth so-called battle gave the Italian a new record for hasty knockouts which now stands at 47 minutes and 26 seconds official time in the ring, and 55 per cent of the estimated $12,000 in gate receipts last night boosted Primo's earnings for the tour to approximately $11,500.

Zavita started the fight the aggressor. He rushed three-quarters of the way accross the ring to meet the Italian giant coming in and the suddenness of his arrival sent Primo's long flailing arms beyond and around him.

But Carnera found the range and from that time on Zavita might have been a punching bag for all the vengeance he returned for Primo's blows. The 40 pounds the little man spotted Carnera apparently had nothing to do with the knockout.

ROME, March 21, (UP)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian fighter, has forwarded $5,000 to a female cousin to repay a loan of 1,000 lire ($52.63). The cousin loaned Carnera the money to enable him to emigrate to France and begin his boxing career.

Speaking Of Sport

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

Nobody likes to have himself called stupid by another, that being a privilege reserved by everyone for himself. One of the more enthusiastic bits of self condemnation of the winter sports season occurred at Madison Square Garden when Dr. Paul Martin, Swiss distance runner was beaten in the famous Columbia mile by Ray Conger, the flashing racer of the Illinois A. C.

Martin is well known as a bell-lap finisher. Even in the longer distances he boasts the ability to sprint like a gazelle in the final lap or two laps. So when Martin held back near the end of his recent duel with Conger, veteran track meet followers were somewhat surprised. They were more surprised to see him begin a mad sprint less than 100 yards from the tape. He did close in on the flying Conger and they crossed the line so close you couldn't have pitched a quarter between them.

Martin shook Conger by the hand and both went to the group of officials at the finish line. Martin had a sad story to tell:

"I though we were to finish on the other side of the Garden, half a lap away. I had plenty of strength and could have passed Conger easily. I never was so surprised in my life as I was when I saw the finish tape because I thought we had some 200 yards yet to go. I am thoroughly disgusted with my own stupidity."

Dr. Martin at first refused to accept the second place medal, but later changed his mind.

The loss to Conger was the third in succession for the blonde foreign runner. He was breated by Freddie Veidt in one race and by Phil Edwards in another.

Special Care Given Trout at Hatchery

BOISE March 21 (UP)—Infant fish at Hayspur hatchery will be healthy in the future if special care and dieting has anything to do with it, according to Turner Sparkman, state fish commissioner. Landlocked salmon, brought in from eastern waters last year for release in Idaho waters this season, have developed goitres. The commissioner after diagnosing their case has prescribed doses of iodine for the salmon.

GAME BETWEEN GIRLS SEXTETS IS A THRILLER

Newspaper Account Tells of Terrific Struggle Put Up By Fair Sex for Championship of the State of Idaho

That the Oakley-Blackfoot basketball game Wednesday night for the state championship was a thriller goes without saying for the score of the battle was 16-15. Oakley won but only after a terrific fight as the following newspaper story reveals:

Ahead until the last half minute, Blackfoot girls lost the state championship to the Oakley team here Wednesday by a 16-15 score.

The crowd which packed the gymnasium roared itself hoarse in the last quarter, when it was apparent that Oakley was creeping up on the home crew, and that it was a question of whether the gun would beat them.

In the last minute, with the score 14-14, Oakley slipped one through the ring, to be followed a minute later by a foul shot by Blackfoot.

The first quarter ended 1-4; the half 10-6, Blackfoot and the third quarter 14-13, Blackfoot.

The game started fast, with neither team able to penetrate the defense of the other, each side making only two lucky loops.

Blackfoot made a spurt in the second quarter and boosted the score to 10-6, allowing the visitors but a single basket.

Renewed, and changing tactics in the next period the Oakley damsels began their steady march that ended in the state bunting.

Slowly, but surely, their offense began to function, while their defense tightened.

Oakley girls used Helen Whitley, Fern Martin, Dorothy Millard, Rokha Ellson, Goldie Larson, Thelma Martindale, Helen Holtman and Dorothy Smith. Blackfoot girls included Vonda Briggs, Marie Mauwaring, Jean Collins, Abigail Davis, Dorothy Hudson, Madge Hawver, Emma Killion, Dorothy Kirkpatrick, Katherine Klemsmith, Margaret Millick, Blossom Sawyer, Mary Parrish and Deola Cox.

The Oakley girls, who defeated the Buhl girls for the first time in six years, will probably enter the national tournament in Wichita, Kansas.

HOOKS and SLIDES

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Baseball seems to have lost a little something since the days when John McGraw, with a stern frown, used to survey Pitcher Otto Crandall's robust waist line—I ask him if he had been spending his winter appearing in a show with a stout lady. It has lost something of color. But there still come stories, from the camps in the south and on the coast, of rookies brave and bold. Tales of these deeds travel from camp to camp and soon become part of baseball's legendary lore.

Over at Clearwater, Fla., the other day I watched Dazzy Vance playing his strange game of bunt. Pitchers young and old follow along about the park, as he lays them down, moving backward with each bunt. Uncle Robbie looks on from the bench, wearing a cherubic smile and applauding as some rookie pitcher sets a record. Dazz keeps careful count of the bunts each pitcher fields. It is back-breaking, wind-taking toil, but one rookie pitcher the other day fielded 280 of the vicious bunts and set a record for all time.

Roth Mistaken for Ruppert

Somebody told the veteran, Charley O'Leary, coach for the Yankees, that Hank Gowdy was bragging around in public that he probably would have to catch a whole lot this year.

"Yeah," said Charley. "Well, if Hank catches a game, I promise to bunt one and beat it out."

Secretary Mark Roth of the Yankees doesn't look much like Colonel Ruppert, but several of the tourists in St. Petersburg have asked him if he didn't think Ruth really was worth $80,000 a year, after all. Mark said he became so impressed with the tourists' mistakes that he found himself reaching into his pocket to see if $80,000 were really there.

Waite Hoyt, the Yankees' young veteran, came up with a snappy reply the other day when young Henry Johnson asked him what he should do to become a first class pitcher.

"Go buy yourself a hat," said Waite. Henry, you know, comes from Bradenton, which is the training camp of the Cardinals. Inasmuch as all the youthful sheiks in Florida go hatless, Henry isn't so much out of line.

From San Antonio comes a tale of young Len Shires, brother of Art. It seems Len was sporting a diamond of tremendous tonnage. A young negro who works around the clubhouse was admiring its sparkle and asked where he got it.

"From mmy brother, Art," said Len.

"Who's Art?" asked the boy.

"Who's Art?" replied Len astonished. "Say, do you know who Lincoln was?"

The Nut Cracker

You Don't Need Numbers to Tell The Players

The Yanks are numbering the players this year, but the other big league teams are going on the assumption that the fans will be able to pick 'em out. Thus:

* * *

If you see a right fielder hanging on the wall looking out into the street, the chances are it is not Babe Ruth. Look somewhere near the plate for Ruth.

* * *

If you see a taxicab drive up to the pitcher's box and a little old man stagger out and start throwing the ball around, ask no question. It's probably Alex.

* * *

In the National league, if you notice a guy throwing an imaginary ball to a catcher, that's Dizzy Vance. Sometimes he throws a real, sometimes bird shot.

* * *

If you see the back end of a truck waddling around on what seems to be legs, you've been watching Fothergill.

* * *

The gentleman on second base wearing the silk hat is Mr. Buck Harris.

* * *

FRANCO, ITALIAN ACCORD HOPED FOR

Powers Have Not Yet Abandoned Ideal of Getting the Two Countries Together

LONDON, March 21 (UP)—Diplomatic phrases, the use of cleverly chosen words disguising the real meaning of naval parity may be the solution to the Franco-Italian deadlock which has threatened a five-power agreement on curtailment of armaments.

The British delegates, the United Press learns, are seeking some formula in which any suggestion consents to French superiority will be scrupulously avoided.

Whether such a vague agreement would be acceptable to either nation remains a question, but it has been stated repeatedly in reliable French quarters that while France is unwilling to "admit" Italian parity with France, she has never actually considered she had the right to "deny such equality."

It is this problem of verbiage that today occupied the attention of the forces of mediation at the London conference.

Until the last chance for a five-power agreement is gone, the delegates will leave no stone unturned to work out a solution of the problems now vexing the conference. Failing such an agreement, they will turn their attention to the possibility of a three-cornered pact, in which Italy and France may adhere when they choose

Kimberly Farmer Will Plant Beets

"As a community we are not, in my estimation, giving the beet crop the suport and attention that we should", says William Petzoldt of Kimberly. "I have grown beets every beet year and my tonnage ranges from 20 to 26 tons per acre; yet I do not consider that I am any better farmer than the average, however, I have learned that a little time spent and careful supervision at thinning time will bring a handsome return on the investment. When you consider that beets grown on reasonably good land should weigh from 2¼ to 2¾ pounds and that 26,000 beets constitute a full stand, 30 tons does not look so large. To strike a happy medium and avoid arguments you can estimate a seventy-five per cent stand of two pound beets which actually figures 20 tons per acre, so I do not consider I am breaking any record in growing 20 tons.

"One seldom hears complains from the consistent beet growers it is the spasmodic operator who has failed to out guess the season on beets, or outguess the market on other crops, that is usually disappointed

HYDE APPROVES GRAIN EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, March 20 (UP) The cotton and grain futures exchanges "play a necessary and important part in the sale and distribution of great staple agricultural commodities," and should not be abolished, secretary of agriculture Hyde reported to the senate Wednesday. He urged legislation to strengthen regulation of their operations.

The report was in response to a senate resolution requesting the secretary to report on the effect of speculation on prices of cotton and grain and recommendations "even to the extent of closing said exchange."

Hyde pointed out "there is no agency authorized to review, in the interest of the producers, or the consumers, the rules of cotton and grain exchanges which they from time to time adopt."

He also suggested that an improvement might be made in the matter of "deliverable grades," pointing out that the present system under which a buyer is compelled to accept 17 different grades at Chicago "puts a premium on speculation and a burden on legitimate forward purchasing."

FRANCE TO GUARD AGAINST ATTACK

Nation Takes Steps to Free Flood of Water Should Germany Ever Launch Invasion

PARIS, March 21 (UP)—Andre Maginot, France's good-natured, giant-statured minister of war, is planning to protect France's rich northern frontier from enemy attack—with water.

Should France be menaced again from the north by a German army surging across Belgium, a simple twist of a switch and the entire northern border would be flooded with millions of tons of water. In a few hours the rich farming and industrial region from the port of Dunkirk to the manufacturing city of Lille would be turned into a sea.

Only the mills and prominent plateaus would remain above the water, but each will be fortified with artillery and anti-aircraft guns capable of commanding the entire flooded region. The attacking army's infantry and cavalry would be thus instantly halted while bombing planes could only fly over the flooded region at great danger.

This swirling torment of sea water would do immense damage to French property in this region and would require at least 25 years to drain and make the land again fit for cultivation. Maginot is certain however, that the water would stop the enemy in their march towards the forts of France. The water would be under perfect control and never be released except in the direct emergency when other means of halting the enemy apear futile.

GOES TO NEW YORK HOPING FOR A GOOD TIME; RETURNS DISAPPOINTED

FISHING CREEK, N. J. March 21 (UP)—Ulysses Bohle was back with his beloved clams today, throughly disgusted with New York.

Ulysses, who is 64, left here last Friday with $1350 pinned to his underwear, bent upon making whoopee in Manhattan's night clubs and speakeasies.

He received the money in the form of a legacy from a brother. The moment he received it he startled the town with the announcement that he was going on one grand and glorious bender in the world's fastest city.

"All my life I been wantin' to rare up an' go on a big spree. I'm goin' to New York and I'm goin' to spend every red cent of this money in one grand and glorious bender," he told the home boys.

So Ulysses went. Five days passed without word from him. Then last night he came back. In five days of tireless efort he had succeeded in spending $210.

"You couldn't give me that one horse-burg on a bet," said Ulysses.

"I got in a speakeasy and had some snorts and my memory is kinda hazy but I went to the Battery and some more speakeasies. The Licker is dirt cheap. New York may be all right for some people but not for Ulysses H. Bohle. Here have a seegar."

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. There are definite reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices.

None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

"The Green Goddess," starring George Arliss, is a Warner Bros. Vitaphone picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

A Himalayan fog forces Dr. Basil Traherne's airplane down in the inaccessible kingdom of Rukh. With Traherne are his friends, Major Anthony Crespin and his estranged wife Lucilla, whom Traherne loves. They are held prisoners in the Raja's palace awaiting word as to the execution in India of the Raja's three half brothers for a political murder. The Raja gets word they are to be executed the next day and tells his prisoners they will be sacrificed to the green goddess. [illegible] by aid of a fake message that Lucilla [illegible] to his terms and [illegible]

"Yes, Your Highness, but I haven't coded it."

"Oh, never mind. Send it in clear. Even if some outsider does pick it up, I dare say we can order the cases of champagne without causing international complications."

Watkins put on his receivers, tapped the key, made an adjustment, and sat listening in.

"He's waiting for the reply signal," the Raja explained.

"Oh," Crespin rejoined blankly. "May I take one of your excellent cigars, Raja?"

"By all means," Rukh told him. He watched Crespin's face and his hands as the Major lit the cigar. He made very sure of trapping the Major's thoughts and emotions as they came.

"I've got them," Watkins announced after a pause, and proceeded to send his message: "The lady has come to terms." The Morse code spelled very deliberately. Dr. Traherne and Mrs. Crespin understood none of it; Anthony Crespin read it as if it had been large, clear print.

"A trap for us!"

"May we speak?" he said in a low voice, bending a little towards Rukh.

"Oh, yes," the Raja laughed; "you won't be heard in Tashkent."

"She will enter," the valet's fingers spelled out carefully.

Crespin with his stupid-looking face understood nothing of what the transmitter was saying, the Raja thought.

"His Highness's household."

Crespin held out the case to the doctor. "Have a cigarette, Traherne?"

"Thanks." Traherne took one. Major Crespin struck a match—Watkins was repeating the message—Crespin held the match, saying, "Let us smoke and drink, for to-morrow we—" and he blew out the match.

"That's how it's done," Rukh announced, as the re-transmission ended.

"How many words did he send?" Traherne inquired.

"What was it, Watkins?" the Raja demanded.

"Forward by to-morrow's caravan twelve cases champagne. Usual brand. 'Charge our account'—was that it?"

"That's right, sir."

"Twelve words," Rukh told Traherne.

"And can they really make sense out of those fireworks?" Crespin demanded a little rudely, and almost incredulously.

"I hope so—else we shall run short of champagne," the Raja said with a laugh.

Watkins came into the snuggery, locked the folding door carefully, and pocketed his key-ring. "Any orders, Your 'Ighness?"

"No orders, Watkins," the Raja told him lazily.

CHAPTER XXVIII

AS Watkins reached the door to the corridor, one of the Raja's soldiers spoke to him. Watkins nodded and turned back.

"The 'Igh Priest is waiting to see Your 'Ighness," he announced.

"Oh," Rukh said in surprise. "Oh, well, show him in."

Watkins passed into the corridor and came back almost at once, ushering in an ornate, sinister-faced figure.

The Raja greeted the prelate ceremoniously, and as Watkins disappeared, turned to his prisoners.

"I mention— my Archbishop of York," he reminded them with a slight grimace. "This is he. Allow me to introduce you. Your Grace," he said in his best Mayfair manner. His Grace scowled hideously. "Mrs. Crespin—Major Crespin—Dr. Traherne."

The Priest made a half contemptuous salaam.

"The Archbishop's manners are not good," the Raja said, "but a holy man—a very saintly, spiritual man, believe me. You will excuse him. He regards you, I regret to say, as unclean creatures, whose very presence means pollution."

Rukh spoke to the scowling saint, and then turned again to the three. "His Grace reminds me of some arrangements for tomorrow's ceremony which, as Archbishop of Canterbury, I must attend to in person. You will excuse me for half an hour? Pray make yourselves at home. Tiffin at half-past twelve." Then he spoke again to the Priest, peremptorily. The Priest replied with a growl. "His grace says au revoir," the Raja told them, "and so do I." He bowed gravely and passed into the corridor, the Priest stalking behind him.

As the door closed, Crespin mopped his forehead. He stole noiselessly to the billiard-room, went in and searched it. Lucilla examined the narrow balcony outside the window. Traherne crept up to the door of the wireless room, and noiselessly tested its fastening.

"What was the message?" Traherne asked as they drew together near the window, farthest from possible listeners.

"It said," Crespin answered, "that the lady had accepted her life—on his conditions."

"Oh! A trap for us!" was Traherne's comment.

"Yes," Crespin agreed. "A put-up job. And a clumsy one."

"You gave no sign, Antony." Lucilla laid her hand on her husband's arm as she spoke, more liking and respect in voice and eyes than she had given him for years, and his fingers closed over hers gratefully. "I think he must have been reassured."

"Evidently," Traherne said, "or he wouldn't have left us here."

"What to do now?" Crespin asked Traherne, but he kept his hand on his wife's, holding her hand close on his arm.

"Can we break open the door?" Traherne answered.

"No good," Crespin told him, "It would make a noise. We'd be interrupted, and then it would be all up."

"Well, then," Traherne suggested desperately, "the next step is to try to bribe Watkins."

"Bribe your dead grandmother's parrot!" Crespin fibbed.

"I don't believe it's a bit of good," Lucilla objected.

"Nor I," Traherne owned. "The fellow's a thorough-paced scoundrel. But we might succeed, and, if we don't even try, they'll suspect that we're plotting something else. If we can convince them that we're at our wits' end, we're the better chance of taking them off their guard."

"Perhaps you're right," said Crespin, "But, even if the damned scoundrel can be bought, what good is it, if I can't remember the wavelength to Amil-Serai?"

"You'll think of it all of a sudden," Lucilla told him.

"Not if I keep racking my brains for it," he groaned. "If I could get my mind off it, the damned thing might come back to me."

"Yes," Traherne agreed, "and that's all the more reason for action. But first, we must settle what message to send, if we get the chance."

"Yes—oh—yes." Mrs. Crespin said breathlessly, and she went hurriedly to the writing table, and flung herself into Rukh's writing-chair. "Dictate!" she ordered. "I'll write." Crespin bent over her shoulder.

"What about this?" Traherne suggested, after a moment: "'Major Crespin, wife, Traherne, imprisoned Rukh, Raja's palace; lives in danger.'"

"We want something more definite," Crespin objected.

"Yes," Traherne said thoughtfully, "you're right. We do."

"How would this do?" Mrs. Crespin asked: "'Death threatened tomorrow evening. Rescue urgent.'"

"Excellent!" Dr. Traherne exclaimed.

She wrote again. Crespin took the paper and read aloud slowly: "'Major, Crespin, wife, Traherne, imprisoned, Rukh, Raja's palace. Death threatened to-morrow evening. Rescue urgent.' Right. [illegible]"

"Now," Traherne [illegible] "how to get hold of Watkins [illegible]"

"There's a bell here," Lucilla said suddenly, seeing it on the writing-table. [illegible]

"Hold on a moment," Traherne said quickly. "We have [illegible] what to do, if he won't take money and we have to use [illegible] to get his keys."

PLANS MATURING FOR SCOUT EVENT IN TWIN FALLS

Program Here on May 3 Will Include Fifteen Features, Opening With a Parade; Contests Also to Be Held

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for the Camp-O-Rall of the Boy Scouts of America which will be held at Twin Falls on May 3. The program will include 15 events, beginning with a parade to the city ball park, assemblies and inspection, the conducting of scouting tests and other events. John H. Piper, the regional executive, will be present at the rally and the court of honor which is to be held in the evening.

The Camp-O-Rall will open with a parade forming at the city park at 1:30 p.m. on May 3. The scouts will march down Shoshone street to Main street and out Main street to the city ball park. The assemblies will include inspection and the awarding of points for the best uniformed troop and the best personal inspection. There will be 50 points for first place, 30 for second place and 15 points for third.

Contests to be staged include knot-tying by one patrol from each troop. Eight scouts will tie knots and one will hold the staff. Time and correctness will be the elements to be checked on. Scouts will furnish their own rope and stakes, the ropes being about four feet in length. First place earns 30 points, second 20 points and third 10 points.

Signal Contest

Two arm semaphore signaling will form another contest with speed and accuracy the desired elements. Each troop will have one entry, a sender and a receiver. A message will be given the sender and the receiver must write it out and hand it to the judge. First brings 30 points second 25 and third 20.

Each troop can have one entry in a water-boiling contest, each entry to number three scouts. The scouts furnish the quart pail, filled to a quarter of an inch of the top. If the contestant spills the water or uses more than two matches to start a fire he will be automatically disqualified. First is awarded 25 points, second 20 points and third 15 points.

A relay race will follow with one entry from each troop, the distance to be decided at the field. No scout will be asked to run more than 50 yards. First brings 40 points, second 30 points and third 20.

To Start Fires

A fire by friction contest will bring 30 points to the winner, 25 to second place and 20 to third, only one entry being admitted from each troop. A treasure hunt will be staged with the contestant furnishing his own compass. Each troop can enter two scouts and the scout pace will be used for measurement of distance. The course will be given at the field and the treasure goes to the finder. First gets 20 points, second 15 and third 10 points.

There will be a first aid contest each entry being four workers and one patient. Contestants furnish first aid material and follow instruction. AND THIS IS DANIEL WEBSTER, THE LEXICOGRAPHER, WORKING ON HIS GREAT DICTIONARY OF THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE.
REALLY, JUDGE, HE LOOKS JUST LIKE YOU!

Today's Scramblegram

VEBIEBADART

It won't be long now.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

Answers to Yesterday's Errorgram

(1) "Mademoiselle" should be applied only to an unmarried woman (2) The hat the salesgirl holds is not a turban. (3) Turbine, not "turban," is the way to spell the kind that runs by water power. (4) The ornaments at the top of the mirror posts do not match. (5) The scrambled word is ANATOMY.

MANY ILL FROM JAMAICA GINGER

Conditions in Wichita, Kansas So Alarming That Aid of Authorities Is Sought

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 20, (UP)—The eagerness of bootleggers to satisfy the thirst of oil field hustlers, harvest hands, railroad laborers and "common stiffs" to give them a "good, cheap drink when they planked a quarter down on the counter," was today believed to be the cause of the illness of more than 500 men and boys in the southwest.

The "good, cheap drink", was generally Jamaica ginger, a concoction made in violation to standards set by the federal government and which is consumed by hundreds who frequent blind pigs ad bootleg places in this section of the country.

In Wichita, in south central Kansas, the conditions became so alarming that late yesterday City Physician Russell Hobbs called upon state authorities asking their assistance. Many suffered painfully from a paralysis of the lower limbs. One was a woman 70 years old, he said, who declared she had neer had a drink in her life. Physicians diagnosed her case as similar to the others.

In Oklahoma the malady continued to claim its victims. It broke out in Oklahoma City two weeks ago and the majority of the 150 men and youths affected by it are still suffering. Almost all are out of danger.

Haugh, vice-president of* the Union Pacific system, through the Twin Falls offices of the company today. Twenty-two of the new stages will be added to the lines operating between Chicago and Los Angeles and 11 stages will be operated on the route between Portland, Spokane, Boise, Twin Falls, and Salt Lake City.

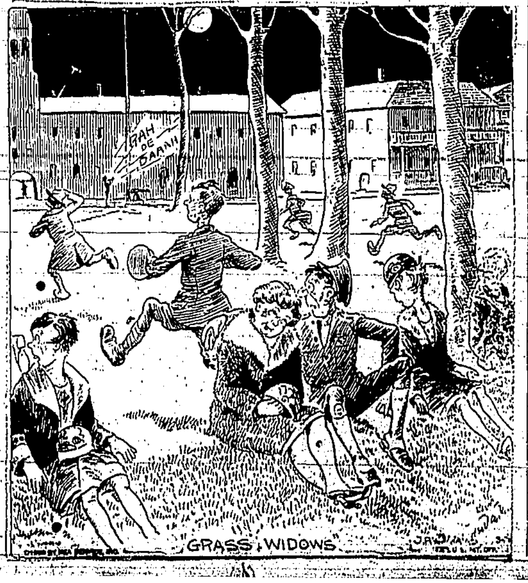
The company already has in operation a total of 300 motor coaches, varying in size from 21 to 26 passengers capacity each. The additional equipment, authorized comprises 30 coaches of 34 passenger capacity, two of 26 passenger and one of 21 passenger capacity. All of the new equipment is to be placed in service within the next 60 days in order to take care of the additional trade, brought by the increase in spring and summer travel.

Britain Digs Out From Deep Snow

LONDON, March 21 (UP)—The British Isles were digging out from under one of the heaviest snowfalls in years today.

The storm was most severe in Kent, where a blanket of 12 inches deep fell in a few hours. North Wales, travelers said, had the appearance of a Polar waste, with motorists stranded along blocked roads and farmers experiencing difficulties rescuing sheep buried in drifts.

OUT OUR WAY. By Williams



BACK TO FARM MOVE IS SEEN BY UPDEGRAFF

Missourian, Now Resident of Paris, Discusses Outlook in Interview; American Life Is Turning Rural, He Declares

By Henry Cumming
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—The day of the yokel is at hand, says the American novelist, Allan Updegraff.

American life is swinging back toward the country, the town the small city, in the opinion of Updegraff, whose new novel, "Native Son," deals largely with his old home town of Springfield, Mo. Updegraff is at present, and has been for some time, a resident of Paris, but he returns to America for a sojourn at least once a year,—and strenuously denies he is an expatriate.

After nearly 40 years in various parts of America, he says he can get a new appreciation of his "native soil" by looking at it in per*spective. Paris he characterizes* as a "quiet, provincial, old-fashioned town," where there is leisure to loaf and write.

"When I lived in New York City," he said, "I couldn't see the forest for the trees. That city is dense lush, everlastingly vital, a civilization fairly choked by its own vitality."

"Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Birmingham and other points, North, East, South and West are imitating it as hard as they can. They'll be fit to live in, perhaps, in another fifty years—and what super cities they'll be—unless we discover a super-germ or super-gas, in the meantime."

The present swing back is caused, according to Updegraff, by the breakdown, or at least the temporary stagnation of American "Factory Civilization."

"But all this fundamental proc*ess gets it desserts in Ralph Bor*sodi's new book, 'This Ugly Civilization,' which ought to be required reading everywhere," he went on. "Personally, I'm more interested in what the aforesaid 'Provinces' and 'Hinterlands' have to offer.

"There are fewer 'yokels' and laureates of the 'Booboisie' there I believe than we have been led to expect. Mr. Mencken has done these folks a great service by making them class-conscious—everywhere except in the big cities, where most of the did, and do, reside. 'Main Street,' 'Babbitt' and 'Elmer Gantry,' helped mightily, in spite of the pessimism of my old college gossip Sinclair Lewis, as to the lessons he has taught.

CREMATION SURPASSES BERLIN GROUND BURIALS

BERLIN, March 21 (UP)—Cremation is growing ever more popular in Berlin. Last year, for the first time, the number of cremations exceeded the number of burials.

According to statistics just published and covering the period from July 1, 1928, to June 30, 1929, there were 11,212 interments in the cemeteries of the city as compared with 15,013 cremations in the various municipal crematoriums.

For some unexplained reason, the number of corpses of children disposed of in the latter manner was exceedingly small, being only 198 as against 2,682 burials. On the other hand, many more adults were cremated, the statistics showing that 7,248 men and 7,497 women were in the city crematoriums during the year, while 5,729 and 5,901, respectively, were buried.
