GOOD PROSPECTS HERE
 WITH cash running 110 per cent full bringing the good-sand of irrigation water to the fertile lands of this empire; and with a diversity of crops maturing; with prospective heavy yields of potatoes, beans and wheat and other staples, the world might well be said to be comparatively rosy to southern Idaho farmers so long as there is evidence of reasonable price return for their efforts.

Fortunately price indications are good, and excepting for a falling off of price in grain and a diminished total production of beets, the situation locally is good and indicative of a good fall, with good crops and good prices.

Southern Idaho is fortunate in that what it produces is not subject to radical and sensitive variations from the standpoint of demand. The markets require constant and uninterrupted flow of sugar, of wheat, of potatoes, of beans, of dairy products and of livestock.

If this community were given over to the manufacture of watches, for instance, or of clothing, or any other single commodity, where the whims of fashion or tightening purse-strings would reduce demand, then there might well be consternation when the goods failed to move.

But here our eighty or so thousand population is engaged primarily in the great business of agriculture, producing staples for teeming millions who must eat, and who presently will be relieved of any of the economic difficulties which heretofore have affected their buying power.

Come reports of excellent prospects of average or better prices for most of the agricultural products produced here. All of which is not unexpected, but nevertheless reassuring to communities like this which are likely to confuse the effect of industrial depression with depressions in other lines. It is well-known that Idaho, is much better-off than some other agricultural sections in many regards, notably water supply, weather, diversity, certainty notably water stipply, weather, diversity, certainty of crop, large yields, dairy opportunities good roads, intelligent farmers, farm ownership, financial security, and opportunity.

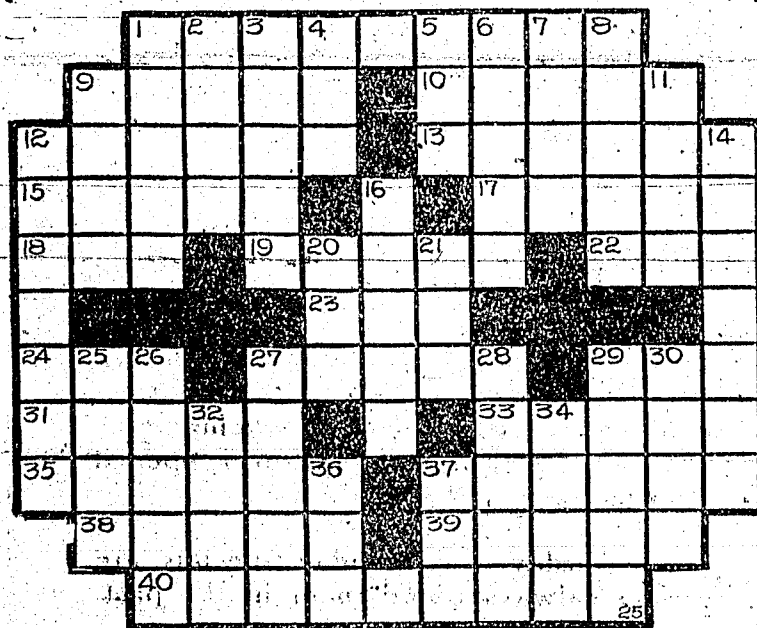

Given half a chance in the matter of prices this year, Southern Idaho farmers will chalk up another good year to their credit, and be ready for as good or better one in 1931.

ENDURANCE RECORD

If any endurance prizes are to be handed out, a nice one should be given to Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee for the splendid fortitude he continued to exhibit in holding down a hot job in defiance of none other than the President of the United States himself.

Members of the Democratic and Republican parties have until 9 o'clock Saturday night of this week in which to register in their respective precincts in order to qualify for the primaries August 5. Those who are not registered cannot vote at the primaries. Register now and vote August 5th!

The Tinymites
 Story by HAL COCHRAN — Pictures by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The sheep kept jumping in the air and it gave Clowny quite a scare. He kept yelling at the bunch to help him alight. They tried, but didn't dare go near. The sheep's kicks filled them all with fear. Then Carny shouted, "Hang on, law, and you will be all right."
 "Oh, no I won't scared Clowny said. 'I'm going to land upon my head. I can't hang on much longer. Both my arms are all tired out. I never should have started this. The ride was bound to go amiss. The poor sheep doesn't know itself, what this is all about."
 And then the ride was quickly stopped. The sheep scopped short and Clowny flopped. It was a lucky spill though, and he landed on his feet. "Oh, my, oh, my! An I all right," cried Clowny. "Do I look a sight? You must admit I'm pretty good. The landing turned out neat."
 The Travel Man then grabbed his hand and, with one pull, helped him to stand. "You're safe and sound," he shouted. "Now let's be upon our way. Enough of Persia we have seen. To travel on I'm rather keen. I have a good plan. Let's start out for old Bagdad today."
 "That's great! That's fine!" the Tinymites cried and then they gathered by his side, and asked him how they'd make the trip. He broke out in a smile. "We'll hire some mules to take us there. 'Twill be real safe if we take care," said he. "I'll get the mules now. Then we'll travel on in style."
 The little mules soon were brought out. The Tinymites began to shout. "Hop on," exclaimed the Travel Man. "Two of you ride together." Then, when each mule had its full load, they started jogging down the road. "We're off," exclaimed one Tiny. "I just hope we give fine weather."
 (The Tinies reach Bagdad in the next story.)

Spirit of Idaho
 Pioneers Shown in Gipson Novel

(A REVIEW BY B. E.)
 "Silence," a book written by Alice E. Gipson, is now off presses of the Caxton Printers of Caldwell and is being distributed. Dr. Gipson is dean of Lindenwood college, a sister of Edgar V. Gipson of Twin Falls, and formerly a teacher in the Twin Falls school.
 Beneath the interesting plot of the story runs a theme portraying the hardships experienced in Idaho in 1907 by homesteaders. The trials and the tribulations faced by those early pioneers are clearly drawn by the authoress.
 The scene of the story is laid in Carson, Idaho, at a time when the settlers were looking forward with hope to the act of Congress which would permit the building of a dam and irrigation of the land there. A young married couple from the eastern settled district of the nation, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Palmer, come to Carson to homestead and in hopes of rebuilding Phil's health.
 Lillian Palmer, the wife, suffers most from the silence, the dust and the heat of the country. Phil's health is regained quickly in the hills and dry atmosphere. Later their child is born but it dies soon after because of the heat and the dust storms. Lillian is heart-broken and almost loses the love of her husband, who learns to enjoy the company of a girl at a gambling house. As a result the home is divided and the homestead forsaken.
 The silence, the vast distances and beautiful sunsets of Idaho recall the couple to this state and they are at last happily reunited.
 The theme repeatedly brings out the spirit of Idaho which made philosophers out of men and women pioneers, kept them in the state and made of them friendly, honest, upright titlers of the soil.

GREAT LOVERS OF SCREEN
 TOGETHER IN "BAD ONE"
 Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe, the dynamic pair who made screen history in "What Price Glory," are teamed again in a spectacular picture reminiscent of their first success. This time it is Miss Del Rio's initial talking picture for United Artists, "The Bad One," now showing at the Idaho Theatre.
 Sensing that the sensational success of the pair in "What Price Glory" was due not alone to the war story, but to a happy mingling of their personalities, George Fitzmaurice, producer-director, altered the original conception of their new vehicle so that Miss Del Rio and Lowe might again appear in startling characterizations.
 In this spectacular story of the Marcellines, France, waterfront district, Miss Del Rio is seen as a witching coquette of the cafes whose wholesome, though harmless, amours with her customers displease the swaggering American sailor, played by Lowe.
 "The Bad One" presents Miss Del Rio and Lowe in what each considers the best acting roles of their careers.

Tuesday evening, the executive board will meet with a program and reception. Sippel of Baltimore, National president, state officers and other distinguished guests. Mrs. John S. THE INDIVIDUAL YET NEEDED BY BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

SOME seem to think that the day of the individual in business has passed. But they are wrong.

While the individual may not attract such outstanding attention as he did in the days of old when institutions were conducted on a smaller scale, he nevertheless is to be found in any large corporation, dominating the situation, giving orders here, co-operating there and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

Welfare of Workers

Even in the gigantic mergers that have taken place within the last two years there remains more than ever the necessity for a leader, an aggressive personality, whose duty it is to see that basic principles are not forgotten, that the rights and privileges of the individual workers and the customers they serve are as well provided for as in the smaller business units.

It is gratifying to note that our corporations are giving more and more concern to the welfare of their workers. Numerous benefit organizations have been formed, opportunities offered for advancement of education, and pension, health service established and insurance and retirement pensions provided. This general humanitarian movement in reality is the outgrowth of analysis, which has disclosed the need of improving the well-being of our individual workers, realizing at the same time that our institutions will benefit.

Woolworth Heiress Weds in London

Thousands of eager Londoners lined the sidewalks outside St. Margaret's Church to get a glimpse of these newly-weds. They are the former Miss Maysie Gasque, heiress to many of the Woolworth ten-cent store millions, and John Roland Robinson, young barrister, pictured here immediately after their fashionable wedding. The bride has been living in London for some time; most of the members of her family are residents of the United States.

RULE OF TARIFF BRINGS ABOUT A SPANISH PROTEST

Commercial Bodies Demand Abrogation of Modus Vivendi; Committee Is Appointed to Take up Requests

MADRID, (UP)—Although there is an insistent demand among various commercial and trade bodies that Spain abrogate its existent modus vivendi with the United States, there is little possibility of the present government taking such a step.

As soon as President Herbert Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Law, the government appointed a committee comprised of employees and experts of the Ministry of State and the Ministry of National Economy to consider the requests of Spanish business men. The committee deemed that the modus vivendi should be abrogated, not only on account of the tariff which is particularly hard on Spanish products—especially manufactured cork—but on account of the others restrictive measures which the United States has adopted, in connection with the so-called Mediterranean tariff, not to mention the loss of business which the 13th Amendment caused.

Now that the report has been made, however, there is little chance of anything being done about it. The Berenguer government, is more and more showing a tendency to postpone the solution of such problems to the time when Spain shall return to Parliamentary government, and it would hardly care to risk the responsibility of denouncing the 1906 treaty, but would much prefer to have a government chosen by the nation to handle such an important question.

The clearest indication that nothing will be done for the time being, however, can be derived from the fact that during the last week of June the Duke of Alba, Minister of State, departed for a relatively long tour of France, England, and Switzerland, and upon his return to Spain he intends to remain in the summer resorts on the North Coast.

CABBAGE NOT MODERN

Early civilization used the cabbage. Egyptians considered it of great importance. Hippocrates ascribed medical properties to it. Cato and Pythagoras mention it in their writings.

PREPAREDNESS IN BUSINESS

By R. S. HECHT,
American Bankers Association.
My observations for many years, both as an employee and as an executive, have convinced me that the reason some men and women go ahead and others do not is that some keep themselves constantly prepared to accept and fulfill larger duties and responsibilities as they offer, and some do not.

Grant, as we must, that there is a certain element of luck in the conditions under which opportunity for promotion comes to different men and women, we nevertheless must also see that it is each individual's own state of preparedness which determines his ability to seize opportunity if and when it comes, and having seized it, to succeed in meeting the greater demands which it inevitably places upon him.

Real advancement never means going ahead to easier tasks, but always to harder ones. Opportunity for advancement is worthless unless in accepting it you are able to carry with you the abilities and qualifications that prepare you to meet the heavier exertions that are an inherent part of opportunity. It is far better to go into action in the field of enlarged responsibility prepared and qualified, rather than that you and the institution you work for shall be exposed to the hazard of your having to build up to new responsibilities after having assumed them.

The new spirit of all business seeks to prepare its people in advance through education for the higher duties it holds in store for them.

Left-Handed

Left-handed children should never be forced to become right-handed. The brain, which controls muscular movements, would be affected, with possible serious results. Careful training in the use of both hands is all you should do.

SETTLED WEATHER AIDS CROPS OVER SOUTHERN IDAHO

Weather too hot; grain ripening too fast and crops beginning to suffer.

Mildvale, Washington county: first part of week warm, latter part cool; wheat about ready to cut; all crops look good.

Weiser, Washington county: Another warm week; corn making good growth; grain harvest in full swing.

Gooding, Gooding county: Favorable season cut short due to lack of water for irrigation; grain cutting has started and some second cutting may be down; cooler weather of last week was welcome as hot weather was drying everything.

Parma, Canyon county: Hot weather caused only slight drop of prunes; still 40 per cent full crop; making poor growth; apples growing well and thinning nearly over; deformed apples mostly removed by thinning; second cutting hay light.

Lapwai, Nez Perce county: Clear, dry, hot weather; rain needed; corn and vegetables suffering; grain harvest in full blast; heavy yields; harvesting early apples, raspberries and dewberries; pastures and ranges very dry; fire hazard increasing; livestock looking well.

Caldwell, Canyon county: Fine summer week; adequate sunshine and heat; highest temperature, 102 degrees; corn made wonderful growth; winter wheat harvested and spring wheat harvest begun; also barley and oats; second cutting of alfalfa going strong; local early apples on market; water plentiful to date.

Downey, Teton county: Winter wheat about ready to be harvested; spring wheat good but dry; there is a shortage of water on irrigated land; barley and oats are good but dry; potatoes good but were slightly damaged by frost; second crop hay fair; beets fair, being damaged by white fly.

Second Cutting of Alfalfa in Swing in Southwest Part of State; Seasonable Local Fruits Are Now Ripening.

Settled summer weather prevailed throughout southwest Idaho during the week ending Tuesday, announces the United States department of agriculture, weather bureau in its weekly summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho. The bureau report follows:

North Idaho: Generally fair weather obtained this week. Temperatures were above normal at the beginning of the week, but lowered gradually to below normal by Thursday. A brief series of thunder showers passed over the western regions tributary to Lewiston between the Clearwater and Salmon rivers late Friday evening. They freshened vegetation but did no damage. There was no interruption of the wheat harvest which has spread to the major portion of the district and is favored with ideal weather. Pasture and range crops are maturing normally. Orchard activities are confined to spraying and irrigation. Alfalfa cutting was general over the district this week and the bulk of the crop has been stored in fine shape.

Southwest Idaho: Settled summer weather prevailed throughout this district. There was abundant sunshine and adequate heat, although temperatures ranged somewhat below normal after Wednesday. The change to cooler weather was very welcome, bringing relief from the excessive heat of the preceding week. Irrigated crops made good headway and are maturing in fine shape. The harvesting of second crop alfalfa is in full swing with weather conditions entirely favorable for securing the crop in excellent shape. Seasonable local fruits are ripening and the local market is well supplied. Pasture and range conditions adequate and all livestock are doing well.

Southeast Idaho: The first part of the week was hot and dry with abundant sunshine. During the latter part of the week the temperature declined to some extent and this section was visited by a very beneficial shower. Some damage was done by hail in the Arbon valley. The range is in good condition throughout, but it is in need of water. Hay is fair to good. Grain is fair to excellent, but is suffering from drought in some places. Potatoes are good.

ALL POP BOTTLES ARE BARRED FROM BROOKLYN STANDS

President John Heydler of National League Moves to Protect Players By Eliminating the Deadly Missiles.

NEW YORK, July 25. (UP)—With the Brooklyn Robins just one-half game ahead of the pack in the National league, Brooklyn fans are taking their baseball seriously, so seriously that John Heydler, president of the league, has barred pop bottles from Ebbetts Field.

Heydler's order might be construed as merely a gesture by outsiders, but to those who know the psychology of the ups and downs of Manager Wilbert Robinson's Robins, the move becomes one of personal safety.

Years ago the pop bottle made its appearance simultaneously with the Robins' championship aspirants and was quickly relegated to the scrap heap. The Robins dropped to sixth place and stayed there. Now with the Chicago Cubs on the heels of the Robins, fans will again take their soft drinks in paper cups.

Among those who have felt the discourtesy of bottle showers this year have been umpires and visiting players. Even members of the Robins have felt the sting of the "bronx cheer" from the fans at the Flatbush park.

The Brooklyn pulse beats rapidly when the Robins are ahead but let them drop into second place and it apparently becomes a matter of civic importance.

BURLEY, July 25 (Special)—Another golf course, termed the "American Miniature Golf course" was planned and laid out by Judson Timm of Twin Falls, Tuesday, located just south of the Pee Wee golf course on Oakley avenue, south of the post office.

July 23 saw the beginning of the actual work which will probably be completed in eight days according to those in charge. An 18 hole course with all the hazards of any other course is being constructed, 125x150 in dimension, lighted with 40 shaded and flood lights. Lily and fish ponds are to be a feature, and many beauties are in the promise. A modern club house is to be erected on the corner, and much attention is to be devoted to golf parties. Swings and seats will be a plenty for the comforts of those participating in the games. The American Miniature Golf course will be under local management.
