

TIE LOOMS AS POSSIBILITY TO POSTPONE SERIES

Three-cornered Fight In the National League Pennant Contest Continues—Giants Are All Buttend Up

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13 (UP)—The standings, games behind and games left to play of the three leading National League pennant races continued today.

The only change in the situation as a result of yesterday's games was the virtual passage of the New York Giants from the pennant race. Four games behind the Cardinals and Phillies, the Giants are all buttend up.

Attracted by the best pitcher, the Cubs discovered their batting eyes after disastrous exhibition against Brooklyn, and, hampered on a half victory, multiplying their lead game lead over the Cardinals and Phillies. The Cardinals handed the Giants their straight defeat, 7-2, and the Phillies from their eighth in row by defeating the Reds 7-1.

Many possibilities.

Any number of combinations can arise out of today's games, with the Cubs playing the Phillies, the Cardinals moving into Boston to open a doubleheader, and the Phillies continuing their series against the Reds at 17-16.

If the Cardinals and Phillies win, the Cubs must win both games or lose their lead. If the Cubs defeat the Phillies, the Cardinals and Phillies win, the Cubs must win both games or lose their lead.

ANGEL'S HALTS SHEKS 5 TO 3

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13 (UP)—Second place Los Angeles halted the winning streak of the league leading Hollywood Shakes yesterday with a 5-3 victory, thus lessening the distance between the two teams today.

Beverly's Homer in the seventh had given Hollywood three runs to the lead, but Ray Jacobs, who returned from Boston, hit the clutch home run in the eighth to score a team mate, Hal, and win the game.

Halles in the sixth and eighth innings scored runs to lead the Shakes from winning a night contest, 5-3.

The Shakes secured an early lead to beat San Francisco, 4-1, and Portland scoring the winning run in the eighth to win a 3-1 victory over Oakland.

Tossing Opponent From Ring, Judge Says Dern Fought

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 13 (UP)—Lester Dern, wrestler, was awarded a decision over Ira Dern, popular Utah matinee, at the conclusion of their bout here last night. It was their second meeting. Dern having won in the previous encounter.

Lester, applying a powerful nelson, pinned his opponent in the first fall after the two men had been tussling for each other for 10 minutes. The referee, a flying headlock, pinned the loser for the second fall after 20 minutes.

Dern deliberately tossed Lester from the ring early in the third session, the impact rendering him unconscious. The referee ruled it was a foul and awarded the decision to Lester.

Youngsters Out to Show Prowess in Racketeering

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 13 (UP)—Two youngsters who have been charged with racketeering in the Forest Hills area, are slated on foreign tour and will require the Vandale to travel.

John Doe, 25, of Santa Monica, Calif., will match his left-handed brother, Frank, 23, a 1935 year-old New Yorker.

Big Bill Thibault, a finalist 11 times and seven times the champion, was eliminated yesterday by Doe.

Thus the fight has kept any player from winning eight times in the 12 years of the championship continued to operate. "King Ricker" Sears and Thibault, who have been charged with racketeering, have been charged with racketeering.

Whether Thibault had escaped defeat in his match with the blonde Doe if he had not been troubled with a knee injury is one of those futile questions. Certainly Thibault was badly slowed up by his limp. He didn't try at all for some shots which would have been his reach had he extended himself.

ON THE RECALL

AN EDITORIAL in the Lewiston Tribune was well worthy of reproduction here. It is entitled "The Gun Behind the Door."

Says the Tribune:

Mayor Charles Bowles of Detroit makes his last stand to retain office in Detroit when he faces four other candidates in a special election, the result of his recall on July 22. It is the first instance of the kind in an important unit of American government since 1921, when North Dakota ousted its governor, attorney general and commissioner of agriculture and labor. In numerical strength even this case is not comparable, for 210,770 Detroit voters participated in the recall election, while in 1921 80,000 North Dakota citizens signed the recall election petition and five more votes were cast.

In only eleven states—including Idaho—has recall elected officers been legalized, and in four of these the process does not apply to the judiciary. Section 6 of article VI of the Idaho constitution provides that:

Every public officer in the state of Idaho, excepting the judicial officers, is subject to recall by the legal voters of the state or of the electoral district from which he is elected. The legislature shall pass the necessary laws to carry this provision into effect.

The joker is that the Idaho legislature, for reasons best known to itself, has never seen fit to obey the state constitution and pass the "necessary laws," although the amendment was passed more than sixteen years ago.

Legislative enactment provides for the recall of municipal officers in Idaho, however, the form varying with the type of city government. In Lewiston the recall may be instituted by filing with the city clerk a verified written petition signed by qualified electors of the city. If signed by 35 per cent of the voters the council shall order a special election within 40 to 50 days—if only 20 per cent of the voters sign the petition the election shall be held on the next regular election date. The accused incumbent shall be a candidate without nomination at the election unless he files notice to the contrary.

In other Idaho cities of the first class, where the commission form of government is not used, the council must, when petitioned by 25 per cent of the qualified electors, call a special election to decide whether the council shall pass an ordinance providing for the recall of all elective officers of the city.

That the recall weapon has been seldom brought into play in Idaho is a tribute both to the office holders and the political wisdom of the people who elected them. But the state legislature should no longer ignore the constitutional mandate to provide machinery for the recall of the state officers. The fact it has never been needed is no reason for denying the people this reasonable protection against inefficient public leaders.

Returning to Detroit, it is impossible for the outsider at a distance to judge how far its middle is political and how far concerned with simpler issues of good government. The charges brought against Mayor Bowles' office leadership reflect impatience or unwillingness to force a cleanup of conditions. But the fact remains that he was placed in office by a small majority and only unseated by 30,000 votes in 210,000.

Black tragedy has stalked the election in the murder of a recall leader who made his charges over the radio. It is an incident that may have a more important bearing on altering conditions in the "sweetest city in the United States" than the recall itself.

Where the recall exists it is regarded as a threat to compel good government; in the words of Woodrow Wilson, it is "a gun behind the door." Mayor Bowles, and others, have learned that the gun is loaded.

Twin Falls will be visited early next week by a large delegation of coast business men, intent on seeing first hand "the state we live in" and in making a survey of this region both as a consuming territory for manufactured products and as a breadbasket for produce wanted by the Pacific markets. Twin Falls and the rest of Idaho is delighted to be thus recognized and will sincerely welcome these good-will visitors in the hope that their visit here will be mutually profitable as well as enjoyable.

Today the little Tinseltown is still out sooting windows signs in snow, and what a treat for them. They've never had anything like this. The Triumphal Arch of Contentment was erected to them with interest keen. Said Cops, "When they finished that in November, 'job was done.'"

Then on the famous Tiber they were looking and stayed half the day. The tons of Roman Empire about badly long the shore. Then, in the distance they could see the Vatican, said Cops, "Free, what wonderful big building, people built in days of yore."

"Well, next," exclaimed the Travel Man, "I think we'll follow out a plan that I have had to mind some time. Now here's what we will. We'll take the distance in the sky and while we're flying 'way up high, we'll look down' on the great old Rome. 'Twill be a bird's-eye view.' And so they sailed on hour after hour and what a sight lay down below. The harried buildings looked real small. The people looked like ants. Said Cops, "Gee, I wouldn't miss for anything, I like this. The things I've seen have thrilled me so, I think this is the end." "Well, don't start dancing 'way up here," snapped Sooty Tinseltown. "I fear you'll turn our air plane upside-down, and then, where would we be?" Wee Copsy laughed and said, "Don't fret. Right back to earth we'll safely go. Why, I was only fooling. Can't you take a joke from me?" They shortly sailed to earth again, all very satisfied, and then the Travel Man said, "Follow me!" They did so, hand in hand. He led them in a train where, soon, they traveled and a "choo-choo" The Travel Man then said, "We're going to ride to Switzerland."

(The Tinseltowns ride on a train in the next story.)

Signs of the Times

We sat dreaming at the top of the hill near a little wood. A squirrel scampered by, his little jaws stuffed with nuts. A bee buzzed past, gathering honey for the winter. A wind blew softly shaking the leaves to the ground and stacking them at the foot of the tree. Sunlight and food supply for the tree during the winter in those leaves. The breeze grew brisker, I sneezed. "It's getting cooler, we must get ready for winter," said my good wife. "We better begin by storing an adequate supply of fuel." "I'll order coal tomorrow," said I. Far overhead I heard a bird cry. It sounded like he called, "ABERDEEN, ABERDEEN." Perhaps, it was an owl, he spoke so wisely. And when I got home I looked up a dealer for

Wrong Attitude
A Huffy dentist made a patient so mad that he bit him. And the dentist took the case to court, instead of proudly exhibiting the bite as a sample of the efficiency of his workmanship. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

New features of the FORD TRUCK

IMPORTANT new features have been incorporated in the chassis of the Ford truck. They increase its performance, strength, reliability, safety, and economy.

Dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost, are a feature you will find both convenient and economical. Ballion tires of one size are used throughout with the dual equipment, so that all six sized wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare need be carried.

A feature which increases strength and reliability is the new rear axle. It has a spiral wheel gear of special Ford truck design, with straddle-mounted pinion. Axle shafts are heavier than formerly, and because of the three-quarter floating type of construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

Braked on the front wheels have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety. Brakes are of the mechanical type, internal expanding, and all are fully enclosed. Controls have been redesigned and operate with minimum effort.

You will find the 4-speed transmission of special value. Assuring a wide, flexible range of speed and power, it adds definitely to the alertness and capable performance of the Ford truck. A tapered opening is provided in the transmission for power take-off mounting, so that you can readily obtain power for hoists and other equipment.

An example of the burly strength embodied in the chassis is the new front axle, which is twice as strong as formerly. The front spring is heavier, with wider leaves. Front radius rod is heavier, and king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings are larger.

Come in and examine the Ford truck. You are sure to be impressed by the exceptional value it represents.
