FATAL SHOOTING OF OREGON MAN BRINGS INQUIRY

"Dead Shot Bill" Reed Accused of Slaying Charles Murphy, Rancher, As Officer of Bitter Controversy

NAMPA, Id., Nov. 8 (UPI) — "Dead Shot" Bill Reed, former Texas ranger and widely known western Idaho cattleman, today was charged with the murder following the fatal shooting Thursday of Charles Murphy, livestock man of Homestead, Ore. Reed is tall at Cascade, Idaho, awaiting trial.

Reed, 45, was accused of killing Murphy during a quarrel, the shooting occurred Thursday, but news of it wasn't received from the remote section until Friday.

Reed, a former Texas ranger, admittedly has killed five men prior to Thursday's shooting, while enforcing the law in three states. He was indicted last week and arraigned on the two Idaho killings on the ground of self-defense.

Fellows Dispute

Thursday's shooting followed dispute between the 69-year-old couple and their son, Patrick and Murphy.

Authorities were told Murphy had accused Patrick of driving his team of horses across his ranch, which terminated when Murphy already shot Patrick.

Angered over his son's treatment, the woman went to find Murphy and settle the argument. He followed her for several days. Then, last Thursday, an argument developed between the two women, and the dispute led to the fatal shooting.

Witnesses told authorities that Reed, who had been hunting for his gun but that had "beat" him to the draw.

It is Reed's proud boast that he has killed half-a-dozen men in half-a-dozen states. Even in Texas where he helped rid that state of the famous gang, he always left the killing fellow make the first move.

Young Attempted Murder

Five years ago a 17 year old boy attempted to kill the Texas Ranger.

Harried behind boxes, the boy threatened Mrs. Reed, the boy's mother. The old man had the pistol to one side and walked straight up to the barreled. The youth shot and wounded Reed in the right arm.

The arm has been paralyzed. Undaunted, Reed practiced for months until he could shoot as well with his left arm as with his right.

Authorities were investigating the case today to determine what charges will be preferred against the old man.

Weather Conditions

Delay Do-X Flight

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 8 (UPI) — Unfavorable weather reports called postponement of the flight of the Do-X flying boat from Holland to England today.

Capt. Christensen said that storms were expected which might delay the departure of the Do-X until Monday or Tuesday.

Early weather reports from England, on the other hand, showed that the weather, which now covers London and the southern part of the British Isles with an impenetrable blanket, was not expected.

Thomas, the Honest Doubter

Lesson—John 11:14-15; 20:21-23; 21:1-2

Devotional Reading—Proverbs 3:13-20

BY E. L. TINZMANN
 Art by W. O. Roberts

"Lazarus is dead," said Christ to His disciples, "let us go unto him." Thomas did not understand that this was an opportunity for Jesus to be of service but believed that Christ were going to certain death if He were seen in Bethany and so answered, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

Some days after the crucifixion, the disciples told Thomas that at a previous meal when Thomas was absent, Christ had appeared before them. But Thomas doubted this saying he must have the evidence before he would believe it. When Christ appeared He said, "Because thou hast seen that I have believed, blessed art ye that have seen and believed."

Some time later when Jesus said, "Whither I go, ye know the way," Thomas asked, "We know not whither thou goest; how know we the way?"

Jesus replied, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh to the Father but by me."

Jesus' obsession prevented him from grasping the meaning of the Master's word.

ROBBERS

INCIDENTS such as that which occurred at Filer Thursday when unmasked hold-up men committed a bold robbery of no small proportions, brings home the fact that the terms "gangland" and "gangsters" cannot be exclusively associated with metropolitan centers.

In regular detective story fashion, the File bank robbers are reputed to have speeded away armed with rifles thus endangering the lives of any persons with whom they might have come in contact. The fact that they refrained from attempting to harm a carabard of pursuing school boys indicates that the thieves were possibly not desperate, however, and other evidences of their amateurish status leads to the conclusion that their capture and resultant punishment will be only a matter of a short while.

The recurring frequency of such shocking crimes as that recorded Thursday are warnings to the citizenry at large that there are preying individuals at large ready to steal cars, break into buildings, rob houses, and engage in daring hold-ups at unexpected intervals, and that vigilance is necessary at all times, for the protection of life and property.

People living in the more remote sections such as this have a horror of these criminal occurrences, but, great as that is, it doubtlessly does not compare with the situation which daily confronts those residents of metropolitan centers where crime is highly organized and increasingly menacing.

Crime continues to be an absorbing national problem along with the economic ones.

A VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY

A MICHIGAN librarian is getting ready to take a long series of canoe trips in which he will cover the famous voyages of Father Marquette, who made his way into the Great Lakes region when everything west of Quebec was a howling wilderness. His jaunt will take him from Quebec to Sault Ste. Marie, by way of the St. Lawrence; Ottawa and French rivers, Georgian Bay; Lake Huron and the St. Mary's river to the Soo. He plans to spend five months at it.

It is hard to imagine a much pleasanter task to set one's self. But like all real travelers, this librarian has an intangible goal which is more important than the visible one. He wants to duplicate Father Marquette's experiences, as far as possible; he explains himself as follows:

"It is to get something of the feeling those early explorers had and to learn something of what they were up against that I have determined to follow them route by canoe."

This, of course, makes it much more interesting; but, they would like to talk to the man five years from now, when he has completed his long trip, and ask him if he really succeeded in recapturing that lost sense of daring, discovery, and lofty purpose that sent the Jesuits into the Canadian interior.

A feeling like that is hard to regain in this age. Historic Sault Ste. Marie is not quite what it was in Marquette's day, nor is the Ottawa river the avenue of lurking death it was then. Any Indians this man meets will be wearing store clothes, and neither starvation nor death at the stake are apt to prove very immediate dangers. It is just possible that this canoist is in for a little disappointment.

Just the same, the effort is worth making. The life that Father Marquette, and his conferees lived was more dangerous and uncomfortable than ours, by an almost unimaginable margin; but it must have been, in many ways, a great deal more satisfying. Like us, those men had immortal souls; the difference is that they knew it, and we often forget it. They were able to get into their lives the feeling that the Creator of the World was in a sense depending on their efforts, and they surrounded themselves with an air of wonder and terror. If, now and then, one or another of them was tortured to death by naked savages, was it too high a price to pay?

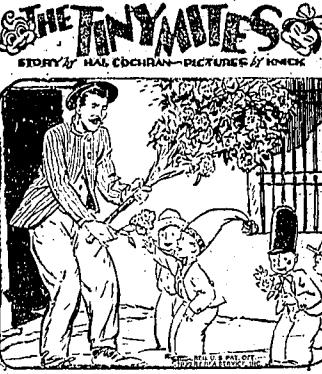

The one great defect of modern life is that it has robbed us of the chance to get into that atmosphere except through books. Let's hope that this chap in the canoe has better luck than most of us.

THE DRINKING SENATORS

THIS interesting, though not especially surprising, to learn that the federal prohibition people at Washington have had an undercover man keeping tabs on U.S. Senators who have been patronizing bootleggers. The next question that arises is, "What is the prohibition unit going to do with the information it has collected?"

One suggestion might be that the unit simply make public the names of the offending senators. It might give us some useful information about some of our alleged statesmen.

For a long time Washington has been full of wild rumors about the vast number of senators who buy booze. Publishing this list of names would at least enable us to see just how much there is to these rumors.

Sought as Wife Is Found
Slain

Police of Cleveland and Chicago are adding Whitecloud authorities to their search for George W. Perry, whose wife, Mrs. Cora Whitecloud, was found dead in her home in Whitecloud, Kansas, Saturday morning. Perry had been seen in the vicinity of the Indian reservation. It is believed that Perry fled to the Whitecloud area to avoid capture for the killing of his first wife, a Cleveland woman, and the authorities want to question him about the assault.

CHRYSLER SIX

and up, f. o. b. factory

Record Low Prices Made STILL LOWER!

A Chrysler Six at present reduced prices marks an altogether new record in six-cylinder automobile value.

Think of Chrysler performance, Chrysler smartness and Chrysler quiet being offered at such low prices—in a Chrysler Six that has the advantages of all the newer developments of Chrysler progress over the first famous Chrysler Six that six years ago sold for more than twice today's price.

Today's Chrysler Six has a 62-horsepower high-compression Chrysler engine mounted on rubber; Iso-therm pistons; low-swing perfectly-balanced chassis; self-adjusting spring shackles; hydraulic shock absorbers; quiet all-steel bodies of dreadnought strength; safe, sure, internal hydraulic brakes.

Here is value never before obtainable even in a Chrysler.

CHRYSLER SIX PRICES: Coupe $745; Touring $855; Roadster $745; Royal Coupe $785; 4-Door, 3-Window Royal Sedan $795. All prices f. o. b. factory (wire wheel equipment extra).
