

W.C. C. OPENS ANNUAL MEETING AT HOUSTON, TEX.

Dry Organization Working on Two Year Program; Increases Membership Markedly During Past Year

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 15 (UP)—Pledged to opposition against any attempt toward prohibition repeal, delegates to the W.C. C. annual convention planned today to complete a two year program aimed at enforcement of the dry laws.

Proof that the Temperance Union is supported by the better class of American citizens is contained in the list of its members and contributors, the delegates were told by Mrs. Margaret C. Collins, national secretary.

"It is necessary to give this year's report that 'Seafarer Al' Capone and other wealthy Chicagoans are contributing to the dry cause," Mrs. Collins said during an address.

"Any dealer who is not a member of the union is not a member of the national treasurer and if any such contributions are found the dealer can be expelled."

During the last year, Mrs. Collins reported, the United States has received contributions of $232,000. In August report, the membership total for 1929-1930 was 1,220,000.

Plans for a huge dry demonstration when congress convenes next week were made at the opening day's session of the convention yesterday.

"This demonstration is planned to prove that 'wet sentiment is overwhelming,' an announcement from the convention said. "We will also make a world-wide week of prayer from January 8 to 15, 1931, for the success of temperance."

The Believing Centurion

Lesson: Matthew 8:5-13
 Devotional Reading: Isaiah 60:1-9

In Capernaum, a centurion beseeched Christ to heal his servant who was lying ill with palsy. Jesus promised to do it, but the centurion answered: "Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof, but only say the word and my servant shall be healed."

The lesson-lesson also included the following passages from the Bible: "For we are the clay, and he is the Potter, and we are the vessels of his mercy." 11 Corinthians 4:7.

FAMOUS CHURCHES OF THE WORLD

Mellifont Abbey—Ireland

Near the steep banks of the Mullagh River, which separates Louth from the adjoining county of Meath, is the ruins of the Abbey of Mellifont, the first Cistercian monastery ever established in Ireland. St. Malachy, the great archbishop of Armagh, while on his way to Rome in 1138, became acquainted with St. Bernard, and the wonderful work which he was doing.

Accordingly, in 1142, he induced Donagh O'Carroll, the prince of Ulster, to build, to endow an abbey of that affiliation, and obtained for it a colony of monks from St. Bernard's own abbey of Clairvaux.

The friendship of St. Malachy, together with the fame of St. Bernard, and the reputation of Clairvaux, for sanctity and learning, soon brought to the new foundation large possessions, and it can fairly be said that it was the influence of its abbots afterwards came to have the privilege of a seat in parliament.

When the monasteries were seized by the English Government about the middle of the sixteenth century there were one hundred and forty monks at Mellifont, besides lay brothers and other dependents.

The abbey buildings were afterwards occupied as a fortified residence by the family to whom they were granted by the king, but they have been in ruins since the seventeenth century.

The gateway is a massive square tower on a projection of rock near the river; a mill stream now runs through the Norman arch which formed the entrance. The whole is west of the place, once a beautiful and noble monastic residence, is now a ruin of great interest. Both the church and the gate of art have in large measure been taken away by the devastations of war and deliberate vandalism. The present ruins can also be seen in the days of its magnificence. Part of the baptistery still stands, a singular octagonal building of light grey freestone, curiously ornamented with red brick in a very unusual manner. Its pillared doorways are light and graceful, and its arches once supported a reservoir of water from which the whole monastery was supplied.

Tell Me a Story

BY E. L. TISHMAN
 Art by W. O. Roberts

When Christ heard such an evidence of faith in him, He said: "I have not found so great a faith, no, not in Israel," and to the centurion, He said further: "Go thy way, as thou hast believed. So be it done to thee." And the servant was healed in that hour.

? QUESTIONS ? About The Bible

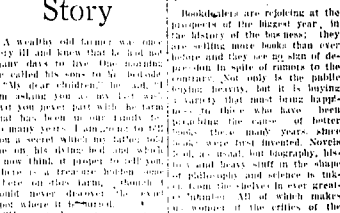

- 1—What was there strange about Jesus volunteering to enter the house of the Centurion?
- 2—How, basically, were Christ and the Centurion alike, unlike?
- 3—Where did this miracle take place?
- 4—Why was a Centurion present?
- 5—What does his anxiety for his servant indicate of his character?
- 6—What did Christ mean by saying, "I have not found so great a faith, no, not in Israel, and to the centurion, He said further: 'Go thy way, as thou hast believed. So be it done to thee.' And the servant was healed in that hour."
- 7—What was there startling about Jesus remark: "Many thanks be unto thee, for thou hast believed. So be it done to thee."?
- 8—How did this differ from Jewish theology at the time?
- 9—What revelation is in this attitude in which we find in modern life?
- 10—What other lesson does Christ teach in his reply to the theological dogmatists?

The answers to these questions will be found below. How many can you answer?

- 1—As a Jew he would have been considered ceremonially unclean by entering the house of a Gentile, but he was never troubled with such prejudice.
- 2—Both were men of great authority, but the Centurion received his from Rome, while Christ received his from God.
- 3—Capernaum on the sea of Galilee.
- 4—It was the headquarters of a Roman legion.
- 5—That he was a humane man, a rare type in those brutal days when slaves had no rights and might be punished, abused and even killed at will.
- 6—The rabbi taught that the Mosaic law would be superseded in a great feat at which would be present all peoples with its purity and law.
- 7—It was thought that Gentiles would be forbidden the feast; that only Jews would be admitted.
- 8—The rabbi taught that all except the children of Israel would be thrown into outer darkness, that none others, not matter how firm they believed in other religions and no matter how good their works on earth, would be admitted to the feast.
- 9—The modern Klu Klux Klan is literally carrying the Jews out of the nation in attempting to create, as they created, a religious and racial group in the name of the Jew who denounced it.
- 10—That no one of any particular religious group is assured the kingdom by the mere fact that he belongs to the group.

HALF MINUTE SERMONS

Bookkeepers are reading at the prospect of the biggest year in the history of the business. They are selling more books than ever before and they are getting more orders in spite of the depression. Not only is the public buying books, but it is buying books. Not only is the public buying books, but it is buying books. Not only is the public buying books, but it is buying books.

DRY-LAND NOAH PREPARING FOR FLOOD IN 1932
OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 15 (UP)—A dry-land Noah today continued preparations for his personal escape in an ark when the Pacific Coast took the wrath of the Lord and sinks into the Pacific Ocean.
There is no question in the mind of William Louis Greenwood, 60, but that along with the Pacific slope are going to be a surprise come the day after the year 1932.
Mount Hope, in British Columbia, will sink into the Fraser river, according to the credited "Captain Billy" Greenwood, who never skipped a beat in his life. The coast that will disappear, Victoria, Seattle, and all cities will be swallowed up by brack water. There will be a second inundation, and then California will get what's coming. In the north the ocean will be lapped by the Nevada mountains, and in the south the land will sink as far back as the Rockies.
His craft will be "everywhere," where, but "Captain Billy" will easily knock off work in the sawmill where he is employed, board the "Ark Second" and sail to safety in a craft that sailormen say couldn't float in a rain lake.
Greenwood told all about it. The evangelist of the children's "Innocent Church" said: "Eight years ago he started the Ark. It will be completed by 1932, when the expected first flood will be of destruction of the Pacific coast to start."
Tall, thin, "Captain Billy" will take no animals aboard, aside from the two dogs.
His craft is the despair of socialists, who, but Capt. Greenwood isn't worried. Noah has no sea-larling men him off. Greenwood pointed out:
There is only one negro member of the U. S. Congress. He is Oscar P. Priest, Republican from Chicago.

STATESMANSHIP TEST CONFERENTS CHIEF EXECUTIVE

No President in Decades Has Faced Such Difficult Legislative Turnout as President Hoover during his Term

By ROBERT BUTLER
SEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Few presidents have ever been given such a remarkable opportunity for high grade political statesmanship in the face of great odds as will be afforded Herbert Hoover.

Bereft of control in both houses of the 72d Congress, Hoover faces at supreme test of his ability to wear the title of "superman" with which he was invested in his campaign for election.

In many difficult no president has faced such difficult legislative prospects and saved his party from defeat in the ensuing presidential election.

Hoover and the regular Republican leaders presumably will try to jam through such measures as they want enacted during the short session of Congress beginning in December, while they still have Republican majorities in both houses. With the Senate coalition of Democrats and insurgents and the likelihood of filibuster, even that program will be difficult.

There is some possibility of a special session, some time after March 4, when the new Congress with all its Democratic congressmen convenes in session. Otherwise the next Congress will convene until December, 1931.

But in any event the days when the Democrats and insurgents of the 72d begin to quarrel over a 4-4 tie are a long way off for Hoover and the regulars.

Series of Yelost

If Hoover can stand the strain of a year, he will become a case of one veto after another. This Democrats will have measures of their own which Hoover dislikes, and so will the Republican progressives. Together they will pass much of the legislation.

Both Democrats and progressives have plenty of time to get to work on their own measures, and discuss their respective or joint programs, but some of the Republican progressives may not make the mistake of rushing headlong in attempts to legislate the administration, but they are sure to make no attempt to avoid creating such embarrassing situations as the one which occurred in the House, Hoover's legislative bulwark thus far is eliminated.

Hoover's appointments will receive closer scrutiny in the Senate. Fortunately for the president, most of them have been made, and he can still clean up those outstanding before his position in the Senate becomes weaker.

Trouble threatens with regard to prohibition, but it might work out either favorably or unfavorably to the administration. Restrictions on the sale of liquor in the present and next Congress are the most serious. The committee's report and Hoover's attitude toward it. If it is very unfavorable, Hoover does not make his own position quite clear. His opponents in Congress will try to force him to make it so.

Yarn Aid to House Was

Farm relief bills objectionable to the white house are expected to pass and the debutante plan and the equalization for wool again proposed, one or the other of them in any measure likely to pass in the House. It is questionable whether either scheme could be passed over Hoover's veto, but the Democratic gain in farm states and the wide dissatisfaction with the farm relief act now operating suggest the possibility.

It may be that power and the public utilities will provide a new aligned himself with the utilities as opposed to those who demand adequate regulation or government ownership. Political results, including victories of Senator-elect Costigan of Colorado, Senator Walsh in Montana, Governor Roosevelt in New York and Governor-elect Pielant in Pennsylvania, have greatly encouraged the administration forces in the House. Special attention is given the defeat of the Hoover-endorsed "Cottonseed" bill, which the House passed by a vote of 100-90. The measure preferred both by the "power trust" and Hoover.

The chances are that the Norris-McCord Spain bill will be passed by both houses and that a veto signature will be put on it.

Other legislation directed against the "trusts" also seems reasonably sure to be passed by the next Congress.

Goldman Hill has changed. Unemployment legislation, such as the senate passed this year only to see it blocked or emasculated by the administration forces in the House, will also have a beautiful change when the anti-administration forces gain control.

The Norris "Lame Duck" amendment and anti-unemployment legislation are likely to win through in both houses.

The tariff may be "up all over again." It is quite possible that the Senate measure taking the flexible power from the president and returning the full tariff-making power to Congress, which was killed off by the House, will be killed off by the House, passed by both houses, and the Democratic taxation policies will again have a chance.

Both houses are likely to be

RETIRED MOVIE FAVORITE ONCE MORE ARRESTED

House Peters Taken Into Custody on the Complaint of Neighbor; Actor Retaliates in a Vigorous Manner

REVERLY HILLAS, Calif., Nov. 15 (UPI).—House Peters, retired film favorite, is a peace-loving man, but his neighbors got his name.

So House again is in court to iron out his troubles which began more than a year ago when he was placed under $1,000 bond to keep the peace.

Peters was arrested Thursday on complaint of William H. Simon, his next-door neighbor, and the same person who is accused of the assault on the 15 months ago, charged with disturbing the peace.

Simon claims that House threw bricks at his house, tossed electric light bulbs into his garage, and otherwise made himself unneighborly.

But House denies all of this and says that he was the aspirant of police force hunter, his hunting license in "Safety Last," when he was cast as a department store clerk, and his amazing portrayal in "Welcome Dancer," where he plays one of his most appealing roles and he accomplished the seemingly impossible—exceeds the spectacular thrills of "Safety Last."

Peters will find themselves sharing with new-coming hilarity as the baddest shoe clerk dances by his toes from a painter's scaffold, 12 stories above the ground, in "Welcome Dancer," which he plays in "Feet First." The regular run of five days starts tomorrow.

"FEET FIRST" PREMIERE AT IDAHO TONIGHT

Harold Lloyd is a great actor. Not only in a social sense, but in a film creative sense as well. His latest demonstration of his quality is in "Feet First," his new picture, in which he mixes both romance and thrills.

"Feet First" reveals Harold as a clerk in a big shoe store in Honolulu. No matter what type of American character, Harold Lloyd depicts, he is always successful in injecting his genius for gags and thrills into the story. Fans will recall his wistful, but hidden smiles today, as he plays the part of "Speedy," where he was a horse-drawn driver, his peripatetic in "Grandma's
