MRS. O'LOUGHLIN FOUND GUILTY O MURDERING G

Denver Woman, Convicted on Monday Evening, Will Be Sentenced to Life Term at Hard Labor in State Pen

DENVER, Dec. 9 (UP)—Escaping death through a legal loophole, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin today faced a life term at hard labor in the Colorado penitentiary on conviction of first degree murder.

Mrs. O'Loughlin was found guilty last night of slaying her step-daughter, Leona, 10, whose battered body was found in Berkeley Park lake October 17. The child had been fed broken glass, struck on the head with a tire iron, and her body hurled into the lake, the state charged.

Shows No Emotion

The tall, red-haired woman who stood off police questioners for five days without breaking down, showed no emotion when the jury's verdict was read.

District Attorney Earl Wettengel said he was confident the jury would have voted to hang Mrs. O'Loughlin if he had been permitted to introduce statements he said she made to Captain of Detectives A. T. Clark in which she said "I did it," and "I alone am to blame."

The statements, he said, constituted a confession, which is necessary under Colorado law to sustain a verdict imposing the death penalty unless there are eye-witnesses to the crime.

There were no eye-witnesses to Leona's murder, and the confession was kept from the jury when the defense proved it was obtained under duress. Colorado law excludes confessions obtained either under duress or under promise of reward of immunity.

Two Verdicts Possible

With Mrs. O'Loughlin's confession ruled out, Judge Henley A. Calvert instructed the jury it could return one of two verdicts, [illegible] guilty with life imprisonment [illegible] the penalty [illegible] that, if he failed to get a new trial he will appeal Mrs. O'Loughlin's conviction to the state supreme court as soon as she is sentenced.

Tariff Commission Nominees Approved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—The Senate finance committee today agreed to report favorably all six of President Hoover's nominees to the tariff commission.

Four, including Chairman Henry P. Fletcher, Republican, Pennsylvania, were given unanimous support in the committee.

Two, however, received only a majority endorsement, with some committee members reserving the right to oppose them on the Senate floor. They were Alfred P. Dennis, Democrat, Maryland, and Edgar B. Brossard, Republican, Utah.

Italy Sees Sham In Soviet Trial

ROME, Dec. 9 (UP)—Suspicion here that the trial of counter-revolutionists in Moscow was insincere was increased by announcement of the commutation of sentences given the defendants.

Public interest waned during the last stages of the trial, and newspapers reduced the amount of news printed concerning it. The final events were covered by more brief announcements, although this trial was given extensive space when it began.

KILLS HER OWN SON

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 9 (UP).—Mrs. William Donahue shot and killed her 14-year-old son, Thomas, on a farm near here today because he "tantalized" her.

merican Pilot Meets Death in Airplane Crash

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 9 (UP).—Paul Baer of Fort Wayne, Indiana, an airplane pilot, his Chinese co-pilot, and a Russian, Mrs. Andrieva, were killed today when a Shanghai-Hankow passenger airplane crashed here. Four Chinese passengers were seriously injured.

The plane struck the top of a junk mast while trying to gain altitude after taking off and fell to the earth.

CABARET SINGER UNDER SUSPICION IN UTAH MURDER

Miss Jean Daylo Suspected of Helping Kill Sam Frank at Salt Lake City; Rouge-Stained Cigarette Stubs Found

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 9 (UP)—Miss Jean Dayle, young and attractive blonde cabaret singer and presumably the "open sesame" to the Sam Frank murder mystery, continued to play hide and seek with authorities today.

Law enforcement agencies in ten western and intermountain states are seeking the elusive woman who hurriedly checked out of a Salt Lake hotel shortly after Frank, a well-to-do Memphis, Tenn., auctioneer, was brutally murdered in the Newhouse hotel early Saturday morning.

Frank aged 65, was strangled and beaten to death. Everything points to a woman as a moving factor in the crime. Cigarette stubs with rouge stains, a compact and a woman's silk stocking used to tie down a telephone receiver, were found in Frank's room Saturday morning. Moreover, Martin Perel, Frank's partner and also a Memphis resident, told police he overheard an animated conversation between the elderly auctioneer and a woman in the former's room late Friday night.

Approximately $6000 in jewelry, cash and negotiable securities were stolen. The loot included a $5,000 11-carat diamond ring.

The deeper police get into the case, the more certain they are that the crime had been planned for days; that it was the work of an organized gang and that a young man and woman were implicated. The congenial and likeable southerner had struck up an acquaintance several days before with a blond woman and a young man. The trio were seen together often in the hotel lobby and restaurant.

It was this couple, police believe, that first obtained Frank's confidence and then robbed and murdered him.

Evidence indicates the crime was committed as follows:

Frank met and invited his blonde friend to his room for a drink. The woman dropped a vial of "knockout drops" into the auctioneer's glass. He keeled over, unconscious. The woman admitted a male accomplice and the pair were in the act of looting Frank's effects when the elderly man revived and started to resist. Whereupon one of the bandits struck him over the head with a beer bottle.

Although the search has spread throughout the west, police are convinced the woman is hiding in Salt Lake.

Death Ends Long Career of Beloved Coast Astronomer

SANTA CLARA, Cal., Dec. 9 (UP)—A life devoted to promotion of science and advancement of humanity was ended here last night with the death of Father Jerome Sixtus Ricard.

Father Ricard died at 9:10 p. m. in the University of Santa Clara infirmary, only a short distance from the observatory in which he carried on his valuable work for 47 years. He was nearing the end of his eighty-first year.

Affectionately called "Padre of the Rains," Father Ricard had completed his life work personally satisfied by development of his theory that weather conditions for an entire season could be forecast through study of sun spots.

He was an eminent seismologist and an authority on meteorology, as well as a distinguished astronomer.

Father Ricard had accepted modestly praise and honors from many countries that established him as one of the world's foremost scientists.

For more than a year Father Ricard has used all his strength to combat ill health, caused by a weakened heart. He had refused to stay in bed and only last Saturday went for a short walk around the campus. To the last he directed assistants in preparations of weather reports.

The end came more quickly than had been expected, although last sacrament of the Catholic church had been administered to him Sunday night.

Neither of his physicians, Dr. Frederick Gerlach or Dr. Louis Rose, was present when he fell into a quiet sleep and passed away.

A daily weather forecast was prepared by Father Ricard for Santa Clara county for many years.

FIVE BUILDINGS WRECKED AS GAS MAIN EXPLODES

Five store buildings were wrecked and burned when a gas main underneath the main business street of Beloit, Wisconsin, blew up, shaking the city. This picture shows firemen fighting to get the blaze under control. Damage estimated at $500,000 was caused.

LEWIS SAYS HE IS NOT WORTHY OF NOBEL PRIZE

"It's All a Big Mistake," Insists American Author As Time Nears for Bestowing Award by Sweden's King

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Dec. 9 (UP).—Because he lacks a long, gray beard and an intelligent face, and does not command a refined vocabulary, Sinclair Lewis does not believe that he is really suited for the Nobel prize for literature.

"I'll tell the king it's a big mistake," Lewis said when asked what he intended to say when King Gustave of Sweden presents the prize to him at Stockholm.

The correspondent rowed out to the steamer Drottningholm, off Vinga Island at 8 o'clock this morning and found Lewis in the lounge. He asked the correspondent to have a highball, and began a conversation which Lewis interspersed occasionally with some of his newly acquired Swedish phrases.

Lewis said that the award of the Nobel prize was the greatest joy of his life, but that it had changed his wife's ideas of the bestowal of prizes generally.

"My wife believed that only distinguished persons received Nobel prizes," he said. "But when a prize was awarded to me, she suddenly rejected her theory."

Lewis then recounted his lack of qualifications for joining the distinguished list of Nobel prize holders, including beard, face, and vocabulary. "I am just a plain reporter," he said.

He said that he had studied Swedish aboard ship like a college sophomore.

The conversation turned to Babbits, which Lewis said, not only inhabited the American continent but France, Germany and other countries. "Perhaps there are some in Sweden," Lewis said.

When the correspondent asked who might be suited for the Nobel literature prize if he did not meet the ideal qualifications, Lewis replied:

"Theodore Dreiser, Eugene O'Neill or Thornton Wilder of America, John Galsworthy, James Joyce, or Arnold Bennett of Britain, but by no means myself."

Charity Workers Ask for Supplies

With more than 100 families assisted since the opening of the distributing depot last week, the Associated Charities' supply of donations is about depleted; and extra supplies are needed immediately. The following statement is therefore issued:

"The Associated Charities is issuing a call for food, clothing and bedding at once. Almost everyone has something to give to help those less fortunate. Now that cold weather is here, the need of relief is greater. Take all donations to the basement room beneath DeWitt's office in the Perrine hotel building. If it is impossible for you to bring your contributions, communicate by telephone with the Associated Charities headquarters, and Boy Scouts will be happy to call for whatever you have to give.

BORAH SAYS ENGLAND AND FRANCE HELPED START WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP)—Debate over responsibility for bringing on the world war, in which Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee said France and Great Britain must share blame for the conflict, caused a flurry of excitement in the Senate today in the midst of discussion of drought relief measures.

Aviatrix Hops Off On Flight to East

BURBANK, Cal., Dec. 9 (UP)—Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., flyer took off from the United airport here at 7 a. m. P. S. T., today in an attempted one-stop speed flight to New York.

Miss Nichols' Lockheed monoplane, the New Cincinnati, was equipped with tanks to hold 400 gallons of gasoline—sufficient to carry it to Wichita, Kansas, where she plans to make her only stop on the 2446 mile hop.

STATES WAR OVER STREAM'S WATER

Colorado River Still Is Bone of Contention At Meeting Held in Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 9 (UP).—When next the upper Colorado basin states convene there will be some disagreement and several suggestions for amendments to the upper river allocation plan as proposed by Delph Carpenter, Colorado's member of the Colorado river commission.

This is evident from expressions at meetings at the Utah-Colorado commission and will be apparent tomorrow morning at another session.

Under the Carpenter plan each upper basin state has a preferential right to the waters of Colorado river or its tributaries, which originate in that state.

Such a plan is satisfactory insofar as western state tributaries are concerned; but it's a different story in the east where the Dead Men's bench area must be irrigated from the White or Dolores rivers. Likewise New Mexico would not be content under such an arrangement because the San Juan river which is used for irrigation originates in Colorado.

These questions and others were discussed at length at a meeting of the commission Monday with Gov. George H. Dern.

HOOVER OPPOSES ANY INCREASE IN FUND FOR RELIEF

Prosperity Cannot Be Restored by Raids on Public Treasury Says Chief Executive in Statement Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—President Hoover today vigorously denounced proposals made in congress to increase the amount of appropriations he had proposed for unemployment relief.

The executive charged that certain senators and representatives are "playing politics at the expense of human misery."

"Prosperity cannot be restored by raids on the public treasury," he declared, reading a statement to the press. "The American people will not be misled by such tactics."

BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—The administration's $110,000,000 unemployment relief bill was approved formally by the House appropriations committee today and a favorable report was ordered when the House met at noon. Consideration was to begin shortly after the House convened.

The committee made one change in the measure, moving the date under which the funds provided may be spent from July 1 to September 1, 1931.

McNary Resolution Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—The Senate today passed without a record vote the McNary resolution to authorize appropriation of $60,000,000 for drought relief. President Hoover opposed the appropriation, insisting $25,000,000 would be ample.

Newspapers of France Ridicule Russian Trial

PARIS, Dec. 9 (UP)—Commutation of the sentences in the Moscow treason trial was labelled as a farce, intended to further the interests of the Soviet government at home, by many Paris newspapers today.

Le Matin suggested that the five professors saved from death, and their three comrades whose prison terms were cut in half, would be liberated soon and would cooperate with the Soviet secret police.

"This clemency was foreseen since the beginning of the fantastic trial," Le Matin said. "The condemned men were puppets enabling the Soviets to propagate the legend that capitalistic states are plotting against Moscow."

MOSCOW, Dec. 9 (UP)—The commutation of sentences in the counter-revolutionary trial was explained today by the Soviet press as a manifestation of Soviet economic and political self-confidence. It remained difficult to judge how the millions who had clamored for "the heads of the traitors" would receive the news of the commutations.

First indications were that the masses would greet the granting of mercy to five prominent professors sentenced to death—and three of their comrades given 10-year prison terms—with general satisfaction.

DOAK ASSUMES HIS DUTIES IN HOOVER CABINET

Former Railroad Man Takes Oath of Office, Succeeding James J. Davis, Now Senator from the Quaker State

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—William N. Doak was sworn in today as secretary of labor, succeeding James J. Davis, newly elected senator from Pennsylvania.

Doak's appointment was confirmed yesterday by the Senate.

Compared with the large crowd which assembled at the labor department to see Doak go through a "rehearsal" of his inauguration last week, only a handful of department officials saw him take the oath today. Assistant Labor Secretaries Carl White and W. W. Husband were present, together with a few departmental clerks. Doak later attended his first cabinet meeting.

Doak becomes the third labor secretary in American history. William B. Wilson, a Pennsylvania Democrat, was the first. He was succeeded in 1921 by Davis, who served for nearly 10 years under three presidents.

Gas Fumes Send 20 To Hospital

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 9 (UP).—Twenty persons were taken to Charity hospital after they were overcome by gas fumes from a broken ice machine in the Chandler & Rudd Grocery and Restaurant here today.

The fumes swept up from the basement to the first and second floors where 100 patrons, mostly women, were dining, producing a near panic. Others were believed affected as police and firemen rushed emergency equipment to the scene.

NAMED COMMISSIONER

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 9 (UP)—E. A. McCrady, Seattle, today was appointed tax commissioner of the Northern Pacific Railway, D. F. Lyons, general counsel, announced. McCrary has served as assistant tax commissioner at Seattle since June, 1926.

Downey Bandits Draw Sentences

POCATELLO, Dec. 9 (UP).—Four young men who looted five stores in Downey, Idaho, after first tying up Night Marshal Dan Ware were each sentenced to not less than five and not more than 15 years in the penitentiary Monday.

The defendants were Harry Edwards, 27, Alias Michael Taylor; Henry Taylor, 25; Robert Marbury, 21, alias Bert Hanni, and Rollen Harkwy, 19.

The bandit quartet is also suspected of being implicated in recent robberies at American Falls.

CRILE'S CLAIMS STIR SCIENTISTS

Doubt Is Expressed That Cleveland Man Has Been Able to Generate Life In His Tests

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—The age old search for a definition of life will be renewed here later this month by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, with the study of artificially generated things that creep and reproduce their kind.

The "biona" were produced in the test tubes of Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland. In three particulars—ability to move, breed and reproduce—they answer the requirements of living things. But the line at the lower edge of the living world is so indistinct that there is bound to be lively discussion of whether or not Dr. Crile's creatures can be said really to be alive.

It is stated that Dr. Crile's "biona" shows the simplest form of reproduction. But division into two units, each of which takes up an independent entity, is something that bits of the more complicated colloids go through, even without being alive. Other non-living colloids have been given the semblance of motion by immersion in salt solutions.

Carnera Does Not Not Want to Be a Citizen of France

PARIS, Dec. 9 (UP).—Primo Carnera has decided that he does not want to be a French citizen.

Carnera, now visiting his native Italy after a tour of United States prizes rings and an encounter with Paolino Uzcudun at Barcelona, petitioned the French government to annul his naturalization today.

He will thus avoid a period of duty in the French army to have begun in June. The government twice has notified Carnera when and where to report for his uniform, and he will be subject to arrest in French territory unless he does so, or the government agrees to let him remain an Italian.

FARM FEDERATION PRESENTS AWARDS TO THREE PEOPLE

One Woman and Two Men Are Honored With Distinguished Service Trophy; All Are Outstanding in Their Field

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 9 (UP).—Agriculture's highest honor, the American Farm Bureau Federation's distinguished service award, was bestowed today on three midwest farm co-operative workers, one woman and two men, at the twelfth annual national convention of the federation.

Chosen from among hundreds of men and women in 21 states, the three persons who received the award are Dudley H. Myers of Mendon, Ill., Professor L. H. Hacker of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Albia, Ia., the first woman ever to be so honored.

Summary of Work

A brief summary of the work for which each was given the award follows:

Professor Hacker: Founder of the co-operative dairy system in Minnesota, conducted research in livestock and co-operative marketing, organized the farm creamery system which has resulted in Land O'Lakes, Inc., which has 400 member creameries.

Myers: President of the Adams county (Illinois) Farm Bureau United for 14 years, founded a county livestock shipping association which became the model for national expansion of co-operative livestock marketing, dean of farm bureau presidents in Illinois, operates a 300-acre farm, has a family of five children.

Pioneer Worker

Mrs. Richardson: Mother of two sons, state home and community chairman of the Iowa Farm Bureau, pioneer worker in organization of farm women, leader in parent-teacher association, women's clubs and state health department work.

"We are glad to be able for the first time to [illegible]," Sam Thompson, president of the federation, in announcing the awards, "especially to a woman who has served agriculture in such a distinguished manner."

The distinguished service award was inaugurated in 1928 and in the last two years was awarded to men.

MONTANA WEATHER

EDISON DEFENDS PROHIBITION LAW

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 9 (UP)—Thomas A. Edison has admitted that he recently said Senator Dwight W. Morrow "did not know what he was talking about" when he came out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The statement was attributed to Edison by Dr. James K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league in New Jersey, in an address at the Knox Presbyterian church, Kearney, Sunday night.

Dr. Shields quoted the inventor as saying:

"Morrow knows nothing about the business and industrial world. He has been cooped up in an office away from the working man and when he comes out for repeal he doesn't know what he's talking about."

When the Shields quotation was called to his attention last night Edison said:

"What Dr. Shields says is substantially correct. Prohibition is eternally correct. If the eighteenth amendment is lost, the people will battle for it."

Desert Train Takes Party Toward Land of Skeleton

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., Dec. 9 (UP).—A tiny engine toiled through a great sandy desert in southern Sonora today, carrying a band of American scientists on an expedition that may reveal the existence of a prehistoric race of giants.

The expedition, led by Dean Byron H. Cummings of the University of Arizona archaeology staff, was due late today at the little settlement of Tonichi, last railway point on the journey to where the excavations will start.

The party left Hermosillo, capital of the Mexican state, early today after a conference with Gov. Francisco Elias at which the importance of the expedition was outlined by Dr. Cummings. Three giant skeletons already have been discovered in a wild section of Sonora, south of Soyopa, the governor was told, and there are prospects that many more will be found.

STANFORD STAR WINS BERTH ON MYTHICAL TEAM

Phil Moffatt, Cardinal Backfield Ace, Only Far Westerner to Be Named on United Press 1930 All-America

Here's the United Press' All-America:

Center—Ben Ticknor, Harvard.

Right guard—Pete Wisniewski, Fordham.

Quarterback—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame (captain).

Right half—Schwartz, Notre Dame.

Fullback — Len, Macaluso, Colgate.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (UP).—The All-America football team for 1930, selected by the United Press sports staff in collaboration with leading coaches in every section of the country, was announced Monday.

The first team gives honors to players from east, midwest, south and far west. These choices were not of arbitrary design, but evolved out of a careful consideration of the claims put forward by football experts who have watched the players in their season of strenuous play.

It seems fitting at the outset of the All-America announcement to explain that while the choices were made honestly and after a great deal of study, the United Press attaches no great significance to any choice. After all, it is at best a guess, for it is impossible for any football reporter or coach to see every player in every game, or even to see every player in as many as two games of a given season.

The United Press acknowledges with thanks the valuable assistance given by football coaches in making these selections. Since some of the coaches wished to be anonymous, all of them will remain so. It was interesting to observe how many players of rival teams were selected by the coaches.

The easiest choice to make was that of Frank Carideo whose individual brilliance was an important contributing factor to the successful season enjoyed by Notre Dame. He was a unanimous choice of all United Press reporters and was nominated by nearly every one of the dozens of coaches who made All-America selections. Carideo's ability to select the correct plays, his kicking and defensive work were some of the contributing factors of his success. Carideo was named captain of this mythical team.

Len Macaluso of Colgate was chosen as fullback. This was a good season for fullbacks. There was Russell of Northwestern for one, and Kitzmiller of Oregon State for another. But Macaluso, the leading point-maker of the nation, seemed to have a margin over his rivals. He was a standout player on an excellent team.

One of Carideo's mates and chief ball-carrier, was placed at left halfback. He is Marchmont Schwartz, whose running ability was equalled only by his passing and defensive work.

The other halfback post was won by Phil Moffatt of Stanford. Many a far coast observer believes Moffatt to be one of the greatest backs of all time. He was especially brilliant in the Southern California game.

The contest for center was a close one. The honor went to Ben Ticknor of Harvard, who besides being a steady, heady player, was a real leader. The other great centers of the year were Siano of Fordham, and Hein of Washington State. Ticknor and Carideo were the only members of the United Press team of 1929 to be chosen again.

Another almost unanimous choice was that of Wesley Fesler of Ohio State as an end. He followed a series of fine performances made in 1929 with another season of sound play. He is held to be the best end the western conference has ever seen. A wizard on defense, he is also a great catcher and thrower of passes, an exceptional punter and a real field general.

The other end position was awarded to Frank Baker of Northwestern, another western conference brilliant who was a good player in all phases of his position and was a surprisingly successful receiver of passes.

Tackle honors were won by Fred Sington of Alabama and Milo Lubratovich of Wisconsin, each of whom was an outstanding player throughout the season. Sington was nominated by many coaches, especially by those against whose teams he played. Lubratovich was held to be the best Big Ten conference lineman, exclusive of the ends, this season.

Bert Metzger of Notre Dame, who was an easy selection for a guard place, was, perhaps, the best lineman of the nation in 1930. He was never outplayed, never forced to take time out, and it was he, as much as Carideo, Schwartz, or Marty Brill who made the long Notre Dame runs possible. At the other guard is the six-foot-seven giant "Pistol Pete" Winiewski of Fordham. He seemed able to crush two opponents together or to fling them yards apart. His flail-like arms drove many an opponent into turf, mud, or dust.

FRANK CARIDEO DECLARED BEST PLAYER OF YEAR

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9 (UP).—Some vivid memories and personal opinions of the football season after witnessing the games played in three sections of the country—east, middlewest and far west.

Greatest all-around player: Frank Carideo, Notre Dame.

Best running back: Marchy Schwartz, Notre Dame, who was never stopped by any team.

Best blocking back: Marty Brill, Notre Dame.

Hardest hitting back: Jack Manders, Minnesota giant.

Greatest all-around lineman: Bert Metzger, 153-pound Notre Dame guard, who was never outplayed and whose remarkable blocking made many a long run possible.

Best passers: Harry Newman, Michigan, and Pug Retner, Northwestern.

Best pass catcher: Frank Baker, Northwestern, and Tom Conley, Notre Dame.

Most spectacular lineman: Reb Woodworth, Northwestern guard, who played his position like an end.

Biggest mystery of the season: Why Northwestern, Carnegie Tech and Southern California all fumbled at crucial moments against Notre Dame.

Most thrilling play: Marshall Duffield, Southern California quarterback, retrieving a bad pass from center just before the ball went out of bounds and kicking over Notre Dame's goal-line while standing almost in the arms of two Notre Dame players.

Best single exhibition of punting: Carideo kicking out of bounds three times in a row inside Northwestern's 3-yard line.

Most surprising play: Dutch Eyth, Carnegie Tech halfback, getting through the Notre Dame line and running 70 yards for a touchdown without a Notre Dame man putting a finger on him.

Most under-rated player: Alvin Culver, big Notre Dame tackle, who was always bobbing up with a great play at a critical moment like recovering a fumble on his own 1-yard line against Northwestern and another in the Southern California game which led to Notre Dame's first touchdown.

LEAGUE BASEBALL MAGNATES MEET

Players Draft Is One of Biggest Problems to Be Tackled at Meeting in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (UP).—The new year isn't quite with us yet but the major league baseball season of 1932 started today when the "hot air" phase of the campaign was reached.

Officers of the National and American leagues were in town. So were heads of minor circuits and club owners of teams the country over.

The National and American leagues will hold separate sessions today and tomorrow. On Thursday Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis will call the clans for their joint session.

The real developments of the annual baseball gathering occur outside the convention halls. The meetings are important for it is in them that the official word is passed. But they are only incidental to the "jiggling" and "re-jiggling" done in smoke-filled hotel corridors, lobbies and coffee rooms.

No matter where they are done, three main objectives lie in the paths of the magnates:

1. Something about the draft.
2. As to the home run menace.
3. Player sales and trades.

The first is the most important. The bickering over the draft has been going on for years, but baseball men believe that a definite settlement will be effected within the next couple of days.

While there has been no official announcement of such a meeting and although John A. Heydler, National League president, yesterday said there would be none, it was believed that the minor leagues draft committee and major league representatives would hold a joint session before Thursday.

Most of the objection to the present draft law is voiced by the three leading minor leagues, the International, American association and Pacific Coast.

Nibs Steps Down

The intercollegiate football rumpus on the Pacific coast involving California and Stanford on one side and Southern California on the other finally resulted in the resignation of Clarence M. (Nibs) Price, above, California's head football coach. Price declared his resignation due to dissension in the university following the most disastrous football season since he took over the coaching reins in 1926 at the death of Andy Smith.

MELROSE, Mass., (UP)—The value of the telephone as a political campaign medium was demonstrated by Mrs. Mary Livermore Barrows at the recent state election. IRISHMEN WILL BE WELCOMED

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (UP)—"Irish Day," proclaimed in honor of the 1930 Notre Dame football team, will be observed in Chicago tomorrow when the Notre Dame team returns from California, en route to South Bend, Ind.

The team will arrive at 9:30 a. m. and will be met by Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board of commissioners and representatives of the Chicago Notre Dame club. Frank Fitzsimmons, president of the Notre Dame club, has been authorized by Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame University, to extend the first official greeting to Coach Rockne and his team.

Following the welcoming ceremonies, the squad will be escorted on a parade of the loop district, after which it will entrain at 10:35 a. m. for South Bend, where further celebrations are planned.

"Shono" Comes Back

The announcement that John "Shono" Collins will manage the Boston Red Sox next year brings back to memory a scene 10 years old. In a hotel lobby at Hot Springs, Arkansas; where some of the ball players were getting into early spring condition.

It was the same year wild-eyed correspondents sent out the story from Hot Springs that Colonel Til Huston had signed Babe Ruth to a contract that provided for payment of $500 for every home run the Babe socked.

Shono was leaning on the porter's desk looking out over the lobby where Everett Scott, Babe Ruth, Al Devormer and a couple of others were deeply engaged in a game of hearts. Kibitzers stood around the table where the players were performing.

Strange Sounds

A tourist sat reading a newspaper about 12 feet from the spot where Shono was standing. At the side of his chair was a huge brass cuspidor. Now and then the tourist turned to look at the cuspidor. Strange sounds came from the brass fixture.

"Ding, ding, ding," was the sound, as though tiny pieces of metal were falling from the ceiling.

There would be a pause, the stranger would turn back to his paper and the sounds, with the regularity of a little bell tinkling, would start again. The stranger began to get nervous.

Hello! What's This!

Suddenly something invisible struck the man on the back of his neck. He brushed at it with his hand, looked long and carefully at the ceiling, moved his chair and again took up his paper.

Then the invisible objects dropped upon his hat. He took off his hat and looked at it. He gazed intently around the floor near where he had been sitting. Suddenly he stooped and picked something up. It was a tiny round black piece of metal.

Meanwhile, the stranger's plight had attracted attention. The kibitzers left the card game and became solicitous for the man's welfare. They joined him in his search around the floor and discovered scores of the tiny black bits of metal.

The Babe Knows

Pretty soon the Babe looked up from the card game. He saw the commotion and knew at once what it was all about.

"That guy Shono Collins is sharpshooting again," was the Great Man's remark.

Do you remember away back in those school days when one of the favorite pranks was to get a mouthful of BB shot and shoot them out from between your teeth?

NAVY IN SHAPE FOR ARMY GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 9 (UP)—Down alongside the Severn the boys of the Naval Academy were getting ready today to play Army's football team at Yankee stadium in New York Saturday.

Although the sailors played Pennsylvania Saturday and deserved a day of rest on Monday, Coach Bill Ingram had the squad out on Farragut field yesterday and put the boys through a smart drill. They came through the Pennsylvania game without injuries.

Ingram had been a trifle afraid of calling the regulars out of the field house, for Bill had feared too many of them would come out limping.

Reports that "Bullet Lou" Kirn, the best ball-carrier on the Navy squad was suffering from a broken toe are erroneous.

The Pennsylvania game, instead of proving a handicap to the Navy proved just the tonic needed to put the Middies in shape. They realize Army's strength but they believe they have the stuff to match it—and more.

LAST NIGHT FIGHT RESULTS

CHICAGO, Dec. 9, (UP).—Edgar Norman, 171, Norway, defeated Charlie Arthurs, 169½, Kansas City (8); Johnny Freeman, 180, Buffalo, N. Y., outpointed Nisse Raam, 187½, Sweden (8); Dave Keller, 126¼, Los Angeles, beat Harry Brown, 126, Cuba (6); Charlie Cracker, 133, Duluth, Minn., drew Jackie Davis, 131, Springfield, Ill., (6); Steve Hoss, 154½, Chicago, defeated Chief Elkart, 158¼, Chicago (6); and Carol Ogden, 167½, Chicago, beat John Worden, 164¼, Elgin, Il., (4).

At New York—Harry Ebbets, 172, Freeport, L. I., won by a knockout in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout with Billy Franklin, 160½, New York.

At Philadelphia—Benny Bass won a decisive 10-round victory over Johnny Jadick in the main event at the Arena here last night before a capacity crowd of 10,000 fans. Bass weighed 129 pounds and Jadick 132. Both are Philadelphians.

DRY ADVOCATES HOLD MEETING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP).—Leaders representing practically the entire organized dry movement in America met here Monday to consider proposal for a national prohibition referendum. Anti-prohibition leaders also were in session here.

The anti-saloon group with the support of other dry organizations, was leading the fight against endorsement of any referendum proposal. Belief of many present was that the drys would solidly oppose any such plebiscite. Seventy-five leaders of various dry organizations were present.

Representatives of various bar associations, editorial and business men's groups were among those present at the anti-prohibition convention called by the federal dispensary tax reduction league. Rice Hope, Washington attorney, opened the convention with an address pointing out that the purpose of the meeting is to afford all delegates the opportunity to present suggestions as practical substitutes for prohibition.

Charles W. Barr, former president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, presided as temporary chairman of the anti-prohibition group. The federal dispensary league, organized in 1923 by Dr. F. W. Buck, in the past has advocated amendment of the eighteenth amendment in such manner as to enable congress to adopt a state system of liquor control.

WILL THEY SUCCEED NICK AND ALICE?

Nicholas and Alice Roosevelt Longworth will be succeeded in their present high places in official Washington by this couple, if the Democrats succeed in organizing the new Congress next year. WOMEN'S RIGHTS ARE CONSIDERED

JEROME, December 9 (Special)—The Business and Professional Women's club of Jerome met for their monthly meeting at the Civic club Wednesday evening. About 18 members were present and five new members were taken in. Judge Barclay was the principal speaker of the evening and gave a very interesting talk to the club members on "Property Rights of Women."

Election of new officers by the Jerome Order of Eastern Star resulted in Becky Abramson, being the new worthy matron, members announced Wednesday. The election took place at their regular Tuesday meeting. Seven other officers were chosen. H. E. Harry gained the honor of worthy patron, and S. L. Sullivan was elected associate patron. Hazel Wheatcroft was voted associate matron. Lena Snodgrass was chosen secretary and Gertrude Nims, treasurer. Bertha Sullivan was elected conductress and Mrs. H. E. Harry chosen associate conductress. Formal installation of the new officers has not been scheduled, but it is believed joint ceremonies will be held with the Jerome Masons at the time of their installation of new members.

CONGRESS TEARS INTO VITAL WORK

Rep. Byrns Pledges Democratic Aid in Rushing Relief Bill Through the Lower House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP)—The House legislative machinery was in high gear today as Republican leaders rushed consideration of the administration's $110,000,000 measure for unemployment relief.

The emergency bill providing funds for immediate work on rivers and harbor projects and highways was reported favorably by the appropriations committee and was taken up at once by the House with debate limited to two hours.

Democratic support for the measure was announced by Rep. Byrns, Tenn. Byrns criticized President Hoover for delaying meeting the unemployment problem, but said his party would help rush the bill through now.

Consideration of the $60,000,000 drought relief bill was delayed in the senate by an argument over responsibility for the world war. Senator Reed, Repn., Penn., taking cognizance of recent reports that a readjustment of war debts might be sought said he had no sympathy with Germany's plea of poverty. Germany, he asserted, brought the war on herself and must meet the costs.

Reed's remarks brought an immediate rejoinder from Senator Borah, Repn., Idaho, who declared that France and Germany must share responsibility for the war.

While the drought measure was waiting on the Senate calendar, President Hoover in a press conference denounced efforts to increase the sums he asked for relief. He had asked $25,000,000 for drought, but the Senate agricultural committee increased the amount to $60,000,000.

LUMBER OFFICIAL ASSAILS SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

Unsatisfactory Condition of Timber Industry Due to Unfavorable Legislation, Says W. B. Greeley at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 9 (UP).—The lumber industry's present unsatisfactory condition is due in part to the throttling effect of the Sherman anti-trust law, W. B. Greeley, manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, Seattle, said at today's session of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Greeley reviewed efforts of lumber leaders of the Pacific northwest to solve their problems of supply and demand and price.

"It is my judgment that to enable the natural resource industries to exercise the self-government necessary in their own and the public's interest, there must be some clarification or liberalization of present statutes dealing with restraint of trade," said Greeley.

"The anti-trust laws are predicated on the theory that public interest demands solely the most wide-open and unrestricted competition between producers of the same commodity. That theory is wholly inadequate to meet present day economic and social needs of the United States."

Greeley pointed out that unemployment in the basic industry of the northwest not only affects thousands of workers but reaches far in losses suffered by communities and by many dependent on related industries. He added that extended periods of over-production mean waste of millions of feet of low grade logs and lumber which can be utilized under stable conditions and "which should be conserved as part of the basic raw material of the country."

Other speakers on today's program included Gov. H. C. Baldridge of Idaho; Robert N. Bell, former state mining inspector, Boise; Wallace M. Alexander, chairman of the board of Alexander & Baldwin, Ltd., steamship operators, San Francisco, and Hugo Winkenwerder, dean of forestry of Washington.

The sessions will close late today with the report of the committee on resolutions and time and place of the next meeting. Spokane or Sacramento is the most likely choice for the meeting place.

IF SANTA CLAUS FORGETS

LITTLE boys are pressing their freckled faces against the plate glass windows where trains go round and round the silver tracks, and little girls are holding out their arms to dolls that smile back understandingly. The magic season is here again.

All over the country children are measuring their stockings so they will be sure to hang the longest ones by the bedposts where Santa Claus can find them. And there isn't one heart that doubts that the benevolent old saint will cilmb down his chimney or use a pass-key on his door. Perhaps he didn't come last year, they understand. But that is all the more reason that he will be there this year.

Letters are going to the North Pole every day, and switchboard operators are telling countless children that the shining workshop where the master toymaker lives is too far to be reached by the longest long distance.

But when Christmas morning comes thousands of these same starry-eyed little boys and girls will find that their stockings are cold and flat, unless the rest of us understand how disappointed a little child can be when he is left out of the Christmas feast.

We accuse the innkeeper who would not make room for Mary the night that the Christ child was born. But we who wound a little child by making him think that he has been forgotten break trust with life just as surely.

It takes such a little bit to make a child happy. There are enough toys which aren't being used in our homes to make every child in the country wake up on the magic morning with a feeling in his heart that life is good and Santa Claus still comes.

Grown people have had experience enough to understand the reasons underlying things when their dreams don't come true. Children can't do this. They only know that Santa Claus has stood on the corner and in the toy shops, asked them what they wanted him to bring .... and then forgotten them. They are puzzled, and their bruised hearts don't know how to understand a giver who can be so generous to some children and so thoughtless of others.

If we would keep alive the children's belief that life is good and dreams come true, we must not fail them. They won't talk about the gifts that they didn't get, these boys and girls who are going around the streets with such shining eyes today. But they will have a dull pain in their hearts if Santa Claus breaks trust with them. And nothing in all the world is so pathetic as a child who was left out.

ADVICE TO THE JOBLESS

WHEN a man cannot get work in his own town, his first impulse usually is to go on to some other city in the hope that conditions will be better there. When any business depression is purely local in character, this is a good thing; but J. Rogers Flannery of Pittsburgh, president of the National Association of Travelers' Aid Societies, points out that conditions now are so nearly alike everywhere that the roving unemployed worker simply makes things worse for himself and for others.

"Men or women out of work," says Mr. Flannery, "need all of the resources that come from friendship and residence that are not available to the drifters into strange communities, each of which is concerned with the problem of its own people. The kindest advice that can be given to men and women out of work today is to remain, if possible, in their own communities—to stay in their own homes."

RAISING THE POSTAL RATES

IT IS to be hoped that Congress will do some extensive investigating before agreeing to the proposal that the postage rate on first-class mail—ordinary letters—be increased.

It may be perfectly true, as the postmaster general asserts, that to increase the rates on other classifications will simply drive business from the government to the hands of private carriers. Nevertheless, the first-class rate should not be raised except as a last resort. Two cents is an ample price, and first-class mail pays its own way.

Perhaps it would be more to the point to begin by ending all franking privileges. There will be time enough to talk of raising the first-class rate after this petty form of something-for-nothing has been abolished.

A WORTHY MONUMENT

IN THE death of M. S. Hoover, owner and manager of Gregg Business College, Twin Falls has lost a business man whose institution has been an important community factor. It has drawn hundreds of students to this city; it has trained them for work in the business world and provided not only opportunity to the youth of this section but a convenient source from which to secure competent employees.

Gregg Business College is a worthy monument to M. S. Hoover, and was but the lengthened shadow of the man.

The Travel Man said, "Please take note that while we're riding on this boat a wondrous scene is left behind. Gibraltar towers up high. Just gaze and you can plainly see how very sturdy it must be. Sometimes it seems to break right through the clouds up in the sky."

Then Scouty said, "I'd like to take a picture. What a view 'twould make. But we can buy a postcard to remember that scene by. Let's scamper way up to the bow. I think we're nearing Algiers now. I hate to leave old Spain behind." And then he heaved a sigh.

"Me, too," cried Clowny. "We had fun, when everything is said and done, at every place we visited. Some day we may return. But now, let's think of what's ahead and get our thrills from that instead. What's going to happen in Algiers is now my main concern."

Real soon the tug began to rock. It slowed up as it reached the dock. Queer people stood along the shore and eyed the Tinymites. Said Coppy, "Look at all their clothes. They're mighty funny, goodness knows. I guess that while we're here we'll see some interesting sights."

"You're right," the Travel Man replied. "Come on and jump up o'er the side of this small boat. When we're ashore we'll start to look around." The tug now was tied good and tight. The whole bunch jumped to land all right, and promptly started out to see what new things could be found.

They walked a while, then turned into a narrow street and sauntered through. It really was the smallest street that they had ever seen. It twisted here and twisted there and all the Tinies wondered where 'twould finally lead the whole bunch to. Their interest now was keen.

What Others Say

The President's Message
(Salt Lake Tribune)

Notwithstanding the fact that President Hoover, in his message to congress, stressed our economic difficulties as the most pressing problem before the country, the executive review was disappointing to that part of the citizenship which was expecting inspirational encouragement. The presidential message was attended by caution and reserve, which in some quarters is likely to be interpreted as a failure to appreciate the full significance of the public position in this emergency.

The message, however, is not without wholesome philosophy, pertaining to the emergency, citing the individual and public responsibility for the restoration of normalcy. It likewise offers a cold and calculating analysis of the causes of economic disturbances. These things, however, are not wholly satisfying to those directly affected by unemployment, who looked for something more hopeful than dependency upon the rehabilitation of private initiative.

This thought is not unmindful of the public effort that is projected to provide emergency employment, but it cannot escape the fact that immediate relief, rather than promise of eventual security, is the desire of the unemployed. It must likewise appear that the presidential estimate of the number of unemployed, based on the census figures, will be seriously questioned. This, of course, reflects the national need of machinery which will provide quick and accurate employment statistics, since it must appear that figures gathered last summer are not truly reflective of conditions this winter. This and other sharp departures from the message will find reflection in the bills introduced in congress, because it is already apparent that a flood of unemployment bills, some good and some bad, are being made ready for the legislative hoppers.

While President Hoover seems to have made some effort to exclude domestic issues of a highly controversial nature from his message, the mere inclusion of the world court in the program for this session is likely to deprive him of the credit which should have come of this endeavor. The world court still is a highly controversial subject and one which will precipitate extensive debate at a time when the public mind is on something else.

In the west, at least, a sharp contrast will be drawn between the presidential estimate of mineral production for the year and the conditions actually existing. His figures, indicating 80 per cent of 1928 production, may be accurate, but western production, at least, indicate they are highly optimistic. Silver, which appears to be one of the vital factors in world disturbance, receives only passing attention from the president. It is referred to along with other commodities, and while its decline is regretted, its full significance is not pressed, if western sentiment is a fair barometer.

The president's message, finally, must appear as an ultra conservative document. It diagnoses our ills in some measure and expresses hope for complete recovery, but it fails to provide immediate comfort or inspiration for the patient.

The Village of Hansen in Court
(Pocatello Tribune)

An amusing case has occupied the attention of the district court at Twin Falls during the past week and while trivial, it is not without general interest. The village of Hansen, presumably a quiet farm community, has an ordinance forbidding the shooting of firecrackers within its limits.

A few days before July 4th last Tom Galley, a twenty-two-year-old village youth, in preparatory experiments for the celebration of the national holiday, set off a number of firecrackers in violation of the ordinance. Arrested and hauled before the village justice of peace, he was sentenced to five days in jail and to pay a fine of $7.50. He refused to pay, was incarcerated in the city jail and then finally did pay, accumulated costs and expenses by that time bringing the bill up to $14.50.

Again at large Galley brought suit against the justice, his bondsmen and the village trustees. He alleged the invalidity of the village ordinance and asked $5000 damages for mental suffering and injury to his reputation because of his arrest and incarceration; for $14.50 fine and costs paid and for attorney's fees. The case was tried before a jury, after Judge Babcock had eliminated the village trustees as defendants on the theory that a municipality is not liable for tort by its agents. A precedent for justices to keep in mind.

A further credit entry that must be made in connection with the case is the evidence introduced by the defense, tending to show that arrest and jail term could not have damaged Galley's reputation in his own community. The jury was apparently convinced of this fact and in a verdict denying Galley either compensation or actual damages and thus by inference sustaining the validity of the Hansen village ordinance against the shooting of firecrackers.

We would be interested in knowing just how much it cost Twin Falls county to settle these questions.

Idaho Evening Times:

It is not right for us as intelligent human beings to keep on deceiving ourselves into believing that there is nothing seriously the matter with the country or with the world at large. Let us as beings endowed with power to reason, admit: There is something seriously the matter and unless it is adjusted, something more serious is apt to come.

Almost everybody in this civilized world has accumulated, according to ability, money and other property, and it must be that the rate at which one person's possessions and possibilities increase, someone else's possessions and possibilities must decrease at the same rate, and if it is so, then, the greater the number of millionaires in the world, the greater must also be the number of paupers, only with this difference: In order for one person to raise, from the class in which possessions are small, up in the millionaire class, a thousand families must be reduced from the possession of $1000, or the equivalent of $1000, down to pauperism, or 500 families must be deducted $2000 each.

Property is just like water. If it raises in one place, it lowers in some other place. The making of a billionaire must be attended by sacrifice on the part of many families. And it is a fact that at this present time many families have nothing, or to make it more clear, many families are in debt so heavy that if all their possessions had to be sold on a forced sale, they would not get enough to pay their debts. Civilization must take the blame for these conditions, because almost everybody would like to have great possessions and just because we did not have the ability to accumulate, is no reason for us to blame those who had the ability and made use of it.

If everything were divided absolutely even, the evenness would not last an hour. The remedy for existing conditions though must be the same this time as it, according to ancient history, always has been. We might get over this so-called depression and again have what is called prosperity. If we do: yes, I believe we will get over it, but sooner or later the crash must come, and we cannot ward it off by telling each other that it is not coming and us hiding behind one another's back. Anything a man wants to conquer, he must face. Pretending not to see it, will not save him from danger.

Just this thought before I close: The fact that a person has got ability to accumulate property is not in itself proof that the world is benefiting by his presence here, rather the opposite. And the fact that a person is not accumulating property is not proof that he has not got the ability to do so.

Yours for contentment,
N. P. OLSEN,
R. F. D. No. 3, Buhl, Idaho.

ATTENDING CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE

Four leaders of the 1200 delegates to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection here are shown as they registered in Washington, prior to the opening of the discussions. Crumbine, general executive of the American Child Health Association; Homer Folks, secretary of the New York State Charity Aid Association.

WALSH ASSAILS RELIEF PROGRAM

President Hoover's Scheme Only Drop in the Bucket Says Massachusetts Solon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP)—Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, Monday condemned administration unemployment relief proposals and called on the Democratic party to accept the mandate of the November 4 election by bringing in its own program of relief.

"The president's message is an abdication of leadership," he said.

Turning to the Democratic side, Walsh urged, "Let us present a program and have a roll call and let your opponents reject it."

"But let us at least," Walsh continued, "put the Republican party on record as to what it intends to do."

Assailing the administration program because at most it could relieve only laborers, mechanics and artisans, Walsh demanded relief for "the so-called white collar class will get little help from these proposals."

"Soup kitchens and free beds have their places as stop-gap measures," he continued, "but what the unemployed want is not a dole." They want an opportunity to work.

"President Hoover's relief program is just a drop in the bucket: Persons in high places have grossly underestimated the number of the unemployed.

"It is hypocritical to talk about relief for the unemployed and at the same time to talk about minimizing expenditures. There should be more taxes for the rich. They got their money from the toil of the poor.

"I am sick and tired of the absence in high places of sympathy and appreciation of the problem," Walsh continued. "I protest in the names of millions of people who are looking for sympathy and appreciation of their plight.

"Those who have incomes of $50,000, $100,000, and $1,000,000 a year have got to meet the expense of this emergency. I call on these men with their fortunes for increased taxes."

Senate Endorses Battleship Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (UP)—The Senate Monday passed without debate a bill to authorize expenditure of $30,000,000 in modernization of the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho.

Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, in reporting the bill favorably from the naval affairs committee, explained "the appropriation must be considered soon to prevent thousands of persons losing their jobs in the navy yards."

TRIBUTE IS PAID GIRL AT GOODING

GOODING Dec. 9 (Special)—The funeral of Miss Mildred Hume, who passed away in Portland last Tuesday, was held from the First Baptist church in Gooding Sunday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of friends and former associates. The services were in charge of Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the Baptist church, using the 14th chapter of St. John as the inspiration for his talk and taking occasion to refer to a testimonial coming from one of the leading ministers of Portland regarding the beautiful character of the deceased.

A quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Wood, Mrs. O. D. Heller and Mr. Fred Harms, rendered two musical numbers, and Mr. Charles Hoodenpyle sang a solo. Mrs. Lloyd presided at the piano.

Acting as pall bearers were Montgomery and Welliver Miller, Jess Winters, Earl Lenker, Virgil Bryant, and Maynard Hill.

The floral tributes were unusually beautiful, many of which came from the friends and associates of Miss Hume in Portland where she had lived for the past ten years.

Mrs. Clara Grotts, a sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Merrick, brother-in-law and sister of Portland attended the funeral.

Mrs. Lula Hume, mother, and Earl Hume, a brother of Gooding, also survive. Interment was at Elmwood cemetery in Gooding, by the side of the father and brother.

Baldridge Issues Warning Against Shady Concerns

BOISE, Dec. 9 (UP).—Warning has been sent out from the office of Gov. H. C. Baldridge, urging Idaho citizens to be particularly cautious in responding to advertising by unknown out-of-state concerns seeking housewives to do "home work" to be marketed through these concerns.

This warning was given in response to a request from Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner of the New York state department of labor. The New York department has received many complaints from various parts of the nation regarding New York concerns which offer to employ women in their own homes to make beach pajamas, underwear, bathrobes and novelties. Small deposits are required for materials which are never received. The concern after victimizing a number of women, move their offices to another city and assume a new name.

Evidence Mounts Against Suspect In Oregon Death

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 9 (UP)—The skein of circumstantial evidence drew closer about Nelson C. Bowles, millionaire son of a wartime shipbuilder, today when police announced 23 days after the crime, that the print of a little finger on the knife which killed his wife was his.

This is considered by Captain of Detective Harvey A. Thatcher, and deputy District Attorney Geo. Mowry as one of the most significant bits of evidence disclosed since the body of Mrs. Leone C. Bowles, beautiful society matron, and mother of two little girls, was found by police in a private mortuary after she had died in the apartment of Irma Loucks, Bowles' ex-stenographer.

Bowles and Miss Loucks are in the county jail awaiting grand jury action on charges of first degree murder.

"We consider it particularly significant," Thatcher said, "because Bowles claimed he pulled the knife out of his wife's breast."

It was pointed out by police that had Bowles "pulled" the knife from his wife's breast, in all probability any finger prints he might have left on the knife would have been of the thumb and index finger.

Idaho's Governor Offers Plans for Helping Business

BOISE, Dec. 9 (UP)—Establishment by the United States of firm trading relations with South America and the Orient by means of building up up the market price for silver is one of the best ways to start the nation on the road to prosperity, believes Governor H. C. Baldridge, who delivered an address to the United States Chamber of Commerce, western division, conference in Portland, Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 9.

Governor Baldridge recommended that the conference petition President Herbert Hoover and congress to take immediate action toward securing an international agreement establishing a fixed ratio between the two great monetary metals, gold and silver.

The check for $100,000 was presented to Gov. Emmerson's state unemployment commission by Arthur Anderson, president of the Northwestern board of trustees.

VANDALEERS WIN PRAISE LOCALLY

Notably talented and versatile, The Idaho Vandaleers, an organization of University of Idaho students under the direction of Professor Carleton Cummings, presented a concert of music, interspersed with dance numbers, at the high school auditorium Monday evening, that received the most enthusiastic applause. Music lovers were sincere in their praise of the various performances.

Divided into five parts, the program offered chorus groups and solo numbers of merit. The personnel, in full evening dress, presented "Song of the Vikings," "Unfold, Ye Portals," "Triangion and Sanctus," "By Babylonian Wave," "Pilgrim's Chorus from 'Tannhauser'," and the "Hallelujah Chorus from 'The Messiah'," as the first group.

Miss Helen Parrott, violinist, playing "Romance from the "Fifth Concerto of Wieniawski," was generously acclaimed by the audience.

"Spirito Gentil" from "La Favorita," and "Questa O Quella" from "Rigoletto" were played by Mr. Cummings.

The third part of the program included: "Mexican Serenade," mixed chorus and "The Gypsy Trail," by Paul Rice; Spanish dance, Virginia Steward; "In This Solemn Hour," from "La Forza del Destino," John Jenny and Kenneth Hensley; "Habnera" from "Carmen," Dorothy Frederickson and chorus; "The Bandolero," bass solo, Erwin Tomlinson, Buhl; Italian song from "Naughty Marietta" chorus. Effective costuming added interest to the numbers.

Songs in costume comprised the fourth part. "Land of Hope and Glory," by the men's quartet and "Southern Medly" and college songs completed the program.

The appearance of the organization here was sponsored by the Future Farmers of America, of which C. L. Mink is Smith-Hughes director.

The company departed Tuesday morning for Burley where they have an engagement Tuesday evening.

City Worker Goes To Final Award

Last rites for Alfred Distell, Twin Falls resident for many years an employ of the municipal street and waterworks department who died last week following a protracted illness, were conducted at the Grossman chapel Saturday afternoon. Rev. James Millar of the Presbyterian church officiating.

A quartet composed of Miss LaNelle Brekenridge, Mrs. O. W. Witham, Mrs. A. Wilton Peck and Mrs. F. F. Bracken, sang two numbers, "In That Beautiful Land" and "Nearer My God to Thee."

C. C. Cardwell, John Boren, John Thielen, Frank Freis, George Cooper and Charles McConnell, all members of the municipal street and waterworks department were pallbearers.

Mr. Distell is survived by his widow, his son, Albert R. Distell, and a daughter, Mrs. Alice Walker, Twin Falls.

Junior Red Cross Provides Baskets For Poor Children

The Junior Red Cross groups of the elementary schools are providing Christmas cheer baskets for unfortunate children and are in need of more toys. Local stores have generously donated broken toys, many of which are undamaged beyond the need of an additional nail here and there, and the local firemen are remodeling them, Mrs. Archie Bowman announced Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bowman, chairman of the Junior Red Cross, addressed this message to the citizens of Twin Falls: "If you have surplus toys, we shall be pleased to get them. We are requesting that toys which need mending be taken to the local fire station. A box has been placed at Johnston's Diamond Shoppe for receipt of toys that are intact. Kindly contribute toys between now and Saturday."

BOND REDEMPTION IS PROVIDED FOR

The Twin Falls city council, at its regular meeting Monday night, adopted a resolution calling for the redemption of $259,000 in paving, bridge, sewer and fire department bond issues, and passed an ordinance calling for the issuance of $250,000 in refunding bonds.

The step was said by L. A. Chapin, commissioner of finance, who introduced both measures, to be a further step in the bond refunding program inaugurated by the council recently. Bonds to be redeemed are $92,000 of a paving bond issue, $40,000 of a bridge bond issue, and $32,000 of a sewer bond issue, all voted in 1919; and $75,000 paving and $20,000 fire department issue voted in 1920.

Although the bonds to be redeemed total $259,000, only $250,000 was authorized in the refunding issue, as the city treasury has $9000 on hand to apply to the refunding.

Interest payments on all Bonds to be redeemed will cease on January 1, 1931. Refunding bonds bearing interest of 4¼, 4½ and 4¾ per cent will be issued to the Central Trust company of Salt Lake. These refunding bonds are to be retired between 1932 and 1950, with payments of approximately $20,000 each year.

Evangelistic Party Comes to Nazarene Church Tuesday

The nationally known London Evangelistic party, who have just closed a successful revival at the Church of the Nazarene at Buhl, will begin a two-weeks' revival here at the Church of the Nazarene Tuesday night. The party is made up of Prof. A. S. London and Mrs. London, their son, Rev. Holland London and Mrs. London.

Professor London is said to be a noted educator, lecturer and singer. For a number of years he was connected with the colleges of his denomination and was at one time president of Breese Nazarene college at Hutchison, Kansas.

He has delivered his famous lecture on "The Causes That Led to the Hickman Crime" to capacity audiences, and will deliver it while in Twin Falls, it is announced.

Rev. Mr. Holland, 22-year-old evangelist, is said to be a forceful speaker and has met with phenomenal success as an evangelist. Mrs. A. S. London is the pianist and together with Rev. and Mrs. Holland London and Professor London they sing southern spirituals, spoken of as one of the most interesting features of their work. They will broadcast over KGIQ here immediately after the services Tuesday night as well as Sunday from the church at 11 a. m.

The services will be held each evening during the week at 7:15 o'clock, states Rev. Paul Worcester, local Nazarene pastor, who extends an invitation to the public to attend the services.

Would Have State Care for Persons Injured by Cars

Reception Given Idaho Vandaleers

Following the successful Monday evening concert, the Vandaleers, group of talented University of Idaho students; Professor Carelton Cummings, head of the music department and director of the new mixed chorus; Miss Ramstedt, chaperon, and Mr. Kiss were honorees at a pleasantly informal reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Parrott on Shoshone street. Miss Helen Parrot, their daughter, is a member of the troupe, and appears in violin solo work as well as in the chorus groups.

Dr. and Mrs. Parrott invited a number of their friends who are interested in music, to meet the entertainers. A buffet supper was served at 10:30 o'clock. Miss Clarice Saunders, head of the music department of the Twin Falls high school, and Miss Dorothy Dinkelacker presided at the coffee urns. A green potted plant flanked by lighted tapers, suggested the approaching Christmas season. Mrs. Parrott was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Miller Proctor, Kimberly, and Mrs. H. L. Dinkelacker.

FACULTY RECEPTION IS PLANNED

One hundred and eight teachers of the Twin Falls schools will be entertained at a reception Friday evening, December 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Clyde Bacon on Maple avenue, and plans for this event were completed at a luncheon meeting of the City Council of the Parent-Teacher association Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank Boughton presided at the business session. Supt. W. R. Smith told the serving of hot luncheons at the high and junior high schools, and expressed the hope that Parent-Teacher associations start the serving of hot luncheons in the grade schools at once. Mrs. John E. Hayes spoke on "What a Council Can Do for Its Town."

Mrs. Carl Benson played "Cavaliera Rusticana" at the close of the meeting. A pot-luck luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. A. Sutcliffe on Maple avenue was announced.

DINNER PARTY FOR P. N. G. CLUB

Mrs. C. A. Emes will entertain the Past Noble Grands at a 7 o'clock dinner Thursday evening, December 11, at her home, 205 Ninth avenue north. The annual Christmas gift exchange will be conducted. All Past Noble Grands are invited to attend.

Comic Initiation Proves Diverting

The Amoma class of the First Baptist Sunday school held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Ruth McBride Monday evening. During the business session, plans were made for the annual Christmas party, to be held December 22 at the home of Mrs. Bert A. Sweet. The entertainment for the evening was a comic initiation of a large group of new members of the class. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Bertha Pool, Mrs. Jessie Smith, Mrs. Ollie Taggart, and Mrs. Minnie Jean in serving delicious refreshments at the close of the evening.

Those present included the hostess, Mrs. E. T. Starkey, teacher of the class; Mrs. Grace Bobler, president, Mrs. Dorothy Ward, Mrs. Mrs. Bertha Pool, Mrs. Jewell Johnson, Mrs. Esther Stockamp, Mrs. Marie Martyn, Mrs. Coreta Walters, Mrs. Erma Tucker, Mrs. Alice Shiffer, Mrs. Virginia Ross, Mrs. Elsie Morehouse, Mrs. Elsie Morehouse, Mrs. Leona Strain, Mrs. Ethel Cowen, Mrs. Helen Moore, Mrs. Bernice Roberts, Mrs. Maude Cox, Mrs. Frances Webster, Mrs. Gladys Hall, Mrs. Helen Burkhart, Mrs. Minnie Jean, Mrs. Helen Blaine, Mrs. Elizabeth Rhodes, Mrs. Maude Wilcox, Mrs. Ruth Butler, Mrs. Emoline Wynn, Mrs. Jessie Smith Mrs. Olive Ballinger; Mrs. Florence Benson, Mrs. Elinor Benson, Mrs. Lyda Pipes, Mrs. Sue Drexler, Mrs. Ollie Taggart, Miss Genevieve Wilcox, Miss Winnie Tucker, Miss Ramon Stockamp, and Master Marvin Hall.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM IS CLEVER

Appropriate to the Christmas season was the program of carol-singing at the regular luncheon and business meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday at the home of Mrs. Moses Stearns. Mrs. Emma L. Warren and Mrs. Tom Mott led the singing and Mrs. A. Wilton Peck presided at the piano. Mrs. Tom Mott, Miss Helen Thompson, Mrs. L. W. Voorhees and Mrs. A. Wilton Peck were hostesses.

Mrs. L. L. Breckenridge reviewed the December number of the Daughters of the American Revolution magazine. Mrs. Thomas Robertson was program chairman. Mrs. Wilbur S. Hill read a poem, "Buying Gifts for Mother"; Mrs. Peck sang "The First Noel" and Mrs. Robertson read "The Approach of Christmas." A gift exchange completed the program.

PRESIDE AT FIRST OF SERIES OF PARTIES

Twenty-six guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Spafford at a dinner party of smart appointments last week at the Orange Lantern, Kimberly, the guests returning later to the Spafford home on Seventh avenue east for bridge. Prizes for high score went to Mrs. Joe Johnson and Dr. F. F. McAtee; low score prizes to Mrs. W. R. Priebe and Joe Johnson, and all-cut to W. Orr Chapman. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Chrysanthemums in pastel shades centered the dinner tables and the same flower was accentuated in other decorative details.

This is the first of a series of parties being arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Spafford.

CAREFULLY ARRANGED PROGRAM INTERESTS

The University Guild met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. I. E. Joslyn, leader of the group. Miss Crystal Kelley gave an account of the life of Rousseau and Mrs. Kyle Waite discussed his theories and influence. Miss Elizabeth Harder discussed Voltaire's theories and commented on "Candide," which was a direct hit at Rousseau. An informal discussion of the contrasting theories of the two men was then considered. Mrs. Joslyn gave a review of Gilbert Murry's "Ordeal of This Generation," a series of lectures which he had delivered at Oxford. The lectures are timely and thoughtful discussions of the chaos of today, and remedies for such.

LEGION AUXILIARY SEWS FOR "VETS"

Mrs. O. T. Koster, Mrs. Jack Thorp and Mrs. M. Grootes were hostesses to the American Legion Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Harry Benoit Monday evening. Mrs. R. L. Plenzsel gave a reading; Mrs. A. Wilton Pack a vocal solo and Gaylord Ojen a reading and encore. Mrs. Koster was in charge of the program. The evening was spent sewing carpet rags for the veterans at Boise. Refreshments were served. During the business session, presided over by Mrs. R. E. Leighton, Mrs. P. R. Taber announced that she would wrap Christmas packages for a nominal sum, the proceeds to go to the veterans' hospital at Boise.

ATTRACTIVE RESIDENCE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lynes opened their new residence on Blue Lakes boulevard north to the members of the N. N. O. pinochle club Monday evening. The home, just completed, is of the English cottage type, and especially attractive. Pinochle occupied the guests until midnight when Mrs. Lynes served a carefully appointed luncheon.

Mrs. Al Russell won the prize for high score and Walter Larsen won the low score favor.

MORNINGSIDE CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY

A Christmas program will feature the meeting of the Morningside club to be held at the home of Mrs. Vern Holland, Wednesday. There will be the usual gift exchange among members and a silver offering will be taken to be used in work among the needy.

• • •

FOUR FOR ONE.

PARIS.—The airplane taxis have now adopted an idea from their ground brothers, the automobile taxicabs. Plane taxis are now hired by a flat rate, and four can ride in a plane for the price of one. This has been inaugurated since a large hotel announced a plane service to its guests for their comfort.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 5

A number of times in these articles the writer has called attention to bluff bids that have either worked for or against the bluff bidder. Here, as a matter of variety, is an English version of the same thing, only over there such bidding is designated "Spoof Bridge."

"How far is 'spoof' admissable at Bridge?" That is a very difficult question to answer. There is no law against a player bidding a suit he has not got, nor making any eccentric call that occurs to him. But, of course, all those who have a respect for the game view with horror these aberrations. I remember a rubber some years ago where I had as partner a Colonel of the old school who was very strict in his ideas as to how the game should be played. At a score of game all he called "One No-Trump," holding:—

Spades — A, Q, 2
Hearts — A, K, 4
Diamonds — J, 3, 2
Clubs — A, Q, 5, 4

A on his left went "Two Clubs"; Y and B passed, and the Colonel called "Two No-Trumps," A doubled, and all passed.

A then proceeded to lead out eight winning Diamonds. The veins bulged on the Colonel's forehead. He grew angrier and angrier as the game went on. When, finally, he discovered that the "Two Club" bidder had only the King and another Club in his hand, he rose from his seat. "I thought I was playing with gentlemen," he said. "A man who bids 'Two Clubs' with only two of the suit in his hand is not a Bridge player but a card sharper. I refuse to play any more."

Now the points that the Colonel in his wrath failed to see are that he need not have called "Two No-Trumps." He could have doubled the "Two Clubs" bid, which would, of course, have been a mistake, as A would then have been obliged to bid his Diamonds, in which, however, he could not have gone game. Or he could have left in the "Two Clubs" bid, when A would have been hoist with his own petard, and would have gone down on his contract.

I am not in favor of bluff bids, but there is always this to be said about the bluffer, that he takes the risk of having his bluff called. If a player likes to take the risk I do not see that there is anything to prevent him doing so, nor can I agree that he has done anything absolutely unfair. It is difficult, if not impossible, to lay down any hard and fast line between what is legitimate bluff and what is dishonest.

Problem

Y:
Hearts — none
Clubs — A, 6, 4
Diamonds — A, Q, J, 9, 7, 6, 4
Spades — A, J, 9

A:
Hearts — Q, 8, 7, 5, 3
Clubs — 10, 9, 5
Diamonds — K, 8, 5, 2
Spades — K

B:
Hearts — J, 6, 4
Clubs — K, 8, 7, 3, 2
Diamonds — 10, 3
Spades — 8, 3, 2

Z:
Hearts — A, K, 10, 9, 2
Clubs — Q, J
Diamonds — none
Spades — Q, 10, 7, 6, 5, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A passed, Y bid two diamonds and B passed. Z now bid two hearts, A passed and Y bid two spades. All passed and A opened the ten of clubs. How should Z play the hand so that he can score a grand slam against any defense?

Solution: Y should win the first club trick with the ace and lead the ace of diamonds, on which Z should discard his last club. Y should then lead a low diamond and trump in Z's hand with a low spade. Z should now lead the ace king of hearts and discard Y's two losing clubs. At trick six Z should lead a low spade, winning the trick in Y's hand with the ace. Y should now lead another low diamond, which Z should trump with the queen of spades. At trick eight, Z should lead a low spade and win the trick in Y's hand with the nine. Y should now lead a low diamond which Z should trump with the ten of spades. At trick ten, Z should lead his last spade, winning the trick in Y's hand with the jack. Y's diamonds are now set up and must win the remaining tricks.

It is a fairly easy problem but must be handled very carefully or a trick can easily be lost. Follow the solution as given very carefully and compare it with your own. Such comparison may very easily be of advantage.

Baking Insurance

"If you find any fault whatever in this Baking Powder, or think you do, your grocer will return your money and also pay for the eggs, butter, flour, etc., you have used."

You will find that statement printed on the Schilling Baking Powder label. Look for it. Read it carefully. It is far more than a mere gesture of good will. Unusual as it is, it means just what it says. Only a Baking Powder, sure and pure, could carry such an offer. Because it is made from Cream of Tartar, and no substitutes.

OMAHA LIVESTOCK

OMAHA, Dec. 9 (UP)—Livestock prices:

Hogs: Receipts 13,000 including 51 direct. Market slow, 10c lower; top $8.15; bulk 170 to 180 pounds $8 to $8.10.

Cattle: Receipts 10,000. Market lambs opened weak to 15c lower; sheep and feeders steady; early sales fed wooled lambs $7.75 to $8.20; best ewes $3; choice light ewes up to $2.75; bulk range feeding lambs $7 to $7.25.

WOOL

BOSTON, Dec. 9 (UP)—Business in the wool market is very slow, but members of the trade do not appear inclined to push sales by granting further concessions. Topmakers are taking small quantities of 64s and finer original bag wools of short French combing and clothing staple at 62 to 63 cents, scoured basis. Inquiries are being received on 58s, 60s and strictly combing territory wools of these qualities have sold at 65 to 68 cents, scoured basis.

COPPER MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (UP)—Copper buying in the domestic market is small, despite the cut by customs smelters to the 11 cent level. Producers are still holding their price at the 12 cent mark as bookings, at the present rate of consumption, are sufficient to supply the industry for the next five months.

In the foreign market the situation is unchanged. Sales are very small at the 12.30 cents per pound level offered by Copper Exporters, Inc., while little busi*ness is being transacted at the* lower levels asked by second hands.

CASH WHEAT

PORTLAND, Dec. 9 (UP).—Cash wheat: hard white 79c; soft white 69c; western white 69c; hard winter 67c; northern spring 67c; western red 67c.

WILL UNDERGO OPERATION

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 9 (UP)—John L. Firmage, prominent Utah merchant and financier, will undergo an operation at the Colonial hospital here this afternoon. Attending physicians said his condition was very favorable.

AFRICA SPEAKS

FIRST ACROSS CENTRAL AFRICA FROM WEST TO EAST

Thrills that come to the explorer and big game hunter, on the pioneer journey from Lagos on the Atlantic Ocean to Mombasa on the Indian Ocean through the heart of equatorial Africa.

Chapter One

Who has not thrilled at tales of adventure that came from the versatile pens of imaginative authors. When the story is true then the adventures are far more realistic and convincing than any work of fiction could possibly be. In 1925-6 a young man who had served on the newspapers of Denver as a reporter and desk man became a member of a party that set out to explore mysterious Africa. The purpose of the Colorado African Expedition was to study the primitive types of man. The hero of our story, the young journalist, Paul L. Hoefler, gained a great deal of experience from the trip and learned several of the native languages. Being ambitious and seeing great possibilities for further research upon the dark continent, Hoefler was not contented until he had organized another party. Back in Colorado he devoted his entire time to raising funds for a second trip which was to be known as the Colorado African Expedition and it is of this trip that our narrative relates.

After several banquets, given by well wishers, Paul L. Hoefler and his companions, with motion picture cameras and apparatus for recording sound left Colorado in an attempt to follow the equator across Central Africa, a feat never before attempted. Stout of heart, full of courage, and expecting to suffer from heat, thirst and exhaustion they left on their eventful journey on the 15th of July, 1928.

A few weeks later Hoefler and his companion Charles landed at Lagos, where the expedition was outfitted and supplied. The actual starting place in Africa was the little village of Akasa, which swelters in the equatorial heat on the mud flats of Niger River, a spot over 10,000 miles away from the home land. Adventurous missionaries, ivory traders and elephant hunters used this town as a jumping off place many times before Hoefler arrived, and there were countless signs of civilization in the village. Near at hand, women were pounding rice in crude mortars for the next meal. Not far from them was a beauty parlor where native maids went to have the kinks and other things removed from their wooly hair. Standing at the same spot one could see a tailor weaving a pair of trousers on an ancient loom, while his customer waited for the work to be finished. On the pier lay elephant tusks valued at $10,000. Each pair represented the death of a four-ton animal. Pulled up at the crude landing was an old time wood-burning stern wheeler which the expedition had chartered to carry the explorers approximately 500 miles up the Niger River.

Paul L. Hoefler Drops a Yellow Maned Lion at 150 Yards

This lion fell victim to a 220 grain Springfield bullet at 150 yards . . . over one thousand lions were seen in Tanganyika, East Africa, but only five were killed.

Having reached the point of departure, Hoefler and his companion Charles with a safari of natives left the boat and commenced their trip across the continent by truck. Hundreds of gallons of gas and oil had to be transported and deposited at convenient points along the proposed routes.

The foot safari composed of approximately 200 natives chosen from the various tribes carried the immense amount of supplies upon their backs far in advance of the truck and sound equipment. The reason that the men were chosen from different tribes lay in the fact that every tribe speaks a different language, therefore lessening the possibility of them all striking or quitting at the same time.

The country through which they travelled was hot, fever stricken and known as the white man's grave. Quinine became their daily diet to ward off the dreaded fever. After days of wearisome travel the party arrived at Dakoja, where the luggage was transferred to the truck and the foot safari was sent far ahead with supplies. The country was full of rivers at floodtide and the raging torrents made crossing difficult.

Students Endorse Ex-Judge Lindsey

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (UP)—The Judge B. Lindsey-Bishop William T. Manning controversy which reached a climax Sunday when Lindsey was thrown bodily out of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine after he had tried to reply to the Bishop's sermon against heresy and companionate marriage, appeared today to be pointing toward another outburst Friday.

The former judge of the Denver juvenile court and vigorous exponent of the theory of companionate marriage will appear then in West Side court to answer a charge of disorderly conduct brought against him as a result of the near-riot in the cathedral. Bishop Manning, head of the episcopal diocese of New York, had been subpoenaed to appear against him.

PROTESTS INJUNCTION

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 9 (UP)—A petition protesting the ejection of Former Judge Ben Lindsey from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine has been signed by nearly 600 Dartmouth college students.

Gibson Has Hopes Of Stabilization Of Armed Forces

GENEVA, Dec. 9 (UP)—The work of the preparatory disarmament conference which is now concluding its sessions holds no hope of bringing about an immediate arms reduction, Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, the American delegate, said in an address before the conference today.

Gibson said, however, that "we can at least foresee a stabilization of armaments. The setting up of a machinery to receive and disseminate information on armaments, to educate public opinion and to prepare systematically for the work of future conferences, as successive milestones in the continuing process of disarmament."

"If these things can be achieved by the coming conference," Gibson continued, "and from present indications I think we are justified in assuming that they can be achieved we shall have a situation obviously better than we have at present and while we cannot claim to have built the edifice, we shall at least have laid the foundation upon which the edifice can be erected."

NOVEL BAZAAR IS WELL PATRONIZED

Benefit For Parsonage Repair Features "Old South Befoah the Wah" in Motifs

KIMBERLY, December 9 (Special)—The dinner and bazaar given in the basement of the Methodist church Friday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society was successful both from a remunerative and entertainment viewpoint.

The church parlors were hospitable and cozy with a crackling fire in the huge fire place and with Christmas colors and artistic decoratoins. Sixteen quartette tables were used to seat the dinner guests. These tables being relaid several times. Each table was lighted with Christmas candles and clever Christmas menu cards were found on each.

"Old South" Featured

The dinner was prepared in Southern style and this idea was featured throughout the menu as well as in all other features.

Upon entering the dining hall the guests were shown to seats by a dignified colored butler enacted by E. B. Wilkerson and were served by colored waitresses impersonated by the Misses Byron, Miller, Jean Mary Whitney, Maxine Mason and Margaret Sheperd.

Following the dinner the various booths were visited and liberally patronized. A fortune telling booth with Mrs. E. B. Wilkerson as "Rachel" and Mrs. J. Frank Henry as the "balleyhoo" gypsy afforded much merriment.

During the course of the evening a pleasing program, arranged by Mrs. Arch Colner and Mrs. Carl Emerson was presented. The numbers were a piano number, "Medley of Southern Songs," Mrs. Jack Claiborn; reading, Jean Mary Whitney; piano solo, Maxine Mason; reading, Doris Cutler; playlet, "Sambo's Party," twelve Juniors; "Days of the Week," primary.

The proceeds of the evening which amounted to about $100 will be used to repair the parsonage.

Committees

Much credit is due the unusually efficient committees. Mrs. Harry T. West, general chairman was assisted by the following: Booths, Mrs. J. Mason; cooked food booth, Mrs. B. Walters, Mrs. Walter Colner, Mrs. L. L. Million, Mrs. J. E. Gogg; candy booth, Miss Lucile Pace, Young People's Epworth League; art and needlework booth, Mrs. G. McVey, Mrs. George Noble, Mrs. Mervin Gill; white elephant booth, Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. John Gourley; kitchen booth, Mrs. Frank Wilson; fortune telling booth, Mrs. E. B. Wilkerson, Mrs. J. Frank Henry; advertising, Mrs. Glen Whitney; entertainment committee, Mrs. Arch Colner, Mrs. Carl Emerson; dinner, Mrs. R. H. Denton, Mrs. Ben Potter, Mrs. Arthur Brown Mrs. E. M. Arnold Mrs. Byron; dining room, Mrs. H. H. Kilborn, Mrs. E. V. Newcomber.

STRIKE UPSETS CITY IN SPAIN

VALENCIA, Spain, Dec. 9 (UP)—All business in Valencia was halted today and the central part of the city was disturbed by sporadic disorders as a result of a 48 hour general strike called in sympathy with striking wood workers.

Santiago Gomez, secretary of the metallurgical union, was killed in a gun fight with a policeman, Vicente Bravo, who was taken to a hospital in a grave condition.

The Plaza Emilio Castelar was crowded with restless strikers and police frequently were forced to charge groups of demonstrators in other sections, firing their pistols into the air.

The walkout renewed labor tension which recently caused widespread disorders and vast losses to such industrial centers as Madrid, Barcelona and other labor centers.

There was a rush on the Valencia food markets by thousands of persons who feared a shortage of foodstuffs, due to the strike, which halted all transportation.

Belligerent Goat Enjoys Ice Cream

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9 (UP) — A dish of ice cream and a package of cigarettes proved effective as ransom today for six nurses held at bay by a goat at the end of a corridor in Fairview hospital.

Nurses heard a gentle rapping on a door leading to an outside entrance. When it was opened in thundered a goat, booked later at precinct police station as Billy. The goat backed the nurses into a corner and held them prisoners until offered a package of cigarettes and a dish of ice cream. He licked the ice cream and chewed ravenously at the cigarettes, tin foil, package and all.

While he was chewing tobacco the nurses escaped. Billy then ambled down to the court of the nurse's home where he caused a mild panic. Police arrived, and, attacking him from the rear, managed to push him into a patrol wagon.

SHANGHAI, (UP) — A Ford assembling plant may be built in Shanghai soon as a result of investigations conducted here by W. C. Cowling of Detroit, it was learned after Cowling had interviewed various National Government officials.

SPEAKER LONGWORTH WIELDS THE GAVEL

Nicholas Longworth exchanged some widely-published plea antries with Democratic House Leader John Garner about the future custody of the gavel and official car of the Speaker of the House of Representatives. Garner had thought the Democrats would control the House, and would elect him Speaker. But when this picture was taken of Longworth, showing how he would open the third session of the 71st Congress, Republicans had established an incontestable majority of 218 against the Democrats' 216 seats.

The team will be back for the holidays.

GIRL STILL UNCONSCIOUS

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 8 (UP) — Unconscious since Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile as she was skating in front of her home here, Edna Rich, 11, was reported to be "fairly good" today by hospital attendants. Despite the slight change in her condition, little hope was held for the girl's recovery.

TOURISTS HAVE WONDERED ABOUT NELSON'S COLUMN

LONDON, (UP) — Thousands of American tourists who fed the pigeons at Trafalgar Square and wondered at the dimensions of the stately Nelson column, may be interested in these figures:

The figure of Nelson alone is 17 feet, 4 inches tall.

The width of the cocked hat is three feet, 9½ inches.

The Admiral's sword is 7 feet, 0 inches long.

The three blocks of stone which form the figure weigh 16 tons.

SENTENCES AVERAGE 5 YEARS

JACKSON, (UP) — The average minimum sentence of an inmate at Michigan State prison, exclusive of "lifers" is five years and three months, according to record clerk John Crowley. The average sentence is based on 4,852 inmates serving sentences of from six months to 99 years.

EXPERTS STUDY RECENT TRAGEDY

BRUSSELS, Dec. 9 (UP) — The presence of "toxic substances" in the heavy fog that killed 63 persons in the Meuse valley was investigated by professors from Brussels and Liege universities and members of Queen Elizabeth's Scientific Foundation today.

Residents of the stricken area believed that factory gases were partly responsible for the loss of life.

The scientists agreed that fog alone was not responsible for the deaths. They made their preliminary statement after a brief visit with Queen Elizabeth in the affected cities.

The scientists said that adequate measures had been taken to combat the "toxic substances," but did not elaborate on the nature of the substances for the extent of the measures taken.

Residents of the low-lying sections, meanwhile, were ready to leave their homes and retreat to the hilltops if another fog occurred. Many people living near zinc factories complained of burning throats even after the heaviest part of the fog had lifted. The haze seemed to be thickest near the factories, they said.

MUSEUM GET SADDLE

DEADWOOD, S. D., (UP)—An Indian saddle which saw service in Custer's Last Stand was presented to the Adam's Memorial hall here by W. D.
