SAFETY STUDIED TO GET DIPLOMA

North Dakota Youths Must Pass Road Exams In Order to Graduate

BISMARCK, N. D., (AP)—North Dakota is training its youth to be better, safer drivers. Starting this year, every high school student must pass, as a prerequisite to graduation, an examination on 12 lessons stressing careful driving practices. To provide sound information on the operation of motor cars, use of a book entitled "Man and the Motor Car," by Albert W. Whitney, has been ordered by the state department of public instruction, co-operating with the state highway patrol. The decision to make instruction to young drivers on safe driving a required subject in North Dakota high schools was reached as the outgrowth of a mounting death toll from traffic and highway accidents in the state. A survey disclosed that careless use of vehicles was the cause of many fatalities. Most Know Motor Subjects to be studied in connection with the safety program include: The automobile and its parts. How to drive. Qualifications of the driver, his habits and attitudes. Codes of the road. Proper maintenance of automobiles. How accidents may be avoided. A final chapter outlines North Dakota motor vehicle regulations and the activities of the state auto patrol. State Takes Lead North Dakota is one of the first states in the Union to adopt a definite program of educating young drivers in the high schools. Under the North Dakota plan, the time devoted to study of safe driving will not be credited toward marks required for graduation. But a satisfactory test on the instruction given is a requirement. The state department of public instruction will issue certificates of award to students who receive passing grades in the safety examination at the end of each school year.

THIEVES FORCE SIR BASIL TOMB

'Mystery Man's' Resting Place Searched for Jewels; Casket Unopened

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Ghouls have forced the family tomb of Sir Basil Zaharoff, fabulously rich international munitions seller, and opened the casket of his wife for jewels. It was revealed today. Sir Basil's casket was not touched. The thieves broke into the private burial chapel of Zaharoff's castle, the chateau de Balacourt, near Pontoise, where the "mystery man of Europe" was buried two months ago. Rumors Heard The countryside long has heard rumors that Zaharoff's Spanish wife, the Duchess of Marchena, was buried with expensive jewels, including a royal diamond and emerald necklace. The ghouls, using the methods of Egyptian tomb profaners, lifted the heavy concrete slab and broke through the outer lead and inner mahogany casket. The bones of the duchess were scattered on the floor of the tomb as the ghouls ransacked the casket. The two daughters of the duchess, who share Zaharoff's millions, maintained the traditional family silence about the affair; but it was learned the bones had been placed back in the casket and the duchess reburied. Pontoise police are investigating.

HAGOOD OFFERS DEFENSE POLICY

Retired General Gives List of 'Bests' in Book Just Published

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood offers a blueprint of a new national defense policy in an analysis of the present military establishment with the publication today of his book, "We Can Defend America." The retired corps commander, who was center of a vigorous army controversy a few months ago, argued that "the biggest ship isn't the best," and advocated: Lists "Bests"—in our own waters. The world's best air corps—in our own air. The world's best army—in our own land. Hagood's defense plan is based on two conclusions—that America can stay out of war at home and attend to its own affairs, and can build a fence around U. S. property and warn everybody to stay out. HELP LOOMS FOR OLD-CAR OWNERS

Assessors' Plan Would Mean Saving for 'Considerable' Number in County

Definite lightening of the auto license burden on Twin Falls county motorists who own cars weighing over 3,000 pounds and averaging three years or older in age will be achieved if the legislature adopts proposals urged by county assessors of the state, County Assessor J. D. Barnhart said today. Mr. Barnhart had returned this morning from the assessors' semi-annual meeting at Boise. The resolution apparently has a good chance of passing, he said. "It would affect a considerable number of auto owners in this county."

The assessors urged a change in the scale to eliminate the wide divergence now occurring in the old-car rates between the weight classes up to 3,000 pounds and those starting at 3,001. On cars five years of age or older, the jump is $4.80—since cars of that age from 2,801 pounds to 3,000 pounds pay a fee of $14 and machines of the same age weighing 3,001 pounds to 3,100 must now pay $18.50. The resolution as recommended to the legislature would continue the 70-cent increase in brackets under 3,000 pounds. Instead of the $18.50 price, the fee would be $14.70 on five-year-old cars over 3,000 and up to 3,100 pounds. Similar removal of wide divergence was asked on cars three and four years old.

New Cars Unaffected

"There is no such chance," Mr. Barnhart said, "that any reduction will be voted on new automobiles or on those under three years of age." The move for a flat license rate of $5, he said, has "apparently been killed." But the assessors' recommendation received approval of all senators and representatives contacted. Figures on the exact number of Twin Falls county cars which would benefit under the suggestion were not available, but the amount is believed "considerable" by the assessor's office here.

PRECIPITATION ON WATERSHED LOW

Snow depth at Ashton was 32 inches; Island Park, 45 inches; Becher river, 60 inches; Moran, 22 inches; Snake river, 35 inches; and Idaho Falls, 13 inches. Storage in the Jackson lake reservoir amounted to 416,160 acre feet, and in the American Falls reservoir, 1,208,750 acre feet.

The accident was reported to officers by both drivers. No official investigation was made but the participants said dented fenders and damaged running boards was the only damage incurred. More than 90,000,000,000 pins are manufactured daily throughout the world.

MENDICANTS SEEK CLEVER MONARCH

Throne and Riches Awaiting Right Man for Beggars Of Budapest

BUDAPEST (AP)—Budapest's beggars are seeking a new king, a caucus of the Hungarian capital city's mendicants has revealed. Not every hobo need apply, however, because the duties are onerous as well as remunerative. Pseudo-kings of this city's beggards must be able leaders, capable instructors in "sucker" psychology and clever in devising ways to outwit the police. Other qualifications being equal, bachelors or divorcees will be given preference in the selection of the "Real Mendicants' Monarch" who is sought. To such a ruler loyalty and comparatively rich tribute are guaranteed. If the king is efficient the beggars are willing to share with him no matter how meager their own incomes. The last king ruled supreme and amassed a fortune before departing for other parts of the world. His abdication was a voluntary one and was prompted only by age and a determination to continue a losing battle against authorities on the question of how alms should be collected. He insisted on individual door-to-door action while the police insisted that beggars prove their need by applying to a center created for the distribution of funds contributed by Budapestians who preferred to help beggars without forcing them to make calls at their homes. This king, Emmerich Bartosch, was considered by his subjects as a good father and mentor. In turn, he treated each of them as a child whose training must be as perfect as if he or she were destined to become one of the city's theater stars. The greater part of his 60 years of life was spent as a laborer without being able to save anything. By turning to what he described as the "profession of alms solicitation" he was able to open a bank account, and by organizing his "colleagues" into a closely knit kingdom he was able to make this account grow. The Detroit river is sometimes called the "Dardanelles of the New World."

Conference to Establish Trade Agreement Ends In Failure

VIENNA, Jan. 22 (AP)—Trade negotiations between Austria and Germany broke down tonight, and the German delegation departed for Berlin. Rupture of the conversations originally expected to help in bringing Vienna and Berlin closer together—was attributed to increasing political uneasiness, and the impossibility of agreeing on terms of the Austrian schilling. Also contributing to the breakdown, it was understood, was the insistence of Czechoslovakia and Poland on retention of their previous contracts with Austria for the import here of coal from the mines. The Germans demanded the right to furnish the bulk of Austria's coal requirements.

GOVERNMENT TO START OIL SUIT

Recovery of $23,000,000 Sought By Federal Solicitors In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (UP)—A suit for $23,000,000 was filed today in federal court on behalf of the government to recover a section of U. S. naval reserve oil lands in Kern county and the value of the petroleum already extracted.

The suit, an outgrowth of the Teapot Dome scandal of the Harding administration, was directed against the Standard Oil company of California, Standard Gasoline company, Pan-American Petroleum company, Southern California Gas company, Chase National bank of New York, Bank of America, Tidewater Associated Oil company, Kern county and numerous individuals including trustees for the estates of the late Charles O. Fairbanks and the late Edward L. Doheny.

Recorded as Mineral The government's action, filed by John W. Preston, as special counsel for the department of justice, charged that the land, known as U. S. Naval Reserve No. 3, was mineral in character and had been recorded as such in a survey made in 1902.

The suit asked repossession of the tract, placing a value of $10,000,000 upon it, and sought recovery of an estimated $13,000,000 for oil, gas and gasoline extracted.

The suit contended that proceedings were brought to determine character of the land in 1914, but, the action alleged, in 1923 Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, dismissed the proceedings.

SO NERVOUS HE ROLLED, TOSSED ALL NIGHT LONG

Just a "Bundle of Nerves"; Noise Made Him Jump and Shake — Strength, Energy, Gone!—Now He Says Van-Tage Worked All the Misery From His System!

Mr. E. S. McKinney, of 5007 N. Kirby Ave., Portland, Ore., is another Widely-Known Resident of This Section who is publicly praising and endorsing the "Amazing Mixture of Nature's Roots and Herbs and Other Splendid In-redients," known as VAN-TAGE which is now being introduced and explained in this city at Schramm-Johnson Drug Store, 102 N. Main St., and Kingsbury's Drug Store, 116 Main Av. So. Mr. McKinney is 74 years old and has lived in this part of the West 55 years. He says:

Dragged Around Day After Day—Half-Sick, Drowsy

"I had been in a terrible state of health for the past 10 years," said Mr. McKinney. "I was so nervous that sudden noise would make me jump and shake all over. I was just a 'bundle of nerves.' I couldn't get a good night's rest, for I would toss and roll from one side of the bed to the other and get up in the morning feeling tired and worn-out. I just dragged around day after day feeling half sick and drowsy. This trouble had been going on for years, and it seemed like nothing could help me, but finally I found Van-Tage and will say to everybody that this is a Wonder Medicine if there ever was one. Two bottles have worked all the misery from my system. My nerves never 'go to pieces' like they used to. I can go to bed and really sleep and get a full night's rest. This makes a big difference in the way I feel in the morning. I have more energy now and never get that dull, drowsy feeling. I am so thankful to this medicine; it is worth ANYBODY'S PRAISE!"

Acts on Bowels, Stomach, Liver and Kidneys

VAN-TAGE invigorates bowels, stomach, liver and kidney action. Its 21 Great Herbs and Other Splendid Medicinal Agents (over 30 Ingredients in all) have a surprising effect on suffering people. Another thing—due to the immense volume in which it acts, the price of Van-Tage is reasonable. So, don't hesitate. Get It—TODAY—at Schramm-Johnson Drug Store, 102 N. A WRENCH IN THE MACHINERY

One thing for which Twin Falls and vicinity may be truly thankful is the fact that this region is not confronted with the serious labor troubles which are menacing the shipping and industrial centers of the United States.

At a time when everyone sees a gradual return to normalcy and hopes for an even speedier approach to increased prosperity it is discouraging indeed to read of the strife and bitter disorder that springs up to stand in the way of the advance which has been so obviously on its way in the past few years.

It is discouraging not only to business, large and small, but to those among the unemployed who are hoping and striving conscientiously to return to gainful occupation.

There is no doubt but that business has had its faults in many instances past and present. President Roosevelt has employed drastic methods to correct these faults and the result has been obvious — business generally has been subjected to rigid regulations and in many cases actual hardships in paying the penalty for those concerns which in the past have been careless with their ethics.

Now while business, admittedly "spanked," is attempting to readjust itself to the new order of things and comply with the regulations in the new rule book of modern economics, the country finds organized labor in many instances attempting to do the very thing for which business has been given its "whipping." Right at a time when we are hoping to have the machinery of economics settle down to a musical hum we recognize a clatter which warns us distinctly that something is still out of line.

Through all this transition business has been forced to listen to reason; to adjust itself as much as possible to the necessities of labor. Not until labor reciprocates, listens to reason, and adjusts itself insofar as possible to the necessities of business, will the economic highway be cleared sufficiently for a rapid return to the prosperity the American people deserve.

Everyone knows that neither business nor labor can get along without each other. It now remains for both business and labor to recognize that fact and for both to give and take so the present demoralizing disorders can be ended without unnecessary delay.

Even though the effects of the shipping strike along the western coast are being felt in Twin Falls and similar results from the troubles in the automotive centers are working hardships throughout the country, our own immediate vicinity can be thankful there are no serious labor difficulties locally.

Here our problems are usually recognized by all concerned and serious effort is always forthcoming when the necessity arises for keeping our machinery in gear. Only through such mutual understanding can the people of any city, state or nation reap a full harvest.

"South Dakota, convicts dynamite companion to bits." If the trend continues, the police should have an easy time mopping up bandit rings.

TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT

It is a little bit hard to share the righteous indignation of the good people who got all stirred up because a Sacramento barroom had a mural painting of the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson on its walls.

Granted that the exhibition is not, perhaps, in the most flawless taste, since when, one must ask, has the highest standard of good taste been applicable to the decorations of barrooms? And is there, after all, anything to excite one's reverent awe in the story of the king who threw away his crown because it was too much trouble to wear it?

The ordinary citizen of this republic is none too heavily impressed by kings. And by the same token, the ordinary citizen can't see where the likeness of Edward placed upon a wall is going to do any irreparable damage to the duke, who probably wouldn't give a tuppence whether his picture was there or not.

STRENGTHENING THE WEAK LINK

"I see one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished."

Thus does President Roosevelt, while seeing the climbing prosperity that is returning to two-thirds of America, point out the essential test facing the nation during the second four years of the New Deal.

And the President's inaugural message throws a challenge to America to meet the test of improving the status of that portion of the population toward which good times still have not approached. The underlying theme of Mr. Roosevelt's stand is that social legislation must be achieved for the benefit of those who have too little.

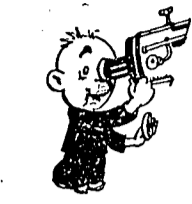

He is determined to achieve it. A congress that may prove unruly, and courts which may rule against portions of the social and labor legislation, loom as possible obstacles—but the legislative and judicial branches of government cannot fail to recognize that the present millions of jobless form the weak link in the upward climb.

Obstacles or not, Mr. Roosevelt, in his second New Deal intends to add the underdog.

That will strengthen the weak link for us all.

WHOOOPS! A GREAT IDEA!

Dear Pot Shots: Here's an opportunity for you and the whole Times force to save some money. And me—I'm out of coal. How about the four bits. Culling all men! Half a dozen people have told me that it's very impolite to blow one's nose at a table. Emily Post says so, plus all the other etiquette authorities. Or so these folks inform me acidly.

But I ask you: which is better, to blow or not to blow... when blowing becomes vital? I'll blow every time. —Fibbert

CHAPTER I

A TALL, black-haired man in a gray business suit stood on a terrace beside the royal lodge and moodily watched the evening shadows sliding over clipped hedges and flawless lawn.

Twenty miles away, to the east, the lights of the capital city of the great empire of Northumbria put a glow on the darkening sky. The lodge—a rustic affair of logs, despite its name, but a great mansion of cut stone—rose behind him, its vast bulk seeming to express the solidity and massive weight of the empire whose monarch it housed. The man turned restlessly, looking from the eastern glow in the sky to the pile of masonry behind him.

Lights gleamed from French windows in the wall at his back. The windows swung open, as he gazed at them, and a trim young man in the uniform of a naval lieutenant came out and stepped briskly across the flagged pavement. Halting a few yards from the tall man in gray, this officer clicked his heels and said, "Your majesty, it is ready."

The tall man straightened with an air of relief, and flipped his cigarette into the shrubbery. "Curtain for the last act, eh?" he said quietly. "All right, Bart. I'll be right in."

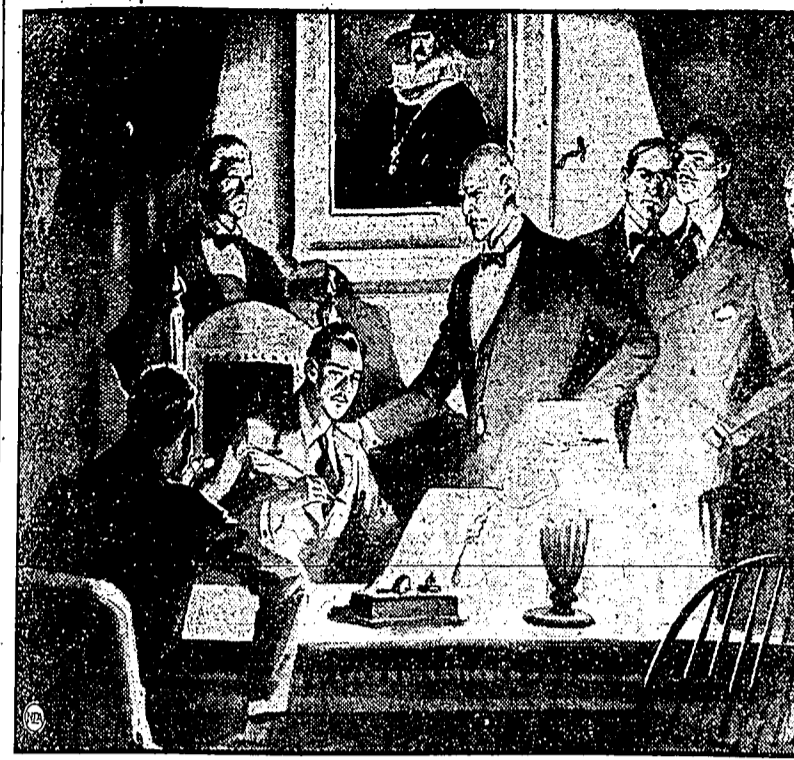

The officer wheeled formally, as if he stood on a quarterdeck in the presence of an admiral, and went back inside. The tall man took one more look around him at the exquisitely artificial landscape, the formal flower beds, the hedges in which not one leaf was out of place, and drew a long breath. Then, thrusting his hands deep into his pockets and holding his head back with a half-defiant gesture, he followed the officer through the French windows and into the room.

Half a dozen men stood about the spacious room; some of them were in uniform, some in formal civilian attire. All of them automatically drew themselves erect as the tall man came in. Their eyes were fixed on his face—the black mustache, the tired eyes and the boyish mouth that were recognizable in every country on the globe—and they murmured, "Good evening, sire," as he crossed briskly to an inlaid table before the wide fireplace.

HE acknowledged their greeting with a careless flip of his hand and bent over the table to look at a single sheet of paper that lay on it. The royal crest decorated the top of the sheet; there followed a dozen typewritten lines which stated that "I, King Paul the First of Northumbria, hereby surrender, renounce and abdicate all rights to the throne of the empire." The tall man read it through quickly.

Beside the table stood an elderly man in evening clothes. He had an imperious Roman nose that jutted proudly above a luxuriant white mustache, and his eyes had the direct, piercing look of a man who is accustomed to command. "Your majesty," he said, "I regret profoundly that I am obliged to offer this paper for your signature."

The king looked at him and smiled suddenly. "I believe that you really do," he said. He glanced around the room, seemed mildly surprised, and took a second look around.

From a stand of ornately carved gold he picked up a pen. "Well, gentlemen, it is all over," he said.

"Isn't my brother here?" he asked.

"He has gone to his rooms," said the hawk-nosed man. "He asked me to tell your majesty that he was too affected to remain. He wishes to see your majesty immediately afterward."

The king smiled again—rather sadly, this time.

"Poor Joseph. He takes it hard," he said. Then he turned to the table. From a stand of ornately carved gold he picked up a pen. For a moment he stood looking at its point, as if he had never had a chance to examine a pen point before; then, as if he had come at last to some decision, he put pen to paper and in a steady hand wrote "Paul, R." at the foot of the waiting sheet. He laid the pen down carefully, stood erect, and looked about the room.

"Well, gentlemen, it is all over," he said.

NO one moved. He looked at their faces, as if trying to read the expressions on them; but all were elaborately impassive as if each man had donned a mask.

"The king, gentlemen," said Paul, "is upstairs. I am going to him now. He will be down directly."

He strode across the room, passed through a wide hall, and climbed a great flight of stairs to an upper floor. He moved jauntily, as if some profound weight had fallen from his shoulders. And, indeed, he reflected, that was precisely the case. He had dropped the weight of a great empire.

He tapped at a door at the end of a hall, opened it and went in. The room was dusky, the tall windows standing out as gray oblongs in the dark walls. A slim young man stood by one of them, silhouetted indistinctly against the deepening twilight. He did not turn around as Paul came in. Paul walked rapidly across the room and laid his hand on the youth's shoulder.

"Well, Joseph," he said affecttionately, "it's all over. The king is dead. Long live the king—and may God protect and preserve him."

The young man turned. A pale, anxious face looked up through the gloom at the man who had just renounced the throne.

"Oh, Paul!" said the young man. "Paul! Why...?"

His voice was unsteady, and his features worked as he strove to control himself. He gripped Paul's upper arms with his fingers. Paul smiled the affectionate, pitying smile of an older brother.

"Why?" he said softly. "Surely we've gone into that enough. Let's just say that I've laid down a job I ought never to have taken up. Let's say that after giving thirty-five years to the empire—twenty-five as prince, and ten as king—I am trying to get a few brief years for myself. And let's also say, Joseph, that the throne and the crown are in better hands now than before—for they are held by a man who really believes in them."

JOSEPH looked into his eyes for a long time. Then he jerked himself away, almost savagely, and with a visible effort straightened himself and regained control of his emotions. When he spoke his voice was flat and expressionless.

"I suppose they're waiting for me—down there?"

"They are. Go on down, King Joseph."

"You're leaving—at once?"

"Right away. I expect the cars is at the door now."

"And I'll never see you again." "Never again. You don't belong to yourself any more, my boy. You belong to the people—to millions upon millions of them, carrying the hopes and the aspirations and the dreams of all of them around on your shoulders. You'll want to get away from it; you'll feel all of that as an actual, tangible weight, pressing down on you without a let-up, day and night, as long as you live. It'll be hard, especially when you see poor, downtrodden people look up at you out of their misery and say, 'God save the king!' with a break in their voices, so that you'll know that unless you help them no one will... and then you'll discover that the throne and the scepter are only make-believe, after all, and that there's pitifully little you can do for them."

He stopped abruptly and stroked his brother's shoulder.

"Go on down, your majesty," Paul said lightly. "And—good-bye. Try not to think too badly of me."

The young king gripped his hand, hard. "Think badly of you? You've always been—my king! And you always will!"

Joseph turned and went out hurriedly without looking back.

THE open doors threw a fan of yellow light into the porte cochere. Paul came down the steps and got into the waiting automobile. A guard saluted rigidly, the car door closed with matter-of-fact finality, and the car sped noiselessly off down the drive into the darkness.

Half an hour later the car swung in through the medieval gate of ancient Fort St. Gregory. It rolled quietly past the great battlements, turned, and came at last to an open meadow which had been grazing ground for the garrison's cattle, since time immemorial, until a new kind of warfare had come along and turned it into an airport.

It took but a few moments for Paul to get into the gray monoplane that waited.

And then they were out over the ocean, and the land fell behind them, and the lights of the capital rimmed the invisible horizon far in the rear. And Paul did not look back, for he was through with the past and all its memories. He peered over the pilot's shoulder at the unfathomable blackness ahead, as if he were trying to make out the fair shape of a future that was to be his own.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon Exclusive Evening Times Report from the Nation's Capital by An Expert Commentator. (Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

BALL-PUSHING

WASHINGTON—Vague happenings lately relating to labor and peace have spurred speculation about what President Roosevelt will be up to.

His political pal, Senator Norris, is rounding up the liberals for what seems to be a constitutional amendment drive, although the President is out against an amendment. John L. Lewis, who holds a $50,000 mortgage on the Democratic national committee, has suddenly come around to negotiating for a settlement of the auto strike. The most important politico-business authority in England, Walter Runciman, is coming down to spend the week-end at the White House. A French emissary is packing his trunk to come over to talk debts.

What these confusing events probably add up to is best summarized by one of his devoted associates, who says:

"The President is just pushing the ball around and letting everyone kick it. When they get it into the right position, he will take it and run for another touchdown."

EXPLORATION

This is also the answer being offered super-authoritatively to the question of whom Mr. Roosevelt is behind. They say he is not behind anyone except himself. That is, he is permitting all his associates and friends to promote their own individual schemes in their own ways. He is encouraging international conversations about trade, debt payments and peace. But he is not binding himself to any particular program or individual. He is not promoting any formula held in the back of his mind.

This, they say, is the best possible technique to work out solutions of the most perplexing problems of modern statesmanship. It is temporarily confusing, and uncertain, but so is all exploratory work.

Those who are in the President's confidence believe the method being used is the best guarantee of success. They are looking forward to at least one touchdown shortly, possibly two.

Note—in view of this explanation, the second inaugural was probably premature. The President apparently is not yet ready to tell all. What he is up to for his second term may be more fully disclosed by more specific inaugurations a couple of months hence.

CONFLICT

Those off-the-record trade conversations with Britain have developed a very important new point. The preliminary dealing has all been unofficial, of course, so officials are in a position to deny everything. However, the British are known to have suggested with some force that the Roosevelt-Hull neutrality program seems to conflict with the Roosevelt reciprocal trade program. The suggestion was somewhat amazing to Mr. Hull's force of young foreign trade salesmen. They had not encountered the argument seriously before.

It seems to be true Britain will either be a belligerent or a supply depot on one side or the other in the next war. Under the neutrality program, our dealings with her would, in either event, be stopped. The British are naturally unexcited about a trade agreement which would be cut off at a time when it would be most needed from her standpoint.

Our trade salesmen have pointed out to the far-sighted British that, even if their hypotheses came to pass, Britain could still continue exports to this country. That prospect of unbalanced trade, however, is admittedly not very alluring.

The right answer has not yet been found. It may turn up before Mr. Runciman arrives today. Of course, Britain could solve the problem by adopting a neutrality program similar to ours, but that does not seem likely.

COOLING

If that short gentleman with the mustache at an inaugural social gathering the other day was really a foreign spy, his troubles are just starting. Two naval officers noticed he always seemed to be near enough to overhear their purely non-naval conversation. They decided to offer him something worth listening to. One of the frigates was working out in those new gun turrets. His companion caught the suggestion defly and replied very loudly that the new system would probably double the metal throwing capacity of the guns. Hereafter, four guns would be put in a single turret, etc. etc. The suspect immediately departed.

If he shows up at the frigates plant, arrangements have been made to let him investigate the workings of an ice box from the inside.

VAGRANT PREFERS JAIL

LANFORD, Calif. (U)—Jail fare agrees with Carl Berry, 44. After serving a 60-day vagrancy sentence he was released only to return the same day and ask to be returned to his cell, saying "the going was too tough outside." The judge sentenced him to an additional 60 days.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBELN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Besides the drugs already mentioned as being suitable for the family medicine chest, it is well to have available a small bottle of glycerine. This is useful for many purposes.

Most commonly, a few drops of glycerine, warmed so as not to burn when tested on the inside of the wrist, are used in the ear as a comforting application in earache.

Bicarbonate of soda is useful in many ways. When added to the bath, it is helpful for itching of the skin. As has already been mentioned, it may be added to gargles for relief of irritation and for removal of mucus.

For a greater number of American business men, it is the common accompaniment of a quick lunch for the relief of what they call "sour stomach."

Nevertheless, it should be pointed out that the regular treatment of this condition with bicarbonate of soda is a dangerous practice, since the pain and the belching of acid material after eating may be the signs of a beginning ulcer of the stomach.

The use of bicarbonate of soda under such circumstances is like pouring water on a fireball to put out a fire.

Aromatic sprays of ammonium is a home remedy useful in bringing about recovery after fainting spells. It may be inhaled or taken internally, one-half teaspoonful in water.

Remember, however, that a fainting spell may be a sign of a weakened heart or a serious change in the circulation of the blood, and is not to be considered lightly. Then there are ointments of various kinds now widely promoted for many purposes. There are cold cream, zinc oxide ointment, vaso-

FEDERAL PRISON DIRECTOR QUILTS

Sanford Bates, Justice Head, Resigns to Accept New Job

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Sanford Bates, director of federal prison, resigned today.

Bates' resignation came as a surprise. His post is one of the major offices in the department of justice.

Bates' views on prison paroles and pardons several times have conflicted with those of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation.

Hoover has been critical of parole methods—especially those followed by the states. Bates has been a strong supporter of parole systems.

Has Offer In a letter of resignation to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Bates said:

"As I advised you on Wednesday last I have had under consideration for some time now an offer made by the Boys' Club of America, Inc., to become executive head of that organization. This seems to offer a splendid opportunity for work in the field of crime prevention and I have decided to accept. Incidentally, a salary 60 per cent in excess of what I am receiving has been guaranteed."

STUDENTS RENT BICYCLES NEW WESTMINSTER, Pa. (U)—Two Westminster college students have succeeded in business in a small way—while carrying out their senior class studies. Russell Leiby, Youngstown, O., and Richard Morris, Warren, O., opened a bicycle-renting business. They give two lessons to novices.

You May Not Know That—

Collego of Idaho has instituted court action against the estate of the late Major James McDonald II, seeking $1,203.75 it claims is due on a promissory note for $1,000 at five per cent interest. The note, given Feb. 16, 1931, was to become payable at the death of Major McDonald.

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO—

Jan. 22, 1922 ROME—Thousands today paid homage to Pope Benedict XV whose body lay in the sacrement chapel of St. Peter's. The body of the pope was removed to the sacrement chapel from the throne room of the vatican where it had lain in state visited by special dignitaries of the church and government since its removal from the bed chamber where the pope died at 6 a. m. Sunday.

27 YEARS AGO—

Jan. 22, 1910 The attendance at school is increasing more rapidly than any time during the year. Thirty-five more pupils, exclusive of those entering in the first primary, entered the first week, thirty the second week, and thirty-five this week. The total enrollment has reached 1300. The attendance in school this week has been 1092. The temporary building erected near the Bickel building is all occupied except one room and at the present rate of increase it will be necessary to secure a new teacher and organize a school for that room.

HUGE BOMBERS ADDED TO NAVY

Hawaiian Base Gets First Group of Powerful Fighting Planes

By FRANK TREMAINE
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Strengthening Uncle Sam's front line of defense, 12 giant naval patrol bombers—"battle cruisers of the air" and the last word in air boats—will assume their place in the U. S. navy's air fleet early in 1937, naval officials announced.

The planes are the first completed of 146 now under construction in San Diego. They will be flown to their base at Pea-H Harbor, Honolulu, in January, naval officials at the North Island Naval Air Station said. Others will be flown to bases assigned them as they are completed.

Especially designed for long flights over open seas, the huge, 15-ton monoplanes are said to be the most advanced ships of their type anywhere in the world. The 12 now completed are known as PB-1's and are part of a group of 60 such planes for which the navy contracted with Consolidated Aircraft Corp., in 1935.

116 More to Be Built

The next group of 20, a model with a few variations from the PB-1's, is being built by Consolidated under another contract and will be known as PBY-2. Sixty-six more planes, PBY-3's, were contracted for in November, and Consolidated officials say they probably will be completed in the summer of 1938.

The three contracts total approximately $19,000,000 and, according to Consolidated officials, mark the greatest peacetime construction of large air boats ever undertaken.

The air boats are almost identical with the XPBY-1 monoplane, commanded by Lieut. Commander Kneifer McGinnis, which set a world airline distance record and a world broken line distance record for its class in a non-stop flight from Cristobal Harbor, Canal Zone, to San Francisco Bay, Oct. 14-15, 1935. The airline distance was 3,281 miles and the broken line distance, 3,443 miles.

The planes represent the combined developments of navy and civilian engineers and are said to be unequalled by any military patrol bomber now in service.

Maroa Glub Attends Meeting At School

MAROA, Jan. 22 (Special)—Mrs. Margaret Lux and Mrs. Freda Blas were hostesses yesterday afternoon to 20 members of the Maroa Women's club meeting at the school house. Current events were answers to roll call.

Plans for inviting guest speakers for programs were made during the business session and the group decided to purchase new dishes. The program was presented by Mrs. Celia Klaas and Mrs. Dorothy Ragland. Group singing, readings by Dorothy Mae Miller, Lloyd Reed, Jack Huffman, Iola Warner and Betty Tucker, a tap dance by Geraldine Brown, vocal selection by Jeane Klaas, accompanied by Mrs. Klaas, and a song by Lois Creed.

Mrs. Anna Brown and Mrs. Ella Tegan won the white elephants. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. S. P. Ehlers with Mrs. Hope McCreary assisting.

BRITAIN SHAPES FOREIGN POLICY

Isolation Favored As Nation Enters 1937; To Avoid Embroilment

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON (AP)—British foreign policy, entering 1937, may be defined as on the defensive, recoiling from any conflict or entangling commitment abroad. This position, moreover, is virtually certain to be maintained for another year or two, while the military and political chiefs, aided by the nation's industrialists, rush to completion of their plans for modernizing and expanding the air force, navy and army.

Until it is stronger, Britain will continue to avoid embroilment with any of the dynamic powers—Germany, Japan or Italy—with which its interest may clash.

Symptomatic of this British attitude are Anglo-Italian relations. A year ago, Britain was leading the punitive movement in Geneva as the Italian invasion of Ethiopia moved relentlessly toward its triumph.

The strength of the British fleet in the Mediterranean was more than doubled. Several hundred British bombers and pursuit planes were concentrated in Egypt, and British troops hurried there to reinforce the garrison, ready to repel any Italian attack on soil which Britain owns, or in which it is vitally interested.

CCC YOUTHS AID IN DAM PROJECT

Federal Boys Busy Helping In Tennessee Valley This Winter

WILSON DAM, Ala. (AP)—It's a busy winter for CCC boys in the Tennessee valley.

Although less spectacular than other activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority in creation of its great hydro-electric power projects, the CCC is doing what engineers consider just as important work.

Since November, the youths have been planting 75,000 seedlings daily in carrying out the government's plan of development of the Tennessee watershed. By April it is estimated 18,000,000 seedlings will have been planted.

Work Started in 1935

The work was started during the winter of 1935 when engineers found that steps must be taken to prevent soil erosion filling the dam reservoirs with silt and gradually raising the government's huge investment.

With that in mind, TVA advocated the growth of vegetative cover all the year around on all land subject to drainage into the Tennessee river and its tributaries.

On land suited for cultivation and pasturage, the authority has promoted a program of terracing coupled with the growth of winter grains and similar crops which hold the soil and prevent the formations of gulches.

Some of Land Useless
On less desirable land, the usefulness of which already has been destroyed by erosion, it is planting trees.

In furtherance of its program, TVA has established two nurseries and has effected a point program with CCC camps and farmers. It is developing nut-growing trees as well as trees useful for lumber to increase cash income on the farm.

The Muscle Shoals nursery contains about 80 acres. The second nursery at Clinton, Tenn., is about the same size.

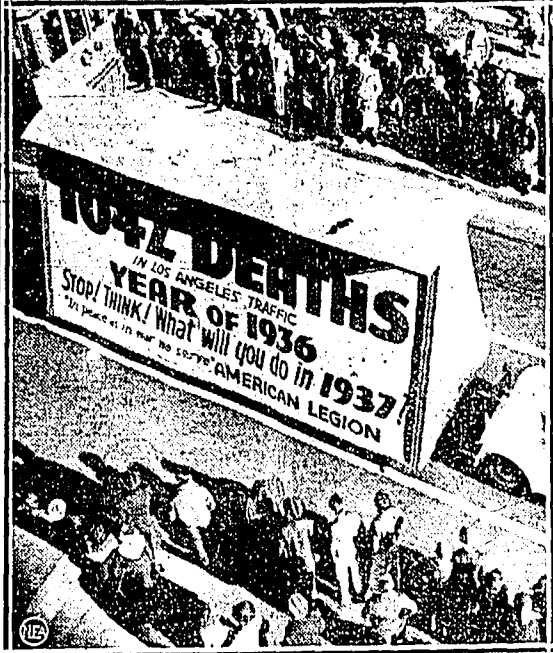

Half of the local one is planted to clover crops such as cow peas and vetch to be plowed under as green fertilizer. On the other half is produced between 6,000,000 and 10,000,000 seedlings annually.

Man Finds Himself

STUEBENVILLE, O. (AP)—Oscar Cameron, 29-year-old coal miner, sought directions at 1:30 a. m. and found only the way to jail. Cameron pulled the lever on what he thought was a police call box. Three fire companies answered. So did police.

CONVICTS MAKE WAR EQUIPMENT

British Prisoners Construct Gas Masks, Kit Bags And Plane Parts

LONDON (AP)—Convicts in British prisons are busy helping in the rearmament program.

They are making gas masks, military sandbags, kitbags, small plane parts and ambulance boxes. At Maldstone Gaol, 5,000 gas masks are made every week. Men with long criminal records serving terms of penal servitude, are employed on making the metal parts of the masks instead of doing the normal heavy punishment duty. In the prison's machine shop skilled workmen are making small parts of planes.

Prisoners in the second division are stitching sandbags and soldiers' packs instead of mailbags. At Dartmoor privileged convicts are being given "hush-hush" armaments tasks. Convicts at Parkhurst, Isle of Wight, are carrying out work similar to that at Maldstone.

The Home Office hopes that with the aid of this prison labor to soon make gas masks available for every one of Britain's 43,000,000 inhabitants.

Coughlin Will Return To Air

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Albert M. Ross, advertising counselor, announced today that Father Charles E. Coughlin will return to the radio next Sunday afternoon to begin a new series of nationwide broadcasts.

He said the priest, who announced his retirement from the air Nov. 7 after the overwhelming re-election of President Roosevelt, would broadcast for 62 weeks. He offered no reasons for the Detroit priest's decision to return.

More twins and triplets were born in the United States during 1935 than in any year before, according to reports from hospitals throughout the country.

TIMBERED LANDS TO BE IMPROVED

Demonstration Areas Planned By Forest Service To Show Methods

MOSCOW, Special)—A number of small timbered tracts throughout the country will be improved as demonstration areas to stimulate the interest of timberland owners in practical forestry methods, the forest service, U. S. department of agriculture, announces. Through arrangement made recently with Robert Peckner, director of emergency conservation work, CCC men will be permitted to participate in carrying on this demonstration work on farm woodlands and other privately-owned timberlands.

Under the plan, as outlined by Earl S. Peirce, chief of the forest service's division of state cooperation, each demonstration will be a cooperative venture in which the owner of the land, the CCC, the extension service, the state forest services, and the U. S. forest service will participate.

The governmental agencies concerned are authorized to do the work in cooperation with the owner, only to the extent it is justified in the public interest as a demonstration in preventing soil erosion, reducing floods, increasing forest and woodland values, promoting more intensive protection from fire, and generally to demonstrate methods which offer greatest possibilities for economic advantage to the owners and their communities.

Adoption of effective forestry methods is of concern to hundreds of rural communities where woodlands have been gradually decreasing in productivity, largely through lack of proper management, Mr. Peirce points out.

Hornsby, Given Time, Expected to Have First Rate Club

CLEVELAND SWAP CONSIDERED BEST

Rajah Called One of Traders in Baseball World Today

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (NEA)—Given time, Rogers Hornsby will wind up with a first rate club in St. Louis without spending a quarter.

Only Branch Rickey of the neighboring Cardinals is the equal of Hornsby in appraising baseball talent. It is significant that Rickey taught Hornsby.

In the winter's biggest deal, the Browns gave Cleveland Lyn Lary, Julius Solters, and Ivy Paul Andrews for Bill Knickerbocker, Joe Vosmik, and Oral Hildebrand.

Personally, it would not have traded Knickerbocker for the other five. If the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees had suspected that Cyril C. Slapnicka had the slightest intention of disposing of Knickerbocker, the old scout now in charge of these rash moves on behalf of the Indians, easily would have engineered a much more favorable swap.

As a matter of fact, a couple or three legs might have been broken in the rush.

The Yankees, Red Sox, Senators, and Browns gave up on Lary. The Red Sox and Browns took a good look at Solters and had enough. The Yankees, Red Sox, and Browns had their fill of Andrews.

Material Vanishes
Cleveland yields its finest trading material for three athletes who repeatedly have been tried and found wanting and for whom the Tribe won't be offered a broken bat.

And Alva Bradley's outfit still finds itself without the party it needs most—a catcher. Had Rolly Hemsley been included in the jockeying, there might have been some excuse.

Lary hasn't a stroke, and won't be a good hitter if he remains active for another 10 years. In eight seasons in the American league, Lary's batting average is .272. In half that time, Knickerbocker's mark is .293. Lary is an exceptional base-runner, but he can't steal first base. Outside of speed and knack on the baselines, the short-stop leaving Cuyahoga county is Lary's equal in every department, and he is six years younger than his fellow Californian and bigger and stronger.

There is ample evidence that Cleveland quit on Vosmik too quickly. Vosmik, a right-handed hitting outfielder in the picture type, experienced only one poor season—1936, when he hit .287. In successive campaigns—1933-4-5, he batted .303, .341, and .348. He missed the American league batting championship by a single point in 1935, when he made the ninth hit—210. Solters hasn't approached any of those marks in three years of major league effort.

Monday started a new semester with the following subjects being stated: business, English in the place of commercial law, economics in the place of sociology.

Mrs. Mary McCarty entertained the members of the Hagerman Friendship club at her home Saturday. Guests were Mrs. H. Clark, Mrs. G. Gulden, Mrs. F. C. Mariner, Mrs. Fairchild, Mrs. H. P. Greene, Mrs. John Baplle, Mrs. P. Kennicot, sr., and Mrs. E. Billiards. Refreshments were served by Misses Lavina and Hazel Beddingfield.

The members of the Epworth League and the Methodist Sunday school sponsored a surprise shower at the Methodist church on Tuesday honoring Mrs. Joseph Zacone, a recent bride, who left Wednesday for Youngstown, Ohio, and Miss Mildred Skinner, who will leave in the near future to enter nursing training in the St. Alphonsus hospital, Boise.

Henry Cosner who has been confined to his home because of illness is reported improving at this time.

Mrs. Charlotte Green has left for Salt Lake City where she will visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Owsley.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Kain, Fort Collins, Colo., en route to Caldwell where they will locate, visited Sunday at the home of Mrs. Kain's grandmother, Mrs. M. H. Allen.

Word was received recently by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dickenson from their son, Charles Dickenson, at Idaho Falls that he is temporarily out of the hospital but still under the doctor's care. He has been in the hospital at Idaho Falls since he was hurt in an accident at the Blind Bull coal mine several months ago.

STANFORD TAKES ON U. OF C. BEARS

Southern Division Pacific Coast Championship At Stake In Annual Tilt

BERKELEY, Calif., Jan. 22 (AP)—Stanford university's basketball team, coast champions last year, tonight meet the University of California Bears here in the first game of the annual series between the two San Francisco area colleges.

The Stanford five, led by Angelo Hank Luisetti, are going into action determined to take not only this game but the next two that follow and win, for the first time since 1921, the annual series for their school. Last year, when Stanford captured the title, they divided a four-game series.

California Holds Edge
California holds 40 victories to eight for Stanford in the series over the 15 years of play.

The game will be played in California gymnasium, which holds 7,500 spectators. Every seat will be filled.

In addition to the annual rivalry, the teams will be battling for honors in the Pacific Coast conference basketball competition, southern division.

PAUL WANER SEES FUTURE HITTER WITH .500 AVERAGE

By HENRY McEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 22 (AP)—Paul Waner, first citizen of Hagar, Okla., who spends his summers winning National league batting championships, his winters playing golf, and his nights losing money to Papa Waner at stud poker, thinks baseball sometime will produce a player capable of hitting .500 for five or more seasons.

Paul described this super batsman to me as we sat in the locker room of the Bobby Jones golf course here after the first round in the baseball players' national championship.

Will Be Big Fellow
"He'll be a hell of a big fellow," said Paul, "this guy who can bust 'em at five hundred or better, much bigger than Jim over there."

The "Jim" Waner referred to was Jimmy Foxx, the blacksmith-built first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, and one of the most powerful men in baseball. Foxx, also an entrant in the golf tournament, was fresh out of the shower and drying his hide with an armful of towels as he cussed the luck that cost him an 81.

"Bigger than Babe Ruth?" we asked.
"Yeah, bigger than the Babe" Paul answered. "He'll have to be, because the main thing the five hundred hitter will have will be size and strength enough to murder the ball like it never was murdered before. Every time he connects the ball must do one of two things—knock infielders down or go out of the park. Hitting the ball squarely all the time won't get you that sort of an average. I know, because last year I swear that eight out of every ten times I swung I hit the ball right. Yet, I wound up with three-seventy-six."

Must Be Old
"How old will this blasting hitter be?" we asked. "About 25, just in his prime?"
"Naw," Paul said, "he'll be an old guy. Somewhere between 35 and 40, because it takes a long time to learn how to hit. I've played eleven years in the major leagues, and I'm just really beginning to learn the business now. Honest, that's the truth. You know why I led the National last year? This is why—I finally learned how to hit to left field. And a left fielder has a big advantage over a right fielder, because when you hit the left field you can wait longer on the ball. In 1934, I led the league hitting to right field, and in 1927 hitting to right, left and center I led because I was a kid and didn't know my spikes from third base."

Would the .500 superman have anything else beside the strength of Gullah and age?
Needs Eyes, Speed
"Oh, yeah, he'll have to have a swell pair of eyes, lots of speed, toughness enough to laugh off injuries, and brains enough to reason himself out of slumps. That ought to be enough for him."

To get away from this mythical get, we asked Paul a few realistic questions dealing with the 1937 season.

He refused to predict a pennant for the Pirates, saying he liked the cards. The nearest thing to an opinion on the condition of Lou Wernicke he allowed himself was semi-cryptic: "Well, he certainly hasn't been any better since he hurt his arm." He looks for the Giants to drop two notches at least. (Copyright, 1937, United Press)

STRIKES TO SPARE

WITH FRED STONE

The Aces weren't.
W. I. Tanner was all over the Aces' alleys and everywhere else. One open frame in all three of his games (one error). His 213 and his 587 toppled everybody for high single and high total. He turned on plenty of juice and got one double his first game and two his last.

Sol Nesby got a turkey his second game and he certainly needed it about then.

Grat Self got two turkeys, one his first game and the other his last.

W. I. Johnson didn't go so good—no one double to end his second game; five splits slowed him up.

We Aces could take it; in fact, we had to.

Stone got a turkey his first, two doubles his second and one his last, but he didn't excite the Power boys.

Boysie Buhler got a double his last game. No doubling up for Ace Miller but he got a lot of spares despite six splits.

Lee McCracken got a turkey his second game and a double his last, but three splits in a row and two errors wrecked his last game.

Vern Jennings had three nice games at anchor for the Aces—174, 172 and 171. Hows' that for consistency? Vern got a double his first game.

Brookfield took the odd game from Twin Falls Lumber.

The winners were paced by Anchor-Man Harper, who had high single of 202 and high three-game total of 592. Lloyd got doubles in both his first and last games.

Wall Dix, at lead for Brookfield, ended his first game with five strikes in a row. Hancock started his last game with four in a row and ended it with a double.

Ruth Rogers, substituting for her father, did a right good job of it. Ruth got a turkey her first game (the only one made by the lumber team) and a double her last.

Anchor-Man Kimes actually got a double himself.

The Friday night game between Electric Motor and the P. O. teams has been postponed. Players on both teams are down with the flu.

The match between Idaho Mutual and a picked team will be played Jan. 31 instead of the 24th.

ELKS OF BURLEY DOWN BOOSTERS

Clubmen Defeat Rupert Squad 38-29 After Uncorking 3rd Period Power

BURLEY, Jan. 22 (Special)—Defeat at the hands of the invading Rupert Boosters last week meant little to the Burley Elks here last night, and they turned on the highly touted Boosters five to hand them a 38 to 29 drubbing.

The Elks took the lead 6 to 4 at the end of the first quarter and were never headed as they increased their margin to 14 to 11 at half time, and ran wild in the third frame to lead 27 to 19.

George Hjort of Burley led the scorers with 14 counters. Ed Ledy scored 12 for Rupert and Baker of Burley gathered 11.

Lineups and summary:
Burley Elks: Hjort (14) and Baker (11), forwards; D. Ledy (9), center; Holmgren and R. Parrish, guards. Substitutions: D. Parrish (2), and Barlow (2).

Rupert Boosters: Lacy (12), and Huggins (9), forwards; Norby (7), center; Carlson (2), and Hendrick (2), guards. Substitutions: Craven (3) and McCloy (3).

Every label tells a story

SOLID MAHOGANY STRAIGHT 100 PROOF

The label on mahogany furniture should tell you whether it's solid or veneered. (Thin layers of mahogany over layers of other woods).

TWO THINGS TO LOOK FOR ON A WHISKEY LABEL

1. The type of whiskey . . . blend or straight
2. The "proof" . . .

These statements on the label are dependable guides to the kind of whiskey you want.

The words "straight whiskey" on a label tell you that here is a bottle of "full whiskey" and "all one kind of whiskey." The "proof" printed on the label tells you the strength of the whiskey.

On a bottle of Old Mr. Boston Straight Whiskey these two things mean extra value for your money. It's 100 proof . . . full strength. And when you taste it you find it's tops in silky smoothness and full, rich flavor because its higher proof delivers more whiskey taste.

When you buy whiskey, get your full money's worth. Remember . . . you need so much less of this whiskey in a highball that you get at least two extra highballs from every bottle. Ask for Old Mr. Boston 100 Proof Straight Whiskey.

Your Children By Olive Roberts Barton

Recently a mother complained that her child was learning bad habits at school. After visiting the room, she decided to take the little girl out to see her to a private school. "Because," she said, "I never saw such a mixture of unkempt looking children."

FLAPPER FANNY By Sylvia

"Can you really get germs from kisses?" "Well, I know they can cause a lot of heart trouble."

It was her affair, and I made no comment; but I have been thinking it over. Influence outside the home is bound to have some effect on young life, and the cultured parent will be very resentful when she hears her daughter, who has never heard a rude word spoken in the family, yell to someone to "Shut your mouth," or "I slip you down if you say that."

During December of last year, 1,311 applications were received for new troops throughout the United States, against 752 received for the same period during 1935.

The MONARCH "Speed-Oven"

Brings new convenience and economy to Electric Cookery. SPEED surely does count in electric cooking! Quicker action means greater convenience... and economy. No wonder, then, that the Monarch Electric Range has so rapidly become the favorite. Its "Speed-Oven" is the result of improved design and more effective insulation. It actually bakes biscuits in 10 minutes from a cold start! The toasters, too, are quicker in their action.

SALE OF GRAINS BRINGS REACTION

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (UP)—Persistent selling pressure coupled with an absence of demand brought sharp reactions in all grain prices on the Chicago board of trade today. Heavy short-covering of recent sessions found the market in a weakened technical position and it needed only declines in foreign markets to touch off a slide in values here.

At the close wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents lower, May $1.27, new corn was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents lower, May $1.07 1/2; old corn was 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents lower, May $1.05 1/2, and oats were 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower, May 49 1/2 cents.

Wheat led the market in its downward trend, losing one to three cents a bushel with the May delivery showing the sharpest loss.

Kisses Bad For Spreading 'Flu,' Doctor Advises

Love is a great thing but kissing is taboo so far as influenza is concerned, a Twin Falls physician, who preferred to remain anonymous, commented today.

Many diseases, the doctor said, are transmitted by the mouth, and colds and flu are easily spread in this manner. Kissing, most physicians will agree, is all right in its place, but not when many persons have bad colds.

"Anyway," the physician continued, "spring is a better time for making love than winter, and a little caution now will make it more certain you will be around in the spring to enjoy it."

Claude Pratt wishes to give a little heart to heart talk to the ladies of Twin Falls and Twin Falls county. Claude Pratt is offering a $20 bill to the married lady over 21 years of age that can drive the most 10-penny casing nails in a plank in 3 minutes. Pratt will give $10 as second prize, $5 as third prize and $1 for a booby prize. If the weather permits we expect to hold this nail-driving contest on April Fool's day—that will give you ladies an opportunity to do a lot of practicing. In order to help you get nails cheap to practice on we will sell you these 10-penny casings for 3c lb. Or you are welcome to buy these nails any place in town that you wish. This is not a lottery game and you are under no obligation to buy a nickel's worth of stuff from us, but I am going to make a suggestion to you that you come in your first chance and look over our paint, enamel, varnish and calcimine stock. We have just received one of the largest complete and most up-to-date stocks in Southern Idaho. We have the Pearl Glo washable pearl-like finish in all the latest colors such as orchid, twilight blue, jade green, peach, apricot and many other beautiful colors. And say ladies I want you to know that we also have the Quick-Step Floor Finish in very attractive colors and this wonderful quick drying floor enamel is suitable for inside or outside porch floors, porch furniture, kitchen built-in work, concrete floors—iron, wood or stone. This is all the General Paint line. And you know the quality is good and the price is wonderful. Don't you think if Claude Pratt is willing to give you a $20 prize just for 3 minutes of your skill you at least should come down and look over his paint stock, even though you didn't buy a quart of varnish, or a box of calcimine, you might be just wanting to get 5 lbs. of their 10-penny casing nails for 15c to practice up on. My son, Victor, says to tell you men that he has several used cars for sale and Claude Pratt sincerely believes that he's selling the best motor oil in Idaho. And the thousands of users are the proof that the oil is of superior quality. Someone told Claude Pratt today that someone said he was a humbug. That isn't so. I am neither a big bug nor a humbug. I am just a bit fat bug from Arkansas. Well we don't care what people call us. Thousands of people love us and a few hate us and we love everybody and we don't sell tobacco.

AS WE "Go Modern" LET'S NOT FORGET OLD-TIME FUNDAMENTALS

WHEN folks bought ranges, back in 1903, the MONARCH was the last word in snappy new style.

In those days there was no porcelain enamel—an artistic design to divert attention from the malleable iron construction and riveted joints that women considered vitally important.

Long life, good baking and fuel economy were the feature that housewives trusted on having. And "malleable" ranges gave these qualities as no other range could.

Are these considerations less important today? We believe not.

MONARCH has "Gone Modern" to the limit—but MONARCH has not forsaken the fundamentals of malleable iron construction that insure tight joints, efficient cooking and "Stay Satisfactory" service.

Underneath that beautiful enamel body you will find the same unbreakable malleable iron parts—the same riveted construction that there was 30 years ago.

And the good qualities your Mother demanded in her range are the same ones YOU should demand today.

Buy a beautiful enameled range, by all means—but be sure there are malleable iron parts and riveted joints underneath the enameled body.

Let us show you a MONARCH—and explain how it is made.
