France Will Ask Hitler Cooperation In Effort To Aid European Peace

Offer Substantial Economic Help In Return

PARIS, Jan. 23 (UP)—Premier Leon Blum, in a speech tomorrow at Lyons, is expected to invite Adolf Hitler to join in an effort to solidify Europe's peace in return for substantial economic aid.

It was understood Blum had informed Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain of the general lines of his speech and that he would have Britain's full support.

Whether there were last minute changes in the speech, it was said, would depend on a report to be made by Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador at Berlin, who tried to ascertain the German opinion of the gesture.

Blum and Eden were reported to have agreed the proper moment had arrived to invite Hitler to join in a general peace settlement. He would have such a chance in a speech he is to make at a special Reichstag meeting next Saturday, fourth anniversary of the Nazi accession to power in Germany.

It is asserted that Blum has been working for months to prepare the basis for a situation in which Britain and France could make suitable offers to Germany, with maximum chances of success.

If he does, as expected, make his first offer tomorrow, it will be in auspicious setting. The occasion will be a banquet at which Blum will be the guest of Radical Socialists, of the left wing popular front and there is a notable list of speakers representing elements of the popular front. Thus, though essentially the busiest man in the world, Blum will be speaking at the popular front feast.

Difficulty Remains The difficulty remains in an effort to bring Germany and France together that France believes economic cooperation to be impossible without political assurances, specifically assurances that Germany is ready to join in armament limitation. France believes, it is said here with British agreement, that relaxation of political tension must parallel, even if it does not precede, any negotiations on economic problems, financial aid, trade, access to raw materials or colonies.

Thus, to French leaders, the first indication as to the possibility of peace negotiations now will be given in Hitler's speech and what he has to say, or chooses not to say, regarding the possibility of armament limitation.

ELECTRICIANS IN CHICAGO STRIKE

City In Darkness For Three Hours As Union Men Quit

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (UP)—Union electric workers warned Chicago's millions today that the strike which left them without street and traffic lights for nearly three hours last night was "only a taste" of what they will get next week unless their wage demands are met.

The 800 city electricians demanded return of a depression salary cut amounting to 30 days pay, or $200,000 a year. The city council said it had no money. The workers, members of two local units of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, abandoned their switches at 8 p. m.

Streets Dark For two hours and 40 minutes many streets were dark. Bridge tenders raised the spans of 37 bridges over the main channel of the Chicago river and two over its branches. Street cars crawling through the darkness jolted at the open spans. Passengers grumbled, became angry, left the cars to find a bridge on foot.

L-Train Wreck Blame Placed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (UP)—The Chicago elevated train disaster which resulted in the death of 10 persons and injuries to 50 others, was caused by the lack of an efficient system to provide for the proper spacing of trains, the Interstate commerce commission reported today.

The report urged immediate consideration of means of providing for an adequate block signaling system and elimination of wood cuts from the service as rapidly as practical.

Career Ends

Death had ended today the career of State Senator T. Dan Connor of Elller, who succumbed at the age of 72. Services are planned in Twin Falls Monday afternoon.

CONNOR SERVICES SET FOR MONDAY

Group of Legislators Will Add Tribute At Funeral For State Senator

Services for T. Dan Connor, Twin Falls county's state senator who died at his Elller home yesterday afternoon following a prolonged illness, will be held from 10 to 11 a. m. at the White mortuary chapel in Twin Falls at 3 p. m. Monday, it was announced today.

Burial will be in the Elks plot in Twin Falls cemetery under the direction of the local lodge. Former-District Judge James R. Bothwell is to give the eulogy, and A. Wilton Peck will sing during the services.

Senators Will Come A group of senators from the state legislature, now in session in Boise, will attend services in a body.

Mr. Connor came to Idaho in 1888 from Iowa and first made his home at Wallace where he was employed by the railroad until 1898 when he entered business there, establishing Dan's Smoke shop. He was subsequently elected mayor of Wallace and was in office when former President Theodore Roosevelt visited the north Idaho mining town in 1902.

In 1905 he established his residence on a 40-acre farm near Elller, being one of the first settlers in this county. He has resided there since that time.

Third Term A lifelong Democrat, Mr. Connor was re-elected last November in the general election to a third term in the Idaho senate. Previous to his senatorial career he had served one term as Twin Falls county commissioner in 1923-24.

He was one of the organizers of the Elller Mutual Telephone company and had always taken an active interest in community enterprises.

He was a life member of the Elks lodge at Wallace, a lodge he joined 33 years ago. He was also a member of the Twin Falls unit of the Modern Woodmen of America. Mr. Connor was born March 21, 1864, in New York City, moving westward as a young man.

His widow, Mrs. Francis Connor, survives.

CLARK DELAYS ACTION BOISE, Jan. 23 (UP)—Governor Clark gave no indication today what he would appoint to fill the vacancy left in the Idaho Senate by the death Friday of T. Dan Connor of Elller, the senator from Twin Falls county.

Prominently mentioned to fill the vacancy were: C. H. Hempleman, Twin Falls rancher; H. A. DeNeal, mayor of Bulli; Harry W. Barry, Bulli, real estate man; and Mrs. Francis Connor, the widow.

DEATH ACCIDENT

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 23 (UP)—Police today said they believed the death of Mrs. Anita Botelho, 21, who was found dying in a frozen creek in a park here, was the result of an accident rather than homicide, as first thought.

An autopsy disclosed, it was reported, that her death apparently resulted from alcoholism and exposure in the freezing weather.

UNDERGOES OPERATION ROME, Jan. 23 (UP)—Crown Prince Michael of Roumania underwent an operation for appendicitis today, a dispatch from Florence said. His condition was reported satisfactory. Michael is 17.

President Continues Official Silence On Methods To Obtain Objectives

By JOE ALEX MORRIS WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (UP)—Administration leaders began working out details of President Roosevelt's 1937 legislative program today after White House and congressional conferences of neutrality, federal reorganization and labor standards.

The President continued official silence on the specific methods by which he expects to achieve second New Deal objectives on minimum wages, maximum hours and strong safeguards for American neutrality.

But from Capitol Hill and from a series of calls by congressional leaders at the White House came indication of the first moves in the 75th congress. They included:

1. Sinks Amendments Introduction by Chairman Key Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee of amendments to the 1935 neutrality act to give the President broad discretionary power to restrict or embargo American vessels from transporting any kind of materials to belligerents.

2. An increasing belief among congressional veterans that a large part of the President's proposed reorganization of the executive branch might be pressed for approval if the administration puts real weight behind it as is expected.

3. Preparation by Sen. James Pope, D., Idaho, of a crop insurance bill—written in accord with the President's reorganization plan to avoid increase of federal agencies which will provide for guarantees on the yield instead of the price of wheat.

4. Indications that the Democratic leadership will depend upon the power of congress to prevent obstruction of the free flow of interstate commerce as the vehicle by which to enact legislation setting up minimum wages, maximum hours and a ban on child labor.

Sen. Hugo Black, D., Ala., who conferred with the President Wednesday, said his own idea was (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

CABINET RESIGNS IN NIPPON CRISIS

Dispute Between Politicians And Army Leaders Is Cause

TOKYO, Jan. 23 (UP)—The cabinet resigned today as the result of an angry dispute between army and political leaders.

Premier Koki Hirota went at once to the imperial palace and submitted the resignations of the ministers. The emperor accepted the resignation informally, asking Premier Hirota and his associates to remain at their posts until a new cabinet was named.

Acceptance of the resignations was informal because technically they will not be effective until a new cabinet is named.

Parliamentary leaders decided upon resignation as the alternative to dissolution of parliament, demanded by Gen. Count Hasegawa, war minister, as spokesman for army leaders.

AID CONVICTS

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 23 (UP)—Attorney General B. M. Vincent prepared today to evacuate the state prison and house its 4,000 inmates in the buildings of the Kentucky normal school.

More than a foot of water cover the yards of the state prison. Inmates were kept in their cells, but rising water threatened hourly to make the entire building uninhabitable.

Coast Starts Drive To Raise Red Cross Flood Relief Money

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (UP)—The Pacific district of the American Red Cross today started a drive to raise $25,000 for the relief of the nationwide Red Cross campaign to raise money to aid flood sufferers in the blue ribbon and central states.

First Aid For Spaniards

Natly uniformed and with $30,000 worth of medical supplies and four ambulances in the hold of the liner, thirteen members of the first American ambulance unit are pictured on shipboard as they sailed from New York to give succor to battle wounded Spaniards in Spain. The personnel, headed by Dr. Edward Barsky, includes ambulance drivers, nurses and interpreter.

Workers Named In Drive For Concerts

With plans nearly complete this afternoon for the "kick-off" dinner to be held Monday and the all-union drive by the Twin Falls Community Concert association, workers had been lined up to begin the campaign on Tuesday and cooperation of all civic organizations was assured.

Chambers of Commerce endorsement of the project includes assurance of cooperation from both the senior and junior chambers and a committee named to assist with the drive. Ministers of Twin Falls churches have agreed to announce the project from the pulpits tomorrow.

Mrs. D. L. Alexander, president of the association, announced today it is imperative that all workers attend the dinner on Monday at 6.30 p. m. at the Park hotel. David Ferguson, New York, representative of the Columbia Broadcasting system and campaign director, will be present to announce the campaign plans.

Headquarters for sale of tickets will open Tuesday morning at the Sampson music company store, 117 Main avenue east.

The organization has set for the objective for the first year membership enrollment of $2,000 for the concert series. Fee for adults is $2 and for children, $2. Only members are to be admitted to the concerts.

It is probable that the first of the series will be a concert by the Hope House string quartet and will be held about Feb. 8, if the organization is perfected. Mrs. Alexander announced. Others will be secured later.

FEW WORDS

A man of few words is Sen. William E. Borah. He used just six of those words today in assuring Twin Falls that he will renew his efforts to secure increased WPA quota and feasible plans for aiding drought immigrants here. Replying to Mayor Duncanson McEljohn's latest appeal, Senator Borah wired tersely: "Will do the best I can."

Farley To Resign From Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (UP)—James A. Farley, confirmed for a second term as President Roosevelt's postmaster-general, is looking for a new job. Farley declined to say when he intends to resign, but it was learned definitely that he plans to leave the cabinet post within three months for private employment—provided he can find something satisfactory.

He told this correspondent about the kind of job he'd like to get when he resigns. The interview took place in his Pullman compartment aboard the New York bound train he catches every Friday to spend the week-end with his family.

Doesn't Want Title "I don't want anything flashy or with a fancy title," he said and worked on correspondence. "I'd like some kind of an executive or adviser post where my experience and head of the biggest business in the world—the United States post of-

COLD, HUNGER HIT 300,000 REFUGEES IN MIDDLEWEST FLOOD

COLD SLUMPS TO 14-BELOW MARK

Renewed Sub-Zero Wave In City Sends Mercury Tumbling Lower

Forecasts of snow with moderating temperatures failed to materialize in the Twin Falls area last night and thermometers slumped to 14 below zero early today as the renewed frigid wave tightened its grasp on the city.

Yesterday's low point was five degrees zero. Warmest part of the day recorded only five above.

Forecast for tonight and Sunday indicated probable continuance of the intense cold, since little or no change in temperature was predicted. Probable snow flurries, however, may ease the below-zero spell slightly.

Most Roads Open All but 11 of the 115 miles of Twin Falls highway still closed during the recent blizzard were open today. J. D. Sinema, director, announced. These 11 miles were so scattered throughout the district that travel was not hindered. All mail and school bus routes were open.

Of the roads yet to be cleared a majority of it will have to be shoveled out, Sinema said, because the extreme cold weather has frozen the drifts solid, making plows unusable.

A light snow was falling in Twin Falls at intervals today.

Evening Times Moves Offices

Big Job of Taking Entire Equipment to New Home Starts Today

Task of moving the equipment of an entire newspaper in a day and a half was undertaken this afternoon by the Evening Times.

Mechanical and office equipment, files, furniture and other facilities were being transferred to the Twin Falls News building, which became the future home of the Evening Times when the Idaho Times Publishing company took over the News on Jan. 1.

The big task was expected to be completed some time Sunday, and the Times will be published from its new location Monday. Present offices of the Times will no longer be used after tonight, and all departments will be available to the public in future at the combined headquarters of both the evening and morning publications.

2 ARRAIGNED ON BURGLARY COUNT

Hearing Fixed And Bonds Of $1,500 Set For Pair In Hansen Break-In

Two suspects were arraigned before Probate Judge Guy L. Kinney here today on charges of first degree burglary at the Jack Goertzen service station at Hansen early Tuesday.

The men—Elmer Beverly, 21, and Fred R. King, 28—demanded preliminary hearing, which was set for Jan. 28 at 2 p. m. Judge Kinney set bonds of $1,500 each and the pair was remanded to the county jail.

The burglary complaint was filed in probate court today by J. A. Goertzen of Hansen. Goertzen frightened the intruders away before the break-in was complete by accompanying them and Charles L. Sherwood of Hansen captured Beverly when they found him later behind a stalled automobile. Sheriffs' offices and a state patrolman seized King after tracking him over a mile through heavy snows.

Family of Eight Reported Dead in Ohio River Flood

HENDERSON, Ky., Jan. 23 (UP)—Eight persons, a farmer, his wife and six children, today were reported drowned in the Ohio river near Henderson. The farmer, Fred Johnson, and his family, were reported dead by C. F. Williams, a flood relief worker,

Ten Known Dead in Disaster Raging Blizzard Adds To Suffering In Central States

Nearly 300,000 refugees fought hunger, cold and illness in a flooded "no man's land" today as rivers of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys surged to their highest points in history.

At least ten persons had died due to the floodwaters in the nine-state area. One froze to death and others were feared to have met the same fate as sub-freezing temperatures brought sleet to the mid-south.

Twenty-three were known dead and hundreds were feared missing. In Washington the Red Cross inaugurated a $2,000,000 drive for funds to aid the homeless. Approximately 14,000 WPA, NYA and CCC workers were withdrawn from regular projects and hurled into the fight against rising waters.

Homeless crunched in flimsy shelters on hilltops, in abandoned schools, in city halls and churches, and hastily converted emergency centers.

Blizzard Rages A blizzard sweeping across the Ohio and part of the Mississippi valleys brought hopes that the rising streams would be halted. But suffering of refugees was doubled.

Whooping influenza and pneumonia epidemics were feared. Typhoid serum was rushed to isolated communities.

Grave fears were held for several hundred persons marooned in southeast Missouri and northeastern Arkansas. Practically every city and town in the eastern half of two large counties west of the St. Francis river in eastern Arkansas either was inundated or isolated.

Leaves Broken Water engulfed them fast from four additional St. Francis river levee breaks yesterday.

At Caraway, Ark., half of the 500 population slept in the open on improvised platforms, constructed hastily as water flooded all buildings.

Men, women and children brought some of their livestock onto the platforms with them. Appeals for food and fuel came from Cardwell, Mo., early today as the city—its 1,000 population completely isolated—had less than a ton of coal, no fresh meat and little other food. Sleet added to the misery.

St. Francis Rising The St. Francis river was rising again from another break in the levee near Senath, Mo. The levee (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

IDAHO CHAMBER ADJOURNS MEET

Barley Selected As Meeting Place of Convention Next Year

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 23 (UP)—The Idaho State Chamber of Commerce adjourned its 11th annual convention last night after re-electing all but one of its directors, passing numerous resolutions, and selecting Barley for its next meeting place.

The chamber urged application of blister-trust control work to all forest lands of the state; control of noxious weeds and pests; a non-partisan fish and game administration.

A fund to secure participation for Idaho in San Francisco's 1939 exposition was urged. Other resolutions asked for early appointment of a national commissioner of reclamation; early completion of federal highways No. 93 and 95, state highways, and the I-Q-N route through Oregon.

The chamber opposed transfer of the forest service to the U. S. department of interior and a proposed system of leasing mineral lands by the federal government on a royalty basis, as proposed by Secretary Icks. A state appropriation to be used for advertising Idaho was suggested.

INSURGENT FORCE MAKES ADVANCE

Close In On Malaga, Spain's Second Largest Coastal Port of Entry

AVILA Spain, Jan. 23 (UP)—A strong insurgent force made a surprise threat on Malaga from a new quarter today, occupying the ancient Arabic city of Alhambra de Granada, about 30 miles away.

The new operations placed Spain's second largest seaport, between two fires, Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's coastal army on the southwest of Marbella and the new thrust from the northeast.

The insurgents on the northeast made an advance of 21 miles, taking the village of Escuzar and Vetas de Huelmo on the way to Alhambra.

Republicans Seek Civil Service Bill

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 23 (UP)—Republican senators of Idaho's legislature today had in preparation a bill to install a civil service system for all state employees.

A merit system is being set up by the state unemployment commission division to select the large numbers of employees necessary for the administration of the jobless insurance act and a state police bill under consideration of the legislature will probably require selection of officers under civil service, but the 11 minority members of the senate would include all state departments.

Hunger, Cold Strikes Refugees As Blizzard Rages In Midwest

Break will inundate Caruweit with one to three feet of water by Tuesday, Charles Micey, W. P. engineer, predicted. About 200 refugees are housed in the high school building. Several hundred more were expected to be driven into the town by rising waters. Many still cling to their homes despite the fact water covers their places, Micey said.

Driven From Homes

More than 25,000 persons have been driven from their homes. The Red Cross and federal relief agencies were caring for the refugees, aided by local funds.

First Death from Freezing Reported

Mr. Carl Hunt, 30, Elbow, Ark., levee patrolman at Big Lake, Ark., his body was found in a sitting position by a comrade on the levee.

Other Deaths Reported Overnight

Clyde Davis, 22-year-old Huntington, Tenn., farmer, who fell from a moving ambulance, rolled down a 45-foot embankment and drowned in a flooded west Tennessee river. Earl Kilgore, 35, Jasper, Tenn., farmer, drowned when his car struck a culvert and overturned into a flooded stream. An unidentified farmer drowned near Cardwell.

"BELOVED ENEMY" AT ORPHEUM

Merlo Oberon, who will be recalled for her outstanding characterizations in "Dark Angel" and "These Three," and Brian Aherne present Hollywood's newest romantic team in Samuel Goldwyn's production, "Beloved Enemy," a vivid drama of love under fire, which begins a three-day run at the Orpheum theater tomorrow. The story casts Brian and Merlo as a man and woman from two warring worlds who fall madly in love and follow their romance, carried on under fire, with both risking their lives to snatch a few hours together. William Powell and Myrna Loy in "After the Thin Man" will close their successful engagement at the Orpheum tonight.

SIDNEY AND MacMURRAY AT IDAHO

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine," featuring Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda with Fred Stone, Nigel Bruce, Spanky MacFarland and Fuzzy Knight, is the attraction beginning at the Idaho theater tomorrow. This truly great achievement is being brought back by popular demand. "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is filmed entirely in color and offers romance, thrills and beauty. The program includes a Betty Boop cartoon and news. Showing for the last times tonight is the comedy-romance of the year, "Love Begins at 20," starring Hugh Herbert with Patricia Ellis and Warren Hull.

ROXY SUNDAY AUTOS IN THREE ACCIDENTS HERE

Slippery Streets Cause Trio Of Minor Mishaps; No Drivers Hurt
Three slight accidents were reported in Twin Falls yesterday afternoon because of slippery streets, police records showed today.

Cars driven by Dr. H. E. Lamb and George Buhler were involved in a slight mishap at the intersection of Sixth avenue east and Second street east, causing a bent right front fender to the Lamb car and a broken front bumper and damaged radiator grill to the Buhler machine. Damage was settled between the drivers.

Another accident near Five Points caused slight damage to cars driven by H. O. Hinkle of Piler and M. D. Francis of Twin Falls.

The third accident occurred when cars driven by Isaac W. Todd of Castleford and Bert Stenton of Kimberly met at the intersection of Fourth avenue and Second street north.

The Todd machine, according to the police report, ran into the Stenton car and both slid across the street and over the curbing and sidewalk. Damage to the Todd machine consisted of a badly damaged right front fender while the left running board and door on the Stenton car were injured.

TALK MADE AT JEROME JEROME, Jan. 23 (Special)—Albert H. Dent, Boise, deputy collector of internal revenue, explained the operation of the federal social security act before the meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday noon in Wood's cafe. # NYA WILL OFFER VOCATIONAL AID

Conferences Planned In High Schools To Assist Pupils, Area Chief Says

Vocational conferences, designed to be available to every high school student in Idaho, will be inaugurated about Feb. 15 by the National Youth administration, Harold A. Salsbury, area supervisor, said here today.

The program is aimed to steer youth away from occupational blind alleys into careers with wholesome remunerative employment, and will center around pupils in the smaller high schools, Mr. Salsbury said. This is necessary because some of the larger schools already have vocational courses.

The NYA now has available a manual and material for conducting the course, and may either be carried on by the school using the NYA outlines, or by NYA staff participation aiding the school faculty.

Here Are Groups

Conference groups will include agriculture and forestry; engineering and trades; commercial and journalism; professional and public; and domestic. Mr. Salsbury points out.

Discussion leaders will be selected who are qualified to lead discussions with interested groups of students in accordance with progressive educational methods, and individual conferences will supplant this program.

Manuals and materials necessary have been prepared for the discussion leaders and will be supplied on request by the NYA at Boise.

"The aim of the vocational conferences is not to choose for youth vocations to meet their capabilities," Mr. Salsbury said. "Choosing a vocation can be done only by the individual himself. The major value of the conferences will be the arousing of youth to a conscious consideration of choosing a vocation."

Stimulates Thought

"Interesting youth in thinking of their vocations and the dissemination of information regarding vocations will be of major value from these conferences," he said.

The program, when underway, is expected to reach thousands of high school students who otherwise would not have the opportunity of vocational guidance. It will be the first time in the history of Idaho such a program has been offered on a statewide scale.

RED CROSS ASKS FLOOD AID CASH

Appeal From National Leader Urges $300 Quota From Twin Falls

Appeal for $300 to assist in flood disaster relief was made to the Twin Falls chapter of the American Red Cross today by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Washington, D. C., national chairman of the organization.

The plea for help in the national relief fund of $2,000,000 was received by Mrs. D. L. Alexander, local president, and was referred to Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston, re-named as disaster chairman for the Twin Falls chapter.

"In order to meet hourly increasing needs of flood victims in eight states," Admiral Grayson's appeal said, "the Red Cross is calling on the people of the United States for a minimum relief fund of $2,000,000. . . . Feel sure people of your community will wish to aid promptly and generously."

Skating Available On Most of Pool

Skating is available on 85 per cent of the ice rink at Harmon park pool, Park Commissioner Milton Powell informed skater enthusiasts today.

Center ice at the pool, he said, is rough and unusable, but the surface around the pool's edges for some 18 feet is in shape for skating.

A. B. Hopkins, city park superintendent, has been working on the pool ice all week. Roughness at the center was caused when added water had to be applied after the ice sank.

AUDITOR TO AID ON INCOME TAX

For the purpose of aiding state income tax payers in making out their returns, which are due in Boise before March 15, L. W. Garlock, deputy field auditor for the state department of finance, income tax division, today announced his schedule of stops starting Monday of next week.

The service is offered by the state free of charge and persons are urged to take advantage of Mr. Garlock's visits to the end their blanks will be correctly filed. By local inquiry in each community where visits are scheduled, the taxpayer can learn the location of Mr. Garlock's headquarters.

Mr. Garlock's schedule, starting next week includes: Fairfield, Monday and Tuesday; Shoshone, Wednesday and Thursday; and Halley, Friday and Saturday.

Early Settler's Rites Conducted

RUPERT, Jan. 23 (Special)—Funeral services have not yet been arranged for L. P. James, early settler of the Minidoka project and at the time of his death Wednesday evening in the general hospital a resident of the Heyburn district.

Mr. James died in the hospital here following several months' illness due to chronic kidney trouble. Born 60 years ago in North Carolina, Mr. James had remained a bachelor and is reported to have but one living relative, a sister, Miss Alice James, Virginia.

It is reported that funeral arrangements have been held up to allow the county commissioners time to attend to any legal business regarding the deceased man's property.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

I am going to have some criticism on this declaration, but it cannot be helped. I have the utmost impatience with stupidity. Right at the beginning let me exclude the people who have never had a chance, the underprivileged and the mentally under-manned. All others come under my ban. It is inherent in me. I cannot help it.

But to get away from personalities, let us talk of brains in general. What are brains? Not piles of gray matter in the skull, but some little hidden spot that has eyes and ears for everything. It may be in the brain, in the spinal cord or in the liver. I would not know. But this determination to keep alert and to keep working toward knowledge and values is something apart from the purely mental processes.

Hunts Exceptions We have heard it said that human beings use only ten per cent of their brains. That at least ninety per cent dies of atrophy. Whatever the figures, there must be some truth in it. Yet, I am rather tired of brains. Weary of the intellectual. But always looking for that rarity who is trying to make the most of himself. Who is alert and observing and trying to do his best.

I am impatient with people who have to be constantly reminded and jacked up. Who repeat the same mistakes over and over. We are so intent on inner affairs that they cannot look out at others. Who blunder and then try to pin it on somebody else. Who substitute anger for real defiance, or admission. Who feel sorry for themselves when they fill up with wishful thinking, and get so jealous they can't move.

Teach Alertness What we need is to accent character and to get out of this everlasting groove of letting others think for us. I think and spread the news. Well, I never ask anybody to take my word for it. I try to knit all the character-making ingredients and leave it to others to form their own conclusions.

This is my idea of education. I wish that we must teach children to use the hidden springs of self-development. They need to be taught alertness first of all. And brightness of physical and mental action. They are too prone to allow. They must learn to take criticism and get away from the all-blame. They should be taught to try their best, regardless of their IQ. Half are asleep on their feet, or looking for cushions. Life is work. Work well done brings content. It does not always bring reward. This has to be learned. A pity, but not to be changed by self sorrow. Our schools fall in the elements of character-building. They make little move to out stupidity, meaning mental laziness. Books won't do it. The answer I leave to the school themselves. Not one tenth of education is digested or used. Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

Church Plans New Order of Services

Under the leadership of its new minister, Mark C. Cronenberg, the First Christian church will begin a new order of services Sunday. The entire church school will meet for a general assembly in the main auditorium with Frank L. Slack as superintendent. The pastor will lead the singing. At 10:45 a. m. the morning worship service begins with a distinctly spiritual program. The presence of the Lord's Table lends itself to the creating of a spirit of solemnity and dignity which will be conducive to worship, the pastor states.

FILLING A VOID

Twin Falls, offering many advantages to its residents, has in recent years had one conspicuous void.

Energetic women of the city will launch a determined campaign Monday to fill that void.

Opportunity to hear stars of the concert and musical world has been lacking here of late years, and the lack has been keenly felt. The drive to secure memberships for the Twin Falls Community Concert association aims at remedying the situation for this city and for all of south central Idaho.

The association hopes to secure a membership totalling at least $2,000 as a guarantee fund to bring in not only concert attractions, but also radio's musical stars, since the project is affiliated with Columbia Broadcasting system.

From the standpoint of furthering Twin Falls' cultural facilities and from the angle of genuine entertainment, the Community Concert plan deserves united support.

Workmen seem to have a new version: "Early to bed, early to sit down, make a man healthy, etc."

HE GETS WHAT HE WANTS

Whatever else you may say about him, you must admit that Benito Mussolini has brought the old game of playing both ends against the middle to new heights.

Il Duce seems fair to lead the one government in Europe which stands to get anything out of the present tangle in Spain.

To understand why this is so, one need go back only to the Italian invasion of Ethiopia.

At that time the British statesmen beat their breasts and announced that the empire would never stand for such high-handed goings-on. But Mussolini is a singularly hard man to bluff. He went right ahead and conquered Ethiopia, as he said he was going to. And then along came the trouble in Spain.

Mussolini drew cards in this game at once. Italian planes, munitions and men went to Spain. Good relations with Germany were cemented by the creation of a common pro-Fascist front. It was hinted broadly that Italy would take over the Balearic islands from Spain.

So a change came over the face of the waters. The British stopped talking about the wickedness of the Ethiopian conquest. Instead, they got their heads together with Italian statesmen, and presently an Anglo-Italian Mediterranean accord was announced.

Under the surface of the involved language of this accord, Mussolini simply agreed that he wouldn't take those Balearic islands, or approve of any territorial changes of which the British did not approve. In return, it is commonly understood that he will get British recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia, together with British loans for development of the new colony.

A clever card-player, this man Mussolini.

"Sam Rayburn was only 29 when he became speaker of the house." It's just about that age that most men become listeners.

SOUND HINT

It goes almost without saying that American automobile manufacturers are the most progressive in the world, and there is scarcely a detail in the modern automobile which is not a tribute to their genius. But there is one exception, if you accept the word of a Chicago hotel man, just returned from abroad.

According to him, foreign horns have a low, polite, well-modulated tone; not the raucous blast which, in America, causes pedestrians to execute neat high jumps.

It is hoped that this will be brought to the attention of the American motor executives. Since they are reluctant to yield supremacy in any line to Europe, there would undoubtedly be some startling innovations on next year's cars. We could, for instance, expect horns that not only would purr a gentle warning, but that would sound a kindly reproof at the erring pedestrian, hiss a mild protest at a car that crashes a stop sign, and, perhaps, give an admiring whistle if an attractive woman drives by.

An Englishman died a month after learning he was the step-father of an actor. Just couldn't take it.

RELIEF CHISELING

At a time when thousands of Americans, in real need of aid, are viewing with concern administration intentions to cut down on relief appropriations, it is aggravating to read such stories as those out of New York City and Sarasota, Fla.

In a safe deposit box rented by a New York relief recipient, $250,000 in diamonds were found. In Sarasota, at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bruce McLatin Hughes, 72-year-old relief client who reputedly was the first woman to reach the Yukon during the Klondike gold rush, a small fortune in diamonds, rubies, pearls and cameo was discovered.

It is possible that if all avaricious ones could be dropped from relief rolls, there would be enough funds to care for the really needy citizens, even after appropriations had been sliced.

THAT PUTS THE GROOM ON THE SPOT!

Dear Pot Shots:
Our Idaho lawmakers are scratching their heads over another weighty problem—whether to cut the fee for performing marriages from $5 to $3. Many of 'em think if a man likes a woman enough to marry her, he shouldn't holler over $2 more.

Now I got a suggestion for the solons which they could adopt pronto so's to get their minds on more important business. They oughta remove all fees from marriages and authorize the guys who marry people to charge on this formula: "Just pay me what you think it's worth."

That leaves it up to the bridegroom to name the price. And if he sets it too low the bride will have a thing or two to say about how much he thinks she's worth.

STATISTICS FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD

Pot Shots:
All long-legged gents who have ever sat in the high school auditorium when a big crowd's there to see one of the class plays, will turn hand-springs over this here idea of the school board's to maybe build a new auditorium.

If the board wants any figures to help make the decision, I have compiled these. At every class play, etc., to which parents go in our present cheese-box auditorium, there are (1) 617 knees banged black and blue against the seat ahead. (2) 523 toes squashed as people climb across to get to the next seat. (3) 413 ribs poked by elbows from the customer six inches away. (4) 602 tempers ruffled by items 1, 2 and 3 in the foregoing.

THE EDITOR BETTER FIND WHAT THIS IS ABOUT

Honorable Mr. Potshots:
I notice that the young Gloyre Fredrickson is talking to broad-casting as well as to printing with that six-point type. It seems as though he wanted to find out just who the editor of the Evening Times was and how to spell his name. So he called up, said it was KTFI talking, and got the information. Pressed by an inquisitive Eve-time gent, Gloyre admitted he did the asking but kept the reason therefor a dark secret.

ARE YOU GUYS TRYING TO START A FIGHT?

Dear 'Pot Shots:
"The Grouch" has good ideas concerning schooling of men who put the bumps in our "beloved" Eighth avenue east. I would also suggest that if said men had to pay for the wood carried from people's backyards and used in bonfires for warming-up purposes, they might arrange some other means of felling the zero weather.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PAUL I. King of Northumbria, becomes private citizen PAUL PERHORN who advocates for the love of ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress. Paul's younger brother, JOSEPH, succeeds to the Kingship.
With calm dignity, Paul signs the formal abdication papers at his royal lodge, says, "Well, good-bye, it is all over." Then he spends a few last minutes with his brother Joseph. "Joseph," he warns, "you don't belong to yourself any more. You belong to the people now. . . good-bye."
In a few seconds Paul is whisked away to the royal airport, his plane takes off and he leaves his throne behind him forever. He looks over the pilot's shoulder ahead, as if trying to shake out what lies out there in the future.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional and imaginary and are not intended to portray any actual persons or events.

CHAPTER II

THE sun sparkled on the unbelievably blue of the Bay of St. Francis. The green land lay in a wide curve, a rim of golden sand meeting the white surf; to the north, the sullen blackness of Cape Roman lay in a jumbled, rocky line on the horizon, a barrier to cut off the storms of the open sea and insure for the bay an everlasting peace.

The villas lay scattered along the shore, gay with their white walls and their red roofs. Neat green lawns ran down to the sand, broken by old stone walls and flights of whitewashed stone steps.

In all the world there was not a spot where things were more perfectly arranged to permit life to flow smoothly and easily.

The Villa San Margarete was one of the largest. An ivy-grown stone wall shut it off from the winding road on the landward side; toward the sea, a wide lawn sloped gently down to the curving shore. A second-story balcony with its wrought iron railing and its colorful canopy of red and white striped canvas overlooked the wide bay; climbing roses grew from the ground and twined their tendrils in and out of the railing, and serious-minded bees went bumping noisily from blossom to blossom.

There was a breakfast table on the balcony. Two people, a man and a woman, sat there looking out over the blue bay, saying little, thinking and feeling much. One of them was the former King Paul the First of Northumbria, now private citizen Paul Ferrone; the other was the Canadian-born former Ardath Richmond, once an actress familiar to New York and Hollywood and now—by grace of a ceremony performed twelve hours ago in the prefect's office at the little villa of San Lorenzo—Mrs. Paul Ferrone.

She was a tall woman, with the palest of blond hair and the fairest of fair skins. Her features were regular, delicate, more patrician-looking than those of the man beside her—which was rather odd, for she was the daughter of a Scandinavian baggage man in an Alberta junction town, while he was the descendant of innumerable kings.

"Do you mind," said Paul, taking a cigaret from an ebony box on the table, "if we just sit here for a while? You have no idea how marvelous it is to feel that I can just sit here all day, if I want to—feel that there are no demands on my time, no people who have a right to come and present me with an elaborate schedule of the day's activities." She smiled at him fondly. "Life is all my own—all our

She looked up and kissed him. "Shall I tell you what you are?" Paul asked. "You are what I have lived for and what I would happily die for. You are you, perfect and adorable."

own," he said slowly. "Just think of it, dear. No more interference, no more fuss-and-feathers, no more flunkies in gold braid hovering at every door."

"No more reviews, no more cornerstones."

He paused, to gaze contentedly at the sea. A shadow fell across her face, and she slid closer to him.

"Paul," she said softly, "are you very, very sure that it's all worth it? Are you?"

"Worth it? Worth it? My own, my own—worth it? Never ask me that again." He held her close, and her hair fell over his shoulder by his dark one. "I've given up nothing and I've gained everything. I've gained freedom, life, happiness. . . " He stopped, and pressed his lips on her hair.

She looked up and kissed him quickly, and smiled.

"You renounced a throne, and I—a reputation," she said lightly. "You know, Paul, I am a conscienceless gold digger. I am, really. Almost any woman on earth would tell you that."

"Gold digger. Sweet gold digger. Goddess. Angel."

"They would. I'm a schemer. A selfish, designing—"

"Shall I tell you what you are? You are the moonlight on the sea and the wind on the mountain at dawn. You are what I feel when I hear great music and what I see when I look into the coals in the fire and dream long dreams. You are what I have lived for and what I would happily die for. You are you, perfect and adorable. You are very, very lovely."

THREE hours later they lay on the sand in bathing suits, the warm southern sun lying like a grateful blanket on bodies which spray and surf had set tingling with eager life.

"You can't possibly imagine," Paul was saying, "what it is like to look ahead at an endless vista of days and know, for the first time in your life, that they are all your own, to do what you want to with. I've never lived until now, Ardath."

"You know, when I was little, I was the second son. I never expected to inherit the crown. That was for my older brother, Leon. So they put me in the naval cadets' school when I was thirteen and told me I could have a career in the navy. I liked it, somehow. The boys in the school were the first people I'd ever met who accepted me on an equal footing, just like anyone else. Young as I was, I could see that the life I was leading, there was real, at least. It meant something."

"Well, that lasted a little over a year. And then Leon died, and they pulled me out of the school and brought me back to the palace and surrounded me with a whole regiment of tutors, and my father and mother had to go away, just then, on a four months' tour of the empire, and I was left alone. Nobody will ever know how lonely I was then. Or how miserable."

"I lived through it, of course. I grew up and by and by I went to the university. But that wasn't real, like the naval school. They rented a big apartment for me, and I had a valet and a secretary, and there was always that invisible wall between me and the other students. They were all preparing for their careers—this one was going to be a lawyer and that one was going to be an architect and the next one was going to be a professor of literature—and they were forever planning for those careers and looking ahead to the future. But what plans were there for me? I knew what my career was going to be, and I knew that it didn't really matter whether I did well or ill at the university—I'd make just as good a king one way as the other."

He broke off, and turned on his side to look at her.

"But now," he said contentedly, "Now—"

He left it unsaid, and stretched luxuriously. "Race you up to the house," he said, getting to his feet. She extended her hands, he helped her up, and they ran gaily across the sand and up the sloping lawn, laughing as if every care in the world had been left behind forever.

THE road wound a lazy way down to the village of San Lorenzo. Paul walked along with a free, easy stride, his long body clad in flannel slacks and an old sweater. Every step he took seemed to emphasize anew his freedom. He was actually walking to town, alone and unattended, to buy some necessities at a shop!

Jules, the grizzled house man at the villa, could, of course, have nipped in on his bicycle. But Paul had wanted to go himself. It was almost an adventure: to discover that he lacked something, without having an impeccable servant or a uniformed aide discover it for him, to go and get it himself instead of having an obsequious shopkeeper send it out, to go afoot like any suburban clerk instead of being carried in an ornate limousine—this, he told himself, was the very seal and emblem of his new life.

He walked into the village and made his way to a shop. The tourist season had begun, and Madame Eill, the mustachioed druggist behind the counter, was hovering watchfully while a group of Americans examined her stock.

One of the tourists seemed to Paul to be the perfect example of the cartoonist's caricature of the touring American. He was big and stout, he wore plus fours and a tweed cap and horn-rimmed spectacles, and his voice was nasal and penetrating. As Paul entered the man was talking with a white-skirted and red-capped girl.

"Sure it is," he was saying, "I read it this morning in the paper on the train. This is the town, San Lorenzo, where that runaway king and his girl friend have hid out."

Paul turned quickly and looked away, in a sudden terror lest his face be recognized.

"Oh," said the girl, "let's find out where they're staying and drive by there. Maybe we could even get a look at them. Do you suppose we could?"

"Okay if you want to," said the man. "It'd be just as much worth looking at as those cathedrals you've been dragging me through."

The man bit off the end of a cigar and jabbed it in his mouth. "That spick we hired the car from'll probably know where they're staying," he went on. "I wouldn't mind having a look at that dame, myself. She must have something to make the poor sap do what he did."

Blindly, Paul groped his way to the street. Without another thought for the things he had come to buy he hurried back up the road. He could think of nothing except his overwhelming need to get behind the sheltering walls of the villa again.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

Exclusive Evening Times Report from the Nation's Capital by An Expert Commentator.

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

METAMORPHOSIS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—A different President Roosevelt rode up to the capitol Wednesday to put his hand again on the bible.

The outward change is vaguely hinted by comparative photographs, then and now. However, photographs very seldom tell the truth. They depend too much on light and angles. Furthermore, Mr. Roosevelt has established the practice of entrusting himself to masseurs just before inaugural appearances. The effect, four years ago, clipped about 15 years from his 50.

Those close around him know there has been a deeper and more significant change, which may or may not be reflected in the photographs.

STRENGTH
Four years ago, his outward appearance of confidence was an oratorical gesture. Only his intimates knew it. He really did not know what he was going to do. He was determined, and that determination dominated the ensuing years, beset with political troubles, many mistakes like the original NRA, and plenty of administrative labor and worry, preventing him from getting his head above water for very long at a time.

Since the ballots were counted in the last election, all who have had personal dealings within the White House seem agreed that a change is noticeable. They call it "extreme confidence," "self-assurance," "less patience," "personal will-power," "more strength," and many other things. They note it in the way he speaks, the things he does. For example, they agree that, at no time during the four years preceding Nov. 3, would he have sent to congress such a self-willed reorganization program as this last one.

They expect the country to see a little different side of a different Roosevelt during the next four years.

GRAYING
Whatever personal strength Mr. Roosevelt has gained from his experience and success has not brought any change in his sense of humor. Newsmen who call on him semi-weekly for press conferences found him just as sharp and genial in his last conference as in his first, although considerably more secretive (pleasantly) and evasive (sharply) when pressed.

The four years seem to have sharpened his likes and dislikes for people. Formerly he liked nearly everyone except his avowed enemies, but lately they have been evidence that he has learned to trust very few. He likes and greatly trusts men like Jim Farley, whose ability he greatly respects; State Secretary Hull, a very boring conversationalist as compared with Farley; Agriculture Secretary Wallace, for his loyalty and energy, and some congressional cronies like Vice President Garner and Stogees who drop in at night. His list of friends has changed (he knew none of those mentioned above very well four years ago, except Farley) and his backlist has been correspondingly enlarged, although it will never be made public and some on it do not yet know their standing.

His hair is thinner, grayer; his eyes more deeply set; his health, which he guards very carefully, not a noticeable bit different.

PREPARATIONS
The desire of the President to expand his trusty circle is seen behind his inclusion of his son, Jimmy, in his secretariat, and his recommendation that six more administrative assistants be authorized by congress.

Son James is being mentioned as a presidential contact man with congress, but he will not be that. The congressional liaison job requires experienced men like Garner and Charles West, the assistant interior secretary, who will continue to be the White House undercover man at the capitol. For the present, James is sitting in a roomy office with a crackling fireplace, looking out through three room-length windows at the grotesque architecture of the state, war, and navy building across the way. Apparently the President wanted him footloose and near to undertake personal confidential missions. As there have not been many lately, he has not been able to find much to occupy his time. After he is broken in, he will fill in for and with two other secretaries.

Friends, of course, expect him to carry on the Roosevelt tradition in American politics, and will not be surprised if they see him a U. S. senator some distant day.

NOTES
Perhaps all future inaugurations will be an anti-climax after the dramatic one of 1933. Even so, this year's smoked up very little enthusiasm on the inside. If the politicians had not desired to make it a political rally, there would have been no show at all.

Tom Quilter, the new presidential bodyguard, did not play on the Notre Dame variety. He was on the "B" squad. However, he has spoken before women's clubs, and rates "A" plus in courage and trustworthiness, which is what the

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
There is hardly a family which, sooner or later, does not feel the need for bandages adhesive tape, scissors, cotton and other materials used in minor surgical operations about the home.
Realizing the desirability of such materials, most manufacturers now make available fully equipped kits for use in the automobile while touring. In the home, in the factory, or in the school.
These first aid kits usually contain bandages of various widths and lengths, preferably one to three inches wide and about five yards long; adhesive tape of various widths and lengths on spools; small bandages of adhesive tape and strips of gauze; scissors suitable for cutting different materials for various uses, and absorbent cotton for washing and cleansing wounds.
Paper towels and paper handkerchiefs may be regularly kept in the home for use in time of illness, since they may be readily burned after use.
If a patient is expectorating a great deal of material, the paper handkerchiefs may be thrown into a paper bag at the bedside, and the entire bag burned as the material accumulates.
The average family will not require such surgical instruments as probes, catheters, forceps, tourniquets, needles, and cutout, or any of the other surgical materials used in operations. Only the experienced should attempt use of such materials.
It is well for every family, however, to have available a fountain syringe for use in irrigating various cavities in the human body. This should be of rubber, metal, or glass with a capacity of about two quarts. It should have a long rubber tube, with a suitable constricting valve, and several nozzles of assorted sizes.
Rubber sheeting should be available in times of illness. It is placed under the ordinary sheet to prevent soiling of the mattress. A piece of oilcloth will serve the purpose for a short time.
In many illnesses it is not safe for the patient to get up even to attend to the usual needs of the body. In such cases, a bed pan is a valuable device and will save trouble for the patient and those who nurse him.
An icebag which may be applied to head, throat or abdomen is a useful item frequently recommended by doctors. The durability and life of the icebag will depend on the care it is given when not in use.
It should always be completely emptied of its contents after use, and, when thoroughly dried, put away in its box.
An atomizer for spraying the nose and throat, a graduated medicine glass for measuring the doses of liquid preparations prescribed by the doctor, a medicine dropper for depositing small amounts of fluid into a measuring glass or for dropping medicines into the eye of the nose are also useful to have available.
Moreover, the family medicine chest should contain several thermometers for measuring the temperature of the human body by the mouth or by the rectum.
Family thermometers should always be thoroughly washed with cold water and then with alcohol after they have been used. They should be kept in a safe receptacle so as not to be broken easily.

Lake Cleveland, a beautiful glacial pool at the summit of Mount Harrison, near Albion, is a favorite camping spot for vacationists.
CONSERVE IDAHO RESOURCES
(State Grange Master W. W. Dea in "The Granger")
In Idaho is about 80 per cent of all the phosphate in the entire United States and covert efforts are being made by corporations to grab it as were grabbed the power sites of the state.
The state realized nothing for the power sites and doubtless it is intended that no compensation be given the state for the phosphate which is so costly and which is so needed to build up the fertility of the soil of Idaho farms. Too long has Idaho been made the goat by these corporations and it is high time that the natural resources of the state were preserved for the people.
The Granger particularly endorses the recommendations of Governor Clark for safe-guarding the phosphate fields within the state and for compulsory cancellation of filings, or development of power sites now held by corporations for their own gain or for the purpose of securing control of them to prevent their development at some future time by the states or cities in it. The course proposed by Governor Clark in the general interest of the state should have been taken years ago and his courageous stand in its favor is a confidence that at least the victims of the state is to be

As Gleaned from Files of The Times
15 YEARS AGO—
Jan. 23, 1922
An order confirming the organization of the Milner Lowlift irrigation district was signed last evening in Rupert by Judge T. Bailey Lee of the district court, to whom the articles brought by W. M. Pearlar. This means that when the formalities of approving the bonds are gone through by the bonding commission at Boise, issuance of the bonds needed to secure the regular water supply will take place. Preparation is made to exchange $100,000 in bonds for the water as soon as confirmation is had.
The litigation involved in securing confirmation is now settled.

CLEVELAND, (UP)—In a house directly across the street from a high school, detectives found 450 marihuana cigars and arrested a 45-year-old man and a woman, a 19-year-old youth, whom officers followed into the house, said the cigars had been sold to students for 5 cents each.

JAPANESE THREATEN AMERICAN POLE VAULTING SUPREMACY

MILLROSE EVENT BRINGS NIPPON

Suero Ohe, Winner of Second Place in Olympic Meet To Enter

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 — Suero Ohe's coming to America to make his bow indoors in the Millrose meet at the Garden Feb. 6, brings to mind the fact that the stubby Japanese threaten to take the pole vault supremacy from the lanky American stars.

It also set Al McGill to figuring. The former Yale coach comes up with the answer that 15 feet 2 inches is the mechanical limit of the monkey-on-a-stick technique. George Varoff's world record is 14 feet 6 1/2 inches. Earl Meadows stretched the Olympic mark to 14.2 1/2-16 last summer.

"The factor of mechanics as well as the human equation applies in vaulting," says McGill. "It is a physical impossibility to swing the body over a height greater than three and a half feet above the point where the pole is gripped."

15.2 Limit
"Few can take an effective grip on the pole more than 12 feet 6 inches from the end. The slot or box in which the pole is planted on the take-off is eight inches deep. Subtract that depth from the height of the grip and you get 11 feet 8 inches. Add three and a half feet to that figure and you have the mechanical limit beyond which nobody can vault."

"It is somewhere around 15 feet 2 inches. Such a mark would stand forever."

Ohe tied for second place with his countryman, Nishida, in the Olympic pole vault, beating the American Bills, Sefton and Graber. The Japanese cleared 13 feet 11 inches.

HARLEY SUBDUES BELLEVUE BOYS

BELLEVUE, Jan. 23 (Special)—Harley Wolverines Cubs scored a 25 to 21 victory over the local boys' team here last night but the Bellevue girls evened the score in the doubleheader as they downed the Harley misses, 47 to 25.

Harley led the boys' game throughout, and excepting for a 4-4 tie at the first quarter the local girls played out in front of the invading Harley five the entire distance.

Indian Wins

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chief Little Wolf, 215 pounds, of Trinidad, Colo., took the first fall in 29 minutes in the wrestling bout with Del Kunkel, 194-pounder, of Salt Lake, last night and won the bout after it went the time limit without another fall.

GIVES LOUIS THE OLD COLLEGE TRY

THE BRONX COLLEGIAN'S AMBITION IS TO WIN THE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP AND BECOME A NEWSPAPER MAN.

CASTLEFORD FIVE BEATS MURTAUGH

Wolves Win By 49-29 After Girls Drop 33-9 Game On Double Menu

MURTAUGH, Jan. 23 (Special)—Castleford showed too much power and scoring punch here last night for Murtaugh, and the locals went down to a 49-29 defeat.

Murtaugh girls made things even on the double bill by walling the Castleford maidens, 33 to 9.

In the boys' game the Wolves jumped into the lead with a first-quarter attack that had Murtaugh busy with defensive work most of the time. Castleford led, 18-6, as the opening period ended.

Murtaugh girls coasted to victory throughout in the feminine clash.

Vandals Lose To Oregon U Cagers

MOSCOW, Idaho, Jan. 23 (AP)—The University of Oregon Quintet defeated the University of Idaho cagers 32-29 here last night after a five-minute overtime period was played.

Fats and Leans Will Do Battle In Jerome Tilt

JEROME, Jan. 23 (Special)—Plans were made for a fat and skinny man basketball game to be sponsored soon, at a dinner meeting of Jerome Junior Chamber of Commerce held this week in Wood's cafe.

Meetings will be held henceforth on the first and third Mondays of each month, the first to be a dinner meeting, the second a program, it was decided.

PAUL AND ALBION SPLIT TWIN BILL

PAUL, Jan. 23 (Special)—Paul and Albion hoopers divided an even bill here last night when Albion boys won 19-12 and the Paul girls conquered Albion misses, 26 to 10.

The boys' encounter was a battle throughout, with seldom more than two points separating the teams until well into the fourth period. Score was deadlocked at 2-2 after a tight first period.

Paul's girls were on the long end throughout against the Albion maidens.

RUPERT DEFEATS KIMBERLY, 26-11

Pirates Clinch Game in Last Half Scoring Barrage Against Bulldogs

KIMBERLY, Jan. 23 (Special)—Rupert high school basketballers conquered the Bulldogs of Kimberly, 26 to 11, here last night.

In a preliminary game the Twin Falls frosh-soph downed the Buhl seconds by a score of 20-17.

In the prelim, Kimberly frosh-soph downed Rupert first and second year men, 11 to 5.

Linedups, feature game: Kimberly (11)—Freestone and Hunsbaw, forwards; Dohse, center; Sudweeks and Peters, guards.

Rupert (20)—Fagg and Bab-bitt, forwards; Hardy, center; Uhl and Bush, guards.

FERRYMEN STOP SHOSHONE, 16-5

GLENN'S FERRY, Jan. 23 (Special)—In a slow starting game, during which each team made one point during the first period, the Glenns Ferry basketballers kept the Shoshone team away from the basket during the balance of the game and emerged on the long end of a 16 to 5 score in a game played here last evening.

In a previous game the local frosh-soph cagers dropped a close game to the Shoshone reserves, 14 to 10.

Shoshone girls dropped a game to the local girls 12 to 19, after leading until well into the third quarter, at which time the score was tied at 15 all.

Bliss Surprises Hammitt Cagers

BLISS, Jan. 23 (Special)—The highly favored invading Hammitt quintet went down to defeat here last night as the Bliss five found the basket with surprising regularity, and emerged on the long end of a 40 to 23 score.

Bliss led all the way, the score at the first period being 11 to 6; at the half, 22 to 11; and at the third period, 31 to 17.

Lower played a heads up game for Bliss and topped the scorers with 25 points. Boardrow of Hammitt scored 17 of his team's counters.

BRUINS CONQUER INDIANS, 29 TO 28

Locals Score Thrilling Last Minute Victory Over Invaders

The Bruins had an Indian scalp hanging at their belt today, but they were some doubtful if they would care to partake in another battle of the same sort on very short notice.

Starting fast, the locals had run up a 13-8 score at the quarter and were in front 18-10 at the half time, due largely to fine basket shooting by Wayne Turner and Maurice Hartmut.

It was now getting down to a personal duel between the Buhl pair and Andrews, and Ellis went out and got himself another basket to put locals in the lead again.

High scoring honors for the fray went to the sophomore Maurice Hartmut of the Bruins with 11 points, followed closely by Boyd who collected 10. Andrews and Turner each scored eight for the Bruins.

In a preliminary game the Twin Falls frosh-soph downed the Buhl seconds by a score of 20-17.

The fuselage of the plane will be covered with new "doped" linen next week, and will be painted black, with orange trimming lines.

The plane, which is being rebuilt at Lones Dean's machine shop, will be housed at the local airport hangar.

Much interest was aroused in the flying school plan when it was hinted that Mr. Hill, who gave Charles A. Lindbergh his first flying lesson, will be connected with the organization.

Hansen Loses To Hazelton, 22 to 13

HAZELTON, Jan. 23 (Special)—Hazelton upset Hansen here last night 22 to 13, after trailing for the first half.

Hansen held a 5-2 lead at the quarter and were still in front 9-8 at the half-time intermission.

Hazelton came back to take a 16-11 advantage at the third period and held the lead. Webb topped the Hazelton scores with nine points and Vernon ball was high for the visitors with five.

Wendell Loses To Hagerman, 38-22

HAGERMAN, Jan. 23 (Special)—Wendell Trojans went down to defeat before the Hagerman Pirates here last night 38 to 22, and to score a clean sweep, the Hagerman girls downed the Wendell misses 47-23.

Barlogi paced Hagerman with 14 points and each scored 10 while Barrett was high for Wendell with eight. Hagerman led at the half time 17-14.

Hagerman girls led 20-8 at the half time. Park and Larsons led the scoring with 21 and 20 points respectively.

Carnegie Tech Withdraws From Big Time Football

"Too Expensive," Says School President; New Coach Named

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP)—Carnegie Tech announced today that it is leaving "big time" football because "it is too expensive."

At the same time the famed Tartan school revealed the hiring of a new head football coach to succeed Howard Harpster, all-American quarterback in 1928 and head coach at Tech since 1933.

Along with Kern, Dr. Edward Baker, backfield coach at Pitt, went over to the plant. Each was given a two-year contract.

Both Kern and Baker, former Pitt-aces, are drilled in the football fundamentals as taught by the Scottish master, Dr. Jack Sutherland, and their transfer to the Tartans meant that a new system will be installed at Tech.

Harper, whose regime at Carnegie was far from successful, was leader of the inspired plant eleven which triumphed over Notre Dame in 1926 in one of the greatest upsets in modern football history.

In the announcement by Dr. Robert Doherty, Tech president, no mention was made of Judge Wally Steffen of Chicago, former head coach of the plant, who served as advisory coach to Harpster last year. However, at the close of the 1936 season, Steffen said he would not return.

Ed Dudley, Philadelphia professional, was holding the lead today after the first day's round in the Sacramento open golf tournament here.

Dudley maneuvered the tricky, frosty course in 66, seven strokes under par and two under the former low record.

More than 120 golfers entered in the opening rounds.

U. I. S. B. WINS

CALDWELL, Ida., Jan. 23 (AP)—Idaho southern branch basketball squad made it two straight over College of Idaho here last night, 31 to 27. Score at the half was 19 to 13.

The hour of the week during which you can drive your automobile with the least chance of having a fatal accident is between 4 and 6 Tuesday morning, according to an insurance company's survey.

The American equivalent worked out at 45.01 cents a fine ounce, compared with yesterday's equivalent of 35.12 cents. Forward silver was quoted at 20 1/2 pence an ounce, off 1-16 penny. The decline was due to lack of support.

Pastor Speaks

Rev. Mark C. Cronenberger, pastor of the Christian church, discussed world affairs as principal speaker at the dinner meeting of the Presbyterians Men's club held at the church parlors. Music included vocal solos by Miss Betty Humphrey and Paul Wright, accompanied by his sister, Mr. Wright led community singing. Twenty-five members attended the dinner. D. R. Young was in charge of arrangements.

LAND VALUATION HEARING REOPENS

Testimony concerning the value of Hansen farm lands on which irrigation water must be pumped occupied the hearing here today in a tax assessment appeal before District Judge D. H. Stupphen of Gooding. The hearing was reopened yesterday after postponement last week to clear the court for criminal cases. Peter Link, Vance Naylor and Everett G. Hager are protesting the increased valuation ordered by the county commission on sitting as a board of equalization.

CHICAGO BOARD

WHEAT RALLIES

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (UP)—Broad buying led by commission houses rallied wheat prices on the Chicago board of trade today and substituted small net gains for initial losses. At the close wheat was 1/2 cent higher, May $1.28 1/4; new corn was 1/4 cent higher, May $1.08 1/2; old corn was 1/2 cent higher, May $1.06; and oats were 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher, May 94c, cents. Fears over condition of the winter wheat crop in the southwest inspired by sub-zero weather and a deficiency in snow covering were the main influences. Houses bought the new crop deliveries after an initial setback caused by a decline abroad. Prices moved upward with shorts covering their positions for the week-end. Resting orders to sell checked the advance.

OIL SHARES TAKE LEAD IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (UP)—Oil shares took over leadership on the stock exchange in the short session today. They rose fractions to more than a point and bolstered a list that was markedly irregular in the early trading after a steady opening. Dealings lightened after the recent pace. Standard Oil of New Jersey, leading blue chip of the oil group, was the feature. It reached a new high at 70 1/2, up 1 1/2. Others to make new tops included Barasidil at 51 1/2, up 1 1/2; Phillips Petroleum 52 1/2, up 1 1/2; and Atlantic Refining 35 1/2, up 1 1/2. Amerada touched 109 1/2, up 2 points and held most of the gain. Socony Vacuum was active at the previous close. Pure Oil gained nearly a point to 22 1/2, and fractional advances were made by Ohio Oil, Houston, Seaboard Oil, Union Oil of California, and Standard of Indiana. Dow Jones preliminary closing averages showed: Industrial, 186.68, up 0.15; railroad 66.05, off 0.03; utility 37.02, up 0.08. Transactions approximated 1-170,000 shares compared with 1,710,000 shares last Saturday. Curb transactions approximated 527,000 shares compared with 633,000 last Saturday.

$547,000 AWAITS HEALTH ACTIVITY

State Will Get U. S. Funds If Legislature Matches Federal Cash

Providing state funds are appropriated by the legislature as requested, $547,068.64 will be available for public health work in Idaho during the biennium of 1937 and 1938, the Twin Falls county health unit was advised here today in a communication from Dr. J. D. Dunshee, state director of public health.

Allotments for Idaho from the United States department of public health service include $36,806 on basis of population, and $44,800 allotted on the basis of special health needs. This total of $81,606 must be matched by state funds.

$44,022 Grant

The federal unit allots $12,734 for training personnel and $31,288 on the basis of financial needs and this total of $44,022 is an outright grant, and does not have to be matched by state funds.

Allotments to Idaho from the federal children's bureau include $55,400 for maternal and child health and $51,333.76 for crippled children. This total of $106,733.76 must be matched by the state. An outright grant to the state is made by the federal unit of $31,789.96 for maternal and child health, which does not have to be matched. Dr. Dunshee points out in the communication.

If the legislature matches the necessary funds it will give the state $377,039.52 in combined state and federal funds to carry on the health work, plus $57,811.96 in outright grants. These amounts, including $94,217.16 from local funds, would make a total of $547,068.64 available for the 1937-38 biennium.

One-Year Total

Total federal funds received in Idaho for the work since Feb. 1, 1933 amount to $127,045.34, of which $76,209.15 has been expended, leaving a balance in federal funds of $50,836.19 as of Dec. 31, 1936.

All funds must have been expended by the state and for the purpose allotted before additional yearly cash is assigned to states by the federal government. Unexpended funds are redistributed to other states having special needs. On this basis Idaho has the assurance of additional funds after July 1, 1937, if the state has expended its quota and requires additional aid, the communication shows.

BURLEY TO HOLD L. D. S. MEETING

Annual Leadership Week Will Be Staged Feb. 15 to 19, Head States

BURLEY, Jan. 23 (Special)—A definite program for the annual leadership week, sponsored by the L. D. S. church, has been announced by R. Golden May, program chairman. The week will be held this year Feb. 15 to 19, Mr. May states.

Speakers thus far secured for the meetings include Earl J. Glade, manager of KSL broadcasting station at Salt Lake City; Hugh H. Brown, Utah state liquor commissioner; Prof. Carl F. Eyring of Brigham Young university at Provo; and W. W. Henderson, head of the department of zoology at the A. C. at Logan.

There will be the usual educational features, including agriculture, home economics, and Boy Scout work, as well as an evening of dramatics, a music concert, and work sponsored by the relief society and the Mutual. An opening and a closing dance will be held on Monday and Friday evenings of the week.

Stockholders Elect Incumbent Officers

BURLEY, Jan. 23 (Special)—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Cassia National bank here was held Tuesday with all officers and directors present.

A. R. Dawson, cashier, reported that the institution was in excellent condition, and that a substantial dividend was declared and $18,000 in profits set aside, $9,000 in surplus and the same amount of reserve.

The same personnel of officers and directors was reelected as follows: W. F. Kasaska, president; J. S. Hanzel, vice president; A. R. Dawson, cashier; Harvey Rogers, assistant cashier; and Mabel Kasaska and S. H. Keman, directors.

ENGLAND PLANS STRATEGIC BASE

Building of $1,000,000 Air Port in Mediterrean Suggested

LONDON, Jan. 23 (U.P.)—England was pressing plans today to safeguard her domination of the eastern Mediterranean and the Suez canal by making the island of Cyprus a strategic air base.

British authorities during the Ethiopian crisis last year concluded that the British island of Malta in the Mediterranean might be untenable as a base in the event of a war with Italy.

Propose Airport

The Morning Post said that after surveys by Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Polham and Under-Secretary of State for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon, it now is proposed to construct at a cost of 250,000 pounds sterling (approximately $1,250,000) a modern air-drome at Nicosia in Cyprus. The island lies off the coast of Syria and dominates the Suez canal.

The projected air-drome would have underground hangars for at least 50 airplanes, it was understood, and the Cyprus garrison would be increased from one company to a battalion. New barracks would be constructed at Nicosia as part of the air base program.

RETURN FROM BOISE

KIMBERLY, Jan. 23 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Thomas have returned from Boise where they took their daughter, Gretta, to receive further treatment for infantile paralysis. She is under the supervision of an orthopedic specialist.

Could You Give Aid In Accident? Here Is True Story of Ignorance

BY THE ROVER

The coming series of Red Cross first aid meetings brings to mind a scene on an Idaho highway not so long ago, when a man was struck by an automobile and suffered a simple fracture of his left leg.

The man was knocked down a deep embankment by a motorist who failed to stop. The first car to pass after the accident saw the man lying there and stopped to assist him. He was conscious and able to tell what happened. Of the four persons in the car, a woman and three men, none had ever had first aid training.

A Bad Mistake

Their first impulse was to get the man to a hospital, about nine miles away. They stood him up, aided him up the embankment, and into the car and, upon reaching the hospital, helped him inside.

A week later the man's leg was amputated because poisoning had developed.

Although wholly unconscious of the damage they were doing, the four persons were more or less responsible in the case of the leg amputation.

Instead of moving the man, who had only a simple fracture, they should have made him as comfortable as possible and summoned aid. In moving him and allowing him to attempt to walk, they caused the break to change from a simple to a compound fracture, the bone breaking through the skin, and the poisoning developing.

Would You Know?

What would you have done in this case? The answer to this and many other questions will be narrated when the standard first aid course, under the supervision of S. G. Gee, of the Idaho Power company, and the sponsorship of the Twin Falls chapter of the American Red Cross, gets underway here next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., at the high school. Certificates will be awarded those completing the course and the cost is only 60 cents, this being the price of a Red Cross manual.

The course will consist of 10 meetings for a total of approximately 15 hours. Only 25 persons will be accepted for the series and the first applying will be assured of a place.

Registrations are being accepted at the Boy Scout office, telephone 833.

Banks' Deposits Near 5 Millions

Almost Million and Half Increase Gain Here for 1936

At the close of 1936, approximately $4,973,000 was on deposit at local banks, a summary of the reports of the two local institutions shows. This amount is almost a million and a half dollars more than were on deposit at the close of business Dec. 31, 1935. At that time total deposits of the banks here were $3,498,000.

In the capital and surplus accounts, the summary shows $385,000 was listed at the close of 1936 against $337,000 for Dec. 31, 1935, an increase during the period of $48,000.

Chinaman Arrested For Extortion Note

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 23 (U.P.)—A 22-year-old Chinese, Chune Schett Lee, pleaded guilty today when arraigned before a U. S. commissioner on charges of sending a $5,000 extortion note to John P. Mahoney, Bendix Products company vice president.

The note threatened death to Mahoney and his daughter.

The Chinese was arrested by G-men and special police in a trap set last night when he attempted to collect the money.
