ROCK BOTTOM ECONOMY MOVE SEEN FOR WPA

Administration Plans Call for Reduction in Rolls of 1,000,000

AID SCHEDULE DECLINES

Balanced Budget Drive Cuts Appropriations of Administrators

By EDWARD W. LEWIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (UP)—Administration plans to reduce WPA rolls by 600,000 in the next four months to a total of 1,600,000 were revealed to congress today as part of a "rock bottom" economizing move which will reduce WPA relief costs to $103,000,000 a month.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' program was submitted to the house appropriations committee at executive hearings on President Roosevelt's requested $790,000,000 to carry on relief activities from Feb. 1 to June 30. The committee made public the testimony today.

Hopkins' scale of declining federal relief aid would result by June in a reduction of 1,500,000 from the peak relief roll of a year ago.

Based on Recovery

"Our proposition is based on continued recovery and assumes a good agricultural year that will make drought expenses unnecessary," he testified, terming it a program "on a rock bottom basis." He declined, however, to estimate whether federal relief during the next fiscal year could be held to $100,000,000 a month to aid in the budget balancing.

Of the $790,000,000 requested of congress, the WPA would receive $655,000,000 for the four months period, which Hopkins said would be divided during the five months to employ jobless as follows: $151,700,000 to employ 2,200,000 in February, $146,000,000 for 2,150,000 in March, $141,000,000 for 2,100,000 in April, and $116,300,000 for 2,050,000 in May.

COURT APPROVES MINE PROFIT TAX

Right of State to Collect Three Per Cent Ruled Constitutional

BOISE, Jan. 25 (UP)—Idaho's three per cent tax on mine profits is constitutional, the state supreme court ruled late Saturday in an Ada county district court decision which enjoined the state from enforcing the law.

The state has made no effort to collect the tax but required a number of mining companies to post bonds to insure payment. Proceeds are estimated to be approximately $100,000 a year, all of which is earmarked for school purposes.

The opinion held that no injunction should have been issued and the act should not have been declared unconstitutional upon mere objections of the plaintiff that the law provided no means for proper enforcement.

RED CROSS ASKS INCREASED HELP

Seeks $4,000,000 to Be Used To Aid Refugees in Flood Area

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (UP)—The American Red Cross today doubled its appeal for flood rescue funds, calling upon the nation to contribute $4,000,000 to be spent in the great emergency. In addition the Red Cross is spending $1,000,000 of its reserve funds for disaster work.

The appeal went out as reports coming into Red Cross headquarters here indicated the flood disaster was one of the greatest on record. All government agencies were working 24-hours a day under President Roosevelt's personal direction to alleviate suffering.

Appeal for Funds

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Red Cross chairman, announced the new appeal for funds. Two days ago the Red Cross asked for $2,000,000 in contributions. The fast rising toll of flood victims today impelled Red Cross directors to double the amount needed in contributions.

The new budget calls for total expenditures of $5,000,000. Grayson, in telegrams sent to chairmen of 3,700 Red Cross chapters all over the nation urged contributors to "go beyond the doubled figure as far as possible."

Hotel Guests Asked To "Drink Beef" as Water Supply Fails

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 25 (UP)—With all normal activity paralyzed and the one million flood-stricken residents of greater Cincinnati officially in a "state of emergency," bedraggled refugees today gleaned a ray of hope from a forecast by U. S. Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux that the Ohio river would reach a crest of 80 feet within the next 36 hours.

Water Supply On The biggest threat to the welfare of the refugees developed this morning when frantic residents seized upon an opportunity to secure drinking water when the supply was turned back on for a time. The drain on the reservoirs during that period was so severe city officials said they did not believe the supply would last over three days.

Waitresses told hotel guests: "We saved all the water we could, but one glass is the limit. I suggest you have beer instead."

CONCERT GROUP FIXES 800 GOAL FOR DRIVE HERE

Kick-Off Dinner Tonight Is Formal Inauguration of Local Campaign

Membership goal of 800 was set for the afternoon for the Twin Falls Community Concert association by David Ferguson, organization director of the Columbia Broadcasting system, who will be in Twin Falls for the next week to direct the drive which will be concluded at 6 p. m. on Saturday. The kick-off dinner tonight will inaugurate the campaign.

Mr. Ferguson pointed out that under the plan being inaugurated which affiliates the local organization with the Columbia system outstanding attractions will be presented in person here each year.

Long Felt Need "Supplying a long-felt need in Twin Falls, world-renowned artists of concert, screen, radio and opera will be heard by the music lovers of this wide area," Mr. Ferguson said. "Under a plan involving no financial risk the musical and artistic life in Twin Falls will receive an impetus which will be of benefit to the entire section."

He stated that he notes growing enthusiasm in the progress of the plan and foresees successful conclusion for the drive.

As a preliminary to the campaign the kick-off dinner will be held today at 6:30 p. m. at the Park hotel and will be attended by all workers, numbering over 60 representatives from Twin Falls civic groups and neighboring towns. Plans for the membership drive will be outlined during the session.

Plan Headquarters Headquarters are to be opened Tuesday morning at Sampson's Music store where they will be maintained during the week. For any information those interested are asked to call 39.

Tickets, which will permit attendance at all concerts scheduled during the year, are to sell at $5 for adults and $2 for children. No single admissions will be sold and membership in the association is to be closed after the drive closes on Saturday, officers of the organization, headed by Mr. D. L. Alexander, announce.

Callibre of the artists brought here depends on the number of subscribers to membership. Tentative plans have been announced for the presentation of the Hope House string quartet early in February as the final offering of the concert series.

EXILED TROTSKY ACCUSES RUSSIA

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25 (UP)—Leon Trotsky charged today that the Moscow regime forced defendants in the present and former counter-revolutionary trials in "confess" their crimes and recant on the witness stand.

The exiled Bolshevik leader gave his version of how men who for years have been high in Communist affairs suddenly "admit" they have been plotting against the Soviet state for a decade or more.

He said the first move by the Moscow government was to round up a large group of defendants. Then the state prosecutor visited them in jail, Trotsky said, and asked if they were willing to testify to whatever the prosecution wants said.

"Trial" Begins Trotsky said those who refused to testify were killed immediately without trial. Ultimately, a small group agreed, he said, to "confess" anything desired and the "trial" begins.

The former Soviet war commissar demanded an international inquiry by workers' organizations into the present trial of 17 men in Moscow on charges of counter-revolutionary activities and terrorism.

INITIALS STONY POINT, N. Y., Jan. 25 (UP)—The initials of James Farley carved on a desk in a schoolhouse by the postmaster general when he was a boy, were used today to settle a township argument. A neighboring township, Haverstrow, has offered to share their new high school building with Stony Creek. Those opposed to the plan pointed out that it means abandoning the school from which Farley graduated in 1905 as well as the desk in which his initials were carved.

BOISE, Jan. 25 (UP)—Reclassification of a number of Idaho counties and increase in salaries of commissioners in the larger counties were the subjects of two bills introduced in the senate today.

The new salary scale would range according to size of county, from $300 to $2400 annually. Present top is $1500. The changes were asked by the commissioners themselves who met in convention here last week. A group of 15 senators sponsored the measure.

The new lineup would leave Ada county alone in class one, with its commissioners to receive $2400. In sub-class one, Bonner, Canyon and Blaine, the commissioners would receive $1500. Kootenai was placed in a proposed sub-class two with the salary $1200.

Clerks Receive More Pay Than Movie Extras

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25 (UP)—If you have a steady job as a bookkeeper or a store clerk don't let anyone stampede you into burrying out here for a place on the extra list at the movie studios. That's the advice of Campbell McCullough, general manager of the Central Casting bureau, who today released figures for 1936 on the extras.

Most studios take all their extra players from the casting bureau and McCullough said that while no figures on individual earnings were available he believed a steadily employed bookkeeper or clerk earned as much as any of the 10,000 men and women registered with him.

Might Win Contract Of course, he admitted, there is the chance that an extra's work might attract special attention and secure a contract from one of the studios.

Although there are 10,000 extras in Hollywood there was work for only 858 a day through 1936 and most of them were paid from $3.20 to $7.50 a day. Only 178 in the entire year earned the $25 a day rate.

The levee broke as U. S. engineers made ready to dynamite it to protect Cairo and other river points. The report came from army headquarters at Sikeston, Mo., to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

Earlier reports said the levee was blasted. The first report, the governor said, came from a pilot who saw the water rushing through the cuts, as the engineers were beginning to set charges.

$50,000,000 Loss Reported From Unprecedented Cold Wave on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25 (UP)—Rising temperatures brought relief to most sections of California and other western states today and broke a cold spell which was almost unprecedented for its long duration.

Freezing temperatures however left in their wake an estimated $50,000,000 loss to orchardists and other agriculturists in California and other growers were forced to continue costly smudging operations in their orchards.

Snow Falls Snow fell in central California yesterday and lay on the ground in some sections for the first time in years.

TROOPS ASSIGNED TO FLOOD AREA

460,000 Homeless as Rivers in Midwest Continue To Swell

Martial law or its equivalent was declared along a front reaching from Cincinnati to Cairo, Ill., on both sides of the Ohio river.

Rain, snow and sleet added to suffering and to the menace.

Normal transportation systems were paralyzed in some cities and badly crippled in others.

Half of Louisville, Ky., was under water. Its population of 330,000 was panic-stricken. Mayor Neville Miller said 150,000 were homeless or marooned.

Sewers backed up into the streets, bringing the threat of typhoid. All citizens were ordered inoculated. Drug stores offered free vaccine to anyone who could make his way through the water-filled streets. Power and light were off everywhere except in a tiny island in the center of the city.

Ravaged by Fire

Cincinnati, ravaged by fire as well as by flood, faced an unprecedented emergency. Waters rose beyond 76.2 feet. The previous high mark was 71.1 in 1884. New flood waters surged toward the crippled city today, fed by 2.33 inches of rain since yesterday.

The city's pumping machinery was disabled. Water was rationed. Electric service was cut off to all but public buildings, radio stations and newspapers. Two destructive fires swept the waterfront, causing damage estimated at $2,000,000. President Roosevelt advised City Manager C. A. Dykstra by telephone that "the whole facilities of the United States government are behind Cincinnati."

Flood waters began spilling over the 51 foot sea wall at Evansville, Ind. The river reached its highest crest in history. Officials estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 homes would be flooded. Martial law was declared in southern Indiana.

MAN 'TALKS' WITH ANIMALS AT ZOO

Dumb Creatures at Taronga Park Quickly Warm Up To Hubert Lee

SYDNEY (U.P.)—Hubert Lee, ardent "zoo fan," has become so friendly with the animals in Taronga park here that the animals not only obey his commands, but several of them, so he insists, talk to him.

"It is certainly remarkable the way Lee is able to get the animals to obey his wishes," Charles Camp, the zoo overseer, declared. "If ever animals have tried to talk to man, they have tried with Lee. There is no doubt that a great and uncanny understanding exists between him and the animals."

"The happiest thing I can imagine," Lee said, "would be to find myself in some jungle with thousands of monkeys about me so that I could truly learn to converse with them freely and understand their natures more fully."

Ostrich Easily Quieted

During one of his tours of the zoo, Lee walked toward the ostrich enclosure. When he was still quite a distance off, the ostrich became restless and ran up and down its enclosure until Lee came into sight. Uttering a peculiar noise, Lee approached the wire fence with a wave of his hand. Instantly the ostrich became quiet and settled on the ground, its long neck waving to and fro while Lee talked to it.

"Enough! You had better go," Lee said finally, and the ostrich arose and withdrew to the back of its enclosure.

"Ochha! Ochha! Bruin, I want you to wait for me," Lee said to a black bear. Lazy and indolent, the bear suddenly became a furry ball of activity it hurried toward the parapet of its den. In a second it was pivoting around and around its enclosure, paws raised above its head, while its bulky body swayed to and fro to a tune Lee whistled. Later a fierce yet shy hyena ran to the wire fence to meet him, and lay in quiet content while Lee stroked it through the mesh.

Friendly With Gnu

A source of constant danger to the keepers who must venture near it, a bridled gnu came quickly from its corner to rub its cheek against that of Lee.

"Lee was struck with the idea of cultivating the friendship of animals nine years ago.

"I had noticed how friendly and understanding a dog could be," he said, "and I decided to find out if it was not possible to reach a similar understanding with other animals. My experiments have been most successful."

Asks for Divorce

Mrs. Thelma Kelson, Twin Falls, requests divorce from J. Milton Kelson in a complaint on file today in district court. She charges desertion and non-support, and seeks custody of their two girls, age 6 and 1. The couple wed at Rhoshone Nov. 10, 1928. W. L. Dunn is attorney for Mrs. Kelson.

Loans From U. S. Out

No effort, it seems, will be made to obtain loans from the United States, owing partly to the disclamation of American museums and collectors to part, even though temporarily, with their treasures. No requests for loans will be made, for obvious considerations, to Moscow and Madrid, granting that the masterpieces still will be in possession of those governments at the time of the exhibition, and that no disaster will have befallen them in the meantime.

The show will take place in the historic Pesaro Palace, on the Grand Canal, which proved to be an ideal setting for the exhibition of Titian's works.

The canvases which, for technical considerations, cannot be removed from the Venetian churches, will be seen there in connection with the exhibition in Pesaro Palace. The same procedure was followed with the paintings of Titian.

China's Great Wall was begun by Chin Shih about 220 B. C., and is constructed of brick and stone. Ten years were required to build it.

LAST HONOR PAID TO SEN. CONNOR

Legislative Colleagues Join Friends and Neighbors in Final Tribute

Idaho's lawmakers to Sen. T. Dan Connor of Piler was expressed in the following resolution passed in the senate as drawn up by Senators George Donat, D., Washington, James Jusik, D., Blingham, and James Nell, D., Benaewah.

"By his death Idaho has lost a stalwart citizen, a statesman and a legislator of exceptional ability.

"His desire in this body has been always to do that which in his judgment was for the best interest of the people of the state.

Wife Counsel

"His wise counsel and unselfish devotion to public service has endeared him to this body and all who knew him.

"In his passing the loss to the state is great."

The senate chose Senators Just and Nell to attend the services in Twin Falls today.

Similar resolution of tribute, passed by the house, praised Senator Connor for "sterling qualities as a citizen, and a husband and his honesty and integrity are worthy examples of good citizenship."

Great Pioneer

"He will long be remembered as one of the great pioneers of this state, who devoted his life to its progress and development."

The Twin Falls county delegation in the house—Reps. H. E. Powers, Frank L. Atkins and Dan Cavanaugh—was named to represent the house at the funeral.

VENICE TO SHOW TINTORETTO ART

Spring Exposition to Display Paintings by Jacopo Robusti

VENICE (U.P.)—An exposition this spring of nearly 200 paintings by Jacopo Robusti, the Venetian master more commonly called Tintoretto, is being planned by the city of Venice.

The success of the exhibition in 1935 of about 300 works by Titian, which was inaugurated by King Victor and which was visited by thousands of art lovers from all parts of the world, has induced the city to plan a show for the glorification of another great master.

The exposition, under the plan, will include the majority of Tintoretto's canvases existing in the churches, public museums and private art galleries of Italy.

Most of Canvases in Venice

There are 18 Tintoretto's in Florence, 11 in Rome, 5 in Milan, 4 in Bologna, 4 in Verona and 3 in Turin. The bulk of the master's works is in the churches and galleries of Venice.

Public museums and private collectors, outside Italy possess about 125 paintings, of which 32 are in Vienna, 22 in Madrid, 10 in London, 8 in Amsterdam, 7 in Berlin, 7 in Dresden and 5 in Paris. Others are in the United States, Belgium, Scandinavia and Russia.

It is the organizers' hope to get the majority of the canvases owned abroad as a loan for the occasion, as was done for the Titian exhibition.

Germany Agrees to Ban War Recruits

Berlin, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—Germany repudiated today to the British proposals for a ban on recruits to Spain, expressing readiness to forbid all volunteering as soon as all other nations agree and a control system can be established.

The note said the Reich government, recognizing the willingness of other powers to co-operate, has prepared a law making the ban effective, which will be enforced as soon as a general agreement of all others has been reached.

Commissioner Appointed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—President Roosevelt today appointed John C. Pace, Nevada, to be commissioner of reclamation.

Pace has been acting director of the reclamation bureau since the death last year of Commissioner Elwood Mead.

Italy Replies to War Ban Proposal

ROME, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—The Italian reply to Great Britain's note on non-intervention in the Spanish civil war, handed to the British embassy today, renewed the proposal of Italy and Germany for simultaneous withdrawal of all foreign troops with either faction in the conflict.

The Italian reply stipulated that Italy was ready to adopt legislation forbidding the recruiting of "volunteers" provided other countries agreed to a system of adequate and effective nonintervention control.

In Europe and Asia, varieties of flowers are utilized for food purposes. It is not rare to hear of geranium soup, shrub cakes, boiled lily, violet preserves, candied jasmine, or rose dessert in these parts of the world.

minority senators had an invitation. Following announcement of the banquet in the senate, George Donat, Washington, asked the Republicans to attend as guests of their majority colleagues.

Tracy Coker, Lincoln county Republican, was not impressed with the urgent need for relief of wild ducks. His lone objection prevented a $10,000 appropriation for duck food to pass under suspension of the rules in the house, requiring the bill to come up in regular order.

LEGISLETTERS

By NEWTON STEARNS, United Press Correspondent

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 26 (U.P.)—With the 24th Idaho legislature nearly half over, real work of the session has little more than begun.

"As yet there has been little attempt to enact into law recommendations made by Governor Clark in his legislative message at the beginning of the 60-day session. A transactions tax-old age pension bill has appeared. But while the governor expressed belief "some form of transactions tax" should be enacted, he has not given full support to the measure, which "tends toward Townsendism on a state basis."

A proposal to legalize wide-open gambling in Nevada was introduced. The governor favored liberalization of gambling regulations, but it is not known whether he meant letting down the bars completely.

One measure, believed to express exactly the governor's views, would give the state control over water fillings. Use of the water for power purposes could be limited, or prohibited entirely.

However, the governor's ideas on a broad public policy, liberalization of liquor laws, conservation of natural resources, taxation, have not yet appeared in the form of legislation. In fact, only liquor proposals so far proposed tend to the other direction—lightening of control.

The educational institutions battle moves on to the senate. Bills for the state to take over Ricks college at Rexburg, and enlarge the University of Idaho southern branch at Portello into a full-fledged university passed the house by similar votes, but with exceedingly peculiar goings-on.

In the first place, representatives of northern counties were largely in the "aye" column on the Ricks question, a bill which can do nothing but take money away from the north. No one supposes that a junior college in Rexburg would draw even one student from north of the Salmon river.

The main issue, of course, is the Portello bill, with the Rexburg college proposal a mere pawn, which can confuse and possibly wreck the whole southern university ship in the senate.

If all the school bills now proposed should pass, the state would have nearly a college in every town. Besides the Portello and Rexburg proposals another bill provides for setting up of junior colleges at the discretion of the state board of education in a number of cities around the state, the requirement being that buildings be furnished by local interests.

Then W. C. Thornton, Gooding representative, suggests that the state also take over Gooding college while it is in a higher education state of mind.

There was an abortive movement in the senate to kill the four-year Portello university through subterfuge. The plan was to wait until the bill was among those up for second reading, and have someone move that the titles not be read, quite an ordinary procedure. Then there would be a motion to lay H. B. 37 on the table, which the schemers hoped would pass before any vote on the other side was up. Once on the table, a two-thirds vote would be necessary to get the measure back.

The plan was abandoned—it was said because its instigators wanted to give the bill a fair chance, or perhaps because the word got round and they decided it wouldn't work.

Hard going is seen for Governor Clark's proposed budget which contains provision for a slight state expansion and a general boost in salaries for state employes.

A strong "no new taxes" bloc has developed in the senate, and it will take a hard fight to convince that body that general state government needs an increased allowance. In the house, where the appropriations must first be considered, economy-minded representatives are more numerous this year and have strong representation on the appropriations committee.

Tracy Coker, Lincoln county Republican, was not impressed with the urgent need for relief of wild ducks. His lone objection prevented a $10,000 appropriation for duck food to pass under suspension of the rules in the house, requiring the bill to come up in regular order.

HERMIT FOUNDS WEBFOOT HAVEN

Foster Parker, Now 80, Does His Part in Behalf of Wood Duck

SENECA FALLS, N. Y. (U.P.)—In the fastness of the Montezuma marshes near here lives Foster Parker, now 80, with no companions but the hundreds of gaily plumed, tame wood ducks, whose eggs he has saved from extinction by breeding them for over half a century.

The remote farm, where Parker was born and has lived ever since, is believed to be the only wood duck farm in America.

Back in the 80's Parker, then a young hunter and trapper, chanced upon a wood duck's nest in a tree in the river marshes. The wood duck is the rarest of most ornamental of native American birds. The male has a large crest and its plumage is varied with green, purple, white and red. Parker took the eggs home to hatch under a setting hen.

Never Found Second Nest

Never since, in 50 years, Parker says, has he ever come across a wood duck's nest. The nests are always built in trees, usually in some marshy wilderness.

The experiment was successful. Parker has shipped thousands of wood ducks to all parts of the world, for exhibition purposes only. He has never killed one, or sold one to be slaughtered. Most of them went to zoos.

The federal and state governments have given Parker special permits to breed the wood duck despite the international migratory bird treaty between the United States and Canada.

Laments Vanishing Birds

"Wild life is going fast," declares this strange, silent man who has lived always apart. "And wild life has been my companion. To me it is like seeing my family and friends going on, faster and faster. And I shall have no part in the slaughter which will take forever many kinds of game birds and game from future generations."

Today, even though thousands of ducks visit central New York their total is not as great as the number of any single species that visited here when I used to hunt along the river. Treaties and laws seem no match for the gun-mad hundreds who night and day make war upon the birds, which find no haven either in this country or in Canada.

The ducks which Parker raises are still hatched by hens. The wood duck will not nest anywhere except in trees and then only from April 15 to July 1. The young ones have their wings clipped so that they cannot fly away to be destroyed by hunter's guns. They follow Parker about the little farm, along with canvassbacks, American widgeons, blue bills, hooded merganser, butterbills, shovellers and other species all tame.

A MILESTONE FOR THE TIMES

Today's issue of the Idaho Evening Times marks another milestone in this newspaper's career. It was produced in its new home with practically double the battery of modern newspaper equipment at its disposal.

Twin Falls and vicinity do not need to be reminded of the remarkable progress the Evening Times has made during recent years. Its growth and improvements have been watched with interest, with the result that since 1932 the number of reader families has increased from 3,200 to well over 8,000!

Over the week-end work of combining the equipment of the Idaho Evening Times and the Twin Falls Daily News was virtually completed. Today it can be said modestly that the Twin Falls newspapers have one of the finest equipped newspaper plants in the state.

Although each of the local papers is to maintain its individuality in every respect, both will become even better newspapers because of the increased mechanical facilities at their command. And the story does not end there, for more improvements are to be made and additional new equipment is to be added. Foremost in the publishers' minds will be the ambition to afford south central Idaho the best newspapers it is possible to produce.

Today as the Evening Times passes another significant milestone, it is more mindful, more appreciative than ever before of the loyal support that has made this advancement possible. It will welcome more than ever before, if that is possible, constructive suggestions and criticisms that will make for even greater advancement. It pledges itself anew to dedicate its best efforts toward the upbuilding of Twin Falls and south central Idaho.

We naturally are proud of our enlarged printing plant and invite everyone interested to visit it at his convenience.

As no coolies were reported in war dispatches, the rumor is probably false that a Spanish soldier wrote, "I got you under my skin."

A PUBLIC SERVANT DEPARTS

A final farewell was expressed today to another pioneer who long has been identified with the public life of Idaho.

In the death of Senator T. Dan Connor of Filer another faithful servant is lost. . . a departure everyone regrets, this vicinity particularly.

At one time he served Twin Falls county as a member of the board of county commissioners, and when called by death was entering upon this third successive term as a member of the state senate.

During all his varied career in Idaho, as a farmer, merchant, railroad man, administrator and lawmaker, he was admired and respected by his friends and associates because he served both faithfully and well.

One of the pleasant memories that remains is that there was no showmanship in the makeup of Dan Connor. He offered himself and his services for what they were worth and the value of both was never questioned. Even his opponents in the various political campaigns he entered recognized Dan Connor as a "square shooter."

A lifelong Democrat, he contributed much to his party and those whom he represented. His passing leaves a vacancy that will be difficult to fill.

The attitude of the automobile companies has been that they wouldn't stand for the sitdown.

A CHALLENGE TO SPORTSMEN

Sportsmen of Twin Falls county and south central Idaho generally should view with alarm the warning which has just been sounded by the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association.

This community is confronted with a serious problem, that of properly feeding pheasants, ducks and quail which are reported dying in great numbers because of the snow and extreme cold.

As a result the state game department has joined with the association in issuing an appeal to the sportsmen and the general public. If the migratory and upland bird life is to be saved from serious loss by starvation, help must be forthcoming at once, either in the form of feed or cash donations. Cars also will be needed to transport this feed to the various points where hungry wildfowl is in danger.

Those in position to volunteer assistance in any way will find details of the general appeal elsewhere in this issue of the Evening Times. No time should be lost because ducks are reported congregating by the thousands on snow covered fields where no feed is to be found, and pheasants and quail likewise are facing the same peril.

Our wildlife is too much a part of Idaho, it is regarded too highly to let this warning go unheeded. We cannot afford to let its thinning ranks be further reduced by such a threat of massed depletion. It's a challenge that must be met in a sportsmanlike manner.

POT SHOTS

WITH
The Gentleman in the Third Row

DEFENSE OF BLOWING NONES AT DINNER:

Mr. Pot Shots:
Your article in your column of Friday, concerning non-blowing at table, inspired the following gem:

TWIN FALLS TABLE MANNERS

Oh, what is proper and what is not?
A cold-stricken nose
Needs a hanky. Lord knows,
But they say we can't blow—and that's all rot.

Let us hang onto our God-given right,
When the nose needeth blowing, go to it with might.
Blow same with a roar
Like the ear at the door.
And us with reproaches none
Can affright.

A GOOD CUSTOMER FOR OUR APPLE MEN:

Pot Shots:
One fellow in the public prints these days is a gent who is now 102 years old and swears he has never had to call a doctor.
But gosh, Pot Shots, think how tired he must be of eating apples!

MARVELOUS DEDUCTION:

Pot Shots:
Just to show you the marvelous reasoning powers displayed by some of the local citizens, let me tell you of the two elderly gents I followed down the sidewalk Saturday.

It was about one o'clock in the afternoon, when means the banks were closed. But these two gents turned in at the bank entrance and found it locked.

"It's closed," said one in amazement.
"Golly, must be something wrong," said the other.
Then the first, bethought himself a moment.

"You don't suppose," asked he "that this is Saturday, do you?"
"Sure," said the second elderly gent, "this must be Saturday. Yesterday was Friday."

ASTONISHING, I call it. Pot Shots
—Tiny Tim

WHAT RATHER STAGGERED US, TOO!

Dear Pot Shots:
Please explain the meaning of errors in the enclosed clipping. It was taken from your society column in Friday's Eve Times.

I happened to be peering in on this Hubby and Willy event, therefore I want to know if I am seeing ZZZZZZ and need specks or if it is this BRRRRR zero weather or that—bunch of newspaper twirls at your Times Office. I rather think my last guess is correct. How about it, Pot? I know I made mistakes in this note but—a guy like me—ain't supposed to be smart.

—Barney Goo-Goo

AND THE ERROR to which Barney Goo-Goo has reference was a line clipped from the society column of the Evening Times, ancient the meeting of a ladies' club to which the husbands were present.

ALL WE COULD get out of that line, Barney, was that maybe the husbands and wives finally got sleepy and dropped off into slumber; you know, like the comic strips always say it—ZZZZZ.

WELL, POT SHOTS is encouraged in a new home as he writes this. We've been looking for a long time for a chance to throw that word "encouraged" at you, and we hope nobody looks in the dictionary to tell us we've spelled it wrong or something.

WE HAD A HECTIC week-end, what with the whole Evening Times packing up lock, stock and barrel and descending on the News Building. In case you didn't know, Pot Shots and the Evening Times purchased the News Jan. 1. We're safely parked now off in the northeast corner behind the files, so if you should come in to visit us just peer around corners and whatnot until you see a gent puffing furiously on a pipe and trying to mislead the boss into thinking he's very busy. That will be us. Or anyway, that's how the boss describes us.

GENIUS—OR SOMETHING:

Pot Shots:
Those eastern doctors sure got swell ideas. A lady back there got herself an awful fit of hiccups so the medics figured out a brand new system for curing her. They got themselves the biggest darned freeraker they could find and exploded it right behind her.

Smart, no? Scare the lady to death and you've stopped the hiccups.

King without a country

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PAUL I. King of Northumbria, became private citizen PAUL FERRONE when he abdicated for the love of ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress. Paul's younger brother JOSEPH, succeeds to the kingship.

With calm finality, Paul signs the formal abdication papers at his royal lodge, says, "Well, gentlemen, it is all over. Then, after briefly wishing his brother well, he heads to the royal airport, boards a plane and soars off into the night, leaving his empire behind him forever.

Paul and Ardath marry, choose a charming villa on Bay St. Francis. Paul revels in his new freedom. He's delightfully happy with his bride. After then one day walks into the nearby village of San Lorenzo. He overhears curious tourists making a shopkeeper aware that "king and his wife friend have hid out."

Angry, terrified lest he be recognized, Paul turns back to the villa, thinking only of protection behind its walls.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional and imaginary and are not intended to portray any actual persons or events.

CHAPTER III

"Dearest," Ardath was saying, pouting prettily, "these are all people we know. There won't be any strangers there."

"I know," said Paul. "It's just that—that—oh, I guess the truth is I hate to run the gantlet of the tourists in San Lorenzo. I hate to see them all swinging their cameras at me, to hear them jabbering. Look—there he is!" in five languages.

He grinned ruefully. "I suppose it'll be all right, though, especially since it'll be fairly dark."

"And anyway," said Ardath, "they won't be at the Casino. That, thank heaven, is too expensive for the ordinary run of tourist. Besides, the countess is expecting us. It would look a bit boorish, if we turned her down at the last minute."

"I suppose so," Reluctantly, Paul turned to go to his dressing room and change to evening attire. "Tough I must say," he said, "the Countess di Marco is not precisely a lady for whose good opinion I would lie awake nights and worry."

"Why, Paul? She's nice—" began Ardath, but Paul had gone. He undressed and bathed moodily, and told himself that he must not quarrel with Ardath—he must not, for he was all she had and she was all he had.

HE crossed to a cabinet in the wall, took down a bottle and poured a drink, to lift himself out of this depression. He had, he reflected, been using this remedy rather frequently of late. Oh, well, the tourist season would be over by and by. Or maybe, as time went on, people would simply get used to the idea of an ex-king being around and would stop making such a fuss. He finished his dressing and went to rejoin Ardath.

They drove down the road, sped through the town and went to the gimcrack gilt-and-stucco Casino.

The Countess di Marco met them in the vestibule. She was small and pert, with black hair and alert eyes. A decade ago she had been spoken of as "Poodle"; now, as the years inexorably added successive increments of flesh, she was more than a little plump. In another decade she would be openly and unashamedly fat.

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

As Glanced from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO—

Jan. 25, 1922

Twin Falls sleuths and minions of the law are now in their new headquarters at the police station and a new system of signalling will go into operation tomorrow morning.

Under the rotation plans outlined by Chief Ben J. Brown there will always be a man on the job at the station and instead of asking the telephone station to turn on the red light when a policeman is needed, those requiring an officer will phone number 48 at police headquarters and the light will be turned on from there.

Chief Brown has arranged the shifts so that all members of the force will take turns in the office. The new city jail is now complete but is not yet dry enough to keep prisoners in it.

27 YEARS AGO—

Jan. 25, 1904

Commissioners Hart and Kartize of Lincoln county arrived in this city Tuesday and together with the Twin Falls county commissioners left immediately for the site of the two bridges proposed to connect the two counties across the Snake river. Shoshone falls was first visited and a careful investigation of the rock formation showed that the bridges could be put in for a much smaller sum than the $15,000 first estimated. The smaller sum being due to the small amount of artificial footing needed.

The committee then proceeded to the site of the lower bridge near Clear lakes and found that the estimate there was approximately correct. After fully discussing the proposed plan, a bonding proposition of the Lincoln county members stated that they feared nothing could be voted for their county. The only thing now left for Twin Falls county to do is to build the bridges on its own responsibility.

Sleeping, she peeled her gown over her head and tossed it blithely away. . . Paul felt a sudden, acute desire to get out of the Casino and away from the vacuous folk who peopled it.

They entered a large room. At one end, there was a bar; at the other, a raised dais where a small, but energetic colored orchestra was doing things to a torch song. A few couples were dancing; others sat at little tables, sipping drinks; still others came and went through the double doors that gave on the game rooms; but most of the guests—of whom there were at least fifty—were simply standing about in groups, chatting.

Ardath, Paul saw, had been mistaken; they were not all people he knew. He did recognize many of them, however; they were members of the gay sporting set that drifted from one international capital to another, from this playground to the next, dedicated, apparently, to the self-imposed task of filling every minute of life with activity, whether the activity meant anything in particular or not, so that there could never be one moment of boredom, of solitude, or of reflection.

A SLIM young man with an old face disengaged himself from a group and came over to them. The Countess di Marco slipped an arm about his waist and said, "Reggie Van Twyne—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ferrone." She said it rather proudly, not yet had the thrill gone out of introducing the former king of Northumbria as plain "mister."

Reggie Van Twyne bowed. He was an American, of the type known to the Sunday supplements as "rich young playboy." Paul knew him by repute; a gay youngster, not particularly depraved or vicious but cursed from childhood by the fact that he had always had unlimited freedom and unlimited money. He was now in his third marriage, to an ex-queen of the Follies, she was standing by the bar, glass in hand, talking with a swarthy nobleman from some forgotten duchy in south-eastern Europe.

Reggie Van Twyne, it seemed, fancied himself as an entertainer. Presently he would sing for them. And, indeed, after half an hour of strolling in and out among the groups, shaking hands and exchanging pleasantries, Paul found himself sitting with Ardath and the countess at a little table while Reggie mounted to the dais, sat at the piano and burst into song.

"Song" was not quite the word, perhaps. What Reggie did was to repeat verses in a manner half way between singing and ordinary reciting, playing an apparently improvised accompaniment and underlining the significant parts of his ditties with two end of eyebrow-arching and head-wagging. The verses themselves were mildly risqué—the sort of thing Paul had heard in a dozen night clubs in his native capital. Reggie's insistent snarling gave them an offensiveness they did not intrinsically possess.

Reggie got down, at last, to be surrounded by gushing folk who cried, "Reggie, how simply marvelous!" When the countess announced that Mademoiselle de Lys of the Deauville Casino would now favor them with her sensational fan dance, Paul excused himself and wandered to the balcony that overlooked the water. He stood there, leaning idly against a pillar and smoking in silence, when a bulky shape appeared in the doorway.

"Oh—it's you, Ferrone?" said a gruff voice. The shape came nearer and resolved itself into the person of Baron Lanza, one of the wealthiest industrialists in all Northumbria. He swaggered over to the railing, looking—as he always did—as powerful and as ruthless as a grizzly. Lighting a cigar, he stood surveying Paul with an expression on his face which Paul could not quite make out.

"You know," said the baron suddenly, "good job, your quitting when you did. Good job for me, I mean. Those tours of yours. They didn't do me any good?"

"Tours?" said Paul. He had never liked Baron Lanza; nor did he like the half-contemptuous way in which the man said "Ferrone."

"Uh," said the baron. "Down into the coal fields around Lazare. Depressed areas—you know. Stirred up too much talk. Made my stockholders ask a lot of silly questions. No good."

He stepped inside. Paul remembered his last tour to the Lazare coal fields, along the north coast of Northumbria. He had gone into that hopelessly depressed region some six months ago, and had seen there poverty and degradation such as he had never before dreamed of. Hardest of all to endure had been the heartbreaking look of hope and trust with which the jobless miners and their families had greeted him. Their king, they had been sure, could do something for them—what, they did not know, but surely something.

Paul savagely threw away his cigar and returned to the bar. Mademoiselle de Lys had gone. The orchestra was playing loudly, people's voices were raised, everyone seemed to be talking at once. Nearby, Reggie Van Twyne's pretty wife, her face flushed, was arguing with the eastern potentate and an Argentine polo player.

"Can, too," she said shrilly. "Can dance just as good as de Lys ever did. Don't need 'fan.' Look!" She made her way suddenly to the end of the room by the orchestra and said something to the director. There was a ruffle of drums, which stopped the conversation and drew all eyes to her.

"Fan dance? By me!" she cried. Stopping, she peeled her gown over her head and tossed it blithely away. It fell on the neck of the drummer, who leered delightedly. Before she could go any farther Reggie was at her side. Grinning shamefacedly, he managed to pick her up in his arms and carry her away, while someone retrieved the discarded frock, bore it after them and the orchestra struck up a new tune.

Paul felt a sudden, acute desire to get out of the Casino and away from the vacuous folk who peopled it. As he looked about him for Ardath, he heard a man's voice, at his elbow. Someone was asking him, "Well, Paul, was it such a bargain—giving up your throne for . . . THIS?"

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

Exclusive Evening Times Report from the Nation's Capital by An Expert Commentator.

(Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The picture of President Roosevelt standing there with hand upraised naturally prompted some inside speculation among the assembled Democratic clannismen from far and near about who would be occupying that same spot four years hence.

The Democratic politicians best bet seemed to be Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania. Several other names were mentioned, but none as frequently as his. The ideas advanced were that he comes from a big pivotal eastern state, that he could be counted on to carry on the liberal Roosevelt tradition, that he is in the favor of national Chairman Farley.

Two others mentioned were Agriculture Secretary Wallace and Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri. The politics do not care particularly for Wallace, but some feared he might be Mr. Roosevelt's choice. Clark has some active backing already started in the midwest, but his standing with "the organization" is short of altitudinous.

No one made any bets against the possibility of a third term draft of Mr. Roosevelt.

Not many Republicans came to the inauguration, except the congressional Republicans who could not avoid it. No gathering of the Republicans was needed, however, to disclose the fact that Senator Vandenberg is the only choice the leaders can visualize from this distance. There is some talk of Alf Landon, coming to the senate from Kansas next year to take hold, but it is rather indefinite.

Very quietly and naturally, Vandenberg is being pushed forward as the policy leader of the party in congress. While the nominal leaders in and out of congress are being more or less passive, it is Vandenberg who is beginning to determine the party's position by his stand on the issues of the day.

His Republican colleagues seem to feel the party should start earlier, this time to build up a man or men.

When picking women get their first appointment with Commerce Assistant Secretary Monroe Johnson, they walked in and opened the conversation with a little sea-going language. They thumbed and thumbed the dashed-dashed Copeland law. And a few other odds and ends.

Secretary Johnson is a colonial who took a post-graduate course in picturesque English in the trenches. He jumped up and shouted: "Gentlemen, no one swears in this office except me. If you continue to do so, you will get thrown out dash dash (where)."

Even the sailors shuddered. The conference thereafter was as formal as session of the U. S. supreme court.

Speaker Bankhead did not appoint the expected yes-committee to handle the President's government reorganization program. He chose a couple of economy fighters as hard-boiled as top sergeants to head it. Buchanan of Texas as chairman and Cochrane of Missouri as No. 2 man. They are for Roosevelt and efficiency, but primarily they want more economy than the President requested.

The choice seems to have been Bankhead's own private idea. He is personally a strong economy man, except on farm tenancy and a few other Alabama things.

The selections mean more trouble for the President's plan.

You may depend on Agriculture Secretary Wallace to tear down the capitol, stone by stone unless the sugar processing tax is repassed by congress. Those warm words he spoke the other day in favor of reimposition of the rest of weeks of inner troubles. What led up to the outbreak was the refusal of the processors to allow the farmers a little share in spite of the pressure put on them by AAA (In a purely advisory capacity, of course).

Wallace intimated he would scrap the whole quota idea unless congress authorizes the tax. This is strong talk, as the Cuban agreement provides an automatic tariff of 2 cents at the expiration of the two years. It would mean one of two things: (1) The situation would revert to its 1933 status, in the protected domestic industry in a pocket to expand and kill the Cuban trade, or else (2) the administration would charge the Cuban treaty so the tariff would not go all the way back to 2 cents. Even the phrase, "tariff protection," gives low tariff Wallace the creeps, and the second alternative would threaten the domestic industry with extinction.

In other words, Mr. Wallace is up to his ears in the sugar, and it is not dry sugar either. He must get the processing tax authority to save himself, and he probably will.

Defeated house leadership candidate O'Connor has earned a reputation as a good sport. Several times lately, during the absence of Leader Rayburn in conferences, O'Connor has handled administration matters on the floor of the house. All has been forgiven, or at any rate nearly all.

RANGE SCARCITY THREATENS ELK

Winter Status of Food Has Greater Menace Than All of Hunters' Guns

MOSCOW (Special)—Scarcity of winter range apparently is a greater threat to future elk hunting of central Idaho than all the high-powered rifles lugged over that mountainous country each fall.

Jack Parsell, U. S. forest service official detailed on big game studies in the Lochsa and Selway districts, gave an interesting account of big game conditions here this week to game management and other forestry students. The big problem confronting the elk herd of the upper Clearwater country is winter range he said.

Nature is Menace He intimated that the elk are in less danger from man-made hunting laws than they are from nature's inexorable laws. Summer range, approximately 2,000,000 acres in all, is more than sufficient. But the elk pass up all but about one-twentieth of this area during the winter. Actual winter range therefore amounts to roughly 110,000 acres.

It is to gather information of this kind to intelligent planning of future management policies that the forest service assigned Mr. Parsell to the present study. He is stationed at Kootenai.

New Orleans, located in a natural bowl, with no outlet for rain water to flow by gravity to the Mississippi, has 16 pumps removing 60,000 cubic feet of storm water every minute of the day.

Temperatures in Tibet run the places, the mercury rises to 110 length of the thermometer in one degree at midday and drops to day. During the winter, in some 30 below at night.

Easterners Eye New Bear Story

Experience of Idaho Forester Raises Eyebrows of Co-Workers

By RALPH W. OLMSTEAD WASHINGTON — (Special) — Now completing his first year as chief of the division of information and education of the U. S. Forest Service is Dana Parkinson, who for 10 years served with the forest service in Idaho. He was located in Salmon and Boise. Originally from the east, Mr. Parkinson became a thoroughgoing westerner before his assignment to duty in Washington.

He now tells a gospel truth a story of Idaho One spring he made a trip into the Salmon river country to look over the range, accompanied by several sheepmen. Being early spring snow banks still hung on north slopes.

"The party was hiking and" says Mr. Parkinson "when we got to the Hyndman sawmill we noticed that a large bear was following us. I was in the rear and noticed that the bear kept coming closer and closer until finally he put his paw around my leg and sank his teeth into my puttee. The fellows accompanying me finally succeeded in beating the bear off with sticks and we resumed our journey, but the bear continued to follow. Finally we got to the top of the ridge and were lined up looking over the range. The bear walked over to a snow bank, sat down on it, and neatly tobogganed down the mountain. Arriving safely and with an obvious smirk of bear-satisfaction, he trotted back up the hill and down he went again."

"We mortals pay plenty to duplicate the feat at Sun Valley. We, of course, would not question the veracity of such a story, but some of Mr. Parkinson's eastern colleagues in the forest service, having heard the story, now seek to enter him in the national bear's contest.

DEMOCRATS PLAN CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Party Treasurer Explains Use Of $10,500,000 To Be Raised

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (UP)—W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, explained today that a $10,500,000 fund the committee will build up in the next four years will be used to finance national, state, congressional and possibly county and municipal campaigns.

Morgan issued a statement to clarify the use of the huge proposed fund.

"The fact is," he said, "that the greater part of it must be returned to the states for the uses of state committees, congressional and senatorial election organizations, and of the states so determining, for the municipal and county elections as well. The national committee will retain only a relatively small percentage which has not yet been agreed upon."

SANITONING...that's good news!

Schoolgirls are quick to recognize a good thing. They find that Sanitoning expands their wardrobe. Sanitone cleans so thoroughly, and yet so gently, that it lengthens the life of your clothes. The sharp dirt particles that ordinarily accumulate in fabrics soon cut the tiny fibres and cause the garments to wear out faster, with Sanitone, these particles are removed. The patented process also takes out dirt, sugar spots, and perspiration as well as all soils removed by ordinary methods. Only quality cleaners are licensed to use Sanitone. SPORTSMEN ASK HELP IN FEEDING GAME BIRDS

DUCK STATUS IS CALLED SERIOUS

Newest Emergency Produces Request for Cooperation In South Idaho

Because of the serious emergency which exists as to the feeding of pheasants, ducks and quail in this territory, members of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association and the state game department today issued a call for feeding aid, either in the form of donations in cash or of grain.

Because of snow and cold weather at the present time, a spokesman for the organizations said, "The condition of game birds is a serious one. It is especially so among the duck population and they are dying by the hundreds because of lack of nourishment."

For the purpose of a preliminary survey officials of the association, asked each person who has been feeding the birds to report such feeding operations at telephone 965 in Twin Falls.

Members of the game department and the local association listed a number of interested persons who would call for any donation of cash or feed which any person in this section would give, as well as places where interested persons can obtain feed they wish to transport to areas where the birds exist and distribute it.

Names Listed

Donations will be accepted by the following: W. R. Priebe, Twin Falls, telephone 965; Harry Reilly, Buhl, telephone 23; August Westbeck, Murtaugh, telephone 28312; E. A. Finklenberg, Hazelton, telephone 21; R. F. Bailey, Hansen, telephone 82R2.

Places where feed for distribution is obtainable include: Harry Severin's service, Twin Falls, telephone 988W; Harry Reilly's up and up, Buhl; August Westbeck, Murtaugh; R. F. Bailey's garage, Hansen; E. A. Finklenberg, Hazelton; and George Jasper, Filer.

ANNUAL HOLDOUT SCREAM STARTS

Selkirk Returns His Contract With Raise Asked; Dizzy Still to Start

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—The annual scream of baseball's holdouts rose in volume today with an increasing number warning the misuse of salaries offered in 1937 contracts.

George "Blinkleton" Selkirk returned his contract assigned to the world champion New York Yankees from his Rochester, N. Y., home last night. "It called for a slight raise," he said, "refusing to reveal actual figures, but the amount I believe I'm worth based on my play in the Yankee outfield last year."

George batted .308 in 1936, and was one of the Yankees to drive in more than 100 runs.

Returns Contract

Zeke Bonura, best fielding first baseman in the American league last year, refused to sign his contract at the reported $11,000 offered, and returned it to Chicago White Sox owner, Louis Comiskey with a note suggesting $15,000. Comiskey also hasn't yet satisfied Luke Appling, White Sox shortstop, who hit .388 last year. Appling wants $20,000, but Comiskey wants him to sign for $15,000 with a bonus agreement.

National league batting champion, Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, is another who does not believe his 1937 contract called for a big enough raise. His brother, Lloyd accepted terms offered him.

Dizzy Not Signed

The loudest cry of all is still forthcoming from Dizzy Dean, ace hurler of the St. Louis Cardinals. He remembers only too well the fancy price at which Branch Rickey tried to peddle him to virtually every club in the National league.

The younger Dean, Paul, who was out of the season with an injured pitching arm, grabbed Rickey's first offer.

Dates for Indoor Tennis Meet Set

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—The U. S. Lawn Tennis association mailed entry blanks today for the national indoor championships at the 7th regiment armory beginning Feb. 27.

Deadline dates for filing entries were Feb. 22, men's singles; Feb. 24, women's singles; Feb. 27, men's and women's doubles; March 2, mixed doubles. Entry fees were $3 for singles and $4 for doubles.

Nampa Quint Loses To Southern Branch

NAMPA, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—University of Idaho southern branch basketball squad Saturday night defeated Northwest Nazarene college here, 31 to 15. Nazarene lost to Albion Normal on Friday, 27 to 26.

Returns Contract

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—Gene Liljedal, who was transferred to the San Francisco Seals from the Chicago Cubs, was holding out today for a better contract.

The 1935 home run leader of the Pacific coast league was reported to have returned unsigned a contract sent him by the Seals and to be demanding more money.

$50,000 OR WE DON'T SIGN CONTRACT," SAYS MRS. DEAN

BASKETBALL MEN PLAN GATHERING

By HENRY McEMORE

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 25 (U.P.)—With more than $100,000 in the bank, a clear deed to his spacious home safely tucked away in the bureau drawer, and unlimited credit with the butcher and baker, Dizzy Dean is prepared to quit baseball unless the St. Louis Cardinals offer him $50,000 for the 1937 season.

I got this information from a source even more unimpeachable than Dean himself, namely, Mrs. Dean, his wife, absolute mistress of the Dizzy ones' doings. Mrs. Dean makes the decisions in their household. Her word is law, because of Dizzy loves her more than he does a one-hit game, and trusts her business sense as implicitly as he does his hot high one when three are on in the ninth.

Talks to Pat

I talked to Pat—everybody calls her that—on the porch of the Bobb-Jones golf club here and she pulled no punches.

Branch Rickey signed his last year only because we didn't have enough money to tell him to quit bothering us and go on back to St. Louis and do his fancy talking and shouting where we couldn't hear him.

We just couldn't afford to deny him. This year things are different. We've got enough in the bank to live on the rest of our lives, and we don't sign for one penny less than fifty thousand. It's fifty grand or we don't pitch.

No Monkey Business

Mrs. Dean asked me to make it plain that when the time came for Dizzy to sign this year there would be none of the monkey business of last year.

"I would like the American baseball fans to know just how we stand. They pay us our living and they have a right to know. You tell em that the only trouble between us and the Cardinals bosses is that they don't want to pay us what we deserve. We draw thousands of dollars through the gates, and believe me we are worth a lot more than they want to pay us."

Won't Fool Us

"We don't want to see him or hear from him until he has a contract for fifty thousand dollars in his pocket. Of course, he won't stay up there. He'll come down and try and overpower us with his sweet smile and mile-a-minute flow of oily gab. But he won't fool us. This time we are ready and able to tell him to go fly his kite."

Mrs. Dean is none too satisfied with the way the Cards handle Dizzy. She is certain that he is over-worked.

RANGERS WIN IN HOCKEY LEAGUE

New York Takes Undisputed Second Place With Win Over Toronto

By United Press

New York's Rangers moved into sole possession of second place in the American division of the National Hockey league today, outpointing ahead of the Boston Bruins.

The Rangers broke their deadlock with the Bruins by a 4-2 decision over the Toronto Maple Leafs last night, while Boston fought hard for a tie with the Americans. Third period goals by Dillion and Keating gave the Rangers their margin over the Leafs.

Stage Thriller

The Bruins staged a thriller by overcoming a 4-0 deficit to tie the Americans. Every Boston goal was scored in the final period, gambling everything as they trailed 6-5 with a minute to play, the Bruins even sent Gene Thompson down the ice with their forward line. The strategy worked as Hooley Smith hit the wicket with the equalizer.

The Detroit Red Wings held their eighth point lead with a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Maroons in a game which produced three tie-fights.

Dudley Smashes Par By 15 Strokes to Win Meet

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 25 (U.P.)—Golf experts thumbed their record books today trying to find a performance that might match that of the veteran Ed Dudley. Georgia and Pennsylvania pro who shattered par by 15 strokes in winning the $3,000 Sacramento open tournament here.

There were two lower scores credited in competitive play, one to Lawson Little in the Canadian open last year and the other to "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn in a Texas event 10 years back, but each was on a short course.

Long Course

The Sacramento course where Dudley turned back par with such vengeance spreads over 6,600 yards. Dudley spread-eagled the field, beating Lighthouse Harry Cooper, the runner-up, by 10 strokes and leaving some of goldfolds' other stellar lights far in the rack. His score was 273 and Cooper's 283.

The victory put $750 into Dudley's pocket to bring his California winter winnings to $925. Cooper took $475 for second place to bring his winter total to $1,165. Jimmy Hines of Long Island got himself his first important money of the California season by placing third with a 285. It meant $350 for him. Others in the money were Horatio Smith, 296; Harold McSpadden, the 1935 winner, 285; Henry Picard, 286; Byron Nelson, 287; Johnny Revolta, 289; Paul Runyan, 290; John Bulla, Leonard Dodson, Sam Sneed, Ralph Gulldahl and Mark Fry, 291; Emory Zimmerman and Marvin Stahl, 292; Earl Fiv, Neil Christian, Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Thomson and Zell Eaton, 294.

Mr. Rayborn said he threw bushels of corn to the hungry birds—and "the bushels were snatched up in 10 minutes." Presence of the birds in huge numbers at this and other ranches was one factor in the appeal issued by the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association and the state game department urging cooperation in feeding pheasants, quail and the migratory waterfowl.

PRICE OF WHEAT SHOWS INCREASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (UP)—Wheat prices ran up for fairly good gains on the Chicago Board of Trade today only to run into resting orders to sell that checked the advance and erased about half of profits before the close.

Broad buying led by commission houses and local speculators advanced the market about a cent a bushel shortly after the opening. Strength abroad, food, and other weather news induced a fairly active trade. Bullish sentiment eased a bit in the last half of the session.

After an irregular start corn rallied on commission house buying. New selling was brought out by the case and the market eased back to previous closing levels.

Not a lot of use to a bird, for any purpose. On some the presence of color seems to be of little use, but in the case of most birds that nest on the ground in dangerous places, the mottled color blends with the surroundings and makes the eggs hard to see.
On the other hand, birds that nest in dark holes usually lay white eggs, so that the bird can see and avoid stepping on them.

FLU TOTAL GAINS FOR TWIN FALLS

Reported Cases Advance By Four Times; Many Absent In Schools Here

Reported cases of epidemic influenza in Twin Falls county increased four-fold last week over the total cases reported the week previous, a communicable disease summary released today by Dr. J. W. Hawkins of the county health unit, shows.

Twenty-five new cases of the disease were reported in the county last week. This does not include six reported the week previous.

In the city of Twin Falls cases of epidemic influenza were listed for the first time on the report just released and numbered 10. In Buhl 14 new cases were reported against none for the week previous. One new case was reported in Hansen against two for the week before.

Also included on the list released today were 11 new cases of chicken pox and three of mumps, all the latter being in the city of Twin Falls.

Many Out of School

A check of the public schools in Twin Falls this morning by the Evening Times revealed 80 students were absent at the Bickel school; 49 at the Washington; and 105 at the Lincoln. It is presumed a majority of these are ill with colds or mild cases of flu. Absentee totals could not be obtained this morning at the high school or the junior high school.

Throughout the city many workers in various industries were known to be suffering from mild cases of the disease but the number could not be learned as it is not necessary to report each case until a physician has been called.

Youth Held Here For St. Anthony

Enroute to the boys' industrial school at St. Anthony after pleading guilty to grand larceny in Nez Perce county, John Pochel, 35, was lodged in Twin Falls county jail today while industrial school officers went north again for other youths.

Pochel was sentenced by District Judge Miles G. Johnson, records at the sheriff's office here, reveal. His term is to extend until he reaches the age of 21 or is discharged.

ALLIANCE MAKES VARIED CHANGES

Workers' Group Reorganizes To Get Effective Method. Instead of "Talk"

Reorganization of the Twin Falls unit of the Workers' Alliance had been carried out today as a result of the closed-meeting staged here Friday night. Perry Morris, district organizer, announced this afternoon.

The grievance committee of the organization was expanded to six members instead of the previous three. New members appointed to the committee include Mayor McD. Johnston, Rev. Charles Honk and Robert Perkins. Members already on the committee were Dr. Andrew Warner, Mr. Taylor, and Jess Holt.

Named to Board

Al Hacker, former unit organizer, was appointed to the board of trustees and Dan Custer, formerly of the board, took Mr. Hack's place as organizer. The purpose of the changes was declared to be to turn the Alliance from a "talking shop" to a working body of organized members.

Distribution of coal purchased by the county and supplied through the Alliance committees is progressing steadily, according to Mr. Morris. At the present time a few cases of abuse have been found but these will soon be "weeded out" and only persons really deserving fuel will be supplied with it, he said.

BLISS, Jan. 25 (Special)—Mrs. Anna White Post, 51, wife of the manager of the Boise-Payette Lumber company at Bliss, died Friday evening at the Wendell hospital. Funeral arrangements are awaiting the arrival of relatives.

Few Places Open In 1st Aid Class

Only a few vacancies remain among the 25 persons necessary to complete the rolls for the standard first aid course, which will be offered under the auspices of the Twin Falls chapter of the American Red Cross, at the high school starting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. officials said today.

The course will be under the direction of S. G. Gee, of the Idaho Power company, who is donating his time to the program. Certificates will be awarded all those completing the course.

Registrations may be made at the Boy Scout office, telephone 833.

FLOOD AID ADDED TO DANCE GOALS

Help for stricken refugees of the flood disaster regions will be proffered through the President's birthday ball in Twin Falls county, Chairman Joe Koehler had announced today.

The county's share of the proceeds from dances next Saturday in Twin Falls and Buhl will go toward McClusky Memorial health camp and toward raising local funds for flood relief, Koehler said.

Two dances are scheduled in Twin Falls and will be held at Elks' and Legion halls. A third dance will be virtually part of the program, since Old Fellows will give net proceeds to the President's ball fund.
