Flood, Strikes Jeopardize FDR Budget Balance

Labor's Conference Plans Collapse

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (UP)—Floods still raging toward their crest and a new rebuff to federal automobile peace overtures combined today to jeopardize President Roosevelt's budget-balancing and recovery programs.

Plans collapsed for a face-to-face conference here tomorrow between Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., General Motors president and John E. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization.

Sloan refused Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' conference invitation because sit-down strikers still occupy his plants. The development brought Mr. Roosevelt a step nearer personal intervention to avoid a tough fight in Congress to break the recovery.

Flood Expenditures Immediate and future flood relief and control expenditures promised to increase considerably above Mr. Roosevelt's estimates the cost of conducting the government during an 18-month period in which the budget was to be brought into balance.

Only White House restraint and the objections of a few economy-minded legislators prevented Congress during the past two years from authorizing tremendous flood control appropriations. The House passed a $700,000,000 flood control bill in 1935 but it was blocked by a senate filibuster.

Senators Aroused Last year's flood so aroused senators that they were clamoring for a $1,000,000,000 omnibus flood control authorization when Mr. Roosevelt suggested appropriations only for control projects necessitated by 1936 floods. A $320,000,000 authorization was enacted by Congress but Congress did not appropriate any of the money.

Death and disaster in the Ohio valley again has aroused Congress to a spending mood against which a continuing flood against which.

FLOOD AID FUND CLIMBS TO $200

Third of $600 Quota Now Raised Here in Drive To Help Refugees

Funds contributed here to the Red Cross flood disaster relief quota had climbed to $200 this afternoon, Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston, chairman of the disaster committee of the Twin Falls chapter, announced Johnston announced on behalf of the chapter that henceforth contributions to the $600 quota are asked through the two Twin Falls banks or at the mayor's diamond shop here. Residents of other communities in this area, he said, can turn over their donations to their own local banks.

No Direct Solicitors No direct solicitors are authorized in future by Red Cross regulations against intermingling of drives, Mayor Johnston said. The flood relief attempt and the President's birthday ball had been urged jointly for the past several days. Joe Koehler, chairman of the President's ball arrangements, said today that the benefit dance plans will go forward under his direction. He had also been assisting temporarily on the Red Cross drive. The Junior Chamber of Commerce, at its meeting this noon, turned the handling of the dances back to Mr. Koehler in order to centralize the Birthday ball arrangements.

The Junior Chamber also decided on a dinner meeting for its membership Tuesday, Feb. 2.

Operations in the passenger car assembly plants at both the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants will continue at normal capacity, Shaw said. Closing of the truck assembly plant threw 40 men out of work.

STEIN TESTIFIES AT SOVIET TRIAL

German Prisoner Asserts He and 3 Others Were All Hired By Nazis

MOSCOW, Jan. 26 (UP)—Alex Stein, a German engineer, was brought in under guard at the trial of 17 prominent Bolsheviks today to testify that he and other Germans had been engaged to wreck Soviet machinery.

Stein's appearance coincided with indications that prosecution of various foreigners might follow the present trial, in which the defendants appear headed for the firing squad.

Stein is not a defendant but was brought in at a special witness. He is a German citizen, born in Riga in 1882.

Speaks in German Speaking in German, he testified he was engaged in wrecking with other Germans. They specialized in machinery. He asked permission of Vassily Ulich, president of the military collegium of the supreme court, who is presiding at the trial, to tell all about the wrecking.

Ulich cautioned him against naming persons or institutions of foreign powers.

Stein testified that three Germans named Wurm, Sommererger and Pless agreed to wreck on behalf of Germans, spinning machinery as fast as it arrived, so that new would have to be bought, thus aiding German industry.

CHILE MINE MEN FEAR NEW BLAST

15 Known Dead, 16 Missing In Disaster at Anaconda Copper Property

CHUCAMATA, Chile, Jan. 26 (UP)—Fear of another blast hampered rescue work today at the wrecked pit of the Anaconda Copper Company.

Engineers warned that some of the 1,000 sacks of black powder involved in yesterday's explosion might not have been detonated and urged caution.

The death toll, they said, might reach 30 when all bodies are recovered. Fifteen were known dead, 16 were missing and 102 injured in the mining area's worst explosion.

A small blast in the regular mining operations was blamed for setting off the stored powder which went up with a mighty roar that scattered boulders weighing a ton or more like pebbles and threw an electric crane weighing 20 tons many feet.

E. M. Cowland, a Michigan engineer, was among the persons missing. He is believed to have been trapped in the blast.

STAGE DISASTER PROBE STARTED

Inquest Set for Thursday on Florida Accident That Took 17 Lives

Second Chelan Man To Receive Pension Money

CHELAN, Wash., Jan. 26 (UP)—This town, residents of which gave C. C. Fleming $200 in "farm-marked" money to start the first practical demonstration of the Townsend old age revolving pension plan, will present its second resident that amount on Jan. 30, Roosevelt's birthday. It was reported today.

A "check" system will be used in the second trial, however. Mayor W. T. Price said. This has been made necessary because souvenir hunters have taken so much of Fleming's money out of circulation that sponsors fear the two per cent tax assessed each time one of the dollars is spent, will not amount to a total of $200 at the end of 30 days.

POCATELLO "U" FIGHT REACHES SENATE CLIMAX

Both Sides Foresee Victory In Battle Over New 4-Year School

BOISE, Jan. 26 (UP)—The long fight to establish a four-year university at Pocatello is to reach its climax on the senate floor today with opposing forces counting victory in terms of one and two votes.

The measure would expand the curriculum at the present University of Idaho southern branch from two years to four, giving the state two full-fledged degree-granting institutions of higher education.

Aided by promoters of Idaho southern university, as the proposed institution would be called, is only $400,000 for capital improvements, new buildings and equipment and approximately $100,000 per year for its increased operations.

Claim Entering Wedge Northern legislators, favorable for the most part to the single university at Moscow, however, charge that the $488,000 operating and capital payment each year would be merely an entering wedge, that the southern demands would increase with each successive legislative session.

Southern interests will go into the final debate denied the victory by senate dopters. Principal argument will be along the line of economy and possibility of weakening the present Moscow school by dividing financial support between two four-year colleges.

The Pocatello attack has been directed at the ultimate senate skirmish from the first, lines having been more definite and surely drawn in the house, where the bill passed 32 to 25 last week.

Clark Will Sign Although Governor Clark has dropped no hint on the subject, no doubt prevails among the legislative corridors of his signing the bill.

Action on the bill in the senate came remarkably swift, according to veteran members—only four days from passage in the house to final consideration in the upper house. Action of the senate state affairs committee—headed and controlled by James B. Newport, majority floor leader and economy advocate, in reporting the measure in rapid-fire action is attributed to judgment that defeat is more to be expected at this time than later.

Pocatello promoters had hoped that an additional camp follower might be appointed by Governor Clark to replace Senator T. Dan Connor of Twin Falls county who died Saturday. However, the governor, out of a feeling of respect to the late senator, held off from appointing a successor immediately.

Oil Tanks Spread Ohio Fire Threat

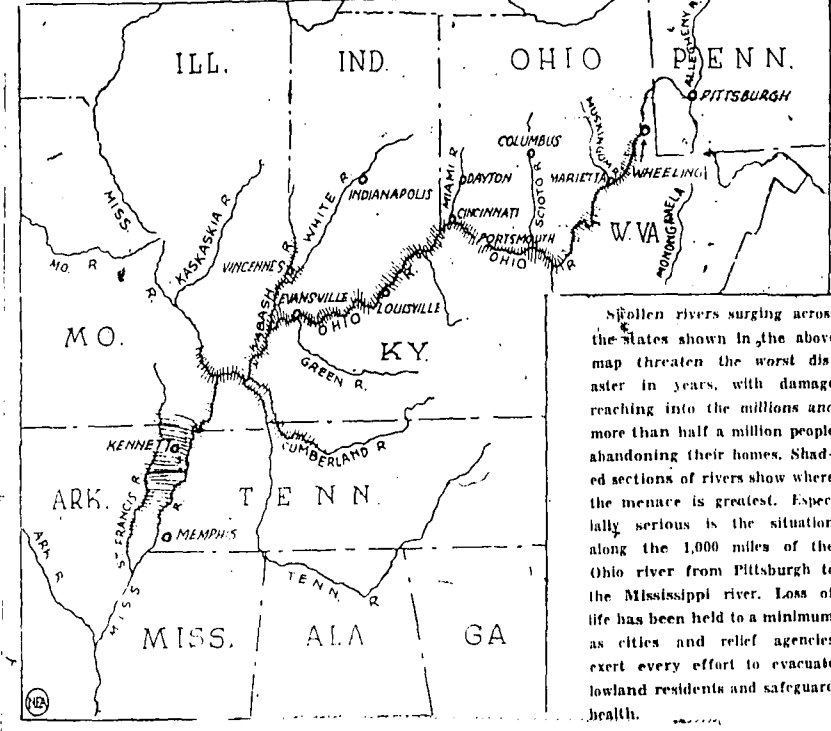

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 26 (UP)—Threats of fire developed today to plague authorities when floating storage tanks spread a film of gasoline over wide areas in the heart of the residential district.

A strict ban on smoking and lighting of fires in the affected sections was ordered by City Manager Frank Sheehan as police, firemen and coast guards attempted to anchor three large tanks that broke from their moorings on the outskirts of the city.

14 DROWNED KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 26 (UP)—A large being used by rescue parties to save marooned persons overburdened in the cross current of the Ohio river that is coursing down the streets of Pinduck, Ky., and 14 of its occupants were drowned, an amateur radio operator reported.

Shaded sections of rivers show where the menace is greatest. Especially serious is the situation along the 1,000 miles of the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi river. Loss of life has been held to a minimum as cities and relief agencies exert every effort to evacuate lowland residents and safeguard health.

New Game and Fish Bill Proposed in Idaho House

Bill Would Take Politics From Commission

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 26 (UP)—Proposed to take the control of Idaho wildlife resources "out of politics" was made in the house today in a bill to create a five-member fish and game commission, with employees to be under civil service.

Members would be appointed by the governor for five years, with the term of one commissioner expiring each year. They would be paid expenses but no salary. Removal would be only for cause.

Broad Powers The bill would give the commission broad powers to fix seasons and bag limits, establish game refuges and preserves, construct hatcheries and game farms and otherwise promote wildlife welfare.

Matters such as setting penalties for game law violations and establishing license fees would however be still left to the legislature.

Actual management of the fish and game department would rest with a director, to be paid not more than $4,000 and a fish culturist to receive a maximum of $3,600.

One to Five Years In order to get the staggered term system into operation, commissioners would be appointed for initial terms from one to five years. Each commissioner would represent one of five districts into which the state would be divided.

Strict Liquor Laws Asked In New House Bill

BOISE, Ida., Jan. 26 (UP)—In the face of recommendations by Governor Clark for liberalization of liquor laws, a bill was introduced in the house today to make reversion more strict.

A proposal by Taylor, Jefferson, and Curtis, Ada, would limit purchases from the Idaho liquor control commission to one quart a day for each permittee. In addition the buyer would be required to certify that with his current purchase, he had not used more than 2 1/2 gallons of wine in the preceding ten days.

JURY STILL OUT AFTER 21 HOURS

Debates Long Over Question Of Guilt Or Innocence For Three Men

Still unable to reach a verdict after 21 hours of deliberation, a district court jury this afternoon was attempting to determine the guilt or innocence of three men accused of receiving a stolen motor car.

As the jury argued, reportedly split evenly, illness of Judge Adam B. Barclay left the court without a presiding jurist in case the jurymen finally reached a verdict today. Judge Barclay was ordered confined to his home today by his physician.

Judge T. Bailey Lee, Burley, was also ailing and reportedly would be unable to take Judge Barclay's place if called to hear the jury decision.

Defendants on Stand The men over whose fate court proceedings were at a standstill today were Charles E. Collins, 24, Claude Steele, 22, and George D. Tucker, 36. All three took the stand yesterday and testified they were not aware the auto in question was stolen when they received it. Witnesses for the state included Ralph Day Murrain, from whom the car was reportedly taken, Mrs. Jefferson Hill, Jefferson Hill, Deputy Sheriff Art C. Parker, and Build Police Chief V. K. Barron.

The jury received the case at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Boltoho was found dying in a creek in a park here several hours after she was said to have left Williams' automobile and to have told him she was walking home. An autopsy revealed that death was due to exposure.

REFUGEES SIGHTED

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP)—An American Airlines plane flying food to Louisville reported by radio today that it had sighted 25 persons stranded on a small island in the flooded Ohio river five miles north of Elizabethtown, Ky.

97 Reported Dead In Eleven States

Rains Cease, But 200,000 More Expected To Be Sent To Refugee Camps

By United Press Rains ceased in the flooded Ohio valley today but the raging river roared on to new crests which threatened to drive 200,000 more persons into refugee camps.

Cessation of rains brought a hope to the stricken valley that the end of the record breaking disaster was in sight along the Ohio. The crests, however, threatened a super flood as they rolled around Cairo, Ill., and started southward down the Mississippi river to the Gulf between the billion dollar levees which have been untested since the 1927 disaster.

More than 500,000 persons were homeless in the 11-state area where 97 were known dead and scores more were believed drowned.

80 Feet at Cincinnati The river crested at 80 feet at Cincinnati, more than nine feet higher than ever before in history, and 30 feet above the flood stage.

In southern Illinois, however, the crest was not expected until Friday. New rises in the river's headwaters threatened to send the stream over the 60-foot flood wall at Cairo, where 4,000 men, children and aged men left on order of the mayor, were packing sandbags against the levee. So great was the pressure that water, forced under the wall, tore holes in the streets and spouted through them like geysers.

At Wheeling, W. Va., the Ohio was 11 feet above flood stage and was expected to rise another two or three feet.

Prepare for Siege U. S. army engineers prepared for a long siege throughout the valley. At Portsmouth, O., where gasoline tanks were torn loose and their contents spilled over the surface of the flood, the 25,000 refugees were told the city would be inundated for another two weeks.

Added to the menaces of flood, fire, pestilence and food and water shortages was the danger of panic among the marooned and homeless.

Martial Law Martial law was declared at Louisville where 200,000 persons were concentrated in temporary shelters. Southern Indiana's flooded regions were governed by martial law. An emergency dictatorship was set up at Cincinnati. Reports of panic among 1,000 refugees at Mounds, Ill., resulted in a request for national guardmen.

The U. S. government, warning that the Ohio was rising at all points south of Pittsburgh, except Parkersburg, W. Va., sent additional thousands of men, including regular army troops, into the area. More than 70,000 GOC and WPA workers, 1,200 coast guardsmen and navy crews for navy boats were performing rescue and relief service on the 11-state, 1,800-mile front.

Relief workers, ordered by President Roosevelt to "step on it," were mobilized along an array of 10,000 front. Physicians and nurses fought influenza, pneumonia, chicken pox, (Continued on Page 2, Column 6)

FLOODS, STRIKES DISTURB BUDGET

Chance for FDR to Balance Federal Expenses Jeopardized

(Continued from Page One) the administration is endeavoring to protect its budget plans. The house today considered the $780,000,000 recovery and relief appropriation requested by Mr. Roosevelt to carry on during the remaining five months of this fiscal year. Representatives were planning to increase the amount or earmark some of it for the flooded areas when New Deal congressional leaders wrote a new section into the bill. It provides that any part of the sum may be used for flood relief. That provision is expected to forestall an increase.

WOE OF MAIDS IN HOMES AIRED

Housewives Ears Would Burn If They Could Hear Y.W.C.A. Talk

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — Housewives' ears might burn if they could overhear classes the Y. W. C. A. is holding here to improve the lot of housemaids. The association decided it could benefit both the maids and their employers by instructing them in how to perform their duties well. The first class brought a tirade against the women who employ maids.

The complaints included: No period of rest is prescribed, with one girl expected to be on 24-hour duty in some homes. On Sunday mornings breakfast must be ready at any time between sunrise and 2 p. m.

Want Modern Equipment Employers evidently have no idea what equipment is needed in the kitchen. The maids asked adequate, up-to-date equipment, at least four uniforms, and free cosmetics to help them look their best.

Thursday night, "maid's night out," may be a holiday for the servants but when they come back to work next day the sink is piled high with dishes and nobody has cleaned the house. Many mothers give their children sanction at any time to "mess up" the kitchen and add to the headache of the maids.

Women are finicky about food, but they usually decide what they want for dinner after they return from an afternoon of bridge, 15 minutes before mealtime.

Suggest Employers' Class The housemaids made several suggestions: Hold a class for employers so they will know the problems of their own house.

Set a standard wage scale that would make household work as lucrative as working in stores, giving houseworkers an incentive to improve their places and their service.

White girls engaged in such work had another complaint. Most of them wanted to be called "the staff" rather than "the servants."

(Continued from Page One) mumps, measles, scarlet fever and typhoid. Eleven stricken states reported 97 deaths. Property losses were estimated in excess of $300,000,000.

Fears Increase Fears, increased in the lower Mississippi region when U. S. army engineers reported a "super flood" was on the way to test the billion-dollar levee system installed after the 1927 disaster.

Federal troops moved on Louisville, Ky., as city officials reported rapidly dwindling food supplies. Two hundred thousand—more than half the city's population—were homeless. Fire broke out in a warehouse company plant, spreading new-fears among the refugees. The river continued to rise.

Water shortage threatened Cincinnati, but residents were cheered by belief that the river's rise had been checked at 80 feet, an unprecedented level. Water was rationed there as many dozens of smaller cities.

Women, Children Flee Four thousand men battled beneath a bulging, 60-foot flood wall to save Cairo, Ill., from demolition by the Ohio river. Ten thousand men, women and children fled to higher ground. The Mississippi side of the city was considered safe. But water lapped within inches of the levee top on the Ohio side.

Martial law or its equivalent existed throughout the stricken Ohio valley from Cincinnati to Cairo. There was desperate need of medicine, food, clothing and boots.

A state-by-state survey showed: Known deaths: Tennessee 3; Arkansas 17; Missouri 16; Ohio 12; Kentucky 12; West Virginia 9; Indiana 6; Pennsylvania 3; Mississippi 2; Illinois 1.

Scores were reported missing and may be dead. Thousands Homeless Homeless — Kentucky, 250,000; Ohio, 100,000; Indiana, 70,000; West Virginia, 30,000; Arkansas, 60,000; Missouri, 30,000; Illinois, 30,000; Tennessee, 30,000; Mississippi, 4,000; Louisiana, 1,000; and Pennsylvania, 250.

Principal cities wholly or partially flooded—Cincinnati, Louisville, Paducah, Ky., and Evansville, Ind. Lawrenceberg, Ind., Aurora, Ind. Portsmouth, O., Jeffersonville, Ind., Wheeling, W. Va., Eddyville, Ky., Huntington, W. V., Parkersburg, W. V., Shawneetown, Ill., Caruthersville, Mo., Jackson, Miss., Natchez, Miss., Concordia and Cantonville, Ark., Lake City, Ark. and Clarksville, Tenn.

Scores of other smaller communities were isolated. The exact extent of their plight was not known.

Rain, Snow Forecast Forecasts of continued rain and snow along the flood front started federal relief agencies preparing for a long siege in their flight to care for homeless men, women and children.

The American Red Cross doubled its plea for money and asked that $4,000,000 be contributed to flood relief. Six federal organizations had 71,706 workers assigned to handle immediate relief, preparations for a second crest expected in two or three days and rehabilitation after the waters recede.

The U. S. public health service rushed anti-typhoid vaccine, serums and other anti-toxins into the flood area where there was danger of epidemic.

Cairo Wife Describes Story of Flood Panic

(Editor's note: Marlon Holmes, 32, mother and housewife, is one of the 10,000 who fled Cairo, Ill., when the Ohio river threatened to pour over the top of the levee and sweep away their homes. Like other, she left her husband behind to fight the flood. In the refugee station of the St. Louis municipal auditorium, she told this story:)

By MARION HOLMES Written for the United Press ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 26 (UP) — No one seemed to realize the danger we were in until Mayor August Bode distributed the handbills saying we would have to get out of town because the levee might break.

Everyone became panicky. Men and women dragging little children behind them, started a race for the railroad station.

When our husbands heard they could stay and fight the flood, they wanted to do it. Because if the levee breaks, we will have nothing to go back to. Some of the men said they weren't allowed to work, but they weren't allowed to leave before the doctors examined them and gave them a special certificate.

Called Husband As soon as I heard that he had to get out of town, I called my husband. He said he was going to stay. So I called a taxicab, put on my coat, got my son, Johnny, who is nine.

It was awfully cold, and our cab splashed through puddles of water several inches deep. The city looked just like it does after a heavy rain.

People were running up and down the streets. Some of them tried to stop taxicabs, and others tried to stop private cars.

I saw a dead horse frozen solid. It was leaning against a lamp post and looked like it had been struck by an automobile. Nobody seemed to notice it.

Like 1913 Flood It was something like the flood in 1913. I was only six years old then, but I remember being put into a buggy and driven out of town.

When we got to the railroad station, the driver demanded three dollars. But the cab driver said

'LITTLE WATERS' PROJECT SOUGHT

Congressman White's Plan One to Aid Idaho's Vast Natural Supply

By RALPH W. OLMSTEAD
WASHINGTON (Special) — Congressman Compton I. White, chairman of the house irrigation committee, advises us that he will soon hold the first meeting and reorganize his committee. The congressman intends, he says, to take up legislation on "little waters." Last year a study was made under the direction of President Roosevelt of the feasibility of constructing dams and reservoirs on small streams to conserve water supplies and prevent erosion. Recommended are thousands of small reservoirs to prevent unduly rapid drainage and the consequent erosion of watersheds. If a national legislative plan based on the President's report is enacted, it will be ideal for the conservation of Idaho's water supplies.

Congressman White also will give in opposition to the recommendation of Secretary of the Interior Ickes that the basic law governing lode mining claims be changed. The secretary contends that natural resources should not be permitted to vest in private ownership but should be developed on leases from the government. Congressman White advises us that western people oppose the secretary's recommendation and he will propose any change in existing lode mining laws.

Edgar Moorman and Lloyd Davis of Murtaugh, Idaho, arrived in Washington this morning representing the Miller Low Lift Irrigation district. They are endeavoring to make arrangements to secure power for the district's pumping plants from the government power plant at Minidoka in order to avoid high private power rates.

The chief of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine told us today he had approved a plan and appropriation for control of grasshoppers and Mormon crickets. The plan, as worked out in the department of agriculture, now is in the hands of the budget bureau. If found not inconsistent with President Roosevelt's financial program, cricket control work should begin within five or six weeks.

We wish somebody would send us a real Idaho potato.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

I have come to believe that hardening is a good thing against colds. But, although it was long before I was converted to cold baths and cold air, I have not gone rabid on the subject, as most converts do.

When should a child be bathed, and how can he be toned up with cool water, closing pores and stimulating circulation so that ordinary drafts and exposure will pass him by unhurt?

Well, in winter, I think the cold morning plunge too before for most children. While it is true that some tough-fibred youngsters may glory in the cold shower after leaving the warm coziness of bed, it is a shock to most.

Yet, if morning bathing is the custom in the family it is unwise also to get out of a hot bath, hastily don clothes when about half dried, and after a hasty breakfast, go out into cold frosty air.

It invites trouble. And if the child is none to robust or is depleted temporarily from some cause, the exposed parts of the body, and perhaps all of the body, no matter how warmly wrapped, get chilled.

Be Prepared
The very best time for the warm bath is bed time. The best time for the cooling (not cold) shower or rinse, is after the morning sponge. The water should be cooled gradually so as not to cause shock. And the body should be rubbed briskly afterward with a rough and very absorbent towel. If this leaves the child cold and shivery, then dispense with the morning plunge altogether, and scrub him at night. After the evening bath don't raise windows at once, but later when pores have closed, if the head has been washed, either during the day or night, be sure that cold air does not blow on him, until an hour or two has passed.

Colds are strange things. Some we do not know how they are caused, or how they are cured. The best we can do is to use all the common-sense precautions we can.

The child who chills easily and won't get warm for a long time after being out in the weather, who will not glow comfortably after a cooling rinse, must not be forced to heroic exposure. He may become hardened, but it takes time.

Things to Avoid
His nose after a bath must never be too cold, and at first only a shade less warm than the bath water. Air at night should be gauged to his comfort.

If he chills even under the warmest blankets, the air of his room should be considered carefully. It must not be so cold that he cannot rest or sleep deeply or soundly.

Handkerchiefs are private things. Let each child have his own. Never lend a handkerchief or borrow one? Teach him this. Keep him away from neighbors with colds and keep the neighbors away from your child.

The first stages of common cold mean bed, until he is well over the worst. Admonish the children not to sit with heavy sweaters on unless the school-room is too cool for comfort.

Hard coughing, fever, flushed face or headache—any of these or all, means more than common cold. Get medical advice. Pneumonia waits for no man. There are nine kinds, all dangerous. Play safe. The word is "don't over-cool, but not over-expose."

IDAHO SENATE TO BE BROADCAST

New Resolution Allows Radio Stations to Install Microphones

BOISE, Jan. 25 (UP) — Idaho's senate is going on the air. A resolution by Newport, Canyon, was passed today to permit broadcasting stations to install microphones in the senate chamber.

The broadcasting was opposed by Heath, Franklin, Republican, who was "afraid the radio people would be inclined to make a three-ring circus of this hall." Right of the people to know what goes on in the senate was vigorously defended by R. N. Wilson, Dem. and others.

The motion first proposed that President Charles Gasset have control of what was put on the air, and censorship of the senate's proceedings. A substitute motion authorized radio stations to broadcast "as they saw fit."

● An old fable tells of the father who warned his sons to stay together, and showed them that a single stick could be easily snapped, but they could not break a bundle of sticks.

So it is with your electric service, brought to you from the eleven generating plants of the interconnected system of the Idaho Power Company.

If you were getting service from a single, isolated plant and that plant were put out of commission, you would be without electricity. But if one of the eleven plants of our system goes out, the other ten swing in to fill the need instantly.

And this dependable service is furnished you at rates that are among the lowest in the United States.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS FOR PASTOR IN LOUIS BATTLE

NEW YORKER HAS BOXED SIX YEARS

Has Fine Record and As Much Experience as Famed Detroit Negro

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
NEW YORK Jan 26—Robert Pastor may lack the equipment to lug the trouble to Joe Louis in a scheduled 10-round battle at the Garden Jan 29, but I can't subscribe to the theory that the former New York university halfback is being rushed into his match with the Negro.

Pastor has been boxing for a half dozen years. It is now or never, or the deep-chested collegian, in my opinion, he wise to grab the opportunity, attempt to fasten a struggle, and throw it and Louis for a ball.

Many Wait Long
Here from that anxious manager, frequently, many bright prospects into water that is much deeper for them. It also is true that many of them wait too long, not realizing that their chances are fading in the heat of the day. They fail to look too hot in a warm-up and the big chance fades. Take Gunnar Barthold, for example. A few days ago, the Finn was mentioned as excellent material for Louis. Then he wasn't so impressive in beating one Tom Beppner, and practically has to start all over again.

Although his competition has been as stern, Pastor has been at it as long as Louis. There is no question about his spirit, for he won seven titles as an amateur. Fighting is a real thrill to the 22-year-old son of a Spanish mother and a Hebrew father.

Liked to Scrap
Pastor liked to scrap so well that he broke in as a sub-boxer in the New York Golden Gloves tournament in 1931. The Washington Heights boy underwent a long period of schooling by the late light-weight luminary, Joe Weiling, at the New York Athletic club.

Battling Bob has dropped only one close six-round decision in 23 trips since turning professional in the fall of 1935. He subsequently twice repelled Steve Dudas, the New Jersey bartender-waiter who shadowed him.

Pastor is fresh from his greatest triumph—knocking down Ray Impellitteri in the opening heat and stopping in seven rounds the Cold Spring giant who outweighed him 50 pounds. He marched front and center with Unknown Winston, Eddie Simms and others good enough to bring out the fact that the rosy-cheeked lad isn't exactly a bum.

Simms put him to the test demanded of all fighting men by old-timers. Battling Bob clumbed out of the ring six times to drop the Cleveland gladiator and obtain a draw.

Bit Short
Although a bit short at 5 feet 11 inches, Pastor is big enough in his good enough. He scales 183 pounds, which is exactly what Jack Dempsey weighed the afternoon he chopped down Jess Willard at Toledo. Jack Dillon stood only 5 feet 7 1/2 inches, and I am among the many who would like to see the Hoosier Bearcat sail into Louis.

A broken nose is the only tip-off that Pastor is a young man of the ring. I suspect that he is prouder of that busted beak than he would be of an All-American blanket in football. Fighting is in his blood.

Pastor appears altogether too bright to want to be a newspaper reporter, which happens to be his ambition. He has the clear eyes of an expertly conditioned athlete and the great competitor, which he is. His dark brown hair is curly. He would be as popular a champion as was Dempsey.

FIGHTS LEWIS

There is nothing passive about this Pastor. He is Bob, the former New York university halfback, who tackled Joe Louis in a 10-round engagement in Madison Square Garden tonight.

"McCarthy Fell Down," Groans Ruppert, Winking at Yank Boss

By LESLIE AVERY
NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (UP)—Joe McCarthy fell down on his job last year when he managed the New York Yankees to the American league pennant and the world championship, according to Boss Jacob Ruppert.

Col Ruppert made the remark in a steak dinner for all the baseball writers last night.

"Yes, everybody knows I would have been sick and tired of seeing the Yankees finish second," Ruppert said. "But what you don't know is about me telling him to finish 20 games ahead of the pack. You brought them to the finish, and they lost in front. You had to be bad."

But his eyes were twinkling, and he was grinning broadly as he turned to see how his pudge league manager was taking the friendly ribbing.

Fell Down in Series
"He fell down again in the world series," Ruppert concluded. "Yes, he let the Giant have two games. I wanted four straight."

It was a night of tall story telling with Daniel M. Daniel of the New York World-Telegram acting as toastmaster.

Iron Man Lou Gehrig was the only Yankee player present.

Baseball's perennial funny man, Al Schacht, could still remember way back when he was a pitcher in the International League, and that the only "breathing spell" he ever got was when McCarthy came to bat. But McCarthy got back when he reminded Al that his salary of $350 a week topped Al's by $100.

Looks for Battle
McCarthy said he was satisfied with his 1936 Yankees for the coming campaign, but that he looked for a great battle with the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians.

They'll be out for our neck this year. Every team in the league always jumps on top of last year's pennant winner," he said. "But it makes a better race. Competition is the big thing in any line of sport. People come to see a winner but they don't like to see a push-over and we are not looking for any. We are expecting a good fight from the Tigers and Indians, not to mention the Red Sox, Senators, and White Sox."

BOOSTERS REPEL ORANGE BY 19-9

RUPERT, Jan. 26 (Special)—The Twin Falls Orange Transportation Inc., invading the local court last night, went down to defeat at the hands of the Rupert Boosters, 19 to 9.

Lineups and summary:
Rupert: Lary (8) and Smith (7), forwards; Norby (9), center; Carlson (2) and Hedrick (2), guards; Substitutions: Craven, Farley and McCoy.

Orange: Haslam (3) and Serpa (1), forwards; Turner (3), center; Gree and Laubenhelm, guards; Substitutions: Shelton, R. Wells (2), and Billon.

Palazolo to Fight Marino at Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26 (UP)—Tony Palazolo, San Francisco fight promoter, today announced Johnny Dias, Portuguese middleweight, would meet Babe Marino, San Francisco, in the ten-round windup of the boxing show at Dreamland auditorium Friday night.

Dias is substituting for Joe Bernal, San Francisco, who injured his hand in training for the meeting with Marino.

Dias, just about all I got. And that Frisco! Always yelling he'd like to get rid of Dizzy Dean, I just hope he does, because I want to see what he'll do without him. He'll head right down for us. A guy who wants to get rid of a pitcher who can win 30 games—that is, if he's handled right must be nuts, in any language. I'd like to have Dizz' just on odd Wednesdays. I wouldn't care how he acted. He could live in a squirrel cage and wear evening clothes all day, just so long as he'd win those ball games for me."

At this point Mr. Wilson rounded the conversational second base and headed for home. But that's another story for another day.

Walt Riggert hatched out a couple of doubles his last game and by the way, Walter is setting his incubator right soon and declares he is going to hatch out a whole mess of turkeys.

Were those McCracken kids tough? If you don't think so, ask some of the Chevrolet team.

Ruth and Lola, with the help of Lon White and two dummies, gave Chevrolet a mighty battle.

Lola, at lead for her team, got the high three-game total of 474. She had a double to help out her first game.

Lon White got a double in each of his games. Lon isn't such a bad ladies' man!

Ruth got dummies in both her second and third frames.

No doubles for Edwards, lead-off for Chevrolet. But little Maxie Miller smacked 'em for a double on his second game. Max really appreciated that.

John Robertson really showed them how a bowling game should be done. In his first game, eight spares, one double, made 203, high single for the City league. What he showed, them his next two games was something else.

Jenkins, Jr. got doubles in both his first and second games. Not so good his last.

STRIKES TO SPARE

WITH FRED STONE

You can't tell a thing about those dunned Aces. They just up and smacked the Slatkin team for three in row.

Ace Miller led both teams with the high single score of 210, helped out by getting four strikes in a row his first game.

Lee McCracken couldn't get started his first and second games but he went out his last game like a real bowler with three strikes in succession.

Vern Jennings doubled out his second game but the most important shot according to the Aces was that spare in his last frame, last game, which made it three in a row over Slatkins.

Stone sneaked away with the three-game total of 583.

Not a double was made by any player on Slatkin's team during the first or second games.

Ray Preis got a double his last game; no doubles for Bill Hewitt. George Hof had the only turkey that was made for the losers, getting it his last game.

MERCURY STAYS OVER ZERO MARK

Rise in Temperature Checks Intense Cold Wave for Twin Falls

For the first time in several days, the mercury today failed to go below the zero mark with the result that the official low temperature reading recorded this morning by the bureau of entomology was 10 above.

Yesterday high temperature was 19 above, against a low of eight below. A forecast for tonight and tomorrow calls for unsettled weather with local snows in the south section and warmer weather in the southeast.

Sunday morning a high wind in the vicinity of Hollister, Amsterdam and Rogerson blocked most of the side roads coming under the jurisdiction of the Twin Falls highway district. J. D. Sinema, district engineer, said here today. A heavy duty plow was scheduled to be dispatched to that area this afternoon and the crew will continue removing operations throughout tonight and into Wednesday. The roads in the area still drifting today.

Kimberly Area Open

The Kimberly and Hansen side roads, which were practically blocked by high winds Saturday night were all open today, Sinema said. A plow was working today in the vicinity of Hansen.

Near Hollister, because the side roads were impassable, school buses were staying on state highway No. 93, and students living on the side roads were forced to walk from one to two miles to reach the buses.

Roads around Twin Falls were clear today, Sinema said, and a plow was working north of here. Yesterday the same crew opened and widened the roads south of the city.

Through state highways in the district were reported open but slippery in sections.

CONCERT GROUP INITIATES Campaign For Members

Offering an "availability list" of such prominent artists as the Hart House string quartet, Nino Martini, Rose Bampton, Toscha Seidel, Dalies Prantz, the community concert plan of the Columbia Broadcasting system was outlined last evening at the kick-off dinner at the Park hotel by David Ferguson, representative here to direct the membership campaign.

Membership in the Twin Falls Community Concert association will entitle members to hear at least three concerts to be brought here and to attend any concert or program at other cities presented under the same plan. If the membership is large enough other artists will be brought to the city, Mr. Ferguson announced.

Features of the plan operated by the broadcasting system include: elimination of financial risk to the sponsors, guarantee of three major concerts, saving of large sums to cities through the book-booking system and the reciprocity arrangement allowing members to attend concerts in other cities. Boise and Pocatello have already made plans for reciprocal programs with Twin Falls.

The campaign for members, at $5 for adults and $2 for students, will be closed Saturday at 6 p. m. for the entire year. Mr. Ferguson announced, and until that time an intensive campaign will be conducted in Twin Falls and surrounding area by the 50-odd workers who attended the dinner. Headquarters are maintained at the Simpson Music store, phone 39.

Following the conclusion of the campaign, plans will go forward to secure the noted Hart House string quartet, said to be the finest in the world today and already engaged to play at the coronation of George VI, to open the series here during the week of Feb. 8.

Through the season, February, March and April, a local committee of the association will choose artists from the following list presented by Mr. Ferguson: Agnes Davis, soprano; Rose Bampton, mezzo soprano; Nino Martini, tenor; Wilbur Evans and Keith Falkner, baritone; Dalies Prantz and Muriel Keer, pianists; Sylvia Lent, Toscha Seidel, violinists, and the Hart House quartet.

The concerts are to be presented in one of the local theaters, the choice depending on the size of the membership.

On the artist committee are officers of the association and others, appointed by Mrs. D. L. Alexander, president.

Mr. Ferguson was introduced last evening by W. B. Smith, superintendent of schools.

The physical resemblance between movie star Edward Arnold and his stand-in, William Hoover, as revealed above, is startling. Both even are left-handed. ## Aid Of State Needed By Parolees, Says Masters

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 26 (UP)—Greater cooperation of the state with paroled prisoners of the state penitentiary, to aid them in finding jobs and places to live was recommended by Secretary of State Ira H. Masters, member of the state pardon board.

"The state should provide a budget for the parole officer sufficient to make it possible for him to travel over the state and check up on these prisoners," Masters said.

"In addition, it should be mandatory that every prisoner released from the institution be provided with a job or at least a home by some responsible party to whom he could be paroled. This would prevent him from drifting back into his old haunts and from going hungry and without a place to sleep."

The federal government has gone much farther than the state in aiding parolees. It has efficient parole officers, who travel about the country to check up on and help persons released from federal prisons. In California it is required that a person must have a job or a place to live before he can be released entirely from the prison, according to Masters. "To my way of thinking, the state of Idaho has been very negligent in looking after our pardoned criminals and in helping them to get a right start."

Another reform urged by the secretary of state was some means of compensating prisoners who do useful work in the penitentiary as against those who do not. This distinction, is very essential to prison discipline, he said.

"It is little wonder that many of our released prisoners are soon picked up and returned to enter the Idaho penitentiary or some other prison. We turn these men out with a mere pittance and make little attempt to help them get along," he concluded.

Flood Refugees

"Hugging" their still warm stove, on the truck which carried their furniture from their flooded Louisville, Ky., home, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cheak here get what comfort they can.

Every police beat maintained for the full 24 hours in London costs $5000.

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights.

If you want REAL, QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adierka. Adierka contains SEVEN cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Most "overnight" laxatives contain one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only.

Adierka's DOUBLE ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter that may have caused GAS pains, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months.

Adierka relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel congestion in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight results. This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. Take Adierka one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel marvelously refreshed.
