ADMINISTRATION TELLS FARMERS TO 'FILL BINS'

'More Abundant Production' Is Order, According To Wallace

SOIL PROGRAM EXTENDED

Ten Per Cent Price Boost For Foods Forecast As Result of Drouth

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—The administration today announced a shift toward controlled abundance, called on farmers to 'fill up storage bins' dismissed by two severe drouths.

Orders for a 'more abundant production this year' came from President Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace indicated. The policy shift was discussed at a White House conference, he said.

The soil conservation program will be continued as planned, but most farmers will be urged to produce to limits consistent with good soil practices, Wallace said. Cotton and tobacco are exceptions to the 'more abundant' order.

Doesn't Like Weather—Another drouth might reduce food and feed below the safety point, Wallace said in explaining the shift of emphasis toward increased production.

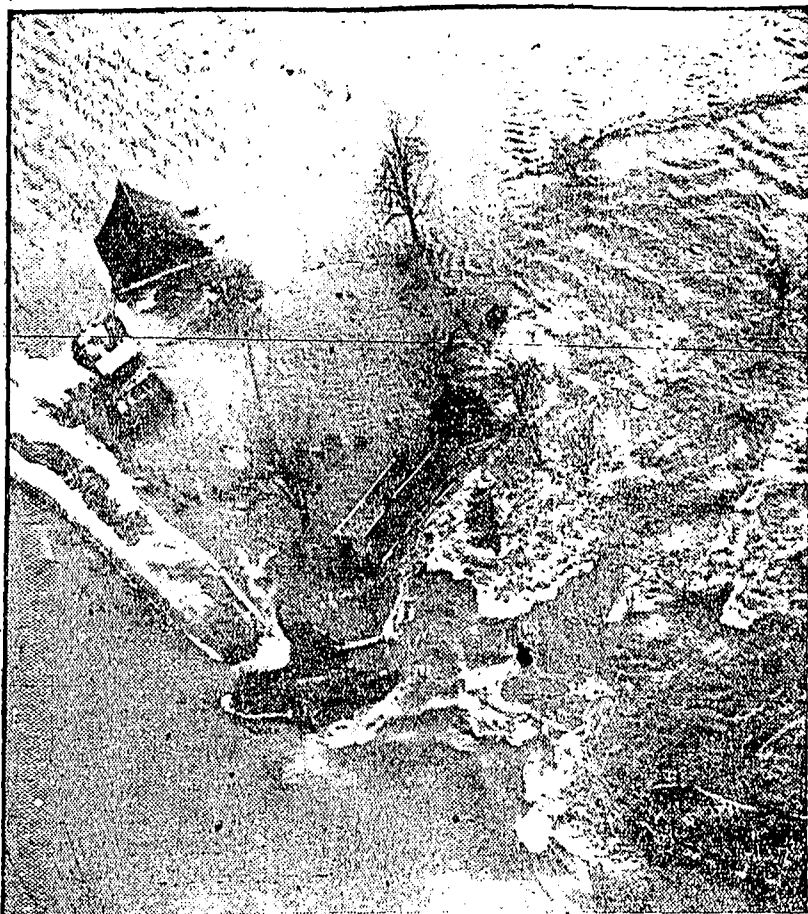

Wallace estimated that the 1936 drouth would result in a 10 per cent increase in food prices. The average of food and feed, while ample for immediate needs, is the lowest for many years.

Wallace said he saw no inconsistency between his policy of abundant production and the government program to pay farmers this year to take land out of soil-depleting crops, planting wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco.

Long Term Production—We should, of course, divert a certain amount of corn and cotton acreage to soil-conserving crops because that will make for greater long-term productivity of our farm lands," he stated.

During the first New Deal administration farmers were paid nearly $3,000,000,000 in an agricultural program (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

Levy Blast Releases Ohio, Saves Cairo

With a roar, rising flood waters of the Ohio rushed through this gap in the levee above Cairo, Ill., after it was dynamited by army engineers in a desperate effort to relieve pressure on the almost-bursting levee at Cairo by diverting water into spillways above the city.

HITLER'S POWER TO BE EXTENDED

Reichstag Expected to Pass Resolution Lengthening Dictatorship

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—The Nazi Reichstag at its session Saturday is expected to pass a new enabling act, extending the dictatorial powers of the government which expire April 1.

At a session March 24, 1933, soon after the Nazi accession to office the Reichstag passed an enabling act authorizing the government for the four years between April 1, 1933 and April 1, 1937 to make laws by decree, even including such laws as are not in accord with the old republican constitution.

Mar Abolish Reichstag—The Reichstag has been frequent reports that the government might move at the session to abolish the Reichstag, which ever now has no advisory powers.

The event of principal interest remained the scheduled speech of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler which is expected to contain a thorough review of foreign policy and may either forecast or retard the hope of a general European peace agreement to which his cooperation is essential.

Comment on the Spanish civil war, on the speech last Sunday of Premier Leon Blum of France, on the colonial program and on Russia may be topics for the speech.

PUBLIC HEALTH BILL DEFEATED

Proposal for Commissioner Rejected in Idaho Senate 26-17

BOISE, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Proposal to establish a department of public health with the commissioner required to meet standards set forth by the U. S. surgeon general, was killed in Idaho's senate 26 to 17 today.

The health bill was the first administration measure, specifically asked for in Governor Clark's legislative message, to reach debate. Its defeat indicates possible trouble ahead for the remainder of the gubernatorial program.

Board Sets Feb. 12 For Building Action

Will Select Architects And Decide on Program

Members of the Twin Falls school district trustees today informed four architects, who discussed the district's housing problems at a special meeting held last evening, that definite action pertaining to the hiring of an architect, and the subsequent submission of a building program to the district's electors, at a bond election, will be deferred until Feb. 12.

On Feb. 8 the next regular meeting date, plans, sketches and estimates which will be submitted to the architects, but the decision will not be announced until Feb. 12 in order to give every architect interested time to submit a proposal. According to the letter of the law the matter will be advertised.

Architects who discussed plans with the trustees during a session at the high school which lasted after midnight, included J. A. Fenwick of Boise, E. H. Gates and Frank Hummel, of Boise firms, and Burton E. Morse of Twin Falls. Because of the limited amount of time given from the first announcement of the proposed building program to last night's meeting, the Board members did not prepare drawings or estimates of the construction.

Estimates $273,000—Mr. Morse who built the Washington school building submitted his preliminary plans and sketches to the board and estimated cost of construction of the most desirable units at $273,000.

Among Mr. Morse's plans were four different methods of caring for the over-crowded situation at the Lincoln school. Mr. Morse suggested four new classrooms and a new heating plant to care for the extra room space, at $28,000; or four new rooms with lavatory rooms on the first floor at $38,000; or a unit parallel to Third avenue north containing 10 rooms with an assembly, with lavatory (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Winter Works Hardships Among Many Of Twin Falls Youngsters

It is not pleasant, shacks, often with no covering over cold, damp ground but a few molly bits of cardboard. Children in one-tenth of the shacks are coughing as you enter their one-room, crowded homes. Children—as many as 10 of them in one family—live in a single room with their parents.

Red Cross Army Hurls Power At Flood Aid River To Check Perils Of Greater Flood Loss

Disaster funds raised in Twin Falls and surrounding regions in the Red Cross flood relief drive mounted well past the $700 mark here this afternoon with at least $800 expected by midnight, chapter officials announced.

Check for the just $500 raised was sent to Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national chairman, by A. Wilton Peck, treasurer of the Twin Falls chapter.

More than $200 still remained in the banks here after dispatch of the $500. Contributions in the city are being taken at the two banks, at the Rogerson, Perrine and Park hotels, at the Chamber of Commerce, Western Union and Johnston's Diamond show. Other communities in the territory of the Twin Falls chapter are donating through their own banks.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE SOUGHT

20 Members of Idaho House Propose Convention Be Called

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Twenty members of the House of Representatives today proposed that a constitutional convention be called to streamline Idaho's 50-year-old constitution.

The question would be submitted to a vote of the people. Should it then be approved a convention would be called, with the resulting revised or new constitution to be also submitted to the electorate.

The House representative said the proposal "followed a national trend" and suggested that the United States constitution could be amended a little revision. He pointed out the state of Nebraska, which has installed a new constitution providing among other things, for a unicameral legislature.

The house municipalities committee was responsible for seven bills introduced today, including proposals to exempt municipalities from payment of gasoline tax and distribute three per cent of automobile license money to the motor vehicle fund for administration.

ALASKAN PLANS EVICTION FIGHT

Ruddell, Leader of Protest to Washington, Given Order To Evacuate

PALEMER, Alaska, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Charles Ruddell, one of the Matanuska valley colonists brought here by the government, today planned to fight against eviction from the 80-acre farm that he had purchased from the government.

Ruddell, whose debt to the government is $12,000, has been a leader of the group of colonists that has been protesting against charges leveled against them for the land and other items they contend they had been led to believe their average night's earnings would be about $3.00.

ORGANIZERS FLEE FROM ANTI-UNION MOBS IN SAGINAW

Police Search for Occupants Of Sideswiping Car In Flint

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Sheriff's deputies and Flint police today sought the driver and occupants of an automobile that sideswiped a machine carrying five United Auto Workers organizers, sending four to Hurley hospital.

John Mayo reported missing after an anti-union demonstration in Saginaw, returned to Detroit union headquarters today and announced he had successfully ended anti-union demonstrators by fleeing to Lansing.

Occupants of the wrecked machine were union officials who had fled to Michigan cities in the face of vigorous protests against their attempts to arrange for a union meeting at Saginaw Sunday.

Attacked By Mobs—Fleeing from Bay City and Saginaw after mobs had attacked them, the organizers were under heavy police escort when an automobile crowded them off the road within the Flint city limits, forcing their machine into a telephone pole.

Some difficulty was experienced in lugging the heavily laden automobiles from the water. The first two roared down the harbor channel nearly two miles before taking the air.

The remaining 10, however, were aided by a five-knot wind and took off with a run of approximately one mile.

Partly cloudy skies and showers were reported the first 700 miles with good visibility the next 1,200 miles. The worst weather was expected to be encountered in the last 300 miles before reaching Honolulu where it was reported partly cloudy, with fair visibility.

Naval officials estimated the flight would take approximately 18 hours unless weather conditions change.

Six navy plane guard ships were stationed along the route of the flight.

5 Acres Cleared—Ruddell and his family of nine were among those brought here two years ago from drouth-ravaged mid-western farms. Five of his 80 acres have been cleared. He said the eviction notice stated he had shown an unwillingness to cooperate and had made excessive demands upon the corporation. He had threatened to go to Washington with his charges that "eviction has been shown toward some of the colonists and excessive charges leveled against others."

Thousands Work To Stop Large Scale Destruction

225 Reported Dead from Ohio Rampage

The United States army, directing tens of thousands of workers, hurled its power against the raging Mississippi today to prevent repetition on a larger scale of disastrous floods which have claimed at least 255 lives, driven 1,000,000 persons from their homes and destroyed more than $400,000,000 worth of property in the big river's tributary valleys.

Over the hump—With the Ohio "over the hump" at Louisville and falling for the time being at Cairo, thousands of volunteer levee workers toiling under the direction of U. S. army engineers kept pace with the slowly rising Mississippi.

"We are holding the levees," Col. Eugene Reybold, chief of army engineers at Memphis, announced. Other engineers and observers felt that the coming attack on the stream's 1,500-mile levee system might not prove irresistible.

Asks for Guardsmen—His first act was to ask Gov. Gordon Browning for 500 national guardsmen to assist the city in handling its growing refugee population.

Gen. Mallin Craig, U. S. army chief of staff directing preparations in three corps areas to evacuate 150,000 miles of threatened lowlands if the danger warrants, cautioned against panic.

As the scene of the battle against flood shifted to Memphis, fast becoming a refugee colony, "bitter still inundated along the Ohio valley counted their dead in ever increasing numbers and fought to prevent epidemics.

Dr. Hugh Rodman Leavell, health commissioner at Louisville, said 120 persons had been drowned or died of maladies directly attributable to the flood. The figure, he indicated, would grow as search parties entered homes long marooned.

The river dropped a tenth of an inch in 27 hours, and Dee Myatt of the weather bureau announced that "we are over the hump." He predicted that the rate of fall would speed up to a foot a day.

Despite the optimism of levee workers, reports of bursting dikes came from points on the Ohio and the St. Charles rivers. The Ohio (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

LOYALISTS GAIN IN MADRID FIGHT

Move Into West Park Area Without Firing a Shot, Trenches Flooded. MADRID, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Loyalist troops advanced on a wide front today, occupying the entire West park area where some of the most bitter fighting of the siege of Madrid has taken place, it was announced officially.

The area occupied includes the model prison, asylum, Montaner barracks and Paseo de Rosales. The advance brings the loyalist troops up to the edge of the rebel trenches in University City and Casa de Campo.

STORMS, FLOODS BATTER EUROPE

Ships Wrecked, Towns Cut Off as Weather Hinders Transportation. PARIS, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Storms, floods and ice battered Europe today, impeding the Spanish civil war, wrecking ships and isolating many towns and villages.

A hurricane, starting at Gibraltar, blew up the Portuguese coast, scattering fishing fleets and sinking one steamship.

Ocean liners, docking at Cobh, Ireland, reported the "worst crossing" in years; storms disrupted communication in Denmark and wrecked many small boats on the Danish-Norwegian west coast.

Many towns in Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria were reported cut off as snowstorms swept through the Danube valley.

Army Paroled—The situation of Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent army at the gates of Madrid became precarious as rising rivers isolated whole sectors, cut vital communications and stranded blocs of troops aggregating thousands. Their retreat was cut off and their trenches were filling with water from a three-day deluge.

SENATORS PUSH FLOOD CONTROL

Sen. Pope Attempts to Link Irrigation With Dam Construction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (U.P.)—An organized effort in the senate to push reclamation and flood control legislation for the far west started today following a meeting of senators from 13 states west of the Mississippi.

The group will work to forge a link between any flood control measure proposed in congress this session and reclamation. Sen. James H. Pope, D. Idaho, chairman of the meeting, said: "We feel that many plans for dam construction for flood control should also take irrigation into consideration."

Pope said the group considered rough outlines of a future program at a meeting yesterday. The building of small reservoirs in prairie states to halt the run-off of water in the spring and for irrigation during summer months, was also discussed, he said.

Canadians Seek Dope Smugglers

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. O., Jan. 28 (U.P.)—Search for a gang of narcotic smugglers, believed to be operating out of here, was started by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police today following accidental discovery of $100,000 worth of opium.

The opium was found in 11 sacks, fastened together, when a steamer hoisted its anchor and it came to rest accidentally.

COLUMBIA BASIN MAY GIVE POWER

Congressmen Move Toward Idaho Rates on Par With Those of Portland

By RALPH W. OLNSTEAD
WASHINGTON (Special) — Mrs. Charles Olms of Payette arrived in Washington recently to attend the national defense conference which seeks an army second to none, an adequate navy and an adequate air force. Mrs. Olms is the very capable president of the Idaho department of the American Legion Auxiliary. She has just come from Indianapolis where she attended a meeting of the national executive committee, of which she is a member.

The kick-off of the 1937 Pacific northwest power battle was made in the office of Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes at a conference attended by Rural Electrification Administrator Morris L. Cooke, National Resources Committee Vice Chairman Frederic A. Delano, and Federal Power Commission Chairman Frank R. McNinch, Senators Schwelb and Bone of Washington, McNary of Oregon, and Pope of Idaho. The conference was not public and no final decision was reached. Reports say, "I think it is a safe prediction safe enough that we will wage a tip-toe and upward fight that the administration will seek to establish a Columbia valley authority patterned after TVA to establish low rate power control in the Columbia river basin in spite of the Oregon attitude of 'this on Bonneville' the consensus indicates that uniform rates will be established bringing power to Idaho at rates comparable with Portland.

At this time of the year, farmers have lots of time to think. Most of them are thinking about noxious weeds, and so is Congressman D. Worth Clark. Last year Congressman Clark worked hard to secure a noxious weed control program through the WPA. This year WPA curtailment and budget reduction made the outlook for WPA financed noxious weed control somewhat gloomy. Congressman Clark, therefore, plans to introduce special legislation appropriating funds for the work. Tentatively the appropriation is set at $50,000. Direct special appropriations are difficult to secure but if it can be obtained in the house, Congressman Clark probably can get it.

There seems to be a large demand for continuation of the civilian conservation corps in the present congress. The first deficiency appropriation bill now before the house of representatives includes $85,000,000 for the continuance of CCC work, until July 1, 1937. Representative Doney of Mississippi has introduced a bill to make the CCC a permanent agency. So far as Idaho and other western states are concerned, there seems to be little doubt but that the CCC should be made permanent.

W. B. Smith, Superintendent Of Twin Falls Schools, Gives Address

GOODING, Jan. 28 (Special) — Annual Founder's day banquet honoring 20 years of service for Gooding college as an educational institution, was held in the auditorium of the Methodist church Saturday evening. W. B. Smith, superintendent of the Twin Falls schools, was the guest speaker for the occasion, and Pres. W. P. Shaw was toastmaster.

Mr. Smith chose as his subject, "Building for the Future." He stressed the importance of planning for the future growth of the college in every way and the completion of another building on the campus as soon as possible.

He also brought out the advantage of a small college, pointing out that this type of college brings the teacher and student into direct contact, provides more opportunity for leadership, and develops the personality of the student.

POT SHOTS WITH The Gentleman in the Third Row AND IN THIS CHILLY WEATHER, TOO!

Wouldst be enlightened on one of the whims of a certain teacher over at our local high school? Well, whether you wouldst or not, here it is: She says she loves to go home and dance around in my bones. Further, restless she: "I get tired of wearing clothes."

Let me answer that fellow Guy who says he took a bath and forgot to take his slippers off. Say, Guy, wasn't that pair of slippers you lost two years ago during the Kansas dust storms, and didn't you also find a couple of pairs of socks when you washed your feet? You should wash them often. Your mother, no doubt, washed them the other time when you was a baby.

This is the story of a bed that took a ride in the elevator at the hospital and the woman patient who didn't. I was out at the hospital Tuesday night on the third floor. Up comes the elevator, and an empty bed was trundled off the lift and put into one of the rooms. And about the same time, trudging up the stairway, came an elderly man and a girl, both supporting the man's wife, who seemed pretty much done in and had bandages over her nose. I didn't savor the proceedings.

A honeymoon is like unto a room. When it begins the groom resembles a moose truck call. It is ending when the bride becomes a little bossy.

Something is going to have to be done regarding the antics of our local banker, namely Roy Painter, while back he slept outdoors in the hills when the mercury registered 20 below, and the other night I'll be darned if he didn't spread his new sleeping bag out on the ground behind his house and spend half the night in it.

It appears now that good old England, which is usually staid and far from being openly sentimental, has gone soft on the matter of railroads. Locomotives are to be named after birds, according to a piece I read in the paper.

The theme song of the hour in middlewestern regions is being by refugees who chant as they hurry off in legions.

The new Roosevelt-congress honeymoon is beginning. It seems auspicious that, at the inauguration, nature threw a shower.

"The Japanese dragon has three toes, the Chinese dragon five." Which is strange, as it is the latter which always are stepped on.

FLOOD RAVAGES MID-AMERICA

Rapidly taking shape as probably the worst flood disaster in the history of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, raging waters are inflicting a major catastrophe on America's mid-central territory.

Gigantic task of evacuating half a million persons looms as the newest step in the fight to keep the death toll down in the disaster that has already hit 12 states.

Twin Falls and Idaho again are brought to realize that this is a favored section of America. Its disadvantages it has, but front-rank calamities are few and far between.

That thought should actuate Twin Falls response to the flood relief fund being raised through the local Red Cross chapter.

EXPANDING THE ARMY

Some time in February a subcommittee of the house of representatives will sit down to figure out how much money the U. S. army ought to be given during the coming year.

The army is asking slightly more than $410,000,000, and the chances are that it will get it. What's the army going to do with it all?

The answer, of course, is that it is going to make itself bigger and better.

So far, well and good. The officers who have devoted their lives to the army contend that it needs new features to be efficient, and it is hard for a civilian to argue with them.

But we can't judge the army without also taking a look at the navy. We need to remember that our navy—in theory, at least—is one of the two most powerful navies in existence.

We are spending enormous sums to make it in actual fact what it is in theory. And we may safely say that the navy already is so strong that no nations would dream of trying to invade our shores.

That being so, what do we want with a $410,000,000 army?

We are fond of saying that we will fight no more wars on foreign soil. We will stay at home and mind our own business.

When you consider the strength of our navy and the tremendous strategic importance of our isolated position, you will find it very hard to believe we need such an expensive army purely for defensive purposes.

Perhaps we do, and perhaps civilians are not aware that we do, but the facts on the surface don't seem to jibe.

This isn't said in criticism of the army authorities, who shape the military program to fit policies laid down by their civilian superiors.

Let's hope the congressional sub-committee takes time to go into the matter.

DRIVERS' NEMESIS

A story out of New York City seems to carry a moral of some kind for thoughtless drivers.

As the traffic light turned on a busy corner, a frail old woman started to cross the street with a crowd.

A big car brusquely nosed its way around the corner. While others scattered out of the way, the old woman stood still, seemingly incapable of movement.

Just as the car seemed about to hit her, a silk-hatted man, with a cane, limped quickly to her side and swung her out of harm's way.

Talking to a nearby policeman a few minutes later, a reporter learned that a similar incident had been happening nearly every morning, and that the silk-hatted man figured in each of them.

Following up the story, the reporter learned that the man was a former diplomat, whose foot had once been crushed by an automobile; and that it was not a cane he carried, but a sword stick.

The forgotten pedestrian, who has to leap out of the way of impetuous drivers, should be glad to know he has an avenger.

The new Roosevelt-congress honeymoon is beginning. It seems auspicious that, at the inauguration, nature threw a shower.

King without a country by Robert Bruce O'NEIL Service Inc. 1937

BEGIN HERE TODAY! PAUL, King of Noughtumbria, became a prince of the city of FERRONE when he surrenders his throne and marries ABBATHA RICHMOND. Paul's younger brother, JOSEPH, succeeds to the kingship.

Paul and Ardath choose a villa on the Bay St. Francis for a few days their life is glorious. Then the eyes of the world find them, pry in deep. Paul goes into seclusion, sick at heart.

Paul, meanwhile, meets his old tutor, DR. RONDELIS, archeologist. The doctor urges Paul to get a hold on himself to do something. Paul and Ardath begin a European tour and up in Paris they attend a party at the home of the Countess de Montmiral.

Some morbid instinct for self-punishment led Paul to collect the Parisian journals and read the accounts which, in the repeating, were grotesquely distorted. He looked at them, in his hotel room, with a rueful smile on his lips.

That the runaway king should fight is neither surprising nor disturbing," said this article. "What is surprising is that he should have been a guest in the house of the Duc de Montmiral where the encounter took place.

Ardayth threw it on the floor. "I won't read it," she cried. "It's cruel—cruel—and so unjust. What do they know of you, anyway?" Paul stood up.

"Oh!" The color drained from her face. "And you have been... have been with me constantly, and my name is a byword, and—"

"MY darling!" He was at her side instantly, his arms around her. "Ardath, my love, my life, don't say that. You know I didn't mean that. You are all I have and all I ever hope to have. You—"

Ardayth was in her dressing room, dressing for an entertainment to which they were about to go. Paul sat on a chaise longue, lighted a cigaret, smoked moodily.

WASHINGTON — Don't tell me any congressmen, but there seems to be little doubt inside that State Secretary Hull is leading gradually up to establishment of his trade-tariff making power gradually as a permanent government policy.

Three years hence, you will very probably see Mr. Hull offering the right reason for permanent continuance. If he does, he will say he thinks it is a darned good policy for the executive rather than the congress to negotiate reciprocal tariffs because rate making now has become involved with shifting quotas, currency values, international politics, foreign relations, world peace. It is no longer first a domestic issue.

Three years ago, Mr. Hull got his trade-tariff power on the ground it was an emergency measure, needed to offset the unsettlement of world currencies. However, that emergency has cooled considerably since. Now Mr. Hull is bearing down heavily on the idea that an extension is needed to promote world peace.

Republicans are merely going through the motions of opposing the trade-treaty extension. Their members on the house ways and means committee twitted Mr. Hull politically, but showed little inclination to go deeply into what the policy has accomplished and failed to accomplish. The fact seems to be that the Republicans are not in the frame of mind or position to function as an effective opposition.

Once they got under Hull's skin. They asked if Britain had unofficially indicated a willingness about signing a trade agreement which would be disrupted by a neutrality act in case of war. Mr. Hull termed the suggestion "the invention of some plevanish person."

The fact is Mr. Hull has not had an opportunity to get around in his department to find out what has been going on during his absence in South America.

That 10 million dollar fund which the Democrats are going to create in the next four years is really just an asking price. The insiders have no idea they will get it, or anything like it. They saw no harm in asking, but would see some danger in getting it. If the Democratic national committee had a surplus of several millions stored for the next presidential campaign, it would be subject to all kinds of pressure for availing of this and that. The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. When blood pours from a wound in the skin, from the nose, or any of the other orifices of the body, people are likely to become unnecessarily frightened. The first advice to be given to anyone who wants help under such circumstances is to keep cool.

A great many hemorrhages may be prevented by taking certain precautions. Broken glass and razor blades should be put into a box and not thrown into wastebaskets. Sharp axes and saws, butcher knives, hatchets, sharp chisels, and screwdrivers should be kept where children cannot get at them. Tools with sharp edges should be used only by those who know how to handle them.

When using a knife, cut away from the body. Keep butcher knives and other sharp utensils in a special drawer, with all the handles pointing in one direction. If a sharp can opener is used, a jagged edge will not be left on a can. Careful housewives wear gloves when opening tin cans.

Meat grinders, cream separators, automatic churns and other electric devices frequently catch fingers, hair or other parts of the body with resultant serious wounds. The bleeding from ordinary wounds can be controlled by pressure with a piece of sterile gauze such as should be available in every family medicine chest.

In case of very severe bleeding, a tourniquet may be applied on the arm or leg just above the place of bleeding. It is not safe, however, as a policeman once recommended in a course on first aid, to wrap a tourniquet around the neck when there is a hemorrhage from the scalp.

When there is bleeding from a tooth socket, following the extraction of a tooth, the hemorrhage can usually be controlled by plugging the socket with sterile gauze.

public at the Schramm-Johnson Drug Store, 102 N. Main St., and Kingsbury's Drug Store, 116 Main Ave. So. Mr. Cowley was a Great Victim of stomach distress. Read how he got relief by taking Van-Tage. His statement follows: "Couldn't Even Keep Drink of Water in Stomach"

"My condition for the past 10 years had been one of continual pain and misery. My stomach had gotten so bad that I would swell up with loads of terrible gas and there was a sour, acid feeling. Scalding hot fluids would come up into my throat and mouth and almost choke me to choke. I COULDN'T EVEN DRINK WATER and keep it down! Nearly every organ in my body seemed ailing, and for 6 months I was unable to lie on my back, and I HAD TO SIT UP IN A ROCKING CHAIR AT NIGHT TO REST! Anybody would think from the shape I was in, that very little could be done for me. I heard about Van-Tage and started taking it. Today I can eat anything. There is no gas or bloating, and I don't have that awful burning in my throat. Why, after the first week I was able to go to bed and sleep all night. I am surely thankful to Van-Tage as IT HAS GIVEN ME A NEW LEASE ON LIFE!"

AIR CORPS POSTS OPEN TO YOUTHS

Applicants, For First Time, Need No Qualifications But H. S. Diploma

For the first time, men with no qualifications other than a high school diploma, aside from physical fitness, may make application for enlistment in the United States army air corps, located at Hamilton Hall, Calif., St. Roy E. Cook, in charge of the local recruiting station, said here today.

Vacancies have appeared in assignments to the California post and enlistments will be filled immediately, Cook points out.

Applicants for the air corps assignments may also be men having two years experience as auto mechanics, airplane mechanics, or radio mechanics, previous service men with experience in army paper work, or radio operators.

Effective Feb. 1, men will also be received for assignment to the 11th cavalry at the Presidio of Monterey, Calif. Applicants will be accepted for assignment to this post until the end of the fiscal year, June 30, Sgt. Cook said.

Applications are still being taken locally for assignment to the 38th Infantry at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Then East was put into the lead with a club and was forced to return a spade.

By his clever handling of the hand, Mott-Smith lost no spades, and gave up only two clubs and one diamond, fulfilling his contract of four odd.

LIQUOR OPPOSED FOR SNAKEBITES

Home Remedies of No Value Says Dr. H. K. Gloyd, Scientist

CHICAGO (CP) — Humanity's loathing of snakes has given rise to a universal misunderstanding of the reptile kingdom, according to Dr. H. K. Gloyd, director of Chicago Academy of Sciences.

First, Dr. Gloyd says, there are few poisonous snakes in this country. Second, the most deadly species are the prey of other varieties and few survive. And third, effective serums now may be obtained to halt the venom's advance before great harm is done.

Dr. Gloyd, who has studied North American poisonous snakes for more than a decade, says the most deadly variety is the huge American bushmaster found in Central America. Both its size and potent venom are factors in its threat to man.

Three Species Feared

In the United States the snakes most to be feared are the familiar "rattlesnake" and the innocuous species, chiefly the cottonmouth, the only poisonous water snake in this country.

Out of his broad reptile study, Dr. Gloyd has developed refutations of popular theories on snakes their habits and treatment of their bites. He denies the age of a rattler is recorded in the number of "rattles" appended to its tail, for he says the snake may add from two to five segments yearly.

The rattler, Dr. Gloyd says, may control the charge of venom it injects into the victim, through action of well developed mouth muscles operating the glandular sacs attached the hollow fangs.

Debunks Home Remedies

Home remedies for snakebite do more harm than good, in the estimation of Dr. Gloyd. Whiskey and other alcoholic spirits are harmful as are potassium salts heretofore believed beneficial.

The best treatment, he says, is use of incision and mechanical suction.

"This method has been perfected by Dr. Dudley Jackson of Robert F. Green hospital, San Antonio, Tex. and small first aid kits are on the market which permit a layman to use it in the field.

"The method consists of applying a slight tourniquet between the bite and the heart. The wound is then cleaned with some antiseptic such as iodine. It is deepened with a knife provided for the purpose, and a suction cup then applied to it."

TRAPPER DIES

Death came last night to Jim Hansick about 60, a trapper and resident of Artesian City for a number of years. He died at the hospital from pneumonia after being ill for 10 days. There are no known survivors.

Pending funeral arrangements the body rests at the Drake mortuary.

Sportsmen Ask County Lawmakers To Boost Game Commission Plan

To the end that "our lakes and streams and what wild life we have left" would be put into the hands of those "capable of caring for them," the legislative committee of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association today asked the Twin Falls delegation in the Idaho state house of representatives to vote for the bill introduced to put under the commission term of management.

The letter, signed by S. Claude Stewart, W. R. Priebe and Pat Daly, was dispatched to Representatives Frank L. Atkins, Dan J. Cavanagh and H. E. Powers.

Looking To Future

"We are now appealing to you and your colleagues," the letter stated, "that through their vote you will put our lakes, our streams and what wild life we have left into hands capable of caring for them perpetuating and increasing them. Unless some action is taken to preserve our fish and game they will not be preserved."

"The fish and game commission is in no way new to the sportsmen over the state as practically every sportsmen's organization in Idaho including our own, has repeatedly and for a number of years put gone on record favoring and endorsing a non-partisan fish and game commission," the letter stated further.

"We have made an intensive study of the commission plan and

Twin Falls Pair Weds In Morning Ceremony

At one of the most beautiful church weddings of the season Miss Helenrose Crabtree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crabtree, became the bride of J. T. Anderson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, this morning at 10 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, to the strains of Wagner's wedding march from "Lohengrin." She was gown'd in an instep-length frock of ivory satin made in Empire style, fastened down the front with tiny buttons. A high collar lined with lace, long sleeves with fullness at the shoulders and a train completed her gown. Her net veil was caught at the temple with a cluster of lilies-of-the-valley.

Her bouquet was made up of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Preceding the wedding party were the two small flower girls, Jan and Ann Morgan, wearing frocks of green taffeta with pink velvet bows. They also had headbands of pink velvet tied with forget-me-nots and carried small silver baskets of blossoms.

The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R. S. Rees standing between large baskets of snapdragons. Lighted cathedral tapers lighted the church.

Bridal Party Motron of honor was Mrs. Lewis Hack Filer, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Misses Alma Carson, Dorothy Doss and Virginia Lawrence, who wore Empire dresses of coral taffeta and coral net hats. They carried small nosegays of roses and sweetpeas. Best man was Bill Morgan and ushers were Bill Babcock, Jack Gray and Bob McClure.

The bridal party left the church as Mrs. C. H. Stinson, organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Immediately before the wedding she played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" as an organ solo. Later a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents and was attended by nearly half a hundred guests. Service was from a table centered with wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and trimmed in pink and silver. A cut-work cloth covered the table and white roses and ivory tapers completed the appointments. Mrs. Crabtree was assisted by her sister, Mrs. R. K. Alexander and her sister-in-law, Mrs. V. E. Morgan.

Leave for Coast Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have left for San Francisco and Los Angeles where they plan to be for the next two weeks. Mrs. Anderson's going-away suit was a smart gray wool suit with which she wore Coronation blue blouse and accessories and a sash. On their return the couple will make their home at 250 Ninth avenue east. Both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are graduates of Twin Falls high school and Mrs. Anderson attended the University of Idaho, southern branch. Mr. Anderson attended the University of Idaho, Moscow, and was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He is associated with Rowles-Mack company.

LITTLE GAIN IN FRENCH CENSUS

Only 71,045 More People Now Than There Were Five Years Ago

PARIS (UP)—France's stationary population remained virtually so in the five-year period between the 1930 and 1935 census, according to the results of the latter, which has just been announced, some three months before statisticians were expected to finish their addition.

There were in France on March 8, 1935, 41,834,923 inhabitants, only 71,045 more than in 1930. However, the increase of the native population was about half a million, for the number of foreigners in France diminished in that period by 437,416, making the increase of French citizens 563,461.

In a separate category by themselves were 107,538 soldiers, sailors and colonial civil servants whose duties kept them out of reach of the census takers the day the count was made.

Some Communities Show Zero Eleven our registered French communities turned out to have no inhabitants at all and 463 had fewer than 50 inhabitants.

At the other end of the scale there was a shift in the order of France's big cities with the 17 above 100,000 population ranking in this order: Paris, 2,829,746; Marseilles, 914,232; Herriot's industrial center of Lyons, another good jump behind, 570,622; wine center, Bordeaux, 238,348; holiday resort, Nice, 241,916; Toulouse (shaded beans), 213,230; Lille (laces), 200,575; Nantes, 195,185; Alsatian capital, Strasbourg, 193,199; Saint-Etienne, 190,236; port of entry, Le Havre, 164,083; naval base, Toulon, 150,310; museum city, Rouen, 122,832; Nancy, 121,301; Rheims (cathedral), Joan of Arc, champagne, 116,687; Roubaix (textiles), 107,105; and Lava's home town, Clermont-Ferrand, 101,128.

Marseilles' Gain Greatest Biggest gains were made during the five-year period by Marseilles, which increased by more than 100,000, and Nice, Toulouse, Strasbourg, Toulon, and Ajaccio, in Corsica.

The population of Paris proper dropped, but its suburbs increased, making greater Paris a larger city by about 30,000 with a total of 4,962,967 inhabitants.

Naturally, the capital attracts the greatest number of foreigners. The department of the Seine (greater Paris) has 369,317, compared to 171,343 for the Nord (mostly Belgians), 135,625 for the Pas-de-Calais (Belgians and English), and 113,604 for the Alpes-Maritime (the cosmopolitan pleasure-seekers of

SKIPPER TELLS OF 'JONAH' FEAT

Captain Mike Dolan Claims Frenchman Swallowed By Whale

NEW ORLEANS (U.P.)—Capt. Mike Dolan, as Irish as his name, skipper of a "killer ship" in the whaling fleet of the Seattle Whaling company, came to New Orleans with Mrs. Dolan for a month's stay "just to get my shore legs in proper cruising order."

Dolan is an official of the U. S. Marine Research League, and is champion harpooner of the world. His ship took 1,130 whales on the trip.

A whaling expedition last three years. Ships usually set out around Feb. 15 and make port in December, three years later. It takes four months of sailing to reach the whaling grounds in the frigid Antarctic and four more to get back.

"Whales," said the gray-haired, ruddy skipper, "are a curious and ornery lot, not to say stubborn. Nobody knows how long the critter lives, but I've killed whales that had harpoons in 'em that had been there more than a century."

Whalebone Demand Cut
One of the biggest sources of revenue in the whaling business, he said, once came from furnishing women with whalebone for their corsets. Now that's a thing of the past.

Dolan led up to a discourse on the Bible and Jonah.

"Well, I won't say 'yes' and I won't say 'no.' Funny thing about whales. Their throats are much smaller than you'd think, some have throats only three and a half inches across.

"But maybe a whale did swallow Jonah. We know about a man—a Frenchman—who was actually swallowed by a whale and lived to tell the tale. He fell overboard and a whale, cruising alongside, gobbled him down. The whale was captured and taken aboard and the Frenchman was saved.

Vast Suction
"He remembered a vast suction drawing him down the whale's throat and a great heat and darkness—then he fainted. A short time after he was rescued, his skin turned almost a milky white—that was because of the digestive fluids in the whale's stomach, and his mind gave way. The records say he was a most fearful sight, with his white skin and his staring eyes."

Dolan knows whales. For instance, he says they don't drink water, they eat a ton and a half of small fish at one gulp, after the fish swims into their open and cavernous mouths; a whale is killed by being wounded and allowed to bleed to death; a whale's ears are 18 inches deep in the head and it can hear nothing from the rear; it can swim at a speed of 28 knots and the tail accounts for one-fourth of a whale's entire weight.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

"No, Mary, you can't have another fairy tale book today. You have had two already. How do you read them so fast?" Thus spake the children's librarian.

"I take them over to Daddy's store, and it's only around the corner."

"This made the lady think, and by inquiry she discovered that other youngsters were doing the same thing, trading in adjacent cubby-holes and popping back for more. Comparing notes with sister librarians, the truth came out. And some very interesting facts were disclosed. The "magic" books were wearing out four times as quickly as the rest. And another thing came to light: Children were asking for books of magic about automobiles, and radios and steam rollers. This was something. Surrealism with a vengeance.

Escape Into Wonderland
It shows something. That certain youngsters want everything they see or think, touched with a wand. In short, the fairy tale, excellent as it is for developing imagination and lifting us away from meals, and beds, the wash-days of daily life, can become an obsession, an orgy of wishful thoughts inimical to real content.

I have long cheered the fairy tale. I think it is good for children of any age from two to eighty. There is something in each of us that craves pumpkins and princesses, frogs that talk and wizards that vanish. But it is a real danger, when children lose interest in stories that can be true, for stories that can't.

I believe the antidote for this dream-reading habit to be substitution. I also think that informative and factual books will do the job, rather than all-fiction.

"The reason is not quite obvious but can be explained. It is that many children are unhappy, either by living in disorder and poverty, by too much suppression at home, by imagined troubles or anti-social leanings. The "escape" child who uses fairy tales to dope his feelings is not too anxious to read about other boys and girls who have it all their own way.

Really Can Be Exciting, Too
True, often the child will put himself in the place of the hero and wrap himself in the vicarious glory of the fearless cowboy or the noble scout; the girl, too, may imagine herself as heroine, or just nice little Milly Smith, visiting her rich uncle and a dozen admiring cousins. But when the magic-hunters are so obsessed as to be ravenous for nothing but dreams and miracles, it takes more than the substitution of mere fiction. Facts of trees, rivers, gardens; biography that shows how the great have suffered and struggled; hobbles of every variety, how to develop strength; real adventures of pioneers, construction of any kind from airplanes to a crocheted scarf; these may grip the child and bring him to earth, through reluctant interest at first, and then a growing enthusiasm to learn more. Busy hands, busy thoughts; the informative book induces both. And such diversified "fact-books" as there are today would interest the laziest and most skeptical.

All children need books to make them think.

Milestones of 1936

Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-Six was a good year in many ways—an important year in the development of our service to our customers and to the communities served by the Idaho Power Company. Let us look back over the past year and recount some of the more important milestones along the highway of service. In 1936 we—

Paid $1,053,036.82 In TAXES

From every dollar collected by our company for electric service, 22½ cents was paid out in taxes. We are one of the highest taxed utilities in the United States.

Paid $1,119,688.92 In WAGES

This figure includes an amount of $206,139.00 which was expended for construction payroll. This is one of the largest payrolls in the territory we serve and provides for the support of 2,506 persons.

Spent Over $1,000,000.00 Locally

Every possible item of supplies and materials required by our business is bought locally. This money was spent in the channels of local business in the communities we serve.

Built 202 Miles of New Rural Lines

Through this program 729 farm customers were connected on new lines, in addition to 1061 connected to existing rural lines. Now more than 65% of the farms in our territory receive electric service.

Made an $86,000 Rate Reduction

Electric rates were reduced again in 1936—saving our customers over $86,000 annually. This is the 20th reduction in our rates since 1926—a total saving of over $100,000 annually for our customers.

Received Signal National Honor

In June, 1936, our company was chosen from among all electric companies of the nation to receive the Charles A. Coffin Award "for distinguished contribution to the development of electric light and power for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry."

MEETING CALLED ON BIRD FEEDING

Sportsmen and Warden Will Discuss Progress; Seven Tons Distributed

The migratory waterfowl committee and a special committee of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association will meet tonight with Grover Davis, deputy game warden, to discuss further feeding operations in this section among game birds, and also to compare distribution data on feed already distributed, members of the association said today.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m., at the Harry Severin service station.

7 1/2 Tons Distributed

At the present time, it is estimated, approximately seven and one-half tons of grain, including wheat and beans, has been distributed to ducks, pheasants and quail since Monday morning when feeding operations started.

Establishment of feeding grounds were necessary to curb the high death rate developing among the birds because their regular feeding grounds are now encroached, and cold weather has made many hundreds of them weak. In this section alone it is estimated the duck population stands at 125,000, which is many times more than the population recorded in former years. The ducks are also said to be feeding further south than ever before.

Feeding must be continued, sportsmen say, because the real threat to the birds will come during cold weather in February, which has developed each year. The present snowfall, they say, will probably melt with a thaw, and then a freeze would cover the fields with ice, making it impossible for the birds to find food.

Today the birds were reported to have more of a tendency to "rustle" for themselves and their condition was said to be improved, but feeding operations cannot stop.

Donations of feed or money are still requested by the association. Hundreds of farmers are donating feeding and labor in coming to the aid of the game birds, sportsmen pointed out.

Public Forum

Contributions from readers welcome. Letters should deal with matters of general interest. Matter should not extend to more than 500 words, and preferably should be confined to 300. No contributions considered unless signed, but initials will be used if specifically requested. All contributions should be addressed to Editor, Idaho Evening Times and submitted through the mails.

DEFENDING THE DUCKS

Editor, Evening Times:

After reading in your paper an article by a person whom it seems to me would best be better posted as to condition of our wild life. There are thousands of ducks that are so weak from lack of food, they can scarcely rise to fly after lighting in our fields to feed. It seems a very unintelligent view of the writer to denounce our senator for proposing aid, when after all it is the voters who sent him in their behalf and further to compare a helpless duck trying to find existence in snow-covered fields to that of helpless children suffering for shelter, food and clothing, many of whose fathers are or can be obtaining those necessities through means of government aid, namely WPA. But it is a pity to know these fathers lean on the shovel handle when they see a chance, and spend their spare time and money at a public card table, while others can be seen from our local relief quarters making their regular calls at the liquor store.

How is a senator or any one else to see that these children are cared for except through their parents?

Let us remember also, that hundreds of families get a great deal of meat each fall from these wild ducks. Shall we let them starve now, for the lack of a small amount of food, during this hard winter? Hoping the intelligence of the average person will be above criticizing this noble move. I am sure it will, as I still have that much confidence in the judgment of the average citizen.

Sincerely,
C. D. McCLAIN,
Twin Falls, Idaho.

NOT TAXPAYERS' BURDEN

Editor, Evening Times:

In answer to your Public Forum letter yesterday from Mrs. Lillie Richardson of Wendell, I would like to clear up an erroneous impression held by Mrs. Richardson and some others.

The $10,000 for feeding wild ducks—against which she appears to be bitter—does NOT come from taxpayers' money and is NOT an added expense to the state. It comes from an emergency fund derived from hunting license fees, and the legislative action was taken only because the law says needed expenditure from the fund is to have routine approval of the legislature.

This money could not legally be used for helping poor children, as Mrs. Richardson would have it, so that its use for helping feed hard-hit game birds is a very proper action. The ducks and others are starving. Sportsmen and farmers are doing great work in feeding them, but more funds are needed if a great Idaho natural resource is not to be seriously depleted.

MOMENT OF SUSPENSE FOR FAIRBANKS

A few years ago no one would have hesitated to say "That's Douglas Fairbanks." Bounding and leaping were his trademarks. Yes, he's at it again, just as spry as ever. Only this time he's leaping into a pool at Palm Beach, Fla., for fun instead of in a gay movie antic. For the fair head he clears so agilely is none other than that of his bride, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley.

Crude Oil Price Rise Announced

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 28 (AP). A 24-day crude oil price impasse broke today as major oil buyers began falling in line behind Humble Oil and Refining company with announcements of price advances from 10 1/2 to 12 cents a barrel.

The swing of oil prices to the higher price schedules started when Humble—an affiliate of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey—posted an increase of 10 1/2 cents per barrel, effective at 7 a. m. today. Observers predicted that all major companies will have similar advances posted by close of business today.

DUCKS IMPROVE DEATH TAKES HEYBURN MAN

Emergency Feeding Helps; Called Still Necessary

Ducks and pheasants in the Gooding and Jerome county areas are in good shape as a result of emergency feeding operations in that sector, Deputy Game Warden Grover C. Davis said here this afternoon.

"There is still a large number of hungry ducks in Twin Falls county," Davis said. "Milder weather has improved conditions somewhat, but continued effort both here and in other sections must be carried on if we are to keep the game bird loss at a minimum."

Extensive feeding program has been carried on in the north side through the C. C. C. in Hagerman valley. Mr. Davis asserted in the Twin Falls territory the feeding has been done by collaboration of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association and scores of farmers.
