It's Largest Movie Location Crew, This Unit At Work In Sawtooths

The largest movie location crew that ever came out of Hollywood was on its second day of a week-long shooting today 12 miles above Sun Valley, Idaho.

The Swiss chalet constructed on the north fork of the Wood river has been burned into a complete motion picture sound stage, and the Paramount company filming Claude Rains' starring vehicle, "I Met Him in Paris," is shooting interior scenes that formerly were never attempted on location.

That was the word brought back to Twin Falls today by Earl Baughman, Orpheum theater manager who watched the company start today.

First actual filming yesterday and production chiefs and the company's stars.

Initial shooting Friday was on interior scenes, Mr. Baughman said. He watched Director Wesley Ruggles work on shots of Robert Young and Melynn Douglas on a set depicting the inside of a European railroad coach. The bits were mainly comedy sequences.

Although a sizable Hollywood company is already at work, and is augmented by $5 per day for skulking and sking scenes, approximately 100 more bit players and extras will arrive from Hollywood within a week, Billy Edwards, advertising chief for the location company, told Mr. Baughman. The Idaho extras are on hand each day awaiting the shots in which they will participate and are on the payroll while they wait.

Can't Duplicate Scenery "The Sawtooth scenery at the spot we've selected cannot be duplicated anywhere in the United States," Edwards said. "That's why we came all the way to Idaho. It was no publicity stunt. The scenery and the housing accommodations were the big factors."

A special ski run and a lighted skating rink have been constructed (Continued on Page 2, Column 6)

JUDGE ADAM B. BARCLAY
South central Idaho again suffers a distinct shock and pauses once more to mourn the loss of one of its most distinguished citizens—Judge Adam B. Barclay.

WHAT MAKES YOU THINK WE'RE BALD-HEADED?
Dear Pot Shots: I had to laugh when I read that poem by 'Gaily Gal' about our names and why in tunket we had such names.

HE had, indeed, Paul reflected. The contrast which they gave to the unending stiffness of palace life had seemed infinitely refreshing. But now...

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Federal relief organizations have been given tragic opportunities for demonstrations of their usefulness by the floods and droughts of the past year, but you may have noticed President Roosevelt called first upon a non-governmental charity, the American Red Cross, in this latest disaster.

Propaganda
One unconquerable weakness in federal handling of anything may be discovered in some of the figures which Administrator Hopkins gave the House appropriations committee the other day.

Jerome and Twin Falls counties particularly will regret his passing because of his identification with this community, but his many friends and associates throughout southern Idaho will join in paying him the high tribute he deserves.

Dear Pot Shots: I had to laugh when I read that poem by 'Gaily Gal' about our names and why in tunket we had such names. Well I guess it's a game we all play to cause a few more smiles in the world.

I know," he said. "And yet—must we see them all the time?" She removed her bathing cap and inspected her coiffure carefully.

Unhappy Harry is the most popular congressional whipping boy in the new order since Tug; well departed. Those who are in the know within his organization do not blame him personally. They rightly blame the system.

Judge Barclay was serving his second elective term on the bench of the eleventh judicial district at the time of his death. Previously he was active in Jerome county legal and civic circles for more than a quarter century.

Mother of two holding each child by the hand while scowling 'Irate Pop' striding along with a whip in his hand. 'Gaily Gal' dancing along saying 'Gloom-oom-oom' and showing 'Half Pint' and 'Burloney of Buhl' at him.

"There is harm in some of them," he said. "Reggie Van Twyne's little excursion to that water-front dive in Marselles last week wasn't exactly the essence of childhood innocence. And those two ballet dancers the countless...

This administrator feels that most of the politics in WPA is the result of state situations. The worst of it, as he sees it, is that the administrators chosen in Washington are not always the type to remove state and city political machines from relief influence.

Of Judge Barclay no better eulogy can be spoken than that expressed by Judge William A. Babcock, his former colleague on the district bench.

'Theophilus Squire' with his cheeks puffed out acquiring wright and left at 'Jasmine Belle' and 'Ann Teek's' bric-a-brac. 'Old Hickory' marching proudly with 'Grace' on his arm.

"I was about this time that Paul fell into the habit of spending a night on his sleep now and then. The first time he did it followed a more than ordinary heated spat with Ardath, she collected sleeping garments and toilet articles and went down to the snug little cabin of the lagoon.

FUNERAL MONDAY FOR OAKLEY MAN

ISOLATED—IN ONLY ONE WAY
Congress may be looking toward a balanced budget, but a dark shadow is falling across the balance sheet—two dark shadows, in fact, with more to come.

Here is my contest contrb If I were a legislator I would introduce a bill to assess all the Pot Shot contrbs one cent each to buy a wig to cover Pot Shots' bald head in this zero weather.

The morning was bright and fresh. His body was tingling from his plunge in the bay; and he strode up to the villa whistling cheerfully, feeling that life was simple, after all.

BURLEY, Jan. 30 (Special) -- Services for William A. Martindale, 62, resident of Oakley during most of his life, will be held Monday at 1 p. m. in the L. D. S. tabernacle at Oakley. Until Monday friends may call at the Payne mortuary.

Battleships are complicated things and they aren't built on lunch money. By the time these proposed additions to the fleet are put into commission, the country will have spent something like $70,000,000 on them.

There might be two answers to that one, Pot Shots. Either (a) He had no sales resistance or (b) There was a pretty nurse on the premises.

And she dutifully made a tour of inspection with him, exclaiming prettily over the little boat's compact and robust beauty, but she very quickly made it clear that she was content to admire the craft from a safe and stable vantage point on the shore.

Mr. Hopkins obviously thought this was a political thing to do. You know he must get his appropriations from the senate and the house. However, it may prove to be less political than he thought.

Without building any battleships at all, we are spending something like half a billion on our navy this year. The battleships simply mean that it'll be a long time before the navy gets any cheaper.

Residents of Twin Falls county and southern Idaho were planning today to attend the President's Birthday dances to be held this evening simultaneously with balls throughout the nation with the proceeds going to curb infantile paralysis and for local health work.

In Twin Falls three dances are to be held this evening one at the Elks hall, one at Legion Memorial hall, both under the direction of Joe Koehler, and the third at Odd Fellows hall given by that organization with proceeds to be added to the total from the other two events. The entire 70 per cent, the county's share, which was to have gone to the McClusky health camp will be divided with the Red Cross flood relief fund according to a request made by the directors of the camp, Mr. Koehler has stated.

The fourth annual Birthday ball in Filer is to be held at the Community hall starting at 9 p. m. The BIRTH event is to be held at the newly-decorated Legion hall with Leonard Howard's orchestra playing. Paul S. GARRETT ESTATE IN LEGAL TANGLE

17,000 Persons Claim Part of $20,000,000 Left in 1930 PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP)—The $20,000,000 Garrett estate, claimed by 17,000 persons in 48 states and 27 foreign countries, has become involved in an almost incredible legal tangle that may require 10 years to clear up. Hearings on the claims have begun in a large auditorium, equipped with loudspeakers, so that the thousands of claimants and their attorneys could be accommodated. The money was left by Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett, widow of a snuff manufacturer. She died Nov. 17, 1930, at the age of 67 leaving a will disposing of only $62,500 of her estate. This amount was divided among five trustees consisting of high grade bonds and stocks, is now estimated to be worth between $20,000,000 and $21,000,000. Fluctuating security values make an exact figure impossible. It was assessed in 1930 at $17,382,301, and increased thereafter because of dividend payments.

Husband Advised Will Mrs. Garrett's failure to make a complete will was in violation of a request by her husband. He wrote her in 1890: "Since I have made my first will in 1876, I have been very successful in my business and am at this time worth at least five times what I was worth. I trust you will oblige me by making a will at once. Leave your fortune to charitable institutions, as I would not like it if what I have worked for so long and hard should be squandered by you or my sisters, cousins, aunts and uncles. Leave all you want to John C. Schaefer (Garrett's brother-in-law), but do not let any scoundrels get any if you can keep it by making a will."

Word of the huge estate without heirs spread to remote corners of the world. First dozens, then hundreds, and finally thousands of "relatives" demanded a share of the money. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court clarified the dispute temporarily by ruling that only relatives of Mrs. Garrett were eligible—her husband's heirs had no claim on the estate. But for each claimant eliminated by the ruling, three others appeared.

The situation was so trying to Orphan's Court judges that one of them remarked that "just because we are all descended from Adam does not mean that everybody is an heir to Henrietta E. Garrett." Whenever there is an official communication in connection with the case, it is necessary to hire a battery of stenographers to handle a mailing list of 30,000 claimants and their attorneys. And each claimant who is obliged to submit a brief must send a copy to every other claimant.

Administrator Cites Letter Charles S. Starr, who helped administer the estate, has announced that he is entitled to "the entire residuary estate in question." Mrs. Garrett's incomplete will was in the form of a letter to Starr, telling him who was to get the $62,500 disposed of Starr said the letter "implied" that he should get the remainder of the estate. In the background of the proceedings looms the State of Pennsylvania, represented by imposing local talent, waiting to take the estate by except if no heirs are established. The state, in any event, will collect a huge inheritance tax.

DIRECTOR URGES SANITARY UNITS

WPA Labor Available For Construction Work Over Several Counties

For the purpose of arranging for addition of several WPA workers to present crews in Twin Falls, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln counties, Robert R. Pfost, assistant state director of community sanitation, was in Twin Falls Friday. He has been active in this section several days.

Urges Orders "This program is sponsored by the United States public health service in cooperation with the state health department and is one of the major projects," he said. "Everyone who does not have adequate sewerage disposal should take advantage of the program and secure one of these sanitary units."

No Cost To State The program has been operating in Idaho for one year and to date the sanitation organization has placed approximately 7,500 units in 35 counties. This represents about $180,000 worth of new business brought into the state through materials and other necessary items. Federal funds are used exclusively at no cost to the state. To date over 500 units have been constructed in Twin Falls county, and the work has been progressing in Gooding, Jerome, Cassia, Lincoln and Minidoka counties in this area.

Selection of casts for two plays for the state declamation contest to be held in Twin Falls the first part of April was begun last night by Miss Florence M. Rees, speech instructor in the high school. Miss Rees has two humorous plays: "The Grub" and "The Lady Who Ate An Oyster," both of them of such quality and opportunity for dramatization that she will let an impartial judge select the one to be entered in the contest. Both plays will be presented sometime in March and the one then adjudged the best will be the contest entry from this school. Between 45 and 50 students were present for the tryouts last evening. Any student from the high school is eligible.

DESOLATION HOLDS SWAY IN FLOOD AREA, SPEAKER SAYS

Desolation, panic and indescribable damage—that was the flood picture that had been painted for Twin Falls today by a Seattle man who has just completed a trip through the water-stricken regions of the mid-central states.

Death rides the waterways in cities and farmland, Samuel G. Hepler, Seattle, committeeman for district No. 10 of the Northwest Electrical Contractors' association, told the Chamber of Commerce directors at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

"The flood situation is extremely grave," he said. "No matter how much money the Red Cross raises in its national flood campaign, the funds will not be one-tenth enough for the tremendous need."

Louisville Hard-Hit

Louisville, Ky., probably the hardest-hit major city, was 93 per cent under water; at the time he visited it, the speaker asserted. He was overtaken by the flood at Cincinnati, was 19 hours going by train from there to Louisville. In many places water eight feet deep covered the tracks and long re-routings were necessary. The Louisville business district normally 800 to 1,000 feet from the water line, was rapidly being flooded in many spots.

Debris of all kinds—livestock, bits of houses, furniture—flooded down the flood's whirlpool, Mr. Hepler told the chamber. Louisville's power was almost all cut off, hotels were being evacuated and thousands, frantically fled the city.

Power companies built coffee dams around their plants in a desperate effort to keep enough operations underway to provide city lighting in hours of darkness.

Death Commonplace

Looking out his second floor window, Mr. Hepler said he saw coast guardsmen coming up the Ohio river with what looked like a dead man's body. He found later it was a youth they had rescued. The young man and his mother clung to the top of their rural home all night, with the youth swimming out at intervals to capture debris. He made a raft from the planks, but his mother was swept to death as she tried to board the raft.

"Death instances like that are common in the flood zone," Mr. Hepler declared.

He said that press reports of the disaster are minimized rather than exaggerated.

Charles Larsen Gets Student Council Job

Charles Larsen at a meeting of the junior class yesterday was chosen as representative to the Twin Falls high school student council. He was selected to fill the vacancy created when Asher B. Wilson, Jr., left to continue his education in California.

When Cyril Dougherty, of Pittsburgh, Pa., counted his tricks, on today's hand, he seemed to be on short of his contract of five diamonds.

He had six trumps, two spades and two hearts, but the game-going trick seemed hard to find.

There was no flustering situation which would permit him to pick up a missing honor. There remained only the resource of the squeeze and Dougherty of course, took the only chance to fulfill his contract.
