CREST OF FLOOD REACHES CAIRO, HEADS FOR GULF

Kentucky, Missouri Towns Face Danger From High Waters

FIVE BODIES RECOVERED

Engineers Expect Level to Stay at 60 Feet For Several Days

By HARRIS COATES CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 4 (UP)—The crest of a $500,000,000 flood swung out of the Ohio river into the Mississippi today and started on the long roll down to the gulf.

In its immediate path were Hickman, Ky., and New Madrid, Mo., both protected by walls and levees that are part of the billion-dollar flood protection system erected by the United States army and scores of river communities.

Farther down, south of Memphis, Mellwood, Ark., braced a shaky dike that rested on an uncertain foundation of sand. Helena, Ark., built below the river level—bulwarked it flood wall.

Cairo Masters Crest Cairo believed it had met and mastered the river's crest. The gauge on the sloping concrete wall near Cairo was erratic. It bobbed up toward 60 feet. Engineers said it probably would rise and fall around 57 feet for several days.

The concrete wall is 60 feet high. On top of it there has been built a three-foot bulkhead of soil and timber. The chief danger to Cairo and engineers said there would be potential danger for four more days—that that wind would kick up waves that might weaken the bulkhead.

Five Bodies Recovered

The worst flood tragedy in this section was extended with the recovery of five more bodies from a spillway near New Madrid, Mo., where a large, carrying 100 men, sank in the strong-running water.

"Babies First"—Mother Love at Flood Tide

An added hour or two of painful waiting before seeking rest for themselves means nothing to these flood-battered Memphis mothers when the comfort of their babies is at stake. Haggard and weary, the women wait in line at a relief station so that the babies may be bathed and dressed in fresh clothing. It is the drab anti-climax of a long battle with the overflowing Mississippi. But these mothers, homeless and weary, refuse to acknowledge defeat.

There remains a 20-day period in which Van Vlack's attorneys may file notice of intention to appeal for a rehearing. Should the court block this move, he will be taken to Twin Falls to be resentenced and will occupy a cell in the penitentiary death row.

Slayer of Missouri Doctor Moved To Kansas City For Safety

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4 (UP)—Safe in the Jackson county jail here from the irate Ozark hills folk who threatened to lynch him for the kidnap-slaying of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs, 20-year-old Robert Kenyon talked in apparent bewilderment today of the "night hawk" who forced him to write a ransom note.

Yesterday at Willow Springs, G-men and state troopers announced that the youth had confessed to abducting and shooting Dr. Davis. Despite Kenyon's rambling story told upon his arrival here last night authorities said they were not impressed by his later story and still considered the investigation closed.

The slight, mal-nourished youth stroked a dangling forelock of brown hair and told his amazing tale of the "nighthawk" who forced him to write the ransom note on threat of revealing Kenyon stole an automobile two months ago.

Denies Killing

Wearing overalls, too large and big overshoes that made it difficult for him to walk, Kenyon sat huddled with a red and yellow blanket around him as he denied he killed the beloved Howell county physician and political leader. He spoke in the slow twang of the hill people and appeared more pathetic than the cold-blooded killer he was described as being by federal agents and state troopers who accompanied him to the body of the slain physician before dawn yesterday.

Kenyon insisted he had never seen Dr. Davis, that it was the "nighthawk" who fired six shots into the physician's back and left it lying under brush in a thicket 14 miles south of Willow Springs.

Ohio, optimistic that the levees would hold all along the 1,200 mile line to New Orleans.

Chief of army engineers, another member of the commission, reiterated his faith in the strength of the levee system.

Crises Two Weeks
The crisis, however, is expected to last for two weeks. Engineers said that the two worst things that could happen now would be heavy rains and adverse winds at places where the levees and walls were weak.

Memphis was safe. She sits high on bluffs except for sections in the extreme northern and southern end of town. All persons in danger have been removed from those sections and the levees have been strengthened. The gauge there read around 47 feet, a slight rise but the rest is still to come.

The gravest danger to Memphis was an influenza epidemic that was sweeping through the refugee camps. Physicians said more than 1,000 persons were affected either with influenza or deep colds.

The patrol system was maintained all the way south to the mouth of the Arkansas river. In the Arkansas low lands officials continued to conscript able-bodied male refugees for work on the levees.

State Chemist Says Thorough Tests Shed No Light on Local Mystery

Intensive investigations have revealed no traces of poison in the organs of W. E. Taylor, former resident of a trailer house near Harmon park, who died in Twin Falls Jan. 5 from what "resembled poisoning," W. V. Leonard, state chemist, announced here today through Edward Babcock, prosecuting attorney.

Sections of the dead man's organs were sent to Boise immediately following a post mortem performed here by Dr. H. I. Stowe, county coroner at the time. Since that time investigations, seeking presence of various types of poisoning, have been carried on by Mr. Leonard, Babcock said today.

Leonard explained there were over 200 possible types of poisoning which he must search for. To date his findings have revealed no poison trace, but the work will be continued, the sections of the body being preserved at Boise. JOBLESS CENSUS CAUSES DEBATE

Economy Bloc Rakes Leaders Of Deficiency Relief Bill in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Congressional sentiment formed today behind a national unemployment census as the first step toward termination of national policy of aid to persons unable to find jobs.

Chief driving force behind demands for settlement of the issue was an embattled "economy" bloc that raked the administration in a four-hour senate debate on the $50,000,000 deficiency relief bill for failure to progress toward budget balancing.

The debate, which split party lines, indicated that a decision would have to be reached before the next relief appropriation is approved on.

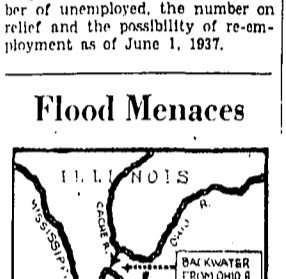

Favors Jobless Census
1. Whether unemployment relief shall become a permanent rather than emergency federal task, with the national government taking primary responsibility.

2. Whether relief shall be shifted back to state administration with the federal government supplying aid.

With President Roosevelt favoring a jobless census, Sen. Carl A. Hatch, D., N. M., and Sen. James E. Murray, D., Mont., announced that they would introduce tomorrow a joint resolution for a "thorough going study" of all phases of unemployment.

It will include the extent and nature of the problem, administrative responsibilities, coordination of a long term relief program, the number of unemployed, the number on relief and the possibility of re-employment as of June 1, 1937.

FILE APPLICATION, STOCKMEN TOLD

Owners of Large and Small Herds Urged to Fill In Grazing Act Forms

Taylor grazing act applications from owners of large and small stock herds using the public domain should be submitted at once, County Agent Harvey S. Hale informed farmers and stockmen this afternoon.

Deadline for submission of applications for use of lands in district No. 1, the western part of the state from Salmon Falls river west, has been set for March 15, he said. Deadlines for the other three districts are expected to be announced soon.

Offer Assistance
Hale and his staff are ready to assist stockmen in drawing up the blanks, and application forms are available at the offices in the county courthouse here. County agents in other south central counties also have the blanks.

District No. 2 comprises south central Idaho; district No. 3 is the eastern end of the state, and district No. 4 consists of the valley areas in the northeast and north central sections of Idaho.

The sector on which deadline has been set for March 15 is widely used by many stockmen of this area.

All owners of stock intending to use public lands are included among those who must submit applications, Hale said. Farmers who run a few cows come under the law although all which own 10 head of stock or less come under the free use-class. The second group includes those owning more than that amount.

Temporary Licenses
In districts two, three and four for the first year only temporary licenses will be given, the county agent explained. No special application and no leases will be granted. In district No. 1, which is entering its third year, the grazing act administration is making leases and setting up allotments.

Information that stockmen should be prepared to fill in on applications includes legal description of land owned or leased, number of head of stock owned, and number of head previously run on public domain.

NEW SNOW ADDS TO FEEDING TASK

Heavy Fall Revives Need of Program to Keep Birds From Starving

Heavy snows throughout this area today were expected to make necessary a continuation of the duck and game bird feeding program begun recently by the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association, in cooperation with farmers throughout this section.

Because of moderating weather previous to this storm, Pat Daly, member of the board of directors of the association, said today the feeding operations had been halted in all sections excepting the Blue lakes area.

This morning, calls received from individual farmers, revealed the birds were "milling around the ground" in many places and could find no food as blizzard and near-bizzar conditions existed.

In the Blue lakes area, Mr. Daly said, approximately 15,000 ducks are being fed daily. Some, he pointed out, are still too weak from lack of food to rise above the canyon walls at that point.

Ton Per Day
Approximately one ton of grain is fed in the Blue lakes area each day, most of it being donated by local firms and purchased through cash contributions. A supply is kept on hand for sudden weather changes, such as today's snow.

The state of Idaho, he said, has contributed a quantity of No. 1 wheat to be fed the birds. This wheat, Daly points out, is distributed on upland farms so the fields where the feeding has taken place will not be contaminated with weed seed which might be present in the lesser grades of grain. All contributed seed has been and will be distributed along the river so as not to contaminate any farm fields, he points out.

These Helped
Included among the contributions from local concerns, and the amount of grain contributed, are found the Globe Seed company, 20 sacks of grain, Intermountain Seed company, 150 sacks, Idaho Bean and Elevator, 70 sacks, Trinidad Seed company, 30 sacks, Twin Falls Feed and Ice, 10 sacks, Gem State Seed company, Landreth Seed company, Dickinson Seed company, Northrup Seed company, 1 1/2 sacks each, Isabelle Seed company, three sacks. One company which requested to remain anonymous, donated 50 sacks.

The value of the seed averaged approximately $125 a sack. Many cash contributions were also received to aid in the bird feeding, which is estimated to have saved thousands of the birds. Among such contributions was $10 from the Amalgamated Sugar company.

That night he also murdered Miss Hook. He was captured the next day and his former wife's body was found in a culvert a few days later. Van Vlack's execution, if he is finally hanged, will be only the seventh in the history of the state penitentiary. INDIAN REFUSES RIDE ON PIGSKIN

Maharaja Holds Up Railroad Train in Venice for Hour and Half

VENICE, Feb. 4 (UP)—The maharajah of the Hindu Indian state of Alwar held up the Venice-Trieste express for half an hour last night because he refused to sit on railroad coach seats made of pigskin—"an impure animal."

After a sightseeing tour the Maharajah boarded the train at the last moment. Seeing the seats, he refused to agree to the train's departure unless the seats were removed.

Railroad officials declined to "damage state property" but the maharajah was adamant and, enlisting the aid of police, persuaded the officials to take off the seat coverings and substitute damask tapestries and Oriental carpets which he provided.

A small crowd cheered the maharajah and his entourage heartily when the train finally left.

A PEACETIME EMERGENCY

If we can ever get to the point where we are eager to build things up as to tear them down, we ought to be able to iron a lot of kinks out of this country of ours.

For the emergencies of peace, we give money, time, and energy very reluctantly and slowly. For the emergencies of war, we give them eagerly and quickly. Why can't we understand that it is the peacetime emergency which offers by far the better investment?

This bit of rumination is provoked by the reading of two bits of literature: first, a current newspaper account of the Ohio-Mississippi floods; second, a dusty old history of the American Civil War.

The federal government had a Mississippi river problem on its hands in the Civil War. The problem was to open the river from Illinois to the Gulf of Mexico. Washington promptly decided that no price was too high to pay.

Huge armies were mobilized, equipped, and sent to the scene. Whole fleets of steamers were constructed to fight the opposing batteries. Enough horses, mules, and wagons to take half the nation over the Oregon trail were got together.

The armies marched and floundered in the mud. The United States fleet sailed up from the Gulf. Battles were fought, sieges were conducted, roads were built, canals were dug, temporary cities were erected, mills and shipyards were kept busy, railroad tracks were laid, and some thousands of young Americans gave up their lives.

In a few years the job was finished, once and for all. The Father of Waters, as Lincoln put it, rolled untraced to the sea again. The cost had been terrific, but the thing had been done. The emergency had been met.

Today we have another emergency. The Father of Waters is still rolling to the sea, but he is kicking up a fearful commotion about it along the way. All in all, he is actually causing more suffering, more property loss, and more disruption of our economic life than the wartime stoppage of river traffic caused in 1861.

Suppose we had the habit of meeting peacetime emergencies as wholeheartedly and energetically as we meet those of war. A great army of workmen, backed by supply and construction fleets, equipped without thought of expense and backed by every power of the government, would be put to work to make the river flood-proof. No matter how long it took or how much it cost, an aroused people would keep them there until the job was done.

Is the parallel absurd? The valley campaign of the Civil War cost thousands of lives and scores of millions of dollars, created bitterness that has been three-quarters of a century healing, and left the nation with nothing concrete to show for its investment.

A similar campaign today would save lives instead of destroying them, would heal bitterness instead of creating it—and would return dollar for dollar, in savings, through the years to come.

CENSORS' CHOICE

That unerring sixth sense which enables self-appointed censors to make asses of themselves seems to have operated once more. The New York Society for the Suppression of Vice has descended, now, on James T. Farrell's novel, "A World I Never Made," and is seeking to have it banned as an obscene book.

Now Mr. Farrell's novel may be a great book and it may not. The critics can't seem to agree. But the one thing absolutely certain is that it is an intensely serious book, with no more aphrodisiac effect than the annual report of a state game commission.

It treats of ugly things and it speaks frankly about them; but of leering, self-conscious suggestiveness it has not the remotest trace.

Why, oh why—with the market flooded with cheap, suggestive, slyly salacious books written with no other aim than to tickle the senses—must the self-chosen guardians of our morals ignore them and lay their paws on a book which is indisputably honest, intelligent, and sincere?

The fellow who used to sit up with a sick friend now has a better alibi, he's sitting down with the boys at the plant.

The Tennessee girl who became a bride at the age of nine perhaps has caused further discouragement to many of the girls around thirty-nine who are still wondering.

Headline: "Officials Ejected From Own Factory by Strike Leaders." Let that be a warning. The next time they'll probably get fired without pay.

PROVING WE IDAHOANS ARE HUMOROUS!

Pot Shots:
The nicest thing about us Idaho folks is our sense of humor. Now take that libelous, had tempered, and wholly misinformed d California outburst about us Idahovans gawking at the movie stars. Most people would have got sore about that, but not us. We laugh.

I think I've got that Zeni Yorme person figured out, though, Pot Shots. She is an Idaho expatriate suffering from acute nostalgia complicated by earthquake shock. We sympathize, but just the same, she should be told that since the stars arrived at Sun Valley no native of Idaho has gone up there nor is there any prospect of us doing so. How can we when we're snow-bound?

I'd be lenient with her, though, if she hadn't made that crack about us not having a sense of humor. Why, Zeni, that's all the sense we HAVE got. We are famous for our humor. We are the funniest people on earth. We even look funny. And that's the real reason the movie girls—bless their little pocket-books—are coming up here. They like to look at us. We don't mind.

Now, Pot Shots, in case you don't know this Zeni Yorme gal, I warn you to be careful. She, herself, has no more sense of humor than an European dictator.

WHY THAT TERRIBLE CREATURE!

Dear Pot Shots:
I am very indignant. You ask, "Is male gallantry toward the ladies fading out?" My answer is, "It has faded so far it left a hole in the horizon!"

I was walking down the street the other day when I saw a handsome young man slip and then go through postures a professional contortionist would be proud of to keep from meeting Mother Earth "face to face."

What did I do?
With my sense of humor what could I do?

You're right.
And then—I slipped, and do you know what that slab-sided, horse-faced, buck-toothed, son of an Arab did?

He LAUGHED!!!!

COMPLETE REPORT OF THE GROUND HOG PARLEY!

Dear Pot Shots:
The family reunion of Guy Stoddard and the ground hogs took place Tuesday morning at sunrise two miles north of Magic hot springs. All were present except a few old women that were kept at home with lock-jaw. After we had shaken hands several times, Grandpa Guy called the meeting to order to forecast the weather. After a thorough examination of our clothing we found that none of us had started to shed; so we voted on six weeks more of winter.

So many boys were talking about going to school next summer to study law that I told them that we had too much law now and what we needed most was more common sense. Then so many Ground Hog girls wanted to be school marms I told them that if they wanted to wear shorts and freeze to death to go ahead.

Then one lady got came up to me and rung my hand and asked if she could see me alone. She asked me if I ever heard of a man in Idaho by the name of Harry Murgave. When I told her there was a man in Twin Falls by that name, she said that's the same Harry I am sure. Then she gave me a big kiss and what a thrill I got from that long hair on her nose. She said, "You know, Grandpa, that Harry and I kept company back in Missouri for a long time. Then my folks found it out, and made such a fuss about it that Harry got mad and left."

Then it started to snow and we all went back in our holes. Then after it cleared up we came out again to discuss a few things the planning board had in mind. First, was to notify Sheriff Prater and Deputy Parker that all members of the re-union after Feb. 2 would distribute their moonshine in flat bottles instead of the old style round ones. By so doing it would last longer as only half as many could get up to a flat bottle as they could a round one.

The rest of the meeting was very private.

THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

King without a country

By Robert Bruce
© N.E.A. Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Surrounding his throne for the love of his native Oregon, Canadian-born actress, PAUL I. King of Northumbria, becomes a pacifist after PAUL FERRO. He and quickly he finds that he has made a bad bargain.

He soon finds of the COUNTESS DI. HARGIS, REGGIE VAN TWINE, and the gay, vacuous crowd that people the Bay of St. Francis. He travels more, buys a sailing ship, travels more, but always restlessness, and the shadow of the lost throne follow him.

There it came, at last, down the street on the far side of the open common. The regimental band of a famous regiment of regulars—a regiment that had fought the king's wars for three centuries, and had the names of great battles and obscure ones inscribed on its banners—swung into view.

A mist came into Paul's eyes as he watched them. His amber spectacles fogged, and he impatiently jerked them off and thrust them into his pocket. He had been honorary colonel of his regiment. They were his men; he knew all of the officers and half of the men. They were great men and a great regiment; he looked on with a lump in his throat as the steady blue ranks swept past him, the jaunty caps bobbing over bronzed faces.

Then, as the roar mounted to a crescendo, there came an open touring car. Standing in the tonneau was a slight, straight figure in a plain business suit, bareheaded, a white earnest face looking out over the town—Joseph, King of Northumbria.

The car moved abreast. Instinctively, Paul snatched off his hat and held it over his heart. He stood in an exposed position, and his sudden movement must have caught the royal eye; Joseph turned his head and looked squarely at him, and Paul saw a start of quick recognition. Then the car moved on again, a company of local militia filled the gap behind it—and the royal pageant had passed.

Paul climbed down the street. Following the parade, to find a place by the waterfront where the ceremony of breaking ground for the new coal dock was to take place. For want of anything better to do, he followed.

Paul saw the slight figure step to the front of the platform and begin to speak. The first words were lost; then a shift of the wind, or a diminution in the noises of the crowd, let them through, and he heard Joseph saying:

"... and I like to think that what we are doing here is to begin a new battle—not a battle against external foes, but a new fight in the age-old campaign against the eternal enemies of our race: hunger, want, cold and misery."

The English had a great poet, William Blake, and he wrote some great lines which I think we can borrow for our own nation. Let me quote them to you:

"And did the Countenance divine Shine forth upon our clouded hills?
And was Jerusalem builded here Among these dark Satanic mills?
"Bring me my Bow of burning gold!
Bring me my Arrows of desire!
Bring me my Spear! O clouds, unfold!
Bring me my Chariot of fire!"

"I will not cease from mental flight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In this our green and pleasant land!"

The young king remained leaning forward, his face alight; and suddenly the great crowd resounded, and a tremendous shout went up to the sky, as the people caught the vision he had held out to them.

Paul found that he had left the crowd, somehow, and was walking along toward the wharf where he had moored his sloop. The words of Blake's mighty poem still rang in his ears; before his eyes remained the picture of his brother Joseph, so young and so sincere, standing tense before his subjects and lighting in their hearts the flame that enables men to transcend themselves.

And as he thought of this, there came to Paul, at last, a realization of the full measure of his failure.

He walked dejectedly to the wharf and descended to the cabin of the sloop. Ashore, the ceremonies ended, people streamed back through the streets, city life regained its normal round, the day wore away; and all the while Paul sat alone in the cabin, his chin in his hands, thinking long and melancholy thoughts.

He roused himself, at last, and came on deck. Dusk had come; night was veiling the bleak ugliness of the harbor, and the waterfront was taking on a spangle of lights. Paul stood by the mast, looking dully at the foreshore.

A huge motor car came down the nearest street and swung onto the wharf. It halted, and a uniformed military aide got out. He looked about for a moment, spied the sloop, and walked briskly over to it. Halting at the edge of the wharf, he saluted.

"Sir," he said, "his majesty the king would like to talk with you. Will you come with me, please?"

BIRDS AND BABIES
Editor, Evening Times:
The issue just now seems to be birds and babies. There can be no question as to which should be first. If more our local authorities were hired or appointed from the working classes it should help solve problems. Some of them are educated and could qualify but they do not get such positions because they lack political pull. Too much of our money is going to high and authorities who do not need it. Such people do not understand the relief situation because they have always had all the comforts of life.

Now, a word as to who is worthy and who is not. Children, old people and the sick can never be classed as unworthy. Just one thing more. Why should there be a law or ruling which says "transients from the drought areas cannot have relief if living inside city corporations"? Very few of them are located in rural districts. These who are, most generally, are working for farmers and do not need aid.

We say, "God bless the Wendell lady and others who have the grace to see this situation—just let us give them a hand."

Most sincerely,

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

When a wound is infected, the physician will open the abscess, if he is able to find one, to provide drainage of the pus or infectious material that is retained in the tissues.

If, however, the infection is not localized—that is, not accumulated in one place—it may not be desirable to open the area. The care taken after such a wound has been opened and drained, is of the greatest importance.

If the hand or leg is held motionless in a bad position for too long a time, scarring may take place which will make it impossible to move the fingers or toes, and may perhaps cripple the infected individual.

Abscesses affecting the lips and nose are now sometimes treated with the X-ray.

Small wounds are usually treated in the home with some of the common antiseptics. In discussing materials to be included in the family medicine chest, I mentioned tincture of iodine and mercurochrome.

Other antiseptics include the saturated solution of boric acid, hydrogen peroxide, solution of methaphen, and solution of hexylresorcinol, in addition to the solution of chlorinated soda and cresol. Very strong antiseptics should not be used, except on the advice of a doctor.

Wounds must be washed thoroughly with soap and water. Then the disinfectant may be applied. After that, the wound may be covered with sterile gauze and the gauze suitably fastened to the wound. Sometimes it is best to use adhesive tape. One must be careful, however, in putting a bandage of adhesive tape around a limb. Make certain that the circulation is not greatly cut off as to increase the pain and prevent healing.

No one should attempt to sew a wound unless he has had medical training. If pus or infectious material appears, it should have prompt medical attention.

Some types of wounds represent unusual emergencies. When a small splinter of wood or metal gets into the skin, it is best removed by use of a needle which has been sterilized by being passed through a flame. Large splinters may be removed with a knife blade sterilized in a flame, or with forceps or tweezers, similarly sterilized, if they are readily available.

When a person is on a camping trip, and a fishhook gets into the skin, it is not wise to attempt to pull out the hook.

To avoid tearing the tissue, it is best to push the point upward and forward and to let the end of the fishhook follow the point. The barbed end of the fishhook may then be cut off with a wire cutter, and the rest of the hook easily withdrawn.

Whenever there is a serious wound of the skin and tissue caused by sunprowder, nails, splinters, or substances which may be contaminated by manure, soil, or clothing, doctors are likely to suggest the immediate injection of some antitoxin against lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is a serious condition with a high rate of fatality. It is better to be safe and take the antitoxin if there seems to be any danger that the wound has been contaminated with lockjaw germs.

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Fast-moving Events in the Nation's Capital By an Expert Interpreter and Commentator. (Copyright, 1935, By Paul Mallon)

Washington, Jan. 31.—Mr. Wallace, leader of the new order in agriculture, radioed the impression to farmers a few days back that the lid was off on production. Even some of the most cautious observers observed it as reversal of policy.

His excited publicity staff got him on the telephone in Chicago and extracted a statement which sounded vaguely like a denial. Later he publicly attributed the confusion to a "limited comprehension" on the part of the press.

What the press is too dumb to understand is that Mr. Wallace is for production control in his soil-conservation-benefit payment program, but against it in his ever-normal granary plan, in his new seed loan law and in his resettlement and farm tenancy proposals. He is for it "for the most part," but against it "on the other hand."

It is quite simple, just like his stand on the producers and consumers. He favors high foodstuff prices for the producers and low foodstuff prices for the consumers, both at the same time, and even in the same speech.

Uncomprehending people may not be able to understand it, but the AAA-ers do and all politicians will.

Opportunism

The situation may not be as silly as it sounds offhand. The explanatory fact behind it is Mr. Wallace was caught short in his production control program this year by rising prices. He is likely to feel the pinch of even higher prices, later on, because food stocks are low, due to production control, drought, grasshoppers, dust and what-not during the last few years. He can probably already see the irate consumers coming toward him, and irate farmers as well, because growers will mourn that he did not let them raise more to sell.

So Mr. Wallace seems to have indulged in a nifty bit of opportunism. He is merely reversing his policy. He is merely changing the emphasis from limitation of production to building up reserves, and the building up of reserves is obviously a forerunner of further production control, after the reserves are established. He is not discarding anything, but adding to what he has.

In other words, Mr. Wallace does not want production control alone or ever-normal granary and crop insurance alone, or soil conservation alone—he wants everything. He wants the power and the machinery to control a rising market as well as a falling market. He is leading up to the absolute fixation of price and supply from year to year through government power. Of course, you cannot expect Mr. Wallace to come right out and say that because the obvious feature of it, to the uncomprehending, is that, when he gets his power, he will have more than anyone ever had, including Joseph and the ancient Chinese.

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO—
Feb. 4, 1922

Interest in the success of the Boy Scout movement in Twin Falls prompted the community service department of the Twentieth Century club Thursday to pledge itself to the purchase of a moving picture machine for the scouts, coupled with the request to the school board to allow the free use of the high school auditorium to the scouts for such entertainments as they might wish to give.

The campaign for funds will be opened on Wednesday with a silver tea at the home of Mrs. Burton Morse to be followed by other events calculated to bring the desired results.

27 YEARS AGO—
Feb. 4, 1910

The many friends of Postmaster Greenhow will be pleased to learn of his re-appointment as postmaster of the Twin Falls office. The recommendation of Congressman Hamer as confirmed by the senate last Friday. Mr. Greenhow is one of the pioneers of the tract and well and favorably known by the businessmen of the city. His work of the past few years has increased greatly in the past two years and will continue to increase, but Mr. Greenhow expects to increase the efficiency of the service in the same ratio.

A laughter club has been formed in Prague, Czechoslovakia. It has weekly meetings and its members are pledged to tell or play one joke a day.

EDEN

Church services have been held very irregularly at all of the churches the past three weeks. Sunday school was held at the Presbyterian church last Sunday for the first time in three weeks, but there were no church services due to the illness of the pastor, C. A. Hawley, who is ill at the hospital.

The snow plow crews planned to complete plowing out all of the roads in this vicinity by Wednesday night, but with the continued snowing it is doubtful if they will be able to discontinue their work.

The school buses and mail routes have been passable for the most part the past week.

A short program has been planned to be given at the intermission at the Friday relief dance at the L. D. hall Friday evening. A one-act play will be presented by the high school students under direction of Miss Cacer. There will also be a few other numbers including violin selections, tap dancing and solos.

FOOD HANDLERS' 'EXAMS' UNIFIED

Program for Health Checkup Is Centralized Under County Unit

(Continued from Page One) where bakery goods are made or sold; all candy makers, and places where candy is made; and all barbers and cosmeticians.

The term eating place, as used in the act, includes all restaurants, cafes, lunch counters, lunch stands, hotel dining rooms, or any other places where meals or lunches are served to transient guests.

Any person, firm or corporation violating the act will be termed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Fight Disease

The purpose of the examinations is to rule out communicable diseases, with special reference to tuberculosis, typhoid and syphilis.

The regular fee of $1 will be charged for each individual examination, and money collected will go to the Twin Falls county general fund.

The sanitary inspections of the restaurants have been carried out by H. S. Post, county sanitary inspector, who checks food handlers' cards as a part of his general work.

More Effective

It is felt that the combination of the inspection of the premises and the examinations of the food handlers when done through a central organization, will more effectively serve the public.

Dr. Hawkins said today. This program is a most important public health problem and with the proper cooperation, the standards of food handling in this county should be the best that are available.

THREE ACTIONS FILED IN COURT

Property and notes given with mortgages formed the basis of three suits which had been filed in district court today.

C. S. McMartin, asking possession of residence property in Twin Falls and the rental value of $55 monthly, brought action against C. D. Thompson. He asks the rent from last Oct. 8. Frank L. Stephan and J. H. Blandford are his attorneys.

Suit for over $1,000 in notes given with property mortgage in Twin Falls Heights subdivision was begun by George L. Heck against Thomas Bishop and other defendants. Heck's attorneys are J. R. Bothwell and Harry Povey. Charles A. McLean sued R. D. Neyman for $725 in notes given with a cattle mortgage in June of 1934. McLean is trustee for the bankrupt Union Security corporation. His attorney is Fred J. Babcock. Base

Guns Were Law In Alaska Boom, Aged Man Says

The ways of life are strange indeed, and sometimes it takes an accident to reveal an adventurous past.

Such is the case with John Fogarty, long time resident of Twin Falls who was treated for cuts on his head and an injured hand, resulting from a fall down a flight of stairs.

Taken to Hospital

Police assisted the 74-year-old pioneer, now a resident at the county farm, to the hospital and several of the officers engaged in conversation with him.

He recalled vividly the events which transpired in Alaska when the now famous Klondike revealed its treasures of gold. He was one of the first of thousands lured to the wilderness when the gold strike electrified the nation and the world.

Saw Men Killed

In Alaska he saw at least 12 men killed over arguments ranging from disputes over food to gold and women.

At that time, he told officers, arguments were settled with guns and not in courts. He also told of how he came out of the desolate sections of Ten Mile creek with $40,000 in gold he had mined himself.

"It never did me much good," he commented. His experiences, gathered from extensive traveling most of his life, were related to police officers, one of whom said: "I guess we don't face any hardships nowadays."

21st Amendment As Hard to Manage As 18th, Treasury Sleuths Discover

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—Treasury sleuths discovered today that enforcing the 21st amendment is about as difficult as the 18th, not on account of bootleggers so much as because of trick state laws.

Their biggest worry now is Georgia, where wine is illegal unless it is made there, from Georgia grapes. That kind of all-Georgia wine is a food, according to law, and need pay no state tax, any other wine is contraband and the folks who bring it into Georgia are criminals.

The 21st amendment says any state can pass any kind of a liquor law it wants, so the government is faced with starting wholesale prosecution against those liquor dealers who have failed to meet Georgia's demand for wine with drinkables from other states.

Campaign Started

W. S. Alexander of the treasury's alcohol administration started the campaign against such lawbreakers, by ordering denial of a permit for the Georgia Wine Co., Atlanta, to do business. He charged that the company not only had dealt in Georgia wine, but also had committed the serious crime of selling some California port and sherry.

The big difficulty in Georgia seems to be that it drinks more wine than it can make. Georgia wineries produce only about 16 per cent of the wine consumed there.

Oklahoma's beer law also caused the treasury considerable trouble, but lawbreakers there promised to be good and never were hauled into court. Oklahoma permits sale only of 32 beer, but several dealers sold high-pressure beer for months, and even said so in their reports to federal authorities. The letter told them they'd better

Treasurer Heads Bonded Officials; Total Is $97,000

Headed by County Treasurer Cora E. Stevens with six varied bonds totalling $97,000, 42 county officials and deputies filed official bonds today with the county recorder.

Mrs. Stevens' total far outstripped the amounts specified under law for remaining county officers. The treasurer posted five bonds, adding up to $95,000 as tax collector and one other totalling $2,000 as public administrator.

Decree Asked for Return of Family

Request for authorization to return Clarence Wilmoth and family, former Twin Falls residents from Bakersfield, Calif. to Twin Falls, was received by the board of county commissioners today from Lewis Williams, commissioner of the Idaho department of public welfare.

Williams said the Wilmoths left Twin Falls last December. Status of the family as permanent residents of the city was being investigated this afternoon before any authorization for return is granted, officials said.

SLAYER REMOVED TO SAFER BASTILE

Killer of Missouri Doctor Is Taken to Kansas City to Avoid Lynching

"But I reckon you all can't help me much," he said, "unless you catch this 'nighthawk' feller. He could clear me. He did the killing, not me."

It was a different Kenyon than the one which federal agents and state troops questioned for 18 hours before he led them to the aged physician's body and allegedly admitted the kidnaping and murder before attempting to collect $5,000 ransom. Yesterday, the officers said, he was indifferent, cold, and showed in his answers until finally confronted with a piece of writing paper, indications on which corresponded with the last ransom note.

Ozark Feeling Flares

He was brought here soon after the body was found when feeling flared against him in the Ozark country. Threats of lynching were heard through Willow Springs, a hamlet of 1,400 population, and the hills nearby as word of the kidnaping and murder spread.

He was questioned here about the kidnap-murder of ten year old Charles Mattson in Tacoma, Washington and asked to explain how he had put more than 9,000 miles on the automobile he stole from a Holla, Mo., agency last November 24. He apparently knew little or nothing of the Washington kidnaping.

Kenyon slept peacefully last night in the big jail here, safe from the maddened hill folk. He was near exhaustion from the more than 24 hours without sleep in the hands of the federal and state officers.

He was held without bond pending trial on a first degree murder charge.

Meanwhile the bill people of south central Missouri prepared funeral services for Dr. Davis, beloved for his charity work and because he was said to have brought half the people of his locality into the world.

Kenyon described the "nighthawk" as being of about his own general stature and about five years older. The name came, he said from the man's nocturnal roving. He said he knew the "nighthawk" by another name and that the night rider forced him into the kidnaping case a week ago last night when they met in a West Plains restaurant.

SUITOR STAGES OWN 'SIT-DOWN'

Refuses to Leave Lobby of Girl's Apartment Until She Gives Answer

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 4 (UP)—Indomitable Harold Hulen, 30, sat chained to the radiator in the lobby of Florence Hurlbut's apartment house today, determined to continue his "sit down" strike until she promised to marry him.

Occasionally he warbled a love song in his trained tenor voice which carried down the hall to the petite Miss Hurlbut's apartment. And occasionally she came out to threaten him with a book or to stamp her foot.

Tender Look

But there was ever so slightly a tender look in her eyes as she contemplated the unperurbed Hulen, sitting there on the floor on an inflated rubber cushion deading out innumerable hands of solitaire and waiting patiently for her answer of yes or no.

"I'll sit here for a week," Hulen insisted, "and I hope she doesn't say no."

The implements of solitaire were out and Hulen was a bit downcast.

Tired Mayor

There are tired lines in his face, but the quizzical look which Mayor-Proctor Marshall Neville Miller, above, gives the two constantly jangling telephones on his desk at Louisville, seems to indicate he is bearing up well enough. On his shoulders fell the burden of caring for 230,000 homeless in Flooded Louisville, which was three-fourths under water, threatened by a water shortage, fire and epidemic and damaged to the extent of at least $25,000,000.

Invitations Sent For Annual Gooding Basketball Tourney

36 TEAMS GIVEN BIDS TO ENTER

Quints From Out of State To Take Part in This Year's Meet

GOODING, Feb. 4 (Special)—Invitations to compete in the 12th annual Gooding college outlay basketball tournament to be held at Gooding college Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, February 18, 19, and 20 have been sent out, announces Coach Clem Parberry of Gooding college who is in charge of the tournament this year.

Besides the 16 teams who entered the tournament last year, invitations have been sent to about 10 other teams. Three of these latter quintets are out-of-state teams. They are the Oregon City Eagles, the Portland Mantle club, and the basketballers of U. S. army stationed at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Information Asked

Probability that the two Oregon clubs will enter is strong, Parberry thinks. A letter asking further information has already been received from Port Douglas. Several local teams have sent in applications since the invitations were mailed.

Some of the other quintets that were not here last year and have been invited are: the Mountain Home Rams, Blackfoot V-8 five, Pocatello, and a Boise team.

Teams in the tournament last year were: Twin Falls Independent Seed Co., Rupert Boosters, Oakley, Gooding Legion, Shoshone, Bliss, American Falls, Dietrich, Gooding College, McCall, King Hill, Burley Elks, Wendell, Jerome Moose, Glenns Ferry, and Gooding "O" club.

Damsters Won Cup

American Falls Damsters took the big silver cup last year for "keeps," having won the cup twice and so acquiring permanent possession. The Damsters also acquired permanent possession of the first cup offered in the tournament in 1932, having won the tourney three times in accordance with the then existing rule for acquiring the trophy permanently.

The first outlay meet was held in 1926 and the first cup was won by the Boise-Payette Co. Five of American Falls in 1927 and 1928, by the Jerome Sports Shop team in 1929, by the Boise Electricians in 1930 and 1931, and by American Falls in 1932. This last victory made the first cup the permanent property of American Falls.

American Falls won the tournament in 1933, Twin Falls in 1934, Rupert Boosters in 1935, and American Falls in 1936.

Third Trophy

This year a third trophy has been bought by the college. If the same team wins this cup twice, it will be the property of that team. Other prizes are gold medals for the 10 men on the winning team and silver medals for the 10 men on the team placing second.

Games will be played in the morning, afternoon, and evening of the three days. Number of games in the tournament averages about 40. The tournament is open to any team, either college or town team. A quint must lose two games before it is out of the tournament, except that the winner of the last scheduled game is the winner of the meet.

BUDGE AND GRANT MAY MEET AGAIN

Stars Advance to Semi-Finals In Florida Surf Club Tournament

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4 (UP)—Doubles competition held the spotlight in the second annual Surf club tennis tournament today. Singles play, after advancing to the semi-finals, will resume tomorrow.

Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., and Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta, headed toward a renewal of their winter circuit rivalry as they moved into the round of four in the singles.

Budge Meets Hendrix

Budge, who defeated Walter Benator, a fellow Californian, 8-6, 6-4, yesterday, meets Art Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., in tomorrow's semi-finals. Hendrix beat Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Chicago, 6-1, 6-3.

Grant's semi-final opponent is Charley Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla. Grant beat Elwood Cooke of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1, and Harris downed Wayne Sablin of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-2.

There were two rounds of doubles play today, advancing it to the semi-finals.

GOODING LEGION TRIMS MT. HOME

GOODING, Feb. 4 (Special)—The Mountain Home Rams were unable to stand up under a barrage of baskets laid out by the Gooding Legion quintet in a game played here last night, and Gooding walked away with the long end of a 25 to 20 score.

Gooding maintained a narrow lead throughout and at half time was out in front 18 to 11.

Judevino was high for the Legion, gathering nine points, and Keller scored eight. Billings was high for Mountain Home with six counters.

Private Army, Racing Stables and Boxers Managed by Screen Stars

By JACK GUENTHER

(Pinch Hitting for Henry McLemore)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3 (UP)—The movie colony—which always is first in line for a new fad—is cutting itself some slices from the sport world.

Ankle down Wilshire boulevard around the studio lots or in the Brown Derby, and you hear them talking about the movies, income taxes or the latest divorce. But about racing and boxing. And it is not the competition thereof, but the latest development of the actors' own stables or leather-pushers.

New Disease

A survey of actor-owned athletic investments convinces sport observers that the race to possess and own a parcel, or even a part, of a fighter or filly, has become the newest of Hollywood diseases.

The seasoned veterans like Joe E. Brown and Al Jolson, are not newcomers to this role. Jolson, for example, recently moved into the boxing industry, purchasing himself half of California's Negro world featherweight champion, Henry Armstrong. Jolson, who is also something of a horse follower, paid out $10,000 for the privilege of being "half a manager" of Henry.

The large-mouthed Mr. Brown has had parts—quarters, halves and even whole sections of baseball teams throughout the country, most of them in twilight leagues.

Look Like Pikers

Compared with the newcomers these two veteran look like pikers.

Ding Crosby, who had most of his athletic training in a glee club at Stadium high school in Tacoma, Wash., has developed into the film colony's number one athletic promoter. Crosby owns, in whole or in portions, a race track, a golf course, a stable of 25 horses, a girls' basketball team and a slice of Freddie Steel, the middleweight champion. This week Bing added to the string by buying a golf tournament—$3,000 worth. (He became the owner by putting up the $3,000 as prize money.)

Bing's horses do not run very fast, a feature about them which does not annoy him in the least. He bets on them faithfully. But unfortunately, the crooner lapsed last week and it cost him plenty. One of his goats named "Flight On," making a maiden effort, romped home at Santa Anita to the tune of $168.60 for two. And Mr. Crosby didn't have a penny riding.

Stanwyck Owns Horse

The female portion of the colony is represented by Barbara Stanwyck who not only owns a horse but a whole horse-farm as well. She runs it with Mrs. Zeppo Marx who, as full-time partner, foats half the bills.

Spencer Tracy is in the class of non-competing sportsmen with April Lass, a two-year-old filly. Others who own horses are Director Dave Butler and Producer William Le Baron.

Slick-haired Gorgie Ruff, who used to be a mild sort of fighter before he got paid for swinging his dukes for the celluloids, has a portion of Pete De Grass, a Mohawk Indian from Buffalo, Mae West, who rests her ample bosom on the lower ringside ropes at the Hollywood Legion stadium each Friday, more or less owns Speedy Dado, a washed-up Philippine fighter who now chauffeurs Mae around town.

Private Army

Victor McLaglen, professional hard man who once met some of the better fighters on even terms, has built himself a baseball park and recruited a private army. To illustrate just how far the promotional disease has gone, Vic was seen trying to scare up an air corps.

The Marx Brothers own a fighter named Canva-back Cohen. Between takes on the set they gesticulate wildly over Canva-back's merits.

In his first appearance it was all set for him to get crowned. The brothers three had a giant dressed up as an undertaker and a coffin ready under the ring to escort the Canva-back out in fine style. But Cohen double-crossed them and won.

GROUPS SPONSOR DOG RACE TEAMS

Chambers of Commerce in State Back Drivers At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Feb. 4 (UP)—Eight of the fastest dog teams and most experienced drivers of the west will enter the first annual dog team race at Sun Valley Lodge Sunday, Feb. 14, under the direction of the American Dog Derby association.

The teams entering the twelve and one-half mile race over two and one-half mile courses, are sponsored by six chambers of commerce of Utah, Idaho and Montana, Wesley Ruggles, motion picture producer, and the Sun Valley Ski club. Entries were made by the chambers of commerce of Salt Lake City, Butte, and Ashton, Pocatello, Boise, and St. Anthony, Idaho.

Decided by Lot

Teams and drivers assigned to sponsorships by the various chambers, as decided by lot today follow:

Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce, Irish setters driven by J. R. Williamson; Butte Chamber of Commerce, Police dogs and Irish setters driven by Bob Van Sickle; Boise Chamber of Commerce, Irish setters driven by Ray Peterson; Pocatello Chamber of Commerce, Llewellyn setters driven by Harry Whitehead; St. Anthony Chamber of Commerce, Irish setters driven by Lloyd Van Sickle; Ashton Chamber of Commerce, Irish setters driven by Volney Baum; and Sun Valley Ski club, Irish and Llewellyn setters driven by Don Cordingly.

Art Woods, lead-off for the Laundry boys, got a sum total of exactly nothing. He had plenty of trouble.

"The big nose, 'Sprouts,' didn't get hardly enough to make a racket about.

Louie Pugliano took the high honors for both teams, 208 for high single and 578 for the high total. Only one split for Louie, something unusual as Louie has had many splits lately.

Brother Al had trouble trying to pick up those spurs, it couldn't be done one double for Al.

Bill Ford tried his hand at anchor, and gave a good account of himself. Three fairly good games.

In the City League, the Chevrolet won two out of three from Buhler's Ladies.

Johnnie Robertson took all high honors, his 173 standing up for high single and 461 was good for high total. John got doubles in both his first and second games. Did he show them how?

Glen Jenkins got a double his first game. From then on he, Edwards, Miller and Nelson went just so so.

For the ladies, Mrs. Buhler got the high single game of 164, her second game.

Ruth Rogers got the high total of 410. "Some total," said Ruth disgustedly.

Lola Vazquez got the only double made by the ladies.

"Must be the weather," said Mrs. Kircher.

BURLEY SECONDS REPULSE ALBION

BURLEY, Feb. 4 (Special)—The invading Albion high school quintet dropped a 25 to 15 decision to the Burley reserves in a game staged here last night.

With scoring slow in the first half, Albion held a slim 7 to 6 lead at the start of the third quarter. In the second half, however, Burley found the basket with greater ease and were never headed from there on. Sprague of Burley was high scorer with eight points while Ed Albion.

In a second game between DeLo and Burley freshmen, DeLo proved to be stronger competition than the Albion school, and they nosed out Burley by a 24 to 22 score.

C. A. A. champion; Al Threadgill, Temple, 1936 Millrose winner, and Bill Eppel and George Verrill of the N. Y. A. C.

Against Olympic Champion Pole Vaulter Earle Meadows of Southern California will be George Caroff, University of Oregon record holder, and last year's co-winners of the Millrose leap, Oscar Stuetemeyer, formerly of Harvard, and Eldon Stutzman, formerly of Syracuse.

GET UP NIGHTS DUE TO BLADDER IRRITATION?

It's not normal. It's nature's "Danger Signal." Make this 25c test. Use Buchu leaves, juniper oil, and other drugs, made into little green tablets called Bukets. The cleaners are cleaned—the Dell team took National Laundry for all three games.

Rolly Jones set the pace for Dell's with 568 for his total. Rolly's best game was his first with 204. He got a turkey that game and one double his second.

Cap Bringer just reversed it; a double his first, turkey his second. Cap ran into six splits.

Not many splits for Bill McDonald, but boy, the errors—eight of them. Bill did manage to get a double his second game.

N. O. Johnson anchored the winners. He didn't do so bad: one error, three splits, one double for a total of 538. Not so worse, Illram.

Some of the opposition couldn't beat Dell's dummy.

Art Woods, lead-off for the Laundry boys, got a sum total of exactly nothing. He had plenty of trouble.

EDEN YOUTH ON 'U' SWIM TEAM

MOSCOW, Feb. 4 (Special)—A continuous tidal wave has been sweeping the pool located in the Memorial gymnasium, for the past two weeks as the Idaho swimmers try for spots on the Vandal swimming team. Reporting under Coach Bob Tessier for swimming are 12 men, five of whom won letters at the sport last year.

The men are training for a series of meets to be held with schools of the northwest during February and March. The Vandals put a strong team in the tank last season, but the prospects for 1937 are dim with only two freshmen reporting from last year's squad and the lettermen trying for three of the seven events.

Irving McDonald, Eden, is a letterman, and Tessier's only hope for the 50-yard swim.

PAUL SURPRISES BOOSTERS AGAIN

PAUL, Feb. 4 (Special)—Surprising the Rupert Boosters for the second time this year, Paul's independent basketball squad pummeled plenty of scoring power and an unexpectedly strong defense to down the powerful Rupert five, 35 to 31 in a game that went into an overtime period here last night.

Both outfits alternated in the lead through the tight fracas, with the regulation time concluding in a 30 to 30 deadlock.

Powerful USB Quintet Plays Here Tomorrow

The second college basketball of the year to show in Twin Falls will land here tomorrow night when the Bengals of the University of Idaho, southern branch, arrive in town to take on the Orange Transportation quint in a return contest. The Bengals already hold a victory over the local quint, scored last week in a hard-fought battle at the Pocatello court.

One of the regulars of the quint coached by Guy Wicks will be Bill Schiffman, one of last year's Twin Falls high school aces who will be playing against two of his old teammates—Ray Turner, twice all-state center, and Elmer Laubenheim, a regular guard from the quint that was generally conceded to be the best in the state last season—but which was upset in the state tournament.

The Orange squad has been holding regular work-outs the past two weeks between games, and topped off with a sensational scoring performance against the powerful Gooding Legionnaires here on Monday night, scoring 53 points.

The USB quint has just completed a run of 13 consecutive victories and will come to Twin Falls at full strength, according to Coach Wicks.

Ten per cent of the gross income from the game will go to the local Red Cross flood relief fund, according to Luther Bice, manager of the local quint.

BAER MAY FIGHT IN LONDON BOUT

English Promoters Offer to Post $10,000 For European Go

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 4 (UP)—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, probably will return to the fight game with a bout either in New York or London. It was announced today by his manager, Ancil Hoffman.

Hoffman said that London promoters had offered to deposit $10,000 to secure Baer for a bout between Baer and either Jack Peterson or Benny Flood in London.

Seek Pastor Bout

At the same time, he said, Madison Square Garden officials were attempting to arrange a match between Baer and Bob Pastor in New York in March.

He quoted New York promoters as telling him "not to worry" about reports that Arthur Donovan, referee, and General James Phelan, of the New York Boxing commission would oppose any Baer bout in New York on charges that Baer "quit" in the fight with Joe Louis.

WPA BOOST PUTS 75 MORE ON JOB

Further Quota Increase May Be Forthcoming Under New Plans

Increase in the WPA quota has placed 75 more men on the job rolls in Twin Falls county within the past few days, two-thirds of them in the city, Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston said this afternoon.

Probable further increase in Idaho's total quota looms, the mayor asserted he has been informed by J. L. Hood, state WPA administrator. The boost, according to Hood, will be based on an exchange with the L. C. R. A. state relief set-up, by which WPA will employ one resident worker for each emergency transient case handled by the state organization. Funds for the added quota were secured by Sen. James P. Pope. State money for the transient assistance has been designated by Gov. Barzilla W. Clark.

Airport Held Up

Taking on of additional men does not affect the pending Twin Falls WPA airport project, the mayor said, because the work now awaits a decision by the U. S. department of commerce as to whether the $84,000 fund allocated by D.P.A. is adequate for the type of airport needed. The department claims the WPA and Idaho aeronautic engineers miscalculated needs of the field, and believed $170,000 will be needed as the complete cost including the city's approximate share of $25,000 in equipment and materials.

Mayor Johnston indicated the increase may be forthcoming later after work financed by the initial grant gets underway.

WHAT PRIVILEGES THESE SENATORS HAVE?

Competition for congressional jobs probably would increase if senatorial prerogatives regularly included kissing glamorous Jean Harlow. Technique for this duty is illustrated by the gentleman from North Carolina Senator Robert Reynolds, to welcome Miss Harlow to Washington. As he leads, with his chin upper left) Miss Harlow's veil interferences with his best efforts. By unanimous vote this is swept aside. Ah, success at last! Miss Harlow gets soundly kissed and without the handicap of a censor's stop-watch. Danger of a filibuster from Robert Taylor (below), who accompanied Miss Harlow to the capital, failed to develop. He smilingly yields to the opposition.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Mrs. Smith on her way to the grocery's hears the fire siren. The big trucks roar past, but not before her heart has missed several beats. Thank goodness they have passed her corner.

But during the short interval of uncertainty, a dozen things have had time to crystallize on the sensitive plate of memory.

Baby is asleep on the second floor. Hilda is ironing in the laundry with all the doors closed. Little demands of conscience continue to torment her, long after the first panic has passed.

She hurries on her errand, remembering that as soon as she gets home several things are going to be attended to at once. Right away before another day passes.

Menace in the Attic
One is the loose brick in the attic chimney. A year ago, the men who repaired the roof told her husband that the mortar in the two old chimneys had fallen away, and that there were places where the fire went through the attic you could put a finger in. "Some day a spark from the furnace is going to work through. And it may be when you're away or asleep."

John had said every day since that he simply must get the chimney fixed and it wasn't done yet.

Then there was always doubt about the hearth in the living room, where she and John had decided that logs would look more homey than the stove arrangement already there when they bought the place and moved in.

A hearth has to be well constructed and reinforced, if fire is to burn on it. Fire lifted above flooring in baskets or stoves, is a little different problem from fire burning right on a flimsy built hearth. Before risking it, Mrs. Smith and John both knew that experts should have been consulted. Every day John had said, "I really must send Peterson over to see if there is any wood under those tiles."

But Peterson hadn't heard about it yet.

The Loose Gas Connection
In the laundry, there had been no gas connection for the hotplate used for the clothes boiler. John had tapped a pipe overhead, and put on a rubber hose connection. Mrs. Smith had warned the new Hilda about it over and over, but half the time it wasn't turned on at the ceiling bit that hose ever slipped.

Well, Mrs. Smith would stop at the plumber's right now and leave word. And not only that, but the water heater had taken notions recently, and blown out for no reason at all.

At the store she called Hilda. But

Death Comes To Former Resident

Some areas of the cattle pasture for years do not get enough rainfall to measure, while other sections get several hundred inches annually.

RABBIT POISONS ENDANGER STOCK

U. S. Workers Warn Cassia Men to Abandon Open Placement

BURLEY, Feb. 4 (Special)—Poison, scattered on the public domain by private individuals to exterminate jackrabbits, is endangering the life of valuable livestock in the county, and a warning has been issued by federal workers who are exterminating the jackrabbits, that those caught scattering the rabbit poison will be prosecuted under the law.

The federal workers, in cooperation with the reclamation bureau, have been working from the CCC camps. They have placed their poison in pens where it is easily accessible to the rabbits but safe from the grazing stock.

Private individuals lured by the payment offered for dead rabbits, have started placing the poison in the open and several poison cases have already been reported.

Although the federal men have no jurisdiction over privately owned land, they said, they can prosecute those who place poison on the public domain and they intend to watch carefully and report all violators.

Mr. Farmer!

SUGAR BEET CONTRACTS for 1937 will soon be out and will offer the grower the highest prices for sugar beets in seven years.

Are You Planning on Them for Your Farm This Year?

Every farmer should have a acreage of SUGAR BEETS in his crop rotation system.

WHY SUGAR BEETS—

- To provide a cash crop, the return from which is not a gamble. Resistant beet seed has eliminated the danger of White Fly damage.
- To obtain the highest net return per acre from a crop is an important consideration.
- To provide a crop which will make for increased yields of all crops that follow.
- To obtain a crop where big yields and increased acreage does not lower the price.

IN ADDITION—Conservation and other benefits that now appear likely from sugar legislation will insure the grower of a net return per acre, as high or higher, than any other major crop he can grow.

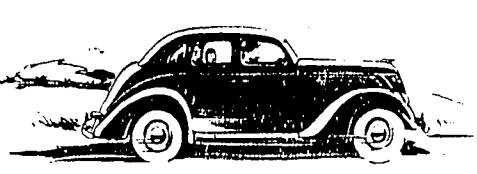

THE AMALGAMATED SUGAR CO.

Yet new beauty is only one of the far-reaching improvements in these finest cars in Ford history—as the partial list of others, below reveals. YOUR FORD DEALER

FRENCH CONVICTS FACE HARD RULE

Devil's Island Colony to Be Abandoned But Discipline Will Be Stern

By PETER RHODES

PARIS (AP)—When France abolishes forever the world's last transportation colony of Devil's Island, as it is expected to do in the spring parliamentary session, it will be faced with many problems concerning the criminals. But the main problem will be an industrial one.

With the passage of the new law France will have 6000 hardened life prisoners on its hands. They will have to be housed, clothed, fed, guarded and kept busy. The reform will cost a large sum in the first years, as suits must be sought and prisons built, but in the end the cost of keeping the prisoners will be less than half of the Devil's Island regime.

Prisoners in the Devil's Island colony were a full waste, for they produced nothing and cost the state about 45 cents a day, all expenses included. In France they will cost only from 20 to 25 cents, for they will be put to work and thus partly repay their cost. It is estimated that $150,000 will be saved each year in the cost of keeping these hardened criminals.

The new law, which comes before parliament at its next session, calls for a complete change in regime for the lifers formerly sent to French Guiana. They will be kept in French colonies of between two and three hundreds scattered throughout the country.

The regime they undergo will not be too pleasant. For the first period, whose maximum is three years, they will be kept in solitary confinement without seeing or speaking to anyone from the outside.

The next five, ten or fifteen years will be spent at hard labor in prison shops where absolute silence will be maintained. Finally, if the prisoner shows signs of improvement, he gradually will be trained for release and reabsorption in civil life.

Already government headquarters has begun to receive messages from some departments of the country refusing to permit any prison to be constructed there, lest the good name of the community be lost.

On the other hand, several districts where such prisoners have existed in the past, particularly Saint-Martin-de-Ree, where criminals were kept before being embarked for Devil's Island, have pleaded that prisons be kept going there or local industry will collapse.

The biggest problem is finding remunerative work for the convicts. The Popular Front government has decided that in the future no prisoners are to be allowed to sell their products because of competition with workers and producers. The state, particularly the army, will be the buyers whom the lifers will work in future. Already the state believes it will save much money while it is making honest men out of criminal castes.

LOTTERY CAUSES NEVADA DEBATES

Two Legislators Outline Project to Reduce Property Tax

RENO, Nev., Feb. 4.—Plans to liberalize Nevada's already wide-open gambling laws by introduction of a $1,000,000 a month state-operated lottery have stirred up a tempest.

Announcement of the plan by two Nevada legislators created wide protest, particularly from ministers of the W. C. T. U. and civic organizations.

The state legislature, which convened Jan. 18, faced a possible showdown on a lottery now the only form of what gambling is the state.

With 90 per cent of the proposed $1,000,000 monthly gross coming from outside Nevada, revenue from the lottery would be used to reduce property taxes and support some state institutions including the university and public schools, under the plans of State Senator W. A. Marsh and Assemblyman Pat Cline.

Minister Leads Attack

One of the most vigorous attacks against the Cline-Marsh plan came from Rev. Brewster Adams, Reno Baptist church leader.

"Of course I am opposed to a state lottery," the minister said.

"While this state is liberal, there is a limit to liberality and nothing destroys tolerance as much as abuse, which this proposal certainly is. If an initiative or referendum petition is circulated for a lottery, it is certain a petition will also be circulated against all forms of gambling. That is inevitable."

Other adverse comments, including some by other members of the legislature, followed the same trend.

Some time ago, it was recalled, a movement by the Reno Church association against all forms of gambling failed.

"We are living in a liberal state where we do not presume to be our brother's keeper, and that is as it should be. We believe that if anyone wants to gamble a dollar on a lottery ticket and stand a chance of winning from $15,000 down to $1,000 he should be able to buy that ticket from the state of Nevada."

On Monthly Basis

A picture of lottery ticket holders flocking to Nevada each month for the $1,000,000 drawing was offered by the sponsors. The last Saturday of each month was suggested as a date for the drawing, with the first in Reno, the next in Las Vegas and following ones in other towns.

Administrators of the state lottery would be a three-man commission to assure fairness of all operations. Unfair, illegal lotteries now said to be operating under cover, such as "keno" and the Chinese "horse race game" were points offered to favor the state-controlled system.

Funds from the proposed monthly sale of 1,000,000 tickets at $1 each would be divided: $450,000 in 48 prizes ranging from a grand prize of $150,000 down to 25 awards of $1,000 each; $300,000 for expenses; and $250,000 to various state agencies with $125,000 allotted to reduction of property taxes.

Passages of the Carlsbad Caverns, N. M., have not yet been thoroughly explored and new ones discovered every year.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

The name "albino" comes from the Latin, Albus, meaning white, but not all white animals are albinos. In a true albino, pigment, which normally develops in the tissues, is lacking. Not only is it lacking in the skin, but in the deeper tissues as well. Pink eyes in albinos are the result of red blood vessels showing through.

BREAK IN WATER PIPELINE MENDED

Worry Over Law Suits and Possible Stop in Flow Temporarily Ended

Worry over a serious break in the water supply pipe from the low-line canal to the filter plant was temporarily eased today after water department workers repaired the chief leak, Supt. J. N. Molyneux said.

Halt of the major break averted threats of lawsuits by C. H. Hempleman, rancher, and the Twin Falls highway district. The unfilled water had menaced Mr. Hempleman's domestic well and had flooded the adjoining highway.

Two other leaks, discovered when the pipeline was laid bare by city workers yesterday, will probably be more difficult to repair but "are not bad enough now to force mending at a time when shutting off of water might mean freezing of residence pipes in the city," Molyneux said.

Repair of the one major break was accomplished without water shut-off although the workers were badly drenched.

The leak resulted when staves slipped off-connecting joints. The staves were banded on again and the line was again covered.

Mayor Duncan McJ. Johnston said he was dubious as to how long the 20-year-old piping will remain in working order.
