Roosevelt Firm In Position on Court's Reform

Executive Will Not Take Compromise On Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (UP)—President Roosevelt will accept no congressional compromise in his fight for reorganization of the U. S. supreme court and the federal judiciary system, sources close to him said today.

This statement came in the face of the impression received by senators who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt on the question that the chief executive was open-minded on possible compromises.

Chairman Hutton W. Summers of the house judiciary committee called off further consideration of Mr. Roosevelt's program by his committee until the White House attitude could be clarified further.

The White House sources said there is "no talk of compromise" at the White House, where Mr. Roosevelt is directing strategy to gain enactment of his plan to liberalize the country's highest tribunal.

Experts Had Fight The President was represented as fully realizing his program will cause a hard fight.

Emphasizing the President's determination to resist any change in his program, it was said specifically Mr. Roosevelt did not favor the personal suggestion of his senate majority leader, Joseph T. Robinson, that the retirement age for supreme court justices be set at 75 years instead of 70 as provided in the draft of the President's plan.

The myeloiding White House attitude was revealed in the face of spitting and spreading revolt in both house and senate against the supreme court phase of his plan. Leaders insisted however that a margin large enough to insure passage remained.

Amendments Not Considered The White House sources said Mr. Roosevelt is not considering any plan involving a constitutional amendment as a means of giving the administration power to reach its labor, industrial and agricultural legislative goals.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented as believing an attempt to have the constitution amended would delay the enactment of liberal economic-social laws until the present generation of children became aged.

The informed sources cited the campaign of many years—still without success—to procure a child labor amendment to the constitution.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented as feeling any attempt to amend the constitution for adoption of N.R.A. (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

LOYALIST TROOPS RECAPTURE PARK

Spanish Government Forces Take Vital Travel Artery Near Capital City

By IRVING PFLAUM MADRID, Feb. 11 (UP)—Government troops recaptured complete control of the West park area today after furious fighting on the outskirts of the University city, loyalist headquarters reported.

Loyalist artillery was pushed into positions where it dominated the most important road through West park, leading to the Fondation del Amor, foreign students quarters, on the fringe of University city.

Alcala de Henares, 18 miles east of here, dug itself from the wreckage of a nationalist air raid today, and prepared for more attacks as insurgents re-doubled their efforts to disrupt Madrid's communications with the east coast.

HUGE ESPIONAGE PAYMENTS MADE TO PINKERTONS

Report to Civil Liberties Committee Shows GM C Gave $419,850

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (UP)—General Motors corporation paid the Pinkerton Detective Agency $419,850 from Jan. 1, 1934, to June 30, 1936, for espionage work the La Follette civil liberties committee was told today.

In addition to the $419,850 direct payment, Robert Wohlforth, chief committee investigator, testified an additional $365,000 was paid to the agency through General Motors subsidiaries and other accounts.

The total from all General Motors sources, Wohlforth testified, appeared to be nearly $800,000. However, he emphasized committee belief that the whole picture of General Motors-Pinkerton payments was not revealed by these figures.

Wohlforth testified that search of Pinkerton files showed payments to Pinkerton of:

$121,480 from the Fisher Body Co., General Motors subsidiary.

$124,750 from the General Motors executive office.

$119,545 from the Chevrolet division of General Motors.

SUMNERS STOPS JUDICIARY MEET

House Committee Chairman Says "Visibility Poor" For Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (UP)—Chairman Hutton W. Summers cancelled a meeting of his house judiciary committee which was scheduled to consider President Roosevelt's judicial program today with a cryptic comment that "the visibility is not very good."

Although Summers was reticent about postponement of the meeting, it was thought that the chairman sought further clarification of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude on the program before continuing committee discussions.

The action emphasized general confusion prevailing as to the exact views of Mr. Roosevelt as well as the attitude of Summers and various congressional leaders.

Summers, openly cool to the President's plan, indicated he intended to confer further with Mr. Roosevelt before taking any more action.

Cancellation of today's committee meeting will delay further consideration of the President's program until next Tuesday unless a special meeting is called.

"By then we should know something," Summers declared. The action today was the second sudden shift in plans on the part of Summers. He had planned yesterday to call for house action his bill to expedite appeal of cases involving constitutional questions. He abandoned the idea as the house was about to consider the matter and announced as his reason that the President "wants to look the bill over further."

Work on Judiciary Reform

SEARCHERS DRAG BAY FOR VICTIMS OF PLANE CRASH

Seven Bodies Still Missing From Wrecked Craft of United Airlines

INVESTIGATION STARTED

CONFLICTING REPORTS TANGLE Probe for Cause of Coast Tragedy

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11 (UP)—Gripping hooks dragged the bottom of San Francisco bay today for the bodies of seven passengers still missing from the crash of a United Airlines luxury liner while authorities intensified efforts to determine the cause of the plunge which carried 11 persons to death.

A United Airlines plane, cruising over San Francisco bay, sighted what appeared to be a body floating near Oakland airport, several miles from the scene of the crash.

Believing the body might be one of the seven missing in the crash, the plane crew advised naval headquarters which arranged to send an amphibian plane to the spot.

Investigators concentrated on two angles for explanation of the fifth west coast airline tragedy within two months.

First, was the wreck itself. It will be examined minutely to determine whether a mechanical failure caused the plane to dive in the bay.

Second, is the log kept by the chief radio operator at the airport. Experienced fliers believed that Pilot A. R. (Tommy) Thompson, veteran of 10,000 flying hours, either overshoot the landing field at the end of his flight from Los Angeles Tuesday night and in attempting to lose altitude too rapidly caused one of the motors to be ripped from the plane, or misjudged his altitude and struck the water.

CONFLICTING REPORTS Many conflicting reports and theories tangled the investigation. Most persistent of the reports was that an explosion sent the new 21-passenger Douglas plane hurtling into the bay.

Recognition Given CIO For Bargaining Agency

DETROIT, Feb. 11 (UP)—Seven men scratched their names across a three page document today and formally ended the General Motors strike on its 44th day.

Tired Negotiator

John L. Lewis, union chief at whose bedside the final verbal concessions were made, was too ill with influenza to attend the ceremony which capped his 10 days of negotiation with General Motors executives.

Strike BULLETINS

Expression indicating the strain of long hours of debate, Gov. Frank Murphy is shown after one of the many conferences in the GMC-strike controversy, which was settled today.

William S. Knudsen's signature was the first placed on the paper while floodlights glared and sound cameras ground. He is executive vice president of the corporation.

Text of the agreement ending the strike follows:

1. The corporation hereby recognizes the union as the collective bargaining agency for those employees of the corporation who are members of the union.

2. The corporation and the union agree to commence collective bargaining negotiations on Feb. 16 in regard to the issues specified in the letter of Jan. 4, 1937, from the union to the corporation for the purpose of entering into a collective bargaining agreement, or agreements, covering such issues looking to a final and complete settlement of all matters in dispute.

6. The union agrees that pending the negotiations referred to in paragraph 2, there shall be no strikes called or any other interruption (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

PENSION SYSTEM WINS NEW LIFE

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 11 (UP)—A state old-age revolving pension system today won its first skirmish in the Idaho legislature when the house voted to print the measure, reversing the recommendation of its reference committee.

The bill, said to have the support of Gov. Barzilla Clark, proposes to pay approximately $60 a month to Idaho oldsters. Funds would come from a one to two per cent gross income tax.

A similar measure, proposing to levy a transfer tax for payment of pensions was badly swamped in the house recently, favored by only nine members. Today's vote to save the substitute pension plan was 30 to 27.

BURLEY SCHOOLS CLOSED BY SNOW

Students to Return to Class On Monday, According to Present Plans

BURLEY, Feb. 11 (Special) — Because of snow-blocked roads, the Burley schools have been closed all this week. Classes will resume again Monday, according to the present plan, if the weather conditions will permit the school trucks to bring in the country students.

The Overland grade school was not closed because all pupils attending there live in the city and the attendance is not affected by the road conditions.

Attendance of country students in the Burley schools has been below normal since the first of the year, according to George E. Denman, superintendent, and quite irregular, but the attendance for the Burley pupils as a whole has been approximately 90 per cent of normal until Monday of this week, when it took a sharp decline that had much to do with closing the schools.

For those children whose attendance has been irregular, every effort will be put forth by the teachers to help them catch up with the other pupils.

It will be necessary that the days missed be made up in order that the educational standards of the system will not be impaired. This will be done either by holding school on Saturdays or during additional days in the spring.

NO COMPROMISE IN COURT FIGHT

White House Report Says Executive Firm in Reform Stand

type and AAA legislation would be even more difficult.

It was pointed out in official circles that many state legislators would oppose ratification of the President's plan to reorganize the judiciary.

Example Cited

The Texas legislature, which overwhelmingly disapproved the administration's plan, was cited as an example.

All but three members of the Texas senate are lawyers, associated with bar association and many of them entitled to practice before the U. S. supreme court. It was said. Many attorneys in state legislatures, the administration was said to feel, would oppose ratification of Mr. Roosevelt's program. In the face of this indication of White House attitude, Mr. Roosevelt called in an additional group of senators to discuss the program.

This continued the series of conferences he launched yesterday which were confined at that time largely to senate judiciary committee members who have not committed themselves strongly against his plan.

Conferences Renewed

The renewed conferences appeared to indicate Mr. Roosevelt was placing himself personally in the forefront of the admittedly stiff campaign to obtain congressional approval for his program.

Scheduled to meet the White House today were:

- Sens. William H. Dieterich, D. Ill., Key Pittman, D. Nev., Robert F. Wagner, D. N. Y., William Gibbs McAdoo, D. Calif., and George W. Norris, I. Neb.

The continued procession of senators to the White House was also taken by observers as an added sign that the chief fight over the judicial program is expected in the senate where a compact group of opponents has been seeking to organize an anti-court reorganization campaign along the lines of that by which the senate defeated the late President Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations plan.

White House officials revealed a "good many" telegrams and messages regarding the judiciary program have been received.

The communications, they said, were "running about two to one" in favor of the plan.

of the airport, who advised Thompson to use a north-south runway only to have the pilot ask for the east-west lane, said positively: "There was no explosion other than that when the plane hit."

Officials likewise gave little credence to a report that Thompson shouted irritably through his short-wave radio set just before the crash, "where's those landing lights," although the lights were blazing. That report brought speculation that the pilot may suddenly have gone blind and in the seconds preceding the crash fought with Co-pilot Joe De Cesaro for control of the ship.

Fourth Body Found

The fourth body, that of Mark Fontana, San Francisco food broker, was raised from the bay late yesterday hours after the wreckage had been brought to the surface by a derrick barge with the bodies of Thompson, De Cesaro and Steward Ruth Kimmel. Authorities said first examination indicated Fontana apparently was alive following the crash but drowned while attempting to swim to shore.

Still missing were the bodies of Remo Margaroni and J. Franklin Gilmore, both of San Francisco; John A. Greenan and his daughter, Gertrude, of Berkeley; Myron Lorge and H. D. Frelander, both of Los Angeles, and Roger Meyers of Ridge-wood, N. J.

A preliminary coroner's report said that the pilots and the steward apparently drowned although Thompson and De Cesaro bore severe head injuries.

One motor of the plane was missing and the right wing was torn from the fuselage. Grapplers failed to locate the motor. Nearly all windows were broken and the interior was in shambles.

Still missing were the bodies of Remo Margaroni and J. Franklin Gilmore, both of San Francisco; John A. Greenan and his daughter, Gertrude, of Berkeley; Myron Lorge and H. D. Frelander, both of Los Angeles, and Roger Meyers of Ridge-wood, N. J.

A preliminary coroner's report said that the pilots and the steward apparently drowned although Thompson and De Cesaro bore severe head injuries.

One motor of the plane was missing and the right wing was torn from the fuselage. Grapplers failed to locate the motor. Nearly all windows were broken and the interior was in shambles.

of the airport, who advised Thompson to use a north-south runway only to have the pilot ask for the east-west lane, said positively: "There was no explosion other than that when the plane hit."

Officials likewise gave little credence to a report that Thompson shouted irritably through his short-wave radio set just before the crash, "where's those landing lights," although the lights were blazing. That report brought speculation that the pilot may suddenly have gone blind and in the seconds preceding the crash fought with Co-pilot Joe De Cesaro for control of the ship.

Fourth Body Found

The fourth body, that of Mark Fontana, San Francisco food broker, was raised from the bay late yesterday hours after the wreckage had been brought to the surface by a derrick barge with the bodies of Thompson, De Cesaro and Steward Ruth Kimmel. Authorities said first examination indicated Fontana apparently was alive following the crash but drowned while attempting to swim to shore.

Still missing were the bodies of Remo Margaroni and J. Franklin Gilmore, both of San Francisco; John A. Greenan and his daughter, Gertrude, of Berkeley; Myron Lorge and H. D. Frelander, both of Los Angeles, and Roger Meyers of Ridge-wood, N. J.

Lady, taking off galoshes and turning red with embarrassment as she loses a shoe in the process. Junior high school girls, awaiting time for school bus, sitting cramped inside lockers, knitting. Automobiles with no chains on rear wheels but with one on each of the two front wheels. City scraper busily removing snow from streets. Three "suspicious" looking burly men, full of "something" in front of local theater. # SALE FIXED FOR ASSETS OF BANK

Receiver Sets Feb. 19th For Disposing of Remaining Fairfield Claims

A sale of remaining assets of the Security National bank at Fairfield, which failed March 4, 1932, will be held Friday, Feb. 19, at the courthouse in Fairfield, O. D. Thompson, bank receiver, announced here today.

Offered for sale, under Thompson's direction, will be bills receivable, promissory notes, judgment claims, and other claims not as yet disposed of.

As soon as the sale is approved by the comptroller of the currency of the United States, Thompson said, a distribution will be made to shareholders. After this distribution takes place the affairs of the bank will be closed.

Depositors of the bank have been paid off 100 per cent, Thompson points out, as well as receiving approximately 12 per cent interest.

Shareholders who have paid stock assessments on the bank, have had such funds returned to them, he said.

Club Montmartre Settlement Made

Final Disposition of Claims Entered With Court

Notice of final settlement of all claims in the damage action, brought by Earl and Grace O'Harrow against Pat Daly, Merrill Ayres and the Club Montmartre was filed today with Frank J. Smith, clerk of the district court, by attorneys in the case.

Judgment for $1 was returned twice by district court juries in two separate trials of the action.

The settlement provides payment of $1, and stipulates that the defendants may remove their personal belongings from the home formerly occupied by the Club Montmartre and owned by the plaintiffs. One-half of the carpets placed on the floors by the defendants is not to be removed.

A court restraining order had hitherto blocked the defendants in taking out their possessions.

Rayborn and Rayborn and J. W. Porter, now district court judge, were attorneys for Daly and Ayres. J. R. Bothwell and Harry Povey represented the plaintiffs.

What's Doing at SUN VALLEY

(By Evening Times Special Correspondent)

SKI COMPETITIONS APLENTY KEEP SUN VALLEYITES BUSY

SUN VALLEY LODGE, Feb. 11 (Special)—With the ski school of Hans Hauser in full swing here at Sun Valley, races and handicap competitions of various sorts are in order every Sunday on the smooth slopes of Dollar and Proctor mountains. Rank beginners and accomplished performers both find a joyful place in the sport: This week they saw a slalom race under most favorable conditions, with Mr. R. W. Lapham of Boston, David Shreiner of Brookline, Mass., and W. A. Harriman of New York City, taking first, second and third respectively in the first class men's race, and Spencer Neal of Gordonville, Va., leading in the men's second class, while Mrs. F. H. Brownell of Seattle, Doris Draper of New York and Mary Musser of Muscatine, Iowa, took leading honors in the women's first class, and Mrs. W. A. Harriman carried the crest in the feminine second class.

Among the prominent recent arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Studenaker III and Lillian and Mary Studenaker, here from South Bend, Ind., for a two weeks' frolic in the snow. Los Angeles came to the fore with a lovely representative in the person of Helen Meinardi, writer of the story, "I Met Him in Paris," said story now being filmed here in the valley by Paramount. Claudette Colbert, Robert Young, and Melvin Douglas, who are making the aforesaid movie, are by now old residents, and the last mentioned gentleman, Melvin Douglas, is by the way, gaining quite a reputation for rugged ski-joring hereabouts.

Artie Jacobsen, a very likeable lad who is here with Paramount as assistant to Wesley Ruggles the director, called down from his room the other night and asked for two bottles of White Rock, and when it came he eyed up the charge slip and started shrieking like a startled sparrow.

"Take it back," he gasped, "I won't pay two dollars and eight cents for two little bottles like that. I'll do without before I'll pay that much."

"Pardon me mister," warbled Wait the bell-hop, "the charge is 80 cents. That 280 on there is your room number."

"We haven't seen much of Artie the last couple of days."

At present everybody is anticipating the dog-derby to be held Sunday, a canine cadenza that is supplementary to the American derby at Ashton. Monday saw the arrival of a beautiful team of white Irish setters, owned by Don Cording of Ashton, to be sponsored by Sun Valley Lodge Cording, three-time former champion, will drive his own team. Two more days will see all the entries present and straining at the least. A doggy place we have here.

Students Shown Needing Glasses

Indicating that the number of state school children needing glasses is about as large as the total of those who already have them, figures compiled at Bicke, Lincoln and Washington schools by the county health unit had been announced today by Mrs. Sturgeon McCoy, member of the district school board.

The figures were submitted to Mrs. McCoy by Mrs. Vera C. O'Leary, junior high principal, from data gathered by the health unit. They show that at Bicke, 23 children wear glasses and 23 should have them; at Lincoln 31 wear them and 35 are termed in need; at Washington 28 wear glasses and 25 should be using them. Grade pupils from out of town wearing glasses number 22, and 24 were ascertained to need the artificial assistance.

NYA Leader Just Couldn't Say No

Thinks Associated Charities "Fine Thing"; Pledges Needed Support

Among other things, members of the staff at the NYA offices here have found time to aid unfortunates who came to them seeking assistance.

Although aiding these persons in some instances is not part of their work, Harold A. Salisbury, area supervisor, said today you can't very well turn them down.

He recalled an instance where a young girl was going to be forced to quit attending Gooding college because her clothes and shoes were entirely inadequate. Through the NYA a woman was contacted who always had the interest of younger people at heart, and the girl was able to continue school after the woman had purchased shoes and hose, and the NYA collected clothing.

"This isn't in our line," Salisbury said, "but we couldn't say no. Now it is different, however, and these cases are being taken care of by the Associated Charities which has headquarters in the old Evening Times building. Such an organization is really needed in the city, and I can assure them that when the NYA is able to aid them, we will be only too glad to do so."

MILK INSPECTION PROGRESS CITED

Federal Expert Tells Local Health Council History Of U. S. Advance

The history of milk inspections, and steps taken in the United States which led to a more safe milk supply, were outlined by Dr. F. A. Clark, milk specialist of Washington, D. C., at the fourth monthly meeting of the Twin Falls health and welfare council Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

First milk pasteurization plant in the United States, operated on a large scale, was established by Nathan Straus in New York City, he said, and was used principally on milk distributed to needy children. This was early in the 1900's.

The next forward step in the milk industry was in 1921 when Alabama tried out a series of milk ordinances, the result of which was the adoption of a standard milk ordinance by the United States department of public health. Yearly meetings are held for revisions to this ordinance, he pointed out, and the Twin Falls ordinance is patterned after the U. S. system, as of 1932.

He dealt with pasteurization in the United States and said it is "not a process by which bad milk can be made better, but a process designed to make good milk safe."

Touching on the diseases spread by milk, he disclosed there were from 35 to 40 epidemics in the United States each year which were spread by milk, despite the fact rigid requirements are urged throughout the nation. More rigid requirements will lessen these epidemics, he said.

EDEN

The twenty-two months old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Roundy fell while playing in the house recently and broke his arm. The child had recently recovered from pneumonia. The flood relief dance held Friday evening at the L. D. S. hall and sponsored by community organizations cleared $66. During the intermission Miss Leona Thorsted played two violin solos accompanied by Miss Geraldine House, and little Anno Juchau sang a solo and gave a tap dance, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Hawley.

Rex Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Taylor is ill with pneumonia. He is the second one in the family to have pneumonia this winter. Nels Swenson has recently purchased a thoroughbred Percheron horse from Bliss, to replace the one he lost this last summer with brain fever.

A group of friends of Mrs. Brown Martin gave her a surprise shower Monday afternoon at her home. The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Five Important Pebbles on a Beach

Five American leaguers, who have been hitting the headlines hard throughout the winter Hot Stove league sessions, are shown here starting the ball a-rollin' for their spring training. Left to right, Lyn Lary, who was sent to Cleveland in that six-man St. Louis-Indian deal; Dixie Dean, who suggests swapping Branch Rickey for Tom Yawkey; Jimmy Fox, Boston Red Sox slugger, who may be switched to the outfield this season; Goose Goslin, who is conditioning himself to carry on the comeback he started last year; and Hank Greenburg, Detroit first baseman, whose broken wrist, injured early last campaign, makes him one of the big question marks of the coming 1937 season.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

The stores are filled with hearts and flowers, cardboard cupid and paper lace. Envelopes to fit are the order of the day. Sticky pennies in grimy hands are off to the shops and the valentine makers are doing a land office business.

Who was St. Valentine? Nobody quite knows, except that he was a great and good monk who lived about a thousand and a half years ago.

Did he hob-nob with Dan Cupid? Did he bless lovers? It seems not. There was a mix-up in holidays, it seems, or rather, one was a holy day and the next after it had something to do with swains and their ladies. Time does queer things. When they dig up fifteen hundred years from now, archeologists will probably say that Lincoln was the patron saint of lovers, or Washington, because a few days on the calendar makes little difference.

Adults Least Concerned Another incongruous feature of this peculiar festival is that adults on an average are as little concerned with it as they are with Whale Island. It is lots and the green saplings of humanity that go back once again, now that the era of good manners and neighborly kindness is receding. The comic always hurts some feelings. Senders mean them in fun. They are usually about as welcome as poison. Please warn the fry to be careful.

Otherwise, I don't think there's a bit of advice to be given. Certainly there is nothing to worry over. There's something so satisfying about red-tissue stage-sets that open with the flip of a finger, about goo-goo eyes that roll by touching a trick lever, odd little dogs that bark the strangest sentiments; Raphaelic angels spearing the ice-man; and airplanes writing love notes on the sky. When else can you get hold of such outrageously lovely stuff?

Valentine's day is placed so nicely between Christmas and Easter that if old St. V. hadn't lived at all, we'd have to manufacture him or someone like him, to give a fillup to dull old February, and jack things up a bit.

It is pointed out by the district supervisor that all work projects are of educational and practical value, entailing such occupations as the making of hospital supplies, garment renovation, visual aid displays for rural school use, toy making for nursery schools and other public assistance projects. The main purpose of the training is to equip the girls for employment in private industry, Salisbury said.

Class instruction in sewing, swimming, dramatics, home-making, English, infant-care, personal hygiene, cooking, serving, home-nursing and other subjects constitute the regular curriculum. These are supplemented with special lecture courses.

A complete sports program is also offered the girls as well as typing and shorthand for those of experience, enabling them to practice.

WEISER SCHOOL'S ENROLLING OPENS

Second Term Sign-Up Starts For Girls' Institution Under N. Y. A.

Second term enrollment in the federal resident school at Weiser is under way. Harold A. Salisbury, district supervisor for the National Youth Administration, announced here. The second term of the institution, established for the benefit of under-privileged girls and sponsored by the N. Y. A., will start March 15.

Accommodations for a maximum of 125 girls, eligible for N. Y. A. work project employment, are available, Salisbury said. "The school is one of the most attractive and best equipped in this section of the country," he said.

Each Girl Works Under school operation planning, each enrollee is assigned to a work project for approximately two hours a day to help defray food and rental expenses and miscellaneous costs of maintenance. From this employment each worker receives a cash wage of $5 a month for her personal use.

It is pointed out by the district supervisor that all work projects are of educational and practical value, entailing such occupations as the making of hospital supplies, garment renovation, visual aid displays for rural school use, toy making for nursery schools and other public assistance projects. ### Lincoln School's 5th Graders Aid Sightless Pupils

Lincoln fifth graders under direction of their principal, Miss Beulah Way, and under the sponsorship of the Junior Red Cross have been working on a project for the blind children at the Idaho State school for the Deaf and Blind. In carrying out their motto, "Service for Others," the children have prepared a Valentine booklet for each blind child in the school. The outside covers of the booklets are finished in various raised designs so that those receiving them may follow the pattern with their fingers. Braille inserts of Valentine verses were furnished by the National Red Cross headquarters.

Pupils of the Washington school made the Christmas books for the children this year, each book containing complete stories.

The Braille system of points which was originated by Louis Braille, who was himself a blind student at the Paris institute for the blind, has in recent years superseded the raised letter method of printing for the blind, says Mrs. C. A. North, sponsor for the Junior Red Cross movement. The Braille system consists of point prints representing 43 letters and 10 numerals.

"The Voice of Experience"...

the man with the million dollar throat insists on a light smoke

"My voice is my career. It has inspired more than five million people to confide in me their personal problems. During 25 years, first on the lecture platform and then on the air, I have never missed a single engagement because of my throat. I am a steady smoker, and because my throat and voice are vital to my career I insist upon a light smoke. In Luckies I find a light smoke plus the enjoyment of fine tobacco... and that's why Lucky Strikes have been my choice for 14 years."

"The Voice of Experience"

FRIEND AND COUNSELOR TO MILLIONS OF RADIO LISTENERS

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

"The Voice of Experience" verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Thil Meets Brouillard for Middleweight Title Feb. 15

BATTLE WILL BE STAGED IN PARIS

Third Meeting Between Two Fighters in Little Over Year

PARIS, Feb. 11 (UP)—Perennial enemies, the I. B. U. hairy-chested middleweight boxing champion of the world, Frenchman Marcel Thil, and American Lou Brouillard will stage their third fight for the title Monday night, Feb. 15, at the Palais des Sports here, under the tutelage of Jeff Dickson, Mississippiian who is France's outstanding promoter.

In their first fight, Thil beat Brouillard on points in 12 rounds, Nov. 25, 1935. In the second, the following Jan. 20, Brouillard chopped and cut his way through Thil's rather clumsy guard and slashed at Thil's midsection. A hard punch sent Thil to his knees groaning.

The Swiss referee without hesitation waved Brouillard back to his corner, called the blow a foul and awarded the title fight to Thil. Brouillard, supported by many at the ringside including Dempsey's old rival, Georges Carpentier, refused to admit the foul and contended that it was a clean but painful knockout by a hard blow to the liver.

Thil With Circus Ever since that unsatisfactory ending, Brouillard has been seeking another chance. He was disqualified by the I. B. U. for six months but that period has passed. After that fight, Thil went into prosperous retirement, joining a traveling circus for a contract of $3,000. For six months, he lived under canvas and did his daily training in public in the center ring.

Thil has not had a fight since he met Brouillard. He recently sparred with four different partners on one of Dickson's programs and he showed that he had slowed up considerably. He still is a hard hitter with both hands, but he carries his guard a bit lower as though to protect his abdomen. When he returned from the circus he was nine pounds over the limit of his category, but he has trained down to the poundage.

Brouillard Is Confident Brouillard, now fully acclimated and accustomed to the loud boating of typical French boxing crowds, is optimistic. He has been training hard. Thil, now 32, plans his first invasion of America if he wins against Brouillard. During the World war he was a youngster behind the American lines on the Champagne front. From the Yankee doughboys he learned to box, and when they left France, they presented Thil with boxing gloves, which he decided to use.

Joining the French navy, he took his gloves with him and became middleweight champion of the fleet, then fought all comers to take the French national, European and I. B. U. world titles. He claimed the world title by beating the American, Gorilla Jones, by disqualification, in June, 1932, and since then has whipped every foe, including Len Harvey, Ignacio Ara, Kid Tunero, Eric Seelig, Gustav Roth, Adolf Witt, Rene Devos, Vince Dundee, Al Diamond and Ken Overlin.

The title fight is scheduled for 15 rounds. Idaho Frosh Set For Boxing Tilt MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (Special)—Idaho's are freshman boxers, seven of them title holders, are directing punches toward another victory over the Meraloma Athletic club of Vancouver, B. C., which invades Moscow Feb. 20. Last year the Idaho men took all of the bouts in the eight-bout meet.

Coach Louis August will put a title-holder in each event against the Canadians, who have recently annexed the title of western Canadian champions. Two diamond belt holders, and three runners-up for the title are included on the Meraloma roster. Freshman champs who will appear against the Meraloma club are Jackie Doone, Pocatello; Merton Wright, Ogden, Utah; Bud Bennett, Portland, Ore.; Bill Barnett, Jr., Seattle, Wash.; John Gessner, Coeur d'Alene; James Clabby, Malad; and Alex Passine, Moscow. Wright, Passine, and Barnett are newcomers to the squad this semester.

Famed Sun Valley Ski Teacher Offers Times Readers Lessons

Last of six lessons in skiing. By HANS HAUSER
Three-time open ski champion of Austria and world's foremost instructor now at Sun Valley, Idaho, Hans Hauser's style has been widely copied throughout Europe.

There are three ways to climb hills on skis. For steep hills, the side-step is used. For average hills, the skier uses the half side-step. For uphill trails, herring-boneing is the best method.

The side-step is like is sounds. The skier places his poles in the slope and raises and edges his or her uphill ski into the slope. The downhill ski is then brought up close to and parallel with the uphill ski. The step is then repeated.

The half side-step is similar to the side-step but is faster. The skier raises the uphill ski and puts it ahead of and one foot uphill from the downhill ski. The downhill ski

Negro Sprint Ace Collects $65,000 Since Turning to Professional Ranks

By HENRY SUPER (Punch Hitting for Henry McLemore)
NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (UP)—Dust off your piano Mr. Ellington—and make your melody a little hotter. Mr. Calloway for Jesse if you got all kinds of rhythm. Owens is on your trail.

The triple Olympic champion, who has cashed in $65,000 in one way or another since turning professional, now is in training for a musical tour of the nation "which'll murder 'em."

Jesse said so himself as he worked out with a 12-piece rearguard band in a dingy rehearsal hall hard by the Cotton club. He still has almost two weeks of conditioning left before he makes his bow in the flat and sharp class at Harrisburg, Pa.

"Will I stay 'em?" "And' by that time I should be able to stay 'em with my 'Peenies from Heaven," Mr. Owens predicted.

While one Danny Logan worked on the band, Owens, in a natty blue suit and white polo shirt, sat on the sidelines and discussed his latest venture. It was a scattered conversation for Jesse continuously leaped up and ripped off choruses or waded the baton.

Since when was Jesse, the world's fastest human, a musician? "Oh, I'll do all right," he smiled. "I used to play a little clarinet when I was in school and I did some singing. He fingered a copy of "Peenies from Heaven." "Wanna hear me?"

Hounds Good Jesse leaped across the studio, grabbed the microphone and started: "Every time it is then brought up close to the uphill ski and AHEAD of it. The step is then repeated.

Fastest of the uphill steps is the herring-bone, so called because of the track it leaves in the snow. If, however, herring-boneing is done on too steep a grade, it is tiring.
The student should turn the toes out until his or her position is the reverse of the snow-plow position. The left ski is then brought forward, its back end passing over the right ski. The right ski is then moved forward ahead of the left ski. It is exactly like walking.
After a good climb, the skier wants to rest. With skis close together, the skier puts the points of his ski poles into the snow a foot ahead of his feet. The skier then rests his or her weight on the poles and relaxes.
When you have mastered these simple steps, you are ready to acquire proficiency.
Ski hell!

M'SPADEN LEADS MEET FAVORITES

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 11 (UP)—Harold Luigi McSpaden, Boston professional, today was the pre-tournament favorite today in the $3,000 open golf tournament which begins here tomorrow.

McSpaden carded a blazing 66, six strokes under par, in a practice round over the River Oaks country club course yesterday. Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee pro, explored the course earlier and came in with the prediction that "70 will be a low score for the tournament."

Other golf stars, either already here or en route from California where they have been bucking low temperatures and rain in west coast tournaments, include Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., who carded a 70 after his first practice swing around the layout; Craig Wood of Deal, N. J.; Sam Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., winner of the Bing Crosby meet in California; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.; Orville White of Overland, Mo., and Tony Joy of San Diego.

"KINGFISH" EYES WRESTLING GAME

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11 (UP)—Kingfish Levinsky, veteran of many heavyweight prize fight struggles, peered out of two blackened eyes today and thoughtfully surveyed the wrestling field.

The Chicago ex-fish peddler recovered sufficiently yesterday from five flatenings and a knockout Tuesday night at the hands of Bob Nestell of Bakersfield, Calif., to announce his perennial retirement from the ring.

The king, aged and girthy, said he would turn to wrestling as a new profession. Meanwhile, Nestell was being considered for a bout with the winner of next Tuesday's fight here between Lee Ramage and Maxie Rosenberg. Nestell's ring record, considered by some as sensational, as that of Joe Louis, includes 10 knockouts in 11 professional appearances.

McMillan in Draw

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (UP)—Fred Grubmeyer, Iowa, and Jim McMillan, Chicago, drew; Charley Allen, Albany and Sammy Menacher, New York, drew; George Lenihan, Boston, pinned Abe Goldberg, Santa Monica, Calif.

And, believe it or not, it sounded pretty good. Then he led the band. Although the boys could have done just as well without Jesse—or any one else for that matter—up there waving the stick, it looked impressive. Particularly his rhythmic sway which, I was told, some of our better baton-beaters can't execute to perfection.

Did Jesse regret turning professional? "No, sir. I've made something like $65,000 since the Olympics I got a $40,000 annuity. I bought my mother a home and my wife out in Cleveland now is fixing one up for us.

Races Planned "Yes, I want to go back and finish up school. But that won't be for some time because the missus is expecting an addition to the family in about six or seven months.

"I'm not through with the track either. I got some exhibition races planned for this summer."

How long was Jesse going to keep up this varied career? "Well," he answered frankly, "I figure I'll keep messing around long as there's dough to be picked up. This band will pay plenty. After that they got a part for me in a regular full length picture at Hollywood."

"Once there's no more dough to be made, then I'm going back to school and get my B. A. degree. After that, I hope to be a physical education instructor or a track and field coach."

"Meanwhile," and Jesse strolled toward the mike again: "Peenies from Heaven..." (Copyright, 1937, United Press)

CITY LEAGUE (Alleys 1 and 2) Thurs.—Brookfield vs. Chevrolet.

STRIKES TO SPARE WITH FRED STONE

All Studebaker in the Commercial league, as they took all three from the Times team. Bob McCracken showed all the boys how it's done—he had two sweet games, 211 and 213. Four errors his third game ruined a swell total. Four strikes in a row his first game; two doubles his second.

Gall Fargo got a turkey his first game; a double his second; a split was the only only open frame his last game.

Art Boone got two doubles his first game; Ted Emerick one and Ralph Brown got a turkey. Brownie also got a double his last game.

Vey Gish was the high scorer for the Times. He got five strikes in a row his first game for 210. Not so hot his next two.

George Paulson and Jimmie Mullen couldn't double up their strikes. Bill Parish and Al Westergren got each a double during their three games.

Everyone had quite a time getting those single pins down on both teams. Errors were quite plentiful.

In the City league, Electric Motor took all three from Safeway boys. Art Mingo of the Emerick team and Rile of Safeways were in a tie for high three-game total of 473.

Cliff Emerick, captain of his own team, took the high single game at 173.

Rile got two doubles his second game. Kimball, rolling his first tournament, got a turkey his first game, the only one made in the City league.

Clark started his first game with a double, and Art Mingo got one his last game.

A DANGEROUS PROPOSAL

The Tennessee senate has just passed a bill, which has yet to be passed by the house and signed by the governor before it becomes law, but which would provide severe punishment for any editor or publisher in whose editorial columns appears an "untruth."

Publication of such an "untruth," the bill specifies, "shall be deemed to have been done knowingly, wilfully, and with the intention to harm or destroy the character of the person or persons affected."

Besides payment of a fine, the bill provides that the offending newspaper executive is to be barred for life from acting as editor or publisher of any newspaper in the state.

The measure in question is the brain-child of a Chattanooga lawyer, Senator Fletcher R. Morgan, who apparently has been the target of much editorial criticism. In commenting on the bill, Senator Morgan vilified newspapers as vehicles that besmirch and destroy the character of their opponents, and compel public officials to disregard their own consciences or convictions.

For a proper perspective on the situation, it is necessary only to refer again to the recent case of that critical editor of a California weekly newspaper.

In late November of last year, if you will remember, this gentleman issued in his editorial columns a vituperative attack on no less a personage than President Roosevelt.

An irate reader immediately took up the cudgel in defense of the President, filed a complaint and had the editor arrested on a charge of criminal libel.

Is the caustic newspaperman now languishing in stir? Not a bit of it. On the ground that his language did not exceed the bounds of proper editorial discretion, the case was immediately thrown out of court.

And this, as cannot be stressed too often, is as it should be. If the American variety of press freedom is not to be anemic, or the hollow mockery that exists in certain dictatorships, an editor must have the liberty of expressing his opinion of public officials, however vigorous that opinion may be.

To prevent him from being unfair, there are stringent libel laws. But if he is to be trusted by other measures, trumped up by vengeful public officials, press freedom and, consequently, the public, suffers.

If Senator Morgan feels that he has been treated unfairly, it is to be regretted; but if the American tradition of liberty is to remain untainted, an editor must have the right to say what he thinks.

BANISHING THE "POORHOUSE"

When Herbert Hoover visited the Virgin Islands during his term as president, he was appalled by the desolate economic situation he found there. He remarked that these islands constituted "an effective poorhouse," and there was no reason to quarrel with his judgment.

Happily, a better day at last seems to be dawning. Gov. Lawrence W. Cramer, reviewing the expenditure of federal funds to rehabilitate the islanders, declares that an end of this spending is at last in sight, and predicts that the islands may easily be made self-supporting.

Rum and sugar seem to be doing the trick. Federal money financed a start in their production—or rather a revival, for the Virgin Islands once waxed rich on those commodities, generations ago. If the program is wisely continued for a little longer, Governor Cramer reports, the Virgin Islands will have a sound economy which will enable them to stand on their own feet.

GAMBLING CLUBS

A gambling club in a midwestern city is being sued by a widow who was embittered by the fact that its manager would not give her a dollar for food after she had lost almost $10,000 at the club's gaming tables.

Interviewed by a reporter, the widow said, "It's a shame that such places should be allowed to run in defiance of the police."

There is, of course, something in her protests, and the city's law authorities undoubtedly are at fault in permitting the place to stay open.

But if there were not so many people like this woman, who swarm to such clubs to lose amounts of money they can ill afford, the joints soon would go into receivership.

Ben Bernie knocked a man out "because he cast slurring remarks about Bernie's ever-present cigar." Many of us will doubt whether Mr. Bernie is actually so sensitive and all will agree that it was decidedly poor taste even as a publicity stunt.

ONE BALLOT FOR THE MODERN GAL

Pot Shootings: For your 50 cents, I prefer the modern woman as against the old-fashioned kind.

What did the old-fashioned kind have that the modern gal hasn't got? Her waistline wasn't any slimmer in spite of straining corsets. She could cook, yeh, but are we men or are we simply containers for food?

Besides which, the modern gal hasn't any of this annoying clinging-vine attitude. You knew all the time in the old days that if you weren't the big hero the coy little gal made out you were, so we lose nothing there.

Yes, sir, give me the modern woman. She can usually work, if she has to, to help the family pocket-book, too.

—Sam O' The Sage

WE NEVER BRAG, of course, but Pot Shots took great pleasure in observing that, after we printed a few scathing remarks by one of our contribs concerning the snow and ice on courthouse sidewalks, a crew of workmen promptly cleaned said walks. They're spic and span now (unless it snows again before this is printed).

TALE OF A CRACKUP

If you think our roads are snowy with not a patch of bareness, I must deary your eyesight; You're lacking in awareness.

I thought the same as you do Until I donned some skis— Along there came a bare spot: Ouch! My face and knees! —Solly The Snooper

MORE GRIEF FOR OFFICERS ON THAT RADIO BILL!

My dear Pot Shots: I agree with "E. Pluribus Unum" regarding the silly radio bill being introduced up Boise way. But if said motorist should be playing other than the "Star Spangled Banner" and should be arrested by said officer—who pleads "not guilty," get himself one of these lawyer fellows who follows such fellers around when they get in a jam so he can get job defending him.

The case comes up in court and said officer gets on witness stand and testifies he heard radio playing in other guy's car. Mr. Attorney immediately jumps up and says "I object, your honor, this man is testifying to something he is supposed to have heard, purely hearsay." His Honor says "objection sustained." Said officer looks funny, and feels funny. Judge says case dismissed. Motorist goes out to car, starts playing "The pig got up and slowly walked away" and goes home.

—Trifling Officer

OH WELL, SHE GOES!

Dear Pot Shots: Boy—this modern generation! I asked the janitor's daughter today if she helped her dad every day and she said she sure did. In that case, I asked, you don't go to Sunday school, do you?

"You bet I do," she said. "Which one?" I asked. "I don't know the name of it," she said, "but I can tell you where it is."

—Gualo

THEY MIGHT PASS LAWS ELIMINATING SKUNKS!

Mister Pot Shots: While our law making fellers are monkeying with peculiar laws, I wish they would take up one that's occurred to me very strongly.

What I mean is that they should pass a law to keep people from bringing in cars to be greased after the cars had run over a skunk.

—Claud Pratt

THEY CERTAINLY DO NEED THAT EXTRA ONE!

Pot Shots: Boylo expert, quoted in a newspaper, gives us men the ultimatum that a well-dressed guy should have five hats.

So I'll throw the ultimatum right back at him with this: politicians would have to own six, counting the one they use to talk through.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

By Dennis Wheatley © 1937, NEA Service, Inc. William Morrow & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British sailor, disappears from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CARLTON ROCKSAVAGE, of Miami. A note found in Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary, MICHAEL STODART, indicates suicide since he faced bankruptcy. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ARGUS SUDS, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard the yacht GOLDEN GULL are MISS FERRI ROCKSAVAGE, Rocksave's daughter; LADY WELTER; REGINALD JOCKLYN, MISS JOCKLYN, Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law; the BISHOP OF BUDE; COUNT LUIGI POSODINI, and INSOUKE HAYASHI.

Detective Officer KETTERING, boarding yacht at Miami, finds strange marks on Blane's cabin carpet and blood on curtain. In order examination of all. Rocksave, contending Blane is before you suicide, admits inviting Blane on yacht to effect amalgamation of companies.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S EXAMINATION OF CABIN STEWARD SILAS RINGBOTTOM.

K: "Morning Ringbottom. R: Good morning, sir. K: Have you been on board this ship long? R: Yes, sir; ever since Mr. Rocksave bought her, and before that, too, with the previous owner, Lord Foulkes. I am an ex-navy man and this was my first job on leaving the service.

K: Good. Well, there are just one or two things I want to ask you about this affair that occurred last night. According to what you told me then, after you had been to Mr. Blane's suite to inquire if he wanted you to unpack, you went straight back to your pantry, did a few odd-jobs there, and then read a book until the dinner bugle sounded. Now, is that correct? R: Yes, sir, that's correct.

K: You're quite sure you never left that pantry of yours? I'm not trying to pin anything on you, don't think that, but I want you to be quite certain that you're not making any mistakes. R: Wait a minute, sir: I did leave it just once, to slip up to the writing room to get some sheets of notepaper for the Japanese gentleman. He'd asked for it earlier on, but I found the racks were empty and, as the chief steward had been ashore at Miami, the storeroom was locked. When the Jap rang for me again later, though, the chief steward was back again in his cabin and he gave me some from the store.

K: What time was that? R: A bit before eight bells, sir. K: Just before eight o'clock, eh? And, apart from that, you never left your pantry? R: No, that's the truth, sir. K: Who else was on duty at that time? R: Only me, sir. The other stewards who help with the cabins was at their job of laying up for dinner then; and the stewardess, Maud Briggs, what would have been on duty, went down with shingles two days ago, so she's in the sick bay. Fortunately there's only three ladies aboard, and two of them has their own maids, so they're looking after the other lady between them.

K: Can you bring anybody to prove that you were in your pantry during all that time? R: Well, maybe it's lucky for me, sir. In the ordinary way I wouldn't be able to, the stewardess being ill, but, as it happens, I can. Syd Jenks, the ship's carpenter, was doing a job of work in the passageway during the whole of that time and we passed the time of day, as you might say, quite frequent, while he was at it. He knows I never left my pantry, except to get the Jap his notepaper, not before the dinner bugle went. K: Did it strike you as unusual that Mr. Blane's cabin door was locked when you went to tidy it up? R: No, sir, not particular. Visitors varies, some's open-handed, some's not. Some's suspicious, some's not. Visitors who haven't sailed with us before sometimes locks their cabin doors for the first day or two out, then they don't bother no more. I didn't think nothing of it. I just unlocked the door with my master key and went straight into the room.

K: That's good. Now, from your pantry you can't see the door of Mr. Blane's suite, can you? R: No, sir. You see my pantry's in inside cabin, so I can't see round the corner along the passageway. K: No. That's quite obvious from the ship's plans I've got in front of me. So you wouldn't be able to see if anyone approached Mr. Blane's cabin from the lounge, would you? R: No, sir.

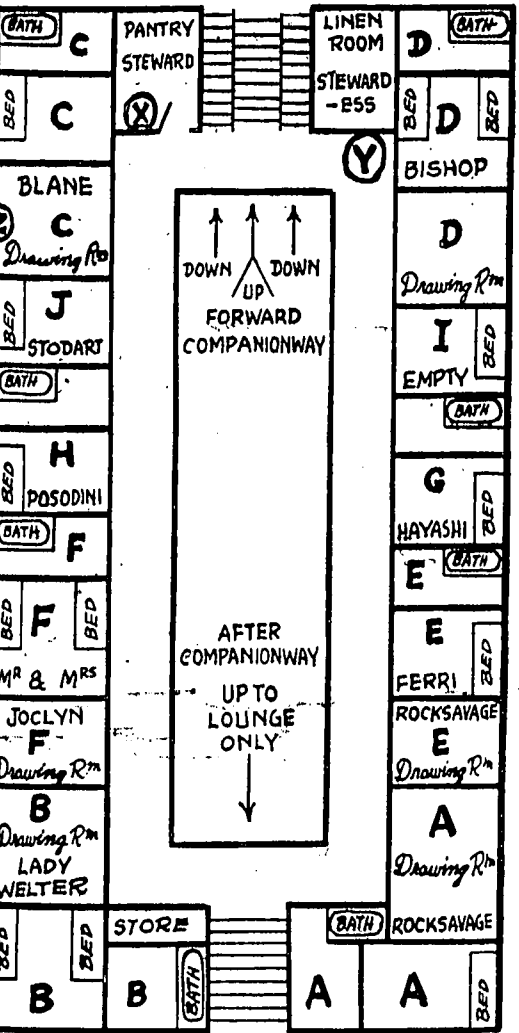

K: But you would be able to see anybody who came the other way, from the forward companionway, which leads to the upper and lower decks, wouldn't you? R: I would that, sir. K: Was your pantry door open during this time? R: Yes, sir. K: Now, think carefully, Ringbottom. Did you see any member of the crew, or any other person, come either up or down the companionway and pass your door, going in the direction of Mr. Blane's cabin between 7:45 and 8:30 last night? R: Only Miss Rocksave's maid sir, going along to dress her, no one else.

K: But you would have, if they had? R: Yes, sir. I couldn't have helped seeing them. K: Right. That's all I wanted to know. DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S EXAMINATION OF SYD JENKS, SHIP'S CARPENTER.

K: Good morning, Jenks. J: Good morning, sir. K: How long have you been on board this ship? J: Just on two years, sir. Ever since Captain Derringham took over. He brought me with him from his previous ship, the Southern Cross.

K: Right. Now, d'you mind telling me where you were between 7:30 and 8:30 last night. J: I was fitting new skirting boards to the stewardess's pantry on A deck from just before 7:30, sir. K: From where you were working could you see the door of Mr. Blane's suite? J: No, sir. I was working on the starboard side, just across from the forward companionway.

K: Was the companionway in your view the whole time? J: Yes, sir. K: Can you give me any idea, J: I'd hardly like to say the SKETCH PLAN OF A DECK, S.Y. GOLDEN GULL STEWARD'S SEAT BEHIND DOOR PLACE WHERE SHIP'S CARPENTER WAS WORKING.

1 PORTHOLE OUT OF WHICH BODY WAS THROWN.

K: Did you see anyone go up or down it during the time you were working there? J: Lady Welter's maid went below just after I set to work. K: Just after 7:30, eh? J: Yes, sir. Then Nellie Orde, Miss Rocksave's maid, came up to dress her mistress much later on, about ten past eight I should say.

K: Anyone else? J: No, sir. K: Could you see the entrance of the steward's pantry, from where you were? J: Yes, sir. It was just across the companionway on the port-side.

K: Was anyone there, d'you know? J: Yes, sir. The cabin steward, Mr. Ringbottom. K: Was he in his pantry the whole time you were at your job? J: Yes, sir, except when he went to answer the Japanese gentleman's bell, and then off to the chief steward to get some notepaper from him out of the store. He remarked, I remember, about the slackness of the lounge steward in letting it run out in the writing room because someone else had asked for some earlier on in the afternoon, when the chief steward was ashore, and there wasn't none.

K: What time was that? J: I'm afraid I couldn't say, sir. K: Can you give me any idea, J: I'd hardly like to say the time, you see I didn't notice particular, being busy on my job. K: Was it before, or after, eight? J: Oh, before eight. Maybe about a quarter to, but I wouldn't like to say for certain. Ringbottom was down about five minutes, then, but all the rest of the time he was in his pantry because, although we couldn't see each other, every now and then we exchanged remarks.

K: Did you see anybody else in the passageway during the time you were working there? J: Only the bishop, sir, when he went up. That was at eight o'clock, because I heard the ship's bell strike immediately after. K: But various other people must have been coming down from the lounge or going back up to it, during that time.

J: That's true, of course, but the companionway to the lounge is way aft, nowhere near where I was. I heard cabin doors shutting now and then, but you see I had my back to the passageway most of the time and I didn't take much notice what happened behind me, being busy with my job. K: What time did you stop work? J: Just after the dinner bugle sounded at 8:30. K: Right. That all I want to know. Thank you, Jenks. J: You're welcome, sir. (To Be Continued)

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine At any season of the year, but particularly in summer, children may injure themselves with air guns, slingshots, or small rifles. These devices are especially dangerous to the eye. Medical literature contains numerous records of children who have lost their eyes because BB shot entered the eyeball. By use of the X-ray, it is possible to learn whether any metal has entered the eye. If the foreign material is clean, in the sense that it is free from germs, and if it is in a part of the eye in which it does not obstruct vision, it may be left there for a considerable time without removal.

Usually, however, inflammation promptly results when a foreign substance has entered the eye, and the only thing to do is to remove the particle by surgical operation. The explosion of gunpowder or of fireworks, including particularly firecrackers, torpedoes, and bombs, may damage the skin seriously and occasionally cause some foreign substance to penetrate the body cavities.

Whenever an injury from fireworks or gunpowder occurs, get a doctor as soon as possible. He will examine the wound, clean it, treat it with suitable antiseptics, and determine whether it is necessary to inject antitoxin against lockjaw, to prevent that disease. It is not wise to wait until lockjaw develops; after that disease has once developed, it causes death in a considerable number of cases. The possibility of lockjaw is so great that antitoxin without charge for injection into people who have been exposed to the danger.

In certain cases the explosion of gunpowder causes black specks to penetrate the skin, and leaves a scar when the black material becomes imbedded in the skin. This scar is difficult to remove. If immediate attention is given to such wounds, the gunpowder may be removed and the scarring prevented.

If, however, there is too great a delay, it may be necessary to use various caustic substances to peel off the skin. In other cases, it even may be necessary to remove the scoured tissue by a surgical operation, and to graft new skin over the surface. Remember that all first aid is essentially amateurish and that expert attention will in most cases prevent permanently harmful results.

Behind The Scenes in Washington

TIMING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — President Roosevelt's decision to repack the Supreme Court was made rather hurriedly.

Four weeks ago, he did not intend to move as soon as he did or in the way he did. His opening message to congress, for instance, was framed as an invitation to the courts to correct the situation in coming decisions. He confided in several persons that, if the Wagner and holding companies decisions failed to present the constitutional loop-holes he wanted, he would try some test legislation on hours and wages. After that, he figured, popular opinion might be ripe for packing the court.

What caused him to revise his plans within the last two weeks was his own growing impatience with the trend of events and alternative prospects. The plain, unvarnished fact is his hand was forced by tumbling developments.

WEAKNESS

A dominant consideration was the failure of labor leaders to show any ability to handle wages-and-hours policies themselves. That became obvious after the message to congress. The sit-down strike turned out to be decidedly unpopular. In fact, the efforts of John Lewis to organize autos and steel seemed to be really unpoplar public opinion for the Roosevelt purposes.

Then congressional authorities got wind of the fact that he planned to move by indirection, and started an advance backfire. Powerful Senator Borah went to the radio. Subtle debate broke in both houses about tyrants who seize judicial power. Opinion was being built up against any subterfuge moves and in favor of a direct constitutional amendment, which is what his congressional leaders really wanted. Similarly, the congressional attack on Federal Judge Gore proved to be a rather weak failure and no help to his cause.

It is quite possible that, if Mr. Roosevelt had waited a month, the situation might have been taken beyond his control. He hit before the iron got cold.

GHOSTS

The man behind the Roosevelt repacking process was New York state supreme court justice Samuel J. Rosenman, a little known but close friend of the president.

The basic theory was essentially Rooseveltian, the president himself chose the plan. But Rosenman was in almost constant attendance at the White House while preparations were being made. He contributed the judicial character of certain phases of the proposal and recommendation for a court reorganization, etc.). He was legal counsel for Mr. Roosevelt, as governor, at Albany, and enjoys the president's closest confidence.

Others who had a hand in drafting the bill were RFC legal adviser Tom Corcoran, assistant attorney general Robert Jackson and Benny Cohen, PWA legal adviser. EX-NEA administrator Donald Rieberg also was consulted. He contributed a few ideas and at least one phrase. Congressional leaders were not generally consulted until after the plan was fully prepared. A few of them had been tipped indefinitely as to what was coming. There were no leaks, at least no public leaks.

TECHNICALITIES

Two weaknesses in the president's message were obvious to his critics. First, he founded his appeal for judicial reorganization on the ground that the poor cannot afford lawsuits, but he forgot to recommend anything to reduce costs. Appeals, lawyers and suits would cost just as much under the reorganization as before.

Second, he based his recommendation for enlargement of the courts on the ground of physical inability of courts to handle the business, but his bid would enlarge only those courts containing judges past the retirement age. In other words, the test of enlargement is not to be the volume of business, but the age of the justices. And if all judges beyond the retirement age would retire, there would not be a single additional judge appointed under his plan.

Sympathetic lawyers suggested the brief he presented for his plan might be thrown out by most courts because the grounds did not fit the case.

COMPROMISE?

The president followed his usual policy of asking congress in the judicial message for twice as much as he needed. He requires only three more votes to change the line-up of the Supreme Court and will settle for that, according to those insiders who usually reflect his opinion.

Three additional votes would enable him to constitutionalize every move he has made, except NRA. The court was against him on that one, nine to none.

DIPLOMACY

The judicial message is the first important one which Mr. Roosevelt did not deliver in person. The reason is said to be that he was not sure of the reaction. The proposal was framed to be more popular with the people than the lawyers, and fully fifty per cent or more of the new congressmen are lawyers.

SOLICITUDE

A rumor has been circulated that the Supreme Court will now recommend to congress that the presidency be enlarged to three persons, because the duties are too arduous for Mr. Roosevelt.

PARIS PLANS FOR ELECTRIC FARM

Modernized Ranch Will Be in Exhibits at World Exposition

PARIS (AP) — A completely modernized electric farm, built on the basis of such existing farms in France, will be one of the star exhibits of the Paris World Exposition. The village, covering two acres in the wooded Paris park, the Bois de Boulogne, is called the Village of 1937.

The village will be entirely electrified, with running hot and cold water, with special collective departments for the production and preparation for the market of milk, fruit and vegetables, grains, wines, meats, etc. There will be stables, barns, silos, sheds, storage houses, smoking huts, housing a herd of cows, horses, sheep, pigs and chickens. The farm will be the 19th within the city limits, the other 18 being permanent dairy farms.

Modern Market Included
Comprised in the farm area will be a model village agricultural market, which will sell its products to visitors to the fair grounds. Here all the specialties of French farms will be bought in their native freshness, giving foreigners a vivid taste of French foods. There will be a large Agricultural Cooperative house, with model offices for insurance, family allocations, buying and selling, as well as a large movie hall where documentary films of French and world farming will be shown.

The rural village will be complete to a town hall, post office, primary and secondary schools, medical dispensary, public baths, fire station, police station, etc. There also will be a restaurant where the products which can be bought at the village market will be prepared in native cuisine fashion. There will be agricultural congresses held in the village during the Exposition, both French and International.

All Sections to Aid
As the sponsors of this agricultural exhibit are intent on having all the sections and products of France shown, the village will be turned over each week to a peasant delegation from a different section of France. These peasants will wear their native costumes, and will give performances of their native dances and songs. They also will provide visitors with their particular agricultural specialties and dishes. There will be Bretons, Provençals, Corsicans, peasants from Champagne, Poitou, the Loire valley, Languedoc, Alsace-Lorraine, Flanders, Picardy, Auvergne, Gascony, Savoye, Perigord, Dauphine and other world-famous regions, each with its distinctive customs and culture.

A world agricultural congress will assemble in the village for two weeks during the summer, and will discuss agricultural organization and methods. As such, the village will serve as a model where all modern appliances are used in a setting which preserves the best customs of the past.

MUSEUM SHOWS SURREALIST ART

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An exhibition of Surrealism—the latest thing in art—has been attracting considerable attention at the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

About 500 works of art, painted from the imagination of 150 Surrealists, arrived here recently from the Modern Museum of Art in New York City to be placed on exhibit at Philadelphia's art center.

This type art is a newcomer to circles where artists and critics gather to discuss art. The average citizen is hard put to find a definition for it.

According to Fiske Kimball, director of the museum, Surrealism is supposed to represent a sort of "Alice in Wonderland" in art. Another artist said that it is simply a dream of the artist put on canvas and might be considered in the same light as the "stream of Consciousness" writing.

Surrealism had its start early this century in Paris. A number of young painters and etchers decided that everything had been done in classic art and youth needed a new field. The result was that two-headed people, multi-legged cows on trapezes, and trains going forward in reverse, appeared on canvas.

Decorators and commercial artists were quick to sense that here was something new and useful. Merchandise displays and decorations soon began to feature Surrealism.

An example of the art seen at the preview of the exhibition was a wax foot with six toes and swollen ankles underneath a pink umbrella and titled: "Man Throwing Stone at Bird."

THIS CAR was all right in 1916

The "Pre-War Motor Car" was "good enough" in 1916. But not today!

Vision, initiative and inventive genius brought forth graceful bodies, powerful, dependable motors, comfortable riding, economy of operation.

The electric service of 1916 was "good enough" for the people of this territory had never known anything better. But it came from scattered plants, many too small; service was uncertain, rates high.

The vision and initiative of a few men brought about a single, dependable, interconnected system that now serves southern Idaho and eastern Oregon.

Pre-war automobiles and isolated electric systems are both out of date. Your electric service is dependable and as modern as that of any large city in the United States—and your electric rates among the lowest in the nation.

MEN who know Town Tavern say there is no need to pay a fancy price in order to get as good a straight rye as any reasonable man could want. This good whiskey satisfies them completely, yet it sells at a very reasonable price... In taste, in aroma, in smoothness, Town Tavern sets a mighty high standard. If you appreciate a straight, honest rye, with a rich, grainy taste, Town Tavern probably will suit you exactly. Hundreds of thousands of other men have found it so. Why not buy a bottle and try this national favorite today?

FRANCE TO HAIL ANTHEM'S BIRTH

Nation Will Recall National Song With Celebrations In Every City

PARIS (AP) — France will celebrate this summer the march of the Marseilles battalion across France during the French Revolution by ceremonies in every town, village and hamlet through which it passed.

The first celebration will take place in Marseilles on July 14, the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, on the spot from which the Provisional volunteers started on their march to the Rhine valley.

A chain of monuments and memorial stones will be laid from the Mediterranean port to the capital, dedicated by mayors and prominent citizens, while popular festivities and gay street dances will capture some of the enthusiasm and excitement of the scenes rivaling the armistice celebrations and reminiscent of American July 4 festivities.

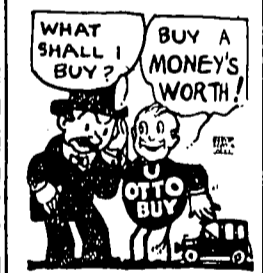

The celebration has been prepared by the Popular Front government with the collaboration of local authorities. It marks the attempt, which has been successful, on the part of the Popular Front parties to make the Marseilles anthem the vibrant hymn of triumph which it was in the days of the French Revolution.

We believe that under the sugar quota system sugar, prices will be maintained at such price levels, that the price per ton provided for in the 1937 beet contract at these levels, will return to the grower the highest price he has received for this commodity in recent years.

Dice Entertain Marooned Men: Friends Worry

Wives, sweethearts, employers, mothers and fathers were frantic here early this morning awaiting word from occupants of several cars and trucks stuck in deep drifts between Wendell and Jerome.

Arriving here early this morning, after being stuck five hours, the men were "surprised" to learn they had caused so much worrying.

"Why in blazes didn't you spend a few cents and call us, letting us know you were safe?" an employer asked one of the truck drivers this morning.

"Here we were all in an uproar and you couldn't part with a few cents. Schoolmen beat me."

It developed, the employer explained, the men were using the "few cents" to shoot dice. They had bread from a bakery truck, corn beef from a wholesale grocery truck, and butter from a refrigerated truck, not to mention ice cream if they desired it.

Today the men were expected to save their small change for telephone calls, should they become stuck again.

Ducks Threaten Buhl Hatchery Fish and Feed

Not only is Jack Tingey of Buhl, fish hatchery operator, finding it difficult to keep his fish fed in the fish, but he is also bothered by ducks which threaten not only to eat the feed but the fish as well.

With weather conditions making it impossible for the thousands of ducks in the vicinity of Clear Lake to find feed, the number estimated at 10,000 by Mr. Tingey, the birds have been giving the operators no little trouble as they threaten to eat many of the thousands of fingerlings reared in the ponds.

The night shift, he said today is hard pressed to keep the ducks off the ponds and has had to resort to firing shotguns into the air to scare them away.

In adjoining fields Mr. Tingey distributes 100 pounds of wheat a day, purchased at his own expense. Flood lights, turned on at night, only serve to attract the ducks, rather than scaring them, he points out.

During the recent blizzard, he said, he noted hundreds of mallards circling around in search of feed. Many, he said, were even too weak to fly and a conservative estimate states many have perished.

Some ducks light on the fish ponds, he said, and cannot get into the air again because they are in such poor condition.

Tingey intends seeking state aid in his feeding program, saying it is getting beyond a point where one man can do any good with what little feed he is able to distribute.

CARS RAM

Damages estimated at $115 were incurred yesterday when car's driven by Dr. D. L. Alexander and E. D. Siglar collided as the doctor attempted to pass the other machine while Siglar was making a left turn in front of 239 Addison avenue west.

Dr. Alexander's car, a new machine, had the front end badly damaged, the cost of which police estimated at $100. Siglar's car suffered a bent right rear fender and broken bumper, damages estimated at $15.

PRICE OF WHEAT

TAKES NET LOSS

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (UP)—Pressure of profit taking sales after early strength forced wheat prices down for moderate net losses in trading here today. Some selling was in the way of evening up commitments for the holiday tomorrow.

The market opened higher on a flurry of buying induced by strong cables and a sharp advance at Winnipeg. After the May delivery had duplicated its high on the movement of $1.36, selling pressure increased. A better demand for cash wheat contributed a little support.

Corn moved lower after a further persistent selling as a result of increased country offerings and ruled about a cent lower for the day. The two deferred deliveries showed smaller losses.

SERVICES HONOR SAMUEL B. FRITZ

Buhl Pays Last Honor to Veteran Photographer Of West End

BUHL, Feb. 11 (Special)—Funeral services for Samuel B. Fritz, 42, Buhl photographer, were held Wednesday from the Buhl Methodist church. The services were conducted by Rev. E. R. Berg and Rev. W. H. Hertzog. A mixed quartet composed of C. M. Pickrell, Mrs. E. R. Berg, Mr. Pickrell and M. M. VanPatten sang "Oh Love That Will Not Let Me Go," "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Abide With Me." They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. R. Overbaugh. Pallbearers were Walter Lyon, Dr. Baggs, Ray Banbury, Mr. Studenbaker, C. M. McQueary and Ed Foster. Interment was in Buhl cemetery under direction of Evans and Johnson. All Buhl business houses were closed from 2 until 3 p. m. in honor of Mr. Fritz. He came to Buhl and opened an office here in April, 1914. He was married to Miss Lillian Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ellis, Buhl, Feb. 12, 1920. He died following a short illness Saturday afternoon.

Explores Career

Fed up with the role of being merely a famous man's wife, Suzanne Lady Wilkins, decided to emulate her husband, Sir Hubert Wilkins, and explore new fields on her own account. So this is how night club patrons in New York see her, singing for their entertainment. Aside from gratifying her ambition, she points out, the work will enable her to provide for herself in the event something happens to her husband while exploring.

FARM DIVERSION BENEFITS CLIMB

Class I Payments Increase Seven Per Cent, Says Dean Iddings

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (Special)—Class I or diversion payments to Idaho farmers participating in the 1936 agricultural conservation program have been increased 7 per cent, announces Dean E. J. Iddings, director of the Idaho agricultural extension division upon advice from the agricultural adjustment administration. This seven per cent increase applies to the rates for shifting from soil-depleting crops to soil-conserving crops. For example, a producer who would have received $100 for diversion under the old rates will now receive $107. Dean Iddings has also been advised that county administrative expenses of conducting the conservation program are to be deducted from payments. A total of $27,116,034.92 was paid to producers under the 1936 agricultural conservation program up to Dec. 31, 1936. H. R. Tolley, administrator, said the bulk of the payments for the 1936 program would be made prior to April 1, 1937.

GARDENS YIELD OLD MUNITIONS

Texas Find Grapeshot and Ancient Rifleballs in Home Gardens

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—The Gardens That Grow Grape-Shot" might well be the name given to the backyard plots of O. M. Bradley and Jack Martin. These two Tyler neighbors have discovered that upon digging for potatoes they often find "minie balls," and when furrowing to plant tomatoes, they rake up grape-shot and rifle balls—relics of the war between the states. Bradley explained that the site of his home and backyard is identical with that of a demolished U. S. arsenal that was built when federal soldiers occupied Tyler during the Civil war. Embedded in the earth are relics of the arms storehouse. In Martin's garden may be found pockets of charcoal left from the ruins of a powder-making branch of the establishment. Although he has recovered many different types of shot and war materials, Bradley was nonplussed recently when he came upon a spherical shaped out of iron. It was six or seven inches in length, oblong and tapered in the manner of a high explosive shell or a headpiece off one of those old-fashioned iron fence-posts. It was eaten away by rust but seemingly was solid. Bradley has failed to establish its identity with any degree of positiveness, but he thinks it may be a kind of missile fired from an old muzzle-loading field-piece.

IDAHO VET CASH OVER 2 MILLION

BOISE, Feb. 11 (Special)—Veterans' administration expenditures in Idaho during the fiscal year of 1936 amounted to $2,257,140 according to a report received by W. T. Lockwood, state director for the national emergency council. This sum did not include payments made to veterans on bonus certificates. C. H. Hudeleson is the state manager for the veterans' administration. Living veterans of all wars received the sum of $1,053,320 in compensation and pension payments, to 760 dependents of deceased veterans of all wars amounted to $301,840.

Casino Returns As Fad in Sandusky, O.

SANDUSKY, O. (AP)—The card game, casino, is becoming so popular here that it threatens to displace pinocle. Already there is talk of a city casino tournament and perhaps a county tournament. Gambling of all kinds was taboed in Sandusky over a year ago. Casino players say they are not gambling—they are just trying to pass the time away.

RIVER REAPPEARS LONDON (AP)—Buckinghamshire's "vanishing" river, the Miskerton, has surprised the inhabitants of Chalfont St. Giles by beginning to flow again. The river, which has baffled experts for many years, had been "dry" for six months, despite the fact that there has been plenty of water.

Good Service Wins Patrolman $15,000

BOSTON (AP)—Because their father was faithful in his work for 39 years, James and Carolyn Hixon are assured a college education. Patrolman James R. Hixon was bequeathed $15,000 by Miss Carrie W. Smith, 89. The bequest was "to show appreciation of the faith and service" Hixon had given to Miss Smith. Hixon began working for Miss Smith when he was 14 years old. He worked for her for 20 years, and continued to help on the estate after he joined the police force. Hixon put away the money for his children's education. Britain's largest railway coach has 56 wheels and can carry a concentrated load of 150 tons.
