UNION EYES FORD WITH 'CAUTION'

Coordination for Administration of State Lands Seen

"Waste" of Time, Effort Cited at Planning Meet

BOISE, Idaho, April 8 (UP)—A strong movement for coordination of national and state administrations of land, forests, grazing areas and irrigation projects became apparent here today...

Citing what they termed "waste" of time and effort, as well as lack of efficient cooperation in regulation of resourceful land...

"The new people already here, those already on the way, and those likely to come during the next decade or two need definite opportunities for settlement on good land and opportunities for industrial or service employment," he said.

Needs Program He declared the northwest region needed a simple program to provide such opportunities and without it, would be unable to assimilate a new population without fear of lowering living standards.

People, he said, were not of intrinsic value themselves. They are, he declared, of value only if regional living standards are maintained and constantly raised.

Concerning development of a northwest land and reclamation plan, Bessey said there were approximately nine millions of acres which could be reclaimed as good farm lands.

Sounds Warning He sounded a note of warning concerning use of the forests, and declared that some species of timber, such as Idaho white pine, would disappear within two generations unless the rate of cutting was reduced.

He pointed out that the rate of cutting was reduced. Depletion, he said, was continuing at a rate of 13 billion feet per year, and the rate of growth was only four billion feet per year.

Bessey advocated a broad program of public works as a method of offsetting drain of money from the producing to the financial centers.

$90,000 MAILED LOCAL BEET MEN

Participating Pay Checks Bring Tpn Total to $6 for 1936

Checks totaling $90,000 were placed in the mail today by the Amalgamated Sugar company representing the first participating payment under the 1936 beet contracts...

The payment was at the rate of 50 cents a ton and covers beets delivered during the 1936 season. This payment brings the amount paid growers in this district for the 1936 crop to $6 a ton, representing approximately $1,500,000 received by the beet growers to date.

The initial payment for the 1936 crop of $5.50 was more than the entire payment received on the 1935 crop, Tallman points out.

"The contracting to date on the 1937 crop is very satisfactory, as the farmers in this section realize the necessity of planting beets this year in order to establish a large base acreage as possible," Tallman said.

"Their future acreage allotment, on which they may receive generous benefit payments from the government under the O'Mahoney-Jones sugar bill now before congress, may be based upon the acreage planted. There is no restriction, however, on acreage this year."

HOLLYWOOD, April 8 (UP)—A sorrowing film company on the Paramount lot today "shot around" scenes in which pretty blond Helen Burgess, 18-year-old high school girl who made a sensational rise to stardom, was scheduled to appear.

She died suddenly of pneumonia last night, a cold contracted on the movie lot developed into a fatal illness so swiftly there was no time to place her in a hospital.

ENGLAND FORCES REBELS' APOLOGY FOR SHIP ATTACK

Spanish Civil War Causing Renewed Tension Among European Nations

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE (United Press Cable Editor)

Tension among the European powers over the Spanish civil war increased markedly today.

Italy again refused even to discuss withdrawal of her volunteers from Spain. With the rebels having difficulties in Spain, Britain and France feared that Mussolini might feel impelled to throw in fresh troops to insure an insurgent victory.

Under the guns of a cruiser and a destroyer in the Balearic islands, Britain forced an insistent apology for the bombing of a British destroyer in the Mediterranean by rebel airplanes which some unofficial London sources suspected might have been Italian.

France, Russia Lashed In Rome, Virginia Gayda, unofficial spokesman for Mussolini, continued in his newspaper his denunciation of France and Russia, accusing them of aiding the loyalists openly and on a large scale.

Today he devoted himself to Soviet Russia, detailing alleged shipments of men, munitions, artillery machine guns, bombs, airplanes, tanks and trucks.

The Italian feeling against Britain and France was such that the government considered cancelling an Italian-French football game scheduled in Paris, fearing players might be attacked.

Rebels in North—In Spain, the rebels were dominant in the north but almost completely routed in the southern Cordoba sector. Gen. Emilio Mola, however, was driving hard for Bilbao in the north. His troops occupied strategic mountain peaks five miles from Durango and only 16 from Bilbao, on the coast.

Mola's forces were operating principally with German-made artillery, planes and tanks.

FOUR KILLED IN ALABAMA STORM

TROY, Ala., April 8 (UP)—Four persons were killed and at least 20 injured when a tornado roared down on Brundige, Ala., 17 miles southwest of here today, the sheriff's office reported.

The twister struck the residential section of the town, and leveled more than a score of homes.

L. R. Day, an attaché of the sheriff's office, said he had counted at least 15 injured persons who have been brought to Troy hospitals in trucks and farm wagons from the stricken area. Many of them were believed dying, Day said.

All telegraph and telephone lines to Brundige were down.

Victims of Douglas Air liner's Crash in Arizona

Here are three of the eight persons killed when the Douglas airliner crashed into Mount Baldy, 11,000-foot peak in Arizona. Left to right they are McElroy, Douglas company engineer; Glen C. Moser, pilot of the plane; Mrs. Eatey, accompanying her husband as a passenger. Charred bodies of the victims were found in and beneath the plane, which burned after the crash. At the right is the scene in north-eastern Arizona, the arrow pointing to Mount Baldy, on whose side the wreckage was reached last night by a party of searchers traveling on foot.

Charred Bodies of Eight Persons, Killed in Plane Crash, Recovered

UNDERTAKERS BRING REMAINS OF VICTIMS TO McNARY, ARIZ.

McNARY, Ariz., April 8 (UP)—Undertakers assistants early today started bringing back here the bodies of eight persons who perished when a luxury liner Douglas transport crashed into a canyonside near here.

Two of the bodies, those of Pilot Glen Moser and Co-Pilot Joe Wolf, both of Santa Monica, Calif., were thrown clear when the plane struck with terrific force into the mountainside. Inside the charred fuselage were the other bodies, so badly burned that only one may be identified.

While only eight persons were supposed to be aboard the plane when it left Burbank, Calif., last Saturday to be flown to New York for delivery to the Dutch K. L. M. airlines, the undertakers' men said there was more burned flesh in the cabin than would be provided by six bodies. They estimated the cabin had eight persons in it when the plane hurtled into the canyon-side.

An unofficial and unconfirmed report here was that the big transport stopped after it left Burbank to pick up two additional persons. It was not known who they were or where they were picked up, if the report is true.

Lee Taylor of the Douglas Aircraft Co. said, however, it was definite that only eight were aboard the ship.

Oddities

CRASH KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8 (UP)—Radio listeners heard a crash over the air during a safety program sponsored by a local radio station. Two motorists, their attention drawn to a member of the safety squad who was quizzing drivers on traffic regulations by remote control, collided head-on not ten feet from the microphone.

BREAKDOWN RICHLAND, Tex., April 8 (UP)—R. K. Finch said today that his turkey had a nervous breakdown and died after leaving eight eggs in one day. Never before, poultry experts said, has a turkey laid so many eggs in so short a period.

TEARS DETROIT, April 8 (UP)—There were tears in the eyes of hundreds of persons today at the Eckhardt and Becker brewery. More than 3,000 barrels of beer, manufactured by a brewery recently purchased by Eckhardt and Becker, were poured into the sewer. The destroyed stock was valued at $23,000.

GUNS CLEVELAND, April 8 (UP)—City detectives left county jail with sheepish expressions today. The cause, a check-your-guns-at-the-club order by Chief J. J. Frank Ryan. The reason: "Too many prisoners strong-arming 'em away from the 'dicks."

PINOCHILE CLEVELAND, April 8 (UP)—Police answering a call to the home of Julius Solonche found him enraged not so much because he and his guests had just been robbed of $21.50 as because the hold-up man had broken up their pinocchle game and scrambled the cards. Solonche had lost a 450 melé.

A. F. L. HEAD GETS THREAT MESSAGE

John P. Frey Told to Stay Out of Oil Industry in Anonymous Epistle

WASHINGTON, April 8 (UP)—John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, said today that he had been threatened with death if he participated in the A. F. L. drive to unionize the oil fields in competition with the committee for industrial organization.

Frey, who was prosecutor at the federation trial which resulted in the suspension of 10 C. I. O. unions, said the threat came by mail and was anonymous.

"This letter won't deter me for a moment," he said. "Of course I am going into the oil fields."

Frey summoned the presidents of 16 craft unions to plan the federation's petroleum organizing campaign which will be launched at a Houston, Texas, mass meeting, April 15.

The meeting today, Frey indicated, also will chart an organizing drive covering steel and shipyards. The C. I. O. is active in unionizing those fields.

As a counter-move, C. I. O. leaders revealed, they are planning to grant charters to local unions expelled from the federation because of C. I. O. leanings.

STUDENT FLIERS BATTLE STORMS

10 Cadets at Kelly Field, Texas, Land Safely After Encounter With Dust

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 8 (UP)—A routine training flight that turned into a desperate battle with the elements was recounted today at Kelly field where 10 of 21 student fliers checked in safely. Two planes were crashed in emergency landings and one cadet, F. J. Black, Jr., 23, Tallahassee, Fla., suffered a broken arm.

The cadets were routed out of Kelly field at five-minute intervals starting at 6:45 p. m. Near Austin they encountered a blinding dust storm. Each cadet did his best to clear the storm, which reached the area sooner than expected.

Only two managed to get back to their home field, for the dust again spread far south of San Antonio. The others got down at San Marcos, Austin and Painesville.

"The cadets showed excellent judgment in returning to their nearest fields when they encountered dust," said Capt. W. G. Blythe. "The only error in judgment was in the prediction of the time it would take for the dust, which we knew was coming, to get here."

Black cracked up when he came down in a pasture near Caldwell, Ronald F. Fallows, 27, landed in a plowed field near Schulenburg. He escaped injury. His plane was damaged slightly.

Hotel Announces $75,000 Addition

Hoops Tells Plans for New Floor on Building

First actual step toward expansion of Twin Falls hotel facilities was taken here this afternoon with announcement of a $75,000 building program for the New Rogerson hotel.

The program calls for construction of a fourth story on the present building and remodeling of the second floor to allow a convention assembly room seating 200 persons, it was revealed by William Hoops, Twin Falls contractor and owner of the hotel.

The additional floor will mean 50 more rooms and will increase the New Rogerson capacity to 125 rooms, Mr. Hoops said.

Cost of the building expansion will approximate $50,000, with cost of the new equipment and furnishings totalling another $25,000.

Ready By July Construction will start as soon as final plans are ready and will be completed "not later than July 1," Mr. Hoops announced.

Architect for the hotel addition is Hans Hulbe, Boise. Details are being drawn up for the architect by A. L. Schuerman, Twin Falls.

The construction work, it was indicated, will either be handled by the Hoops Construction company or will be let out on contract.

Building of the fourth story on the present structure will be accompanied by installation of another elevator to handle the increased guest load, according to Lynn Stewart, hotel manager. The elevator will be installed probably alongside the present lift.

Air Conditioned All rooms facing the street on the new floor will be air conditioned, plans revealed this afternoon. All will be modern and will have individual baths.

Woman Uses Horse Whip On Kansas City Manager

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8 (UP)—Mrs. Mary Wyatt resumed her household today, satisfied that she had struck a blow for all the wives of Kansas City firemen by horse-whipping City Manager H. F. McElroy.

"I am a decent citizen and it was not my fault I was driven to it," she said. "But someone had to call attention to the dreadful living conditions among firemen's families."

Mrs. Wyatt blames crooked politicians for a 60 per cent cut in firemen's salaries, reducing them to about $60 a month. She hates politicians with all the energy of her 145 pounds, which are packed in her four foot, 11-inch stature.

"It's funny that they aren't satisfied with their take from their slot machines, gambling houses and bookie joints, and all the night clubs they are mixed up in, but they have to squeeze the poor firemen as well."

Ford Hits at Auto Groups in Statement

Lewis Says "Henry Will Change His Mind"

By JAMES G. AUSTIN

DETROIT, April 8 (UP)—The United Automobile Workers decided today to organize employees in Henry Ford's vast motor plants fully before moving "with caution" to deal with the manufacturer who declared he "never would recognize any union."

At his Ways, Ga., winter estate, Ford denounced the U. A. W. and its sit-down strike tactics and asserted that he would deal with "individual workers." In Detroit, John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, shouted to a cheering throng of union members: "Henry Ford will change his mind on this subject."

Wins Recognition The union already had won recognition from two of the "big three" in the automobile industry—General Motors and Chrysler—and its leaders announced that efforts would be made to establish it as collective bargaining agent for Ford's employees.

But Lewis cautioned, "have the men well organized before they engage Mr. Ford in conversation."

The Ford-Lewis exchange came while 90,000 workers in the Chrysler corporation and "feeder" plants prepared to return to their jobs after settlement of a month-old strike.

While union members and sympathizers gathered in the state fair grounds coliseum in Detroit last night to celebrate the Chrysler agreement, Ford received interviewers in his Georgia home and declared:

"Deal With Individuals" "We'll never recognize the United Automobile Workers union or any other union which deals with individuals."

News of Ford's statement reached the coliseum here as Lewis prepared to speak to a crowd of 25,000 gathered to hear the union leaders explain the Chrysler settlement.

"I don't let a little thing like a loss of statement by Henry Ford bother me in considering the future of the industry," the C. I. O. chief said.

Name Gets Boos Mention of Ford's name brought boos from the audience.

"A lot of things might happen," Lewis continued. "The supreme court of the United States some Monday might forget what it's doing and validate the Wagner labor relations act, and if the supreme court ever did that quite by accident Henry would be in a bad way."

Lewis weaved into his address a vigorous denunciation of the American Federation of Labor, an attack upon three governors who have announced that they would not tolerate sit-down strikes in their states, criticism of the United States senate for approving a resolution condemning sit-downs and a warning to U. A. W. members to abide by the terms of the Chrysler agreement.

Emphatic query to Sen. James P. Pope, asking that he reveal what groups are behind the agitation for a Sawtooth national park, was dispatched to Washington today by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce through F. G. Thompson, secretary.

The message to Pope was in answer to a letter received from the senator declaring flatly that "while I will appreciate your opposition to such a park, I also must recognize that there are a good many people who hold the opposite view." The chamber had previously informed Pope that the source of agitation for such a park cannot be traced to Idaho groups, and had asked him to withdraw his bill, now pending before the senate public lands committee, calling for an investigation of the park plan.

"I do not believe it justly can be said that anyone's interest is going to be prejudiced by an luncheon. All will be modern and will have individual baths. Installation of the convention (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

STRIKERS REMAIN IN DAVEY'S OFFICE

Alliance Members Sit-Down in Reception Room of Ohio Governor

COLUMBUS, O., April 8 (UP)—Thirty-five members of the Ohio Workers' Alliance entered the second day of their sit-down strike in the richly-furnished, red carpeted reception room of Gov. Martin L. Davey's office today. They were determined to remain until the chief executive "changes his mind" about setting up a national guard soup kitchen to feed the state's needy.

"The strikers' about half of whom were women and girls, spent the night huddled together on the floor or curled up in the red leather chairs and divans. A few shirred-sleeved men played rummy at two improvised tables.

The governor, recuperating at his mansion after a week's illness, told reporters by telephone that he intended to "be nice" to the delegation.

Mechanics Check Plane of Flying Lindberghs

MUNICH, Germany, April 8 (UP)—Mechanics at the airport today refueled and checked the monoplane in which Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are flying back to England from a trip to India.

The fliers landed here Tuesday night, they remained at their hotel this morning. Weather was cloudy. The Lindberghs gave no indication when they would leave.

ROGERSON HOTEL PLANS $75,000 EXPANSION PROGRAM

HOOPS ARRANGES ADDED FLOOR TO MEAN 50 ROOMS

Continuation of the hotel's modernizing program in connection with equipment and furnishing of present rooms will be carried out simultaneously with the additional building plans, the owner said.

"We decided on increasing the hotel capacity," Mr. Hoops said, "to accommodate the constantly increasing flow of business and because of Twin Falls, from a civic angle, is in need of facilities to take care of conventions."

The hotel expansion plans, according to Stewart, will mean a larger personnel of local employees on the new Rogerson staff.

Survey before decision was made to add the extra story showed that ceiling joists and other supporting material in the present third floor were extremely solid, with the joists consisting of 2 by 12 timbers.

"The building, put up by Robert Rogerson, a pioneer, for three added floors," Mr. Hoops said.

Mr. Hoops and his sons took over the hotel Feb. 1, 1933. It was built for Mr. Rogerson in 1900.

Record Attendance Forecast For District Festival in Burley Tomorrow

BURLEY, April 8 (Special)—Approximately 1,500 students, the largest number ever to register for this district for a music festival, are expected here Friday to participate in the south central Idaho district music festival during Friday and Saturday.

The festival is not a contest, Reed T. Hyde, Burley music instructor and chairman of the meet, emphasized, but is group participation. There will be outstanding judges present at all the divisions, but they will make their ratings and suggestions to the instructors following the festival, and will not select winners, as has been done in the past.

Judges will be C. J. Hawkins of Salt Lake City, director of the University of Utah band and the Hawkins professional band; Arthur Preber, director of the University of Utah orchestra; and Virginia Summerhays Howard of the McCune School of Music, Salt Lake City.

Chorus groups will be heard at the high school auditorium, and instrumental solos and ensembles at the Episcopal church across from the school building during Friday.

Saturday the bands will meet at the high school gymnasium, the orchestras at the L. D. S. tabernacle amusement hall, where string instrumental solos will also be held; and piano and vocal solos at the Episcopal church.

'WASTE' CITED AT PLANNING MEET

Coordination in Handling of State Lands Urged at Boise Gathering

Flood Cited Spoken of was the Yakima valley flood in Washington two years ago, which, one delegate said, was the result of overgrazed bench land.

Delegates felt that had administration of this area been under one supervision, the flood, possibly could have been better controlled.

It was declared likely that the policy committee would ask for more extensive governmental cooperation and consolidation in the administration of resourceful lands.

Will Simons, chairman of the Idaho state planning board, said, "The job of bringing about desirable cooperation between governmental agencies is a long one and one which will require unremitting effort."

Bessey Opens Meet The conference was opened today with R. F. Bessey, consultant of the Pacific Northwest regional planning commission in Portland, Oregon, addressing more than 150 delegates.

He foresaw influx of hundreds of thousands of settlers to the northwest, and advent of more than two millions during the next generation.

They can be absorbed, he said, if a development program is prepared to make sure of an opportunity for newcomers.

DEADLINE FIXED ON SOIL SIGN-UP

April 13 Set as Final Date For Work Sheets Under Conservation Plan

Definite closing date for applications to participate in the 1937 agricultural conservation program has been set for April 13. It was announced here this afternoon by Harvey S. Hale, county agent.

All work sheets must be signed by that date by farmers who did not fill out the sheets in 1936. Mr. Hale said. Those who actively participated last year carry over into the 1937 program.

Agents Hear Leaders Setting of the final deadline was announced to county agents yesterday at their session in the Jerome courthouse, addressed by Nick Carter, western division field representative for the AAA. The agents also heard Dean E. J. Idings, University of Idaho; J. H. Riorden, state county agent, and H. L. Stafford, executive secretary of the state committee on agricultural conservation.

Instructions on completion of the 1936 program and carrying out of the 1937 set-up were given agents from south central and southwestern counties at the gathering.

"There is still some misunderstanding concerning the work sheets," Mr. Hale said. "These are not agreements by contracts requiring farmers to do certain things. They are simply a statement of crops on the farm in the base year of 1936. When filled out they do not obligate the farmer but simply pave the way for him to participate if he qualifies when supervisors inspect his farm."

Many beet growers who had payments coming last year could not receive them because they had not signed work sheets, the county agent pointed out.

Rate of Payment The rate of payments for diverting crops from soil depletion to soil conserving is $12.38 an acre in Twin Falls county. By qualifying for full payments, Mr. Hale declared, growers can collect between $20 to $30 an acre. He stressed the fact that the soil conservation program allows farmers to collect payments and still to have use of the land by diverting it into soil-building crops, chief of which he cited as alfalfa, clovers and pasturage.

Because field men now arranging work sheets in all sectors of the county will be unable to contact every farmer as a result of the short notice on deadline, Mr. Hale listed contact points for farmers to have signed sheets.

At the same time, Europe heard reports that the rebels had abandoned hope of capturing Madrid for the time being and would concentrate on sweeping the loyalists clear of the entire north.

REPORT DENIED HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontiers, April 8 (U.P.)—Spanish nationalist frontier headquarters officially denied today a dispatch in the London Daily Herald asserting that Gen. Francisco Franco might abandon his attack on Madrid.

"It is vicious propaganda intended to weaken the nationalist prestige abroad," said an official statement. "Madrid will fall. We can not fix the date but we insist that the city's capture is inevitable."

FRENCH ISSUE STATEMENT PARIS, April 8 (U.P.)—The foreign office issued a statement today denying the Italian press attack alleging the French government is continuing to give military aid to the Spanish loyalists.

The statement said: "France is ready to discuss any precise facts which Italy produces before the London non-intervention committee. France established an effective border control even before the neutral control system started."

Thompson will speak at Hazelton tonight before the Jerome County Chamber of Commerce and will ask that group to go on record against the suggestion.

CANAL COMPANY WORK COMPLETE

Repairs to System Expected To End Tonight; Water On Friday

Repairs are expected to be completed and water will probably enter the entire system of the Twin Falls Canal company tomorrow morning, John Iron, manager, said today.

The water is expected to be released again from Murtaugh lake this evening after being shut off since Sunday. The shut-off is the first of the two yearly turnoffs to permit repairs and study seepage conditions, Iron said. This includes water in both the low line and high line canals.

Previous to the shutoff very little water was going for irrigation, this principally being used among onion growers. With repairs completed, however, and much of the farm work underway it is expected extensive irrigation will start at an early date.

The conference will be devoted to priesthood quorum work with reports to be given by each quorum president. A mission within the stake conducted under the direction of the Seventies quorum will be organized. The Jones family is going the way of all American families. Scenes depicting the Joneses delving through the Sunday morning paper in "Back to Nature," new Twentieth Century-Fox picture of the adventures of the Jones family, opening tomorrow at the Idaho theater, twice were ruined because five-year-old Billy Mahan became so interested in the "funnies" that he neglected to respond to his dialogue cue. Newspapers "Streamline"

Newspapers, like everything else, change with the times, and the awards recently made by N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., in the seventh annual Exhibition of Newspaper Typography, will give readers some idea of what they may expect within the next few years.

The Los Angeles Times was awarded first honors for being the most outstanding for typographical excellence. The second award among newspapers of the same classification—those with more than 50,000 circulation—went to the New York Herald Tribune, and third award to the Des Moines Tribune.

The new trend in newspaper typography was evidenced by the selection of two newspapers which have modernized their dress and two which printed in two colors. The Los Angeles Times, one of the "modern" papers, used Sans Serif headings set flush with the left of the column, while the Glendale News-Press dispensed with column rules and used headings set flush in Sans Serif type.

To explain all this so it will be more easily understood by the lay reader, "streamlining" is becoming the newspaper vogue. The purpose is for greater speed in newspaper production. "Counting" headline units so they will fit into a set style, slowly giving way to the faster methods.

Whether they will want to admit it or not, Time magazine has influenced the newspapers with its type of presentation. Pictures more than ever will take their place in the newspapers, for their is a growing demand among readers for a photographic presentation of the day's events.

Americanize Menus!

Any American who has ever sat in a restaurant and looked helplessly at the menu with its long list of French phrases must applaud Congressman Maury Maverick's new campaign. Mr. Maverick wants French names driven off American menus, and he would start by calling hors d'oeuvres "dingle doos."

"Dingle doos" is a word of his own invention. Its great advantage, he says, is that anybody can pronounce it—which is far from true of "hors d'oeuvres." And the congressman's campaign might well be carried right on down the menu.

For the hungry American in a restaurant not only has to understand what these French names mean; he has to be able to pronounce them when the waiter bends over to take his order, and that is something of a job. Brave men stammer and stumble and blush pitifully; cowards give up and ask for something simple such as ham and eggs; both groups are entitled to relief. With "dingle doos" as a starter, can't we go ahead and get Americanized menus?

Keeping Munitions Home

Senator Gerald P. Nye and Congressman Hamilton Fish, jr., seem to have the idea that, if the scheme of embargoing munitions shipments to warring nations is sound in small doses, it ought to be equally sound in big doses.

They have introduced a bill in congress, accordingly, which would ban all munitions shipments—not only in time of war, but in time of peace as well. The only exceptions would be shipments to nations on the American continent "engaged in war against a non-American state or states."

There is a great deal of logic in this idea. We are now selling munitions abroad in so many quarters that, if we get into another war in the near future, some American boys will certainly be killed by munitions of American manufacture. There is much to be said for a proposal to take us out of the munitions-exporting business permanently, in peace and war alike.

POT SHOTS

NOTE TO MR. DALY: Dear Pote Shottes: I have seen my Genlist and he says my glimmers still throw a mean glance. I have even cut my liquid diet to the bone. I have fore-sworn my ale. But still in fast succession on recent excursions to the Big City, I have seen a pair of snakes, several fox squirrels, a litter of rabbits, and now a pig reclining or dashing about in the show window of Daly's Brunswick.

SWIFT ROMANCING: It used to be for years the gent His fair young miss would woo, But now! He makes it short, a month he'll court, And then they say "I do."

People wonder at such haste, Parents show signs of alarm; But all this while the man will smile He says, "It's just my charm."

But the Miss will say "It had to be" "The not just what I like, "But I couldn't say no—that wouldn't go "He'd have gone on a sit-down strike."

P.S.—Now really, Pot Shots, this has nothing—nothing at all to do with you, to do with little Hero's sudden leap to the altar, but you gotta admit he got an awful purty wife in an awful short time. It sure looks mighty funny—your star looking so much about sitting down striking, too.

SAY, ISN'T THERE ANY PRIVACY LEFT?

Pot Shots: I send you this to see whether the uprising among your "friends" off the paper has fixed it so we contribs have a chance to rate when we send in something about Pot Shots himself.

RAISE A CRY OF "HILLER" and "MUSSELI" and "dictator." It understand Pote Watsle was seen the other night in Tralinger's, having a glass of beer with a young lady. And I'm told you were heard to remark you were celebrating your reconciliation after appearance of the motion for dismissal of the famous Pot Shots divorce suit.

SIGNS OF SPRING (Twin Falls Variety)

WE SUDDENLY bethought ourselves that of late we've forgotten last week's contest and here some of you contributors have been waiting for that 50 cents all this time. The board of advisors says the money for No. 1 contest entry goes to Ean Movelang. All we need in Pam Movelang's address and we'll ship out the cash.

FOR OUR CONTENT: The rest of this week and next we give you something you ought to be able to sink your teeth into. Just answer us this: what five words most annoy you?

IMPOSSIBLE TASK!

Pote's Watsle: That divorce suit certainly gives us a swell nickname for you. I imagine you just love it. By the way, now that the supreme court justices are blowing off verbal steam, it seems that one of them said their chief job is finding out just what's in a congressman's mind.

Holy smokes, if they're trying to do that, it's no wonder Mr. Roosevelt believes the justices are over-worked!

BULLETIN BOARD

Just A Waitress—We aren't pro-moting any grudges. But come back again with something else.

BUT THE BUS COULDN'T SOCK YOU!

Pote's Shottes: Maybe it's swell and maybe it ain't. That Los Angeles drive-in movie theater, where you sit in your car and watch the show. But it has one heekiva disadvantage. Can you imagine telling a slight-seeing bus in front of you to take off its hat?

FAMOUS LAST LINE "What—no cartoon? No show for me tonight!..." THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

Trailer Adventure

BY NARD JONES

©1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY: MARTHA BHITTAIN and BETTY HAYNES, news on their California vacation trip and themselves stranded in San Diego. They answer an ad of the Airspeed Trailer Company and obtain an assignment to travel up the west coast, demonstrating the new de luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ARNOLD SLOSS of the Airspeed company fails to ask for either bond or references.

Blated at the prospect of the trip and money, nevertheless, the two purchase travel outfits and return to their apartment to pack. At their door they surprise a handsome young man trying to enter. Apologetically, he tells them he stepped off at the wrong door and that his name is GERRY NEAL. At first alarmed, the girls soon incline to dismiss the incident. But Martha doesn't forget Neal. They start northward. And on the outskirts of a little town they are halted by an unshaven young man seeking a ride. It is Neal.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III: Neal recognized them he gave no sign of it. "I hope you'll pardon me," he said. "But it's really tough getting a lift these days. Would you object very much to my riding along with you?"

The question was put so frankly and in such a friendly tone, that Martha—despite Betty's frantic nudging—heard herself saying, "I—I guess not, but it's only a coupe."

The young man looked contrite. "I wouldn't want to crowd you," Martha looked at him. He did appear tired and down on his luck, and there was something about his eyes which made her, instinctively, trust him and want to help him. She smiled. "Are you sure you don't remember seeing us before?"

"Why..." He searched her face hesitantly. "Say! You're the girls who lived in the apartment below me in San Diego!"

"Yes," said Betty, a trifle belligerently. "You were trying to get into our apartment."

Neal laughed. "I assure you it was a mistake. You see, I was a little excited. My intention was to get into my own apartment and quietly retrieve this suitcase—without paying the rent. I suppose I was so afraid of meeting the landlady that I forgot to watch my floor!"

His predicament was so parallel to the one they had faced that Martha and Betty found themselves joining in his laughter. "This is really mighty kind of you," Neal said as they climbed into the little coupe. "Especially in view of the fact that I haven't had a shave since yesterday morning and my clothes are a little road-weary."

He was openly curious about their trip, and as they drove along Martha told him the story of Car-

Apparently, he had won Betty, for now she appeared, too, quite as if she'd known Gerry Neal all of her life.

Martha listened for the creak of the trailer door, then shoved the car into gear. "He may not have much money or baggage," she told Betty, "but he packs a lot of nerve around with him. When he got into the road I had half a mind to drive off and leave him standing there."

"I think he's nice," after all," said Betty. "Why would you want to do that?"

"That isn't our trailer. We have no right to let him in there."

Betty shrugged. "He's harmless. And anyhow, it's better to have him in there where he's safe."

The streamlined trailer and the little coupe sped northward, skirting Bay Baiba and Newport Harbor, rolling easily through Venice with its lanes of tall, gill-well derricks.

"Wonder if we ought to liberate the prisoner," mentioned Martha. "We're pretty close to Long Beach now," Betty said. "Might as well wait until we're there. He's probably asleep. I imagine he does that whenever the opportunity is present." When they arrived at the outskirts of Long Beach they inquired the whereabouts of the Golden State Auto Park from a gas-station attendant, and Gerry Neal didn't appear.

Betty frowned. "See! He's snoozing his head off. Why does such a handsome fellow have to be so darned lazy?"

But when they reached the auto park they received a shock of surprise. Gerry Neal wasn't in the trailer!

Martha looked for the creak of the trailer door, then shoved the car into gear. "He may not have much money or baggage," she told Betty, "but he packs a lot of nerve around with him. When he got into the road I had half a mind to drive off and leave him standing there."

"That isn't our trailer. We have no right to let him in there."

Betty shrugged. "He's harmless. And anyhow, it's better to have him in there where he's safe."

Always honest with herself, she admitted that she had been attracted to him. Even at that first meeting, in the half-light of the hill in that San Diego apartment, she had found Neal interesting. She had, in fact, found him more interesting than she would have admitted to Betty Hayes. And now she had picked him up on the road. A moment ago she'd been so foolish as to mention that she and Betty had received money from Arnold Sloss. Nervously Martha visioned the revolver she had purchased in San Diego. It was in the pocket of the door nearest Neal. She wouldn't, she realized in sudden panic, have the slightest chance of reaching it if Gerry Neal decided against it.

But if Neal intended trickery he was at least leisurely about it. The afternoon hours passed swiftly, and as they drew nearer to Long Beach he still gave no sign of being anything more than a happy-go-lucky young man temporarily out of luck. Apparently, too, he had won Betty—for now she was talking merrily, too, quite as if she'd known Gerry Neal all her life.

"By the way," Neal said at last, rubbing his chin, "I'm frightfully embarrassed about arriving in Long Beach with two charming young ladies and no shave. I've a razor in my bag and I'm just wondering if you'd let me get into that fancy trailer and use it."

"Of course," Martha said quickly, slowing down. "There's a good mirror and a wash basin."

Taking his bag from between his feet, Neal stepped down into the road. "Well," he smiled, "I hope you recognize me when we meet at the Golden State Auto Park."

Martha listened for the creak of the trailer door, then shoved the car into gear. "He may not have much money or baggage," she told Betty, "but he packs a lot of nerve around with him. When he got into the road I had half a mind to drive off and leave him standing there."

VOTES AND THEORIES: WASHINGTON, April 8.—Postmaster General Farley was just about right when he said "we" have enough votes to put the supreme court plan over in congress.

Considerable bluffing and bragging is going on. Neither side is saying all it knows nor all it intends to do. Nevertheless, the inside checking done within the past few days indicates President Roosevelt will force his bill through with anywhere from 31 to 37 votes, if he chooses and if he can get it to a vote.

The opposition leaders are accommodatingly saying off the record they do not intend to filibuster. In fact, they privately agree Mr. Roosevelt has, or can get, the votes.

These twin developments, however, may not be as important as they sound. The truth is Mr. Roosevelt will leave the senate floor strewn with bitterness and strife, which may conceivably injure his political party for years to come, if he exerts the force which is in his power. Furthermore, the opposition senators will certainly change their minds about not filibustering, unless they get some kind of inside agreement on new court appointees or satisfactory concessions. (Senators always talk differently than they act whenever filibusters are concerned. They have even been known to deny publicly that they were filibustering when openly engaged in it.)

Consequently, while Mr. Roosevelt theoretically has the votes, and his opponents are rolling over on their backs as if to be run over, voluntarily, the situation is far from being fixed.

WHIPPING BOY

If newspapers were guilty of all the sins ascribed to them, no editor would aspire to any higher future than that of the lowest hold of Hades. Latest transgression officially attributed to them is the series of yarns about a world peace or disarmament move.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull have announced it grieves them very much to say it, but there is not one particle, iota, or particle of an iota of truth in the inference that something may be attempted for disarmament or peace. The suggestion has been stamped officially as "pure newspaper-inspired stories."

The infinitesimal particle—Jota in their announcement is that the press of London and Paris, whence all these latest stories come, is an official press. It is the kind of press which suppresses a Simpson affair until the government wants it printed, or flays the hide of Mussolini when the foreign office wants it flayed, or soothes him with balm next day upon orders.

There is another way of saying that both Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull have, an excellent idea where the disarmament conference stories are coming from, but do not care to say. Their purposes are better served by blaming it on the press.

WANTS

The detestable facts seem to be these: Messrs. Roosevelt, Hull, Norman Davis, Bullett, et al are very actively trying to promote a disarmament or peace move, but find themselves in an extremely difficult situation. As everyone now knows, disarmament conferences are not the open-hearted, idealistic gatherings they were supposed to be prior to 1921. Peace moves involve barter and trade of a particularly crafty nature because national safety is involved.

London and Paris could desire nothing better than to have Mr. Roosevelt call a disarmament conference and take the responsibility for its success. If he did it without getting any advance assurances from the other other nations as to what would be agreed upon, he would just now assume the responsibility for working out a solution of the European situation which European statesmen have not been able to solve.

Of course, what Britain wants primarily from such a conference (or seems to) is access to our raw materials in case of war. What France wants is what she has been trying unsuccessfully to get for the past 20 years—security. Mr. Roosevelt is not in a position to give either Britain or France its requirements and therefore finds his task complicated.

Rock Creek CCC

Chicken dinner was served at Camp Rock Creek Sunday to a number of guests invited to attend the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the CCC. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Diz and son, Jimmy; Mrs. George Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne R. Welby and son, Jimmy; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ramage and family; Mrs. Robert Herblison, all of Twin Falls; Miss Gertrude Herblison, Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Zimmerman and family; Mr. and Mrs. L. Brown; Alvin Bean; Winifred McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bean; Mrs. John Nowell; Raymond Butler; Juel Fear and Doris Larsen, all of Kimberly.

C. H. Ramage, project superintendent, visited Oakley Spike camp on Monday.

Camp Rock Creek received a superior rating for the month of March. The rating is based on the various administrative departments in the camp.

Alfred A. Appleby, educational adviser, will leave the first part of next week for Denver, Colo., where he will visit relatives and Dr. E. D. Cressman, head of the classics department at Denver University. Mr. Appleby has completed several Latin and English courses under the supervision of Professor Cressman. W. W. Blakeslee, assistant regional engineer, visited Rock Creek Wednesday for the purpose of inspecting the road project.

Carl J. Arntson, supervisor of the Mindoka national forest, was a visitor at camp Tuesday. A free public dance will be given at Camp Rock Creek Friday evening. The public is invited to attend.

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

15 YEARS AGO

APRIL 8, 1922 George Easley is no longer a Ford dealer. He is now district representative of the Lincoln automobile, one of the finest cars produced today. The first two Lincoln cars unloaded in the state of Idaho arrived here yesterday and are now on exhibition at the Western Automobile.

This car is designed a great deal like the Cadillac and was built by the Leland Motor company which was recently purchased by Henry Ford.

J. N. Jensen bought the first Lincoln to be sold in Idaho. He is sales manager for the Western Auto.

The Twin Falls affirmative won a two to one decision over the Boise negative in the annual triangular debate league contest here last night on the question, "Resolved: That all American coastwise vessels should be exempt from tolls for the use of the Panama canal," and a popular vote on the merits of the contestants, waiting the fact that a home team was believed would have shown about the same proportion.

In preparation, arrangement and delivery the local team consisting of Craven Scott, Marcus Ware and Christopher Homes, showed a clear advantage over the Boise debaters. The judges were Judge James R. Bothwell, County Attorney Frank L. Stephan and Attorney W. P. Guthrie.

The Family Doctor

By Dr. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine. Sinus infections in children are more frequent now than they used to be. Greater exposure to which children are now subjected, especially in connection with swimming and other sports, may be the cause.

It is not altogether improbable that indoor life, with its artificial heat and dry atmosphere, may be responsible to some extent.

The sinuses begin to develop when the child is very young, but may not attain their full growth until he is about 15. When a child has chronic sinus infection, he may also be anemic and easily fatigued. He is bothered frequently by running nose and difficulty in breathing.

Such children recover from one cold only to catch another. They have a loose cough, which gets worse at night and in the early morning.

As a result of the infection in the throat, these children will also have intermittent or constant hoarseness. Headaches are not infrequent, because of pressure of material in the sinuses.

Infections spread from the sinus to ears and throat, so that there may be secondary otitis and swelling of the glands in the neck. When sinus infection has been diagnosed in a child, it is of the greatest importance to build up the child's general health and resistance. Lowered resistance may be caused by exposure, fatigue, malnutrition, or other hygienic errors.

3,700 LABORERS PICKET ONTARIO PLANT OF G. M. C.

Ask 40-Hour Week, Time And Half for Overtime, Recognition

OSHAWA, Ont., April 8 (U.P.)—Approximately 3,700 workers abandoned the plants of the General Motors of Canada today and established picket lines. It was a strike sponsored by the United Automobile Workers to force the company to grant the same concessions that its parent corporation gave the union in the United States.

The company employs approximately 5,000 men here and at St. Catharines, Ont., in the plant of its subsidiary, the McKinnon industries. Workers in that plant will decide their course of action this morning. Union officials predicted that they would join the strike this afternoon.

Report for Work

The local workers reported for work at 7 a. m., having reported to their superiors, they streamed out of the buildings again. The picket lines were formed and quiet groups gathered around the main entrance. Police were on hand. The union had pledged itself in advance against violence.

The union asks a 40-hour week, time and one-half for overtime, and union recognition.

Local union leaders—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union, personally ordered the strike.

First In Canada

The strike here was the first called in Canada as a direct result of refusal of employers to recognize the C. I. O. and U. A. W. as bargaining agents for workers.

Mayor Alex Hall requested the Ontario government to issue orders closing all beer parlors, brewers' warehouses, and government liquor stores for the duration of the strike.

PROBE ORDERED IN PLANE CRASH

Seattle Attorney and Pilot Killed En Route to Visit Sick Father

PASCO, Wash., April 8 (U.P.)—An official investigation was ordered today into the crash of a private plane near here last night in which two persons were killed.

The victims were Spencer Gray, 42, a Seattle attorney, the pilot of the plane, and Mrs. Evans Bunker, 30, his sister. They were en route from Seattle to Viola, Idaho, where their father, J. E. Gray, was reported to be seriously ill.

Spectators said that the plane apparently developed motor trouble shortly after taking off from the airport here, circled the field and then crashed suddenly, hitting on its left wing and nosing into the ground.

Hawaiian Trees

HONOLULU (U.P.)—Hawaii has its own little acorn that to a mammoth oak has grown. Since the first seed of the algaroba tree was introduced here by Father Basil, a century ago, 8,000 acres of arid lava wasteland have been planted with them. They supply beans for cattle feed.

Police contemplated no action against the student, whose name was withheld, because they have no jurisdiction.

The alleged mother, Miss Harriet Boyden, 18, a resident student from Marathon, N. Y., was in "fair" condition at Massachusetts general hospital under guard as police waited to serve warrants charging her with murder and concealing a body.

Last Day for Toronto Mothers to File in "Baby Race" for $500,000

TORONTO, Ont., April 8 (U.P.)—Today is the last day on which those Toronto mothers who for more than 10 years have cast longing eyes on the $500,000 pot of gold at the end of the Charles Vance Millar "baby race" rainbow can file their claims as contestants.

Millar, rich and eccentric bachelor, bequeathed more than $500,000 to the Toronto mother bearing the most children within the decade after his death.

Andrew Hunter, acting for Millar's executors, said today no "dark horse" entries had been filed, which apparently leaves the race strictly between six mothers, all claiming nine children born and legally registered during the 10-year period which ended last Oct. 31.

They are Mrs. Martin Kenney, self-styled winner of the event, who says she bore 11 children during the 10 years, despite the fact she has only nine registered, a claim which her rivals ridicule; Mrs. Clarke, whose five illegitimate children cannot be counted under a court ruling; Mrs. John Nagle; Mrs. Arthur Timleck; Mrs. John MacLean, and Mrs. Alfred Smith.

W. N. Tilley, also acting for the executors, said he intended to request a speedy hearing of all claims.

Junior High Notes

Junior high school industrial arts students under the tutelage of Earl B. Peck this evening will be in the shop and working on regular class projects as the P. T. A. holds open house, visiting hours for the public.

The exhibit this evening is in preparation for the all-school exhibit to be staged May 18 and 20. The student who has completed the most and the best projects by that time will receive the annual

Railways Refuse to Put Prunes on Same Rate Basis as Apples

NAMPFA, Idaho, April 8 (U.P.)—Austin Anson, secretary of the Idaho Shippers' association, said today he had been informed that southwestern and western trunk lines had declined to put prunes on the same shipping rate basis as apples. The decision, if adhered to, would mean a loss of about $200,000 in rates to Idaho shippers, Anson said. Efforts are being made to have the proposal reconsidered. Recently, low rates were retained on apples.

Powell, Ray, with Jean Ballenger as prompter.

The remainder of the assembly period, was occupied by LaDean Stokes who gave a dramatic reading, "Brothers in Love."

U. S. OFFICIAL FLAYS POLITICS IN GAME MANAGEMENT

Deplores Lack of Men Who Recognize Problem

Deplores the fact that the United States "has not developed and will not develop" under present conditions "men or a group of men who know the difficulties of the game problems or men who can stay in office long enough to learn what they are doing," David H. Madsen, of Salt Lake City and Washington, D. C., supervisor of fish resources in all national parks, flayed political practices resorted to in various game departments including that of Idaho. Madsen was principal speaker at the semi-annual banquet of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game Association held at the Park Hotel last night. The banquet attracted more than 100 sportsmen from over this entire section.

Regarding the decrease of fish in streams and birds in the field, Madsen called the sportsmen's attention to the political aspect of the game department.

Raps Frequent Change
"We have to know more about the subject and acquire more scientific information and then how to apply it," Mr. Madsen said. "And we won't get it by politics and not by frequent change in the head of the game department."

"We have not developed and do not have in the United States men or groups of men knowing the difficulties of the problem. We must develop men who can stay in office long enough to learn what they are doing," he said.

Citing political appointments of game wardens, the speaker declared "I don't believe politicians should select, appoint or make the game wardens. And I also believe that money collected from license fees should go for game preservation and not for sources for which we know, in instances, it is going today."

"Turning to stockmen and their reported charges that the national parks service and other government agencies were trying to "run them out of business," the speaker said these were "absolutely unfounded."

Hunting Right
"We sportsmen and others have a right to demand enough big game to furnish hunting for the people of the state. We also have the right to demand that forage is not destroyed by excessive overgrazing and we have the right to demand that the public domain is not controlled by 500 stockmen, but rather will be controlled by the 500,000 other residents of the state who are interested in its hunting and its fishing areas."

"By this I do not mean that the two factions should come to blows. Rather I mean that cooperation will be necessary and should be accomplished. The stockmen and landowners should be made to see the advantages of cooperation and the advantages of the game. When they see this you will have game wardens who will be just what there is no game warden so alert as a farmer, for instance, who believes in preservation and conservation and sees that it is carried on in his sections and on his lands," Madsen said.

Great Fishing Here
Madsen pointed out the fact that some of the greatest fishing water in the United States was around the city of Twin Falls. "Local sportsmen don't realize how lucky they are," he said.

"If the Snake river was studied it might be possible to introduce some other type of fish, especially those not in opposition to each other or to the native species."

He pointed out that before this was accomplished a careful study of the situation should be made. He said that types of fish which would tend to drive out natives should never be planted. He cited the work which has been done in Yellowstone park along this line as well as in Montana.

"There is plenty of room for the right kind of additional fish in your mighty Snake river," he said. "At the present time the Snake is only approximately five per cent productive of trout; this leaves plenty of room for other fish but a careful study should be made before they are planted."

Goes East
Madsen left today for the east and Washington. Prior to receiving his present position he was with the game department of Utah for 20 years and during part of that time was state game warden. He is a recognized authority on sportsmen's topics.

Other speakers at last night's banquet included Carl B. Arntson, supervisor of the Minidoka national forest with headquarters at Burley. Speaking on recreation in this section Mr. Arntson told of the work being done at the Rock Creek CCC camp and said it was hoped the area could be thrown open to visitors this coming season. He told of the camping areas being developed along the canyon and also of other areas which would be developed soon, throwing open to the public land which before was accessible only on foot or horseback.

"I am sorry to say this," he said, "but present circumstances lead me to believe that the Rock-Creek road being constructed by the CCC under supervision of the forest service will not be open this summer. When completed, however, it will give the motorist a loop trip which will be well worth making."

Anxious to Cooperate
Arntson concluded by telling of the desire of the forest service to work with the sportsmen, to the benefit of both.

Jim Marshall, superintendent of the state game farm at Jerome, stated that the farm will be entirely completed within the next two weeks and will supply all counties in the state, with the exception of the 40 northern counties, with pheasants. "At the farm the production capacity will be 10,000 birds," Marshall said. "The artificial capacity of eggs will be 12,000 and the natural capacity 6,000 eggs. I doubt very much if there is any state other than Idaho as far ahead in the artificial brooding system. As our farm the development of an artificial system means the reduction in acres necessary to support the undertaking from 120 down to 10 or 15. The artificial brooding capacity at the farm is 7,000 and the pens are constructed to hold 7,500 birds."

Plan Dedication
Marshall announced dedication of the game farm would take place next month and would attract visitors from all over the west.

Amos Eckert, state game warden, spoke briefly and urged cooperation in the game program. He pointed out the demands on game are now 500 to 1 over what they were 10 years ago. He cited need for range and stream improvement and jokingly told of his announced intentions of crossing the turkey and the eagle which, he said, was "just good publicly and nothing more."

He did say, however, that certain types of eagles were to be exterminated because of their harm to sheep and even game but pointed out this was "regular work of the department and nothing new."

I. A. Appell, president of the Southern Idaho association, presided at the meeting and R. S. Toffelmire served as toastmaster.

Music prior to the business session was furnished by Baker Hershey and Dee Jackson, of the Drum club.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By William E. McKenney

SAFETY PLAY WINS GAMES

Secretary, American Bridge League
Bridge players have learned, by the slow process of trial and error, that certain combinations of cards call for plays differing slightly from the stereotyped handling of a suit. For instance, it is almost automatic for a player holding ace-queen and a pumbeq of small cards in a suit to lead the suit from the opposite hand and finesse the queen, if the play has not been played. This play sometimes gains a trick, but there are many times when it will lose.

Thus, with a combination like A-Q-8-8-6 in one hand and 5-4-3 in the other, one trick in the suit must be lost, regardless of how the five cards are held in the opposing hands, because the king, Jack and ten are missing.

If there are enough entries in the hand with the small cards, the best play is not to finesse, but to dummy and lead a card toward the queen, deciding on the subsequent play by the card played second hand.

It was knowledge of the added element of safety through the play of the ace first that enabled East to make his contract on today's hand. North's bid of two diamonds was made merely to show his partner that he had some strength. His subsequent double was highly speculative.

East won the opening club lead in his own hand. It was a marked singleton, and showed that South had at least two trumps; otherwise, he would not attempt to get a ruff with one of them.

Today's Contract Problem
North's contract is four spades, doubled. Every bit of his combined strength must be utilized if he is to make game. Therefore, entries from one hand to the other are important. Can he take 10 tricks?

HERSHEY PLANT READY TO OPEN

Corporation Resumes Buying Of Milk After Farmers Drive Out Strikers

HERSHEY, Pa., April 8 (Special)—The Hershey Chocolate corporation resumed purchasing milk today from the farmers who evicted 300 strikers from the factory in a battle yesterday.

Company officials said the plant would be reopened within a few days.

Several thousand farmers, aroused because the strike had cut off a market for $10,000 worth of milk daily, marched on the plant yesterday afternoon. Armed with bricks, clubs and other weapons, they drove the strikers from the ivy-covered building.

Governor George H. Earle ordered an investigation to "fix responsibility." Twenty-five persons were in hospital.

William F. R. Murrle, president of the corporation, said full operations probably could not be resumed until Monday.

EXPERT TO HELP ON TAX RETURNS

Worker Compensation Aid Is Offered Here Friday And Saturday

Expert assistance will be available Friday and Saturday for Twin Falls employers in properly filling out the first unemployment compensation reports due for 1937, the Chamber of Commerce announced today.

N. M. Campbell, unemployment compensation division staff member under the industrial accident board, will be at the chamber offices on those days. He will aid businessmen with their quarterly contribution reports, due April 25.

Since such assistance will not be available at every reporting period, chamber officials urged today that local employers utilize the service with an eye toward eliminating future errors.

Warning Issued to Hunters, Fishermen

A warning that all hunters and fishermen must have their new licenses has been issued by Grover C. Davis, game warden. The old permits expired March 31, and the new ones are now in the hands of the vendors.

Fishing season this year will open on May 30, the same date as last season.

BUHL

The Saturday night bridge club met this week with Mrs. Ray Banbury, Mrs. Emil Bordewick and Mrs. Olin Smith were guests. The high score prize was awarded to Mrs. James Shields, Jr., and the consolation to Mrs. Bordewick.

The Avokya Camp Fire girls met with their leader, Mrs. John Smith, at the high school Monday after school and made plans for the carnival which they plan to announce later. The next meeting will be spent on handicraft.

Mrs. Gan Thompson was reelected president of the Women's Missionary society of the Nazarene church Friday at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. James Horting. The other officers, elected were Mrs. T. J. Kalbfleish, first vice president; Mrs. O. A. Crawford, second vice president; Mrs. E. Engles, secretary; Mrs. C. A. Lowrey, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Bennett, superintendent of study; and Mrs. O. P. Burnett reelected secretary of Prayer and Fast-ning league. After the business session the afternoon was spent social-ly and closed with refreshments.

Bursting Out in Clothes Harmony

"Two hearts with but a single tailor," seems to be the slogan of Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion, and his wife when they stroll out to watch a golf match at the Miami Biltmore Country club, where Denny is a member of the pro staff. The idea of twin "spectator sports" ensembles comes straight from the southland. The Shutes' jackets are made of identical French blue serge, trousers and skirt of French flannel from the same bolt. Pleats at jackets backs are identical and trouser pleatings have their counterpart in the skirts' front pleat.

Hagerman Observes Anniversary of CCC

HAGERMAN, April 8 (Special)—Hagerman CCC camp, D. G. 60, celebrated its fourth anniversary on Sunday and Monday by holding open house for the public. A special dinner was served on Sunday for the enrollees and on Monday evening a dance was given with approximately 60 guests present. Captain Ralph Gallogly, ranking officer in command of the camp;

Harvey Hoff, federal division of grazing representative in charge of the works program, Mr. Rice, camp educational adviser, and Charles Abbott addressed the crowd at the dance. Enrollees conducted the guests on a tour of the buildings and grounds. Refreshments were served during the evening in the camp mess hall.

POTATO ACREAGE INCREASE LOOMS

U. S. Planting Survey Finds Crop Would Be Larger Than Last Year's

BOISE, April 8 (Special)—Total acreage of potatoes indicated for harvest in the United States during 1937 is 3,232,000 acres, according to statistics issued by the extension service of the University of Idaho. The indicated figure, it was pointed out, will:

- 1) Be six per cent greater than acreage harvested in 1936.
  - 2) Be three per cent less than the five-year (1928-32) average.
  - 3) Produce about 365,000,000 bushels under the 1922-31 average yield of 113 bushels per acre.
- The bulletin issued here declares that such a crop would be about two per cent below the 1928-32 average of 372,000,000 bushels but about 11 per cent larger than the 1936 crop of 330,000,000 bushels.
- The crop, if it materializes, would probably result in prices to growers somewhat lower than those received for the bulk of the 1936 crop but "substantially higher than in other recent years," the bulletin said.

Speaker Addresses Townsend Members

Adolf Claasen, American Falls, district organizer of Townsend clubs, was principal speaker at a meeting of Townsend club No. 1 Tuesday evening in the high school building. It was announced that 25 local business men had been admitted to membership under the new set-up.

RUPERT

Mrs. Don Burnham, Great Falls, Mont., arrived here Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Moller.

About 35 couples attended an invitation dance given by the Junior Odd Fellows Monday evening in the I.O.O.F. hall. Floyd Hendrick's orchestra furnished music, and punch and wafers were served under direction of Mrs. W. E. Jackson, Mrs. W. E. Hunter and Miss Etta Clements.

Mrs. R. L. Predmore was dismissed from Rupert general hospital Tuesday.

The freight office reports the following shipments from Rupert during March: Potatoes, 69 cars; alfalfa meal, 49 cars; sheep, 6 cars; scrap steel, 5 cars; beans, 3 cars; and oats, 1 car.

LOST AND FOUND

So Many Old Clothes That Junior High Gets Busy

Despite the appearance of her office the other day, Mrs. Vera C. O'Leary, junior high school principal, insisted that she wasn't going into the old clothes business nor was she hanging up her wash—it was just the lost and found department overflowing.

Yesterday a committee appointed for the purpose was carrying a rope laden with various articles of wearing apparel from room to room for students to select their belongings.

Mrs. O'Leary said that although the students knew where the lost and found was located and were free to come certain periods every day, large numbers of articles have accumulated.

Apparel pinned on the rope by Mrs. O'Leary and her assistants included such items of wearing as a leather coat, sweaters, caps, hats, mittens, coats and even a pair of red gym-shorts.

Articles not claimed on the tour of class rooms will be given to needy families or burned.

Vulnerable Spot Cited For Mighty Champions

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
NEW YORK, April 8 (U.P.)—The same fellows who said Joe Louis couldn't lose to Max Schmeling have the American league pennant all over for the New York Yankees. Everybody's picking the Yanks because they have the punch. It's easy to go overboard for the guy who can punch, be it prize ring or baseball diamond.

But maybe the Yanks have a vulnerable spot the same as Joe Louis. You wouldn't think so from the world champions' spring record of 17 victories out of 20 games, but let's see who they've been picking on.

Beat Boston
They beat the Boston Bees seven times, and the Bees have won only four out of 16 games this spring. They licked the Cardinals twice, and broke even in two games each with the Reds and Dodgers. They lost a game to Newark and in the rest of their schedule they've bowled over Newark, Tallahassee, New Orleans, Houston, Galveston, Dallas and Fort Worth.

The Yanks look great beating those minor league and second division clubs. They don't need any pitching to do that. They just slug—16 hits yesterday, 21 the day before. But the tip-off on the kind of pitching the Yanks have faced is that Lefty Gomez leads the club in hitting with an average of .591. Gomez batted 146 last season and is one of the worst hitters in baseball.

Pitching Vulnerable
The Yanks' vulnerable spot is the pitching staff. The club's best pitcher is Red Ruffing, a holdout. He won 20 games last year. The Yanks aren't good enough to sacrifice a 20-game pitcher. If and when Ruffing does join the Yanks, he may not be in shape to pitch for weeks.

Look at the Yanks' staff—Pearson, Gomez, Murphy, Broaca, Mackley, Malone, Brown, Wicker, Madkosky and Sundra. Try and pick a 20-game winner in that bunch. Try and pick a four-man staff. Gomez is being counted on for a big comeback. After two years does it seem reasonable that Gomez's fast ball will sprout wings again? In his last appearance on the mound the Dallas Texas league club rapped him for four runs and 10 hits in six innings.

The Yanks can still hit, but so can Joe Louis, but look what happened to him when Schmeling came to bat.

200,000 TROUT READY TO PLANT

Fish Will Be Distributed in Snake at Buhl, Salmon And Twin Falls

Two hundred thousand five-inch trout will be liberated in the Snake river from Buhl to the Upper Salmon-falls and also around Twin Falls within the next 10 days, V. A. Heffner, foreman of the federal fish hatchery at Hagerman, said today.

Mr. Heffner was in Twin Falls to attend the semi-annual Southern Idaho Fish and Game banquet last night at the Park hotel.

The trout will be taken from the hatchery, which supplies a large area including the Sawtooth section, in the state-owned distributing truck specially built for this purpose.

Durin 1937 Mr. Heffner estimates approximately two and one-half million trout will be liberated. He said at the present time the federal hatchery has 1,000,000 fish on hand, ranging from fingerlings to five-inch eggs for the hatchery are taken at Williams lake, he said, and approximate three to three and one-half million a year.

WORLD CHAMPS. VIE AT TOURNNEY

NEW YORK, April 8 (U.P.)—Two world champion bowling teams make tonight's session of the American bowling congress tourney a dual feature for galleries.

The Hi Bru quintet of Indianapolis, winners of the ABC team title with a 3,089 in their home town last year, and the Hermann Underdakers of St. Louis, former world match-game champions, both are on the schedule.

Tonight's bowlers will have to ascend to extreme scoring heights, however, to surpass the exhibition given by the quartermaster division of the U. S. government league of Philadelphia in their last game last night. A long string of strikes by Al Myers that brought him a 288 and the high scoring of the team that brought 1,116 for the high game scoring, honors of the tournament, and the fans on their feet throughout the series.

Hawaiian Wins

ST. LOUIS, April 8 (U.P.)—Eddie Yabu, Hawaii, dethroned Mike Golden, Boston, and kayped Donald Schultz, East St. Louis, Ill., Salvatore Leboy, Hawaii, dethroned Bert Koberg, Belleville, Ill., and Randolph Harwood, Okla.

SPORT SQUIBS (by H. J. W.)

In the making of any kind of an athlete, size is always an important point. And there is an old saying to prove it that says "a good big man can always beat a good little man."

But nevertheless, some little men have been great athletes. Yesterday we mentioned Duffy Tavano, the four-foot, 11-inch Duquesne forward. Today we ran across an article in the Sunday Oregonian by Stub Nelson, sports writer and commentator on "What Chance Has a Runt?" In his feature yarn he has this to say about a Twin Falls man:

"Algot 'Swede' Westergren will always be remembered as one of the University of Oregon's greatest basketball guards. He was a member of the winning 1926-27 squad. If memory serves me correctly, Westergren was named an all-coast guard for his labors that winter. 'Swede' weighed about 150 pounds in top condition and was the shortest member of the team. But what a player!"

We add for your information that Westergren played on University of Oregon varsity basketball teams also in 1924-25 and 1925-26.

What's more, he performed on the freshman club of 1923-24. And on top of that Al never weighed over 235 pounds, sopping wet, the whole four years.

Out at Kimberly Coach Louis Denton and his boxers have hung up the gloves for the year and turned their particular talents to other lines of endeavor.

Denton's boxers, in their first year of interscholastic endeavor, engaged in five team matches, winning two, losing two, and splitting even in one. The boys' defeated Filer and Gooding, lost to Gooding and Shoshone, and split even with Shoshone. Besides that they took in two tournaments, two of the boys reaching the finals of the Golden Gloves meet at Pocatello.

At Burley Tuesday night, five boys were entered in the tourney and three victories were scored, one fighter lost a decision, and one drew a bye. It was the last card of the season, and Coach Denton is to be congratulated for bringing his boys along in the many art of self-defense.

Along with Chace Anderson of Twin Falls, who captured the state Golden Gloves heavyweight championship at Pocatello, Ed Quesnell, the Kimberly flyweight, made the best showing of the south central Idaho mitt men in their first season of school boxing. Quesnell gained the finals of the meet, with a three-round draw, and then lost in the overtime to an experienced boxer who ultimately won the intermountain crown at Salt Lake City.

Quesnell lost only one other bout—and that, oddly enough, a 10-second k. o. by a substitute fighter 10 pounds under his weight at Gooding.

At Kimberly, boxing turned out to be the major sport of the year, drawing the biggest crowds of the season—as high as 500 packing the high school gymnasium on two occasions. Next year, according to Supt. L. A. Thomas, an attempt will be made to stage a south central Idaho boxing tournament in Kimberly.

Short shots: Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox first baseman, owns five store buildings in New Orleans. King Levinsky, former U. S. heavyweight contender, is training for a bout in London at the Dumbell hotel—which ought to make him feel right at home. Nine of the 18 men expected to be regulars with the Philadelphia Athletics this year are former college players. Wrestling, according to Coach Lou Little of Columbia, is the best training activity for football players—which may account for the great number of ex-plebskin stars in the mat game.

Do You Remember?
One Year Ago Today—Monte Pearson helped pitch the New York Yankees to a 10-1 victory over his old teammates, the Cleveland Indians, in an exhibition game at High Point, N. C.

Five Years Ago Today—Lou Brouillard out-pitched Johnny Indrisano in 10 rounds at Boston Garden.

Ten Years Ago Today—Rogers Hornsby was barred from playing with New York Giants until he disposed of St. Louis Cardinal stock.

Bookies Hit
AUCKLAND, New Zealand (U.P.)—The New Zealand Labor government is planning to renew its drive to replace bookmakers by totalizators as a measure of augmenting the country's revenue. With the return to a degree of prosperity to New Zealand, the total abolition of bookmakers is expected.

Shaving brushes are made from badger's hair.

SOLONS CAPTURE THIRD STRAIGHT

Cardinal Farm Team Takes Los Angeles in Tight Pitching Duel

(By United Press)
Dormants of the 1936 season, the Sacramento Solons, St. Louis Cardinal chain gang team, are emerging as the team to beat in the 1937 race of the Pacific Coast league.

The team, President Wilbur Tuttle, once sought to bar from the circuit, won its third straight game yesterday with a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

It was one of the three extra-inning games the day produced. With Schmidt of the Solons and Lieber of the Angels locked in a tight hurling duel for 10 frames, the Cardinal chain-gang slugged out three straight hits before a man was out in the 11th to win. Howell accounted for all of Los Angeles runs with a triple. Adams hit a homer for Sacramento.

Portland Wins
Portland beat San Francisco, 5-4, in a 10-inning scramble in which Radonits was the winning pitcher and Pete Dagley the loser. Portland took an early lead only to be tied in the seventh when the Seals drove Ad Liska to cover. Johnny Frederick of the Beavers topped the batters with three safeties. Ted Norbert of the Seals hit a homer.

In the longest game of the day, the San Diego Padres made it two straight over the Mission Reds with a 4-3 conquest in 13 innings. McDonald's fourth hit, a double, chased over the tying and winning runs after the Reds had gone ahead in their half of the 13th. Ward was the winning pitcher. Bolen the loser.

Indians Blanked
In the only one-games game, Ernie Bonham of Oakland blanked the hard-hitting Seattle Indians for a 7-0 win. Bonham yielded only four hits to a club that had been wrecking every pitcher to face it. Veteran Hal Turpin was the victim of the Oakland nine-hit attack.

As a result of yesterday's play, Seattle, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego and Sacramento were tied for the top runs with three victories and two defeats each. Los Angeles and Oakland were next with two wins and three setbacks and the Missions last with one win in five starts.

WPA AID CALLED BOOST IN FISHING

Program Was Life-Saver in Building of Hatcheries, Drake Asserts

The WPA program was a life-saver to the fish industry and employment of local sportsmen so far as construction of fish hatcheries in Idaho are concerned, Claude C. Drake, state fish commissioner, told members of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association in semi-annual convention in Twin Falls last night.

As a contention for his argument, Drake pointed out that up to last year 11 hatcheries were the greatest number ever operated in the state and that "in a short time" 19 hatcheries will be operating in Idaho.

Timely Help
The WPA aided the program, he said, just as a drop in the revenue of the game department made it impossible to build new hatcheries when they were needed the most.

Drake told of the various hatcheries over the state and how construction of the various plants will relieve the drain on plants in other districts.

"For instance in Twin Falls the local hatchery can now supply fish for this section alone and will not have to add the Boise drainage as it has done in past years. This will give the sportsmen in the various vicinities the benefit of the hatcheries located in that vicinity," Drake said.

One example of what hatcheries were accomplishing in the state was cited by Mr. Drake when he pointed out that improvements at the Sandpoint whitefish hatchery will provide 100,000,000 whitefish for northern Idaho lakes next year.

He also said that a fish ladder will be installed at the Idaho Power company dam at the upper Salmon Falls.

Puppet Playing

A few of the latest additions besides puppet playing are marine insurance, television, reinforced concrete design, airconditioning and cosmetology.

Temper Seen as Handicap to Burleigh Grimes' Managing

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, April 8 (U.P.)—Putting the sport spot here and there, unless Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn's baby-faced manager, curbs his temper he will do most of his master-minding by remote control. His training camp flare-ups were violent, and if repeated in the National league will find him on the hot-side looking in before the third inning. This wouldn't be a new experience, however, as he was chased from 18 American Association games last year.

Lefty Gomez, the distinguished Castilian, prefers the old-fashioned square dance (swing yo' partners!) to the whirling (spangoo) of his native country. In St. Petersburg he was always first on the floor when the fiddlers broke out with "Turkey in the Straw."

Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers works off the "jitters" which assail him on the day of an important fight by crooning snatches of popular songs. "He starts the crooning at weighing-in time at noon, and doesn't stop until the first bell clangs."

No one must mention boxing in his presence during these trying hours.

Flea Circus
Ex-Heavyweight Champion Jack Johnson, considered by many critics as the greatest defensive fighter ever to yank on a glove, is now appearing in a "museum and flea circus" on 42nd street. He has to make ten personal appearances a day for his pork chop money.

"This joint is a long, long way from Reno," he says. Reno being the place Johnson reached his peak against Jeffries.

John Hennessy, the best-doubled player in the tennis world until his archer gently lowered, now sells insurance in Chicago.

Bill Carr, the world's 400 meter champion, who doctors said never would walk again after his auto crash-up three years ago, is playing five sets of fast tennis these days. Ducky Medwick, Cards ace leftfielder, smokes a "go to hell" pipe of the Gen. Dawes model.

Silly Rule
The silliest of all sports rules is the one which forbids Harry Cooper from representing this country in the Ryder cup matches with Great Britain.

Cooper is out because he is British born. Chuck Dressen, who is fast becoming the most esteemed manager in baseball, believes Lee Grissom, Reds' southpaw, will top all freshman pitchers this season.

Dressen believes his team will top the Cubs aid, to prove he was sincere, he'd a newspaperman a $100 suit he'd be right.

The noble commonwealth of Florida is preparing to pass a bill legalizing the galloping cubes and the spinning wheels. It will be patterned after the Nevada statute. If you think you are a pool shark, and have $1,000 to bet, Andrew Ponz will play you a match. He will insist that the match go 500 balls or more.

GREENBERG SIGNS TIGER CONTRACT

Star First Basemen Gets New Salary After Yesterday's Slugging Spree

LAKELAND, Fla. April 8 (U.P.)—Relieved of excess baggage, and with the heavy-hitting Hank Greenberg's name on a regular contract, Manager Mickey Cochrane began today to put his Detroit Tigers through a week of strict conditioning with no more exhibition games until they meet the Reds in Danville, Va., April 15.

Greenberg, who had been working under a provisional contract calling for $1,000 until it was determined his twice-broken wrist had healed completely, signed a one-year contract last night after hitting two home runs as the Tigers licked the Washington Senators 12-10 in a slugging match. Earlier Cochrane had released five players—Don French, George Coffman, Frank Croucher, Herman Clifton, and Mike Tresh—to the Toledo Mudhens of the American association.

Girls Drill for 'Hit-Pin' Games

Girls in home room classes of the junior high school are holding practice games for hit-pin baseball games in preparation for a tournament which they will start next week.

The game is similar to baseball and is played upon a regulation diamond with nine players on a team. The name hit-pin is derived from the fact that a nine pin is set up on each base, this pin must be knocked down to put a player out before they reach base. A score can only be made on a home run hit as base hits do not count.

Tom Reilly, New York World-Telegram turf writer, returned from the Grand National Amiree disgusted with the treatment of the press by the British racing authorities. Tom should give Wimbledon a whirl sometime, and try to write his story in the press room, which is labelled "room of silence," and where the tap-tap of a typewriter, or the murmur of a human voice, would cost him a fractured skull.

STRIKES TO SPARE WITH FRED STONE

In the only match last night, Brookfield took two out of three from Safeway.

John Rogers, substituting for Safeway, took high three-game totals with 510. Two doubles in John's first game; another big lead.

Bradford, also filling in for Safeway, went out his last game with three strikes in a row, and by the way he needed those strikes.

Al Fillmore, a real Safeway, started his second game with three in a row.

DeVries, Emmen and B. Putzler are going to finish out the season with Safeway.

Harper was high man for Brookfield with 493. He wound up his last game with three in a row. That three in a row business got to be a habit.

"Oh no," said Waltz, "not even one in a row for me!"

Dix got his three in a row to end his first game. Hancock got his in the middle of his last game, and Anchor Man Strain colgated his to end his third game. That score was high single for the evening.

What a night for turkeys.

The presentation will be staged in matinee performances the first two days and in evening performances the last two.

Student Activity The operetta is a student activity to a unique degree, according to Garth Price, chairman of the advertising committee. Four student coaches are doing the bulk of the directorial work, although Loyd E. Thompson, music supervisor, is acting as general coach to oversee the task of the quartet.

The student coaches are Helen Kelly, Betty Wegener, Doris Wohlhab and Esther Nicholson. The solo and group singing roles in the production are all being handled by members of the chorus classes. The two choruses will appear at the district music festival in Burley this week-end and then will go into intensive work on "The Gypsy Rover."

140 Chorus Members About 140 chorus members are available for choice of the operetta directors.

Committees named today are: Costumes—Barbara Minnick and Betty Wegener. Advertising—Garth Price, Earline Maddy, Ellis Gardner. Ushers—Mildred Arrington (and doorman to be picked later). Make-up—Nello McBride. Ticket sales—Paul Wright.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

SOME COMMON REGAL LILY BULBS, AFTER BEING SUBJECTED TO X-RAYS FOR A FEW SECONDS, DEVELOPED INTO A STRANGE, NEW SPECIES, SO DIFFERENT THAT IT WAS PATENTABLE.

AT PITCHFORK RANCH, WYO., A SHEEP WAS BORN TO A DOMESTIC EVE AND A BIGHORN RAM! IT JUMPS OVER 6 FOOT FENCES WITH EASE.

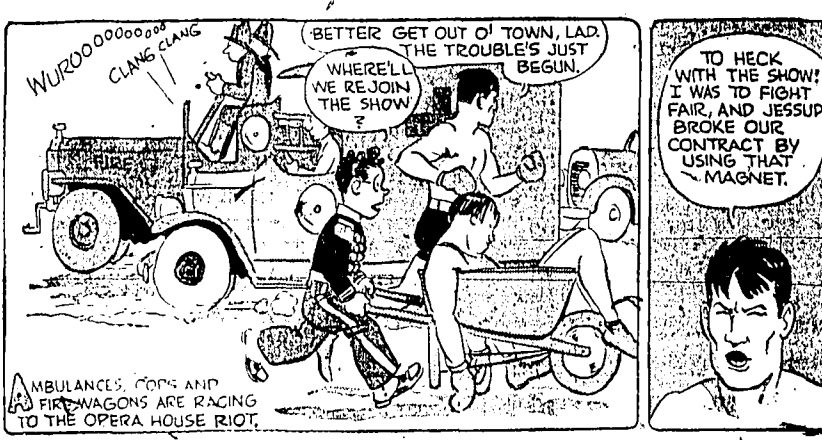

For years, plant breeders had tried to develop a regal lily whose anthers did not shed pollen on the petals, thus discoloring them. By chance, it was discovered that bulbs subjected to X-rays produced just such a plant. Now this lily is registered in the U. S. Patent Office as Plant Patent No. 165.
