Nine Injured In Firing at Galena, Kan.

"Shootings Are Not Going To Be Allowed in This State," Says Huxman

TOPEKA, Kan., April 12 (UP)—Gov. Walter A. Huxman said today that fights between mine union factions such as the one which resulted yesterday in the wounding of nine persons at Galena "are not going to be allowed in Kansas."

He indicated he would call out the national guard if there is a recurrence of the fighting and said he would make a complete investigation of yesterday's outbreak.

"Things of that kind are not going to be allowed in Kansas," he said. "I have been in touch with the situation rather closely since yesterday. I intend to make a thorough investigation of the fights and get to the bottom."

Quiet Today
"I understand it is quiet down there today and there will be no occasion for troops unless there is more trouble. I have not yet received a request for national guards."

Mayor Ed Brown ordered the release of Wesley Pauls and Skinny Skaggs who were arrested for questioning in the gun fight.

"I do not believe either of these men was guilty," Brown said. "However, from investigation we believe some Galena men were in the crowd of international unionists who fired on the blue card paraders. Several Galena men have been named but no complaints have been filed."

20 Shots Fired
Alex Russell, Galena chief of police, said he was standing within a block of the scene when the shooting started.

"I should say about 20 shots were fired from shotguns," he said. "Shots came from behind the closed doors and windows of the C. I. O. meeting hall. One man threw up the glass, breaking it, so it was impossible to tell exactly who did the shooting. After the shooting a truck standing behind the hall quickly drove away with a load of men."

Russell said there had been no disturbances or crowds in the street after 10 o'clock last night. The outbreak was occasioned by opening of a C. I. O. organization drive.

Loyalists Press Forward In Offensive at Madrid

MADRID, April 12 (UP)—Fighting from trench to trench with hand grenade and bayonet, loyalist troops pressed on today in the fourth day of a general offensive intended to free Madrid from the nationalist siege.

Swarthy miners from the Asturias country dynamited a pontoon bridge across the Manzanares river by which an estimated 10,000 nationalists, now isolated in University in the northwest suburbs, had received their food and munitions.

The miners under cover of machine gun fire placed two charges of dynamite under the bridge. Fighting centered mainly along the 11 sectors involved in the loyalist drive in the sectors directly west of the capital, in and adjoining the Casa de Campo, the great once-royal park across the Anzures.

The nationalists held hard to two dominant hills, Monte Agulla in the center of the Casa de Campo and Monte Garabitas toward the north, commanding both the park and University City.

The loyalists were advancing, but slowly and with loss, driving from trench to trench up the slopes of subsidiary hills.

Yesterday while machine guns raked loyalists struggling up the hill slopes, Madrid was subjected to one of the heaviest artillery bombardments of the siege. Perhaps 75 to 100 persons were killed or wounded. Great shells dropped all over the central part of the city at two-minute intervals.

BRITAIN STRIKES AT INTERFERENCE

Baldwin Says England Will Not Tolerate Trouble With Spanish Ships

LONDON, April 15 (UP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin today announced that the British government "has decided it could not tolerate interference with British ships at sea."

He said that the government, however, had warned British shipping to refrain from entering Bilbao, in northern Spain, as long as "dangerous conditions" prevail. The Spanish fleet has established a blockade around Bilbao.

"There is grave risk to any ship entering Bilbao," Baldwin told the house of commons, "unless mine-sweeping is carried out."

But he said "the government decided it could not concede belligerent rights."

Great Britain never has recognized the Spanish rebels as a belligerent force and therefore retains the legal right to consider them as pirates at sea.

Justices Are Bitterly Divided in Decisions; Split by Five to Four

AGREEMENT SEEN IN CANADIAN GMC STRIKE TROUBLE

Early Settlement Predicted By Union Head at Osawa Plant

OSAWA, Ont., April 12 (UP)—Early settlement of the General Motors corporation of Canada strike was forecast today as 40,000 members of the Toronto trades and labor council promised to support the strikers' demands.

Fear of violence, which caused Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to summon 100 Royal Canadian mounted police to Toronto armories for emergency duty, appeared to have been dissipated.

One company official, who asked that his name be withheld, predicted that the strike would be settled "about Wednesday."

"What else can you do when you have a gun at your head?" he asked. A settlement, he said, probably would mean that the corporation would sign an agreement recognizing the United Automobile Workers union as collective bargaining agency for its own members among the 3,200 workers employed in General Motors' Osawa plant.

John Noble, president of the Toronto trade council, told the strikers that "we will join with you and place our entire resources at your command."

Hugh Thompson, C. I. O. organizer, reiterated a warning that General Motors plants in the United States would be closed by a new strike unless the Canadian plant officials soon reached an agreement with the union.

Law Considered Wholly Legal In Manufacturing Industries

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
WASHINGTON, April 12 (UP)—The supreme court in a series of vital decisions upheld the general constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Relations act in opinions which appeared to broaden traditional interpretations of the constitution's interstate commerce clause.

The court was bitterly divided in its decisions. In four of the five test cases dissents were presented by Justices Willis Van Devanter, George Sutherland, James C. McReynolds and Pierce Butler.

However, the court majority, led by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, declared that the Wagner act was constitutionally applied in the great steel, automobile and clothing industries. In two other decisions the court held that the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations board was constitutionally invoked with regard to a newspaper press association and an interstate bus concern.

New Deal Victory
The decisions constituted a major victory for the New Deal statute, although leaving its validity in some phases of more local types of industry undecided.

It appeared, however, that the court majority considered the law wholly legal in great manufacturing industries where operations are conducted in different states and where raw and processed materials are drawn into the manufacturing and distributed widely through various states.

The court presented separate opinions covering its findings in each of the five test cases of the Wagner act before it.

One Unanimous
Only one of these opinions was unanimous. This was the case involving application of the act to an interstate bus concern. In a test concerning the Associated Press, the majority found that the act was legally applied. The dissents, led by Justice George Sutherland, declared the decision, contending that the freedom of the press clause of the constitution protected the press association from application of the act.

After presentation of the Associated Press dissent, Chief Justice Hughes read, in rapid succession, three opinions which court students held broadened traditional interstate commerce constitutional clause interpretations. These covered application of the act to the steel manufacturing, automobile and clothing industries.

Dissent Opinion Read
Hughes was joined in his majority opinions by Justices Benjamin Cardozo, Louis D. Brandeis, Harlan F. Stone and Owen J. Roberts.

The dissent of the conservative minority was then read. It was voted by Justice James Clark McReynolds.

U. P. REITERATES PARK OPPOSITION

H. J. Plumbhoff Tells Chamber No Change Has Occurred In Road's Stand

The Union Pacific railroad has not changed its stand in opposition to the creation of a national park in the Sawtooth mountain region, H. J. Plumbhoff, general manager of the central district, informed the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce today.

Mr. Plumbhoff's statement added impetus to the chamber's determined drive to head off a federal survey and possible creation of the park.

Seeking "Backers"
Seeking to uncover the unidentified backers claimed by Sen. James F. Pope to be urging the park, the C. of C. last week dispatched a message to Mr. Plumbhoff in an attempt to discover whether or not the Union Pacific had switched its powerful influence.

"As stated by you, during the meeting of the Idaho state planning conference at Hailey I made the statement that the Union Pacific was not favoring a national park in that territory (the primitive area in the vicinity of Salmon)," the general manager's communication said today.

"There has been no change in our position."

Sent to Pope
R. G. Thompson, secretary of the chamber, said this afternoon he will send a copy of Mr. Plumbhoff's letter to Senator Pope with renewed query as to sponsors of the park agitation.

The chamber has emphatically informed the Idaho legislator that through survey in Idaho has disclosed no groups approving the idea. Latest to go on record opposing the park was the Jerome County Chamber of Commerce.

JUSTICES DIVIDE ON WAGNER BILL

High Court Upholds Labor Relations Act; Hughes Leads Majority

"Considering the far-reaching import of these decisions, the departure from what we understand has been consistently ruled here and the extraordinary power confirmed to a board of three, the obligation to present our views becomes plain," said McReynolds.

Doesn't Prohibit Strikes

Speaking for his colleagues, he contended the decisions departed from "well-established principles" followed in the NRA and Guffey coal cases.

It contended that many lower courts had held the labor act unconstitutional on the authority of the earlier New Deal decisions and said "the lower courts rightly deemed them controlling."

As had happened on previous occasions, McReynolds appeared to deviate from his prepared dissent.

"The idea has been advanced," he said, "that this is legislation intended to prevent strikes and thereby prevent impending commerce."

"Let me read a few lines from the act itself, nothing in this act shall be construed so as to impede or diminish in any way the right to strike."

"So I think we may start with the idea that the labor board act is not one to prohibit strikes."

Dissenters Opinion

The dissenters held that if the discharge of employees by the concern affected bore any relation to interstate commerce it would be "indirect and remote in the highest degree."

"A more remote and indirect interference with interstate commerce, or a more definite invasion of the powers reserved to the states is difficult, if not impossible, to imagine."

"The constitution still recognizes the existence of states with indestructible powers; the tenth amendment was supposed to put them beyond controversy."

The portfolio of Wagner act decisions were regarded as a major development in the bitter controversy which has surrounded the court since President Roosevelt presented his judicial reorganization plan.

The decisions were equally vital in the nationally disturbed scene of capital-labor relationship.

Open Surprise

Validation of the act on so sweeping a scale came as an open surprise to many government officials and labor leaders who had become convinced that its application would be restricted to even its collective bargaining principles were upheld.

The decisions were regarded in New Deal circles as presenting the most sweeping victory scored by the government in the court since the ruling in January, 1935 upholding the New Deal gold clause invalidation legislation.

It was immediately indicated that the court rulings would become a major factor in the bitter struggle now raging around President Roosevelt's judicial proposals. Fees of the court plan immediately seized upon the court rulings as supporting their argument that there was no need for any change in the high court.

Notes 5 to 4

The supreme court voted 5 to 4 in upholding constitutionality of the act as applied to the Associated Press. The opinion was read by Justice Owen J. Roberts. Dissenting conservatives held that the freedom of the press clause of the constitution barred the application of the act from the newspaper press service.

Hughes, in his Jones & Laughlin opinion, differentiated the issues involved from those in the NRA and Guffey coal cases. In the NRA and Guffey coal cases the federal government's interstate commerce powers were restricted.

Differed Issues

The court held that the issues of those cases were not the same as those of the Wagner act, said Hughes, noting the "close and intimate relations which a manufacturing industry may have to interstate commerce."

The decision commented vigorously upon the constitutional rights of employees to organize and asked: "When industries organize themselves on a national scale, making their relation to interstate commerce the dominant factor in their activities, how can it be maintained that their industrial labor relations constitute a forbidden field into which congress may not enter when it is necessary to protect interstate commerce from the paralyzing consequences of industrial war?"

Pointing out that interferences must be appraised in accordance with "actual experience," the decision said:

"Experience has abundantly demonstrated that the right of employees to self-organization and to have representatives of their own choosing for the purpose of collective bargaining is of an essential condition of industrial peace."

"Refusal to confer and negotiate has been one of the most prolific causes of strife. This is such an outstanding fact in the history of labor disturbances that it is a proper subject of judicial notice and requires no citation of instances."

The broad constitutionality of the act was strongly noted by the chief justice. He declared that:

"We think it clear that the National Labor Relations act may be construed so as to operate within the spirit of constitutional authority."

Hughes defines the right of employees to self-organization and to select their representatives for collective bargaining as "a fundamental right."

Regarding the vital point of the application of the interstate com-

CITY PARK SUPT. SUCCUMBS HERE

Death Takes A. B. Hopkin, 50, Following Illness Of Two Weeks

(Continued From Page One) state department of agriculture, a position he resigned to accept the appointment as park superintendent, a position he held until his death.

Developed Beauty

Under the guiding hand of Mr. Hopkin, local citizens saw the city parks develop into beauty spots which attracted statewide attention. It was at his suggestion that extensive developments were started at city park this year including the construction of a rustic lava rock fountain, rock garden and lily ponds. He had just recently supervised the planting of numerous flowers, trees and shrubs in city park which, he said at the time, would make the area a showplace for the city.

Mr. Hopkin is survived by his widow, Mrs. Vera M. Hopkin, whom he married in September 1909, in the L. D. S. temple at Salt Lake City; two daughters, Fay and Virginia; and a son, Map, all of Twin Falls. Four half-brothers, Lloyd and Loring Harris of Provo, Utah; George M. Harris of Salt Lake City and B. E. Harris of Heyburn, Idaho; and a half-sister, Mrs. R. L. Fleming, of Ogdén, also survive.

All survivors will be present at the services, relatives said today.

HOPKIN'S DEATH BRINGS TRIBUTE

Mayor Says Park Leader's Passing Is "Much Felt Loss" to City

The death of Arthur B. Hopkin, 50, city park superintendent, who died at the Twin Falls general hospital early Sunday morning, was described today by Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston as a "much felt loss to this community."

"The death of Mr. Hopkin will be a much felt loss to this community," the mayor said. "Never in the history of Twin Falls have we had such beautiful park grounds, and this was entirely due to Mr. Hopkin's ability and sincere efforts along this line. As far as I personally am concerned I will always look at the city parks as a monument to a friend."

Milton Powell, city park commissioner, said:

"Never before has Twin Falls had a man so conscientious in park work. He was untiring in his work and his work was his life. Twin Falls has lost a man who was deeply interested in its beauty. He put park work above his health. He arose from a sick bed to arrange the grounds for the Easter Sunday services held at Shoshone falls. This ultimately led to his death."

Said William Taylor, commissioner of streets and water:

"I was shocked to learn of the death of my friend, Mr. Hopkin. I enjoyed working with him and his untiring ability was an inspiration. It will be difficult to replace him."

Returns to Washington Mrs. G. L. Delestine has left for her home in Auburn, Wash., after being called here by the serious illness of her father. A. C. Zacharias, who is much improved.

QUARTERLY MEET CONCLUDED HERE

Salt Lake Elders Address Two-Day Sessions of Conference

One of the most successful quarterly conferences held by the Twin Falls L. D. S. stake concluded last evening with sessions during the two-day period attended by approximately 700 persons, it was announced by stake officials today.

The conference opened Saturday evening with addresses by Samuel O. Bennion, Salt Lake City, one of the presidents of the Seventies quorum and for 30 years president of the L. D. ## Young Musician Tells of Jaunt To Japan, China

Back from a seven weeks' tour of Japan, China and the Philippines with four fellow-members of a University of Idaho orchestra, Merland Severin was emphatic today in declaring "it was worth it" to drop out of school for a semester.

Young Severin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Severin of Twin Falls, made the trip on the S. S. President McKinley. He and his four university colleagues formed the ship's orchestra, and they visited Yokohama, Tokyo, Kamaoaka, Nagoya, Kobl, Shanghai, Hong Kong and Manila. They touched the same ports on the homeward trip.

Played in Clubs

The youthful musicians saw things differently than the average tourist, since they brought their instruments right along with them when they inspected the Oriental cities—and were asked to play as guest orchestra in night clubs along the route. They offered American dance melodies in some of the finest clubs and hotels, including the Santa Ana ballroom in Manila, the largest in the world.

"What struck me most about Japan," the student-musician said, "was the extreme courtesy of the people there. Their cities are neat and clean, too. And ultra-modern architecture, even beyond that in the United States, mingles with old-world Japanese style to form a strange contrast."

He found Hong Kong, however, the most spick-and-span of the cities he visited. "It's probably that way," he said, "because it's British."

Huge Dance Palaces

Some of the "dime-a-dance" palaces in Japanese cities, he recalls, are "tremendous places. One of them had 1,000 girl dancers, all dressed in western style."

Members of the University of Idaho orchestra group which made the jaunt included Severin, Bert Wood, Moscow, the leader, Clayton Spear, Ananda, Mont., Glen Whitset, Spokane, and Richard Gardner, Ogdén.

Wood was formerly a Twin Falls resident, is a graduate of the high school here, and was student body president one year.

Severin played saxophone, clarinet and piano in the orchestra.

The group, originally scheduled to sail Nov. 7, was held up by the Pacific coast maritime strike and didn't get off until Feb. 13.

Methods of using marionettes in primary school work were demonstrated by Ivan Main, of the adult educational staff. Deep Creek girls' glee club offered four selections.

CROPS FORECAST MADE TO C. OF C.

Jerome County Group Hears Favorable Outlook; Votes Against Park Plan

HAZELTON, April 12 (Special)—Members of the Jerome County Chamber of Commerce at their session here Thursday night heard facts pointing to a favorable crop year from the standpoint of white fly infestation, listened to explanation of grading laws on potatoes, were told the functions of the Idaho vegetable advertising committee, and voted active opposition to a proposed Sawtooth national park.

The park resolution, passed after the chamber heard F. G. Thompson of the Twin Falls C. of C. attack the suggestion, opposed creation of any national park in the Sawtooth area.

Sees Encouraging Status
J. R. Douglas, head of the U. S. bureau of entomology at Twin Falls, discussed the white fly and bright outlook for 1937, and informed the north side group that at the present time the outlook is encouraging.

Carl DeLong, executive secretary of the Idaho Vegetable Producers, outlined the new grading laws for potatoes. The grades, he said, have been written in Washington with reference to three large receiving agents rather than the producer in Idaho.

Advertising Plan
Discussing the Idaho advertising campaign, Mr. DeLong mapped the plan where a one-cent per hundred-weight assessment is to be levied on potatoes, apples, prunes and onions, with 10 per cent of the funds going to develop by-products and the balance to be spent for advertising the Idaho products on which the assessment is paid. The advertising commission consists, he said, of members from four districts, with four commissioners to be growers and three may be growers or shippers.

Thompson related steps taken against a Sawtooth park at the statewide Hailey recreational conference last August.

Del Smith, county agent, supported Thompson in voicing park opposition.

Road Conditions
Ross Seeley, Jerome, told of local road conditions, and emphasized the maintenance costs faced by the Hilldale district, which has three river bridges, about 30 canal bridges, 650 culverts and 120 miles of roads with a total of $8,000 or $2,800 for bridges and $5,400 for road maintenance.

Gov. Clark has agreed to work with a committee named by the C. of C. to join with the highway district in trying to relieve the situation, it was announced. William Detweiler, who presided at the meeting, is to appoint a committee of three.

Victor Kelley and Ralph Baisch were elected chamber representatives from this district for one-year terms.

Treasurer's report showed $536.88 total receipts and $294.17 disbursements, leaving $242.69 as balance.

Today's Picture Story Seeing Yourself

It sounds crazy, but the hardest thing for a man to do is to see himself—as others see him—when he's shaving. So peek into Eddie August's mirror, as he resigns himself to mowing the hay.

There's no use getting down in the mouth about it, though it's a tough job. No, he's not inviting Joe Louis to hit him on the chin. He's just getting into a lather over shaving—the calmest do.

"Keep a stiff upper lip—and lower one, too," says Eddie as he wades into the whiskers with a razor. The funnier the face you make, the more solid a surface the razor has to glide over.

Quick, Watson, the caustic! How it does burn! But it stops the hemorrhage in the nick of time. Girls, you don't know how lucky you are, not having to shave your pretty faces every day.

HEALTH EFFORTS CUT LOCAL TOLL

Educational Campaign Finds Child Fatalities Removed In Four Diseases

That public education along health lines in Twin Falls county is securing the desired effect is evidenced by a report which is in the process of completion under the direction of Dr. J. W. Hawkins, director of the county health unit, it was revealed today.

The report discloses the fact that in a period which includes the six-month period to the time the health unit was organized, eight deaths among children resulted from one of four diseases which include diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles.

In the ten month period since that time, and including up to the present, no deaths have occurred in Twin Falls county from any of the four diseases named.

"We attribute this to the fact people are now calling in their family physician for childhood diseases where before they didn't do it as intensively. Also children are being kept home longer and are not being exposed so frequently because of more observance of quarantines," Dr. Hawkins said.

"Another reason, we believe, is that nurses are now going into the private homes with greater regularity and regular examinations are made of each child in school by the nurses, and the school teachers cooperate with regular morning examinations," he said.

First Meeting Held By Buhl 4-H Club

Tardiness of Justice

The supreme court did a number of things when it had that fabled day on decisions recently. One job which almost escaped attention in the rush of bigger things was its disposal of the case of Mr. George W. Norris, grocer, of Broken Bow, Neb.

The court's ruling in this case proved that it is possible, after all, to punish a man for perjury in this country—if you don't care how long it takes you or how much money it costs.

The fate of Norris as an individual is not particularly important. He was just a well-meaning man who was played for a sucker by the big boys and was left high and dry on a sandbar when the waters receded. First and foremost, it was his name that got him into trouble.

If you remember the case, you will recall that in the early summer of 1930 Nebraska's famous Sen. George W. Norris was running for renomination in the Republican primary. The party big-wigs, who had been keeping a rod in pickle for Senator Norris for many years, hit on one of those ultra-slick ways of beating him—too slick, as it turned out.

They hunted around until they dug up this innocent grocer, George W. Norris, and they persuaded him to file for the senate. Thus, when the voter got to the polls, he would find two George W. Norrises on the ballot, and would have no earthly way of telling which was which. In that way Senator Norris' vote would be split and the "regular" candidate might slip in.

The people of Nebraska gagged at this bit of slickness, the state supreme court ruled Grocer Norris off the ballot, and Senator Norris went on to renomination and re-election.

Meanwhile the senate campaign committee began investigating. It held hearings in Nebraska and summoned Grocer Norris as a witness. Norris first told the committee that he received no money from anybody for offering himself as the sacrificial lamb; later, he changed his story and admitted that he had been paid $550.

For this he was indicted for perjury by a federal grand jury in June, 1931.

After long delay the case came to trial, and in the late fall of 1935 Grocer Norris was convicted of perjury, fined $100, and sentenced to three months in jail. Nearly a year later an appellate court reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial. The government took the case to the U. S. supreme court—and now, nearly seven years after the offense was committed, the supreme court has sustained the conviction and ordered Grocer Norris to take his medicine.

This little case tells you much about the tricks of American politics; it tells you even more about American criminal court procedure.

Perjury strikes at the very foundation stone of justice. If men can lie under oath and get away with it, the courts are crippled. Yet in an open and shut case, it took six and one-half years to convict a man of lying—and make the conviction stick!

Silver Lining

This is a big country we live in—so big that shocks which might be expected to set it teetering on its base go almost unnoticed.

February brought us a titanic strike in the auto industry. Offhand, you would certainly take it for granted that this strike would be reflected in the month's employment statistics—for it kept upward of 100,000 men idle.

But the Monthly Business Review of the fourth federal reserve district remarks: "The latest report of the department of labor indicated that in February there was a gain of 215,000 employes over January in the entire country. This probably was considerably greater than the total number of persons affected by strikes at any one time."

It's a big country, pardner—a thundering big country. So big that the number of men at work can rise by 215,000 in a month when a great strike gives us fears for the entire recovery movement.

No More "Monkey Trials"

The flurry over the teaching of evolution in public schools came to a head at the time of the Scopes trial in Tennessee, something like a decade ago. Since then little has been heard about it; but now it pops up again, with an Indiana minister challenging a New York historian to public debate and declaring that he will not stop until "a law prohibiting the teaching of evolution" is on the Indiana statute books.

Fortunately, the New York writer involved has decided that he is too weary and too busy to engage in the debate; and it may be that this flare-up will die down presently and be heard of no more.

It is to be hoped that this is what will happen. The ground was pretty well covered in that earlier evolution fight. Little is to be gained by raking over the old embers at this late date. The nation has better things to engage its attention than a repetition of the Scopes case.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Stranded in San Diego on vacation, MARTHA BRIFTAIN and BETTY HAYNES obtain an assignment with the Airspeed Trailer Company to travel up the coast, demonstrating the new do-luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ALNOLO BLOSS of the trailer company fails to ask for either bond or references.

They return to their apartment to pack. At their door they see a handsome young man trying to enter. Apologetically, he tells them he stepped off at the wrong door and that he is GENEVY NEAL.

They start north and pick up Neal, hitch-hiking. He tells them he is to meet a friend, JACK SPEEDDON, at Long Beach. But at Long Beach auto camp when Speeddon appears, Neal has disappeared from the trailer. Driving off with Betty to check Neal's disappearance, Speeddon fails to return. Frank, Martha calls police. Officer KLOAN probes of little help. Then Martha gets a wire, signed "Betty," advising Betty can't explain but will meet Martha in a San Francisco hotel. Feverishly Martha starts to "Pleasantly" Martha starts to "Pleasantly" at Santa Barbara, utterly fatigued, she parks her trailer near the beach and drops to sleep.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI WHEN Martha awakened, raised herself, sleepily to the window, the bright yellow sun of Santa Barbara was high overhead. To her embarrassment, cars were parked all along the block which had been so deserted only a few hours before. The snow-white sand of the beach was dotted with the bright bathing suits and multi-colored sun-umbrellas. Offshore a dozen small sailing craft played about, and as Martha gazed from the window a smart speedboat dashed by, tossing spray high above its sedan top.

But as Martha watched she was possessed of only one thought—how Betty would have enjoyed the movement and color of such a scene. Hurriedly she dashed, her face with cold water, made a slapdash attempt to fix her hair presently. Across the street was a little cafe and she decided it would be quicker to breakfast there.

Returning to the trailer after a brief breakfast which she hardly tasted, Martha confronted a pleasant-looking motorcycle officer in uniform. He smiled and touched his cap. "Sorry, miss. We don't allow trailers to park on this street, but you can find a place—"

"I'm leaving right away, officer," Martha interrupted and climbed into the coupe. So quickly did she suit the action to the word that the officer started after trailer and car open-mouthed.

The pleasant officer scratched his head, uttering a puzzled and audible comment. And despite the trailer in tow, Martha did hurry. At all times she held close to the maximum speed limit, and on the lone straightaways she took a chance against the law. One thought kept dining in her brain: she must reach the Palace Hotel in San Francisco and contact Betty Haynes.

At every little town she paused at gasoline stations on the main highway, asking for information as to a dark blue roadster. But none had any help to give.

"That's the road right there. San Francisco is straight ahead. If you want to go down to the Carmel coast, you turn left here," the attendant explained to Martha.

AND then, late that afternoon, she reached Salinas. Wearily she drove into a gasoline yard and asked the same question once more. "Dark blue roadster?" the attendant said. "Yes, there was one in here."

Martha straightened in her seat. "Do you remember, was there a woman in it?" "Yes. A woman and a man. A thin fellow—and a girl with light hair."

Excitedly Martha reached into the pocket of her jacket, brought out the slip of paper on which she'd written Speeddon's license number. "Was that the license?" The attendant looked at it. "Gosh," he said slowly. "I'm not sure. I remember looking at the plate when I was filling the tank, and it seems to me it was something like that. But I can't be sure."

Martha fixed his glance. "Please try to remember. Did you notice anything at all strange about the girl? I mean did she—was she acting perfectly natural?" "Well... I thought she looked sort of down in the mouth. Like maybe they'd had a fight or something. People come in here like that a lot."

"It might have been fright, mightn't it?" "Scared? Well—well, I guess she could've been." "And they went on toward San Francisco?" The attendant looked at her. "No they didn't. They turned down toward Carmel and Monterey." "How do you know that?" "That's the road right there."

The Family Doctor

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor, Evening Times: If someone who is seriously hurt in an accident should have his life saved through the efforts of a Red Cross first aid class, there is a good chance he would owe that credit to Mrs. S. G. Gee of the Idaho Power company, Red Cross first aid instructor.

Little attention was given to the several courses in first aid which Mr. Gee has conducted in the high school building the last two months. As one of those who took the course, I want to call public attention to the large amount of time Mr. Gee has given, with no remuneration, to teach Red Cross first aid lessons in these courses.

Fifty-six persons enrolled for the course, and about a dozen will finish the advanced period in the final lessons Wednesday night. Since they started in January, Mr. Gee has spent from one and one-half hours to three hours twice a week part of the time, and once a week the rest of the time, just in class work alone.

He has told us that he has had opportunity to help many accident victims already. What he has done the last few weeks in teaching other first aiders how to give preliminary treatment will spread the benefits of this work to a much greater extent, not to mention what they have learned toward preventing accidents.

I think this is one of the most valuable courses that could be taught, and believe it will eventually be included in school curricula. It ought to be. That may take some time. Meanwhile, I want to say that Mr. Gee has done a wonderful bit of service in showing a few people how they may prevent accidents, reduce suffering of accident victims, and even save lives, and what greater service is there than that? Sincerely, LAMONT JOHNSON, Twin Falls.

Greek farmers can have their land plowed by the government at a fixed charge per acre. The x-ray is valuable nowadays in making definite diagnosis of the presence of mastoiditis. Mastoid cells that are breaking down can be detected in an x-ray of the mastoid region. After a child has had an ear infection, or operation for mastoiditis, he needs great care to recover from the effects of the infection on his body as a whole. His nutrition must be watched carefully and he must have proper food to aid the growth of his body and, particularly, to develop his blood again to its optimum stage. Primary purpose of an operation on the mastoid is not to restore hearing, but to save the life of the patient. Such operations, however, frequently leave the patient with better hearing than he had before. The mastoid operation is one of the most delicate in the realm of surgery, and should be performed only in a suitable hospital by one skilled in this kind of work.

News Behind The News By Paul Mallon Exclusive Evening Times Report from the Nation's Capital by An Expert Commentator. (Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

PLANNING

WASHINGTON, April 12—In extreme secrecy, President Roosevelt has been formulating a new plan for the past two weeks. This time it relates to prices. He has concealed it generally from congressional eyes. Federal reserve boarders and treasury money-men have been consulted, but it is understood they did not originate it. The author is supposed to be one of Mr. Harry Hopkins' bright young men in WPA, and Secretary Ickes are behind it. If you can imagine that.

Details have been very successfully guarded, but one or two officials who have consulted the President have an idea it follows the price-line which Mr. Roosevelt has been hinting at in his last two press conferences. He is apparently disturbed about the recent increases in durable goods, including steel, where the price-rise followed the new wage and hour arrangement effected by Mr. Lewis and the C. I. O.

The idea is said not to be drastic, but turns government spending away from bridges, dams, etc. into things like the Florida ship canal and Passamaquoddy, on the assumption that the prices of consumers' goods will thereby be stimulated.

CLEAVAGES

The man behind the anti-lynching bill is Representative GAVAGAN, who comes from the Amos and Andy district. A Tammany man, he has successfully fought off efforts of Negroes to capture his seat. He got busy early this season with the anti-lynching people and crowded Chairman Hutton Summers of the house judiciary committee into reporting the bill. Mr. Summers has been proud of the fact that his committee has never reported an anti-lynching bill during its administration, but the 218 signatures obtained by Gavagan frightened the house leaders who feared reprisals and possible defeat.

Senator Wagner has passed the word to his house friends that he can get the bill through the senate if the house would act promptly.

ECONOMIC CONFUSION

The new federal reserve board bonus-buying policy was not an economic move, but a life preserver for Mr. Morgenthau. Despite all the many funds administered by the treasury secretary, he actually was short of ready money with which to support the bond market, in the face of the natural economic tide of increasing interest rates, commercial loans, commodity prices, recovery. This may be disputed with official figures, but is nevertheless true.

The step really runs counter to the economic theory of federal reserve policy. Chairman Eccles has put into effect two hoists in reserve requirements. He did it to keep prices down, to hinder inflation. The theory was that, by increasing the reserves required of banks, he could keep them from lending that money in the stock, commodity or business markets, where it might be used to make inflation boom.

But he ran counter to the policy of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, who was trying to make the banks carry the vast federal debt at low interest rates. Some banks had to sell their bonds in order to meet reserve requirements. Whatever selling there was for this and other purposes hurt Mr. Morgenthau's bond market, blocked his game.

There is some talk now about federal reserve reducing the reserve requirements again so as to get out of Mr. Morgenthau's way, but the suggestion is premature, if not factitious. The change undoubtedly represents only a temporary halt in Chairman Eccles' boom control moves. If business keeps expanding and interest rates keep going up, what he will do is problematical. He says: "Balance the budget, not theoretically, but really."

That appears to be not only an economic desirability, but a financial necessity.

SUM UP

A very capable business man was asked the other day the usual question of greeting: "Well, how do things look to you?" His response was this story: "My mother once had an old Negro cook, Dinah, whose husband was very ill. Mother went down to the kitchen one morning and asked Dinah how the husband was getting along. The reply was: "Well, the doctor says he is improving, but Ah doesn't know whether it is for the better or for the worse."

BLISS

The Bliss Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Dean Laughridge Thursday afternoon with 18 members present. After the business session the afternoon was spent working on the sick quilt. A luncheon was served by the hostess with Mrs. Harold Hamilton assisting. Mrs. Gail Miller was a guest. The next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Harold Hamilton for a quilting session.

The Bliss Sunshine club will meet with Mrs. Ada Mariner in the Grange hall, April 16, for an all-day session. The lesson will be on refashioning furniture, which includes mending broken pieces, taking off old paint and varnish, polishing new and old pieces, also color of paint and finishes best suited to the color of rooms. A "pot luck" dinner will be served as usual. Miss Marion White would like for several women to bring pieces of furniture to work on whether old or new.

Track Teams Prepare for Annual Spring Tournaments

Burley Meet on Friday Attracts Many Squads

With about two weeks of solid training behind them, southern Idaho track and field teams will swing into action this week-end at the annual Burley invitational meet—the last of the pre-qualifying tests of the spring season.

With most schools already having completed their inter-class tournaments, the Burley meet will see the first big gathering of the season and it is probable that a line on the outstanding athletes of the section will be gained at these events. Transformed from a relay carnival that did not meet with favor due to the odd distances, into a regular track and field tournament, teams from Piler, Burley, Rupert, Gooding, American Falls, Buhl and Twin Falls will compete for honors.

Following the Burley affair the teams will settle down to work for the regular scheduled track meets—the sub-district event here on April 23, followed by the district meet at Burley on May 30. The inter-district meet will be held May 7, the place yet to be announced. State meets will be held, as usual, in Boise, on the week following, May 14 and 15.

Outstanding athletes in this district have had little chance to reach anywhere near the peak of form, but from ability displayed last year and from practice performances this spring, it is expected that some good records will be made.

At Piler Coach Jimmy O'Brien has two stars in Eddie Musgrave, the sprinter who last year treaded on the heels of Elmer Mallon, but who appears to be the class of the field this season, and Wayne Gentry, the star pole vaulter, who is expected to clear the bar at considerably over 11 feet. Coach Ormond Thompson at Buhl has a fine sprinter also in Pete Boyd, the Indians all-around athlete.

In Twin Falls, Coach R. V. Jones has two men, at least, who are expected to go places this spring in Toke Slater, who has captured the state javelin title the last two years, and the Bruin half mile ace, Lowell Kykendall.

Best appearing all-around track and field stars at the present time are Powers of Burley and Bob Vaught of Gooding, the latter being accorded a fine chance to represent this region in the state in the broad jump. Powers excels in the sprints.

PINMEN WILL GO TO BOISE MEET

Twin Falls Squad Entering Tournament Staged by Capital City Elks

Twin Falls bowlers will invade Boise next Saturday and Sunday to compete in the pin tournament to be staged by Boise Elks on the lodge alleys. It was announced here today.

Teams are expected to compete from Walla Walla, W. LaGrande, Ore., northern Idaho and half a dozen southern Idaho communities. Included on the squad which will go from Twin Falls are Rolly Jones, Wait Riggert, Art Woods, N. O. Johnson and Fred Stone, who will bowl for the Idaho Mutual Benefit association. Other local bowlers who have expressed intention of going are Hugh Boone, O. H. Coleman, Graf Self, Jack Ford and Ted Erick. Any other Twin Falls pinmen have also been invited.

Singles, doubles and five-man events are scheduled, with three prizes in each event.

ALBANY, Ore. (U.P.)—Saturdays are turned to good account by Jack Roberts of the Quartzville district near here. He spends then hunting with a 22 rifle. One day, he brought in three cougars and three bobcats. The combined county and state bounties paid on the pelts totaled $98.

SPORT SQUIBS
by H. J. W.

Over Buhl way they are already "hopped up" over the coming baseball season, and plans are underway for the building of another powerful team.

Interested persons gathered Sunday and tentative plans were laid for the formation of another Southern Idaho league, which would include such teams as Buhl, Kimberly, Wendell, Jerome, Gooding, Hazelton, Hansen or any other town in this section that would care to back an entry.

Personally, we think a league is the best way to gain support for the national game. But in this particular loop we are wondering just what the towns other than Buhl have done to strengthen their teams.

The Buhl entry has copped the flag for 11 consecutive years, and while there have been some nip-and-tuck races, such as the one last year, on the top side entry has always come out on top.

This year the Buhl team expects to be stronger than ever and unless some of the other clubs in the league do considerable bolstering of lineups it appears that the final reading of the standings will be the same old story.

Over in Cassia county, the extremely powerful Burley team is planning plans for another mighty club with indications that it will perform independently and against top-notch performing teams rather than in a league.

While Kimberly will be asked into the league again, we are told that the members of the team there have gone on record as opposed to league play, and the club this year will take on only independent nines. One of the first division clubs last year, the Bulldog team is adding four Twin Falls players to the roster this year and has named Hoobler of Twin Falls as manager.

We have not heard from other towns proposing membership in the Idaho loop, but most of them are holding their first meetings this week, and it is probable that something definite will be decided upon within the next 10 days and league play would probably start the fore part of May.

A new Idaho baseball league has been formed in the western part of the state, an eight-team circuit, that will include Nampa and several of the other smaller towns in that section. A good climax for the year's baseball season would be an "Idaho little world's series" between the winners of the two leagues.

Short shots: Charley Gehringer, second baseman of the Detroit Tigers, has played through six different American league campaigns without missing a game. Harold Hove, star shortstop on the Kimberly team last season, will not play baseball this year, and Paul Boyd, star hitter on the Buhl champions two years ago, will emerge from a year's retirement, to play with the Buhl team this season. Something we would like to see: some of those fans at the ringside of the wrestling cards up in the ring taking about a minute of that parishment for every time they holler "that doesn't hurt!"

DETTON WRESTLES HERE SATURDAY

WORLD'S CHAMP SIGNED FOR BOUT WITH THOMPSON

Kunkel Wins Over Kusek on American Legion Card Here Saturday

Dean Detton, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will display his wares to fans of southern Idaho here on Saturday night, according to an announcement made from the ring at the American Legion card last Saturday night.

Detton, former Kimberly youth, graduate of the University of Utah, and one of the biggest drawing powers in the mat world, will appear against Wally Thompson, the Pucible, Colo., grappler who made such short work of the terrible "Hands" Olsen, the Canadian awe, Saturday night. Thompson is also a former Utah university mat star.

One of the most colorful men in the game today, the appearance of Detton on a local card will mark the peak of entertainment for "grunt-and-groan" fans for this season. The only card in recent years that has held anything near the punch that the one Saturday night will have, was when Matt Mountain, Dean, the bearded mountaineer, appeared here a few seasons back.

Detton has been touring the Pacific coast, wrestling in most of the larger cities before crowds of well over 3,000, as high as 8,000. Recently he has appeared in Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and other northwest cities. He tossed Del Kunkel, the pride of local fans, in a head-line bout at Salt Lake City last week before a crowd of 5,200. Kunkel was good enough to last just one fall—he couldn't come back after that.

Kunkel-Cazell Semi-windup on the card for Saturday night will pit Kunkel in the ring against another of the wrestling game's most colorful athletes, Indian Ike Cazell, 190-pound Aztec Indian, a former member of the U. S. Olympic team, and a star footballer at Haskell Indian institute.

Preliminary will see Clarence Call, the Idaho grappler, face Hy Sherman, generally conceded to be one of the "dirtiest" artists in the game. Sherman was billed to wrestle here earlier in the season but was unable to appear due to the fact that he was tossed out of a ring on his head at Pocatello the night before.

Kusek Losses Kunkel might not be in the same class as Detton, but the stocky 190-pounder was plenty good enough Saturday night to take all the "meanness" out of Klem Kusek, the Nebraska "dirty-man" who on the card previous here had won a battle royal by downing Ted Hager in the finals.

Kunkel took the first fall in 18 minutes and three seconds, and the second in 27 seconds. Both falls were made with a leg lock.

In the semi-windup Wally Thompson made easy work of the "pugly" Phil "Hands" Olsen, taking the first fall in 16 minutes and two seconds and the second in 6 minutes and 2 seconds. Both falls were with the Boston crab.

Largest Crowd Hap Bartlett, proved to be another of the biting, kicking style of wrestlers and he took the first fall from Clarence Call, but the latter came back to take the last two with the Boston crab, which proved to be quite the popular hold of the evening. It was also tried by Kusek on Kunkel, but didn't work.

The largest crowd of the season, about 500, was on hand for the matches Saturday night, but this number is expected to be boosted considerably for the Detton card, according to J. Edward Warner, promoter of the matches for the American Legion building committee.

Tris Speaker Hurt in Fall

CLEVELAND, April 12 (U.P.)—Tris Speaker, hard-hitting, fast-stepping outfielder of 21 years experience in the big leagues, had "better than an even chance to live" today after a fall from the second story of his suburban home.

The 49-year-old baseball veteran, one of the greatest outfielders of all time, suffered a fractured skull and his condition was described as "quite serious."

Dr. Edward Castle, physician for the Cleveland Indians, for whom Speaker starred as a player and then as manager for 11 years, said the fall occurred as Speaker was repairing a flower box at a second story window in the rear of his home.

He fell head first when the wooden railing of the back porch collapsed as he leaned over to catch an object tossed from the ground. The left side of his face struck a stone, opening a cut that ran the length of his cheek.

FELLER LOSES IN EXHIBITION GAME

Minor Leaguer Hits Homer With Bases Loaded as Indians Drop Tilt

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 12 (U.P.)—Jim Tabor was the hero of the Southern league today after smacking a home run off Bob Feller with the bases loaded to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 5-0, yesterday. It was the first time a batsman had solved the young Iowa fireballer for a circuit out since Feller came to the majors last year. It also was the first run scored off Feller in 18 innings of exhibition pitching this year. However, Bobby added seven strikeouts to his three-thinging tenure to bring his total to 29 for the spring.

GIANTS WIN DECATUR, Ala., April 12 (U.P.)—The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians continued their 18-game exhibition schedule today with the Indians leading six games to five. The Giants managed a run in the 10th inning yesterday to defeat the Nashville Vols of the Southern association, 3-2.

The Dodgers scored a shutout in the first encounter, blanked the Jacksonville Tars, champions on the Sally league, 8-0 yesterday while the Bees ran wild over Augusta, 22-2.

SOX BEAT PIRATES OKLAHOMA CITY, April 12 (U.P.)—Leading the three-to-two in their nine-game training series, the Chicago White Sox play the Pittsburgh Pirates here today. The Sox went one up with an 8-5 decision at Dallas yesterday.

'FRISCO AT TOP IN COAST'S LOOP

Seals Capture Both Ends of Double-Header From Portland Team

(By United Press) San Francisco teams occupied both ends of the Pacific Coast league standings Monday after 10 days of play.

The Seals, picked to finish under the middle of the standing, bobbed up in first place by virtue of a double victory over Portland Sunday and a 5-1 sweep of the week's series with the defending champions.

The Mission Reds, also claiming San Francisco as home headquarters, dropped more deeply into the cellar by losing twice to San Diego Sunday and dropping the series by a 1-8 margin.

San Diego climbed into second place tie with Seattle, which divided the doubleheader with Oakland to take the series, 5-2. The closest series of the week left Sacramento and Los Angeles tied for fourth, with Sacramento holding a 4-3 edge in the seven games and the clubs breaking even Sunday.

Portland suffered a costly loss Sunday when Fred Betore, third baseman, was spiked during the play, in which the Beavers lost 5-4 and 3-2. Home runs by Thompson, Patcett, and Williams helped San Diego beat the Mission, 3-2 and 4-0. Marnie Salvo hurried the shut-out, one of three the Sunday games produced.

Oaks Shut Out Seattle trimmed Oakland, 3-0, with Ulrich pitching, and then the Oaks beat the Indians, 4-2, with Sawyer's homer helping in the win. Sacramento, behind three-hit pitching by Bob Klingler, took the first game from Los Angeles, 10-0, the Angels won the second 3-2. Culp had a homer in the opener.

NEW YORK, April 12 (U.P.)—Major league baseball clubs swung into the homestretch of the training season today, working their way north with exhibition games booked until the season opens next Monday.

The National league season opens officially in Boston April 10 with the Bees entertaining the Philadelphia Phillies in a double header. The American league goes into action the same day at Washington with the Senators taking on the Philadelphia Athletics. Remainder of the clubs in both circuits begin Tuesday.

GRAIN DROPS ON BOARD OF TRADE

CHICAGO, April 12 (U.P.)—Weakness in world markets induced scattered liquidation of wheat futures on the Chicago board of trade today, forcing prices down for net losses of two cents a bushel.
The market opened lower in response to weak cables from abroad but local buying checked the decline and brought about a moderate rally. Prices weakened again on the supreme court upholding of the Wagner labor relations act.
Weather and crop conditions over the domestic wheat belt were mixed. Corn sold for net losses of better than a cent a bushel under pressure from commission houses. The decline in wheat together with a slow commercial demand, induced selling.
At the close wheat was 1½ to 3½ cents lower, new corn 1½ to 2½ cents lower, old corn 2½ to 4 cents and oats ½ to ¾ cent lower.

KIMBERLY WINNER OF BURLEY MEET

Band Contest Brings End to Music Festival of High Schools

BURLEY, April 12 (Special)—Kimberly band, spruce in their red and white uniforms, won by a narrow margin here Saturday afternoon in the marching contest held among the various bands entered in the district musical festival. The band is directed by W. Frank Warner.
Other bands entered in the contest were Burley, directed by Reed T. Hyde; Jerome, directed by G. G. Fletcher; Oakley, directed by Kendrick Hawkes; Halley, directed by John C. Kelley; Heyburn, directed by Gladys White; and Filer, directed by C. L. Luke.
The bands were all excellent, according to the judges, C. J. Hawkins, and Captain R. F. Smith. Jerome, Burley, Oakley, and Halley came within 2 points of the winner of the contest, and the other two bands, Heyburn and Filer, were within 5 points of Kimberly.
A massed band of 350 members, composed of all the band entrants in the festival, gave an open air concert following the marching under the direction of Mr. Hawkins. All players wore in uniform and marched on massed twice across the athletic field, creating a colorful picture for the audience, seated on the bleachers.
At the concert the winner of the marching was announced by Reed T. Hyde, Burley music instructor and director of the festival. Ross Freer, president of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce then presented them with the trophy and they gave a demonstration of marching masses.
The program included two selections by the massed band, "Invercauld" by Lithgow, and "Foot Lifter" by Filmore, a speech by Mr. Hawkins, a farewell speech of appreciation by Mr. Hyde, Washington's "Post March" by Sousa, by the band, and "Taps," played by two boys from Kimberly, one on the concert field and one echoing from a block away.
Mr. Hawkins held judgments of the individual band performances during the morning at the high school gymnasium. The orchestras were judged at the same time by Arthur Freber, from the University of Utah, followed by the string-solos and ensembles under the same judge at the L. D. S. tabernacle.
While not allowed to give out the ratings, Mr. Freber said that he was struck by the large number of entrants and the fine quality of their work in this section, as orchestras are usually quite scarce in meetings of this nature. He also complimented the directors on their choice of fine music instead of the cheaper type often favored.
Mrs. Virginia Summerhays Howard, who judged the chorus work the first day of the festival, judged the piano and vocal divisions Saturday at the Episcopal church and the L. D. S. Seminary building. She stated that the small high schools of the district should be commended for their fine representation in all the events.
All of the judges were generous in their praise of the management of the festival, and the precision with which all meetings moved, particularly the punctual beginnings.
Ratings and criticisms in all divisions will be mailed to the directors sometime during the next two weeks, so that each school will know how they compared with the others entering the contest. These ratings are to be private.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

FLIES ARE THE MOST NUMEROUS AND THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL THE ENEMIES OF MAN!

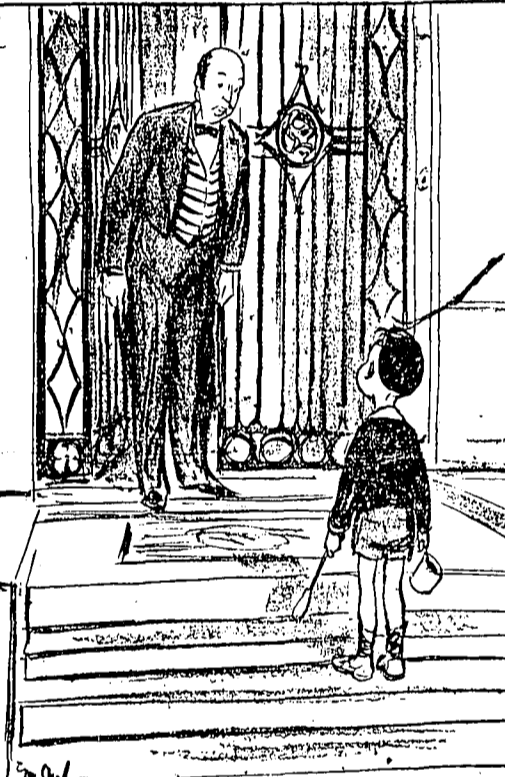

A PAIR OF BIRDS REPRESENTING AN UNKNOWN SPECIES, THE CONGO PEACOCK, WAS "DISCOVERED" IN A BELGIAN MUSEUM, THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AFTER THEY WERE MOUNTED AND PLACED THERE UNTIL RECENTLY, THEY WERE THOUGHT TO BE "COMMON PEAFOWL."

TIDES EXIST IN THE ATMOSPHERE JUST AS THEY DO IN THE OCEAN! THEY SEEM TO FOLLOW THE SUN, HOWEVER, INSTEAD OF THE MOON.

Years ago an American naturalist took a strange feather from the hat of an African native, but only recently did he discover the species of bird to which the feather belonged. . . . and then the find was made in a little-used corridor of a Belgian museum, the Musee du Congo Belge. Thus, the bird which had borne the label of the "common peafowl" for 35 years, was found to be the long-sought Congo Peacock.

FLOOD CONTROL, WATER CONSERVATION PLAN IS MAPPED

10-YEAR SET-UP IS OUTLINED BY RESOURCE GROUP

$4,161,000,000 Urged For Program in Curbing of High Waters

WASHINGTON, April 12 (U.P.)—The national resources committee today intensified its planning for future flood control and water conservation with recommendations for a 10-year $4,161,000,000 construction program in 119 drainage basins throughout the country.

A massive report, prepared by the committee's water resources committee, recommended an integrated plan of construction and investigation to be carried out partly by the federal government, partly by local and state governments, over a period of years.

The recommendations are an expansion of those contained in a report on public works planning covering 17 great drainage districts sent to congress by President Roosevelt on Feb. 3.

Three Classifications

The proposed program is divided into three classifications—immediate construction or investigation, deferred construction and "indeterminate" construction. The estimated cost for projects in the first group is $1,727,000,000 in the second $1,034,000,000 and in the third $1,400,000,000.

Eleven major types of water use and control problems which the water resources committee seeks to meet with recommended projects are:

Bank and coastal erosion control, domestic and industrial water supplies, drainage, flood control, electric power generation, irrigation, navigation, recreation, soil conservation and forest development, waste disposal and pollution abatement and wildlife conservation.

Program Adjustable

The project lists embodied in the report provide a reservoir of meritorious undertakings intended to cover a period of ten or more years, but the program is readily adjustable to the requirements on any policy that may be adopted.

Wrote Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes, chairman of the national resources committee, in transmitting the recommendations to President Roosevelt.

The program is designed to control streams along their entire courses.

The non-local character of such control, it was pointed out, has been emphasized by disastrous floods of the last two years, originating in headwaters where a local construction program is unnecessary except for protection of the valleys below.

The committee said that the listings of projects does not indicate that federal funds should be used for construction, but only that the projects are considered important parts of the program for a drainage basin.

The cost of projects listed for immediate and deferred construction is "modest and consistent" with the normal rate of expenditures for such purposes in this country for many years in the past.

Abel Wolman, chairman of the resources committee, said.

Wolman cited past spending for construction involving water use had reached $18,000,000 in 1926 and $274,000,000 by 1935 in justification of the committee's "reservoir of undertakings."

For deferred construction were listed the following: Malad valley, Idaho—Construction of dams for irrigation, including exploratory work, $170,000.

Preston, Idaho, water supply system, $333,000.

Bathtub With Door Wins Prize As Foremost "Invention of the Month"

By FREDERICK C. OTTMAN

WASHINGTON, April 12 (U.P.)—Having pondered long the perils of bathing and decided to remedy same, Samuel Friedlander today became the inventor of a bathtub with a door in it—like a sedan!

In his Memphis, Tenn., safety-bath laboratories he labored many a weary month figuring out a bathtub which wouldn't buck, bruising bathers in the process and breaking their bones.

The problem was to tame the bolterous bathtub, to break its spirit, to make it safe for people who had no experience whatever in mountain climbing.

Non-Skid Bathing

Other researchers before him had produced non-skid bathtubs, harness equipped bathtubs, sunken bathtubs, and bathtubs with handles on 'em, but all these antiquated tubs had one common defect; bathers still were liable to stumble and break their necks.

The Friedlander no-bruise-non-bump bathtub, on the other hand, entails no climbing in nor out, either, if the bather is patient.

In the glistening white slide of the tub is cut a roomy door, water-tight when closed, hinged on the bottom, and lined with rubber.

The bather making use of the Friedlander tame-tub merely turns a handle, as on a sports roadster. That lets down the door, providing a rubber-ribbed-ramp from floor to tub, like circus elephants use to enter freight cars.

When he's through bathing, he must unplug the drain before opening the door to get out, on penalty of ruining the plaster on the ceiling below, but that is no particular detriment, unless, of course, he happens to be in a hurry. Under those circumstances, he must climb out and take his chances on killing himself.

Second Prize

Anyway you look at it, Friedlander wins first prize for April inventiveness, but Ralph A. Ringsets of San Francisco can't be overlooked. He gets honorable mention for patent number 2,076,004, which makes wandering keyholes, late at night, stay put.

The Ringsets permanent-anti-jitter-keyhole, like all really great inventions, is exceedingly simple. It consists of a metal funnel, wide around the rim and narrowing smaller as it approaches the keyhole.

This funnel is attached solidly to the door. Late returning husbands, no matter how trembly may be their hands, thus can strike their key anywhere on the periphery of the funnel, which guides it unerringly and automatically to the keyhole.

Automatic do-it push.

The Ringsets cooperative key-hole does the rest.

SEC Report Shows Huge Salaries Paid to Film Stars, Executives

WASHINGTON, April 12 (U.P.)—Annual reports filed with the securities and exchange commission reveal that screen stars and film directors were better paid during 1936 than most business executives.

The reports covered corporate fiscal years ending in 1936. The law provides that corporations must include in their annual statement the names and total remuneration of officers, directors or employees receiving the three highest incomes.

A $1,220,242 bonus by Loews, Inc. placed the three who shared it at the top of the list. It was divided among Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg (now dead) and J. Robert Rubin, co-partners under the name of Louis B. Mayer Pictures.

Close behind was Nicholas M. Solenick, Loew's president, who salaried film figures were Kay Francis, of Warner Brothers, received $312,765. Other high $227,500; David Bernstein, Loew's vice-president, $213,857; Arthur M. Loew, $205,544; Joe E. Brown, Warner Brothers cavern-mouthed comedian, $201,262; Leslie Howard, Warner Brothers British star, $185,000; and three from Universal Pictures—Irno Dunn, $102,777; James Whale, $105,000; and Gregory LaCava, $102,500.

Bobby Jones, of golfing fame, was listed as one of the three highest paid employees of A. G. Spalding and Brothers, but the amount he received was not disclosed at the firm's request.

In addition to SEC reports, the treasury is required by law to file annually with congress a list giving the names of incomes of all persons receiving $15,000 or more a year. This list is taken from income tax returns.

Repeat of the law requiring publication of the treasury report to congress is being sought by Rep. Robert L. Doughton, D. N. C. He maintains that it leaves the persons named "prey to racketeers."

of Commerce to sponsor a dance in the near future, the proceeds to go into the building fund of the proposed Scout building. Tom Gamble and Dr. R. C. Matson compose the committee to meet with the Jaycees at their next meeting and propose this.

The Scouts are planning on building a log house with full basement for work shop. It is expected the city will furnish the lot and lease the site to the Scouts for $1 per year. Because of the coming election, no action has been taken by the present city officials.

The time required to see and realize a danger signal and begin to press on auto brakes is about one-fifth of a second; in that time, at 40 miles an hour, you could travel nearly 20 feet.

RELIEF WORKERS GET FRACTURES

New Ailment Reported Among Former Office Poilers Doing Manual Labor

WASHINGTON, April 12 (U.P.)—Relief workers had better watch out for the "ditch digger's fracture," a depression ailment that really is a pain in the neck.

Two U. S. public health physicians today revealed the new illness in an article in the current issue of Health News. They explained that it was confined almost exclusively to relief workers or those who formerly worked in offices but now are digging ditches.

Dr. W. C. Tuel, senior surgeon, and M. P. Topping, assistant surgeon, at the Marine hospital at Seattle, Wash., included four case histories with their report. Two of these were identified as relief workers.

When the ordinary man starts swinging a shovel, he is apt to relax his neck muscles after he starts to heave. That is the start of the trouble, the doctors found. If the dirt comes off, all is well; if the dirt sticks to the shovel, he may wrench his neck. In severe cases, the strain may fracture bones in the spine and thus he has "ditch digger's fracture."

The doctors said that they believed it was possible to classify the cases they had examined as a "distinct clinical entity" which differed from other, better-known types of fractures.

Rest in bed for approximately four weeks results in a cure for most cases, they said. If the pain continues, it may be necessary to remove the ununited portion of the bone.

Mrs. Roosevelt Confesses to Flannel Underwear in Youth

PHILADELPHIA, April 12 (U.P.)—Red flannel underwear and extreme awkwardness made Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's early girlhood pretty miserable, she confesses in the current issue of the Ladies' Home Journal.

"My grandmother saw to it that I wore flannels from the first of November until the first of April," the President's wife writes in "This is My Story," her autobiography. No matter what the temperature, she had to wear her flannels—and the flannels went from her neck to her ankles.

"Because she was tall, thin and 'very awkward,' the first lady's story continues, 'my grandmother decided that I should have ballet lessons.' So she learned toe-dancing.

Her "cousin Franklin," the man she later married, won her gratitude by one act of kindness at a time when she was suffering acutely from self-consciousness.

It was at a Christmas party given by her uncle, Theodore Roosevelt.

"I was a poor dancer and the climax of the party was a dance," Mrs. Roosevelt writes. "I still remember the inappropriate dresses I wore; and worst of all, they were above my knees.

"I knew, of course, I was different from all the other girls; and if I had not known, they were frank in telling me so.

"I still remember my gratitude . . . to my Cousin Franklin when he came and asked me to dance with him."

ARTHUR KEATON DIES IN NEVADA

Arthur Keaton, 55, veteran railroad conductor and resident here for a number of years, died yesterday at about 11 p. m. at Wells, Nev., following a sudden heart attack.

He was in Nevada on his "lay-over" and had expected to bring a train back here today.
