DUKE TO RECEIVE CHURCH SANCTION AT WEDDING RITE. Britton Olegymann to Conduct Ceremony After Civil Marriage. MINISTER GIVES SERVICE. 800 Newsmen, Press Writers At Monts For Historic Event Tomorrow.

By WEBB MILLER. (Copyright, 1937, United Press) MONTS, France, June 2 (UP)—The duke of Windsor will receive the blessing of a Church of England clergyman when he is married to Mrs. Wallis Warfield at the Chateau de Candé tomorrow, but it will be without the approval of the church itself. The Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, vicar of St. Paul's church at Darlington, Yorkshire, England, who has volunteered to perform a religious ceremony, admitted today that he has not obtained the approval of his ecclesiastical superiors. There was speculation here on whether the Rev. Mr. Jardine would not be disciplined by the church, which generally disapproves of the marriage, and perhaps even be deprived of his parish. Asked if he had received the approval of the ecclesiastical authorities, the vicar said: "I volunteered to conduct the ceremony. No permission was asked or given. I didn't consult any ecclesiastical authorities, only my own conscience. I knew that Mrs. Warfield and the duke of Windsor were desiring a religious ceremony. When I offered, the duke accepted. It was purely a voluntary offer on my part."

The wedding will be held in the salon of the chateau at 11:30 a. m. (10:30 a. m. EDT). The Rev. Mr. Jardine will perform a religious ceremony after the civil rite by Mayor Charles Mercier of Monts. Announcement of the religious ceremony was made by Herman L. Rogers, spokesman for the duke.

Rogers' announcement said: "The marriage of his royal highness the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield, the civil ceremony will be performed according to the laws of France at 11:30 a. m. Thursday (continued on Page 8, Column 3)

PIPE RAMS AUTO; 2 ESCAPE DEATH. Twin Falls Husband and Wife Almost Impaled on Car Hits Trailer.

Eleven feet of iron pipe smashed through the windshield of the car in which Mrs. J. O. Price of Twin Falls was riding last night, grazed Mrs. Price's temple, and tore out the back of her head. The pipe's narrow escape from death came when their sedan collided with the rear of a semi-trailer loaded with pipe. The pipe, of highway 20 four miles east of Hansen at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday, according to Sheriff L. L. Sullivan, Idaho Falls, on a visit in this territory. The vehicle containing the well-drilling pipe, which extended 11 feet and seven inches from the end of the trailer bed, was owned by H. Mitchell of Tuba, Sullivan reported today. The pipe crashed between Mr. and Mrs. Price, inflicting a bruise and several abrasions on the side of the woman's temple. Price suffered a minor cut on the left wrist from glass shattered when the pipe tore between the pair. A number of other people were riding in the car at the spot at which the piping would have impacted her, officers said today. First aid was administered to Mr. and Mrs. Price by Sullivan.

Body at Burley May Be Mystery Death Victim. PocateHo's Sheriff Declares Man Apparently is McCarthy

BURLEY, June 2 (Special)—Tentative identification made pointing to the fact that the body of a man found 15 miles east of Rupert with throat slashed, may be J. P. McCarthy, missing victim of the PocateHo "mystery car slaying," offered the first break this afternoon in the case that has baffled Idaho authorities for two weeks. "We think this man is McCarthy," Sheriff M. J. Rossiter of PocateHo declared after examination of the body at the Payne mortuary today. The Bannock county sheriff, accompanied by Jervis Roubidoux, inspector of police at PocateHo, checked the body and found that hair, teeth and left-toe nail marks on both forearms compared with those on McCarthy, missing Meridian man whose blood-stained car was found May 29 near Bonney.

"We found tattoo marks on both forearms, where McCarthy also had tattooing," Sheriff Roubidoux said. "As far as can be determined now, with the body in a badly decomposed condition, the hair, toe dental plates and general appearance conform to those of McCarthy." The missing man, believed to be victorious in the car slaying, also had two dental plates. Those of the murder victim found between here and Rupert in Cassia county to Ada county authorities for check-up with the dentures who made McCarthy plates. It was announced this afternoon. Sheriff Rossiter said that a cap belonging to McCarthy fit the head of the man whose body is held in the mortuary here. Dark Hair. First belief that the body was that of a Mexican was caused by the fact that the man had extremely dark hair and was dressed in laborer's clothing. The Bannock sheriff said that the man had dark hair and the Meridian resident also had dark hair and dark complexion. Decomposition of the body is such that no identification could be made from facial features, the Bannock and Cassia officials said. Fate in Charge. Further investigation into the case and hunt for the murderer is in the hands of Sheriff Price. Since the body was found in Cassia county, Sheriff Rossiter indicated this afternoon. He said Bannock authorities, who have been conducting an intensive probe of the body-car mystery in an effort to find both the missing victim and the man who killed him, will "rend every available lead" to Cassia officials and will continue their hunt in eastern Idaho. A coroner's jury under Coroner Joseph Payne returned a verdict of death "from an unknown source" at the inquest yesterday after finding the throat-slashed body by William Kirtz, sleepman who was driving a band of sheep past the spot approximately 30 yards from the highway.

MIDGET CARS TO GET FAIR CHANCE. Ooming Race Will Determine If Cars or Horses Will Take Spotlight.

Whether or not midget autos or horses will feature in races planned for the Twin Falls county fair Sept. 7 to 10, both dates inclusive, will be decided tonight when the state fair race at the grounds on Sunday, June 29. It was announced this afternoon by Tom Parks, secretary-manager of the fair. Decisions were made at a fair board meeting last night. It is that time the track will be put into excellent condition so that the cars will be able to "give a good showing," Parks said. "It is the wish of the fair board to give the people the type of races they want," he said, "and if they want midget autos, they will get them. The last time the cars raced here the track was in poor shape. This time it will be in condition and they will have a chance to prove if they attract and hold interest." Parks also said that 50 midget autos and 200 men action will be brought in from Fort Douglas in Fort Lewis, Wash. They recently won the title of state champions in a jubily from Washington to Utah after completion of maneuvers on the coast. The trucks will stop tonight in Boise. Thursday night in LaGrande, and will reach Fort Lewis Friday, he said.

JUSTICE RETIRES TO PRIVATE LIFE

Van Devanter Ends Career On Supreme Court Bench; Goes to Farm. WASHINGTON, June 2 (UP)—Justice Willis Van Devanter, after 26 years service on the supreme court, retires to private life today amid speculation of new retirements during the summer. Van Devanter plucked about his apartment preparatory to going to his farm in nearby Maryland, after the board of trustees here. He received from Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes a letter signed by all his colleagues expressing appreciation of his service on the tribunal. "Sense of Regret." The retiring justice was told that his decision to retire gave his associates a "poignant sense of regret." The justices added: "Your temperament and your industry, your exact knowledge of precedents and practice, and your precision of statement, have enabled you to render an invaluable service in our conference and your labors have entered into the very warp and wool of the jurisprudence of the court."

Van Devanter's response to his "dear brethren" said: "Grateful for Words. 'I am grateful for your generous words of esteem and affection. Intimate association with you in the work of the court has been to me both enjoyable and inspiring, and I shall carry into my retirement happy memories of that association, together with profound respect and true affection for each and all of you.'"

Several minor incidents at the court's last meeting for the term yesterday increased speculation as to new retirements. In a case involving California natural gas rates the tribunal upheld a lower court decision by an evenly divided court, four justices voting either way. Justice George Sutherland, whose retirement frequently has been predicted, was not in the opinion, making the split possible. Van Devanter, it was recalled, left to vote in a closely divided case the day before his retirement was announced.

The girl told officers that the last she remembered was seeing her father "dragging mother across the floor of the cabin by the hair, and I just couldn't stand it any longer." She said she plainly saw Ayres "slapped and knocked mother down."

STEEL COMPANY SAYS THAT UNION MEN FIRED ON SHIP

CLEVELAND, June 2 (UP)—A Republic Steel corporation airplane made a crash-landing while delivering food to non-striking workers at the company's Warren, O., plant today. Corporation officials blamed the crash on alleged sniping by strikers. Frank Flynn, manager of the plant, charged that snipers' fire and a barrage of bricks and bolts hurled at the plane frightened the pilot and caused the mishap. The plane showed a slight landing wheel as it fell against a row of railroad box cars used to screen unloading operations. Spoken for by the corporation, which resorted to airplanes as a means of getting food to its workers, said the pilot was not injured.

SECOND LEAFHOPPER REPORT POINTS BEAN DANGER SIGNAL

PEST BROOD NOW FAIRLY LARGE IN SOUTHERN IDAHO

Warm, Dry May Weather Favorable to Developing Of Parasites

Danger sign for south central Idaho's bean crop was elevated today by the U. S. bureau of entomology in its second 1937 report on bean leafhoppers, showing a "comparatively large" brood of the pests in this territory.

Dr. Douglas, associate entomologist, declared that the warm and dry weather during most of May was favoring the early development of the spring brood. The later findings confirmed the earlier report issued by Mr. Douglas.

Chief peril of the leaf hopper is to bean, since development of resistant bean is slow. It was a house fly that was discovered to be what was formerly its greatest rival, the entomologist pointed out.

Migration of the hoppers into cultivated areas of south central Idaho will begin about Thursday and will reach its peak about June 20, Mr. Douglas said.

He indicated that bean men have two alternatives to circumvent the leafhopper menace. These are either to rush plantings on order to get seedlings into condition to withstand the parasites, or to delay until about June 10 or 12.

"The spring brood of leafhoppers in south central Idaho is comparatively large due to the dry weather and the favorable population of overwintered leafhoppers and an abundance of favorable host plants on which to reproduce. These conditions were issued on May 4 and have been confirmed by later survey work.

"Weather conditions for the month of May have been four degrees above normal in temperature to date (to May 24) with only a very light sprinkle of rain, which is far below normal.

INJUNCTION WRIT PADLOCKS CLUB

Permanent Order Issued By District Judge Against Stockmen's Place

Permanent injunction had definitely ended the operations of the Stockmen's club today.

Judge T. Bailey Lee late yesterday ordered the permanent restraining order against proprietors of the club, located at 235 Stephens street south. A temporary injunction last May 13 had brought closing of the establishment on grounds of public nuisance.

Defendants in the action yesterday to show cause why the order should not be permanent were Carl Mendezona, and Ellen Mendezona, proprietors, and Mrs. P. J. Costello, operator of the building.

Judge Lee, after hearing testimony of defense and state witnesses, said he found "no doubt" that the club was a gathering place of undesirable persons.

The complaint filed by County Attorney Edward Babcock had branded the place as a congregating spot at which men and women drank and indulged in immoral practices.

Witnesses called by Babcock and George Paulson, deputy county attorney, included Sheriff E. F. Prater, Chief of Police Howard Gillette, W. J. Holtenbeck, George O'Neill, M. O. Moeve, T. T. Yowell and T. A. Rector. Defense witnesses placed on the stand by E. V. Larson and W. L. Dunn, representing the defendants, were Earl Alford, Fred Stump and Bob Miller.

ACCIDENT VICTIM RECOVERS HERE

Mrs. Charles Randall, Hurt By Smashup, in "Good" Condition Today

A Murtaugh woman was recovering this afternoon at Twin Falls county general hospital after escaping what might have been serious injuries in an automobile crash at a highway intersection approximately one mile east of the county farm on the sugar factory road.

Condition of Mrs. Charles Randall was "good," hospital attaches said. She had several cuts and bruises and severe shaking-up.

Car Overtaken Mrs. Randall was riding in a machine driven by J. C. Perkins, Murtaugh, her son-in-law. The car overturned when struck by an auto driven by Walter Perren, Kimberly, at the intersection of the sugar factory highway and "three-mile road." Also riding in the machine with Perkins and Mrs. Randall were Mrs. Perkins and Opal Randall, both of Murtaugh. With Perren was his wife.

None of the other occupants of the machines suffered injuries. Sheriff E. F. Prater said.

The Perkins sedan landed right side up on the road after overturning.

Kansas in Mishap "Dead man's curve" north of Piler caused another mishap yesterday when W. N. Delanarter, Liberal, Kan., smashed into a concrete ditch abutment.

Two daughters of the Kansas man, Grace and Bernice Delanarter, suffered contusions and cuts when thrown against the windshield, but were given first aid at Buhl.

Yesterday Bob, returning to the story of Joan's past, includes the police report. Bob determined to tell her.

CHAPTER XXVII
As they drew up in front of the little white cottage, Bob's eyes grew wide at the pandemonium which enveloped it. Police officers, curious onlookers, newspaper reporters and camera men—their shrill voices raised in querulous inquiry—gave the place a carnival atmosphere. Bob looked at the scene with a puzzled expression. He had never visualized such desecration.

Sybil and Bob rushed past the crowds without entering the house. The police had taken control of the place, scrutinizing, measuring, searching.

Bob restrained himself with an effort. These fools had tried to pin the blame on Joan, who was his own beloved Joan. He wanted to have it out with them physically, to choke the words down their throats, with his own bare hands!

As Sybil introduced them perfunctorily, Inspector Kennedy must have sensed some of the turmoil going on within him, for his words were decidedly curt.

"A terrible case, Mr. Andrews," he observed, gently. "Mr. Hendry was such a fine man, in every way you know him several years."

"Ten years," Bob replied. "I've been in the organization that length of time."

Kennedy hesitated a moment. Then "Suppose we discuss the case privately," he suggested. "We can go up to Mr. Hendry's room."

The two men went into the small library adjoining Mr. Hendry's bedroom and Kennedy shut the door behind them. He sat down, motioning Bob to a seat.

"Mr. Andrews," he said, still kindly, "I know how you feel. Miss Hendry has doubtless discussed the case with you—but I don't want you to get the impression that the police are delinquent in not to wrong you—or Miss Barrett."

"I think you're making a pretty big mistake . . ."

"Believe me, we're trying not to."

Bob shook his head. "I can't understand it," he said loudly. "You know her—her background?"

"No," Kennedy replied. "I don't know anything other than what Miss Barrett told me. I don't believe her story."

"Where were you waiting for absolute proof?" Bob asked Kennedy. "However, that has nothing to do with the present case. I understand from Mr. Hendry's lawyer that he recently refused his will to include Miss Barrett. Did you know of that?"

"Yes, Mr. Hendry discussed it with me," Bob answered. "And Miss Barrett knew it?"

"Definitely not," Bob said firmly. "Mr. Hendry took pains to have the new will drawn up at his attorney's office, and I am sure Barrett would not know of it. He told me that he preferred it to come as a surprise to her, eventually."

"I see," Kennedy tapped on the arm of his chair thoughtfully. "She did know, however, about the $10,000 Mr. Hendry had in his possession last year?"

"Yes. We both knew about that."

"Was there anyone else who had access to that money?"

"Bob thought a moment. "There was Mr. Norton," he said finally, "a friend of Mr. Hendry's, who is here to negotiate the sale for which the money was intended. Mr. Hendry might have told him."

"You're not sure?"

Bob recalled the few minutes he had spent with Mr. Hendry, Norton and Norton at the Inn the night before. "I'm quite sure that Norton did know about it, now that I think back," he said.

"And Norton was out here last night?"

"Yes, he and Mr. Hendry had dinner together, at the Inn. But Mr. Norton returned to town with me."

"At what time was that?"

"We took the 11:10 out of Green Hills."

Kennedy made a note of that in

An Exclusive and Authoritative Evening Times Daily Glimpse Into the Background of Events in the Nation's Capital . . . by America's Foremost Interpreter Giving You Both Sides. "Let the Chips Fall Where They May."
(Copyright, 1937, Paul Mallon)

GRACE WASHINGTON, June 2.—The long period of Mr. Roosevelt's complete dominance over Congress is breaking up so quietly now as to be almost invisible to the naked eye. The change is being made at the top of the government is being handled so smoothly as to conceal the real force of its vital effect.

Take the "real compromise" now being widely advertised as having been effected between the House and Senate on the White House. To the ear it sounds like a minor concession of an insignificant nature, but it actually represents the first time the President has ever bowed to the lower branch of the legislature.

At the same time, the setbacks to the President's court packing program in the Senate are being handled so tactfully that the outside world is not yet aware that the legislation has already been defeated. This also marks the first time the President has failed to have his way with Congress, and it is a necessary precedent for the future.

What it means as all legislative students know, is that the rule of the majority is being established. When legislators once find out there is no bogeyman, they rarely forget it.

A period of more normal relations between the capital and the White House seems to be in prospect, with both sides taking and giving, as the constitution decreed they should.

THE SMOOTHNESS with which the relief compromise negotiations were conducted is due largely to House Floor leader Rayburn. His associate leaders thought he made a mistake when he faced the House on the subject of the relief bill. He fought until today. They told him so, outside. They judged the mood of the House to be impatience and the result would only be sticking his nose out for the blow if he tried to handle them.

Rockefeller Virtues Outliving Faults

The queer contradiction in the life of John D. Rockefeller will probably be giving social historians some bad moments for many generations.

If you like to have life wrap up its rights and wrongs in separate packages and hand them out neatly labeled, so that a clear-cut judgment can be pronounced on each act and each life, Mr. Rockefeller's case will be highly unsatisfactory to you.

He got his wealth in a way that cannot be condemned too strongly. He used it in a way that cannot be praised too emphatically.

How is a historian going to strike a balance there?

Until the early 1900's, there is very little in the Rockefeller story that can incline a socially-minded historian to do anything but shake his head sadly.

The story of the formation and development of Standard Oil has been told many times. Enough has been printed to reveal it as a jungle battle, in which applied acquisitiveness followed its chosen path with utter ruthlessness.

In an age when monopoly was riding as a storm cloud on the American horizon, Rockefeller was the king of monopolists. He was hated by the mass of the people as few men have been hated; and the hatred was all the more bitter because it was tinged with deep fear.

We do not often realize, at this late date, how greatly the common folk of America were stirred by the rise of the giant corporations in the closing years of the last century. Tremendous pressures were set up by the emergence of our industrial giants; people felt that their prized liberties were coming to be at the mercy of the sort of people recently dubbed "economic royalists," and with some justice they looked on Rockefeller as the man who had shown these royalists how to seize power.

But that is only half of the picture. For if this man made people uneasy by showing them that one man can amass more wealth and power than one man can possibly need, he also showed them that great wealth properly used can have enormous social value.

The amount of good that the Rockefeller money has done is simply beyond appraisal. The whole world has felt the effects. The best that science can do, supported by all that money can provide, has been put at the service of all mankind. The man who made that possible deserves, surely, some sort of gratitude from the race.

So how are you going to strike a balance on that man's career? Its two halves do not jibe. You can't label him with one word or one phrase. Like all the rest of us, he was a mixture of good and bad—but on a titanic scale. We can say, perhaps, that his case reverses the Shakespearean adage—that the good he did lives after him, while the evil looks smaller and smaller with the years.

A Rule of War

The Italian government is going to adopt a new policy in naval construction, according to word from Rome.

Heretofore, Italian warships have been designed with speed and armament chiefly in mind. Cruising range has been considered unimportant, because it has been expected that Italian ships would always operate in the Mediterranean, close to their home bases.

Now, however, it is announced that the Italian navy is to be made "ocean-going," with long cruising capacity so that it can operate in the Atlantic, if need be, far from Italian shores.

This looks as if the Italian navy were to become an offensive weapon pure and simple. But the truth of the matter is that all armaments are inherently offensive, for the simple reason that a nation waging even a purely defensive war must take the offensive at times—as the Confederate states of America did when Lee invaded Pensylvania. The shift in emphasis in Italian warship design merely recognizes that fundamental strategic fact.

THIS LADY INDIGNANTLY SAYS 'FIDDLESTICKS!'

Humph! What's all this stuff and monkey hot clothes making the man or woman's?

Clothes have nothing to do with it. The apparel does a great deal to give a fine line of command, but observe, sir, that I said "fiddlesticks!" After you know that specific person and the class of their grandeur in clothing wears off, what do you look at? The person himself. Then you begin to find his nose is too long, his stomach protrudes, his eyes are too bulgy.

Humph! Clothes make the man? Fiddlesticks! —Marianne

OR MAYBE I'M AG WITH FOR FENNIES!

Pot Shots:
The Eveltines said that thieves are stripping Houston, Tex., of its marble covers.

You don't suppose, do you, that we're finally on the trail of that tough guy who uses them to play hidey-ho?

—Rastus

YOU CAN SPEND A CROWN IN THE POCKET!

Pot Shots:
"Let's get down to business on all this fiddlesticks over the English king, queen, royalty and what have you."

When you scrape to brass the king, queen, without an argument (and I'll bet my Sunday suit to a doughnut on this) the average Englishman would rather have a crown in his pocket than one on his head.

And his hobby? Well, you're different, 'o's a bally sa, so 'e is! —Blimey Cockney

THIS WOULDN'T BE A DIG AT THE AAA, YES?

Pot Shots:
I see the National Grange is conducting a safety campaign for farmers.

This is a very well idea. It reduces the danger of any farmers being plowed under.

—The Lone G.O.P.

NON-ESSENTIALS

Clothing helps to make a man if you never look within. It sways your mind if you're the kind of a fellow who's an Uncle Sam's voter is thin. Unless you look for deeper things. You'll just out look. For style has never yet decided 'Tween honest men and crooks! —Jernegan

YOU CAN'T ARGUE WITH THIS ONE!

Third Row:
Does clothes make the man? I'll say they do.

If you don't believe me, Pot, just take a look at the ladies as they turn up their noses when they see some hard-luck guy pass down the street as though. Even the ladies would look at you with a pitying eye—just the kind of a pity that, and to the world at large is fine man temporarily in rags is just another bum. —Borneo

'TWOULD HAVE MINISTERS A LOT OF TROUBLE!

Sir:
The 36-year-old guy the Eveltines talked about the one who preached his own funeral sermon because the figured death is just around the corner—went on a tour of Chicago clubs last night. Heard that it was his own funeral.

At that, Pot Shots, the old galoot has a swell idea. Everybody should preach his own funeral sermon, because after all each of us is to the only one who really knows all in his own mind. And there's nobody like us to glow over our own faults with blind righteousness. —The Merry Widow

OH, NO, OUR RIBBON IS THE ORIGINAL!

Dear Sir:
If newspapers have been telling about a fellow who claims he has a very, very antique typewriter which always manages to see the light, I would like to meet that man. Because the typewriter I use down at our office has the original ribbon which also dates back to the last century.

I hope my boss sees this and decides to have the ribbon changed.

P.S.—If you can't read my typeline, blame it on the antique ribbon.

PURE COINCIDENCE!

Potatoes Wootie:
There's nothing significant in this little matter, but why is it that storekeepers who have a male machine in their machines always manage to see the light when you get some nickles when they give you your change? —Alwax Lane

HISTORY of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO

JUNE 2, 1922
The state normal school will stay at Albion, according to the decision of the supreme court rendered last night. The court has decided that the statute provides that all bills for the raising of revenue must originate in the house of representatives. Since the measure which attempted to move the institution to Burley contained a clause leaving the law, the law was clearly unconstitutional.

The decision was made by Justice Charles O. Dumas of Albion, who brought the suit to enjoin the removal.

27 YEARS AGO

JUNE 4, 1910
On Wednesday night of last week the safes of the Twin Falls Transfer Company, the Twin Falls Milling and Elevator Company and the Adams and Phipps Lumber Company were all tampered with, and the safes were found open. At the transfer office the burglar opened the safe, which is always kept unlocked, took out the money and carried it away with them.

At the planing mill the safe was opened and a small sum of money was known to be entirely empty.

Through their own hanging the burglars themselves locked the safe at the elevator, and succeeded only in locking the safe, drawer which contained only a few cents.

37 Commencement Staged for Acquaintances

Commencement exercises were held Thursday in the high school auditorium. The principal in attendance, H. E. Welsch of the Albion State Normal school, delivered the address.

The hall was decorated with purple and gold, and a large number of guests were present. The exercises were held in the gymnasium, where the principal, H. E. Welsch, presided.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Scientist.

The diabetic suffers with a tendency to infection because his skin loses its resistance. Frequent boils, carbuncles and abscesses are a sign of itching of the skin may be signs of the appearance of diabetes.

The person who is constantly itchy, however, should be examined by a physician. The itchy skin is likely also to become irritable and desquamate, and the itching may be associated with the development of diabetes.

From the point of view of the diabetic, however, the most significant observation is the discovery of sugar in the urine and the presence of ketone bodies in the urine. When sugar is found in the urine, it is also customary to make a study of the amount of sugar in the blood, and perhaps to make what is called a glucose tolerance test to find out the extent to which the body can use the sugar it normally comes to.

STATE TARIFFS

The good neighbor policy seems to be in a right attitude. Nationally, it is more accurate way to describe it might be that it is not working to any appreciable extent and that it is all right. But some deep trouble is developing in Mr. Roosevelt's own 48-partment building which may suggest a change in the neighborly policy on the state tenants at home.

The twenty-first amendment is doing its job in the prohibition peeler provided that states which desire to remain dry may set to do so. The supreme court recently held in a case from California, that this permits a state to regulate or restrict importation of liquor into the state. It permitted tariff barriers between states.

HOUSE APPROVES $1,500,000,000 WORK RELIEF BILL

MEASURE GOES TO SENATE FOR APPROVAL TODAY

Attempt to earmark sums in Measure Defeated; Vote Is 323 to 44

By EDWARD W. LEWIS
 WASHINGTON, June 2 (U.P.)—The $1,500,000,000 work relief bill, passed by the house last night in a stormy session, was sent to the senate today where a bitter economy and earmarking fight awaited it.

A weary, temper-frayed house membership, beaten into submission by administration pressure and pledges, wound up a two-week battle by approving 323 to 44 President Roosevelt's program for fiscal 1939. The program for providing 1,500,000 jobs in the 1938 fiscal year.

Final passage came just before midnight after the house had been in session almost 12 hours. Crowded galleries witnessed the vote as Sen. James E. Byrnes, D., S. C., usually an administration stalwart, is enlisting support for his drive to reduce the fund by $500,000,000.

Battle Seen

Other southern Democrats and Republicans may have been expected to attempt to return administration of relief to states, with the federal government contributing three-fourths of the cost.

A drive to earmark part of the appropriation for flood control, public works and other relief projects—which failed in the house—also may develop.

The administration's victory in the house came on a series of votes which killed:

1. Previously approved amendments earmarking for flood control for public works, $55,000,000 for flood control, and $100,000,000 for highways.
2. An attempt to reduce the relief fund to $1,000,000,000.
3. A Republican attempt to turn administration back to the states.

WORK CONTINUES FOR BURIAL SITE

Workers Busy Installing Pipe For Irrigation; Electric Pump Slatod Room

Installation of a high pressure electric pump, capable of pumping 5,000 gallons a minute, and laying of 1,400 feet of three-inch cast iron water pipe will see ground work near completion at the Sunset Memorial park, second burial ground of its type to be constructed in Idaho, owners said this afternoon.

The park is located directly across from the Twin Falls cemetery on 50 acres of ground, most of which are being developed at the present time.

Installation of the pipe is already underway and the pump will be installed next week. One bridge, spanning the Ferris coulee, has been completed and work has started on a second bridge. Dredging will start soon for an artificial lake as a beautification measure and grass will be up by early July. Space has been set aside for construction of private vaults and contemplated plans call for construction of a public mausoleum in the future.

At the present time space is provided for 3,000 single graves or 351 family plots ranging from two to 18 graves each. Each grave is set in concrete and the casket sealed within. There will be no tombstones, each grave being marked with a stone set flush with the ground.
