deliberation" of the council. He also said of making various measurements to determine whether the streets would be benefited to any great extent.

Mr. Swesley said that if the council wanted the improvement, let them have it, but the property owners on Second avenue west and south, which I represent, don't want it."

T. P. Warner appeared before the council and urged that the program be carried through with the intention that it ought to include the entire lengths of the streets and, outside the business district proper, be paid from the general fund. A written protest against the improvement was made by Mrs. Grace Minton, who also protested last week.

When Mrs. Minton's name was found on the original petition against the widening, she started, she said she was told the city would pay the costs and that it would not be assessed against the property owners. She said she did not read the paper before she signed it and wished to change her standing.

Supervisors understood that suggestions were heard last night that, inasmuch as the owners of property on Second avenue west and north are urging the improvement, the work should be done in that section, leaving the other section at its present width. Council members were of the opinion that the owners of the property "if they didn't want to benefit by the improvement, should be excluded from it."

It was believed today that final action as to whether or not the improvement would be made, at once finally planned, would be taken next Monday night.

Merchants Plan Wednesday Bargains in Mid-Week Shopping Event

STORES PRESENT SPECIAL OFFERS AS ATTRACTIONS

Opening of Livestock Auction Firm Is Signal For New Feature Here

Offering of special merchandise bargains by Twin Falls merchants Wednesday in conjunction with the opening of the new Twin Falls Livestock Commission company will inaugurate a mid-week shopping move that is expected to continue as a regular feature here.

W. A. Van Engelen, chairman of the merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, said today.

The first auction of the livestock concern at its yards and sales arena near the Twin Falls stockyards is expected to draw more than 1000 persons, the bulk of whom will be ranchers. Seating capacity of the arena itself is 600 at one time. Shifting crowds at the sale, however, will mean considerably more than that number is accommodated.

The special Wednesday bargains planned by the merchants will offer added attractions to the mid-week influx and to Twin Falls shoppers wishing to avoid the Saturday rush, Mr. Van Engelen said.

"Stores will devote some of the usual Saturday energy to preparing unusual Wednesday purchases for the thrifty shopper," he pointed out. All members of the merchants' bureau are cooperating in the move, which is strongly endorsed by the chamber.

Hearings May Reveal "Prosperity"

There is room for much difference of opinion—room enough to park a couple of Zeppelins—about the wisdom or otherwise of the pending administration bill to set minimum-wage and maximum-hour standards in American industry.

But one thing is quite certain. The hearings which go into the whole question of what our fabled American standard of living looks like to the wage-earner in the lower brackets. If, as the president has said, a third of our population is "ill-nourished, ill-clad and ill-housed," we ought to know about it. Then—whether the administration bill passes or is defeated—we shall at least know just where we stand.

In 1929, according to the Brookings institution, nearly 6,000,000 American families—better than one family in every five—had incomes below $1,000 a year. Some 12,000,000 American families had incomes below $1,500 a year.

A Washington correspondent recently took these figures to Dr. Isador Lubin, U. S. commissioner of labor statistics, and asked him just what incomes of the size mean. How does a family get by in modern America on less than $1,500 a year?

The average family in that income group, said Dr. Lubin, spends about a third of its income on food. That means around $8 a week for a family of four. If that sum has to be shaded very much, the family cannot afford enough green vegetables, fresh fruit and milk.

That same family will be able to spend about $4 a month, per person, for clothing. The head of the family must make a suit of clothes last two or three years. Once in four or five years he can buy an overcoat. His wife must wear dresses that sell at $5, or thereabouts.

Then there is housing. The family will spend about $20 a month on rent—a flat, half a double house, or a four or five-room frame house. Fuel, light, etc., will take $16 a month. In many cases there will be no running water. Steam heat will be a rarity. Electric refrigerators will be almost unheard-of.

These expenditures eat up most of the income. For the under-$1,000-a-year family they eat up all of it, and then some. The luckier family, up near the $1,500 mark, will have a little money left—for medical care, house furnishings, recreation, education and savings.

Now this is not a picture of complete destitution—but it is a picture of bleak poverty which ill-accords with our boasted American standard of living. If these Washington hearings, by adding to the details of this picture, force us to realize that even prosperous America could very well do with a much greater measure of prosperity than it has ever had before, they will be doing us a great service.

"Careers" in WPA

Whenever the administration has made a cut in its list of WPA relief clients, a mighty howl has gone up from families and individuals who believed they were getting a raw deal. In some cases, this protest was justified. In others, where the WPA jobs had been turned into lifetime careers, no sympathy was called for.

New York's Works Progress administrator, Lieut. Col. B. B. Somervell, has drawn plans for replacing WPA "career" workers with jobless men and women more eager to equip themselves for a return to private employment. As a start, Colonel Somervell has ordered a thorough analysis of "the life on work relief" of those receiving federal aid.

Properly handled, this is fair procedure to those WPA workers who honestly want to make their way independent of the government. And though tardy, it might do much to overcome the fear that work relief is creating a national class of unambitious drones.

"Harry," a 3-year-old buffalo in the Boise zoo, has been killed to provide the "makins" for a big barbecue during the capital city's "Idaho Marches On" celebration this week. We're inclined to believe that the reason given for killing "Harry"—that he ate altogether too much hay—was nothing more than a trumped-up charge as a means of getting buffalo meat for the barbecue. But just the other day they shot eight Russian army officials just as casually and for no better reason, so perhaps we shouldn't shed any tears for "Harry" after all.

CHAPTER VII

In the club dressing room Pats dropped her cape and took one look at the man who was looking at her. She was deeply, mysteriously blue behind the white satin mask. She threaded her way through the lounge, where cocktails and velvet gentlemen and court jesters, and reached the ballroom with its varicolored lights, twinkling music and gliding couples. Instantly she located Don. He stood at the edge of the dance floor in conversation with an armored gentleman. Pats smiled and waved politely but made no other response to the invitation in her eyes.

ROMEO AND JULIETS ON A GRIMBY BALCONY

Dear Pats: Shakespeare comes to life on the somewhat smothered balcony of the apartment behind one of our Main avenue store buildings.

It happens to be taking a short-cut through the alley behind Dell's when I saw a guy drive up. He no sooner got out than he was surrounded by a bunch of dames up on this balcony started to chant to him: "Welcome, Romeo, wherever art thou, Romeo!"

So he reached into Shakespeare and came up with "Romeo, Romeo, where art thou, Romeo?"

Meanwhile, all and sundry within earshot rushed to inspect with startled eyes this matter of Romeo-and-Juliet balcony-and-two-Juliet—one-of-them-in-sher.

The 12 cents, I might derive the names of the girls.

SANDWICH ON THE HOOF

Dear Pats: Hand me the smelling salts. I saw a fellow and a girl ambuling down Shoshone street eating sandwiches between them. First he'd take a bite and then she'd take one. Evidently the girl didn't like mustard because she pulled her sandwich of mustard on a paper napkin, from which he'd slip some on his bite with a toothpick, daughter-in-law.

They took their bites right in stride, too, never stopping once. This dizzying pace of the 20th century getting together with people have to eat on the run.

HOW TO TELL A BIG SHOT

Dear Sir: I know how to tell a big shot now. If a man walks into a restaurant in a strange town all by himself, or maybe with just one other companion, don't worry about him. He may be a famous guy but probably not.

On the other hand, if he walks in accompanied by young men flanking him either and either, you know he's right up there.

I verified the fact of this matter Sunday in Wray's cafe. Sure enough, the gent in classification No. 2 was a big shot. None other than Zane Grey, who was dining with a secretary, chauffeur, etc.

And listening to him talk, I found out the regular guy. Many a tasty can-word and witty expression. Couldn't forget. Pot Shots—if you wouldn't be a big mouset, don't brag around all by yourself.

that I never saw you before." If I knew your name," his arm drew her closer. "Please tell me." Pats shook her head. "You would find my name very uninteresting."

"But I want to see you again," Pats had never dreamed Don could be so eagerly persistent. "Tell me something about you. Do you ride the park, do you work at the Rendezvous, do you cocktail at the Coronet?"

"I have tea every Friday afternoon at the Coronet Tea Garden," she answered. "I'm a little busy."

"Almost always I am alone," with that she was gone. As she caught up her cape and ran she heard shouts and laughter as the guests received one another. Ducking into a cab, Pats jerked off her mask and leaned back with a sigh of pure delight. At the turn of the night she looked back. Don was in the doorway looking wildly about.

The next afternoon Rosie dropped in. Still ignoring Pats, she obviously wished to hold on to the noble eye still the subject of the masquerade ball.

"Did you go, Don?" she inquired.

"Yes, I was there for a while. Patricia had another engagement," Rosie nodded. "Then why didn't you take me? I was crazy to go."

"Well, I was invited, Rosie," she looked at the girl. "but that would have made no difference—with masks and everything. I heard Babs talking to the leader of the dance this morning. They were all sopping wet. A girl who had been at the party. They were trying to figure out who she was. Said she disappeared while they were dancing. I'll bet her best hat had been crushed the gate."

"Did you see her, Don?" Pats asked, watching him from behind her glasses.

"I don't know," he answered easily, lighting a cigaret. "I saw hundreds of women."

"I don't see why I never get to go anywhere," Rosie fidgeted.

"The next day was Thursday and Pats showed. She was taking tea at the Coronet on Friday and nothing in her wardrobe quite like the one she had on."

"Pat said the fingers of her free hand over his lips. "Don't tell me. It might spoil everything."

"But it won't spoil anything to me."

She little dashed she walked on. How did one go about it to attract a man who was definitely immune to feminine charms? Suddenly she felt a rude hand on her arm and was swung about to face a stout and perspiring buccaner, a robber of the high seas. He muttered something in a voice thick with the requests of the bar. Pats pulled away.

She tried to leave the floor but the swarthy pirate again caught her roughly. This time her blue eyes sought Don's and velvet lips for help. He abruptly left his companion and zig-zagged across the floor in pursuit. The crowd, half-dancing and half-watching, looked on with interest. Pats smiled and waved politely but made no other response to the invitation in her eyes.

AS GLEANED FROM FILES OF THE TIMES

15 YEARS AGO

JUNE 15, 1922

BOISE—In spite of the heavy frosts of May 8 and 9 and an exceptionally heavy production last year, the commercial apple crop in Idaho is estimated at 3,254,000 bushels or about 5,200 cars, compared with 5,825 cars shipped last year. The total crop of apples was estimated at 3,900,000 bushels; the peach crop at 205,000 bushels and the pear crop at 70,500 bushels. This compares with 4,400,000 bushels of apples, 150,000 bushels of peaches and 55,000 bushels of pears last year.

The smaller production of apples this year is due not to frost damage but to the decision of the growers to market more early apples. Full crop of sour cherries and 90 per cent crop late apple varieties.

The daily hack to the Shoshone falls is receiving generous patronage at the start, and Thomas E. Ring, who instituted the enterprise, after the first few days of the new line is found to be more convenient for sightseers than the early stage bus and also more comfortable. The hack leaves Twin Falls about 10 a. m. and returns around 3 p. m. and if orders are placed above 10 a. m. a heavy barn passenger will be called for, which is another good feature of this line.

C. G. After, the driver, has engaged in this kind of work for nearly two years at Salt Lake City, the Yellowstone park and other points, and is highly capable and trustworthy driver.

VICTORY—

WASHINGTON, June 15—Where the C. I. O. is going is again a matter of speculative concern to all in official life here. Congressmen in the cloak room and officials around the cocktail shakers talk of little more than the C. I. O. The talk can be boiled down to collective agreement, but a few things seem clear to all on both sides of the fence: namely:

The C. I. O. can win elections in disputed seat plants and in most of the invaded industries. These elections probably will be won within the next six months. This will establish domination by C. I. O. and accelerate the momentum of John Lewis as the political man on horseback. It will not lead to the extinction of A. F. of L. craft unions, but merely relegate them temporarily to the shade. A few shrewd politicians, however, and the building brothers, etc., will go out of existence.

TO ORDER—

The unknown authors of the power planning bill (who are Messrs. Cohen and Corcoran, in case you have not heard) seem to be working on the same basis as the Hollywood scenario writers. Apparently they are able to collaborate with nearly anyone in writing nearly any kind of bill, and have now written two opposing bills.

It happened this way: first, they worked with Senator Norris on a bill which he had introduced in the senate. He handed it to Mr. R. before he left for Texas waters. He handed it back, advising them to write a new one for a different basis policy. They did, and he has now introduced it in the house by Representative Mansfield.

Note—Another gem of an idea in the Mansfield bill is the provision for restricting the regional planning committee to consider "cultural values" in making decisions upon navigation, flood control, reclamation and soil conservation. Members of the house committee are in making a decision upon the purpose of the provision, unless it is to spread culture among the people, and to make a mere existing sport.

POLITICS—

Lewis is taking labor into politics for the first time in American history. For the present, Lewis is laboring under a handicap of superficially social, but essentially political. Until he threw his leg into the stirrup, the A. F. of L. was laboring under a handicap of political allegiance, and thoroughly individualistic and democratic. Under Lewis the political labor in Europe has done within this generation. He is taking it out of the social sphere into the political sphere.

A national labor party is, therefore, inevitable in the course of time. For the present, Lewis is using the Democratic party for his purposes. But it will be only a matter of some few years until he shorts the party (most authorities believe this is wholly improbable), or the party leadership becomes displeasing to Lewis (this may come as soon as 1940, if not before).

END—

Under the historic political setup in this country, any labor party must necessarily be a minority party, unless able to combine the farmers. Such a combination of opposite interests has not been effected successfully in the modern world, even under Russian dictatorship. The conflicting interests of laborer and farmer in prices and wages are basic.

Partisan politics in the Lewis movement continues to follow the history of Europe, its troubles have just begun. In some European nations the political activities of labor took the form of Communism or were subverted party to the support of anti-Communist leadership. The results were about the same as far as labor is concerned. In one case, it was the party of Fascism and Communism; in the other, by restrictive legislation.

Note—These views are not those of antagonists to the Lewis drive, but of some of the men in the movement who have a realistic outlook for dangers ahead. They are accepted by the politicians only with the reservation that the man on horseback avoids gopher holes. The gophers have been busy lately. There is one particular hole in front of Lewis, of which he is not yet aware.

If he suddenly finds himself on the ground, all present considerations will, of course, take the tumble with him.

Traffic Talks

Remember that it is unlawful to turn around upon any street unless said vehicle first proceeds in the direction in which it is to be turned. This means that you must make the turn to the left after reaching the center of that street. Turning in the middle of the street is a violation of the law.

ONLY ONE WAY TO FINESSE

Offer a bridge player is glad to receive a contract. Five or six to the right opponent. On today's hand, four is spread if the club can win with East.

Four also can be made if the diamond finesse is guessed successfully, regardless of the location of the king.

Today's Contract Problem

North and South have reached a contract of four hearts, after East had overcalled in spades at the range of two. Should West double, pass, or bid four spades?

Solution in next issue.

If, however, West were permitted to reach the lead, then South's contract would not only be successful, but the location of the diamond queen, for that suit could be finessed either way.

After East's second heart trick, South drew the adverse trump in two rounds, winning up to a little card. East carried it out in such a way that he could make his contract regardless of any distinction of the four hearts. South's contract would be made, and the finesse of the jack lost to West's queen, but thereafter South lost one more trick. East could not obtain the lead and give the defending players the chance to kill South's club king and take two tricks in that suit.

It was one of the situations, quite common in bridge, where the trick that apparently might be saved, would have played the diamond suit in the wrong manner, and that would have resulted in five-odd, would have been foolhardy, not brilliant.

FOOD HANDLERS TOLD "SIGN UP"

Health Unit Head Calls For Cooperation By Owners Of Stands

Cooperation with county health authorities by those individuals intending to set up and run stands at intervals or through the summer season was urged here this afternoon by Dr. H. L. McMartin, director of the Twin Falls county health unit.

Persons intending to operate stands either on private property or at fairs or carnivals should register their intention to do so with the county health unit before such stands are opened, Dr. McMartin said.

At the same time all food handlers should secure their health cards prior to the time they operate and also contact H. B. Post, sanitary inspector with headquarters at the health unit, regarding their equipment and methods of operation. Post will also explain state regulations regarding various businesses.

The same requirements pertain to eating places and rooming houses, Dr. McMartin said. Those intending to operate should secure their certificate from the sanitary inspector before they open their stands without such a certificate is a violation of the law. Barbers and beauty operators also require health cards which should be conspicuously displayed.

ARMY AIR CORPS OFFERS TRAINING

Recruiting Officer Tells of Opportunities Being For Enlisted Men

The great majority of young men seeking to join the United States army today express first preference for service in the air corps, Corp. J. P. Houston, in charge of the local recruiting station located in city hall, said this afternoon.

Only the cream of the crop, however, gets the air assignments, it is pointed out. This branch demands, and gets, young men of the best physical type and mental achievements. Priority is usually given those applicants who have some specialized background in mechanical training.

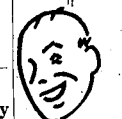

Although it should be fully understood by every young man contemplating enlistment in the army air corps that enlistment in the air corps does not necessarily imply that enlisted men will eventually pilot army planes in flight, there is one great asset which air corps enlisted men may look forward to and that is an opportunity, if they are eligible, to become flying cadets, Corp. Houston said.

All instruction at these schools is provided free of cost to all cadets. The cadet also is given $15 a month as well as an allowance of $1 a day for rations while in training.

Many diversions, other than just flying, are offered at the army training schools, Houston said. He urged any young man interested to contact him at city hall for a full explanation of the requirements as well as a detailed listing of assignments open in the army, both in the United States proper and island possessions, at the present time.

White Sox, Cubs Have Chance to Take Loop Leads Today

Two New York Clubs Would Have to Lose

Windy City Teams Have Longest Winning Streaks of Year in First-Place Drive

NEW YORK, June 15 (UP)—The Chicago Cubs and White Sox can take undisputed lead of the major leagues today and if they do it will be the first time in 21 years both have been on the top at the same time.

In addition to winning their own games, both of the New York clubs will have to lose in order for the Windy City teams to accomplish this.

Today marks the turn around in inter-sectional competition, western teams of the National league entering the eastern and American clubs of the west invading the ballparks of the eastern coasts.

Rise of both Chicago clubs to within a half game of the lead has been the result of long winning streaks; The White Sox added up the longest string of the year, 10 victories in a row, and won 19 of their last 19. The Cubs had an unbroken string of eight, and have won 14 of their last 17 starts.

The Chicago Nationals have a little more leeway over the St. Louis Cardinals with two and a half games separating them. The Cards staged the most successful road trip in the third phase of inter-sectional warfare, winning eight out of 10, including a five-game streak.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, half a game behind St. Louis, after getting off to the best start of the year, lost out of it on the road. This left three and a half games separating them from the post-setting Giants.

JUBILANT NATIONALS MASS FOR ADVANCE INTO BILBAO

GREATEST DRIVE SINCE MARCH TO MADRID STARTS

Occupation of Basque Capital Is Only a Matter of Hours, Says Correspondent

By WEBB MILLER
(Copyright, 1937, United Press)

NATIONALIST FIELD HEADQUARTERS, OUTSIDE BILBAO, June 15 (UP)—Jubilant nationalist troops massed in thousands along the roads leading into the suburbs of Bilbao today, ready to consolidate their greatest victory since the insurrection reached the gates of Madrid more than seven months ago.

Actual occupation of the Basque capital apparently awaited only the decision of the nationalist high command—a matter of hours by direct assault in the matter of the Basques, who would prefer to force evacuation in order to preserve the historic city from ruin that has overtaken so many of Spain's beautiful cities in this civil war.

The nationalists looked forward to a leisurely pursuit of the loyalists to the west and a release of tens of thousands of men for a new and terrible assault on Madrid, the national capital.

We now are on the heights overlooking the suburbs of Bilbao.

From the north, the northeast, the east and the southeast the nationalists have moved inward along all roads, slowing their pace only to match that of the men mopping up the hills between the valleys. It is clear that no loyalist units of moment are left with arms to ambush the advancing forces.

On Way Back

Many thousands of loyalist prisoners are on their way back through the nationalist lines.

West of Bilbao, nationalist reconnaissance planes report roads crowded with fleeing soldiers and civilians, women struggling along with their crying children.

To our south, bombers swept down on the remaining Basques in their trenches, the bombers dropping bombs blazing and the loyalists crouching under the parapets of their trenches, replying with rifles.

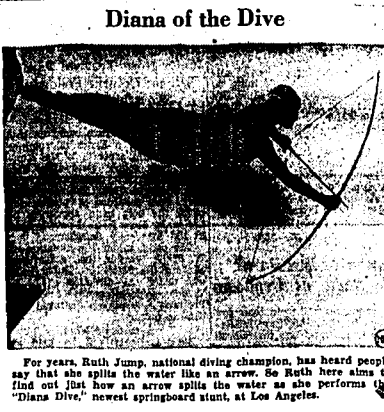

From a vantage point 1,500 feet above the valley, to which we had to come on horseback, we looked down today into the southern suburbs of Bilbao, including the Firestone Tire factory and the dynamite factory of Don Caminos.

Blow Dynamite Factory

We are advised that the Basques intend to blow up the dynamite factory as the nationalists enter the city.

For miles behind us the heavy guns are being moved forward along crowded roads.

The airplanes seem always active. Last evening I saw six different types and hundreds lying on our side of the river, toward its estuary, burning at once after repeated bombings.

U. S. Flags Should Be Made in America Says Representative

WASHINGTON, June 15 (UP)—Rep. Henry Ellenbogen, D. Pa., today had introduced a bill preventing use in the United States of American flags made in foreign countries.

Ellenbogen said he introduced the bill because "the great majority of small flags and patriotic emblems which are being sold in the stores throughout the country are made in Japan."

"Upside Down" Body
SIDCUP, Eng. (UP)—Benjamin Saxon, 33-year-old brewer's jerry driver, has discovered that his whole body is "upside-down." Not only is his heart on the wrong side, but every other organ in his body is reversed. Yet he is perfectly healthy. His work entails the lifting of heavy machinery, and he plays football and cricket.

Columns of smoke from some five rook 1,000 feet.

Reynolds Packard, of the United Press staff, spent some hours observing the loyalist prisoners moving back. Men who a few hours ago had been firing on the nationalists would pause to ask nationalist soldiers for news of their families in insurgent territory, and the nationalists in turn would ask news of people in Bilbao.

Same Story
Dozens of prisoners told about the same story. Packard reported: "We were not volunteers, we were drafted and gave ourselves up after lifting air bomb shelters until the 'reds' left."

A nationalist soldier occasionally would shake hands with one of the prisoners, an old friend. The nationalist soldiers opened their knapsacks to give the prisoners bread and tin of sardines.

The prisoners reported that they did not believe much of a defense could be put up if the loyalists decided on a lunge to house defense of the city. All the real fortifications have fallen.

PROTEST LODGED ON ROAD CLOSING

Francis, Resident of Canyon, Asks Council to Re-Open Closed Travelway

Controversy between residents of rock canyon and owners of the Twin Falls stockyards and Livestock Commission company, flared again today after a protest against closing of a canyon outlet leading to Commercial street had been presented last night before the city council by Luke M. Francis, resident of that area.

Francis and his family were among seven families who were served notices to vacate by members of the sheriff's forces yesterday. The land on which Francis and others reside was recently purchased by William Hoops and M. M. Daniels for development as a pasture area.

WAGNER DEFENDS OWN LABOR ACT

New York Senator Says Steel Companies Are Not Acting In Good Faith

WASHINGTON, June 15 (UP)—Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D. N. Y., defended his national labor relations act today by charging that steel companies which have refused to sign written contracts with the committee for industrial organization were not acting in good faith.

The Wagner act was termed by its author and its supporters at the time of its passage as a means of bringing about industrial peace.

Should Sign Contract
Wagner today asserted that employers and employees who agree in collective bargaining should sign a contract.

The contract is the sole issue of the present steel strike.

The labor relations board, established under the act, moved to expedite a case against Inland Steel Co., testing the contract question. Officials said they believed the issue would eventually be carried to the U. S. supreme court.

Wagner explained that while the act did not necessarily compel signed contracts, it stipulated that employers must negotiate with their employees in good faith.

Would Require Book
"After settling collective bargaining conditions, a contract should be signed," he said. "An employer cannot keep such conditions in mind. KIMBERLY BAND PLANS CONCERTS

Junior Rose Festival Parade Winner Returns Following Eventful Coast Trip

Arrangements were complete this afternoon for a series of summer practices and concerts by the Kimberly high school band after that organization returned Sunday from the Portland Rose festival where they were awarded a plaque for being the best band appearing in the Junior Rose festival parade held in the coast city Saturday.

The band, under the direction of W. Frank Warner, who featured part in the festivities. Supervision was under the direction of L. A. Thomas, superintendent of schools. Portland newspapers featured the band in pictures.

Saturday Night Band concert will be held at Kimberly every Saturday night throughout the summer under Mr. Warner's direction. He recently resigned as principal band conductor to accept a partnership in the Dumas-Warner Music company of Twin Falls, formerly the Chas. Dumas Music company. He will continue his work with the band until school resumes, he said.

Radio Broadcasts
During their stay in Portland the musicians were heard over both National and Columbia radio systems as well as Portland stations. A featured concert by the band in the outdoor band practice night was rained out. Warner reports. No awards were announced for the main parade in Portland.

Full schedule of activities kept the Kimberly group busy from the time it arrived in Portland, the director said today after arrival in Portland. The band marched through Portland streets and serenaded Mayor Carson and the city council. On the second day the band played at the rose gardens in entertainment for the festival, queen and later inspected the garden. On Tuesday evening the Kimberly group played from 6 to 7 p. m. at the rose show in the big Portland arena and later broadcast for 15 minutes over the Columbia-Don Lee system.

In Parade
The southern central musicians marched in the big festival parade Friday, and were given an honor salute by the city. That evening the band combined with the Pasadena Junior college band and the Seaside Drum corps in a joint program at the Rose Bowl. Kimberly's won their plaque laurels by marching in the junior parade, during which Supt. L. A. Thomas, Mayor Warner were knighted in the Junior Rosean.

On an entertainment trip to Los Angeles and the band members were given complimentary rides on most of the beach at actions. En route home the group made a trip to the Columbia-Bonnyville dam where they entertained, arriving in Kimberly late Sunday.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

THIS IS NO RIGMENT IN A PEACOCK'S FEATHER! THE RAINBOW COLORING IS DUE TO LIVING CELLS THAT BREAK UP THE LIGHT RAYS.

BETSY ROSS CHANGED THE AMERICAN FLAG DESIGN FROM SIX-POINTED STARS TO FIVE-POINTED ONES! TODAY, WE AUTOMATICALLY THINK OF STARS AS ACTUALLY POINTS.

When George Washington, Robert Morris and General Ross called at the home of Betsy Ross, they showed her a sketch of a flag and asked her if she would make it for them. They had selected a six-pointed star because they thought it was easier to make. Betsy won them over to a five-pointed star when she showed them how to make this type with one clip of the scissors.

LIVESTOCK AUCTIONS WILL START HERE WEDNESDAY

BUYERS, SELLERS GATHER AT NEW ARENA BUILDING

Formal Opening of Enterprise Here Will Draw Many To Stockyards

Everything was in readiness this afternoon for the formal opening of the new livestock auction to be conducted by the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company, this community's 40,000 enterprise designed to permit buyers and sellers to do business in Twin Falls.

Under the direction of the owner, M. M. Daniels, who is also manager of the Twin Falls stockyards, a feeding point for cattle shipped on to Union Pacific last week, 500 cattle are expected to be offered for sale the first day.

Draws from Wide Area
Buyers from all over the western states, and representing practically every large packing house in the United States, will be present at the sale. The first sale will be held each Wednesday thereafter.

Among cattle which will be offered the first sale day will be 200 head of the Jordan cattle of Glenn Perry; 50 head of fat cattle; 75 head of the J. P. Lannon cattle including cows and calves.

A feature of the new enterprise, which will attract numerous families to Twin Falls tomorrow, will be that the sales are held in an enclosed ring which is capable of seating 500 persons. The first sale will be held at the rate of one a minute, Daniels said this afternoon.

Two Auctioneers
Auctioneering at the arena and yards, one of the most complete and, with the present stockyards included, one which has more cattle space than any other in the west, will be done by Col. E. O. Walter of Filer and Col. Frank Coffey of Burley. John O. Pence is good auctioneer.

A lunch room is maintained in connection with the yards.
