MYSTERIOUS 'AD' MAY BE CONTACT IN KIDNAP CASE

Investigators Report 'No Progress' in Hunt For Mrs. Parsons

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 16 (UP)—A mysterious advertisement, published in a New York newspaper, led to Slettel today that a contact had been established with the person or persons responsible for the disappearance of Mrs. Alice MacDonell Parsons from her Long Meadow farm estate a week ago.

Investigators reported "no progress" in their efforts to find the 35-year-old society matron.

This advertisement appeared: "M. Sennet. Come home. Telephone Huntington 97."

The telephone number is that of Gerald M. Livingston of West Neck road, Huntington, N. Y., near the Parsons' farm. Livingston denied that he had inserted the ad and said he had no desire to act as intermediary.

Earl J. Conely, inspector in charge of federal agents refused to discuss reports that a contact had been made with the kidnaper. Other sources indicated that Big-G-Men were concentrating on the theory that Mrs. Parsons was dead.

CONNERY DEATH HITS WAGE BILL

Dolan May Be Ousted on Measure After Chairman Succumbs at 48

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)—The sudden death of Chairman William P. Connery of the house labor committee today threatened to delay action on the administration's wage and hour bill.

A staunch supporter of legislation sponsored by organized labor, Connery had been active during the joint senate-house hearings on the wage-hour measure in questioning opponents of the bill.

His death yesterday at the age of 48, removed from the congressional scene a major proponent of hour-restricting legislation which he believed would return thousands of jobs to private employment.

Heard Attack

Connery A. Magruder Macdonald said his attorney showed the final cause of Connery's death was a heart attack brought on by poisoning of the stomach an intestinal tract.

He said that the poisoning appeared to have been caused by food but that further analysis was necessary to determine the cause.

Connery, with Ben, Hugo L. Black, D. Ale, sponsored the original 30-hour week bill which was introduced by President Roosevelt to make way for the NRA.

TWIN LASHES DENTISTS IN PUBLIC HEALTH CONTROVERSY

STATE ATTORNEY HITS AT CRITICISM IN DUNSHIEE CASE

Says Association Men 'Not Impressive in Field of Jurisprudence'

BOISE, June 16 (Special)—Attorney General W. T. Dunshee today hit at criticism directed against him by Idaho dentists, and said his action in the case of Dr. J. D. Dunshiee was a matter involving his oath of office.

The State Dental Association, which adopted a resolution condemning action of the attorney general which led to the virtual discharge of Dr. Dunshiee as head of the department, today upbraid his high standards in Idaho.

"They are doing a great service for our people and are entitled to the highest respect of our citizens," he said.

"When they wander into the field of jurisprudence, however, they are not nearly so impressive. Had the dentists been the attorneys, the legal reasoning, they would probably have consulted the state constitution before indulging in their criticism against the state."

"I merely called attention to that clause, which is plain and unambiguous," he said.

"The attorney-general here was referring to the state's citizenship law, which requires that a person must have six months' residence in this state before becoming eligible to hold public office, one must be an elector. Dunshiee took office a few days after he came to Idaho from California."

"It is my opinion that the attorney-general is expected to make a general statement on the constitution and statutes and render a false and hypocritical opinion to suit certain groups or individuals. It is my duty to call attention to that clause, which is plain and unambiguous."

"One of his least pleasant tasks is to read the efforts of those who are against the law," Taylor said.

BPW CONTINUES FIGHT FOR CLERK

President of Association Says Firing of Mrs. Bailey Is Discrimination

BOISE, June 16 (UP)—The state association of professional and business women today continued its fight against dismissal of Mrs. Lucille Bray, chief clerk of the state game department.

Miss Lucy Higgins, president of the association, denied that there was personal interest in the stand the club had taken, but said it was "the principle of the thing."

"We regard this whole thing as an example of discrimination against efficient women in public office," she said. "While I understand the manager's closed duties as far as Mrs. Bray's future with the department is concerned, we are going to continue the fight. We are very much dissatisfied."

Meanwhile, F. A. Freeman, county clerk of Adams, was in the game office at the statehouse, presumably leaving the rooming of duties as chief clerk. Mrs. Bray was "breaking him in."

Freeman, who admitted he would resign if Mrs. Bray, who had her future in the department rested with him, would not comment on what disposition he would make of her.

"This has grown to a state where it is detrimental to the department," he said. "I have nothing to say about it. I haven't been here long enough to form much of an opinion, or even get acquainted with Mrs. Bray."

Smith was formerly connected with WPA in Coeur d'Alene, and has worked for the state in capacity of department of finance liquidating agent.

Enthusiastic Group Attends Classes Each Morning at E. S. Building

Six weeks' summer school, at which students may make up deficient work or complete extra courses, opened Monday morning at the high school under the direction of Mrs. J. D. Barnhart. A small but enthusiastic group is in attendance from the opening each morning at 7:30 until the closing at 2:00. The director said today, some are taking special courses during the afternoon.

Enrollments are still being made by calling Mrs. Barnhart at the high school, 217, or by seeing her personally in the library, but no registration will be accepted after this week Mrs. Barnhart stressed the point today that the classes were held in the town with haynets.

During the assault, thousands of loyalists could be seen fleeing northwards. The dynamics factors in the outskirts of the town went up like a fountain as the well-timed mine exploded.

Flowers inside round and apparently sealed glass bowl. Two small boys carefully emptying a sack full of empty bottles on outside steps before clogging post office. Out-of-town visitor, remarking that downtown display of flags here showed national emblems torn and dirty. And ranchers bringing in trailer-loads of cattle for first auction at new sales arena.

ing the incoming troops. One of them explained they had hidden in the cellars until the loyalists withdrew, when emerged with white flags to submit to the insurgents.

Although the village of Gucho is more than 11 miles north of Bilbao, it nevertheless is in a position from which all shipping to and from Bilbao can be controlled.

Indications that the loyalists intend to exploit the use of dynamite in the final stand around Bilbao were seen in many villages through which Packer passed. It was reported that Bilbao itself was being mined.

In the town of Mangusa 8 1/2 miles north of Bilbao, John de Gandt of the United Press found almost complete destruction. The church had been mined and when a national detachment walked in, there was a series of heavy explosions which destroyed the church.

Galicians on the Nervion river and the San Sebastian-Bilbao highway, fell easily as Packer and his men moved through the combined uniforms of both organizations—red berets and blue shirts—poured down the slopes of hill 422 and swarmed into the town with bayonets.

During the assault, thousands of loyalists could be seen fleeing northwards. The dynamics factors in the outskirts of the town went up like a fountain as the well-timed mine exploded.

Fish Seen as Only Food For Populace in Narrow Strip Along Coast

By WEBB MILLER (Copyright, 1937, United Press)

WITH THE NATIONALIST ARMY, BILBAO FROM June 16 UP—The nationalist conquest of Bilbao means that 1,500,000 men, women and children, many without homes or resources, are going to be jammed in along a narrow strip of coast lines between Bilbao and Gijon. It was estimated today.

The country itself can not produce sufficient food for them. The nationalist fleet cuts them off from supplies by sea. They will be dependent mainly on fish to stave off hunger.

In the Bilbao region the situation already was bad when the nationalists arrived. There were several hundreds of thousands of civilians and soldiers. Even the soldiers who received preferential treatment were poorly fed.

Thousands flee—Now tens of thousands of these people are fleeing westward toward Santander and airplanes were bombing and machine gunning the road which runs through one of the most beautiful and picturesque countryside in Europe.

The entire coast region is so mountainous that there is little land left for colonization. Already present refugees were reaching Santander carrying only food they could hastily pack into small crates, and the few animals they could move—goats, calves, chickens.

Wheat and rye are to be harvested within a fortnight. Corn will not be ready before fall.

Aid to Rebels—But the conquest means much to the nationalists. By capturing Bilbao region they will come into possession of an immensely rich iron ore region. Bilbao is one of Spain's great commercial ports. Also it gives

First Fire Engine Here Sits in Rusty Solitude

Should aid acquaintance be forgot And never brought to mind? Should aid acquaintance be forgot And days of Auld Lang Syne? —Selected

Covered with dust, rusty, in need of repair and almost forgotten in the rush of progress in Twin Falls, the first "fire engine" this city ever knew was "found" today by the Boying Reporter of the Evening Times.

The relic of the days when nearly every man in town was a member of the volunteer fire service; when derbies and high collars took the place of fireman's hats and leather coats; when mud on Main and Shoshone streets was over a foot deep, and board walks were in style, stands in a corner of the city warehouse on Second street south and the truck lane.

One man pictured is known to be dead. He is I. E. Kelsey. Three others still reside in Twin Falls. They are Fred Harder, C. H. Lowe and George Saviers. The balance have left Twin Falls and their location is not known. Their names, however, will bring memories to many a local early resident. They were Perry Miller, Alfred Buckley, W. C. Grant, Joe VanMeter, James Taggart, W. L. Hendricks, George Baird.

And the fire fighting instrument they once maneuvered stands rusty and covered with dust in the city warehouse.

In the city hall today hangs a picture captioned "Twin Falls Fire-the nationalists a new navy base on the Bay of Biscay. Marketing of iron ore will enable the nationalists to obtain badly needed foreign currency.

Normally this region produced about 1,000,000 tons a year but production has reached 5,000,000 tons. Some of it is used for armaments, and the nationalists may be expected to divert it from Great Britain and France to Germany and Italy.

French Premier Gets Plans Through Chamber; Faces Hostile Group

PARIS, June 16 (UP)—Premier Leon Blum, safely past the chamber of deputies with his project for emergency power to safeguard the national finances, faces a hostile senate Friday for another fight for his political life.

The chamber passed the project by a vote of 346 to 247 this morning, at the end of a turbulent night session, and thus voted the necessary confidence in the government.

Blum saved his cabinet in the chamber only because the Communists, rescinding a previous vote, decided to support him with their 70 votes.

Ten Alcatraz Prisoners Went Insane In Past Two Years, Says Ex-Inmate

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16 (UP)—Ten Alcatraz prison convicts have become insane during the past two years as a result of monotony and beatings, Albert W. Skoog, Minneapolis post office robber told the San Francisco News in a copyrighted interview, upon his release from "The Rock."

"I know of 10 men who have gone crazy at Alcatraz since I've been there," the News quoted Skoog. "It's partly due to the monotony. Partly it's the beatings. Just recently a man was sent back east to an asylum."

He was insane—but he had a hole in his head.

Skoog told the News that the Alcatraz dungeons have two inches of water on the floor. He stated that Al Capone was a "big shot" in prison. "There are no big shots in Alcatraz," he said. "Everybody gets the same dish."

Skoog charged that the guards goaded prisoners to strike them, thus affording the opportunity to wield clubs on them. He said the prisoners are allowed 20 minutes per meal, and get baths once a week.

Zane Grey Offers a Warning

Stopping here en route from Wyoming to southern California; Zane Grey took occasion to comment on the present exploitation of the Sawtooth mountain country in the vicinity of Ketchum.

"I don't know why it is," he said, "but every time somebody comes to the last frontier his first thought is toward commercialism. Those persons can't seem to look at anything without thinking of money. And the 'last frontier' is gone."

Cold words, these. And from a man whose travels and experiences place him in position to speak authoritatively on this very subject.

Zane Grey is in favor of the primitive areas being left alone. If they are invaded he suggests that the invaders be made to walk, instead of permitting them to make their invasion by automobile over easily traveled roads.

It is not difficult to follow his reasoning. There are comparatively few sportsmen and sightseers who will penetrate the primitive regions so long as they have to put up with hardships and inconveniences. Few are rugged enough to stand the rigors of such an expedition.

But open the way to these primitive areas with modern roads. Establish camp sites along the way. Afford every convenience possible. And then see what happens. They'll invade the wilderness in hordes, and as Zane Grey has expressed it, when they do drive in, the game will be driven out.

Not only that. All those things the true sportsman loves—that eerie wilderness, the quiet murmur of some distant stream, the solitude—will go with it.

"And why? All because the exploiters have selfishly chosen to commercialize these few remaining primitive areas for the sole purpose of making money."

"Schooling" in Theater

If a profession is to live, it must afford some starting point for beginners. And if that opportunity for a start is shut off arbitrarily, the ambitious beginners will find another one it seems.

A good illustration is the report by Variety, a radio, stage and screen publication, that since the passing of vaudeville, the honky-tonk night spots are being used as springboards to careers by novice entertainers. Variety reports that these hideaway establishments mainly offer "strip" workers for vaudeville and burlesque chorus lines, but that occasionally they produce a pleasing, talented personality.

Such sorry commentary on the "state of the theater" in America will inspire much tongue clucking. This form of shoddy apprenticeship no doubt is shocking, but there is none to blame but the people who buy the tickets. The theater always has been quick to recognize that "the customer is always right."

Beside the Point

Dispatches from Washington hint that we may yet have the edifying spectacle of a senate filibuster as an added feature of the pitched battle over President Roosevelt's Supreme court revision program.

Regardless of the pros and cons of the program, it is only proper that Americans should speak out on such an issue. It should be and it has been debated in congress, in public forums, on street corners and across supper tables.

But a filibuster is different. It veers distinctly away from the course of true logic, in that usually it is an attempt of the minority to force its will upon the majority by the "extreme use of dilatory tactics." Worse, a filibuster quite often embraces topics not at all connected with the question at hand.

We have a thoroughly American custom of "writing to our senator" to express ourselves on issues dear to our hearts. This might be a good time to send a letter protesting against the filibuster, for it is, in principle, thoroughly un-American.

A Thought for Labor

This has been a fine year for labor. The Wagner act, finally upheld by the supreme court, makes labor's rights part of the law of the land. Great victories have been won in the steel and auto industries. Never before has organized labor had so bright an outlook.

It might, therefore, be just as well if labor could be reminded that excess on its part may bring a most unwelcome reaction.

The papers recently have told of labor pickets stopping U. S. mail trucks, blocking off public highways and permitting no one to pass, and shooting at airplanes. They have recorded the beginning of a "rent strike" in Michigan, in which renters are trying to use the sitdown technique on landlords.

Things like these, if added together in sufficient quantity, could very easily cause a revulsion in public feeling which would turn labor's recent gains into losses. Labor's leaders could profitably bear the thought in mind.

DEAR SNOOPYDRAWERS:
You and your defecates are still sticking your big nose in to other people's affairs I see. Some of you had better be careful or it gives a punch in the nose—see!

Anyway I ain't scared—if it comes raining down I'll spill everything, including you—and that ain't no idle threat!

So hunt cover yourself!

—The Gray Ghost

DEAR GRAY GHOST: I see that you are in the newspaper. We stand our ground and regret that we have but one life to offer in defense of our Pot Shot leaders. We shall no stand idly on our way, snuffing your annoying snore called for, and if you happen to be on the receiving end of the snore so often, can we help it?

QUITE AN EXPLANATION FOR JUST ONE BLACK EYE!

Dear Pot Shot:
For your contest:
I was driving along the street when a guy in a red coat and a black hat banged into his with a terrific smash. I was catapulted through the windshield, breaking the glass into shattered fragments. I landed on my head on the concrete sidewalk, bounced into a store window, broke that, rolled into a heavy dumpy flap—and that topped over onto my face, knocking me unconscious.

—That's how I got my black eye.

OH, MY HUSBAND TELLING THIS STORY TO HIS WIFE!
I was sitting in a chair and he threw her into such a spasm of admiration at his imagination that the alcohol will work 100 per cent.

—Jackson Hill

WE'VE NEVER HEARD THE SILVER DOLLAR ONE!

It's the best way to explain a black eye, is it?
You can always say: "Yeh, I was downed in the railroad yards and I walked into a box car."
Or, "The bedroom door swung shut on me."
Or, "I dropped a silver dollar on the sidewalk and it bounced up and hit me in the eye."
—Paragon

SH! SECRET

It ain't the heat, it's the humidity. Or maybe it's the humidity. Which is to say Idaho climate is mighty. Enough to drive the weather man mighty.

I wouldn't admit this to a furrier, see?
It's a dark secret 'twixt you and me!

VARYING TECHNIQUE!

Men and women go all in different ways, but you'll notice it's all the same in the end.
Let's take the case of John Jones and Radio Jones. (As they say in the movies, she's worthy in name to those of actual persons, living or dead, is wholly coincidental.)

At the men's bridge party, they say: "Oh, I think Radio Jones is (charming), really I do!"
At the women's bridge party, they say: "I understand that she—uh, I don't want to say another word."
Which effectively wrecks Radio Jones.

At the men's poker party, they say: "John Jones is a louse."
Which effectively wrecks John Jones.

I think I prefer the male method.

—Half Pint

'S FUNNY BUT WE NEVER HEAR THOSE THINGS!

Pot Shot:
Don't let this settle you up, but I've heard a lot of praise for Pot Shot recently. In fact, so much that it's beginning to make me a little nervous on the other side. So why not for a contest subject:
Do Pot Shots worth reading, and why?
—Finess Stubbin

'PROMISING,' ZIT!

Pot Shot:
Having three young relatives who graduated from that many different schools with 40 credits of credit, I can qualify as an authority on commencement speeches.

One of them said: "I assure that they are a highly promising group."
But I would like to take this opportunity to say that if your relatives didn't mean they should all be assassinated.

stared moodily from the window. Miss admitted Rosie. She was vivacious and frolic by turns, the latter mood plainly leading up to the moment when she called Patricia correctly surmised that Rosie was out of funds again.

"Don't—I'm awfully short—" she burst out plaintively at last.

Don't sigh, Patricia knew he had a dice bowl awaiting her, but the matter of Rosie was getting under his skin.

Don opened his billfold and emptied it. "Here's seventy-five," he said counting the bills. "It's all I have."

Rosie accepted the money reluctantly and soon found an excuse to leave.

"What! Rosie expecting a great deal of you?" Patricia asked when she and Don were alone.

"Rather," he admitted, "but how can I refuse? Tears, lamentations, her arms around my neck—bah—bah—bah!—and she'll get it, but on what's the use? My mind was not wholly upon what he said. He was again reading the headline in the paper."

CHORTLY after a hot Friday she leisurely entered the tea garden. Don was busy, very busy, very straight and slim, decidedly simple. Her small black hat, a short chinchilla jacket added the perfect touch. As she walked into the garden she saw a newspaper, an open newspaper. He came to meet her, so relieved, so jubilant, that she had to catch her breath in her throat and her lips smiled tremulously.

"I'd hoped you'd come," he said, smiling, his eyes charmingly abashed, boyishly eager and genuine.

"But, Mr. Monterey—" Patricia began, but she thought there was to be no more—

Don took the small gloved hand and held it until she pulled away. He was smiling, his eyes bright and he fell into step beside her.

"Listen," he said, and Patricia wondered how any woman could regard a man as handsome and graceful as he. She glanced upward at him, his eyes dark and imploring.

"No questions asked," she impudently insisted, playing up to his suppliance.

"Nary a question."

WASHINGTON, June 16—Withdrawal of vice-president Garner from the Washington scene was variously portrayed as a society departure, a vacation trip and a make satisfactory explanations or denials stand up because the situation is too generally known in Washington to be long concealed.

The truth is this: The vice-president was the President's legislative aide. Garner, more than anyone else, handled the business end of getting legislation through. And he handled it well, even up to and including the supreme court packing plan. But two matters developed upon which he was in strong conscientious disagreement with the policy favored by the White House. Other is economy, government spending, balancing the budget, or whatever you choose to call it.

Mr. Garner is a forthright kind of man who says what he thinks, even when it is something of the all-down strike. The other is economy, government spending, balancing the budget, or whatever you choose to call it.

The exact relationship of high blood pressure to hardening of the arteries is not definitely determined. There seem to be some cases in which hardening of the arteries precedes the very high blood pressure, so that it is not easily determinable.

Some investigators believe that the high blood pressure occurs first and that the hardening of the arteries is secondary.

It is simply because of the lack of exact knowledge that in certain forms of high blood pressure as essential or idiopathic, indicating that their causes are not known.

Some investigators feel that certain climates result in high blood pressure. Others believe that the climate is too rich in protein eventually will result in high blood pressure. Certainly there are some families in which high blood pressure is hereditary.

"Pat people are more likely to have high blood pressure than are the rest of the population. The insurance companies consider the fat man a less suitable risk than a thin one. Consideration of the fact that the average life expectancy of an individual is so short is that it is not worth the trouble to insure a man with high blood pressure because of his nervous condition."

It is of course understood that an increase in the elimination of the body wastes, may be associated with high blood pressure.

In fact, it has also been felt that many of the toxic factors in modern life, such as smoking, alcohol, and other similar factors, may be important in bringing about a rise in blood pressure.

Insurance companies estimate that around 140,000 to 160,000 people die every year in the United States as a result of conditions associated with high blood pressure.

Many people with high blood pressure live a long time, but insurance companies are so conservative that in certain conditions is a definite tendency to long life that they frequently refuse to insure people with very high blood pressure. Some companies will insure those with high blood pressure provided they are willing to pay an excessive rate.

You May Not Know That—

There were 256 enlistments in the U. S. navy from the intermountain area in the 10 months ending May 1—and of this number 219 had completed their three-month period of recruit training. Thirty-six of these triumphed over nine competitors in the examinations for selection to navy trade schools.

RADIO AMATEURS TO HOLD CHATS

'Ham' Operators Will Have Field Day June 17 to June 20

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—To be prepared for emergencies is the watchword of the vast army of radio amateur operators or "hams" living in every town and country area in the United States. Hundreds of these amateurs will join in the fifth annual field day contest June 16 and 17 to demonstrate the effectiveness of portable transmitters. Under the sponsorship of the American Radio Relay League, composed of amateur operators, hundreds of "hams" will be on the air almost continuously during the week-end field day to contact as many other operators as possible between the hours of 4 p. m. June 16 to 7 p. m. June 20 local time. Facilities are Pooled The basic requirements are that the transmitter be operated by its own power supply and away from the home station of the operator. Several operators usually combine with one transmitter for the contest. The worth of radio amateurs has been demonstrated remarkably in several recent major disasters. When flood waters swept over Johnstown, Penn., more than a year ago, "hams" relayed messages of distress, appeals for aid, calls for boats and warnings to those in danger. When all other methods of communication were swept away, amateurs carried on for long hours to keep the agencies of law enforcement, relief and rescue coordinated.

Country is Blanketed Similar worthwhile work was accomplished during the Mississippi floods of the past several years. Working closely with commercial radio stations, the amateurs provided a strong link to isolated sections. There are few sections of the country that do not list at least one amateur and the government licenses are more widely distributed every year. Many of the country's noted radio and electrical engineers started with small home-made amateur transmitters and developed their skill by experimentation and work in their own home. At least two nationally distributed magazines are devoted exclusively to amateur radio activities.

SPORT SQUIBS

The publicity experts are pounding the typewriters for Champion Jim Braddock, and every story that has come out of that we have seen so far tells what condition the ex-fighter is in.

Being a long way from the scene of the actual training camp, probably shouldn't have much to say. And being a goodly portion of Iraq, if we say anything, we certainly should say it in favor of Iraq. But we are going on the Louis bandwagon. And we offer the following reasons:

1.—Braddock has always been considered a "fadeless" champion. He was never considered anything better than a second rate fighter before the title.

2.—The last averages show the Cubs leading the league in hitting with 281 and in fielding with 978. They've scored more runs, made more hits and driven in more runs than any other club.

3.—The Irishman is at the age where fighters are more apt to go down than to get up. Even if they are fighting, Jim claims he is 32; the record books, with Jim's signature, "age is 32."

4.—Braddock hasn't taken a good look on the back for at least two years. His legs aren't any younger than they were. We think the first solid punch Louis lands, the champion will be under-pinning growing wobbly.

5.—Those are all negative reasons why Braddock shouldn't win, not the reasons he should.

NEGRO HAS MOST SPEED, SAY AIDES

Remors Go Rounds That the Bomber May Retire After Schmeling Fight

By STEVE SNIDER
KENOSHA, Wis., June 16 (UP)—Convicted no fighter in the world can match Joe Louis for speed, the Bomber's board of strategy decided today to take over on a quick knockout of Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock on June 22.

Neither Julian Black nor John Roxborough, the challenger's co-managers, would comment on the retirement report.

Four years in the ring brought Louis enough wealth and security to last a lifetime. If he were to quit with 17 1/2 per cent of an anticipated million dollar gate for the Braddock bout and the champion's share of a smashing fight in case he defeated Braddock—he would have an income of more than $100,000 a year.

By GRAND BEACH, Mich., June 16 (UP)—Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock rested today while camp followers pondered the sudden turn for a worse in his training camp.

Braddock, who boxed himself into perfect physical condition in his long weeks at Grand Beach, finished his second, poor drill in a row yesterday. The four-fifths win impressive rounds with Max Rosch, Henry Cooper, Charles Massera and Jack McCarthy.

Short shots: Joe Louis plays table tennis while not sleeping or training for his bout with Braddock, and Braddock bought ice cream for 2,000 Michigan City boys who visited his camp recently.

After blowing an 8-1 lead in the ninth, Detroit went 10 innings before beating Washington, 9-8. The victory puts the Tigers just second place, one game behind the Yankees as the White Sox bowed to the Red Sox.

Scoring their runs off Vernon Kennedy in the first four innings the Red Sox triumphed over the White Sox, 5-1. Sugar Cain relieved Kennedy, claiming the hit of the game hitless. Lefty Grove won his fourth game. The St. Louis Browns scored four runs in the ninth to beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, on Edon Hoesett's 6-hit pitching.

Boise, Payette and Caldwell in 3-Way Tie for Loop Lead
BOISE, Idaho, June 16 (UP)—A three-way tie for the first half championship of the Idaho-Oregon league will be decided Sunday.

LOUIS PLANS FOR QUICK KNOCK-OUT

6 DAYS UNTIL HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT—BUT MAC PLAYS GOLF

By HENRY McLEMORE
GRAND BEACH, Mich., June 16 (UP)—Six days from now James Walter Braddock will defend his world's heavyweight championship against Joe Louis.

As the unofficial car to the ground for 100,000,000 people, I came here to study the champion and make a thorough report on his condition, his chances of retaining pugilism's highest honor, the diadem to which men dedicate their lives and the fatty tissues of their ears.

The "upset team" of the Twin Falls softball loop, Wiley Drug, today had intact a title it won last season for repeated knocking over of league-leading teams.

Always a trouble maker, the Wiley performers last night found the offerings of Walt Higgert, star Brunswick hurler, to their liking and pounded out an 8-2 win over the team that has only been beaten once before this year in eight starts.

After being held scoreless for the first three innings the Wiley team came back from a two-run deficit in the fourth to pound in six runs on six hits, a fielder's choice and an error, which was more than enough to win.

Menitume, Johnny Wagner, new Wiley hurler, was setting the Bruins' record down with six safeties and three runs.

TRAINING CAMP ENDS AT FILER

Jamboree Scout Troop Ready For Presentation of Pageant Saturday

Camp was broken up by members of the Snake River Area Boy Scouts Jamboree troop at Filer fair grounds this afternoon after a dress rehearsal of a pageant by the troop which will highlight the area wide Jamboree which gets underway on Lincoln field in Twin Falls Saturday afternoon. The pageant will be given Saturday night.

The troop held a pre-Jamboree training camp at the fair grounds Monday, Tuesday and today. Methodist ladies of Filer did the camp cooking.

Included in the pageant, which traces the history of Idaho and the development of Scouting in the state, will be square dancing, singing, tenderfoot investiture ceremony, awarding of two eagle badges, signal flag drill and neckerchief drill.

At Filer, Prince Hawkins of Twin Falls and Mr. McDonald of Filer acted as leaders of the square dance. E. M. Dossert, scoutmaster, was assisted by Dr. J. N. Davis of Kimberly and Ray Potter.

PWA AID HELPS IRRIGATION UNIT

BOISE, June 16 (Special)—Surveys reveals today that PWA assistance in financing Idaho irrigation projects has made possible the successful completion of three outstanding irrigation units in this state. The public works administration approved a loan of $180,000 to the Big Wood Canal company of Shoshone and construction of new outlet works at Magic dam, 20 miles north of Shoshone, was begun in October, 1934.

The construction of new tunnel intake works, concrete and steel tunnel lining and concrete vaulting including the installation of two 72-inch gate valves and 60-inch hydraulically operated brick valves provided much needed facilities for the control of irrigation water from Magic reservoir resulting in marked conservation of water and dependability of operation of supply control. Construction was carried out on schedule time for the 1935 irrigation season.

E. T. Beer, manager of the Big Wood Canal company, reports that the company is able to meet all its obligations including construction charges and interest, and that outstanding bonds are being retired with the present annual maintenance cost being less than in the past with the exception of one year, ever leveled by the company.

U. S. CONSIDERS HEALTH PROGRAM

Idaho Plans Must Receive Approval Before Letting Off Appropriation

BOISE, June 16 (Special)—White state officials commented freely but "off the record" on recent resignations of two of the better trained public health department workers, sent home from Washington today that federal officials were considering Idaho's 1937 health program.

Plans, calling for expenditure of $212,000 for public health, were submitted last week, and were approved by the federal government before they can be put into operation.

Should they be not approved, the state will be dependent entirely on county and local contributions for continuance of its maternal and child care, and public health administration.

Considering recent turn of events, officials admitted there was a "chance" that the government might turn down the plans on the grounds that the state did not have a sufficiently trained personnel to administer the funds.

The department Monday and Tuesday saw Mrs. C. Nelson, mortality statistician, and Dr. L. A. Lambert leave public health work.
