LABOR ORGANIZER PLANS CLERKS' UNION, FLAYS LONG HOURS

FREEDHEIM CALLS MEETING FRIDAY TO CHART GROUP

Lashes Some Grocery Stores For 'Slaving' Employees; Eyes Closed Shop

Leading out at some local firms which "remain open late hours and cause their clerks to work late hours, as no additional pay," E. F. Freedheim this afternoon announced organization of a clerks' union in Twin Falls would get underway with a "ret. session" meeting at union hall Friday evening, July 16.

Freedheim is state organizer for the American Federation of Labor and is actively engaged in a drive to unionize Twin Falls with a view toward establishment of a central labor organization here. Meetings of unions are now held in temporary headquarters located at 314 1/2 Second avenue east.

Better Conditions
"Throughout the nation," Freedheim said, "respect for the work of organization, are victorious in securing better conditions and better wages."

"There is no reason why the same can't be true in Twin Falls. The majority of local business firms that are observing reasonable closing hours are being hurt by those who remain open late hours, or cause their clerks to stay late and prepare for the business of the next day."

"There is no reason why the same can't be true in Twin Falls. The majority of local business firms that are observing reasonable closing hours are being hurt by those who remain open late hours, or cause their clerks to stay late and prepare for the business of the next day."

"As a local example of long hours I have noticed night after night clerks in some grocery stores are required to work far after closing time to clean up and make ready for the next day's business."

Others Are 'Reasonable'
"If other stores can wait one trade and get their work done during reasonable hours there is no reason why these certain grocery stores can't do the same. Public cooperation could do much toward ending this unjustified condition."

"An example you see barber shops, the post office, the library, and most other places close on time. If you get to these places after the closing hour you are just out of luck. If you get to some of the grocery stores after the closing hour, chances are that you will be let in and then some clerk will have to work overtime for you. It is absolutely unjustified and works a hardship on the clerks who, after all, like to get home the same as you do."

May Be Largest
Formation of the local clerks' union will see about 200 members, Freedheim indicated. When completed it will be the largest union and might be the most powerful. Part of the union formation among clerks will aim for a closed shop agreement with all stores. The "purpose of organizing the clerks," Freedheim said, "is to establish better working conditions, an hour agreement and to secure better pay. Such unions in Boise, Pocatello and Idaho Falls are already organized and their aims are being met. The same can be done here."

Organization of journeymen barbers, with an anticipated membership of 18, will also get underway in the near future, the organizer said.

Scrapbook Recalls Land Rush As Easterners Swarmed West

Volume Re-Discovered By C. of C. Pictures Exciting Days of 1903, 1904 and 1907 In Twin Falls and North Side

Those were exciting days, back in the latter part of 1903 and all of 1904 and then again in 1907 as hundreds of easterners swarmed west to settle land on both the north and south sides of the Snake river under the Carey act.

And all the clamor of the movement, as well as all the historical facts, are contained in a huge scrapbook, the property of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. It is that organization's first scrap book and more than likely the first ever started in the state. It covers the first two years in a cabinet drawer, the book was rediscovered the other day by C. of C. officials.

As in the case with most great things which rise from a meager start, the scrapbook originally was a simple book displaying bits of material of which many bits were made at that time.

At the bottom of each page in the book is the notation: "It is splendid economy to purchase an extra pair of trousers of the same goods when buying a suit."

But disregarding these advertising slogans and diving into the more historic worth of the book one can find many interesting facts which few people here now remember.

First Settler
One is that Robert M. McCollum was the first settler on the site of what is now the city of Twin Falls. He remained here to become one of the most influential and popular leaders of the early days, as evidenced by the amount of publicity allotted to him in Salt Lake City, Boise, Shoshone, Twin Falls and other papers and the magazines of a national circulation.

He was general agent of the Shoshone falls stage line when I. B. Perrine was proprietor and incidentally its founder. It is interesting to note a letter head pasted toward the front of the book and headed by the stage company. The picture on the letterhead shows one of the new Concord coaches with six horses attached.

No date for an organization meeting of this group has been set as yet. Since the local union drive started more than 50 new members have been approved and accepted by the various unions and points out.

To Wood River Area
Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Freedheim will visit Sun Valley, Ketchum and Halley for the purpose of inviting electricians and plumbers in that section to affiliate with local unions.

About Aug. 1 the organization move among auto, airplane and machine shop machinists will get underway here. At that time Howard Spangler, local representative of the International Association of Machinists, will arrive here to conduct the organization campaign.

Spangler is working in Pocatello now and later will visit Boise and Nampa, going to north Idaho from there. He will then return to Twin Falls.

Tonight members of the carpenters' union will move new furniture and office equipment into the union hall and will hold their first meeting at that point at 7:30 p. m. They will receive applications for new members at that time.

Tourism men plumbers will meet at the hall Wednesday, July 14, for the purpose of acting on new applications and also to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

The electrical local with W. Clay Smith as president will hold installation ceremonies at the hall Tuesday evening, July 13 at 7:30 p. m.

BOISE PREPARING FOR STATE FAIR

Western Idaho Event slated Aug. 26-29 Will Prove Bigger Than Ever

BOISE, July 9 (Special)—Preparations for the modern Idaho State fair to be held in Boise Aug. 26 to 29 are in an advanced stage. The fair board, headed by Harry Biggam, has swung into full action and the fair grounds is a scene of activity as new buildings are erected and others are remodeled and enlarged.

"It's not at all improbable," said Avery M. Blount, lawyer for the New York vaudeville hooper who was finally recognized as her husband by the curvy movie queen.

"The legal foundation has been laid. It's up to Wallace."

Admits Marriage
Blount and Lloyd Wright, the actress' attorney, went into court today to battle over whether Miss West must submit to a deposition hearing in Wallace next year light to make her admit they were married back in 1911. Since Miss West admitted the marriage in a court answer Wednesday, her lawyer contended there is no need for a deposition.

The fight began when an old wedding license was dug up in Elviraan, Wyo., courthouse. Wallace was 21 then and his bride 18, making her 44 now. Miss West first denied the marriage.

Kept Promise
"When he and I was separated, she exacted from him the promise never to reveal the marriage," Attorney Blount said. "He kept the promise. But when the license was found, there was nothing he could do but admit it."

"After he admitted and she denied the marriage, Wallace found it hard to get vaudeville bookings. Miss West threatened to sue for name used in connection with his billings. For this reason, Wallace found himself provoked to take the legal action he did."

Wallace's stock meantime shot up overnight. Hollywood booking agencies are hot on his trail.

CASE OF CHARACTER

CAROLEE COLLETT, heroine of the "Superstition Mountain" series, is a young woman of unusual character. Her father, Fred Collett, is a well-known figure in the community. Carolee is a beautiful girl with a strong personality. Her story is one of adventure and mystery.

Carolee Collett offered sharp contrast to the others of her family. "Sure, Miss— I didn't learn your name," the young man almost murmured, in his confusion. "It was all my fault, I didn't mean to be fresh when I called you a pretty name for a girl."

BEHIND THE SCENES in Washington

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The administration's last year is brushed and scoured. The record is crisscrossed with its plagues on private houses, in referring to extraneous industry and labor.

MRS. NICHOLSON JOINS ART TOUR

Honors Come to Filer Painter As Her Work Receives Commendation

Mrs. T. E. Nicholson, Filer, is one of 10 artists invited to go with the Brigham Young university's tour into the southwest covering some of the trails of Escalante, the Mormon Battalion and Kit Carson under the direction of Bent F. Larsen, head of the art department of the university.

Although the tour started June 14 to last for six weeks, Mrs. Nicholson left here yesterday to participate in the last three weeks of the expedition. During the 3,000 mile trip a number of points of special interest for painting will be visited and long stops are to be made at various places to allow the artists to take full advantage of the opportunities offered.

Leader Widely Known

Mr. Larsen, leader of the expedition is internationally as well as nationally known as an artist, critic and painter. Credit is to be given for the trip and for the painting done by the participants through the extension division of the Brigham Young university.

Other honors which have come to Mrs. Nicholson recently for her artistic achievements include her being placed among the Idaho artists in the "Who's Who" and "Encyclopedia" compiled by the Idaho Writers' project under the direction of Vardis Fisher, author, and now in the hands of the publishers.

Each year Mrs. Nicholson has exhibited work in the annual art exhibit in Heyburn along with productions from leading artists in other states. For the past 30 years she has been a teacher of art and in 1935 supervised a class of 34 pupils in connection with the adult art project.

Gives Painting

Recently she presented a large painting, "Jesus and the Samaritan Woman at the Well," to the Church of the Brethren. Some of her work, "Autumn Scene," sent to an outstanding artist of Chicago for criticism was returned with the rating of "excellent." An art critic in a western university compared her "Naturalistic Rose" with Aulich, the nationally-known painter who specializes in roses. Because of her style and perfection of her work the critic assumed Mrs. Nicholson must have been a student of Aulich.
