IRRIGATION AREAS SHOW GOOD CROPS

One of Best Years Enjoyed in 1936 By Reclamation Water Regions

WASHINGTON, July 13 (Special)—One of the best crop years in their history was entered in 1936 by the federal reclamation projects, and projects at the beginning of the irrigation this year indicated that 1937 is likely to be another banner year.

Crop returns last year were up $3,000,000 from 1935, John C. Page, reclamation commissioner, reported today to Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes, and the total value of the crop from the lands served by federal irrigation canals was $136,502,490. Only in three years—1919, 1928 and 1929—has this total been exceeded, with the all-time high being set in 1929 at $161,179,880.

Several of the projects experienced their best year to date last year, and with two exceptions all the 28 operating projects showed increases, generally large, over 1935. All were ahead of other years since 1929.

An ample supply of stored water for the operating projects, with the exception again of two which are in the Great Plains drought area, promise good crops during 1937.

Reporter Interviews Himself Anent Writing on Canyon Wall

Climbs Down Rocks and Gets Disgusted At Gent Whose Paintings Can Hardly Be Deciphered Now

(Editor's note: This is an exclusive story for Evening Times readers. A Times reporter who has traveled down in the Basin and Range area has been asked to go down. And he has not having anyone else to interview regarding the trip, he interviews himself.)

Returning late yesterday afternoon from near the bottom of the Snake river canyon over by the Twin Falls-Jerome intercity bridge, a reporter for the Evening Times disclosed that writing and painting on the rocks, several hundred feet below the rim, doesn't say much of anything anymore because it's so weather beaten.

"What did you have to go down for in the first place?" the reporter asked himself.

"Well," he said to himself, "I saw the writing on the rocks Sunday and so had to return Monday and see if there was a story in it."

"I took a pair of field glasses with me, thinking that I would be able to stand on the bridge and read the writing from there. But all I could see with the glasses was an American flag and a cross. All this did was to excite my curiosity."

He Goes Down

"And so you went down in the canyon?"

"Yes," he told himself, after pondering the question, "I went down into the canyon."

"I climbed over big boulders which would make the new addition to the Rogerson hotel look small and I slipped here and there. I even dropped my cigarettes and had to go about 50 yards out of my way because the package only had one smoke missing."

"Arriving, finally, at the paintings on the rocks I found that I still couldn't see what it was all about because the weather had taken its toll."

Finds Name and Date

"One thing I did find out. It was painted by William Baker (whatever he is) in 1928 and was titled his season's study. I guess he used more paint on his name and the date and so that's why it still was readable."

"On one side of the writings, which I could just make out, was the word 'life' and near this was 'not',

Mother Gives Birth to Child, Returns in 2 Hours to Work

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (SP)—Mrs. Est. Louis Estes, who reluctantly took to bed for childbirth Saturday, and was up and around two hours later, snatched an unnamed baby away on the patio of the Estes vegetable, raw-food estate.

The babe, 11th born to Mrs. Estes and her 72-year-old health lecturer husband, was unnamed because she was a girl.

Had the child been a boy, he automatically would have become St. Louis Estes VII. All the male children are named after their father, Dr. St. Louis (I'm strong as steel) Estes, famous snow-haired exponent of an unusual diet.

The 9-pound girl was born at 8:30 a. m. Saturday a few minutes after the mother reluctantly interrupted her household duties. Dr. H. B. K. Willis attended.

Neighbors were astounded when she was up two hours later, starting out the latest Estes child on the prescribed health formula the other ten have followed.

She drove with the baby to a downtown radio station yesterday to broadcast a lecture on child-rearing. Her own feet, as well as her children's health, she attributed to their diet.

"We eat only raw foods, such as fruits, vegetables and nuts," she explained. "Never fish, fowl or meats of animals with blood streams."

EMBARGO LOOMS FOR ORIENTALS

Action to Halt Shipments of Arms to Japan, China Up to President

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Invocation of the embargo provisions of the neutrality law against both Japan and China if fighting between Japanese and Chinese troops becomes general was one possibility considered by officials today as they studied reports of developments in the Far East.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, when asked whether the fighting between Japanese and Chinese regular troops in the Peking area warranted invocation of the neutrality law, said that would depend entirely upon future developments. The law requires the President, "if and when he shall find a state of war exists between two countries" to proclaim such a fact and to invoke the embargo provisions of the neutrality law prohibiting the export of arms, ammunition and implements of war to either or any of the countries involved in the "state of war."

POT SHOTS THE GENTLEMAN IN THE THIRD ROW

SUPERSTITION MOUNTAIN By Owen Arnold

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON By Rodney Dutcher

Value of War Anniversaries Two anniversaries in which the world should have been vastly interested passed by on the same day recently with little more than the cursory blessing of a "way back when" newspaper story.

One marked the 23rd year since June 28, 1914, when Archduke Franz Ferdinand's assassination at Sarajevo struck the spark that ignited the World war. The other was the 18th birthday of the Treaty of Versailles, which officially designated the end of that great war.

No enthusiastic celebrations, no wild fluttering of standards, or hoarsely cheering crowds marked these anniversaries as milestones which the world wished to perpetuate. But, aside from the mystic oddity that they both came on the same day of the same month, they remain significant in the practical study of the cause and effect of war.

Consider how the circumstances of the Sarajevo murder and the subsequent reprisals parallel events in Europe today. In 1914, Austria felt that it had to avenge the archduke's death, so it waged war on Serbia, a tiny neighbor. Today, a German warship is bombed in Spanish waters, and Hitler soothes national "honor" by shelling Spain's helpless Almeria.

In 1914, the disturbance was localized until Austria's appeals brought two mighty sets of nations automatically to grips in a senseless death struggle. Today, similar alignments are being called on to support dictatorial adventures, as in China, Ethiopia, and Spain, and the exact date of the next vast upheaval seems to depend only upon how far national "honor" can be stretched before it cracks.

The peculiar relation between the archduke's assassination and the Treaty of Versailles. Both are monuments to idealistically conceived, actually perpetuated the germ of war.

It created a group of winners and a group of losers. And then it sought to keep them on that basis—permanently, if possible. Germany, which lost the war, and Italy, which felt that it was cheated of its share of the war spoils, illustrate how the sudden dissatisfaction of a loser has swung the tide again toward conflict.

So, in fact, properly there should not be any ebullient clamor over the ghost of Sarajevo or the wizened form of the Treaty of Versailles. Both are monuments to the fallacy that might is right, and their value will lie alone in their example of what nations ought not to do.

No petty points of moralizing are involved. These are realistic warnings. And they are just as much for America as for Europe, because the pendulum is swinging back heavily toward a gigantic conflict of arms.

It may not be long before one set of "allies" or the other again trumpets the trans-Atlantic call for help—"in the name of humanity." And when that time comes, the United States should be listening wisely, but not too well.

A "Prosperity" Problem

The most exasperating fact in the path of the man who wants to raise prosperity by raising incomes and prices is the way in which such increases inevitably tend to cut down on the demand for goods.

A current bulletin from the Alexander Hamilton Institute points out, as an example, the way this is about to work out in the auto industry. All signs have been pointing toward a substantial increase in the demand for autos in the immediate future; but if it comes a 10 per cent price advance is rumored, and as it comes, it may well offset the expected increase in demand.

Wages in the auto industry have come up 14.6 per cent since 1929. The price of steel, likewise, has risen by 13.4 per cent in the same period. Yet auto prices, far from having advanced, are about 15 per cent under the 1929 level.

Some sort of increase looks almost inevitable; when it comes, how far will it go toward offsetting the "increased prosperity" which increases in wages and raw material prices were supposed to effect?

A blanket owned by a Cleveland was traced back 800 years to Ireland. It is presumed the research was by an undercover man.

Germany may abandon vest pocket battleships, it is rumored, to make room for the Watch on the Rhine, which has been undergoing repairs.

On the credit side for autos is the visible decline of stories about the person who drowned in a horseshoe track.

Thistles are preferred by camels, probably on the theory that for desert journeys it's best to eat something that will stick to the ribs.

JUST TELLING MAINE THAT ALL IS FORGIVEN! Heh heh heh! You know, I suppose where Frank Roosevelt the junior went shooing into Maine with his knife.

WONDROUS TALE OF HORSE FLIES AND SNAKES! In Pot Shots: In my work as a curator, specializing in the habits and customs of various insects, I have come across many interesting things.

So highly developed and specialized were these horridities that they were big as lions. Some were trained to fly great distances to the water wells and bring back fresh water, so rarely needed in the desert. Others were trained for domestic use—being used as hairy cattle and beasts of burden.

Well, came a battle with the swiftness, who in turn were added in to fly great distances to the water wells and bring back fresh water, so rarely needed in the desert. Others were trained for domestic use—being used as hairy cattle and beasts of burden.

As I make out from the deciphering of the pictures, the Albigenses formed their horridities into one great army, the signal being given each Albigense brave guided his fly towards the open mouth of a snake.

THE CLIMB took 20 minutes or more. Some of the going was almost straight up, with scanty foot and toe holds. It was like a climb on a Chicago newsworthy right now; I'd know my way around.

Carolee smiled a little. "Are you ever afraid of anything, Stuart?" It was the first time she had called him that. "You laughed even when one of my brothers started to make the other shot at you."

"No, I don't. It's rather confusing, isn't it?"

"Ha ha!" Stuart had relaxed now. Naturally optimistic, he disliked to entertain danger. "We ought to make the slope. But you can't see a Chicago newsworthy right now; I'd know my way around."

"This is a lot of it, but not very difficult," said Stuart, after a quarter-hour of riding. "See anything familiar, Carolee?"

"No, I don't. It's rather confusing, isn't it?"

"Ha ha!" Stuart had relaxed now. Naturally optimistic, he disliked to entertain danger. "We ought to make the slope. But you can't see a Chicago newsworthy right now; I'd know my way around."

"Oh yes! Yes indeed! I was scared silly when you snapped at me over a Chicago newsworthy right now; I'd know my way around."

THE CLIMB took 20 minutes or more. Some of the going was almost straight up, with scanty foot and toe holds. It was like a climb on a Chicago newsworthy right now; I'd know my way around.

Unconditional Surrender Only Hope for Peace, Says Gen. Franco

SPANISH REBEL LEADER REPLIES TO WEBB MILLER

Would Seek Turning Over All War Materials as First Point

By WEBB MILLER
(Copyright in All Countries, 1937, United Press)
LONDON, July 15 (Special)—Only a "knockout" victory, with complete and unconditional surrender of the Valencia government, can end the Spanish civil war, Gen. Francisco Franco said in reply to a questionnaire which I submitted to him during my visit to Spain to report the fall of Bilbao to the British press. The reply, in Franco's handwriting, has just arrived in London from his general military headquarters in Spain.

There can be no question of an armistice or negotiations except on Valencia, with a preliminary turning over of all artillery and airplanes and the release of prisoners, Franco declared.

400,000 Murdered
The general estimated 400,000 had been "murdered" in loyalist territory. In contrast, he stated that 4,500 had been sentenced to death and executed by the nationalists. Nationalist tribunals sentenced 6,000 to death but 1,500 were pardoned, he declared.

Regarding the possibility of a settlement without further fighting, Franco said former Premier Leon Blum of France had requested the intervention of several countries, including the United States, to obtain an armistice but that the proposal "which shows the desperate state of the Red government" was rejected by President Roosevelt.

He said he had no questions put to Franco and his replies follow in full:

Sees Victory
Q. Would your excellency accept any termination of the war other than unconditional surrender of the enemy or a complete military victory; that is, a "knockout" victory?

A. For humanitarian and patriotic reasons I most ardently do not wish to sacrifice life, and of course I want to prevent suffering to Spain; but salvation of a unified Spain lies in complete victory; for that we are fighting and we shall soon be victorious.

Q. Would you indicate in a general way upon what conditions you would agree to a solution of war by negotiation or compromise to end further shedding of blood?

A. On no conditions other than complete surrender. We already have demonstrated our generosity and our justice.

No Change
Q. Has the recent alteration in the Valencia government altered in any way the attitude of the nationalist government toward them? Has the alteration of personnel in Valencia increased in any way the chances of a peace by compromise or negotiation?

A. The government of Valencia does not represent any new aspect in the life, nor in morale, of the Spain. Its members are accomplices and collectively responsible for all the crimes perpetrated in Red Spain since the revolution started.

The minister Giral (loyalist Foreign Minister Jose Giral Perera) is the same man that sent congratulations to the rebel sailors who murdered officers and commanders of the Spanish navy. Indalecio Prieto (loyalist air and navy minister) has been head and leader of the Spanish revolution since its beginning.

No Division
Q. Do you see any possibility at present of a peaceful solution of the war by a division of Spain into parts, one held by the nationalists and the other by the Valencia government or a government resembling it? If so, what territorial division would be feasible from the viewpoint of the nationalists?

A. Nationalist Spain, born for the grandeur and unity of all Spain, is not compatible with any kind of division.

Q. If the census requested an armistice to discuss terms for a solution of the war by negotiations would you grant it and under what conditions?

A. The surrender of all their artillery and aviation and the release of all the prisoners would be our first consideration.

HERE IS NEWEST TYPE GIRL STRESSED BY MOVIEMAKERS

HOLLYWOOD (Special)—In 1917 it was the "sweatshirt" type, and Pickford was its leading exponent. In 1927 it was the "fl" girl and Clara Bow was its prophet. And now, in 1937, it's the "American daughter" type, and she is embodied by Barbara Read, the girl who leaped to fame overnight with Deanna Durbin in "Three Smart Girls."

The selection was made by Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl," and America's leading writer on youth and its problems, who wrote the screen treatment for "Make Way for Tomorrow."
Miss Read in real life has all the attributes and virtues of the kind of girl who is most popular today, according to Miss Delmar.
The "American daughter type" is so popular today, Miss Delmar explained, because she is such a well-bred girl from the hotcha-flaming youth type who was so popular during those mad and hectic days following the war years. She is good, sophisticated, gay, but aware of life's seriousness, wholesome in appearance, is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 105 pounds, and has blue eyes and natural, light brown hair.

STUDY MADE OF PIERCE LIGHTING Residents Along Street Make Plea For Lamps; Program May Include Others

Under consideration by city officials today was a plan to light Pierce street and possibly other streets in that section after Pierce residents, through Street Commission Chairman Leonard D. Lightfoot, had done as soon as possible.

Street poles are already in on Pierce street, but whether or not these would be used would depend on the cost involved. It is possible that overhead lines might be installed at each intersection.

Presenting an estimate of costs to the city for the work on the one street, W. Carpenter of the Idaho Power company, said material cost to connect and recondition the city-owned poles would amount to $178 while labor would come to $254. Monthly rental on the system would come to $11, he said.

Cost of installing street intersection lamps was not given, although it was indicated this would be done today. Street Commission was investigating the cost setup and announcement concerning the work will be made at the next council meeting.

OFFICIALS PROBE SQUATTER'S SITE M. E. Seyster, Shoshone Falls Park Resident, Refuses To Leave Home

City officials today were awaiting a report of the city engineer as to the extent of property at Shoshone falls before taking action either to force M. E. Seyster, squatter resident of the Shoshone area, to move or to permit him to stay.

Under a plan suggested by W. E. Taylor, park commissioner, Seyster was to be moved to permit the hiring of a caretaker for the area, who would also reside there.

It is not known definitely at present whether or not Seyster is living on city property, although indications point toward the fact that this is the case.

Seyster, who is blind, appeared at the council meeting last night accompanied by his wife. He told council members that he absolutely refused to move.

"I have resided there 19 years and I have done more for that park than probably anyone else in the county," Seyster told councilmen. "I've treated everybody white and I don't see why I should be put out."

Councilmen informed Seyster that the matter would be considered further after the engineer's report was received. There are approximately 1000 acres in the park.

FRENCHMEN QUIT BORDER'S PATROL

Neutrality Observers Along Frontier Await Further Orders From Nations

By HALPH HEINZEN
PARIS, July 15 (AP)—France, angry at the German and Italian attitude on Spanish civil war neutrality, resumed control of her 350-mile Spanish frontier today and left the 15 neutral observers on the London non-intervention committee to await further instructions.

Prefects of the French territorial departments along the frontier took over control at noon from the observers. They had orders to exert every effort to prevent smuggling of arms or men across the frontier.

No Instructions
Col. D. O. Lunn, British commander of the neutrality observers, said at his headquarters at Tarbes that he had received no instructions. However, French authorities intended to permit the observers to remain on the frontier for the present—no private citizens—until the situation is clarified.

It seemed unlikely, on the basis of information here, that there would be a meeting of the non-intervention committee before Thursday or Friday.

Until then, at any rate, French gendarmes will carry on their work of watching the frontier.

Little trouble was expected along most of the border, but there was a threat that left-wing extremists might try to run arms and munitions into loyalist territory along the 80 mile stretch of frontier between the Mediterranean and Andorra.

Debt Ability
Before the neutrality control was instituted April 19 it is estimated that more than 20,000 foreign volunteers entered Spain along that 60-mile stretch, in addition to airplanes and munitions. Smugglers organized their traffic so thoroughly that they had fixed schedules of departures for Spain.

Border people expressed some doubt that the gendarmes in that area could keep out all munitions and men.

APPROVAL GIVEN SPRINKLING ROLL Council Sets Cost to Water City Streets During Year at $11,950

City council members today had approved the assessment roll of the special improvement district for sprinkling, which included practically every street, avenue and alley in the city, and cost was set at $11,950.

Assessments against the property owners benefited will be made as uniform rates, it was announced, in proportion to the front footage and area of the lots, tracts, parcels of land "abutting, contiguous or adjacent to" the areas. Intersections are paid for by the city.

The sprinkling of most of the streets is expected to be cared for by the new sprinkler, expected to be delivered in the near future. It is at Boise at the present time where a modern, streamlined tank is being installed.

NEW ZEALANDER CALLS ON HULL Finance Minister and U. S. Secretary of State Consider Trade

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Walter Nash, minister of finance for New Zealand, called on Secretary of State Cordell Hull today to start exploratory conversations on a trade agreement and to discuss plans for a co-ordinated British-American air line between New Zealand and the United States.

Nash believed flights in both directions might start before the end of the year. The route runs from New Zealand to Pango-Pango to Samoa to Kingman Reef to Honolulu to San Francisco and eventually to Vancouver.

A new bus now being tested in Texas carries 33 passengers and is air-cooled. The cooling motor is mounted on the back.

WORK STARTS ON CITY WAREHOUSE Addition and Remodeling to Be Completed Within 10 Days, Taylor Says

Work on the new addition as well as the remodeling job at the city warehouse, located at Seventh street south and the truck lane, was underway this afternoon and will be completed within 10 days, it was announced this afternoon by W. E. Taylor, city councilman and park commissioner.

Part of the work is being done by city workmen while the balance is under contract. Taylor points out. The addition will be one story high and 20 feet in length, being the width of the building. Remodeling will include renovation, painting and construction of a new fence around sections of the lot.

When completed the repair shop for the park department will be located there and street equipment, including sprinklers and trucks, will also be housed at that point. At the present time these are kept in the city hall garage.

IGKES ENTERS IN LOBBYIST ATTACK Secretary of Interior Hits At Men in Capital to Air Sugar Interests

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes today joined President Roosevelt in an attack on capital sugar lobbyists. He also declared in a statement that the administration is strongly opposed to sugar marketing legislation which would discriminate against Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The extreme activity of the carefully chosen cane refiner lobbyists, Ickes said, "makes manifest their utter disrespect of the independent judgment and the sense of public responsibility of the members of Congress."

President Roosevelt at a press conference last month described the sugar lobby as "pernicious" and said it was responsible for delaying legislation to regulate sugar marketing in the United States.

Burlesque Returns to New York, But Customers Boo

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—Burlesque returned to Broadway today, and the customers bood. The choruses didn't "wriggle" the strip-tease "artists" kept their clothes on and the jokes were "let-overs" from the '30s. Six theaters, closed last May when New York's moral crusade against the "art" of undress reached its height, were licensed to reopen as "variety revues." There was no ruck for the box offices last night, not even at the Republic theater, which offered a "strip-tease in reverse." Six girls appeared in abbreviated tights. These one of the masquerade members of the troupe draped each one in a brassiere, panties and an evening gown. There were boos and cat-calls from the gallery. Audiences were equally apathetic to other presentations, which included a hedge-podge of acts which might have "served" in a grand father's day, routine dance numbers and countless variations of the hooshy-cooshy. The comedians who heretofore had found no innuendo for laughs held it difficult trying to "sell" laundered material.
