Confirmation of Senator Hugo N. Black, Alabama Democrat, to membership in the supreme court of the United States yesterday by the senate was believed to have given the administration program a six to three support in the tribunal.

Wine Tossers

John Roosevelt Lewis, son of the President of the United States, was said by Mayor Pierre Novion of Cannes, France, to have thrown a glass of champagne on his honor when he headed a winning procession for the American student on vacation at the famous "Belle de France" festival. The mayor did not know whether the wine was thrown insultingly, or in "a spirit of carnival."

Appointment of Black Gives New Deal Acts Boost

Much Administration Legislation Is Yet to Come Before Nation's Highest Court

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UP)—Election of Sen. Hugo N. Black to the supreme court today bolstered prospects for validation of vital New Deal legislation. It also spurred a senate move to end the dispute over the legal status of retired members of the tribunal.

The 41-year-old Alabama Democrat, confirmed as President Roosevelt's first appointee by a senate vote of 63 to 16, may play a decisive role in future deliberations of the closely-divided court, possibly casting the deciding vote on some highly controversial issues.

Questions involving the administration power policy, utility legislation, some phases of social security, and probably the wage and hours bill now tied up in congress, will come before the supreme court for decision as to constitutionality. Whether Black, a staunch administration supporter, will follow the custom of disqualifying himself from passing on legislation which he helped enact is under a cloud.

The tumultuous seven-hour debate left sharp imprints on the capital's congressional war-front, including: Announcement by Sen. William E. Borah, R. Id., that he will immediately introduce legislation intended to correct "faults" in the 1937 supreme court retirement act which he said failed to create the vacancy to which Black was named. It was learned that Sen. Tom Connally, D. Tex., also plans to introduce a (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

LABOR HEAD TO GIVE BROADCAST

Speculation Aroused as to Whether Lewis Will Clarify FDR Relations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UP)—John L. Lewis decided today to broadcast a statement of public policy over a national network on Sept. 3, causing immediate speculation whether he will clarify his relations with President Roosevelt.

For the past five weeks there have been constant reports that Lewis and the President have reached the point of an open break.

It was believed fairly certain that Lewis will specifically mention the administration in his speech. It is reported that he had planned to deliver a similar address a few weeks ago but decided against it because he neither wanted to mention the President, thus definitely crystallizing his attitude—or nor to ignore him, leading to inference that the break was not serious.

Only 8 Days Since First Story of Sinking Canyon, But It's Nationally Famous Now

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Eight days ago tonight readers of the Evening Times picked up their paper and found a story of a phenomenon of nature—the formation of a canyon seven miles northwest of Buhl.

That was the first story concerning the now nationally famous "sinking canyon" to appear in any newspaper in the United States.

Now, with only eight short days passed, the "sinking canyon" is known throughout the United States. Canada, Mexico and many foreign countries. Hours and hours of radio broadcasts have described to millions of listeners. Tens of thousands of words have been written concerning this wonder of nature in "Twin Falls" front yard.

Story after story has been carried by the greatest news gathering agencies on earth, serving papers over the globe. Millions have read these stories.

Without a doubt the "sinking canyon" data will be the most widely read to come out of Idaho during 1937.

FARMERS WATCH LATEST WONDER

Moving Wall In Buhl 'Sinking Canyon' Continues to Slide Westward

A "wonder within a wonder" continued today to hold the attention of the Buhl residents, farmers, and miles northwest of Buhl, and other interested persons as earth movements showed again at the nationally famous "sinking canyon" when more than five acres of Robertson's farm land started sinking into the earth.

The wall, according to those watching the movement, is now moving west. Today this slow but sure movement continued and in a period of 20 hours the huge mass has moved a distance approximating 100 feet.

Measurements on the movement are being made by Robertson by sighting from the wall of his farm to objects located on the opposite canyon wall.

FRANCO TROOPS MOVE ON LOYALS

Advance Made From Three Sides on Last of Government Forces

WITH THE NATIONALISTS AT REINFORCED, Spain, Aug. 18 (UP)—Franco's troops, including 50,000 nationalistic troops, moved closer to Santander, the government's last important seaport on the Bay of Biscay today.

Four columns, attacking with tanks, airplanes, artillery and machine guns moved on the gates of the city from four directions, planning to surround the loyalists from three sides and drive them "into the sea."

In four days of campaigning—considered the most efficient of the 12-month effort—the nationalists claimed they had captured 625 square miles of mountainous territory south of Santander, 3,800 prisoners and 40 wagon loads of supplies.

SUGAR FACTORIES FACING LONG RUN

90 to 100 Day Period Seen In Three Plants; Openings Around Oct. 1

Factories of the Amalgamated Sugar Company, located at Twin Falls, Rupert, Idaho, and Burley, will probably open for the 1937 season between Sept. 28 and Oct. 8, it was announced today by R. H. Tallman, Idaho district manager.

With the best crop looking "good" it is expected the run in all three areas will last from 90 to 100 days. At the present time the machinery is being conditioned for the opening.

The three sugar factories will probably not open until the end of the land is approximately 200 feet below the former level with cracks in it which extend down about 100 feet.

Chinese Soldiers Go Smiling Into Battle to Defend Ancestral Lands

Editor's note: Dispatches of the battle of Shanghai have centered in the international arm. H. R. Ekins, United Press war correspondent, has been on the spot to see what the battle meant to the greatest sufferers, the Chinese. What he saw he tells in the following dispatch.

By H. R. EKINS

(Copyright 1937, United Press)

TAIPEI, SHANGHAI SUBURBS, Aug. 18 (U.P.)—I came out today to see where the bombs were dropping and the soldiers were picking up pieces of their comrades.

The bombs were falling, and men were dying, and the maimed were being carried away in trucks. The trucks came back with fresh, whole men, smilingly going to defend their country and to wind up as so much more bomb fodder.

Out here where the Japanese have been bombing, the soldiers pick up an arm here, a leg there, a head that has rolled in the dust—eyes unclosed and staring starkly.

War Not Pretty

If there are people who still can visualize war as a pretty thing, a high adventure with bands and flags and natty uniforms, they ought to know what I saw out here on this lush Yangtze river delta where the bombs are dropping.

I established one doubtful point about the battle—the Japanese up to this afternoon had not landed any regulars, army men, in the delta to attack Shanghai from the rear.

I huddled under the trees with boys of the Chinese army. The boys were angry about the war. They said it was unfair. They said they were all set to fight ground forces but that they were helpless against the rain of death from the sky.

"China Will Live"

I stopped beside an improvised ambulance. Normally it is a beer truck. I talked with one lad whose body was folded up like a jack knife. A piece of shrapnel had gone through his intestines.

"Chung Kuo Wan Sui," he said when I spoke to him—"China will live for 10,000 years."

There were at least 40 Japanese planes in the sky, and the bombing never really ceased. As soon as one flight had dropped devastation, there would be another.

But the worst thing we saw, singly, was when a Japanese airplane dropped its bombs and then came swooping down. We saw a group of girls crouch in terror at the roadside, covering their eyes with their arms. There was a powerful burst of machine gun fire and the bullets ripped through their soft young bodies.

All these poor people we saw had committed just one grave crime—they lived in the wrong place in a ghastly world.

Ex-President Hits Court Appointment

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 18 (U.P.)—Former President Herbert Hoover, en route to southern Oregon on a fishing trip, paused to say he disapproved of the appointment of Ben. Hugo Black to the U. S. supreme court.

"The court is now one-ninth packed," he said. "The nomination of Senator Black is a sample of what we would expect from a packing of the supreme court."

JEROME SCHOOLS SHOW HUGE GAIN

Growth and Developments of Public System Related By Superintendent

By H. MAINE SHOWN

Supt. Schools, Jerome, Idaho

Since the Jerome public schools are about to take steps in their phenomenal growth since the founding of the schools in 1909, it will prove to be interesting to review briefly the history of their development. In 1909, when what is now Jerome was nothing more than a small town, the school system was in its infancy. The first Jerome school was a one-room schoolhouse, and the first teacher was Miss Mary Smith. The school was located on the corner of Main and Second streets.
