JAPANESE AIRMEN BEGIN BOMBARDMENT

Congress Dashes New Deal Hopes By Adjournment

President Likely to Appeal To People in Radio Address

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (UP)—The first session of the 75th congress will adjourn today leaving behind the wreckage of major New Deal legislation but under threat of a possible special session in November to pick up the pieces.

Politically bruised and defeated on issues considered fatal to his plans, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to go to the people in one or more speeches or fireside chats.

Some Democrats talked party harmony but there was evidence of unrest sufficiently deep-seated to suggest that it may extend into the 1938 congressional elections.

Sen. Joseph P. Guffey, D., Pa., thumbed a discord in the harmony chorus last night in a nationally broadcast speech in which he assailed Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., and Sen. Edward R. Butler, D., Neb., for opposing Mr. Roosevelt's supreme court proposals.

He uttered blistering criticism of senatorial judiciary committees Democrats who signed the report which denounced Mr. Roosevelt's program.

His congressional colleagues, however, are in somewhat less satisfactory position than on this date one year ago. The comparative figures are:

	1937	1936
National debt, $36,951,871,573	$33,407,485,600
Expenditures, 1,009,786,548	784,339,210
Deficit, 312,120,604	242,052,948

Congress Parley at Fault
The excess of expenditures may be attributed in some degree to congress which ignored Mr. Roosevelt on several bills which raised spending beyond budgeted plans.

It was anticipated that approximately $6,350,000,000 this year compared with $10,350,000,000 a year ago.

It was pointed out that the supreme court reorganization, wage and hours legislation, crop surplus control, crop insurance, the regional planning and control bill for water power and other resources, and the bill to reorganize the executive departments.

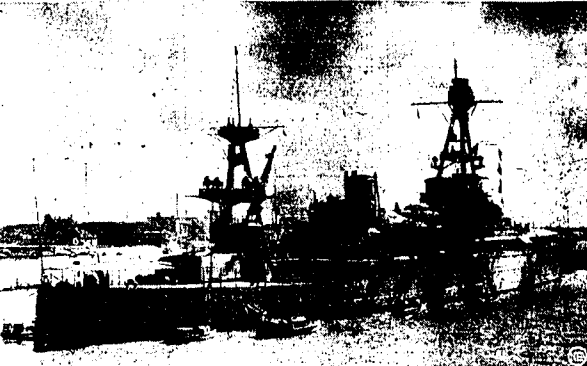

A crackling, snapping White House whip failed at this session to force that legislation to enactment or to avert other bills to which Mr. Roosevelt objected.

Interest Bill Passed
Congress passed over Mr. Roosevelt's veto a bill to continue low interest rates on farm loans. It compelled him to accept legislation establishing compulsory maintenance of retail prices of branded goods and yesterday congress sent to the White House a bill to control the output of certain commodities.

He fully vetoed bill extending time for conversion of veterans' war risk insurance.

Taylor's Ouster Suit on Joe Stemmer is Dismissed

Judge Rules For State's Road Head

BOISE, Ida., Aug. 21 (UP)—Attorney-General Taylor's ouster suit against Joe Stemmer, director of highways, was dismissed today by Judge C. F. Koelsch, Ada county district court jurist.

Judge Koelsch ruled that Stemmer was holding his office legally, and said there were no grounds for the ouster suit.

The fight to get Stemmer out of office has been raging since January, when questionable lease-purchases of machinery were brought to attention of the attorney-general.

However, Judge Koelsch reiterated a former opinion in which he held that Stemmer and G. E. McKelvey, Huntington Tractor corporation, and several surety companies were liable for return to the state of approximately $14,000,000 involved in lease purchase of machinery.

When Judge Koelsch's decision was handed down, the attorney-general's office said it would take steps to bring suit for almost $1,000,000 allegedly spent by the highway department in purchase of equipment without public bidding.

Terrific Fight Launched Over Railroad Line

SHIPS' GUNS BLAST CHINESE TROOPS IN YANGTSEPOO AREA

(Copyright, 1937, United Press)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21 (UP)—Scores of Japanese airplanes late tonight launched a terrific bombardment of the Shanghai-Nanking railway along which Chinese reinforcements were pouring into the battle area around this flame-swept city of 3,500,000 people.

Simultaneously Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river began bombarding the Chinese positions in the Yangtsepo area of the international settlement. Strong Chinese units had been concentrating there all day preparatory to a midnight assault on the Japanese lines in the Hongkong sector.

The Japanese were attempting to consolidate and reinforce their front line positions extending from Kowloon to Yangtsepo.

Battle at Night
The battle which has raged here for a week following the shooting of two Japanese navy men by Chinese soldiers the night of Aug. 9 had reached unprecedented proportions as midnight approached.

Hundreds of fires were burning and more than 200 square blocks of the city—chiefly in the Chapel, Yangtsepo, Hongkong, and Kowloon areas—either were in flames or were smoldering ruins. Damage was estimated at $150,000,000.

JAPANESE PLANES LAUNCH ATTACK

Terrific Assault Is Opened Against Shanghai Railway

Settlement and appeared literally to be blowing the countryside to bits.

New fires broke out 300 yards northwest of the Hongkong district police station, inside the Japanese lines, presumably set by incendiary shells from Chinese batteries to the northwest.

One big fire was raging north of the Hongkong district police station, inside the Japanese lines, presumably set by incendiary shells from Chinese batteries to the northwest.

Cheong Bait Shoe Co. Another started in the rear of the British-owned Aker house hotel, within 100 yards of the station bridge entrance to the Anglo-American area of the settlement.

The Japanese still were supremely confident of ultimate victory and continued to insist that operations of the increased land forces would force the beginning of a general Chinese retreat during the week-end.

Reports that the Japanese lines had been broken by Chinese in the Yangtseepoo sector were disproved by the Japanese.

The number of troops engaged on the Shanghai front tonight was estimated at around 200,000—about 150,000 of which are Chinese.

On the Tientsin-Peking railway, south of Tientsin, the Chinese had launched a smashing offensive along the Peking-Hankow railway, southwest of Peking, while the Japanese were attacking on the Peking-Suiyuan railway, northeast of Peking, the most sanguine of the northern front.

Chinese Thrust

On the Tientsin-Peking railway, south of Tientsin, the Chinese had launched a smashing offensive along the Peking-Hankow railway, southwest of Peking, while the Japanese were attacking on the Peking-Suiyuan railway, northeast of Peking, the most sanguine of the northern front.

Chinese concentrations around Peking, P. in southern Hopedai, had advanced more than 75,000 strong and were locked in battle with smaller but better equipped Japanese units near Lianghsiang.

The Japanese were the defensive in this area, intentionally, since their plan of campaign against the Chinese had been to clear the Peking-Hankow railway as far as possible, in Chahar province, before starting major operations on the Peking-Suiyuan railway.

Counter-Attack Strong

The Japanese strategy southwest of Peking has been to break up each Chinese advance, such as that which started last night, with strong counter-attacks and to wear down the Chinese divisions in this area before the 100,000 men-by continuous aerial bombing.

Torrential rains which have swept North China for a week retarded fighting on this front, and made it very difficult for the Japanese attack on the Chinese 8th and 80th divisions entrenched in craggy mountains flanking the Yangtseepoo pass, 15 miles northwest of Peking on the Peking-Suiyuan line.

Gen. Ishida's motivated columns have been pushed to the front in the last few days while the Chinese divisions under Gen. Tang En-Po have been content to sit in their mountain strongholds and await Japanese attacks.

Attack By Air

The general Japanese plan of operations in this sector calls for a blunderbuss attack to be carried out by air bombings and long range artillery fire. Being held planes on the ground and prevented the movement of big guns and tanks.

Japanese planes operating from bases in the Japanese-occupied state of Manchukuo were reported to have bombed Kalgan, chief city of Chahar above the Nankow pass, and destroyed the radio station and barracks there.

There was fighting all along the great wall on both sides of the Nankow pass, and the Chinese asserted their cavalry.

DELINQUENT TAX LAW EXPLAINED

County Treasurer Suggests 1932 Levies Be Paid This Year

Unless delinquent taxes for 1932 and 1933 are paid this year or next year, the tax collector will be forced to subject to be taken over by the county on tax title in 1935, according to Mrs. C. E. Stevens, county treasurer.

She says, however, that those who began to pay off delinquencies of 1932 taxes in 1933 under the 1935 act may continue to do so.

The act passed by the 1937 legislature and effective now requires all taxes of 1932 and prior years must be paid before 1939 to avoid tax foreclosure.

The treasurer suggested that those who were able to pay at least one of the years' delinquency this year should do so, thus alleviating the burden that the double payment next year would cause. She said that property on which taxes are delinquent for any year back to 1932 will be subject to tax deed, regardless of whether or not subsequent years are paid or not.

She also took advantage of the 1935 law and started payments on 1932 and subsequent years may continue to do so, provided all delinquencies are paid with the new law by 1939, Mrs. Stevens said.

FUNDS AVAILABLE TO HELP INJURED

Plan to Return Employable Age Group to Industry Continues in Idaho

With a slightly larger appropriation available this year, expansion of the civilian rehabilitation in Idaho was seen here this afternoon by Miss T. Means, state supervisor from Boise.

Means was here in connection with the crippled children's clinic being held at the Presbyterian church. He planned to leave this evening.

The aim of the program, according to Means, is to return and return to self-supporting occupations those persons of employable age who have been injured in industry or otherwise who prevented from carrying on the occupation at which they were formerly engaged. The work is administered in Idaho by the state board of education and is also carried on in all 44 other states of the union, Means points out.

Tuition fees furnished for those approved through the department are furnished with tuition fees for continued study to create a new vocational field and also with training supplies. At the present time 155 are actively registered on the rolls.

During the last school term 18 studied at the University of Idaho and 10 at the Idaho southern university at Pocatello. The balance were scattered throughout private schools in the state including business colleges, beauty schools, the College of Idaho and Gooding college.

Only those of employable age (defined by Idaho law as 16 years or older) are accepted, Means said. An investigation is made in each case to ascertain if the training offered will aid the person in returning to industry and again becoming self-supporting.

Fifty per cent of the funds come from the federal government, the balance coming from a direct state appropriation.

NURSE ATTACKED, SLAIN BY MANIAC

of the window. He clattered quickly from the fire escape while Miss Kutuba screamed and ran to the door.

Miss Kutuba's head had been battered with a brick. Her body was bruised and scratched. Police said she had been assaulted.

The attack occurred like many in recent months. The criminal climbed a fire escape and entered the room by removing a screen. On Aug. 7 Miss Palowski screamed and routed a Negro from the same fire escape used today. Three days later a nurse saw a Negro remove a screen from the window of her room and fled in alarm.

Police stated

A police squad was posted at the hospital but withdrew after four days.

Earlier this week a Negro slashed Miss Marcella Milas, 26, night superintendent of nurses, with a razor blade when she refused to give him narcotics.

Sections of the suspect in today's crime indicated he might have been a drug addict. Tom De Brugene and Karl Wilhelm, janitors of nearby buildings, said they saw the long-armed Negro late last night peering near the hospital. The officers described "fidgety and nervous" they said.

De Brugene gave the best description of the suspect, whom he had chased away. He said he was a light-colored Negro with exceptionally long arms and a nervous manner. He wore dark trousers and a white shirt. His cap was soiled.

NEED OF SPECIAL SESSION DOUBTED

Gov. Clark Says Relief Situation Is Not Emergency

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 21 (AP)—Governor Donnell Clark today said he did not believe there was any real need for a special session of the legislature to rebuild reportedly low county relief funds.

The governor said he had not given the matter "much thought," but indicated that he did not feel the situation demanded emergency action.

County commissioners, at their annual convention in Coeur d'Alene this week, passed a resolution demanding a special session of state legislature to provide more relief funds.

They claimed counties were in desperate need of more money for relief, and expressed the fear that the state's allocation would not be sufficient if action were not taken to secure more funds for relief.

A delegation from Coeur d'Alene was scheduled to call on the governor sometime today to discuss the matter.

FATE OF RESTRICTIVE SUGAR MARKETING BILL UNCERTAIN

IMPORT LIMITS MAY MEAN VETO FOR NEWEST ACT

President Certain to Study Measure in Full Detail Before Any Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (UP)—The controversial sugar marketing bill today was sent to the White House where it faced a possible presidential veto.

Fate of the measure was uncertain because it still carries restrictions on refining of sugar in Hawaii and Puerto Rico which President Roosevelt opposes.

The chief executive, at a press conference yesterday, said he had not seen amendments which a senate-house conference committee placed in the measure. It was certain that he would study it at length before making his final decision.

Restrictions Limited

The committee, in an attempt to meet Mr. Roosevelt's objections, limited the restrictions on island refineries to March 1, 1940.

Under terms of the bill, Hawaii would be permitted to ship 29,816 short tons of refined sugar into the United States annually. Puerto Rico would be allowed 126,033 tons.

Administration leaders had indicated previously that they would be willing to accept a one year restriction on island refined quotas but the conference extended this to 26 months.

No Basic Changes

The conference made no basic changes in sugar quota provisions of the bill, drafted to replace the Jones-Costigan act. Production quotas in the measure expire Dec. 31, 1940, ten months after the end of the refined sugar import restrictions.

The bill would allow 1,550,000 short tons to domestic beet sugar pro-

Nine Uninjured as Street Car Is Submerged in Raging Creek

WOLCOTT, Kan., Aug. 21 (UP)—For two hours seven men and two women huddled in an interurban car which tilted precariously at the bottom of a creek, half submerged and threatening at any moment to wash away into the Missouri river which was only 50 feet away.

The car, bound from Kansas City to Leavenworth, plunged 25 feet when a trestle collapsed. The creek was raging from a cloudburst and the water was 12 feet deep.

Although the car stayed on its trucks, it was washed 50 feet downstream, where one end was mired in a creek bed and the other was raised from the water. It came to rest under a Missouri Pacific railway trestle.

Passengers hurried to the dry end of the car.

Lasso Stump

Fred Davis, operator of the car, secured a rope and lassoed an old tree stump on the creek bank to tie the car fast. Ivin Sparling, an interurban operator from Leavenworth who was riding as a passenger, assisted him. It took them 30 minutes to get the rope attached.

Davis said the other passengers remained rather quiet, considering the circumstances.

There was danger of the rope breaking and Sparling volunteered to make the swim for help. A rope was tied about him and he climbed from the car and made his way to the bank. He ran up the railroad track and flagged a freight train, sending word to Wolcott.

The interurban company sent a work car to the scene.

Ladders Dropped

Ladders were dropped from the remnants of the trestle that were left standing, and the passengers were hauled up. None was injured.

It. B. Evans, one of the rescue workers, was knocked several feet when he touched the fallen trolley wire. He apparently was uninjured.

Conner creek threatened for a time last night to inundate Wolcott after the cloudburst but the crest passed safely. The basement of the Baptist church was flooded and farmhands upstream were under water.

FEEDERS TO TRY NEW EXPERIMENT

Artificial Fertilisation of Pasture to Be Studied For Elk Grazing

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 (Special)—A new and unique experiment in winter big game feeding is being undertaken by Jack Parsell of the U. S. forest service and Dr. A. B. Hatch, assistant professor of game management at the University of Idaho school of forestry.

It is an outgrowth of Mr. Parsell's lecture to the class in game management on his three years' study of big game on the Lochsa and Selway drainages of the Nez Perce national forest. It was found that the elk herds keep entirely to the warmer slopes along the river and seriously overgraze some of the areas.

Many elk die in the spring even though their stomachs are full—chiefly of the woody parts of browse. A few years ago it was discovered that artificial fertilization of forest land greatly increased food value and palatability of browse to deer on the Black Rock forest in New York. Parsell and Hatch want to find out if carrying capacity of a few of the more heavily overgrazed portions of the Nez Perce forest can be increased by artificial fertilization.

Gooding Doctor May Get State Position

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 21 (UP)—Statehouse rumor today had it that Governor Barzilla Clark was seriously considering the selection of Dr. James Cronwell, Gooding physician, as head of Blackfoot asylum. The governor himself would not confirm the rumor, but he said Cronwell had been "highly recommended."

Court Orders Man to Not Speak for Year to 13-Year-Old Former Wife

MARTINEZ, Calif., Aug. 31 (UP)—Leonard Newlin, 30, was under court orders today not to speak to his former wife, 13-year-old Cleone Gomez Newlin, on penalty of a year in jail.

Superior Judge A. F. Bray annulled the marriage yesterday, then sentenced the former husband and the girl's mother—who also was her sister-in-law—to a year in jail for conspirators to commit perjury, but he granted probation.

Judge Bray told Newlin that if he approached or spoke to the girl the probation would be revoked.

The girl was made a ward of the juvenile court and was held for the present at the juvenile detention home.

The mother and husband pleaded guilty to conspiring to falsify an affidavit which gave Cleone's age as 18 instead of 13. Leonard Newlin is a brother of the mother's present husband.

TOURIST TRAVEL IN PARK AT PEAK

New Record Set in First Two Weeks of August in Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Aug. 21 (Special)—Yellowstone national park travel picked up speed during the first two weeks in August as it rushed to a new record. Superintendent Edmund B. Rogers said today.

With each of the first two weeks of the month setting new seven-day records the percentage of increase over 1936 soared to 124. On August 16 the total for the year read 367,281 compared with 327,245 on the same date in 1936.

The 42,870 visitors entering the park between August 9 and 15 comprised the largest total ever to be recorded in one week, breaking the previous high of 42,506 set August 2 to August 8. Together the two weeks contributed to compile the largest 15 day total, 91,425, that the park has ever known.

Commissioners' Aid To Be Asked to Stop Plague of Rats Here

Twin Falls county commissioners Monday will be asked to take immediate steps to stop the spread of thousands of white rats infesting Rock creek canyon over an area which extends from the Shoshone street bridge to the sugar factory.

Realizing the danger involved if the rats should suddenly decide to invade Twin Falls and surrounding country, leaving their homes burrowed in the Rock creek banks, a special Chamber of Commerce committee Monday will confer with the commissioners.

Aside from the damage the rats would do to the irrigation canal system if they decided to migrate, there is also the danger of the start of a plague, the rats being infested with fleas. The rats themselves also destroy chickens and other fowl and some which have been captured have attained a length of 10 inches, not including the tail, and weigh more than a pound.

The rats got their start a little more than two years ago when a family liberated about two dozen small ones they failed to sell for pets in the city. Since that time the rats have multiplied rapidly and have reverted to their wild state, also gaining in size.

Evidence that some of them have already left the canyon is gathered from time to time as various individuals report seeing them in Twin Falls as well as surrounding country.

CCC Enrollees Put Fire Under Control

More than 500 youths from CCC camps and employees of logging companies fought the blaze.
