Italy and Germany Rejected Bid for Conference
By WEBB MILLER
(Copyright 1937, United Press)
LONDON, Sept. 9 (UP)—Great Britain, faced with an Italian-German boycott of the Lake Geneva "pirate" submarine conference, intends to propose a World-war model convoy system to protect shipping in the Mediterranean, it was understood today.

Italy and Germany today delivered notes rejecting the British-French invitation to attend the conference, to be held tomorrow.

As the result, delegates of nine European powers—Britain, France, Russia, Jugoslavia, Roumania, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey and Poland—are to meet either at Nyon or Geneva to discuss the submarine menace to Mediterranean shipping.

The conference might mark definitely the beginning of a new, acutely dangerous phase of European politics. Everybody knows that the powers believe Italy is the officially unidentified power whose submarines are aiding the Spanish nationalists to immobilize the loyalist armies by depriving them of the fuel they must import in steamships.

It was in expectation of an Italian-German boycott that Britain prepared the convoy plan.

Put bluntly, the plan is to protect the Mediterranean shipping against, and to block, the 6,000-horsepower machine which may aid the nationalists by practical activities.

Both Britain and France mean business. Foreign Secretary Eden starts today for Switzerland. (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

BORAH ASKS FOR U. S. NAZI PROBE

Urges Congressional Quiz of Organizations Financed From Germany
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho, former chairman of the foreign relations committee, today proposed a congressional investigation into Nazi activities in the United States.

Borah said there was "no doubt" that Nazi organization in this country was going on and that he had been informed it was being supported and financed by Nazis in Germany.

He suggested that, since the house had investigated similar activities in the past, it should go ahead with a new inquiry into the present organization.

"I am informed that these organizations are being financially supported and encouraged by Nazis in Germany," Borah said, "but I do not know how far it has gone. There are many doubts about the fact that organization is going on in this country. The extent of it I do not know but it is of sufficient importance to call for an investigation."

Forewarn Boycott
It was the prospect of an Italian-German boycott of the Mediterranean conference that brought the second British plan. The first plan was worked out in cooperation with France.

Hence, the reported second plan based on the high seas and the only 2,000,000 American troops were taken to France during the World War.

Vital to Rehebe
There was one feature of great political importance to the campaign in the high seas, and that was the virtual end of the Italian-German effort to deprive the loyalist army of fuel supplies.

At fuel is not barred to the loyalist army on non-intervention agreements, fuel ships of subscribing nations will enjoy protection of warships on the high seas, and the only way the nationalists could stop them would be to wait for them to sail Spanish waters.

FARM LAW SPECIAL SESSION UNCERTAIN, POPE SAYS

PRICE TRENDS KEY TO PROBLEM, SENATOR CLAIMS

Idahoan Thinks Delay Better In Order to Allow Full Time For Study

By DAVID N. JOHNSON
BOISE, Sept. 9. (Special.) James P. Pope, D-Idaho, generally considered to be an administration spokesman concerning farm affairs, said today that a special session to consider agricultural legislation was "highly uncertain."
If a special session is called, the senator said, it would probably be because of a drastic drop in commodity prices affecting the five major products—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice, said he felt, however, if present prices continued with no abrupt fluctuation, a special session would not be called for express purpose of passing legislation designed to relieve the farmer and steady the market.

Senator Pope said farm legislation presently considered as necessary to aid agricultural endeavor was "extremely important," and that the time between now and the first of the year was short.

The time left is hardly sufficient to give a full and careful study to permanent agricultural legislation, he said. "If prices and commodities remain fairly steady, it would be well to wait."

The senator indicated that a senate sub-committee which will tour the nation to hear opinions of farmers—upon recommended legislation might have important influence in calling a special session.

He said the committee did not have authority to make formal recommendations, but that it could suggest whatever it thought to be a good plan.

Senator Pope co-author of the Rice-McCall bill, expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt might defer a special session if prices remain stable.

"However," he said, "I want it strictly understood that I do not speak for the President—that is merely my own conviction."
The bill would set up a system of marketing quotas, whereby the secretary of agriculture, basing his action upon a referendum to determine establishment of district marketing quotas.

"This action would be taken only if May reports indicated a large surplus or a serious break in the market."

Other farmers who participated in enforcement of marketing quotas would receive benefits, the senator said.

His bill includes provisions similar to Secretary Wallace's ever normal granary plan.

Potatoes Excluded
Potatoes are not included in the bill. Reminded of grief brought to Idaho potato growers through fluctuation of prices, the senator said.

Senator Pope said that published reports concerning his determination to run again for office were not to be considered formal announcements.

"As far as I know," he said, "there was never any doubt that I would run again. I merely restated my determination to do so."

"The senator also said that his statement that President Roosevelt would not run for a third term was not to be considered as coming from the President. "That is only my opinion," he said. Sen. Key Pittman said the same thing in Salt Lake City.

Silent on Asia
Senator Pope had no comment on the foreign situation, except to say that the United States should have responsibility for any punitive action entirely upon shoulders of Japan and China.

"We should let them know," he said, "that we expect our rights in China to be honored, but at the same time, we should advise them that we do not carry a warlike attitude."

Tallahula's "First and Last"

"My first and last marriage"—and from the smile that Tallulah Bankhead, stage and screen star, flashed for photographers immediately after the ceremony in Jasper, Ala. It wasn't hard to believe. Her husband, John Emery, New York actor, also appears happy.

Former Film Hero Now At County Fairgrounds

By BILL SIMMONS
FILER, Sept. 8 (Special).—Many women—about the age when they refuse to tell their age—have looked squarely in the eyes of a man whom less than 20 years ago they would have laid down their young lives to see as closely as they've seen him in the last three days at the Twin Falls county fair. And many a young man who has said "Boy! Just wait! I'd old Jack gets there. He'll fix those birds!" has seen Jack actually there.

For Jack O'Brien, bravura hero of the silent films, playing leads opposite such feminine stars as Norma Shearer, Marion Davies, Anna Q. Nilsson, Carmel Myers, Ethel Roberts and others, has been at the fair grounds since the annual event opened.

And for those of you who have read enough of O. O. McIntyre to think there is nothing but bleak, unheeded, unheralded old age ahead for a "former" actor, Jack O'Brien for a pretty fine example of a man who, with the odds of an up-and-down life against him, is doing the best he can and is making ends meet with an optimistic view to the second 45 years of his life.

Doesn't Want Extra Job
"There are times of course," says "Denny" of the "Iron Horse"—"you all member it"—"when there are regrets, but I'd hate to go back to the movie colony and play extra parts the way some of the others have."

He has a business of his own now—a new remedy for foot ailments—and he thinks that in a few years, when he has placed it in outstanding stores over the country, that he can retire a pretty successful man.

"As long as I can keep busy and live fairly well, I remember only the pleasant things about the film business as I knew it," said the over-sixty footer and Lord-knows-how-many-pounder. "It's when you get 'down on your luck' that the unpleasant part of it is recalled."

Recalls First Contract
Jack O'Brien says that he'll never forget signing his first contract, for the leading role opposite Ethel Clayton in the serial "Bride 13" made up with the cooperation of the U. S. navy, of which he had recently been made a member at $42 a month, which was shortly after the war. Mr. Fox asked him if he thought he could take it, and learned that he thought he could.

"All right. You'll get fufgufmif dirra week." And they signed the contract.

O'Brien didn't know for several days that he had said $100 a week and not $15. Of course $100 was a pretty good salary at that time—and it's pretty good salary any time.

In German Films
After what seems more than one man's share of trouble outside his work, O'Brien drifted to Germany where he played in pictures and made personal appearances for three years, then went to London for a couple more before returning to the United States.

He hasn't a desire to go back into pictures. They've changed, you know, and he isn't sure that he'd like them now any more than they'd like him. Twelve years is quite a while in one business, anyway. And Jack O'Brien seems to be pretty enthusiastic about the future of the business he's in.

"I hate to see some of the fellows I played with in the bread lines and on relief," he says. "But I don't think that it is at all necessary."

Not Home-Heard
It is understood that his present occupation? Does he think that he is "way beneath his talent? Is he down-hearted and blue?"

Well, if you can't tell it from his jovial, friendly, good-natured appearance and actions, either as he stands behind that little counter in the merchants' building at the fair and papapa, or when he walks a little over the fairgrounds and talks intimately.

Rumor of Gable's Liking for Dancer Denied by Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. (Special.)—Clark Gable's movie studio commented today that he has both a wife and a pretty blond companion and that he would deny, if he were available, the coy statement of Della Carroll, London dancer, that she and Gable "have an understanding."

But Gable was not available. He was away on a fishing trip with Carole Lombard, the actress with whom he keeps company.

The London dispatches said Miss Carroll was skittish of a direct statement on whether she and Gable were engaged, but that she showed a large aquamarine ring on the engagement finger and added that the "dancers him very much."

"So to talk"—make it a couple of million—women admirers Clark Gable, the studio official said, "but so what?"

Gable is separated from his second wife, the former Rita Lashman Lucas, a wealthy Tex. as widow, but they are not divorced.

MINE MEN HEAR OF LABOR SETUP

Wagner Act Means Entry of Federal Regulation, Big Convention Told

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 9. (Special.)—W. W. Ray, prominent Salt Lake City attorney, addressed the American Mining Congress convention today that the Wagner act signified entry of the federal government into the field of industrial relations in such a way as to regulate labor practices of the larger mining and metal manufacturing companies.

Ray, who acted as agent for the state of Utah in an interstate fight over water and power from the Colorado river, attempted to distinguish between the act which is the act's jurisdiction and those which it does not affect.

Debate Securities Act
His speech followed a brisk argument at yesterday's session on the applicability of another federal statute, the securities act, to financing of the act which would be member of the securities and exchange commission and sharper critic was J. B. Fernald, New York accounting firm head, who attacked the act's administrative features.

Fernald said that information required of a corporation before its securities can be registered with the commission is irrelevant and likely to mislead investors.

He upheld the information requirement on the ground that such information was necessary to advise prospective investors.

Idaho Man Speaks
Another speaker at today's session was W. L. Ziegler, Wallace, Ida., Hecla Mining company mill superintendent, who discussed "economies of small milling plants," advocating establishment of small mills as a preliminary to possible large scale mining development.

Other speakers scheduled to address the convention today included D. Harrington, chief of health and safety branch, U. S. bureau of mines, speaking on "Reducing Cost of Workmen's Compensation in the Mining Industry," and Whiting Williams, Cleveland, O., labor relations consultant, whose subject was announced as "What's in the Worker's Mind Today."

NO CHILD LABOR, BEET MEN TOLD

Growers Warned Payment Won't Be Made If Law Is Violated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (Special.)—The agricultural adjustment administration today warned sugar beet and cane growers that they must comply with child labor provisions of the country's sugar control legislation if they are to receive benefit payments.

In an official statement, the AAA called attention to sections of the act forbidding growers to employ children under 14.

The bill provides also that no child between 14 and 15 years can be worked longer than eight hours daily except as member of an immediate family, which owns at least 40 percent of the crop.

Producers who meet the child labor provisions are eligible for payments in connection with sugar commercially recoverable from sugar beets first marketed after July 1, 1937, if necessary funds are appropriated by congress, the AAA said.

Britain Pensions
LONDON. (Special.)—Approximately one million people all are drawing war pensions in Great Britain, the annual report of the ministry of pensions reveals in a report stating that $9,990,000,000 has been spent on pensions since 1914, and that the $9,990,000,000 pensions still remaining are drawing $20,000,000 a year.

Murder Threats Charged in Martha Raye Divorce Tangle

By FREDERICK C. O'BRYEN
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. (Special.)—Somebody (and it looks like it'll be fought on the judge deciding who) tried to get the honorarium out of Martha Raye—the movie queen with the amazing mouth—and threatened murder with a pistol.

Martha said the cannon-foler was her groom, Hamilton (Buddy) Westmore, screen makeup artist, from whom she tearfully asked a divorce. That was last Friday.

Buddy Answers Complaint
Today Buddy reported in a formal answer to her complaint that she was seeing things. Fact was, he said, that he and his bride were billing and cooing when he walked on, ex-night club waiter with a gleam in his eye, a gun in his hand, and a threat on his tongue to stay then both.

Young Westmore charged further in his court answer, filed by Attorney Harry E. Sokolow, that his water used to work for the Cafe La Maza, one of the hottest of the Hollywood hot spots. He wasn't sure whether to spell the waiter's name "Pete Bauman" or "Pete Bouman" but he was absolutely certain that friendship of the latter for his mother-in-law wrecked his and Martha's love life of three months. Mention Eastern Tour

His answer to Martha's suit was fought almost wholly to Miss Raye's personal appearance tour in the east last month.

Buddy went along, so did Mrs. Westmore. She was accompanied at all times by Pete Bouman, formerly a waiter at the Cafe La Maza. Buddy told the court.

Walter in All Business
Bauman (the spelling of the waiter's name changed in the next sentence) and Mrs. Reed "insisted on being present in all business and social discussions between husband and wife, interfering with and preventing the defendant from having the ordinary and customary society, friendship and companionship of his wife," Buddy continued.

This was tough, he indicated, but life as the husband of a singer, who carried for a New York theater $50,000 in a single week, became laugh-or still in their hotel room suite one night when somebody pushed open the door.

Brandishes Gun
That somebody, he said, was Pete the waiter, brandishing a gun and offering to kill them both because "Buddy interfered with the plans of himself (Pete) and Mrs. Reed, by marrying Miss Raye."

It was then that Buddy bought himself a shootin' iron to protect himself, he said.

Martha said that all gun flourishing observed by her was done by her husband.

Charges Slapping
She charged further that Buddy slapped her across her million dollar mouth in Las Vegas a few weeks after the gun episode, and that in general he lollied in luxury at her expense, without making any attempt to support her.

All these charges Buddy denied. Of course he didn't slap his bride in Las Vegas, he said. All he did, he added, was push her away from the door when another man arrived to take her to a dance.

Ed Strobel, umpire for a softball game here, is ready to stick to the cauter sports. During a recent game, a player inadvertently ran into Strobel and knocked him down. Strobel finished the game, but three weeks later he went to a hospital, where X-rays showed he had suffered a fractured leg.

During the meeting plans were made for Jerome to be represented at the formal charter presentation for the newly organized Rotary club in Haley next week.

Boise Farmers Estimate Cost Of Water Control $1,416,000

BOISE, Ida., Sept. 9 (UP)—Boise river valley farmers estimated today that a total of $1,416,000 will be necessary for construction of adequate conservation and flood control facilities from the government diversion dam above Boise to the river's mouth.

"They told United States army engineers here that $1,416,000 for flood control hearing, that problem of farmers residing along the Boise river and depending upon it for irrigation was channeling and storage."

It was estimated that about 700,000 acre feet of water could be conserved and utilized for irrigation through construction of reservoirs and deepening of the channels.

Water Wasted R. W. Paris, state reclamation commissioner, told Major Theron Weaver, Boise, that approximately 600,000 acre feet of water was wasted last year due to improper practices for control of flood and runoff.

He said farmers in Boise valley this year were short of about 200,000 feet of water, and this could be prevented in future years if provision were made for control and storage of flood waters.

Oregon Speaker Earlier, more than 200 delegates from Idaho and Oregon heard Congressman Walter M. P. Oregon, tell them that cooperation of agencies was necessary for construction of adequate control measures.

Congressman Pierce advocated that power agencies, irrigation districts, and reclamation agencies "go together" to help finance construction of control and conservation facilities.

Falls Wants Reservoirs Concerning conservation on the Snake river, W. O. Cotton, Idaho Falls, said a second reservoir above American Falls dam was necessary.

He said the city of Idaho Falls would aid construction, providing it could put in a power unit, deriving funds derived from sale of power to maintenance of the second dam.

He estimated that at least 600,000 acre feet of water per year was wasted along the south fork of the Snake because of lack of conservation projects.

Agley Represented Burley Irrigation district representatives told that 40,000 acres of land under irrigation there have suffered from water shortages on an average of every three years.

They said their district had voted to apply for participation in proposed flood control and irrigation projects to the extent of 70,000 to 200,000 acre feet of water annually, depending upon its cost.

Former Gov. C. Ben Ross spoke for Boise river farmers.

S. E. C. BENEFITS SEEN FOR MINES

Requirement Will Tend to Conserve Capital, Says Board Official

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 9 (UP)—Legitimate mining companies should benefit from securities and exchange commission regulations for full disclosure of basic information on contemplate securities issues, Harold H. Neff, SEC official told the American Mining congress.

"It can hardly be questioned," Neff said, "that the requirement will tend in the long run to conserve who have the interests of the mining industry at heart, namely, those securities the proceeds of which vanish before they reach the ground."

Neff denied that the SEC looked with disfavor upon securities of new mining companies because they were speculative.

Earlier in the day, A. S. Richardson, ventilation engineer for the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., Butte, described air conditioning methods used in Butte mines.

Grandpa's Corns Can Predict Rain, Say Chiropodists

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9 (UP)—When grandpa announces it's going to rain because his corn hurts, don't scoff because he has science on his side, the National Association of Chiropodists agreed.

Dr. William S. King, Memphis, Tenn., attending the association's convention, explained it this way:

"As the air fills with moisture, the skin's function of eliminating liquid waste is gradually diminished and taken up by the kidneys."

"This physiological change requires a readjustment of the blood supply and the nerves which control it bring about a proper balance. For a time the outside pressure on the foot is greater than the inside pressure."

"This causes your shoes to press more tightly on the corn, causing pain until the pressure is equalized. Once this equalization has taken place, the shoe no longer pinches and the pain ceases."

"That's why corns hurt before it rains."

RICH ORE FOUND ON MEXICAN LINE

Gold and Mercury Discovered On Land Intended For an International Park

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 9 (UP)—The reported discovery of rich veins of gold and mercury in parts of the Chisos mountains on the Texas-Mexico border today disrupted plans for an international park.

The gold and mercury ore discovery was reported by T. E. Bolliver of San Antonio, who protested to the state land office against calling his permit to explore the mountains for mineral deposits.

It has been proposed that the land be turned over to the U. S. government for development of a national park, in connection with a similar park which the Mexican government promised to establish south of the Rio Grande.

Security Number Called Essential

BOISE, Sept. 9 (Special)—Lawrence B. Lyman, superintendent of the Idaho unemployment compensation division of the industrial accident board, today warned the 70,000 workers covered by the state unemployment compensation insurance plan that they must obtain social security account numbers in order to collect unemployment insurance benefits without difficulty.

"Thousands of employees working in occupations covered by the act have already secured their social security account numbers; however, there are many thousands of others who have not yet even filed application for their numbers."

Unemployment compensation accounts for employees in Idaho will be kept according to social security account number. Thus, an employee cannot be readily identified without such a number.

They were Sheldon F. Taylor, 26, and Geoffrey Pope, 24. They said the most important things they brought back from their 7,150-mile trip were their experience and a male malamute dog, Simba, whose grandmother was brought from Siberia by the explorer, Roald Amundsen.

The youths said they conceived the idea of paddling from the foot of 4th Street, New York, to Nome in an 18-foot, 100-pound canoe "over a bottle of beer."

LOYALISTS MAKE STRONG DEFENSE CHALLENGER INN WILL OFFER UNIQUE SPOT AT SUN VALLEY

By JIM KNIFE... SUN VALLEY, Sept. 8 (Special)—Last week we had our first rain up here in early July, and it seems to have brought a feeling of relief when they consider the distances they will have to carry bags from the front office to the various rooms...

As the sun and the guests who have been with us lately, have been able to get an idea of it, it is also a rapidly taking form, and shows just what it will be like when completed... The guests continue to come from widely diversified points...

The following morning was devoted to an inspection of the Challenger Inn with a view to the type of country we have here... The Challenger Inn is going to be quite a place. The principal idea of the construction is to imitate an old Austrian or Swiss Alpine hotel...

Such is the idea of the Challenger Inn. Already, one can see the "original building" the roof of which is a bit ditto to the "weight of the snow" over all these peaks...

Under the leadership of Russell W. Cullen, director of the bureau of laboratories, the chemists have developed a test which they believe is virtually error-proof in detecting a gun with the person who fired it...

"Powder contains a nitrate," Cullen explained. "When a gun is fired, the nitrate is scattered on the skin of the hand holding the weapon... While one chemist applies the nitrate test to the hand, others note and record the number, size and distribution of the particles..."

As a hotel, it will offer many interesting problems to the manager and personnel. Nothing like it has ever been in this country before... The Challenger Inn will offer a unique spot at Sun Valley...

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Wheat prices dropped today on the Chicago Board of Trade, under scattered selling. The September delivery fell to the decline. At the close wheat was 1 1/2 cent lower, corn 1/4 cent higher, and 2 1/2 cents lower, and oats 1/2 cent lower to 1 cent higher. Final prices were around the loss for wheat and the gain for corn. Less alarm was expressed over the political situation in Europe and together with the fact that there is little demand from abroad for either Canadian or domestic wheat, the market was steady. Corn futures also moved downward under light and scattered selling.
