Announces Drive To Hammer for Change in Court

FDR Will Embark on Trip to West Coast for Seattle Visit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (UP)—President Roosevelt clearly indicated to a constitution day audience and to the nation today that he intends to fight for changes in the supreme court.

Shortly before his voice was carried to the nation by radio in an attack on the high tribunal, the White House announced that he would embark next week on a trip to the west coast that will carry him through or near three of the states of leading opponents in the senate of his court enlargement program.

He followed onto the air, two of his cabinet members—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes—who likewise attacked the supreme court.

Though the chief executive did not express his intentions in concrete, specific language, observers had no doubt that he would not be deterred by a negative vote in the senate or a negative vote in the court.

No justification in any of the language of the constitution to justify the reform which the mass of the American people now demand.

Mr. Roosevelt's attack on the court was largely historic—on its alleged failure to grant abatement of the desires and aspirations of the people.

Mr. Roosevelt's change in functioning as essential, was seen in his statement that a crisis exists at the present time which demands immediate action.

Mr. Roosevelt is going to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., and from there, on Wednesday morning, under circumstances, he will leave for Seattle, Wash., to visit his daughter, Mrs. John G. White.

When Death Rained from Skies on American Liner

This remarkable picture, taken by a passenger on a nearby vessel, was snapped at the instant that death-dealing bombs from a Chinese fighting plane were raining on and near the Dollar liner, President Hoover, off the coast of China.

Men Hold Own in Fight With Idaho Forest Fire Blaze Near Top Contest Award

WARREN, Sept. 18 (UP)—Forest service short wave radio reports from Warren, 47 miles from here, said that citizens of the town were holding their own against a raging forest fire which threatens to engulf the hamlet.

The village is in rugged mountainous territory at an elevation of 6,500 feet. Timber surrounding it is valuable for use as building timbers.

No lumbering operations are carried on in that vicinity. Pine, Douglas fir, and spruce is being destroyed by the blaze which covers 900 acres in the Idaho national forest.

WARRHEN, Idaho, Sept. 18 (UP)—Tip of a raging forest fire today swept within half a mile of the small mining town of 200 inhabitants, threatening to destroy it completely.

The fire, encompassing an area six miles long and about half a mile wide, began burning late yesterday. It crowded, and fanned by a high wind, quickly spread.

The forest service rushed more than 600 men into the fight, and reported today that the fire was well out of control.

United Press contacted the Warren general store over a forest service line.

Because of the person who answered the telephone was not understood because of communication difficulties, but he said the town was filled with smoke.

CHINESE PLANES DROP BOMBS ON SHANGHAI AREA

International Settlement Is Sprayed With Shrapnel From Nippon Guns

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18 (UP)—Chinese war planes rained bombs on the Shanghai region tonight in a series of daring raids, and the foreign areas, including the American concession, were showered with shrapnel from Japanese anti-aircraft guns.

The Bund, Shanghai's great waterfront thoroughfare, was sprayed with shrapnel.

The Chinese evidently had a strong force of planes. They conducted nine raids in an hour. They drew a terrific anti-aircraft fire as the Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river turned their searchlights into the sky.

The planes bombed the vicinity of the Japanese airport at Yangtze-poo and dropped big incendiary bombs on the Japanese warships anchored off there.

One Chinese plane was seen shot down in flames, crashing on the water.

Prior to the bombings, the Chinese observed the sixth anniversary of Japan's capture of Mukden with advances in several sectors, striking hard in a series of counter-attacks all through the Shanghai delta.

Severe fighting occurred at the north station in Shanghai and north of the city of Lohen, Tangang, Chingchuan and elsewhere.

The writer visited the north station area and attempted to go to Kiang-wan, to the northwest, but shells from Japanese 79's held us back.

Japanese bombers made it necessary to cover our automobile with a tarpaulin.

Other victims announced this afternoon were: Fourth, J. M. Dimond, 43 Fifth, Nelson C. Davis, 41 Sixth, Mrs. J. E. Porduckette, 42 Fifteenth St. Mrs. B. J. Van Hamm, Mrs. Sherman T. Wright, Miss Eldorado Jarvis, Clara A. 14th, Mrs. Helen Anderson, W. H. Scott, Mrs. E. E. Pennington, Mary C. Harris, Mrs. Jere W. Evans, E. J. Johnson, James Leighton, William Fox, Mrs. W. G. Mingo.

All winners are either Twin Falls residents or live on Twin Falls river banks, the Chamber of Commerce said.

The contest was conducted through framing of windows to represent the amount of money in the contest. Several of these had more than one window entered.

NEGRIN CLAIMS FASCISTS WILL CONTINUE COUNTRY'S CONTROL

GENEVA, Sept. 18 (UP)—Loyalist Spain demanded before the world assembly of the League of Nations today that Italy and Germany be declared aggressor nations against Spain and that the league act urgently to end the aggression.

Tense delegates heard first the loyalist plea and then a speech by Yvon Delbos, foreign minister of France, in which he warned: "The world is on a road leading to an abyss. We can not leave it unless others do."

Dr. Juan Negrin, premier of the loyalist government, faced delegates of nearly three score nations, and outlined his case.

He charged that Italy was preparing to send twice as many men to Spain to fight for the nationalists as she had already sent.

He charged that the nationalists were mounting guns to dominate British Gibraltar.

He charged that they were fortifying the Pyrenees mountains against France.

Paint Pleure He painted a picture of a Spain, under the nationalists, which, a Nazi-Fascist nation, would in turn be dominated by Nazi Germany and fascist Italy, a constant deadly menace to democracy.

Then Negrin got down to his demands. He demanded that the league act once against the fascist and alleged Italian-German aggression.

He demanded that all non-Spanish combatants be withdrawn from the civil war—not only Germans and Italians, not only the foreign legion of the nationalists, but the Moors from Africa who for months have been the shock troops of the insurgents.

He demanded that the new nine-power agreement to end "piracy" in the Mediterranean be extended to prohibit submarines but airplanes and surface vessels preying on merchant shipping be extended to prohibit the activities of the loyalist government.

He demanded that the powers accord the loyalist government, as the (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

JURY POINTS TO BLOWS ON HEAD

Verdict Finds Transient Dier At Hazelton Pool Hall After Being Struck

JEROME, Sept. 18 (Special)—Blows on the head were found to be the cause of the death of J. Huston Peters, 28, Chouteau, transient, at Hazelton on Thursday, according to the verdict of coroner's jury returned early this afternoon. No action had been taken by county authorities today.

The six-man jury reported that death was caused "by means of blows on the person administered by one Jura Detweiler, Hazelton farmer." Jurors were Leo Lawrie, P. L. Thomas, Mike Jones, J. P. Hittigway, H. Fowler and M. G. Canfield, all of Jerome.

Witnesses at the hearing testified that Peters, apparently slightly under the influence of liquor, had attempted to interfere on a group of Hazelton residents who were at the A. J. Blatter pool hall. Detweiler allegedly struck Peters at that time, knocking him unconscious.

Testimony that Peters had provoked another patron at Blatter's place a few minutes before he was apparently struck in the pool hall was given by Charles W. Barlow, Hazelton, Barlow said he was sitting at the counter and that Peters, who had apparently been drinking, came up and waved his arms in front of Barlow's face. The witness said he got up and moved to the other side of the counter and that Detweiler struck Peters on the head.

Later, his body, thrust out, was found in a clump of sage brush near Turley.

Sheriff Maurice Roessler of Bonanza county and Sheriff John Page of Cassia county entered into an argument over jurisdiction in the case. Roessler said that the case belonged to Cassia county, and Page said the man was a Bonanza's.

The murderer, a red-headed man, disappeared and nothing has been found to indicate his identity.

"Terrell, here on a visit, said he thought the cooperation would do much to unravel the mystery."

"It would seem to me that neither sheriff wants to assume the responsibility for not making headway in the case," he said.

Top Contest Award Given Mrs. Leighton

First prize in the "theme song" window contest featuring 1937 fall opening was awarded today to Mrs. Ralph Leighton, Twin Falls. She will receive $25 in cash.

Second award, as announced by the judges chosen by the merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, went to Mrs. Muriel Scott, also of Twin Falls. She will be given a check for $15. Third prize of $10 went to Vernis Richards, Twin Falls.

All three of the top victors had only three errors out of the 51 songs listed in the competition. The order in which the three perfect lists were submitted dictated the ranking of the main prizes, judges announced.

Checks will be available for all winners at the Chamber of Commerce offices Monday.

Other victims announced this afternoon were: Fourth, J. M. Dimond, 43 Fifth, Nelson C. Davis, 41 Sixth, Mrs. J. E. Porduckette, 42 Fifteenth St. Mrs. B. J. Van Hamm, Mrs. Sherman T. Nudists, Clad in Goose-Pimples, Convene on Coast

BY FREDERICK C. OTTMAN JUNIOR TERRACE NUDIST COLONY, HOQUEL, Calif., Sept. 18 (UP)—America's biggest nudist convention, held in a right-converted here today for two days of fun and frolic and goose pimples in the atmosphere.

Each of the 400 delegates to the meeting of the American nudist-bathing association had to make off every stitch of clothes before James F. Curt, the serious young manager, would let him register. His only concession concerning shoes, he let us mutilate keep them on, because of the splintery rocks.

Curt and Robert Glasgow of Los Angeles, president of the National Nudist League, are the only naked folks here whose full names are available. Everybody else goes by his first name, because of what Curt calls "public prejudice."

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (UP)—Baseball odds, quoted today by Jack Doyle, Broadway pricemaker, made the Yankees 1-10 and the Giants 1-3 to win the major league pennants. There was very little betting.

"There hasn't been a bet on the Yankees in a month," said Doyle. "There's still some betting in the National League."

Nation Holds Remedy for Own Ailments

The vacation touring season is about over now, and some 40,000,000 Americans are back home again after having had a more or less extended look at their country.

If they used their eyes and their brains while touring they ought to be in shape to think intelligently about some of the problems the country faces.

If there is one thing that impresses itself on a thoughtful tourist in this country, it is that the United States is an everlastingly big and an unimaginably rich country.

That impression doesn't hit you at first. It grows, little by little, as you go on traveling.

You ride through the farm belt—any one of the numerous farm belts—and you see vista after vista of fat green farm lands, with bumper crops growing out of rich soil, with well-kept farm houses and big barns, with pleasant villages and neat, up-to-date cities.

The people you meet are intelligent, friendly, hard-working, decent—the kind we used to call the salt of the earth. And you casually sum-up your impression by remarking, "Nice country and nice people around here."

And then, if you stop to think about it, you suddenly realize that it's all like that—mile upon mile of it, from the Berkshires to the Cascades and beyond, from the Minnesota lakes to the Gulf of Mexico; an endless series of fair horizons, rich farm land interspersed with tremendously busy industrial regions, the whole of it peopled by some of the finest folk who ever drew the breath of life.

Oh, there are bare spots, of course. We have our share of deserts where nothing will grow; of blighted cut-over areas that ought to be growing trees, of agricultural country that isn't quite fertile enough to give its people a decent living, of towns whose industries have gone to pot. But in the main, the picture shows a country that stood right at the head of the line when the good things of the world were passing out.

This picture is worth looking at. For if the human race ever got itself into a spot where the continued well-being of all the people ought to be assured, the United States of America is that spot. Its soil will grow enough food to feed half the world. Its mines will provide an infinity of raw materials, it has abundant factories to handle them, and it is peopled by a smart, active and kindly race.

What can go wrong—permanently wrong—in a set-up like that? If we exercise only a little intelligence and ordinary horse sense we ought to be able to keep this country of ours smiling and happy right up to the day of judgment. Whatever may be wrong with things today, it certainly is nothing that can't be cured if we are willing to think about it and use a fair amount of forethought.

Production Rivalry

The newspapers recently printed a picture of a huge six-motored flying boat with which France is about to begin trans-Atlantic survey flights, and the captions remarked that the French were at last entering the "rivalry" for transoceanic air service.

It occurs to us that this is one form of international rivalry which is all to the good. In a day when most international rivalry finds expression in new cruisers, high-speed tanks, super-bombing planes and motorized infantry divisions, it is extremely comforting to see nations competing in straight-out commercial service.

Quicker communications, the speedier transport of goods and people, the conquering of the space which separates nations—these are things the world needs in ever-increasing quantities. The more competition we have in that field, the better off we all ought to be.

Public Lawbreaking

There has been a certain amount of fine talk about international law, in connection with the activities of submarines in the Mediterranean, but most of it has been just talk. For the dismaying but inescapable fact of the matter is that today there is no such thing as international law. It is just something that we remember from a former epoch.

The whole course of such powers as Italy, Germany and Russia in regard to the Spanish civil war has utterly disregarded all tenets of international law. So, of course, has the submarine campaign in the Mediterranean. So, too, has the war in China, where the New York Times points out that the contending armies are coldly refusing to take prisoners.

We might as well recognize the fact that we are living in an age of international anarchy, not international law. It is a hard fact to have to swallow, but there is no sense in deluding ourselves about it.

It's all right for the government to start the busi-ness upgrade, but it ought to make some of the

A DOG'S LIFE

Pot Shots: This business of being custodian for a couple of dogs must be pretty tiresome.

I was downtown at 4 a. m. Friday morning (never mind what I was doing downtown at such an ungodly hour), and I saw a local dog standing by the post office smoking a cigar while the waiters for her two dogs to finish gambling on the postal greensward, so to speak, or anyhow, you get it.

Pot Shots: There is one infallible cure for removing the "dog-house" atmosphere from a broken home—wires when an erring husband strays a bit.

And that cure is for the husband to stand on his head and apparently never noticing his spouse's lechery. Nothing quite gets a woman like ignoring her best friend. She comes to terms mighty quick.

QUITE A "START!"

Mr. Pot Shots: I apologize for your edification the following clipping from the Idaho Times:

WOMEN MATTER! TOO HARD FOR YOU!

Pot Shots: Well, I came over to your Twin Falls from Jerome just for that same contest and the $23 first prize which went to you.

Think like that one thing: Were your business fellows over there trying to make the contest so hard they wouldn't have to give out the $70 for a $100 prize? Put that one up to your Chamber of Commerce, but don't tell them a Jerome fellow said so. They'll just pass it off as sour grapes.

My answer on half those long titles after much head-scratching and cursing was: "Baby, You're Working Your 'T'."

"Well, I thought it was Red Furell's room."

AMY KERR—heroine, young girl, "Cilly's" roommate and admirer.

HOW long she knelt there on the cold ground beside Amy's body, Cilly did not know. She did not hear the innumerable cries and questions of her neighbors; she did not see the crowd slowly gathering—the crowd of half-awakened men and women to the stages of midnight undress. It seemed as if the world had suddenly begun to spin in a crazy, fast-motion kaleidoscope, and she would soon awaken to find herself a dozen people in the crowd speedily gathered—each eager to tell his own version of the accident.

"She fell from the roof of the building, she herself going and screaming."

"She didn't fall. She jumped. She screamed first and then jumped. I saw it. . . . No, she didn't. She fell out of a window. I saw her."

The officers bent over the body. They looked at each other and nodded in solemn significance. The elder of the two lifted Cilly to her feet.

"Take this young lady inside, Halleran," he instructed his partner. "And don't forget to get a policeman. Dolan, too. I'll get a report out here."

Dully, Cilly walked into the house with Officer Halleran. The door of her apartment was still unlocked—still waiting for Amy who would never walk through it again.

"The girl was a relative of yours?" Halleran asked.

"No. Just a friend. We shared the apartment together."

"And she had a very bad fall?" Cilly nodded.

"She couldn't have fallen all the while she was living?" Cilly nodded.

"You'll want to notify her relatives," Halleran suggested. "Do you know where to reach them?" Cilly remembered one. An Aunt Harriet, in New Hampshire. Amy had never mentioned anyone else.

"There's only her mother," Cilly told the officer. "Miss Harriet Kerr in Interlaken, N. H. Amy hadn't seen her in a long time. I suppose I could send a night letter."

Halleran nodded. "Guess there's nothing she could do tonight. We'll notify her tomorrow. Do you know where to reach them?" Cilly wanted to phone Jim and tell him, but Jim lived in uptown Manhattan. It would take him an hour to get to the city. She ought to tell Harry Hutchins, too, but she didn't feel equal to talking to him. He'd make a great deal of the sympathy she'd show, and probably not care a bit.

HISTORY OF Twin Falls City & County

As Cleaned from Files of The Times

15 YEARS AGO
SEPT. 18, 1922
Some of the cleanest beans ever grown in this state were raised in Twin Falls from time to time by the Southern Idaho Wholesale Grocery company. This concern has recently installed a new Gillette cleaner to clean and grade the beans before they are sacked for shipping. The machine turns the beans into the sack 90 per cent perfect.

The Southern Idaho is handling about three carloads of beans every day. The Twin Falls concern is compelled to store them in their warehouse for several weeks until they can be shipped. They expect to handle between two and a half to three million pounds of beans here this season.

Farmers are getting better than four cents for their crop.

27 YEARS AGO

SEPT. 18, 1910
The Misses Jane and Georgia Maxwell entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wallace, Idaho. There were about 40 ladies present and the afternoon was devoted to bridge. Mrs. W. H. Wallace received the guests' prize, while Mrs. C. B. Charnel was given the consolation prize. The afternoon's entertainment was given by the Misses Maxwell and the Misses Wallace.

The waterworks investigation committee which has been at work for the past two months on the solution of the Twin Falls pumping water problem are now ready to report and a meeting has been called at the Commercial club rooms tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. Every citizen is expected to be present and acquainted with the plans for a better system.

The Family Doctor

BY DR. MORRIS FISHERIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

There is no established history on record in which a cancer disappeared by itself. Cancer sometimes get better, they seem to disappear, they may even seem to shrink from some single point in the body.

sooner or later, however, the cancer appears in the body, unless the original growth is completely eliminated before there has been any opportunity to spread.

As proof of the fact that a cancer is an overgrowth of tissue of the body, it should be recognized that a cancer in any part of the body resembles the tissues in which it occurs.

A cancer of the stomach has tissue like that of the stomach. Cancer of the uterus or womb has tissue like that of the uterus. Cancer of the thyroid, the adrenal or the sex glands of the body have cells just like those of the glands in which they grow.

When a cancer grows in the body, the body tissue naturally become seriously damaged in the body.

As the cancer of the brain, it will destroy the tissue of the brain so that the patient is unable to walk or move his arms or attend to any of the other functions which are governed by the part of the brain involved in the cancer.

Cancer involving the bowels may block the passage of food or it may get into a blood vessel so that there is bleeding. The cancer tissue may block the passage of blood or it may get into a blood vessel so that there is bleeding. The cancer tissue may block the passage of blood or it may get into a blood vessel so that there is bleeding.

Cancer involving the lungs, or the heart or any other vital tissue will bring about death through interference with the action in that organ or tissue.

Cancer is truly a fearsome disease. Every one ought to know about the disease and its manifestations in order that he may take measures for prevention, early diagnosis and treatment when the disease affects someone in his family.

NEET: Is cancer hereditary?

Prisoner Enroute To South Carolina

Luther Hamilton, wanted in Troy, S. C., on charges of assault with intent to kill, jail-break and theft of an automobile, today is en route to the southern city in custody of two officers from that point.

Arrested here Sept. 8, 1937, after a few hours after it was known he was wanted, Hamilton is described by officers as being a white man, about 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, blue eyes, brown hair, and a mustache.

Hamilton is in custody of Sheriff Earl Bruton and Deputy Wiley Nance, both of Troy.

You May Not Know That—

There are four types of school districts in Idaho—common, rural high, independent and independent Class A.

Independent districts are created by petition when the assessed valuation of taxable property within the proposed district is not less than $150,000.

Independent Class A districts are similarly formed except that those teachers employed and an assessed valuation of not less than $25,000 within their boundaries.

TAPPED HIS CARLES

Moley went to London triumphantly. Serving as an assistant secretary of the state, he departed Saturday Hull in importance. Many other things happened quickly. The big break against Moley, but the British were not so sure of the state department here, was that the American embassy tapped his correspondence of all cables and new policy to Roosevelt, which were highly critical.

Secretary Hull found Moley reporting that the British were hounding our delegation, and that "the only two American delegates who knew what was going on were Senators Coughens and Pittman."

After that Hull told Roosevelt either he or Moley must go, and the President, not knowing what to do, a pillar of southern democracy, moved Moley to the department of justice.

Club Receives Fair Awards on Entries

MARHA, Sept. 18 (Special)—According to a report made at the monthly meeting of the Martha Woman's club the organization has received 10 awards for the entries in the contest for the coming year. The winners are: Mrs. M. M. Ramsey and Mrs. Victoria Winkle as hostesses and 22 members of the club.

Roll call was answered with "The Funniest Thing I Saw at the Fair." The program was presented by Mrs. Olga Malone, who read a magazine article and a reading by Mrs. Rita Reed. Group singing was also heard. This will meet on Sept. 20 with Mrs. Olga Malone and Mrs. Irene Chiller as hostesses.

BEHIND THE SCENES in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

This is the first of six columns on the President's "brain trust" by Rodney Dutcher.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Most people have had "brain trust" in their own cabinets. From the time of Andrew Jackson's "Kitchen Cabinet," to economic Dwight Coolidge's dependence on Dwight Morrow, the Morgan partner, and Frank Stearns, the department store owner, all have solved the problems of state with the aid of men who were not especially elected to advise them.

Never before the Roosevelt administration, however, had there been such a remarkable galaxy of professors, lawyers, economists and first business men—as has performed before and behind the scenes in Washington since 1933.

THREE PHASES

There have been three major phases in "brain-trusting."

First, the cabinet featuring the early one and only, original "brains trust"—so named by Roosevelt.

Second, the party days, when in most cases we never know why they have to be. Melancholia of a sort, I guess. Or insanity. Hard to tell. Well, goodnight, miss. Sure you'll be all right here alone!

"I'm sure, thank you both."

RAYMOND MOLEY

which would mean what it calls the New Deal's earlier economic follies.

This brief history begins with the unforgettable Dr. Raymond A. Moley, picked for Roosevelt by Judge Sam Rosenman of New York, who is still one of Roosevelt's closest backstage advisers. And before Moley became a man of letters, he represented the "brain trust" as Moley, Rosenman and Howe, with Charlie Tausig, A. A. Berle and Hugh Johnson, then representing the "brain trust" on the edges.

Moley became the man whom Roosevelt had to gather data and hope for speeches. He was most prominent of the group because he traveled with F.D.R. on campaign trains and was the chief government and political science.

TRIED TO DO IT ALL

After election Moley came back as a "brain trust" man, but he was not Louis Howe, although as close to as any man could be, was intensely jealous. Moley was practical, but not so much as Louis Howe. He was a French-Irishman who could "take it," he tried to do everything himself. He was a man of wide experience who got people to do big jobs and sought to take economic policy and legislative priorities to his credit.

Government at first was a vacuum, with territorial distrust by the New Dealers for the Old Dealers who had failed. New men and new policies and new laws had to come hot off the griddle. Everyone was confused. Inevitably Moley made many quick answers when he didn't know the answers, and often made decisions on insufficient information. His look was not so much as Louis Howe. Sharp-shooters began to snipe at him.

which would mean what it calls the New Deal's earlier economic follies.

This brief history begins with the unforgettable Dr. Raymond A. Moley, picked for Roosevelt by Judge Sam Rosenman of New York, who is still one of Roosevelt's closest backstage advisers. And before Moley became a man of letters, he represented the "brain trust" as Moley, Rosenman and Howe, with Charlie Tausig, A. A. Berle and Hugh Johnson, then representing the "brain trust" on the edges.

Moley became the man whom Roosevelt had to gather data and hope for speeches. He was most prominent of the group because he traveled with F.D.R. on campaign trains and was the chief government and political science.

TRIED TO DO IT ALL

After election Moley came back as a "brain trust" man, but he was not Louis Howe, although as close to as any man could be, was intensely jealous. Moley was practical, but not so much as Louis Howe. He was a French-Irishman who could "take it," he tried to do everything himself. He was a man of wide experience who got people to do big jobs and sought to take economic policy and legislative priorities to his credit.

Modernized China—Specter That Scares Japan

Rapid Development Under Chiang Kai-shek's Rule Seen as Reason for Desperate Effort of Nipponese to Establish Domination

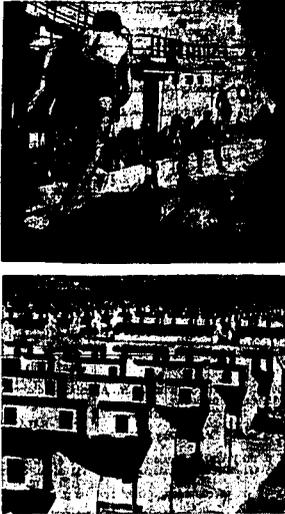

Today's Picture Story

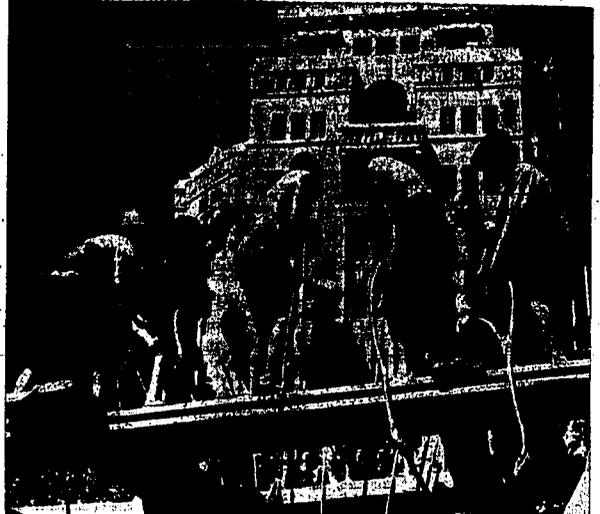

In the last year alone Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek came to power, engineers have transformed China from a tradition ridden land of pagodas into a nation of modern factories, bridges and transport. It is the specter of the powerful industrialized China of 18 years hence that inspires the Japanese campaign to gain the upper hand before the strength of 226,000,000 people can be mobilized.

In every phase of life China has wrought the miracle of modernization. The women have learned the secrets of chic and beauty. At top they patronize the counters of smart department stores for latest fashions. And before war darkened the sky, Shanghai boasted a dazzling neon White Way.

Keeping pace with China's industrial expansion is the standard of living. Vast model housing projects like this for the underprivileged coolie class have brought new hope to millions. A swimming pool and community center are included in one of the big projects in Shanghai.

(All pictures from current release of THE MARCH OF TIME)
The new China often has been built by ancient methods. The workers above lack pile driving machinery, so they strain on their high platform at the hammers to raise, time and again, the weight of the primitive pile driver. War has halted their lack of construction, but Chiang has applied the lesson of teamwork to muster a united China against the Japanese invaders for the first time in many generations.

CHINA FINANCES CAN AFFORD WAR

Expert Thinks Nation Is Well Able to Pay For Long Time Afloat

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—As a result of China's new financial policy, which has been in effect for 20 months, she is in a better position to finance a war with Japan than at any previous time in her history, according to Dr. Chao-t'ing Chi, Chinese expert of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The agreement entered into between China and the United States as late as July 9, 1937, is expected to contribute in no small degree to the success of China's new monetary system and in the maintenance of her war chest in the present conflict.

Secret Agreement
While the full terms of the agreement between the Washington treasury officials which were made on the occasion of a visit to Washington by Chinese Finance Minister Dr. H. H. Kung have not been fully revealed, it is known that they will permit of the orderly disposal by China of large stocks of Chinese silver without driving down the price. Instead, it is understood that any such sale of Chinese silver would be made at a promotion price fixed by the American treasury.

The new monetary policy of China, which was rendered necessary when the United States began purchasing silver at advanced arbitrary rates the same as gold and which resulted in the flight of Chinese silver from China, has two essential features.

Foreign Exchange System
Under this system, China has not adopted a foreign exchange standard whereby the national currency is linked to a single foreign exchange thus involving a considerable measure of independence on a single foreign country.

MIDGET CAR FAD SWEEPING NATION

Passes Fourth Birthday; Now Second to Football on West Coast

By JACK GUENTHER
LOS ANGELES (U.P.)—Midget automobile racing, conceived by a handful of mechanically minded newsmen in 1933, celebrated its 4th birthday recently by becoming the second largest sports attraction in southern California.

The comparatively new fad, born on a vacant lot in the south side of Los Angeles, has spread to almost every major city in the United States. At one stadium here it draws 18,000 spectators every Thursday night, and in the next year is expected to play to a half million customers. To date it has surpassed everything locally save football.

The cars originally were homemade "bugs," fashioned of motorcycle engines and baling wire at a total expenditure of approximately $100. Today they are sleek, $4,000 vehicles, capable of tremendous acceleration and a speed of 75 miles an hour around the 1/4 mile track.

Two factors greatly benefited the sport in its infancy. Several automobile construction companies became interested in the pint-sized cars and rapidly expanded their speed and power. Secondly, full-time racing at Ascot speedway was outlawed shortly after the death of Al Gordon.

1st Professional Race
The first professional race was held at Loyola stadium in August of 1933. The sport hobbled along at a slow pace until the promoters latched their way into Gilmore stadium, a large arena in the Hollywood area. There it became big business, and one evening last year the stadium was filled an hour before the first race.

From here the midgets spread first to New York and Indianapolis. But other cities followed, including Detroit, San Francisco and Pacific Northwest cities.

Swanson at Top
Bob Swanson, recently graduated into big-time racing and a potent factor in the Indianapolis Memorial Day race, is considered the highest money winner among the drivers, who now are ranked nationally by the A. A. A. Most of the better drivers manage to capture around $100 weekly.

The new sport is considered excellent training for youths with ambitions to enter the major auto racing field. They learn faster on the small track, notably in negotiating the turns, than on the big ones. A Detroit driver averaged 72 miles an hour for one race, and a sort of super-midget was clocked at 120 miles an hour over the sand at Muroc Dry Lake, Cal.

SOVIET CITIZEN SAYS HE IS 135

MOSCOV (U.P.)—One of the oldest men in the world is Isaac Danilovich Fedotov of Bverdlovsk, who will celebrate his 135th birthday this year, according to Soviet records.

Fedotov was born in 182, started work as a school burner at the age of eight and after 118 years of labor was given a state pension at the age of 124.

Some of Fedotov's seventeen children are themselves grandparents, but his descendants are so numerous he cannot keep account of them.

Fedotov is in high spirits and does not look his reputed age.

"BARNUM WAS RIGHT"

The one and only P. T. Barnum is alleged to have said many things that never found their way into our copybooks... things to which few of us wish to subscribe. But he uttered a profound truth when he said: "If you don't advertise your business, the sheriff will."

Firms which intend to stay in business, that is, firms which deal directly with the public, must advertise. By the same token, it is a sign that they mean to stay in business when they do advertise. For they are offering, through advertisements, the values in their stores.

You, the customer, will decide whether or not they are values. If they are not, it is "just too bad" for the firm that claimed they were. Don't you see, therefore, that no merchant can afford to misrepresent himself or his goods in print? Advertising merely magnifies a misrepresentation—brings the fatal day nearer.

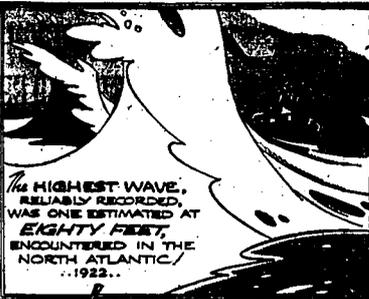

Naturally, then, you can trust the advertisements in this paper. You can believe that the stores signing those advertisements want your trade, and are willing to earn it—with honest values and fair treatment. Read the advertisements. Patronize the advertisers. It is to your selfish interest to do so.

HALF MILLION LEGION MEN CONVERGE ON NEW YORK

ANNUAL MEET TO OPEN MONDAY AT MADISON SQUARE

Thousands Already En Route In De Luxe Trailers For 10th Convention

By ROSE WILLIAMS
NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Nearly half a million members of the American Legion and their families are heading today toward New York for the 10th annual convention, which opens at Madison Square Garden Monday.

According to latest reports more than a thousand families are trekking east in de luxe trailers, many of them traveling in their own cars. But trains and buses are carrying thousands, too.

Travel will be hot time in the old town tonight is in the air. The national drum and bugle corps starts at 8 p. m. and the parade will start drumming at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the Polo grounds and will wind up around midnight.

Big Parade Tuesday
Then there's the big parade the following day. It will start at 10th Street and Fifth Avenue at 9 a. m. Tuesday and will proceed north on the avenue, disbanding at 72d Street and Fifth Avenue after passing the reviewing stand, stationed at the Hotel Plaza, at 57th Street and Fifth Avenue. It was estimated that it would take 12 to 21 hours for the parade to pass a given point.

The highlight on the list of events for Sept. 22 will be the All-Star entertainment show at Madison Square Garden, starting at 10 p. m. Boxing fans will have their pugilistic appetites whetted the next night with a mammoth amateur national boxing program at the Long Island bowl. The opening song will sound at 8 p. m. and the show will be under the auspices of the Metropolitan A.A.U.

Women More Active
This year, more than ever before, women are flocking to the convention. It was reported that more than 70,000 will arrive in New York Sunday night for the memorial services at Madison Square Garden.

The senior portion of the feminine retinue will be made up of wives and relatives of the legionnaires. But 1,800 will attend as official delegates of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion.

Gift Allows Marionettes At Junior Hi

Complete Stage and Needed Equipment Presented by King Shipman

Production of marionette shows at the junior high school has been made possible by the gift of King Shipman of a complete marionette stage and equipment.

Miss Marjorie Wurster will be in charge of the puppeteer club, which will be formed and is to meet one day a week. A student interested will be called for a meeting next week at which time plans are being made for marionette work in the city parks the past summer, will talk on various problems of producing a puppet show.

10-Foot Stage
The puppet stage donated by Mr. Shipman is 10 feet in length with a total width of approximately four feet. The actual production stage is two and a half by eight feet with the entire platform resting upon three saw horses.

Cycloramic curtains are of grey silk material while the front curtains are of blue and gold cloth. It is planned to paint the outside of the stage a brilliant Chinese red and to center above with a blue and white marionette mask. Other trimmings will be in black with the foundation in blue and white as well as the row for footlights.

Lighting back of the drops is achieved with regulation light sockets while Christmas tree bulbs are used in lieu of foot lights.

Tells the Secret
Mr. Shipman in speaking of the production of puppets stated "it is a very intricate art and the secret in handling the characters is in keeping their feet securely on the floor at all times." He said that he found that even an opera could be produced by means of a puppet show. He demonstrated this a few years ago by producing a pirate opera, "The King of the Deep," for which he scored a huge success.

Two figures were included with the gift of the puppet stage, one a pirate with regulation plaid head; the other a woman with long blonde hair. Bodies of the small figures are whittled from wood and are operated by strings run through small screws set in the various parts of the character's body.

Mr. Shipman was to leave today to resume his work in Hollywood, where he expects to attend the fall term of school at the Pasadena playhouse.

Cigar Box, Spectacle Lens In Camera—and It Worked!

A cigar box, the lens from a pair of discarded spectacles, a piece of tin and a small spring combined to make the first "camera" used by W. A. Flower, pioneer local photographer.

Flower made this photographic wonder about 50 years ago. It was revealed this afternoon, and the peculiar part of the whole affair was that the thing really worked.

In Flower's original camera, made in Wisconsin while he was a youth, the spectacle glass formed the lens. The shutter was worked in by a piece of tin to which was attached a small spring and "all this camera" went into a camera built out of a cigar box.

Flower, as we know them today, were just coming on the market at that time and were hard to obtain so Flower fastened the "life" out of the town photographer having him cut down five by seven plates which were to fit his two and one-half by three and one-half inch requirements. He made his own plate holder and had to change each time he snapped the shutter.

But Flower's father was a jeweler and so the local pioneer discarded photography for awhile to start in learning his father's trade.

He followed this line of work until he was 23 years old, then came to Twin Falls to be joined in the engineering department of the Western Electric company. Feeling the worstward way, he came to Twin Falls in 1908 as a jeweler, working with W. R. Priole who still maintains a place of that nature in Twin Falls.

But in 1909 he went into the photo business. And he has been at it ever since.

It's fascinating
"This work, although there is much routine, still is very fascinating," Flower said. "I don't know of any other business I would rather be in. Here there is always something new to learn. The equipment changes year to year and each year gets better."

And a look at the equipment now owned by Flower proves it is a far cry from that first camera he made himself, out of odds and ends, to the modern day machine.

Fire Department Saves Lives of 240,000 Fish

IDAHO FALLS, Sept. 18 (UP)—About 240,000 young fish today owed their lives to the Idaho Falls fire department. The flow of the Snake river dropped suddenly yesterday to such a low level that no water flowed in the cooling ponds in Idaho park.

But Fire Chief L. C. Jackson was called and hurriedly boards in the river to keep water pouring to the ponds.

The river rose later in the day.

POTATO GROWERS START BALLOTING

Producers Convene at Rupert, Burley and Jerome Today On Marketing Plan

Voting by potato growers started in south central Idaho today to determine the stand of producers on the revised federal potato marketing agreement and on a future spud program.

Growers of the Mindoko area convened at Rupert at 10 a. m. and Cassia ranchers met at the Burley high school at 2 p. m. Jerome producers are scheduled to hear the agreement outlined at an 8 p. m. session today.

Vote After Meeting
Voting was to get under way in those areas immediately after the meetings. It will continue Monday and Tuesday, with 5 p. m. Tuesday as the deadline for the three sections of potatoes. Second question, growers meet at 10 a. m. Twin Falls at 2 p. m. and Buhl at 8 p. m. Balloting starts after each meeting and closes in the three areas at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

Twin Falls gathering is scheduled for Legion hall.

Expert Speakers
Speakers here and at the other meetings will be S. L. Post, marketing agreement expert with the A. F. Ezra Benson, Idaho extension service economist.

The vote will decide whether or not the federal agreement, which bans the shipment of culms to market and sets up an Idaho control committee, is to be binding on all farmers of potatoes. Second question, submitted on a separate ballot, would establish a potato acreage goal for commercial spud farmers under the 1938 agricultural conservation program.

ZCMI ANNOUNCES STORE CLOSINGS

Hugo L. D. S. Firm Prepares To Abandon 20 Branches In New Move

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 18 (UP)—The Z. C. M. I. Salt Lake City department store, long prepared to abandon 20 branch retail outlets in Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Wyoming in a move to extend the company's wholesale operations.

Richard W. Madson, vice president and general manager of the company, said the new policy was established because independent merchants in the towns affected are inclined not to buy from the company's wholesale department while its retail units are in direct competition with them.

The 20 stores will be closed by December 31, or soon after, Madson said. Z. C. M. I. will then have only one branch—a new one to be established in Ogden, expected to be comparable in size to the main store. Madson said most of the employees to be let out in the closings could be absorbed by the new Ogden establishment.

The Swiss hall of the papal villa was jammed with Germans, Austrians, Dutchmen and Belgians, who cheered the Pope as he declared his long silence over the strained relations between the Holy See and Germany, and bitterly attacked Nazi policy.

The pope, turning to the Germans, said in a strong voice: "What shall we say, or better still, what shall we not say in this grave hour for Germany, in this hour so painful to the Catholic religion and to all those who wish to remain faithful to Rome?"

"We extend to you a particular welcome in this hour when in your country a new, self-styled prophet is acclaimed. This prophet acts, as everyone knows, against all that is Catholic and Christian."

Black is on his way to make. Black assured Russell, "I'm here for a vacation and intend to enjoy it."

Registration Closes Monday In Local Film Talent Hunt

Monday marks the close of registration for the Bling Crosby talent search in Twin Falls, which is being conducted locally by the Idaho Evening Times and the Orpheum and Idaho theaters.

The eliminations and choice of logical candidates will take place at that date, it was announced today. However, the two remaining days, today and Sunday will be open for registration of any more young men and women desiring to enter this talent contest, as the local finals will not be run off until Sept. 23.

Six young men and six young women—two of whom may be from Twin Falls—will be guests of Bling Crosby in Spokane on Wednesday, Oct. 20, through the following Sunday. And there won't be a single dull moment during the entire five days, the program indicates.

Crosby will be in Spokane to receive an honorary degree in music, and the talent contest, which offers a boy and a girl from the Pacific northwest the opportunity to win a screen test and possible movie career, is being staged as a part of the home-coming. Crosby will take the two winners at his expense, to Hollywood upon his return.

The Howies-Mack company and the Mayfair show here are offering generous prizes and cash to the boy and girl selected to represent Twin Falls in the Boise semi-finals to be held the first week in October, whether or not they win out there.

All expenses to and from Boise will be taken care of for the Twin Falls representatives.

AMSTERDAM

Scott Kunkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kunkel, has left to enter the University of Idaho, southern branch.

Miss Janet Pastoor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pastoor, will leave next week for Logan, Utah, where she will enter the agricultural college.

HORSE AUCTION POSTPONED HERE

Oct. 4 Set as New Sale Date; Cowboys Busy Bounding Up Range Stock

An "all-horse" auction, scheduled to be held at the yards of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company next Monday, has been postponed until two weeks from that date, or October 4. It was announced this afternoon by W. Daniels, manager of the livestock company.

Inability of cowboys to get the horses in out of the range in time was the major reason for the postponement. All the horses at the sale will come from Nevada, Daniels said.

They will be of the small "southern" type mares and will include "cotton mules." It is expected that a majority of the near 1,000, which will be included in the sale, will be bought for southern plantations.
